Medical officers said Rothwell reported stomach trouble recently but said that superficially his condition appears good although he is suffering understandably from nervous excitement.

The first thing he will do on arrival at Britannia Camp is send a message to his wife, Marion, over army cables.

CAPTURED IN BATTLE

Rothwell was captured on the night of Oct. 23 last year during the epic battle of the 1st Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment in defence of Little Gibraltar.

His company's position was overrun in a two-battalion Chinese attack but was later reoccupied by the RCRs.

The acting commander of the Canadian 25th brigade, Lt.-Col. Harry Sterne of Kingston, Ont., officially welcomed Rothwell back into freedom.

FOUGHT WITH SPADE

Speaking with a slight stutter, the likeable soldier told of fighting for three hours last Oct. 23, armed only with a spade.

When the Chinese barrage descended, he was manning a Bren gun in a weapon pit. The barrage destroyed both pit and gun and after digging himself out, the only weapon he could find was a shovel.

MP 'Eats' Shirt To Pay Debt

KITCHENER (CP)—George Hees ate his "shirt" Thursday night.

The Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, who had said he would eat his shirt if Elizabeth Jansen wasn't elected in Waterloo North in Monday's election, did his best before a crowd of 2,000 and a battery of press photographers and television cameras to fulfill his promise.

Mr. Hees' "laundry" was delivered to him on the city hall steps. He bit into it, then passed samples around to throngs of children who snapped them up.

At that point Norman Schneider, the Liberal who won by more than 5,000 votes over Miss Jansen, rushed up with a bucket marked "soda bicarb." In it was a large piece of bacon.

"I'll have it for breakfast," said Mr. Hees as he munched on the "shirt"—an iced cake baked in the form of a wrapped-up laundry shirt and inscribed: "George Hees' Shirt."

Grandfather 53 Begins To Swim Lake Erie

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—A 53-year-old grandfather waded confidently into Lake Erie today for his second attempt to swim from Canada to the United States.

William Sadlo, a physical education instructor at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, was forced to give up his first try on Aug. 3 because the water was too rough for small boats to follow him on his 30-mile swim. The weather bureau predicted that winds would be gentle and variable today.

Sadlo's coach, Patrick Roach of Toronto, said his pupil planned to swim a mile each 41½ minutes. He hit the water at 4:20 a. m. EDT.

Mrs. Sadlo said that a small fishing boat with a cabin would accompany her husband across the lake from Point Pelee, Ont., to Cedar Point, Ohio.

Received Skilled Attention

Canadian PoW Praises Chinese Doctor

VANCOUVER (CP)—An anonymous Chinese doctor received high praise early today from the first Canadian prisoner of war to return home since the Korean armistice.

Handsome, tanned, 26-year-old Cpl. James A. Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., flashed a happy grin as he stepped back onto Canadian soil just after midnight following a flight from Tokyo by commercial airline.

Wounded in both legs and an arm by shell fragments and burp gun bullets when captured May 2, Cpl. Pelletier had fragments removed from his legs by the Chinese doctor.

"I had complete confidence in him," he said.

"The Chinese medical facilities were limited compared to our own, but if he was working under the conditions ours did, he would have been one of the very best."

CORPORAL NERVOUS

Cpl. Pelletier, nervous as he faced a battery of reporters, photographers, newsreel and television cameras, spoke first into a radio microphone in the press room, and then suddenly turned and sat down.

Rubbing his left leg, he said a wound there had not yet healed after becoming infected before field dressings were changed for the first time 10 days after he was captured.

In five months, the former taxi-driver crammed in enough action to last a lifetime.

Arriving in Korea March 22, he was 21 days in the line until the night of May 2. A section commander, he was alone in his trench when what seemed like "hundreds of Chinese came over our position."

"I know I killed four who came into my trench. Then I was wounded and three Chinese grabbed me and took me into a valley.

9 OTHER CANADIANS

"There were nine other Canadians there. They bandaged my wounds and we walked back through our own barrage through the Chinese lines."

The next day, his muscles stiffened from the wounds. He was taken to a camp behind the lines on a stretcher. Later, he was moved to a camp near the Yalu river and then to a hospital outside the camp for his operation.

He didn't see any of the nine Canadians again after he began his walk through the Chinese line.

While in hospital, he chatted with the only Canadian he saw until he returned to South Korea.

Cpl. Pelletier said Gnr. Orville J. Jenkins of Hamilton and Toronto visited the hospital to see some American friends and that he talked with Jenkins for 20 minutes. He didn't see him again during his three months and two days in captivity.

HAD FAIR TIME

"I don't know how Jenkins could visit the hospital," he said under questioning from reporters.

Jenkins, the second Canadian released by the Reds, now is in Tokyo preparing to fly home.

"We had a pretty good time in hospital," he said. "The rest of the fellows, mostly American and British, would have sing-songs and so on."

At no time, he said, was his group forced to take "political studies" although there was "plenty of propaganda."

Chance Of Fast Start On Plan For Seaway Power Will Be Determined Today

OTTAWA—(CP)—The chances of a fast start on the St. Lawrence seaway-power project will be determined today. This is the deadline for the filing of any court appeals against granting of a power licence to New York state, and none in prospect. If New York gets the licence from the United States federal power commission, it will join Ontario in building the $450,000,000 hydro development, and the $300,000,000 navigation works will go ahead concurrently. As the situation stands now, officials here believe Canada will be in the position of building the navigation works alone and on the Canadian side of the river, which the Canadian government wants. Congress at its recent session failed to act on bills providing for U.S. participation in the canals.

Government officials here consider that, should New York get its power licence now, both phases of the big job can be in high gear by next spring. Preliminary work is under way and would be stepped up from now on.

SOME SURPRISE

There has been some surprise in government quarters that U. S. seaway opponents—railways and some other interests—have not launched court action against the FPC's announced intention of granting New York the licence to share in the 2,200,000-horse-power hydro development on which the whole seaway project hangs.

One move by a private New Jersey power organization, based on a preliminary action by the FPC, already has been thrown out by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

Canadian officials consider it possible that further opposition may develop in the U. S. courts today, but informants said the government—with representatives in Washington watching developments closely—has received no hint of impending action.

It was learned also that the Canadian government has received no suggestion from the Eisenhower administration that it delay action to give the U. S. a chance to get in on the navigational end of the job in the International Rapids section of the river.

LIMITED APPROVAL

Early this summer, the U. S. administration approved limited federal participation by that country in the construction of the canals and other shipping facilities. That would have involved their laying out between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 on the U. S. side of the river while Canada spent about double that amount on facilities in downstream Canadian territory.

The government here would prefer to take over the whole operation. For Canada, this would have the advantages of putting all the shipping facilities in Canadian territory and also eliminating obstructions that might be thrown up by sectional blocs in Congress.

The additional cost of an all-Canadian seaway gives no worry in Ottawa. The project is intended as a self-liquidating one. It would be financed by bonds paid off over about 40 years through tolls on shipping using the seaway. Most of the tolls would come from U. S. ships.

MAY GET IT MONDAY

If there is no court appeal from the FPC decision to give the power licence to New York, officials here think a licence may be issued by about Monday.

Once that is done, the Canadian government will announce the Canadian personnel of a board of engineers—a joint U. S.-Canadian body—that will have general supervision of the hydro and navigation works. Cabinet has named the personnel, it was learned.

The cabinet has not yet appointed the members of the three-man seaway authority on navigation, but it is certain to be headed by R. A. C. Henry, Montreal consulting engineer. A third body to be named is a joint "board of control" to ensure that river flow changes due to the seaway will not disrupt water levels in Lake Ontario above the development or in downriver stretches.

"I sure fought with it," he said. "I don't know how many Chinese it quietened."

Finally he found a rifle that had belonged to a dead comrade and joined two other Canadians in a forward part of the position—Cpl. F. J. Jollymore of Toronto and Pte. T. J. P. Allan of Montreal.

"I covered the front, Jollymore took care of the rear and Allan looked after the left flank.

AMMUNITION GAVE OUT

"Our ammunition gave out 35 minutes later. Then we hid in a trench waiting for the battalion's counter-attack to come in. But at about 10 minutes past 12 midnight, 15 Chinese in a mopping up party found us."

(The counter-attack went in at 4 a.m.)

Rothwell was captured exactly a year after he re-enlisted in the army. He was an infantryman in the Second World War.

Rothwell said to begin with there were 10 Canadians with him in Camp 3 in northwest Korea. But later two corporals were removed for interrogation.

"That happened the day the agreement was signed for the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners last April and they haven't been seen since," he continued.

Rothwell said he was first out of Camp 3 because he had been in hospital with stomach trouble. He expressed belief that the remaining Canadians there would be exchanged by Monday.

TREATMENT NOT SEVERE

Although his weight dropped from 156 pounds to his present 122, Rothwell said "our treatment was correct, certainly not severe."

"We neither saw nor heard of brutal treatment there," he added.

Rothwell said political indoctrination was in the form of private "interviews" on political ideas with occasional mass meetings.

"At one last January they told us Chinese prisoners on Koje Island were being given mouldy food. I didn't believe that because I know army rations don't go mouldy. I've had rations canned in 1945 and they're as fresh as when they were packed."

He said food improved in the camp after the armistice with eggs, ham, powdered milk, pork and beef added to the previous regime of boiled potatoes, turnips, rice and broth.

Monster Blessing In Disguise

NEW HAMBURG, Ont. (CP — This village's monster, believed to be an alligator, could be a blessing in disguise.

"Nobody goes swimming in the river," said police chief George Thomas. "I haven't had a drowning this year."

Tonight, says Chief Thomas, is the monster's night to prowl. It was seen first exactly six weeks ago, and its heavy tracks verified by a number of residents. Then it was seen again just three weeks ago.

So residents young and old in this community on the Nith river near Stratford will be on the watch near the river where Chief Thomas says he once shot at the creature.

Some folks want the creature shot but others are inclined to let it go unmolested because it hasn't hurt anyone or caused any damage.

The chief is convinced the monster is an alligator. Six years ago a district family brought back a young alligator from Florida. It soon disappeared.

German PoW Surrenders After 7 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—Heins Fromme is back in his home at Marathon, Ont., free for the first time in seven years of the fear that his secret will leak out.

An escaped German prisoner of war, he came to Ottawa Wednesday with his wife and three-year-old son and surrendered to the RCMP.

He was sent home on conditional bond to await a decision whether he may remain in the country. Two escaped PoWs who gave themselves up previously have been granted permission to stay.

Fromme, 32-y e a r-old former merchant seaman, was captured in the Red Sea in 1940. Fearing his ship would be captured, he tried to escape with others of the crew in a small boat. They rowed in the night into a British convoy.

ESCAPED FROM CAMP

He was brought to Canada in 1943 and got away from the work camp at Cooksville, 15 miles west of Toronto, three years later.

He worked a year in the bush, then got a job with the Marathon Paper Company. In 1948 he married an Austrian-born Canadian girl from Fort William.

They furnished their house. Their son was born. Heins Fromme did well as a painter and part-time photographer. But there was always the fear that a chance word or an accidental meeting might bring it all to an end.

Then in July Fromme saw his photograph in Week-End Magazine with an article on escaped prisoners. He sat down and wrote to the RCMP.

It was through the same article that Franz Jenisch, about 45, was taken into custody at Hamilton July 28. He, too, was a German merchant seaman who had escaped from Cooksville camp.

Six other escaped PoWs are still free in Canada.

Ceylon Moves To Crush Riots

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Machine-gun emplacements at key city points and rumbling patrols of army vehicles Thursday broke up a second day of left-wing rioting here against increased prices.

The military measures were decided on at a meeting of Prime Minister Dudley Senanayake with chiefs of the army, navy and police, acting under the state of emergency proclaimed Wednesday night.

Mobs smashed and looted stores, burned buildings and stoned government offices until troops took over s e c u r i t y precautions. By Thursday afternoon the angry demonstrators had been dispersed.

Officials said no shootings, which featured W e d n e s day's violence, were reported in Colombo Thursday and there were no reports of casualties. The official toll Wednesday was five dead and 40 injured, but unconfirmed reports put the figure at 13 dead and 100 injured.

When a curfew went into effect at dusk Thursday night the city was under control, a government spokesman said.

Fine Wrestler $69 For Assaulting Driver

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Abe Zvonkin, professional wrestler from Hamilton, was fined $69.50 and costs Thursday for assaulting a transport driver.

Police said Zvonkin grabbed the driver and choked him. Zvonkin said he had been returning to Hamilton from a wrestling engagement in Belleville when the transport forced him off the road. Zvonkin chased the transport, stopped it, and police said that's when the assault took place.

among the 16 countries trying to work out a joint proposal on the composition of the conference.

Britain and Canada both feel strongly that India should be among those chosen to represent the world organization at the parley. Most of the others were reported either indifferent or on the side of the United States.

The final decision, however, will be made by the 60-country general assembly, convening here Monday.

Chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., brought the split into the open Thursday night, saying the UN should be represented only by countries which fought for it in Korea.

That would bar India, which sent only a medical unit.

Lodge insists the U. S. has nothing against India, but feels the armistice agreement made it clear the UN should be represented by countries who had armed forces under its flag.

The British government is reported to believe that India, in view of her close contact with Communist China and the fact she drafted the UN resolution on which the Korean armistice was based, would be a constructive force in the parley. Britain also feels that exclusion of Russia would be "unrealistic."

Lodge said he had no objection to the Russians attending the conference if they sat on the side of the Communist belligerents—Red China and North Korea—and not with the UN representative.

Say Election "Disastrous"

LONDON (Reuters) — The results of the Canadian election were "disastrous" to the Progressive Conservative party, two independent British weeklies, the Spectator and Time and Tide, said Thursday.

The Spectator says the Liberal party victory was certain, "but Mr. St. Laurent could scarcely have expected to return to power with his former overwhelming majority reduced by 10 seats only."

"Mr. Drew had no hopes of winning, certainly, but he must have imagined, like everyone else, that the Conservatives were sure to improve their position.

"So they have, by two seats—an improvement which almost wrecks the Conservatives as a national force."

Time and Tide expressed the belief "Conservatives offered a program which inspired too little confidence among an eminently practical people."

Havelock, Belmont Wls Visit Buckhorn

Two elderly members attended, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Buckhorn, who is in her ninety-fifth year and Mrs. Goldsmith, a visitor, who is eighty-five who recited, "Light and a Song". Miss Morrison told about the Institute work in England and said that Queen Elizabeth joined the Institute in 1943.

Boatswain's Mate Dudley Lewis, skipper of a coast guard boat trying to rescue Jernigan, was thrown by the churning waters through his boat's windshield and was taken to hospital.

There were narrow escapes, too. Concrete blocks nicked the heels of a couple fleeing from their trailer when a 60-foot-long wall at the Morehead City yacht basin was blown flat. The trailer and several automobiles were smashed.

The strongest winds—an estimated 90 miles an hour—struck Cape Hatteras and Cherry Points. Elsewhere 70 miles an hour was reported near the peak.

Negotiations Continue In Grain Dispute

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Negotiations continued Thursday in a dispute that could tie up 15 grain elevators on the Buffalo waterfront.

Local 1286, International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) has threatened a strike at midnight tonight if its demands are not met. Some 500 elevator workers are involved directly, but a strike might make 15,000 others idle.

Owen J. Kavanaugh, local president, said the union seeks a 15-cent hourly wage increase, a non-contributory pension plan and changes in job classifications. He said the companies offered 10 cents.

Halt Picketing At Gold Mine

TORONTO (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, counsel for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said here today there will be no further picketing of the Broulan Reef and Hallnor gold mines near Timmins during the present strike of 750 miners in the area.

He made the statement at a hearing before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario in which the Broulan Reef mine sought to have 38 strikers imprisoned for attacking workers at the mine property July 24.

Chief Justice McRuer adjourned the hearing indefinitely after Mr. Jolliffe's statement that picketing would stop.

The company's motion stated that the 38 strikers had committed a breach of an injunction granted July 17 and asked that the men be jailed as a result. Under the injunction, strikers were limited to four pickets at one time.

Miners at Broulan Reef went on strike July 11 for higher wages. Hallnor miners joined the walkout two days later.

Most of the 2,000 or more injured were being treated in makeshift tent hospitals and in the open. Many others were brought to this mainland port, the nearest large Greek city.

Fires still raged through towns and villages on the islands, 50 miles off the west coast of Greece. Smoke and dust from huge landslides floated above their rocky hills.

Ships, planes and emergency supplies of food and medicine flooded in to the disaster scene from at least seven countries.

The Canadian Red Cross announced that an emergency supply of 250 cases of clothing stored in Geneva, Switzerland, was en route to the islands.

The U. S. navy organized a relief armada of ships and planes.

U. S. transports carried a reinforced battalion of marines to aid in the rescue work, equipment for distilling water and large stores of food and medicine.

U. S. headquarters in Europe gave the Greek quakes "overriding priorities over all other U. S. operations in Europe." All U. S. military exercises on the continent were cancelled.

Three British naval vessels were on hand. Other British warships hastily took on supplies for the disaster area.

A steady stream of refugees poured into Argostolion, including walking injured and litter cases. Some of them were practically crawling.

"The people are pouring in and there is no place for them to sleep and nothing for them to eat," the U. S. official said. "Most of all we need water."

Fliers returning from parachuting food and supplies to isolated mountain communities reported flames still were sweeping the wreckage of Zakinthos, largest city on the island of the same name. Its normal population was 25,000.

At Patrai, hundreds of injured were j a m m e d into hospitals equipped to handle only half the numbers. Many were children suffering from hysteria and shock.

Athens observatory said Thursday night's quakes were "of small intensity" compared to the mountain-moving heavings of the previous night.

Car Plunges Over Cliff, 2 Youths Hurt

REVELSTOKE, B.C. (CP)—The cross-Canada dash of two Ontario youths in a small English-make car came to grief here Thursday night when the car plunged over a road-side cliff and both men were injured.

Hospital authorities said R. J. Thurgood of Brantford was "quite seriously" hurt when the car left the highway 66 miles north of here, only several hours away from their destination in Vancouver.

Peter Haddon of Toronto, the other occupant of the car, was said to be only slightly injured.

Both men were said to be in their early 20s.

HAD DEADLINE

Travelling from Ottawa, the pair had expected to arrive in Vancouver in time to complete the 3,145-mile journey in less than 100 hours.

The accident occurred on a treacherous piece of the winding mountain highway 450 miles east of Vancouver.

Hospital authorities declined to give details until next-of-kin had been advised.

The men were driving in "shifts" and it was not immediately known who was at the wheel when the car plunged from the highway.

Both are members of the Sports Car Club of Toronto and were making the run "just for the fun of it."

British Exports Reach Record

LONDON (Reuters)—British exports to the United States in July reached a record £15,200,000 (142,460,000), provisional government figures showed today.

Exports to Canada were down slightly to £14,900,000 ($41,720,000), giving total exports to North America of £30,100,000 ($84,280,000).

The total British trade deficit for the month fell to £50,100,000, compared with £70,900,000 for June.

Most of the improvement was due to a rise in exports from £203,900,000 to £234,200,000.

Second-Class Canadian Brigade

Lionel Shapiro, writing in the current issue of Maclean's magazine, makes some shocking observations on the state of the Canadian brigade in Germany. Mr. Shapiro was a war correspondent during the last war and has been a movie script writer, author and foreign correspondent since. His colours are high and some of his reports tend to be more sensational than factual, one-sided rather than coolly objective and rounded. One must therefore take his charges with a grain of salt, particularly since their documentation in the magazine's article is sketchy. However, his assessments cannot be wildly far from the actual conditions, in view of the undertones and overtones of the situation which have been reaching this country during the last year.

* * *

The Canadian brigade is called "one of the few second-class military formations standing guard in western Europe". This country is represented in Europe by "an indifferent brigade—indifferent in military efficiency, in esprit de corps, in appearance and behaviour". One is lead to believe from the article that it would, as conditions in it are now, be ineffective as a fighting unit—which is the reason the brigade is in Europe in the first place: to guard, and to be prepared for any military eventuality. We cannot believe this; whatever other condition a Canadian formation is in, in every age it has been a good fighter.

* * *

The rate of venereal in the 27th Brigade is 183 of each thousand men a year—higher than in the British or American armies. The men are drinking, on the average, more than they should: "In one six-week period this spring between 25 and 30 men were returned to Canada by the Highland Battalion of the 27th as alcoholics and persistent offenders". Absence without leave is chronic. Infractions of military law are frequent, and many men—more than might normally be expected—are in military jail or battalion detention barracks.

* * *

What are the reasons for this appalling condition? The Canadian soldier in Europe is the best paid of all. His privileges are many and good: frequent leaves, long week-end passes, superior food, barracks and provision for sports and leisure, cheap and generous supplies of canteen goods like cigarettes and chocolates. Seemingly everything that can be done to make the Canadian soldier's lot in Europe a happy one is done—except, perhaps, to discipline him adequately. (An undisciplined soldier is, by and large, not a happy one.) There are many opportunities for self-improvement, through travel, books, educational courses, concerts and the like—but the majority seem to spurn improvement for the gaudy flesh-pots of Hanover and other German centres. Why?

* * *

Has the Canadian soldier in Germany too much money to spend; too few duties? This may be. But the chief reason for the poor showing the Canadians are making is reported to be that, while they are getting the cream of Canadian treatment, they are not the cream of Canadian manhood. In order to recruit the 27th, enlistment requirements were lowered. (Canada had also to recruit for the 25th in Korea, and for the army and air force.) Mr. Shapiro says that the average Canadian soldier in the 27th is the most poorly educated private soldier in Germany. The average schooling of privates in the 27th is below sixth grade. A few of the men in the formation are the kind that have never been and will never be any good—drifters from jobs and families, unslovenly grousers, hardly literate, loafers, scrapings of Canadian towns and cities. There are good men in the 27th, the finest type of Canadians, but they are in the minority, if the writer is to believed. Mr. Shapiro says. "We are trying to build a better-than-average brigade with lower-than-average human material". Our readers, taxpayers, may be shamed and angered by this situation. Why pay and treat such men so handsomely and get such a poor return?

* * *

What can be done to remedy this situation? Tighten discipline? Raise enlistment standards? Conscript, so that the Brigade will get a cross-section of our youth, as do British, American, French, Dutch and Belgian formations in Europe, through conscription? Make the duties heavier and more important? Send the whole caboodle home and limit Canada's man-power commitments under NATO to the air force and navy? The problem and solution require careful thought, and Mr. Shapiro's assessment a Department of National Defence critique.

Stink About Little Lake

The Board of Works has been asked to investigate alleged pollution of Little Lake. That is the result of representation made by a citizen to the City Council this week. Everybody in town should be interested, since it is their money, lots of it, which has been spent for the express purpose of ridding Little Lake of the pollution which marred its beauty, air and use for so many years.

A stink—literal and figurative—was raised several years ago because of the condition of Little Lake. The Council thereafter ordered a force main to be laid from East City to connect with the main on the west side and thus with the city's general sewage disposal system. This, with an auxiliary pumping station in East City cost the ratepayers an estimated $38,000. In addition, tens of thousands of dollars have been spent to enlarge the sewage disposal plant. What is the result of all this expenditure? On the surface, Little Lake has become relatively clean. But last week, when water skiing competitions and demonstrations were planned for Little Lake, the Medical Officer of Health found that the water was not sanitary enough—in other words, it was polluted.

Either the water is polluted or it is not. If it is, why? Why spend tens of thousands of dollars of citizen's money to do away with pollution, and still have it? The fact is, that last week—just one instance—the waters of Little Lake were denied the skiers and the public because of pollution. This gem, this unique city feature in a city catering through its industry and tourist business to water sports, should be clean and available. If it is neither, why not? Have the citizens spent $38,000 and much more in order that Little Lake should be still unusable and water enthusiasts forced to go up river to the much less central and suitable Inverlea?

Peterborough makes canoes and other boats; it makes outboard engines; it makes water skis. It prides itself on being in the heart of a lake and summer resort. It has a jewel of a lake right in the centre of the city, where Peterborough holiday and water-sporting interests could be demonstrated and indulged, to the pleasure, fun and profit of Peterborough citizens, merchants, industry and tourists. Yet Little Lake is still polluted, they say. Why?

Mr. Drew's Future

Already Conservatives are speculating about the party leadership and a "thorough housecleaning". This seems to us an ungrateful and ungracious—and unfair—recognition of the services of the Hon. George Drew. Arthur Blakely, Montreal Gazette resident correspondent in Ottawa, reports this:

> Dismayed Conservatives, still studying the wreckage, have not succumbed to the tempation — ever-present in politics—to blame their leader for the extent of the disaster. With the possible exception, that is, of Mr. Drew himself.
>
> Certainly, the two defeats which the Conservatives have sustained since 1948 have been of such a nature as to cause any party leader to consider the future of his party and of himself. They have been the two worst in Conservative Party history.

(The Gazette is an independent Conservative newspaper.)

As Mr. Blakely goes on to say, a successor capable of restoring the party fortunes would be difficult to find. He lists John Diefenbaker, the only Saskatchewan Conservative to win a seat in the Commons since 1945; and Donald Fleming of Toronto. The Gazette in the same issue publishes a photograph of Sidney Smith, President of the University of Toronto, with the caption "Possible P.C. Leader?"

Why put the axe to Mr. Drew—or even allow him to consider resigning? Mr. Drew's achievement has been considerable. Under his leadership the party again went down to defeat, nevertheless it polled 414,664 votes in Quebec and 730,958 in Ontario, and took 31 percent. of the total vote across the country. Could any other leader have done better? Before the Conservatives reject Mr. Drew they had better assess his work. Clear-headed Conservatives recognize, in Mr. Blakely's words, that "Mr. Drew led the party well, did all that could be expected of him with the material in hand".

Let the Conservatives listen to the clear words of the Ottawa Journal, one of their ablest advocates: "The Conservative party . . . must purge itself of its habit, so destructive of unity and morale, of forever crowning and crucifying its kings".

A KOREAN EPISODE

King's Regiment

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

WHEN Corporal Hodge went to the Chinese tea party in Korea he was not exactly disobeying orders. Certainly it was wrong, but blind eyes were turned on the little group of soldiers from Baker Company of the King's Regiment (Liverpool) who were walking across no-man's land — a place where for two years no-one had walked without fear of death.

✧ ✧ ✧

GORDON HODGE is a cheerful young man with bright eyes and a shock of dusty hair. He comes from a place called Claro Road in Harrogate. He is respected as the sort of soldier who gets better and better as things get worse and worse. He had been in Korea for five months when, on the morning after the truce was signed, the loudspeaker started on the hill. Surprising, almost shocking, a voice boomed across the valley inviting the British soldiers to visit the Chinese hill. So Hodge put aside his gun and with two or three others started to walk.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT THE TOP of the hill which he had been watching for five weeks, the Chinese had carefully cleared a space, built an arch of green boughs and hung streamers. There was tea there, and bottles of beer and brandy. There were cigarettes in paper packets and little cakes made of rice that tasted of nothing. There was a band — an accordion, a drum, a saxophone and a big brass thing. Some soldiers in baggy khaki were conscientiously dancing in a circle. The Englishmen were welcomed by a young officer.

"How do you feel on this great day?" he said.

"All right," said Corporal Hodge.

"What did you do last night when the war stopped??"

"I was asleep."

"But how could you sleep at such a time?"

"I was very tired."

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WERE some soldiers there from the Duke of Wellington's Regiment, and the Chinese officer asked them all to elect a representative to accept a special banner. The Duke's men were quicker, and one of them got an embroidered flag from the 824th Chinese People's Volunteer Regiment with a dove on it and a pious invocation to peace. There was some talk of President Rhee, whom the Chinese disparaged, and of the Commonwealth Division, which they professed to admire. It was all a little inconclusive, and after a couple of hours the Liverpool soldiers said "thank you" and went back to their own hill.

THEY WERE WORKING when I visited them, getting ready to quit the forward position they had occupied for five weeks. They were digging out the roofs of their dug-outs and carrying the baulks of timber almost a mile, over the hills to where the road began. They had carefully reduced their position, which had taken the division two years to build, to a ruin.

They were working, these north countrymen, with a sort of hard cheerfulness. When they rolled a thick log down the hill, they shouted: "Timber." Talk never quite stopped. Yet the last few weeks had not been easy. They were young — but some of them were haggard with weariness.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE APPROACH of the end of the war had brought no relaxation. The shells still came in and the patrols still went out and men died. There were fierce rains that soaked a man in a few seconds, that turned the tops of the hill into a sheet of mud and made dug-outs collapse. Towards the end there was only one bed between three men, and they had to sleep in shifts.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN the war stopped for the King's there was a sober sense of relief. The exultations of the Chinese over a peace that settled nothing, over a war that no-one had won, seemed vulgar and silly. But it was not until they marched away from the position for the last time, leaving the place like a huge rubbish dump, that they suddenly burst out singing and the full relief came.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOW they are on different hills. They can no longer see the Samichon Valley, which they had grown to know like their gardens at home — only differently. Under the truce agreement, they have withdrawn and are now digging new positions which, God willing, neither they nor anyone else will ever have to use. And after that, until the time comes for them to move to Hong Kong, they will start training.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS BATTALION has paid its share of the price of war. Its men will remember two hills above all others. One was a narrow vicious thing called the Hook, which jutted out of the line like a pulpit and where there was never any real rest. The other was a little, mean, green thing with a dead tree at its top. It was called Songgok, and they watched it by day and visited it by night.

TWENTY-ONE of the King's men were killed and 177 were wounded. By chance, they never had to endure one of the wild night assaults of the Chinese, which, though they never changed the situation on the British sector, horribly swelled the casualty lists. They suffered from shelling and from the things that happen to patrols at night.

Individually they were ordinary people; together they were the sort of quietly effective battalion that is the peculiar boast of the British Army. It did what it was asked to do and in the process it did not forget — as some armies do — how to laugh and how to complain like a company of free men. It is quite something to have been one of the King's men in Korea.

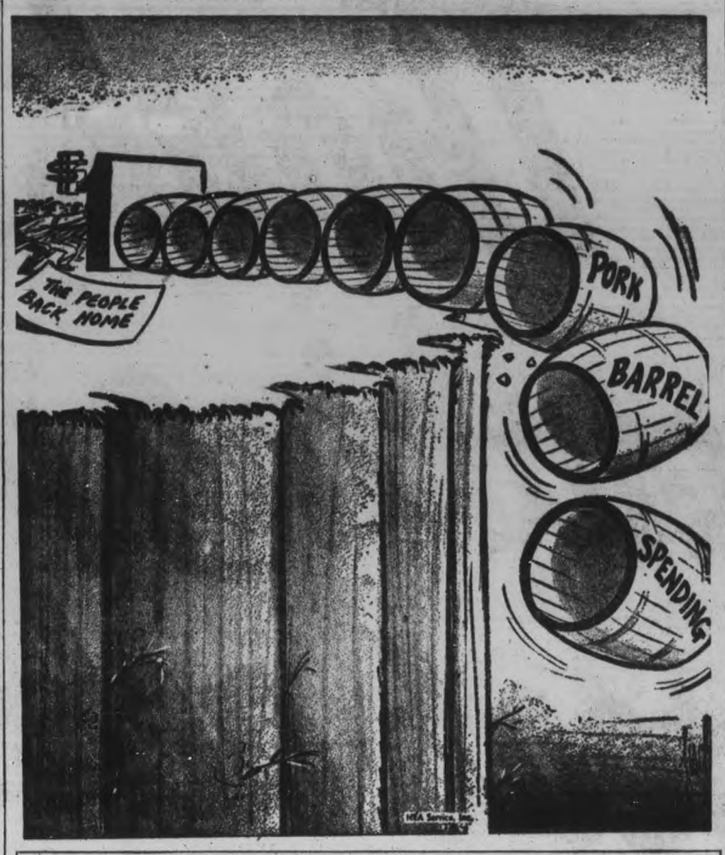
Unconsidered Trifles

"Darling!" he implored her. "will you marry me? If you refuse, I shall die!" She refused and he died—sixty years later.

"What happened to the young man who used to take you out?"

"He took me in."



"Did you hear that Martha had married a self-made man?"

"Yes, and now she's wishing he'd employed an architect."

Mother: "What did your music teacher think of your rendering of 'Morning, Noon and Night'?"

Willie: "Well, after two bars he told me to call it a day."

An American Opinion:
ECONOMY BEGINS AT HOME

$170 Million Dowry

(JACK STEPLER IN CALGARY HERALD)

IT WAS in 1677 that a 13-year-old bookseller's daughter, Mary Davies, brought to Sir Thomas Grosvenor her modest dowry of 600 acres of grass fields west of the City of London. Sir Thomas was already a great landowner, and the addition of the Manor of Ebury to his possessions must have seemed small. But London had to grow.

It grew to such an extent that in July of 1953 Her Majesty's Inland Revenue became the "chief heir" to an estate to be worth between $110 million and $170 million — the greatest "windfall" in the history of Britain's death duties. The death of the Duke of Westminster, who spent a lifetime maintaining and developing his family estates and expanding family fortunes, has again raised a question mark over the advisability of Britain's high death duties, which have reduced so many wealthy families to the fringe of poverty.

For Mary Davies' dowry grew into one of the great family fortunes of England, chiefly because the 600 acres of grass fields covered what became London's fashionable West End, now known as Belgravia, Mayfair and Pimlico. It was a family fortune always administered wisely, but never so wisely as by the rich farmer-peer in the raincoat and trilby who was known by his tenants as a model landowner, the second Duke of Westminster.

TODAY his tenants are discussing the future, for some of his 160,000 acres, farm buildings and cottages as well as town properties may have to be sold to pay death duties estimated at about 80 per cent.

The tentants fear that if their homes are included in the sale it will end the happy arrangement by which many paid only a "peppercorne" rent. The duke put up comfortable homes for his workers. When they retired he built others for them and charged them the same small rent. And he was a model landlord to the residents of his 600 "golden acres" of Mary Davies' dowry in Chelsea and Mayfair. From the reservoir of "Mayfair money" he financed and developed other schemes, modernized his farms and supplied capital for his tenants to embrace the newest of farming techniques.

At the time of his death he was spending nearly $3,000 a week planting trees on his 85,000 acres in Sutherlandshire. He lent farmers money at 1½ per cent to develop attested herds. In 1929 he gave Westminster City Council land worth $600,000 and more than $280,000 cash to build flats for 2,500 people in an area damaged by the Thames. And for years past the Duke of Westminster had been paying 95 per cent of his income to the Treasury.

Now the Westminster estates, which ranked in efficiency and mode of administration as well as in size with the recognized big business of Britain, may well face carving up to satisfy the government as "chief heir" to this vast family "business," which the late duke extended to include overseas possessions ranging from creative enterprises in South Africa early in this century to his Annacis Island project near Vancouver early this year.

AND so the vast paternalistic business empire of a much-loved and much respected landowner may well go the way of hundreds of other British family fortunes, fractioned by succeeding deaths until the business enterprises fall into new hands and the great houses are offered to the National Trust — already embarrassed by people wanting to give away their ancient family homes. Which causes The Times to remark:

"Some may wonder where the gain is to be found. The Treasury will get its windfall. But for years past the Treasury has been taking 95 per cent of the income from the Duke's property.

"Strictly, the Exchequer does little by breaking up great estates except commute some of its regular revenue and spend it in advance. If confiscatory taxation of inheritance is to be justified it must be justified purely by reference to the confiscation itself and the redistribution of wealth which may follow.

"When inheritance taxes were being developed by North, Pitt, Gladstone and Harcourt, there was always an undercurrent of assumption that they would encourage rich men to save as a counterweight and that in any case new individual savings would offset in the most direct sense any diminution of inherited property.

"Clearly, nothing of that sort can be assumed today, when taxation is such that, contrariwise, spending out of capital is actively encouraged and only in a remote and statistical sense do new savings offset the raids on old property. The death of a great landowner, with the implied disruption to the vast organization which he has spent a long life in maintaining and developing, is a moment to stimulate thought."

The Dawdling Driver

(Ottawa Journal)

In the state of Texas, on some highways, under new regulations there is to be a minimum legal speed as well as a maximum. It will be unlawful for a motor car to travel under 40 miles per hour, or over 50.

The slow driver, in heavy traffic, endangers the public safety, and under Ontario law can be (and occasionally is) prosecuted for obstructing other vehicles. But there is no set minimum speed in this province, and the Texas experiment will be watched with interest.

The Usual Brawling

(Montreal Star)

It is a pity that this very great city seems unable to go through a day of voting without disorder and brawling. Monday was called "better than usual" by hardened observers of the local political scene, but it was bad enough to give Montreal a name across Canada which no decent citizen could possibly delight in.

These elections brawls are, in no sense of the term, "good clean fun". They are debasing. They may involve only a handful of people, but a handful of such is enough to blacken the finest reputation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? . . . Hath a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? but my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit. (Jer. 2: 5, 11).

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them . . . Thus shall ye say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under those heavens. (Jer. 10: 2, 11.)

Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they be of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world . . .

Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world. They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them. We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error. (I John 4: 1, 4-6.)

Letter To The Editor

DANGERS IN ONE-PARTY STATE

Sir: In reply to your editorial of August 12, entitled "The Only National Party," I would like to make the following remarks.

While the Liberal party has won the election by an unusually large majority, it must never be forgotten in democratic countries that, if only one national party existed, elections would become a mere form and our system of government would lapse into totalitarianism. It is the fact that we have a possible alternative which makes an election an act of choice, and not merely affirmation, by the people. The Liberal party has, in the eyes of the people of Canada, governed wisely in the past, and is expected to do so for the next five years; yet we have no positive guarantee that it will continue to do so indefinitely. It is solely the opposition—a tangible threat that unwise policies will bring the government's downfall—that forces the nation's leaders to respect public opinion.

Too many people to-day are willing to allow the protection of their civil liberties to rest in a written bill of rights, in adult suffrage, and in periodic elections. It is significant that the constitutions of all the present communistic states contain these nominal guarantees, yet they are completely nullified because there exists only one national party—the Communist party. While the Liberal party in our country has shown no abnormal tendencies in this direction, it cannot be denied that should the other party or parties forming the opposition cease to function, the government, be it Liberal or Conservative, will have obtained an unassailable monopoly of power.

If we wish the state to exist for the people, and not the people for the state, we must zealously protect the minority parties, whether we agree with their policies or not. The minute we cease to care we become a one-party state and can hope for no more than an inglorious and ignominious dictatorship.

Yours sincerely,
LOIS C. HOLMAN.

"It's your Mrs. Ramsbotham again—stopping her old man's two bob each way."

Fight Not Over, China's Mao Only Wants Breathing Space

By ALBERT PARRY

NEW YORK (NEA)—As we rejoice in the armistice in Korea and the return of surviving allied soldiers from Red prisons camps we must remember that the fight is not over. Red China's Mao Tse-tung himself has said so when early and late he reverently quoted Lenin on the subject of armistice and peace.

Mao is especially respectful of Lenin's handling of the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Imperial Germany in 1918. The Red Chinese leader has time and again told his followers that the Brest-Litovsk event should be the guiding light to all Communists at all times.

Lenin signed that treaty despite the considerable opposition he encountered from his own top associates. Early in this argument with him they actually outvoted him.

But he brought the problem back to be debated until they gave in. The Soviet government signed that treaty though it hurt. Lenin did it to gain time for Soviet Russia.

"Breathing space" he called it—a respite needed by "the cause of socialism to complete its work of suppressing the bourgeoisie." He and his socialism needed time until his kind of bloody and destructive revolution would ripen in other countries.

Such a revolution would take time, he declared. It was not just around the corner, as some of his associates insisted. It would come "at the end of the end, and not at the beginning of the beginning," Lenin said in 1918.

Lenin taught his men "not to fight when you are assured of defeat." He told them to sign anything—a truce, an armistice ,even a peace treaty, but not because he really wanted an end to bloodshed.

...AO TSE-TUNG: To him, an armistice is "breathing space."

He said: "Peace is only a means of reconstituting one's forces. Peace is a truce between wars; war the means of securing a better peace." He told his faithful to retreat one step when necessary—in order to make two steps forward at the very next opportunity.

He did not mean to honor the Brest-Litovsk treaty once he signed it. He actually refused to read its clauses even as he signed it. "To read it?" he exclaimed to an aide who tried to unfold the document before him. "No, no, never! I shall neither read it nor carry out its terms when there is a chance not to do so."

The chance came. The Western Allies gave it to him by defeating the Kaiser a few short months later. Some 30 years after, in the wake of the Second World War, Mao Tse-tung profited from this lesson.

GOT AN ARMISTICE

In the mid-1940s, as Chiang Kai-shek's troops pressed him and were on the verge of total victory, Mao skilfully manoeuvred for an armistice—to gain time. With the help of the short-sighted Western, particularly American, intermediaries he got the sorely needed armistice.

Mao thus got his second wind—the armies and arms to renew the war and win it, to conquer all China except for the tiny Formosa.

Now in Korea it is Mao's and the Kremlin's intention to pull a yet smoother version of Brest-Litovsk.

As recently as last June 13, Malenkov's "Pravda" devoted nearly one-fourth of its issue to the praise of Mao. Much of it stressed Mao's shrewdness in knowing when to press his advantage and when to halt—especially the latter.

"Pravda" did not say outright that it meant the war in Korea against the United Nations. It discussed Mao's conduct in the war between China and Japan of the 1930s and '40s. But it cited that example with a blunt aim of applying it to the present-day situation in Korea. All you have to do is substitute "the United Nations' or "America" for "Japan," and Malenkov's praise of Mao becomes clearly up-to-the-minute.

Mao has always derided (said Pravda) the "groundless optimism" of those Chinese who expected "a quick victory." He disregarded the advice of those in his camp who "underestimated the foe's strength." Such cocky and irresponsible recklessness would "inevitably lead to China's defeat."

Time is on Red China's side, Mao and "Pravda" say. They point to China's great size and numerous population, to her material resources and big army. They speak of the "historical process" which they claim works entirely in favor of the Soviet world and against America and her allies.

But just as Lenin warned his men not to bank on a swift and easy triumph over the West, so now Mao and Moscow tell their camp that "the struggle will be cruel and prolonged."

That is why a breathing space is needed by the Reds—to collect their forces, so as to strike at us once more when the "historical process" gives them such an opportunity.

We should have no illusions even as we hail the armistice in the Far East and the return of our long-lost prisoners.

Outlines Federation Plan For Municipalities

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Reeve Lawrence Burnet of Sandwich West Township Thursday outlined a plan for formation of a federation of suburban municipalities surrounding Windsor.

The plan was revealed when Mr. Burnet was asked for comment on a recent statement by City controller W. Ernest Atkinson who quoted Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar as saying Windsor could annex adjacent townships "whenever Windsor asked for it."

Mr. Burnet said no formal discussion of his proposition has been held by officials of Sandwich East, Sandwich West, Tecumseh and St. Clair Beach village. "However, I have mentioned the scheme casually in the past and I am personally convinced it would be to the benefit of all concerned."

He said he proposed a federation somewhat similar to the metropolitan area formed in the Toronto district recently.

Miss Sandra Wilson is enjoying a two weeks' motor trip to Lake Louise with Mr. and Mrs. R. Souter and Marilyn of Toronto.

Mrs. Percy Barnard of Peterborough is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. Dawson.

Plan Housing Estate

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for a $25,000,000 development of 1,000 homes and apartments and a giant shopping centre on the city's western outskirts were announced Thursday. John Cragg, vice-president of the Keystone Realty Company, said the development will be built on farmland in suburban Etobicoke.

New Tower Links Fire Ranger By VHF Radio

A new 110-foot duro-aluminum tower has been erected at Minden which will provide radio communication from the Chief Ranger's headquarters there to towers as far away as Bruton and Madawaska Lake.

There are one hundred stations in the network extending from Minaki and Red Lake in the Kenora district to Tweed in the south-eastern part of the province. A daily weather forecast, giving a full report on weather and temperatures for the following 24 hours, is received daily. Any fire spotted in this area is immediately reported, via radio, to the provincial control station at Maple and is then teletyped directly to the Department of Lands and Forests in the Parliament Buildings.

The radios used by the Rangers are of VHF or Very High Frequency. VHF is free of static interference even during an electrical storm and because VHF bands are not so crowded as the lower bands, interference from other stations is almost nil.

Because the tower sets work principally on "line of sight," the height of the antenna is a deciding factor in establishing good communication.

The towers are manned by observers from April 1 to October 31, and daily reports are transmitted each day. Over eighty permanent ground stations operate the year round.

All stations are equipped to communicate with Department aircraft and are qualified to give emergency instructions, weather reports and other information required. This system is used in civilian emergency and at the present is playing a part in the Air Defence Force operated by the RCAF.

British Empire Games Require Budget Of $2,300,000

This is the third in a series on preparations for the 1954 Empire Games at Vancouver.

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A detail for every dollar appears a good estimate of the preparations needed for a big athletic show like the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games here.

And with a budget approaching $2,300,000, that's a lot of detail for 1954. It's plenty if you count only the $450,000 operating expenses and ignore the $1,850,000 in capital construction cost.

It's the size of that detail job, the complexity of the interlocking pin-point arrangements that have to be made months in advance, that captures the imagination of the outsider.

To general manager Blair M. Clerk, charged with the job of co-ordinating the activities of seven committees, 27 sub-committees and innumerable sub-sub-committees, it's a juggling task.

"Remember the old-time circus juggler with a feather, a plate, a rubber ball and a brick?" he asks. Tossing his hands expertly through the motions, he says: "My job is to make sure none hits the floor."

CARD-INDEX MEMORY

A self-described "professional organizer," he is on loan to the games from the department of veteran's affairs. On his obvious zest for minute arranging, card-index memory for detail and ability to explore the "angles" a lot of the games' success will depend.

Obviously the huge proportion of the actual "work," — discussion, planning, obtaining materials and equipment—is done by the hundreds of committee members and executives in the background. More than 400 persons, at the committee level, are working now on individual sports, travel, traffic, housing, ceremonial and program and other committees.

For example, the track and field committee holds daily clinics, training some 200 persons as officials, starters, measurers, timers and recorders for the actual events.

But Clerk's job is to co-ordinate overlapping activities of many committees at any one sports site, suggest, guide, remind, find so-far unrealized problems, and hasten.

He meets with all committees as they discuss plans. Daily he sifts reports of previous games and of Olympics, for ideas. Committee reports, mail from overseas, memos and ideas are all digested.

In longhand, he then writes out for the typist additional reports which go back to the committees.

NOTES, CIGARS, CANDY

A few quotes from an early 1,500-word "notes for discussion with ceremonial committee" give an idea of the task:

"Opening ceremony: . . . Royal standard ready. Which flag pole of the dozens at the stadium for victory ceremonies, flags of the competing nations, the games flag and so on? . . . Salute of five guns and special games flag slowly hoisted. Pigeons released. Arrangements for collection of?"

The notes go into the games-opening ceremony: "Location of saluting base? Dimensions? Decorations? Fanfare of trumpets. Arrange for band? . . . Parade. . . Each country preceded by shield bearing name of country, followed by flag bearer. . . Prepare shields and staffs, all same size. Recruit and train the bearers? What uniforms?"

And so on, through detailed flag arrangements. . . "seven sets, saving one set by quick shifting from site to site" . . . and the fact that all three place-winners of one event might possibly be from the same country, thus three of any country's flags will have to be available for hoisting during victory ceremonies. (This at any of the 10 sites.)

Other reports point out that feeding stations are necessary for the marathon race and so many cups of tea, so many of sugar water, and so many of ice water will have to be at each station.

Later, somewhere down the still-growing octopus of the organization, a committee member will appoint friend Joe Smith, bus driver, to be at marathon station three, Saturday, Aug. 7, at 1:00 p.m. to serve hot tea.

Come to think of it, a detail-a-dollar doesn't even come close.

U.S. Used Car Market Struggles To Feet

By GENE M. BROWN
(Special to The Examiner)

NEW YORK. — The used car market, mildly ill this summer after seven years of robust health, is recovering in fine style. Sales have started to perk up, inventories are on the decline, and despite many predictions, prices have not cracked.

Spot checks in this and other key markets indicate dealers currently are selling at least one used car for every new car sold. Many are selling as many as 1.8 to 2.0 used cars for every new car. This doesn't add up to a depression in the used car business.

Dealers, association officials and manufacturers agree at least 6,000,000 used cars will be sold this year, with a possibility of 6,300,000 sold if business should spurt. About 6,600,000 used cars were sold in 1952.

Add to sales expectations another 3,300,000 old cars that will be scrapped this year, and it is apparent quite a few used cars will be moved off lots in 1953.

Fight Not Over, China's Mao Only Wants Breathing Space

By ALBERT PARRY

NEW YORK (NEA)—As we rejoice in the armistice in Korea and the return of surviving allied soldiers from Red prisons camps we must remember that the fight is not over. Red China's Mao Tse-tung himself has said so when early and late he reverently quoted Lenin on the subject of armistice and peace.

Mao is especially respectful of Lenin's handling of the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Imperial Germany in 1918. The Red Chinese leader has time and again told his followers that the Brest-Litovsk event should be the guiding light to all Communists at all times.

Lenin signed that treaty despite the considerable opposition he encountered from his own top associates. Early in this argument with him they actually outvoted him.

But he brought the problem back to be debated until they gave in. The Soviet government signed that treaty though it hurt. Lenin did it to gain time for Soviet Russia.

"Breathing space" he called it—a respite needed by "the cause of socialism to complete its work of suppressing the bourgeoisie." He and his socialism needed time until his kind of bloody and destructive revolution would ripen in other countries.

Such a revolution would take time, he declared. It was not just around the corner, as some of his associates insisted. It would come "at the end of the end, and not at the beginning of the beginning," Lenin said in 1918.

Nag! Nag! Nag!

No, No, Elmer, it's not your mother-in-law, it's the horses.

In the United States, in Toronto, in Montreal and in Quebec City, harness horses from Peterborough stables have been making history. They have found that far-off fields not only look greener but actually are.

Take now Wednesday in New Hamburg. There someone's little lady placed a ticket on Dr. Arthur Johnston's Lady Victoria J. just because she liked the name. What happened — the horse immediately replied with a win in the second heat of the third race, paying off $753.60 in greenbacks, believed the largest payoff on a straight bet at a Canadian track.

That same horse also picked up the top money in the $1,000 Dufferin Park Coronation purse. In the two heats she placed first and fifth.

To make the afternoon very profitable for Dr. Johnston his Herriman Hanover placed third twice in the McCall Derby Day pacing stake. That third-place money swelled the already large purse for the horse-racing doctor.

* * * * * *

MERT STOREY'S HORSES ARE IN QUEBEC CITY

Meanwhile down Quebec City way Mert Storey's horses are beginning to make the bettors stand up and take notice. In fact they're doing so well, the genial owner was lured down that way to see them in action.

His Aprilway (remember he switched horses several years ago for the favorite Canada Direct) is once again cacthing a few glances. The five-year-old which defeated Argyle Grattan, top racing horse this year in Ontario, at Stratford in 1951, lowered its life record from 2.11 to 2.07, a nice drop.

Mr. Storey's Wayline, Willing Widow and a fourth horse, a four-year-old, have all made fair showings at races held by Club de Courses Sous Harnais de Quebec Enr.

With all these horses, and others, receiving fair publicity out-of-town, the Peterborough Turf Club is endeavoring to bring a few back home. They've arranged to have racing (along with betting) for the next five Saturdays at Morrow Park.

Years ago, back in father's time, there was a Peterborough Turf Club which had an Ontario charter for racing. But local interests disposed of the franchise.

The various district owners have stayed together through the years, but it was not until May that they reorganized and formed the Peterborough Turf Club. D. A. McGillis was elected president; Andy Price, secretary-treasurer, and Charlie Quinlan, John Currelly, Jack Thompson, Manson Cathcart and Hugh Stewart as directors.

In June they attempted two harness racing meets, bringing back the old wagering, much to the delight of Peterborough fans who just love to place a few dollars on the hoof.

* * * * * *

FIRST OF FIVE MEETS ON SATURDAY

With Saturday's meet, the first of five, scheduled for the next five weeks, the club will try again. This time the racing will be under the old Peterborough club charter, now held by Fred Orpen (Long Branch and Dufferin).

The charter enables the boys to bring their money out into the open. It will definitely stop the side-bets, commonly called gentlemen's wagers, which in the eyes of the law are illegal.

The colts will be given a chance in the first race (a purse of $200). Johnny Heard's Lily Grattan will be the only Peterborough district horse entered; others being from Cobourg, Brighton, Port Hope and Midland. These racers will be ones in the low prize money bracket but they have just as good a speed as any.

L. A. Montgomery (Toronto) owns the favorite in the 2.24 pace. With a lifetime record of 2:10.4 his Pastime Vern will be matched with Hugh Davis' Blanche Grattan, William Brayley's Peter C, Orville Fallis' Little Abner and the Defosse Company's Edward Grattan.

In the third $200-purse event, the 2.22 pace, Andy Price said all eight starters have seen action at Toronto's Thorncliffe this season. A couple to keep an eye on are Milt Post's Rose Belwin, Roy Lawson's Penny Patch and Ted Atkinson's Empress Elgin.

The purse is increased to $300 for the two remaining races, the 2.19 class and the free-for-all. Both these races will probably be the afternoon's best.

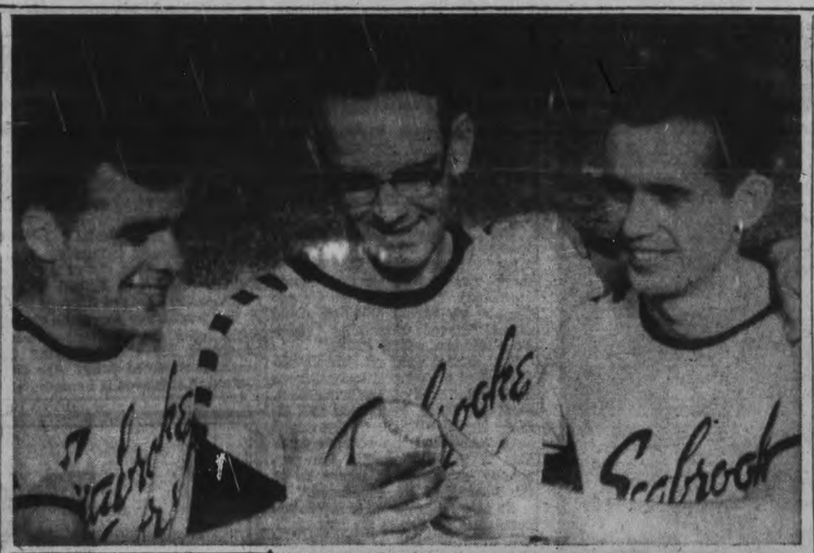
Those with folding money will be watching Amelia Brook, an Oshawa horse, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vincent, in the 2:19 class. Last week Amelia placed second at Thorncliffe with a speedy 2:08.8. Others worth watching are Mac Volo (Stan Blewett) Verna Patch K and Blacklock (now owned by Tom Fritz).

It's going to be a toss-up in the free-for-all. There a heavy favorite will be Daisy P. Grattan, placed second to Argyle Grattan recently. But she'll be receiving considerable opposition from Afton Prince, Neil McLean's horse from Port Elgin, Graydon Sheldon's Gadabout and Manson Cathcart's Miss Chipso.

That's it for now. See you at the races.

210 Players Entered In Tournament

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 210 young tennis players from Canada and the United States converge on the courts of the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club here today for the fifth annual Canadian junior championships.



Major part of the 17 courts of the club, nestled on the shore of the Rideau river, will be taken up with the all-Canadian interprovincial team matches. The other events are open to outsiders and 30 Americans have signed up for tries at the Canadian titles.

However, this year, for the first time, closed tournaments will be held in the junior men's singles and the boys' and girls' singles. These matches will be open only to Canadians and will give them a chance to earn titles usually won by tournament-wise Americans. The United States players can enter the open matches for the same titles.

The team matches today bring together four teams representing the provinces of Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada. They will fight for both men's and women's titles. Quebec won the two titles last year.

The team championships are decided on the best of two doubles and three singles matches.

Soccer Notes

Bata plays Merchants in the Eastern Ontario League Saturday in King Edward Park. UE travel to Port Hope Saturday in a local league fixture. Scots travel to Belleville Saturday (August 22) in the Eastern Ontario Cup series, return game in Peterborough being next week, August 29. Ryan, UE, is still unable to play soccer through a large toe being broken. Also the injury received by the versatile R. Titshall as custodian and full back of the UE, will likely compel them to seek a new goalkeeper. Art Jones, late of the UE, now of the Port Hope aggregation, has still the alert and spectacular style of an excellent goalkepeer. Peters, Scots right half, is the only Canadian in their team.

Many nationalities are represented in local soccer: Scots, English, one Irishman (Ryan UE), Polish, Czech, Slavs, and the clever Merchants' German forward Ramond, who scored three goals in a recent game.

Ken Downer created a record recently when he scored his second goal in a season. He usually gets one goal each year.

Seabrooke Motors emerged victorious in their best-of-seven semi-final men's senior city softball championship series against U.E.W., Thursday night at the East City Bowl, when they edged the latter 6-5 in a hectic nightcap after dropping an equally thrilling opening battle 8-6, before a packed house. Prior to last night's game, the Sullivan squad held a 3-0 margin in games; thus by virtue of the single win, Seabrooke's qualified to meet the league-leading T.P. Transports in a final best-of-seven set for the Taylor Trophy, emblematic of city supremacy. The first game of the finals will be played Saturday night, at the Bowl at 8:30 p.m.

Howie Dalton toed the rubber for the Union crew, capably handled this year by veteran UE catcher Tommy Walton, opposing Terry Woods, another veteran of many seasons' play. But the latter yielded to Lefty Doris after four frames with UE leading 6-1, due mostly to a four-run splurge in the first frame sparked by Bill Wood, Bruce Taylor, Dalton and husky Blair Thomson, whose hard smash to deep centre for the circuit, netted four runs.

FOUGHT BACK

Seabrooke's fought back after the Walton pack tallied a pair in the third and, coupled with some effective relief twirling by Doris, came close to victory. Neil Thompson's smash to score Doris in the fifth was followed later by a strong rally in the eighth to net four runs and Mart Donoghue led with a four-ply wallop to score three. Dalton, however, hurled steady ball, and, aided by his mates, who pecked at Doris for single runs in the fifth and eighth, edged out a well-merited victory, and assisted his own cause offensively with three hits for three. Sullivan, Wyatt, Donoghue, Jaquith and Currie all hit doubles; and Jackie White hit a long homer in the eighth for his team. Thompson got a triple. Fielding honors went jointly to Wyatt, White, Mart Donoghue and Herb Heffernan.

A KEEN GAME

The nightcap pitted Jimmie Driscoll, the Mighty Mite, against the veteran Jack Crowley and a beautiful duel ensued. Driscoll gave up six hits, Crowley five. The former fanned five and yielded three walks; the latter struck out four and passed three batters.

Sullivan scored in the second on an error and a long fly; Seabrooke's came back for four in the third, on a walk, two errors, two fielders' choices and Sullivan's hard rap off the right-field fence, plus another error, and Crowley's strong knees rattled. The men of Walton came for three in their half, however, on an error, a fielder's choice, Dalton's single and Thomson's ringing double. Each team scored one in the fifth, Thomson for UE and Sullivan for Seabrooke's as he hit his sixth homer of the series and 19th of the season.

UE rallied in the ninth and threatened to win; but after Robson scored on Thomson's rap and Leether got a life, Skeeter O'Heron snared White's long rap to centre for the final out. Sullivan batted in three runs in all and blasted in 16 for the series; to lead his team to final victory. Seabrooke's pitching held up wel throughout the series.

Local Golfers Go Sunday In Medal Play

Qualifiers for the club championships at the Peterborough and Kawartha Golf and Country clubs will meet this weekend in a 36-hole tournament for the city medal play championship. There will be 18 holes played at each course, at the Peterborough in the morning and at the Kawartha in the afternoon.

For the past five years the city golfers have been playing the tournament for the J. E. Girven Trophy, declaring the winner the city champion. But this year the trophy will be played for its original purpose, match play between the two club champions.

The popularity of the tournament, taking the 16 best from each club, demanded that the tourney be continued. Since the Girven Trophy is for match play between club champions, another trophy, the Commercial Press Trophy, has been donated by Milf and Jack Hardill for the city medal play championship.

The golfers will tee off Sunday morning at nine for the first 18 holes at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club and will play the last 18, beginnig at two p.m. at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

The fifth team was eliminated, the other four going now in best-of-three semi-final series as follows: Aug. 17—Mt. Pleasant vs. Norwood; Aug. 18—Marines vs. Curve Lake; Aug. 19—Mt. Pleasant vs. Norwood; Aug. 20—Marines vs. Curve Lake; Aug. 24—Mt. Pleasant vs. Norwood, if necessary; Aug. 24 or 25—Marines and Curve Lake, if necessary.

Brooklyn Edges New York 9-8 In 10 Innings; Comes From 5 Runs Behind

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks as if it's going to cost more to commute between the World Series ball parks this fall—but only because they've raised the subway fare in New York. After seven nickle series and three dime classics (the fare went up to 10 cents in 1948), this year's big show appears set to be a "token" affair. Tokens replaced cash when the fares were raised to 15 cents last month. Barring miracles, the participants will be New York Yankees, for the fifth straight year, and Brooklyn Dodgers, for the second time in a row.

Chicago White Sox and Milwaukee Braves continue to put up game, but most probably vain, fights from their second-place spots. The schedules and the standings are against both of them.

Chicago trails the Yankees by seven games and the two clubs play each other only five more times. Milwaukee is 7½ behind Brooklyn with just four games remaining against the Dodgers. For both contenders this means they have to rely on help from the rest of the league and no such help is in sight.

WHIP SENATORS 6-1

The Yankees whipped Washington 6-1 Thursday night after Chicago had turned back third-place Cleveland 7-3 in a 10-inning daylight battle. Brooklyn came from five runs behind for the second straight game to edge New York Giants 9-8 in 10 innings. Milwaukee wasn't scheduled.

In other action Philadelphia Athletics nipped Boston Red Sox 1-0 and St. Louis Browns squeezed by Detroit Tigers 1-0 in 11 innings in the American League. Cincinnati Redlegs walloped Chicago Cubs 10-2 and Pittsburgh Pirates shaded Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in the National.

Eddie Lopat continued his mastery over Washington in posting his 10th consecutive victory against the Senators. The six-hit triumph was his 12th of the year and his fifth this season against bucky Harris' crew.

Virgil Trucks pitched and batted his way to his 10th victory since joining Chicago in mid-June. After a home run by Cleveland's Larry Doby with two out in the ninth had tied the score, Trucks singled home the deciding run in the top of the 10th. Minnie Minoso led the Chicago attack with a triple and three singles.

GAVE UP 3 SINGLES

Joe Coleman gave up just three singles to Boston in winning his first game for the Athletics in four seasons. Coleman, who has had serious arm trouble, also scored the only run of the game on Joe Demaestri's single after he doubled in the sixth inning.

The Browns got the run at St. Louis when Vic Wertz doubled and Vern Stephens singled in the 11th. Ned Garver absorbed the loss after giving up three hits in the first nine innings.

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn has hit 31 home runs this season, but none in the Polo Grounds until Thursday night. With two men aboard the Dodgers trailing by four runs in the seventh, Roy poked a Hoyt Wilhelm pitch into the lower right field seats. In the ninth with two out and the Dodgers still a run behind he lofted another Wilhelm delivery off the scoreboard in left field for another homer.

Carl Furillo hit Wilhelm's first offering in the 10th into the upper left field seats for the run that won the game.

Royals Stop Rochester In 4-1 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As International Baseball League leaders, Montreal just couldn't shake loose Buffalo. Now its the other way around.

The second-spot Royals Thursday night climbed to within one game of the Bisons. The Montrealers stopped Rochester Red Wings 4-1 behind lefty Tom LaSorda's three-hit pitching, while the Herd dropped a 6-5 decision to Syracuse Chiefs.

The Royals are starting a six-game series with the Wings at Rochester and with the season more than two-thirds through, the outcome of the affair might hold the key as to who will take the 1953 pennant. Montreal won it last season.

In other Thursday night games, Ottawa Athletics swept a double bill from the tail-end Springfield Cubs, 2-1 and 4-1; Toronto Maple Leafs climbed to within 2½ games of fourth-place Baltimore, defeating the Orioles 7-1 as Don Johnson pitched five-hit ball.

14TH VICTORY

LaSorda's victory at Rochester was his 14th of the season against six losses. The Montreal lefthander had a one-hitter going into the ninth when a single and a two-out double spoiled his shutout bid.

Frank Verdi's squeeze bunt pushed in the winning run for the Chiefs at Syracuse. Art Schult's three-run homer tied the score in the fifth and the Tribe won it in the eighth when Dick Kinaman walked, pitcher Lynn Lovenguth singled him to third and Verdi dropped a bunt toward first base. Winner Lovenguth allowed six hits, including a homer by Frank Carswell in the fifth.

In the opener at Ottawa the A's pushed across the winning run in the seventh on singles by catcher Andy Tranavitch and pitcher Bob Trice, with Tranavitch scoring on pinch-hitter Taft Wright's loft to centrefield. Trice posted his 16th win against eight losses.

The Cubs outhit Ottawa 9-8 in the aftermath, but could pick up only one run, in the third. Ed Hrabsack won his sixth game after four losses.

At Baltimore, Toronto unleashed an 11-hit attack against Kent Peterson and Ken Heintzelman, the latter giving up two in his one innig of relief. Mike Goliat paced the attack for the visitors, batting in three runs with a homer and a pair of singles. Lew Morton also homered and singled.

Oakville Winner

TORONTO (CP) — Oakville's cricket side defeated Ottawa by seven wickets Thursday in an Ontario cricket week match at Upper Canada College grounds. Meanwhile, the Toronto Cricket Club drew with Toronto and district.

Oakville had Ottawa all out for 66 in the first innings and then, behind 35 scored by Bruce Lockhart and a 33 by Jim Mason, piled up 138 runs. Ottawa scored 129 in the second innings and Oakville needed only three batsmen to win. Mason scored 25 and Lockhart had 28 not out.

Williams Shows All Old Skill

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ted Williams spotted the American League's leading home run hitter six months of conditioning Thursday night and still won a slugging duel, four home runs to three.

It was just a good-natured batting exhibition with Gus Zernial before Philadelphia and Boston tangled in a night game—but the pressure was on and when it was all over Williams was still the "$1,000,000 beauty."

Taking his spring training somewhat late this year—after a long tour as a Marine flyer in Korea—Williams appeared before the batting contest to be taking it as a joke. After it was over Ted was still smiling, only a little more broadly.

Williams and Zernial, who has 29 home runs this season, each took two turns and were permitted five fair blows each time up.

Toronto Clubs Walk Off With 4 Awards

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto clubs walked off with three of the four awards in the Scotch doubles today as the second of three divisions in the 19th annual provincial lawn bowling tournament here ended.

Pete Matthews and Tom Messer of the Toronto Dentonia club took the highest award in the doubles event when they won the Townsend Clark Trophy by defeating Hamilton's Bob Hall and Bill Lang 19-13.

West Toronto's team of Charlie Sedgewick and Harry Bloxham defeated Harry Hope and Norman Richardson of St. Petersburg, Fla., 23-12 to win the Parker Pen Trophy. Hope and Richardson conceded at the 14th end of the scheduled 18-end match.

TAKE THIRD PRIZE

Archie Mayo and Robert Stewart of Toronto Withrow took third prize, the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Trophy, when they downed Howard Swallow and Carl Waterbury 18-14. Swallow and Waterbury came from the Laguna Beach, Calif., Lawn Bowling Club.

The fourth and final award, the Rennie Trophy, went to Neil Salkeld and Harry Leith of Caledonia, who beat Percy Skitch and Bert Everson of Lindsay, 15-12. The Rennie final went only 15 ends of a scheduled 18-ender because of a late start.

Little Ben Topples Defending Champ

By JACK SULLIVAN

LONDON (CP)—Canada's case for a champion in the Canadian Women's Open golf tournament today rested with 19-year-old Marlene Stewart.

Only home-bred left from a big Canadian field that teed off in the week-long championship last Monday, the freckle-faced youngster from Fonthill, Ont., advanced to the semi-finals Thursday with a 2 and 1 victory over defending champion Edean Anderson of Helena, Montana. The other semi-final spots are filled by Americans.

Marlene started the quarter-final round with 24-year-old Barbara Davies of Vancouver, the only other Canadian left in the running, but the West Coast girl was no match for 20-year-old Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash., who sent her to the sidelines with a decisive 7 and 6 triumph.

In the semi-finals today it is Marlene against the Seattle brunette while Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., meets Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., in the other bracket.

Miss Lenczyk, who won the Open title in 1947 and 1948, defeated Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich., 5 and 4, and Miss Romack outlasted Polly Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio to win on the 20th hole in their quarter-final matches.

HAS TOUGH MATCH

Marlene, British Open and Canadian Close champion, has a tough match. The American girl, who celebrated her 20th birthday on Thursday, won the qualifying medal round with an even-par 77 on Monday and since then has coasted to easy victories.

She defeated Mrs. J. K. A. Brown of Winnipeg 4 and 2 in the opening round, followed with a 5 and 4 decision over Toronto s Shirley Woodley and completed the march with her soft victory over Miss Davies in the quarter-finals.

She didn't allow the Vancouver girl to take a hole. She took the first, fourth, seventh and ninth to take a four-up lead at the turn and then ended the one-sided match at the 12th with three straight.

It has been a little tougher for Marlene. She hit a one-over-par 78 in the qualifying round, knocked over June Baker 7 and 5 in the first round and then staged the fight of her career on Wednesday to win on the 19th over Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn. Miss O'Sullivan was three up at the end of nine and it appeared to be curtains for Marlene, but she roared back to tie it up on the 18th and then win it on the extra hole.

That victory brought the crowd out to Thursday's quarter-final match against the defending champion and more than 2,000 persons followed the youngster until she finished the match at the 17th.

THREE UP AT NINTH

Marlene, who came up from the caddy ranks five years ago to No. 1 spot among the country's feminine shotsmiths, was three up at the ninth, gave up the 10th, 12th and 14th and took the 11th and 13th.

They halved the 15th, 16th and 17th.

Marlene, whose putting troubled her Wednesday, had it working like a charm against Miss Anderson and it allowed her to go out in 34—five under women's par over the 6,225-yard Hunt Club course.

CANADIAN DRAWS MATCH

MILWAUKEE (CP)—Frank Anderson of Toronto drew with Vladimir Pafnutieff of San Francisco Thursday in the third round of the U.S. national open chess championships. There are 13 rounds in the competition. Larry Evans, 21-year-old defending champion from New York, won his third match, defeating Sam Cohen of Chicago.

Lt.-Col. Burke Posts Best Rifle Score

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—A 49-year-old lieutenant-colonel from Lansing, Ont., Thursday was named the winner of the Helmer Service Aggregate Challenge Trophy at the 85th annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association prize meet.

Lt.-Col. Desmond Burke, rated Canada's No. 1 sharpshooter, posted the best combined score in three of the matches shot here this week—the Sherwood, Borden and Sir Arthur Currie matches. The latter match is held in conjunction with the Queen's Gold Medal.

He carded a score of 246 of a possible 285 to beat out Cpl. Gerald Ouellette of Windsor, Ont., and Sgt. J. W. MacNeil of Vancouver, tied for second place with 242s.

A radiologist at Toronto's Sunnybrook hospital, Col. Burke has been 10 times a shooting member of Canada's Bisley team and has qualified on eight other occasions but was unable to make the trip.

FIRST TO WIN PRIZE

In 1924, Col. Burke became the first Canadian ever to bring back the coveted King's Prize from Bisley. He is the record holder of the King's Gold Medal match here, having won it eight times in all.

Two tie shoots are to be held today in addition to the Macdonald match from 300 and 600 yards, the London Merchants' from 1,000 yards, the Coates from 500 and 600 yards and the other match from 500 yards.

The ties resulted Thursday in the match proper of the MacDougall and the qualifying round of the Governor-General's match. Three marksmen tied with possible 100 scores in the MacDougall and five others tied for first place in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's.

Sgt. M. T. Davies, Regina, Cpl. A. M. Johnston, Charlottetown, and Flt. Sgt. J. V. Martin of Camp Borden, Ont., scored 20 consecutive bulls eyes in the MacDougall, firing 10 rounds from each of the 200- and 500-yard ranges.

Everest Climber To Marry In September

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (CP).—The well-kept secret of Mount Everest conqueror Sir Edmund Hillary is out—he's getting married. And to the daughter of another New Zealand mountain climber.

When Sir Edmund arrived in Sydney a week ago he unblushingly denied reports he had a girl friend. But on arrival at his home at Auckland he revealed he became engaged in Sydney to Louise Mary Rose, 22, a music student.

An attractive brunette, daughter of J. H. Rose, president of the New Zealand Alpine Club, returns to Auckland Saturday and the wedding is set for Sept. 3.

Sir Edmund, who was knighted for his conquest of Everest, said he has known Louise for "years and years." The beekeeper added his financee knows nothing about bees, but is keen on mountain climbing.

They won't settle down to beekeeping for some time. The day after the wedding they plan a lecture tour of England and probably North America, returning in February.

After that Sir Edmund leaves for more mountain climbing, leading a New England expedition to Makalu, 27,790-foot peak near Everest. It is the fourth highest mountain in the world.

Tiny Plane Flies Texas To Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The world's smallest production airplane, weighing slightly more than a family refrigerator and considerably less than an upright piano, arrived here Thursday after a 1,400-mile, one day flight from Texas.

Dick Golembeski, the pilot, said the gasoline for the trip cost him $13, or less than one cent a mile.

The plane, a sleek, low-winged Wee Scotsman, weighs only 520 pounds and was flown here for Frank Ogden of Toronto, a sales and advertising manager who plans to use the single-seat craft for business trips. The price of the plane, delivered in Toronto, is $3,195.

Safe Landings

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A couple of independent homing pigeon have set up a home of their own in Chippewa Park. The birds, already caged by the park keeper to protect them from hawks and owls, are wearing bands numbered A-U-51-5618 and C-U-50-5425.

THE BIG SHIFT — Heavy steel filing-cabinets containing police records take to the road as Quebec Provincial Police begin the job of moving their headquarters from the Old Court House building in Montreal to the New Court House across the street. The move is expected to take 10 days. The "eviction" came after 25 years of occupancy and is part of a general plan to clear the Old Court House building for the exclusive accommodation of law court business.

NewCommander Named To Cruiser Quebec

OTTAWA (CP).—Naval Headquarters Thursday announced changes in appointments of six senior Canadian naval officers.

Capt. Patrick Budge, 49, of Toronto and Halifax, will become chief of staff to the commanding officer naval divisions at HMCS Star, Hamilton, succeeding Capt. Angus Boulton, 41, of Russell, Man., Toronto and Winnipeg. Capt. Boulton will begin a senior staff course at National Defence College, Kingston.

Capt. Edward Finch-Noyes, 44, of Oakville and Chester, N.S., will succeed Capt. Budge as commander of the cruiser Quebec, based at Halifax.

Capt. Harold Groos, 40, of Victoria, will replace Capt. Finch-Noyes at naval headquarters as deputy chief of naval personnel.

Capt. Jeffrey Brock, 39, of Vancouver and Winnipeg, will succeed Capt. Groos as naval member, Canadian Joint Staff, London naval member of the military agency for standardization and commander of HMCS Niobe, Canadian naval establishment in London.

Capt. Desmond Piers, 40, of Halifax will succeed Capt. Brock as naval member of the directing staff of National Defence College. He now is assistant chief of staff, personnel and administration, on the staff of the Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, at Norfolk, Va.

The changes in appointments will take place late this month and early September.

START OF LENGTHY CAREER—Her colorful flags snapping in the stiff breeze, the trim Norwegian freighter Foldenfjord was the pride of Montreal's waterfront following her arrival on her maiden voyage. The ship, owned and operated by the Norwegian America Line, will become a regular visitor. She sailed for New York to load cargo for Norway.

Troops Protect Morocco Sultan

PARIS (Reuters). — French armored cars and Moroccan troops are guarding the palace of Morocco's Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Yussef as the powerful Pasha El Glaoui prepares to depose him, the French press agency said.

The Pasha, who has led a campaign for the Sultan's overthrow, last night sent for his nominee as the Sultan's successor. He is believed to be Prince Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, the Sultan's cousin.

El Glaoui and about 100 other anti-Sultan Moroccan leaders last night were waiting at the Pasha's palace at Marrakesh to proclaim the new Sultan.

The Pasha has assembled 3,000 armed horsemen near Fez ready to march on the Sultan's capital at Rabat.

Gen. Alphonse Guillaume, the French resident-general, returned to Rabat from France earlier today with instructions to do all in his power to prevent civil war.

El Glaoui said last night: "It is too late. I can no longer halt events. I am a soldier. I am proud of it and I shall not retreat whatever happens."

The French are anxious to prevent any hasty action by the Pasha but are not prepared to help the Sultan unconditionally and without consideration of the long and reliable friendship they have enjoyed with the Pasha.

Guillaume said on arrival at Casablanca that reforms must be speeded up. It is these reforms for the democratization of Morocco which the Sultan has been impeding while at the same time encouraging extremist demands for total independence from France.

The Sultan now has declared in favor of French and Moroccans living together, but the Pasha is unconvinced. He said yesterday: "Even if the Sultan signs the reform decrees, he will say later he did so under duress."

U.S. Army Denies Ararat Attempt

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Despite denials by U.S. officials, reports still circulated among members of the U.S. army mission here Thursday that Col. Edson Raff of New York led a small group that almost reached the top of Mount Ararat, legendary site of Noah's Ark.

The reports said officers sent emergency orders to Raff to get off the mountain as quickly as possible when the group had climbed to within 900 feet of Ararat's 16,946-foot summit. Other members of the group were said to have included Turkish Army officers.

Ararat sits astride the Turkish-Soviet frontier. Previous expeditions there by Americans have brought Soviet charges of spying.

Informants here believe U.S. officials realized belatedly that the expedition might arouse a Russian protest when the semi-official Anatolian News Agency began issuing reports on the progress of the climb.

TORONTO (CP) — The annual statistical report of the Ontario municipal affairs department says provincial subsidies amount to 42.54 per cent of all Ontario municipal taxation.

The report shows that while municipal taxation has increased 135 per cent since 1943 to a total of $259,847,000, provincial subsidies have increased 461 per cent to $110,534,000.

Each year since 1945 the province has contributed more than 34 per cent of municipal taxation.

Total municipal taxes imposed in 1952 amount to $57.87 per person, compared to $52.26 per person in 1951. Education costs were 38.5 per cent of the total, compared to 37.7 per cent in the previous year.

Rothwell, 27, was taken prisoner Oct. 23, 1952, while serving with the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Mrs. Rothwell was given the news by telephone by her mother, Mrs. Annie Hart. "It's hard to realize that at last he's free," she said.

Mrs. Hart said: "Everybody's just crazy with joy."

TLC Officers Returned By Acclamation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress Thursday with one exception swept back its leaders by acclamation for another year of power.

The 580,000-member labor body heard Claude Jodoin of Montreal, a TLC vice-president, declare he will fight for unity in Canadian labor ranks and will never be satisfied "until every worker in Canada is united under our own Trades and Labor Congress."

Back into power for his 11th term as president was tough and earthy Percy R. Bengough, 70-year-old veteran labor leader, again head of Canada's biggest labor group.

SHOWLER DEFEATED

Back with him was his old slate of lieutenants—with one exception. Birt Showler of Vancouver, 64-year-old, mild-mannered vice-president for British Columbia, went down to defeat by R. K. Gervin, 45-year-old one-time motorman and currently secretary of the Vancouver and district trades and labor council.

Carl E. Berg of Edmonton, the hefty, 65-year-old vice-president for the Prairies, won an acclamation for his 11th term along with:

William Jenoves of Toronto, 65-year-old vice-president for Ontario; Mr. Jodoin, 40-year-old vice-president for Quebec; J. A. Whitebone of Saint John, N.B., 56-year-old vice-president for the Maritimes; and Gordon Cushing of Calgary, 40-year-old general secretary-treasurer.

Forgot To Pay Sends Money

How many honest people are left? Honest as Frank Strong, 9377 Amesburw Ave., Cleveland, O., for instance.

Mr. Strong was passing through Peterborough on July 30, and stopped for a haircut. His barber was Joe DeNoble, but Mr. Strong didn't know that—or even the name of the store where he was served.

"After getting my barber work done, I was listening to some news and walked out without paying, writes Frank. About 50 miles out of Peterborough I was looking for something in my pockets, discovered the check and realized what I had not done."

The omission bothered Mr. Strong, but he knew no one here. "First I thought I would pay him when I go through there next year but I can't get it out of my mind. It bothers me night and day," he wrote.

Finally Mr. Strong addressed a letter to Police Chief John Thompson: "Enclosed are the check and two dollars which will pay the bill . . . thanks is a small word but if you can do me this favor I will appreciate it and promise to keep my mind on my business when I am in your town."

The check was paid to the astonishment of Mr. DeNoble. He is going to write a note of thanks to his American customer and enclose the check marked paid.

2 Experts To Speed Adoption Processes

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will appoint two experts to help speed adoption processes throughout the province, Welfare Minister W. A. Goodfellow said Thursday.

Despite the rising number of adoptions and the long waiting lists of parents who wish to adopt a child, Mr. Goodfellow said there still are adoptable children who are never placed in a home.

The problem is to place children over three years of age, he said. Infants are in great demand for adoption, but couples hesitate to take older children.

Chiang Wants Defense Pact To Extend To Formosa

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
(Special to The Examiner)

TAIPEI, Formosa — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in an interview, called for extension of the American Mutual Defence Pact to the island of Formosa as part of a strong policy toward Asian Communism, which, according to the Chinese Nationalist leader, is in a far greater crisis of weakness than the West apparently realizes.

The situation inside Red China and the Soviet Union offers to the free world a real opportunity to start rolling back Communism in Asia, the Generalissimo stated, adding that this opportunity will disappear quickly unless Communist weaknesses are pressed promptly.

If the opposite course is followed and the Reds are permitted time to consolidate their gains and rebuild industrial and military strength the cost of coping with Communism in Asia will become prohibitive within two or three years, the Generalissimo stated, and Red domination of the Far East will make real peace impossible.

According to reports reaching the Nationalists on Formosa, Red China is currently suffering a financial and political strain as a result of military adventures and the high price exacted by Russia for its supplies.

OPPORTUNITY LOST

The Nationalists point out that if the free world not only gives Red China the respite it needs but helps the Reds rebuild industrially by sending supplies and technical assistance a precious opportunity will have been lost, perhaps for ever.

Generalissimo Chiang, who has been dealing intimately with Communist tactics since the 1920's, expressed the opinion that in Korea the West seriously underestimated Red China's difficulties and desire for a truce.

"Reports from inside Red China, he said, indicated that the Communist leaders were willing to pay a much higher price for a truce than was exacted by the free world. But you simply did not press them hard enough."

The result, in Generalissimo Chiang's opinion, was that the truce terms, which involve many concessions to the Reds, came as something of a bonanza.

In the matter of appraising the Communists, the Generalissimo has the record of having been the first world leader to warn of the impossibility of a coalition government with the Communists. Among other warnings, equally prophetic and equally disregarded was his definite prediction of China's entry into the Korean War in 1950 coupled with a detailed, and, as it proved, accurate listing of the armies that would be committed.

Here are the main points of his current appraisal of the Communist position in Asia.

In the Generalissimo's view, there is only one way of ending the menace of Communist aggression in the Far East and that is by cutting off the flow of Soviet military and economic assistance. Clearly, in the next few years neither the Red Chinese, North Koreans or any other Communist Asian group can sustain a long-term military effort against the free world if deprived of Soviet assistance.

Because the Soviet Union is highly opportunistic, it is perfectly possible for the free world to manoeuvre so that this supply is shut off, Chiang Kai-shek believes. Soviet aid and support for Red China would, for instance, cease, in Chiang Kai-shek's view the moment when the Asian Communists were seriously on the defensive and when their losses, and thus their requirements vis-a-vis the Soviet Union, became irksome to the Kremlin.

History has shown that the Soviet Union commits itself liberally only when it is sure to be betting on a winner. Its assistance to Red China is conditioned on getting a high return geopolitically for its investment and is dependent also on the assurance that such aid will not provoke free world retaliation that would substantially affect the Soviet Union itself.

Because of post-Stalin changes in the Soviet Union and difficulties inside Red China, the Generalissimo believes tide can be turned against Communism if the United States will unwaveringly continue to train and supply anti-Communist Asian countries, such as South Korea, Nationalist-held Formosa and Indo-China, and stand firmly behind their struggle against the Communists.

HOPE TO LAUNCH ATTACKS

So far as Formosa is concerned, the Nationalists cling to the hope that, bolstered by American supplies and training, they will become powerful enough ultimately to launch increasingly strong attacks against the Chinese Red mainland whenever the time seems ripe.

A mutual defense pact between the United States and Formosa is important to Chiang Kai-shek for this reason: the United States is currently pledged to come to Formosa's assistance in the event of a Red Chinese amphibious attack on this island, but as matters stand this is a temporary commitment which could be retracted at any time.

The Nationalists would like to see the commitment gain permanence by becoming an international treaty something along the lines of the Mutual Defense Pact just negotiated between the United Sates and South Korea.

More than that, the Nationalists would like to see all the anti-Communist nations in Asia join forces in a kind of "Pacific pact" which, in turn, would be guaranteed by the United States, just as the U.S. at present supports the Atlantic Pact.

Report Butter Production Shows Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Butter production climbed substantially during the first seven months of this year, pushing stocks at Aug. 1 to peak levels, the bureau of statistics reports.

Cheddar cheese output also rose during the seven-month period but holdings were down slightly Aug. 1 despite an increase in the amount going into stock during July.

Production of creamery butter climbed to 178,542,000 pounds in the January-July period, up 12 per cent from the 159,144,000 in the similar period of 1952. July output jumped seven per cent to 41,786,000 pounds from 38,985,000 in July a year ago.

BUTTER STOCKS UP

Butter stocks Aug. 1 rose to 77,186,000 pounds from 60,306,000 the previous month and 59,215,000 a year ago.

The seven-month Cheddar cheese output rose 11 per cent to 40,096,000 pounds from 36,105,000 a year ago. July output was up nine per cent to 10,341,000 from 9,492,000 a year ago.

Cheese stocks dropped slightly Aug. 1 to 39,019,000 pounds from 39,141,000 the previous year. However, they were up from the 35,327,000 pounds the previous month.

Conservatives Have Won 16 Elections In Peterborough Out Of 23 In 86 Years

In the 86 years since Confederation, Peterborough has elected 12 members to Parliament. Seven have been Conservative and five have been Liberal. Of the 23 general elections and by-elections, the Conservatives have won 16 and the Liberals seven. Thus the defeat of Max Swanston on Monday night only follows a long series.

Following Confederation on July 1, 1867, the date of the first general election was announced, official nominations were fyled on August 26 and polling was on two days, September 2 and 3. In Peterborough West Charles Perry, Conservative nominee, defeated John Gordon, Liberal, by 682 to 652, a majority of 30 votes. In the elections of 1872 John Bertram, Liberal, won by 40 votes from William Cluxton, Conservative, but his election was protested on the ground that he did not comply with the demand for his qualifications that was made on him at the nominations. So Mr. Cluxton was declared elected.

However, in 1874 Bertram defeated W. H. Scott, Conservative, by 92 votes. Bertram lost out in 1878 to George Hillard, 1,071 to 874, for a majority of 197 votes, the largest to date, and six years later he turned back the threat of the next Liberal, John J. Lundy, 1,036 to 876. The election of 1887 brought out George A. Cox for the Reform or Liberal party, and James Stevenson as the Conservative. Stevenson won by 22 votes, which was reduced to 19 on a recount. He retained the seat for the Conservatives in 1891, defeating Richard Hall by 1,447 to 1,225.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

The federal election of June, 1896, brought the first three-cornered fight. James Kendry was the Conservative candidate, Richard Hall again the Liberals' and Robert C. Newman, grand organizer of the True Blues, a branch of the Orange Order, was nominated as an Independent. The vote at the polls was: Kendry 1,485, Hall 1,166, Newman 622. Kendry won in 1900, defeating J. Harris McClellan by 351 votes. McClellan was the father of Arthur McClellan, the present district returning officer for Peterborough.

BROKE TORY HOLD

In the 1904 election R. R. Hall, a prominent Peterborough lawyer, broke the Conservative hold on the riding which had held for 26 years and defeated James Kendry by 187 votes. In 1908 Mr. J. R. Stratton, who had been a minister in the Ontario Government, contested the riding for the Liberals, and defeated J. H. Burnham by 333 votes. Then in the Reciprocity election of 1911 Mr. Burnham defeated Mr. Stratton by 43 votes.

In the Union Government election of 1917 Mr. Burnham was returned, defeating R. R. Hall by 3,418 votes, the largest majority ever recorded in Peterborough. However, in this election many unionist Liberals supported Mr. Burnham.

BURNHAM RESIGNED

Mr. Burnham in 1920 resigned, believing that the purpose for which the Union Government had been elected was served, and in a by-election Roland Denne was the official candidate of the National-Liberal Conservative party then in power, G. N. Gordon was the Liberal nominee, Mr. Burnham ran as an Independent Conservative, James Corbett Campbell was the Progressive nominee and Thomas McMurray the Labor candidate. Mr. Gordon's plurality was 1,284. A general election followed the same year. Mr. Burnham made peace with the party, but he lost to Mr. Gordon by 2,158 votes. In 1925 E. A. Peck, who had been a former member of the Ontario Legislature, redeemed the riding for the Conservatives, defeating Mr. Gordon, who had been elevated to the cabinet and made minister of immigration.

In the general election of 1926 Mr. Peck was again returned, defeating J. J. Duffus by 2,109 votes. In 1930 Mr. Peck again turned back Mr. Duffus by 1,761 votes.

MR. PECK RETIRED

In 1935 Mr. Peck did not seek renomination, and J. F. Strickland carried the Conservative banner. Mr. Duffus was the Liberal nominee, Col. Charles Ackerman the Reconstruction candidate and Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas the CCF. The vote was Duffus 8,027, Strickland 6,342, Ackerman 3,071 and Thomas 1,089. Mr. Duffus' plurality was 1,685.

In 1940 Mr. Duffus went to the Senate and R. M. Glover carried the Liberal banner. Gordon K. Fraser made his first appearance before the electors, and the vote was Fraser 9,683, Glover, 9,505, a majority of 178 for Fraser. In 1945 Mr. Fraser was again elected, defeating Mr. Glover and Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas. The vote was Fraser 10,949, Glover 9,182 and Thomas 2,512, a plurality of 2,767 and a majority of 255 votes. In 1949 Mr. Fraser was returned at the polls for the third time, defeating Dit Clapper and Howard Miles, CCF. The vote was Fraser 10,981, Clapper 10,738 and Miles 2,804. Mr. Fraser had a plurality of 249.

Then on Monday of this week Mr. Fraser was again returned, polling 13,062 votes, Max Swanston, Liberal, polled 10,053 and Maurice Ketcheson 1,770 votes. Mr. Fraser's plurality was 3,009 and his majority 1,770.

Reject Appeal Against Freight Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners today rejected an appeal by Western Canadian lumber manufacturers against a $1,000,000-a-year freight rate boost on West Coast lumbershipped to Toronto, Montreal and other Eastern Canadian markets.

The higher rates were put into effect May 1, 1953, when the railways decided that lumber moving into markets east of the Great Lakes should be in the "competitive" rate class. This meant that the West Coast lumber could not benefit from the $7,000,000-a-year federal railway "bridge" subsidy on hauls between Eastern and Western Canada.

The rate increase was suspended by the board in orders issued May 29 and June 22 pending the outcome of the appeal lodged by the West Coast lumber shippers. In its judgment today the board rescinded these two orders and ruled that rates on Western lumber moving east are "competitive" rates to which the "bridge" subsidy does not apply.

A board spokesman said the railways now have authority, effective Aug. 12, to reimpose the May 1 rates.

Courted, Won On London Bus

LONDON—Love works quickly. Take for example the case of Ernest Davies, 26, an engineer, and Vicky Neilson, 22, a stenographer.

A month ago Ernest and Vicky were strangers when they boarded a London bus. Forty minutes later they were engaged to be married and then Wednesday they were married, leaving Thursday for Davies' bungalow in Rhodesia.

Their love-at-first-sight story started on a bus at the Cromwell Road bus stop in Lond's West End. Davies asked Vicky then, "Does this bus stop at Piccadilly Circus?" That question started them off.

Vicky answered, "Yes," and Davies boarded the bus with her.

Little Cupid came through again seconds later for there were only two empty seats, together on the upper deck. So they sat next to each other.

The conversation, of course, first turned to the weather, then Rhodesia, and then love. After 20 minutes Davies proposed. Vicky said, "Maybe." She thought it over for 10 minutes and then answered "Yes."

They then left the bus at Piccadilly Circus, which is dominated by the statue of Eros, the god of love, went to a jewellery store and bought the engagement ring.

Four of the bills were passed in the tax office at the city hall.

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Attorney-General Harry McMullan has ruled a newspaper doesn't have to deliver papers to a would-be subscriber. The Asheville Citizen-Times stopped deliveries to M. M. Matthews, who insisted his paper be put on the porch instead of in his less-convenient mailbox. Matthews sought a ruling. The attorney-general said he thought Matthews could "protect his interests" by purchasing his paper at a newsstand.

Stage 6 Bouts At Carnival

LINDSAY — (ENS) — The Kiwanis Boxing Club presented their fifth amateur card of the season last night, as a feature of the Kinsmen carnival. Six bouts were staged. One resulted in a knockout, three were decisions and two ended in draws.

In the main event Jim Mark, of Valentia, who lost his only other start of the year, brought on an upset when he decked Pete Lyons, Little Britain, two time winner in the second round. Mark had the edge from the opening bell, and finally capped a series of hard punches in the middle round with a short right uppercut that ended Lyons.

In another good fight, Don Curtin of King's Wharf, won unanimous decision over Charlie Coppins of Lindsay at 140 pounds. Both boys were sluggers and the fight provided some of the best action of the night. Curtin had the taller Coppins on the run most of the way, but couldn't finish him off, though Coppins was well marked at the end. The other four fights were in the lighter weight classes. In the opener Johnny Henley and Larry Burns. Tonight ny McCloy at 75 lbs. and came surprisingly close to scoring a knockout. Leo Lynch of Lindsay got the decision over Larry Gainor, in a lively fight.

In the final, Brian Loggerman and Gus Cayley fought to a draw. The other draw was between Paul Henley and Larry Bruns. Tonight Minden boxers from the recreation centre will visit the Lindsay ring for bouts with Lloyd Burrows' Kiwanis fighters.

Auction Ends Gladiolus Show

A record crowd was present on Thursday evening in the market hall for the final concert of the Peterborough and District Gladiolus show. The program which attracted so much applause on Wednesday evening was again repeated. It consisted of step dancing numbers presented by pupils of Judith Welch. Attired in costumes from the youngest to the oldest they made a most striking appearance on the stage. The acts consisted of those presented by the tiny tots to girls in their teens. Miss Welch herself in a beautifully executed number brought the program to a close.

Winners of the door prizes were Mrs. J. Sullivan, 128 Montgomery St.; Frank James, 728 Hurley St.; and Miss Bernice Crawford, 161 Park St. North. Jim Weir was master of ceremonies.

G. W. Craw presented the awards and trophies and auctioning off of the beautiful exhibits closed a very successful show.

Reject Plea To Admit China

By JOSEPH NEWMAN
(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON — The Western Big Three—the United States, Britain and France—are believed to be in general agreement on the broad terms of their reply to Russia's conditions for a foreign ministers' conference.

The Western reply is expected to reject two basic points in the Soviet note:

1. That Communist China should participate in the conference.

2. That the conference, instead of dealing with the problem of arranging free elections for the two divided parts of Germany, should first concern itself with such matters as a peace treaty and the reunification of Germany.

The Western powers take the position that Russia's proposal of Peking's participation is irrelevant to their original suggestion of a big four conference of foreign ministers to negotiate settlement of the German problem.

They are likely to remind Moscow that China is not directly concerned with the German problem, which had always been recognized as a matter for the four occupying powers — the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

They may also remind Moscow there is no need for Peking's participation in discussion of other world issues since the Chinese Communists will be attending the forthcoming political conference on Korea.

In the event progress is made on Korea, this conference could move to consideration of other Far Eastern problems.

The Western powers are amenable to the Soviet suggestion that in addition to discussing Germany they should examine the broader subject of "measures to decrease tensions in international relations."

However, it is understood they will insist on "first things first." They believe settlement of the German problem would provide a basis for moving toward broader agreements. And the first thing required for a German settlement in the Western view, is agreement on free elections both parts of Germany.

The Western powers maintain that Russia by insisting on prior talks about a peace treaty and unification, is putting the cart before the horse. Their reply to Moscow is certain to maintain that free elections must be arranged before there can be an all-German government presiding over the reunited country with which the big four powers could conclude a peace treaty.

FLAMING DESTRUCTION — Dense clouds of smoke roll from the blazing General Motors transmission and instrument plant in suburban Detroit as firemen wage a three-hour battle to bring the wind-whipped flames under control. The gigantic, $35,000,000 fire followed a thunderous explosion late Wednesday, bringing death to two men and injury to a score of others. Firefighters said a spark from a welding torch set off oil and the spreading flames quickly spread through the big building.

Reds Import Tons Of July Butter

(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON. — The Soviet Union has purchased in the past month more than 30,000 tons of butter from several of the principal exporting nations, it was reported here amid speculation that a serious internal shortage may have prompted the unprecedented scale of imports.

In this connection, it was recalled here, Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov's speech Saturday when he announced the production of the hydrogen bomb also lamented a lag in livestock breeding in the Soviet Union since World War II. He said, "we have not by far been sufficiently satisfying the growng needs of the population in meat, milk, eggs and other livestock produce."

But it is also believed here the large butter imports may be required to implement the Soviet trade agreement with East Germany. Under it Russia was to supply its German satellite with 30,000 tons of butter a year. In addition, there is said to be a Soviet agreement for supplying Czechoslovakia with a considerable amount.

Before the war Russia exported about 40,000 tons of butter to the United Kingdom in one year. Now the Soviet Union has ordered more than 10,000 tons from Denmark, 16,000 tons from the Netherlands, 5,000 tons from Australia and 2,000 tons from New Zealand. Last year Russian imports from Denmark totalled only 4,000 tons.

Farmwife Said Champion Worm-Puller Of Catskills

By WALTER ARM
Special to The Examiner

MT. TREMPER, N.Y.— A frail young Ulster County farmwife claims to be the champion "worm-pulle " of the Catskills.

She is Mrs. Claire Burns Hudler, who picks more than 30,000 fat specimens of the genus lumbricus and converts them into cash each summer season.

Better known as night crawlers, the lumbricus are prized as bait by fishermen. Mrs. Hudler sells them at the rate of 25 cents a dozen and with the extra money — which averages about $300 a summer — gets herself and her children little luxuries she ordinarily would not be able to afford.

To obtain her stock, Mrs. Hudler goes out each night with a pail, a flashlight and her beagle-pointer, "Scotty," and snatches the crawlers from her own and neighboring lawns with a technique all her own,

The crawlers are especially active on rainy nights and early one morning Mrs. Hudler took a reporter and photographer on a worm-pulling expedition and bagged 500 in an hour. That is her daily limit, although she could get more if she wanted to.

NEED GOOD REACTIONS

Worm-pulling requires good eyesight, nimble fingers and a swift, dipping motion borrowed from the birds. While Mrs. Hudler snatched the live bait from their tiny holes she explained that a worm puller must be careful not to shine a flash directly downward for the glare of the torch sends the crawlers back home "quicker than Scotty shies from a skunk."

The two city dwellers tried their hand at worm-pulling and found she was right. The worms were too quick for them and when they finally were able to snatch one its strength was so surprising and their wiggling so strenuous that they were able to pull out of the tender grasp of the novice worm-hunters.

"Nothing to it," said Mrs. Hudler as she bent to a task like a shopper filling a bag with spinach. Most surprising thing about her ability is that she is a Brooklyn girl who married a farmer, Robert E. Hudler, after she had spent a summer vacation in the area. The Hudlers have two daughters, Jill, four, and Jean, 10 months, and Mrs. Hudler uses her worm money to buy them toys, to keep her second-hand car going and to treat herself to the weekly movie in nearby Phoenicia.

No Petitions For Rehearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. federal power commission said Thursday that no petitions had been filed seeking a rehearing on its order granting the New York state power authority a licence to construct and operate the U.S. portion of the St. Lawrence power project.

The deadline for filing rehearing requests is the close of business today.

The commission's decision was announced July 10 but its formal opinion and order were not issued until July 15.

Simultaneously with issuance of the opinion and order granting a 50-year licence to the New York power authority, the FPC denied a conflicting application by the Public Power and Water Corp., Trenton, N.J., for a licence to construct a hydro-electric project in the same section of the St. Lawrence river.

KAWARTHAS AIR ARM

Regional forester W. B. Greenwood advised today that a Department of Lands and Forests helicopter may be based near Peterborough in the very near future. There might also be a Beaver aircraft based at Chemong Lake in advance of the 1954 fire season.

Hydro Wire Flips Plane Into Lake

Aircraft Wrecked Pilot, Passenger Escape Injury

A single-engine passenger plane equipped with pontoons, struck a hydro wire in a small bay near Viamede on Thursday night and crashed into Stony Lake.

The pilot, Mel Richman of Toronto, got out of the plane with his only injury a cut on his left arm. And his passenger, a Mrs. J. Macdonald of Ottawa, was not hurt.

The plane, owned by Harry Oakman of 68 Lansdowne St., aerial photographer, was a complete wreck. It capsized and sank when it struck the water. Only the tail of the aircraft is showing.

Richman has been working with Oakman for six weeks after coming from Toronto. Apparently he did not see the hydro wires which were strung out across the water — from one point on a curving bay, a quarter mile west of Viamede, to another—and he struck them while coming in for a pontoon landing.

DELIVERING PHOTOS

The pilot was going to land there to deliver some air photos to cottagers. The accident occurred in front of George Rogers' cottage which is on the north side of the lake, in a small bay known as "Sawmill Bay."

The impact broke the hydro wires and temporarily shut off electric power between the bay and the Viamede Turn. It was restored by midnight.

Two years ago another aircraft crashed into hydro wires that stretched across a narrows between Lindsay Island and the mainland, a mile west of McCracken's Landing. Three men, including the pilot, Tom Mathias, managed to get out of the wrecked aircraft without serious injuries.

The aftermath was a Supreme Court civil action earlier this year in Peterborough. Judgment is still pending.

Parking Meter Take Piles Up To $200,000

Parking meters have poured more than $200,000 into city coffers since the first meters were installed in May, 1947.

Street parking meters were first used in 1947, and their numbers have increased greatly since then. City square meters were used first a little more than two years ago.

Receipts for street meters total $177,476.60, while the city square meters have brought in $24,654.33, for a grand total of $202,130.93. That's an average of $33,688.49 yearly.

During June, meters, parking tickets and stickers brought in a total of $5,623.03, with most of that, $4,564.53, coming from meters. Street meters accounted for $3,204.62, and city square meters $1,359.91.

Parking tickets brought in $902 and stickers $156.50.

Meter receipts have soared each year. In the year ending in June, receipts were $16,497.16. Other year totals are: June 1952, $14,383.59; June 1951, $13,698.18; June 1950, $12,424.83.

Driver Pinned By Truck Against Pole

ROSENEATH (ENS)—Chasing a runaway delivery truck, Ray Maloney, 177 Montgomery St., was pinned by the truck against a telephone pole about 12:30 p.m. today.

Relieving Floyd Alton, 448 Mark St., on a Canada Bread Co. delivery truck, Maloney had parked his truck in front of the Maple Lodge tourist home operated by Mrs. Leslie Sherwin on a fairly steep grade.

It is believed the brakes slipped and the truck started down the grade. Maloney ran after it to try to jump into the cab and stop it before it could do any damage. But he was caught between the side of the truck and a pole.

He was pinned there until Alvin Rosebush who lives across the street from the lodge drove his truck to the scene and pushed back the delivery truck to free Maloney.

Dr. George H. Field examined Maloney and found he had a badly bruised right leg. He was taken by his family to Peterborough where X-rays are to be taken.

The latest victims were Michael T. Rogers, 4, and Edward P. Ferguson, 3.

A search party found their bodies in an ice box on a dump about 200 yards from the Haverhill homes of the youngsters' parents.

Four children died in Richmond, Va., in similar manner Thursday and five youngsters died in Proctor, Ark., Wednesday night.

Airport For Peterborough Still Project For Future

Peterborough's airport is still something for the future. Although three sites are under consideration, plans must wait until a survey party of the Department of Transport is available. There is a chance the survey will be made this year, but the department has been unable to make a definite commitment.

The city was informed of this in a letter received today from the Hon. Lionel Chevrier, minister of transport. He said a survey "might be possible" later this year, but could not be done at this time.

Naturally enough, the city is unwilling to walk alone into such a chancy venture as an airport. Vancouver, many times larger than Peterborough, found the advantages so doubtful that it is now trying, with little success, to sell its municipal airport to the federal government.

NOT SUITABLE

It is definitely known that the department of transport will not consider as a municipal airport site the partly finished field on Highway 7 north of the city.

Feeling of the department is that the topography is not suitable for the kind of airport required. On the other hand, the department is willing to grant a licence to the field only for light aricraft and day flying.

What is needed is a landing field large enough to handle twin-engined aircraft.

In addition to that, present policy of the transport department is to find a site that could be enlarged at a later date to handle jet aircraft. Extended runways would be needed for these craft.

The three other sites, locations of which have not been revealed, are definitely under consideration.

REQUIREMENTS

They, of course, must jibe with the department's requirements of size and of nearness to residential areas. Almost a square mile of land is needed, and it must be stiuated so that aircraft landing and taking off will not pass too closely over populated areas.

The arrangement for building the field would be this: the city would provide the land, buildings and personnel, and the Department of Transport would provide money to build the landing strips. At least two are needed.

The land needed for the airport would be either purchased outright from the individual or individuals concerned, or expropriated.

Provincial laws permit a city to expropriate any land for civic purposes. They provide that the land need not necessarily touch on the city limits; it could be a site entirely separate from the city.

City officials are determined that negotiations must go on; that the city will some day have an airport. But until such time as preliminary difficulties can be ironed out, the airport will continue to be something for the future.

Hubby Deceived In Monkey Shine

PHILADELPHIA — A four-month-old monkey is the innocent instrument of a grave deception being enacted in the baboon cage of the Philadelphia Zoo.

'Girlie', a young baboon, kidnapped the young monkey and began mothering it as though it were her own offspring. When her mate, Mr. Gelada, discovered the baby monkey in her arms, he was overjoyed, believing that he was the father. He is still playing the part to perfection and zoo officials have decided that the wise course is to let the new mother get away with her fraud.

Curator Roger Conant said Girlie may be expecting a baby of her own and just couldn't wait. Since Papa has become so enrapt in his role as father however, they dare not risk separating the monkey from its foster parents.

Two City Accidents Do Little Damage

Two accidents Thursday marred an otherwise uneventful day in traffic in Peterborough. Damage in the two crashes was light and there were no injuries.

Thursday morning two cars collided at the intersection of Parkhill Rd. and Downie St. Harry Jewel, 36, of Lakefield was driving south on Downie St., and Orvil Colby, 17, of 646 Donegal St., eastbound on Parkhill Rd. when the accident occurred. Damage was estimated at $110. PC Gerald Emmons investigated.

Damage was confined to $45 when an Ohio man's car clipped the corner of a double-parked truck on Water St., just south of Hunter.

Walter T. Gardner, 67, of Bryan, Ohio, was driving north on Water when he hit the truck in passing. The CN express driver, B. B. Telford, was out of the vehicle at the time.

PC Sherman Keliele investigated.

Advance Party Leaves

TOKYO (AP) — The Peiping radio said today the 12-man Indian advance party of the neutral nations repatriation commission left North Korea Thursday for home. The mission visited Panmunjom and North Korea to lay plans for the arrival of a 4,000-man Indian force which will guard Chinese and North Korean prisoners refusing repatriation.

Housewives In South Happy At Shopping Centre Prospect

Housewives of the southend foresee a new shopping centre on Lansdowne St. springing up around the Simpsons-Sears store to be built at Monaghan Rd. And they will be happy to see it.

However, according to a survey, they still expect to do much of their shopping in the old shopping area on George St.

CHANGE COMING?

Up to now there haven't been any large shopping districts in the south end which contains homes mostly built since the war. Residents do the greater part of their shopping downtown. But with the announcement that Simpsons-Sears are going to build a large department store, businessmen have shown a new interest in the property in the area. The result may be a full-fledged shopping district to rival George St.

Residents of the south are quite happy at the prospect. But they still feel that they will often make the trip to George St. to compare bargains and buy.

One southend housewife said: "It's about time some of the bigger stores have started to consider building in the area and it can't be soon enough for me. For I'm tired of having to go all the way up town to buy a new pair of shoes for my boy, who's always outgrowing them".

Another southend housewife who is also an office worker at one of the larger plants in town said: "I never get a chance to do any shopping during the day. I'm too far away from the centre of town and when I'm finished work at night I have to go home and cook dinner for the children. So a few larger stores will suit me fine and give me a chance to do some shopping for a change."

Trenton Worker Drowns Taking Swim

TRENTON—Not long after he finished his afternoon shift, a Trenton railroad worker drowned in the Trent river Thursday afternoon. The body, that of C. G. Good of Trenton, has not yet been recovered.

Good finished his shift, then went with fellow workmen to swim in the river about a mile north of Trenton. From a dam, he and his friends swam to a railroad bridge a thousand feet away.

After the swim, Good said he felt groggy. He held onto a buttress, still in the water, while his friends climbed out. Then he disappeared.

Boys' Clothing Waits For Owners

"Mom, where's my running shoes? Mom, where's my socks?" The answer may be "in a box at the YMCA."

The YMCA Boys' Camp closed recently and as with the closing of any camp the frenzied packing resulted in lost or misplaced apparel. There are two large boxes of unclaimed clothing including running shoes, sweat-shirts and socks at the 'Y' ready for identification.

Fraser L. Wade, instructor at the Peterborough 'Y' left today for Geneva Park on Lake Couchiching where he will attend a three week course physical education at the Canadian YMCA summer school. An estimated 300 people from all parts of Canada, taking varied courses, will attend.

St. Peter's High School To Be Built For Senior Students

$250,000 Structure To Be Erected In Year From Private Funds; Old Building Will be Used As Junior High School

Tenders will be called next week for a general contractor to build the new St. Peter's High School at Brock and Downie Sts. Estimated cost of the school is $250,000. It will be a senior high school, accommodating students in Grades XI, XII, and XIII from the nine parishes in this region. The old St. Peter's at Brock and Reid Sts. will continue to be used, but as a junior high school. Construction of the co-educational high school should begin Sept. 10, and it will be open by the beginning of the school year, September, 1954.

By 1957 about 170 students will be using the new St. Peter's. Enrolment within the next five or six years is expected to go up to 250 students..

FACE DOWNIE ST.

The building, designed by E. J. Turcotte, Montreal architect, will face Downie St. It will have eight classrooms, two commercial rooms, physics and chemistry laboratories with a lecture room in between, and an assembly hall seating 280.

There will be no gymnasium in the new school. The gymnasium of the St. Peter's Elementary School for Boys, officially opened only this spring, will be used by the secondary school students.

Mr. Turcotte was the architect who designed St.Joseph's Hospital and St. John the Baptist Church on Wilson Ave.

The building will be of traditional design of buff brick and Indiana lime stone. There will be a covered passageway between the old and new high schools.

Students attending the senior school will come from the five Peterborough parishes and from the four others in the district — Ennismore, Douro, Otonabee, and Lakefield.

Money to finance the building will come from private funds.

At present seven classrooms in the old high school are being used to instruct the students in the three senior grades. When these students are moved into the new high school it will temporarily ease the problem of accommodation.

Motorcyclists To Hold Own Field Day

A motorcycle field day is going to be held Sunday by the Kawartha Motorcycle Club that is expected to attract as many as 600 motorcycle drivers from Toronto, Oshawa, Ottawa and other centres all over southern Ontario.

Club president John Wharton said the meet will be held on an old ball diamond half a mile south of Highway 7 on a road that turns off at Thirnbeck's store, just east of the Indian River. A large number of Peterborough drivers are also expected to participate.

Varied events will make up the field day, but all of them will stress control and riding ability. There will be straight races over the rough terrain of the field, but even they will be decided not principally by speed. The driver's ability to stick to his saddle will be a more decisive factor.

PURSUIT RACE

Among the other events will be an Australian pursuit race on a circular track in which any rider that is passed must drop out. The winner is the man left riding alone.

In another event the emphasis will be on slow driving. The drivers must drive through narrow lanes marked by strings strung between stakes. The driver who covers the route in the slowest time without touching the strings on either side is the winner.

There will be many other events that will be interesting for spectators and president Wharton expects a large crowd to be there. A smaller version of a field day was held by the club at the end of June and it was such a success that the club was encouraged to try one on a large scale.

STRIKEBOUND PARIS—Paris travellers, stranded by the general strike which has paralyzed French transportation facilities, crowd around buses and trucks in front of Invalides Station for rides to their destination. Railroad movements, utilities, communications and government services are crippled as civil servants protest government plans to balance the budget by trimming payrolls and delaying their retirement. Convicts have been pressed into service to help relieve the situation and, below, empty trash into a garbage truck under the supervision of two Paris policemen.

Chilean Copper Seen Red Aim In Newest Move

(Special To The Examiner)

LONDON—The Soviet government has cleared way for re-establishing diplomatic relations with Chile by agreeing to release the Soviet-born daughter-in-law of the former Chilean ambassador in Moscow.

At the same time, both Russia and Communist China have expressed interest in buying Chilean copper, one of Chile's basic exports.

These moves may reflect a new Soviet policy following Stalin's death to strengthen Russia's diplomatic and economic ties with Latin-America as a whole.

Chile broke relations with Russia in October, 1947, on the grounds that its embassy in Santiago was being used to incite labor unrest and strikes. Subsequently Brazil and Colombia also broke with Russia.

When the time arrived to exchange Soviet and Chilean diplomatic missions in Santiago and Moscow, Russia refused to release the Soviet-born wife of Alvaro Cruz, son of Luis David Cruz, the Chilean ambassador in Moscow.

Chile and Russia held each other's mission hostage for nearly a year until Chile was forced to effect the exchange without Mrs. Alvaro Cruz. While his father, mother and sister left Moscow, Mr. Alvaro Cruz remained with his Russian wife.

Ambassador Cruz later raised the isue personally at a meeting of the United Nations General Assembly in Paris but the Russians refused to give ground.

Stalin's death brought a change. First Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed to release the Russian wives of several Americans in Moscow. Recently he notified Argentina, which had been representing Chilean interests, that Mrs. Alvaro Cruz could also leave Russia.

It was generally understood that the release of Mrs. Alvaro Cruz would have to precede a move to reestablish diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The renewal of relations with Chile, Brazil and Colombia would be consistent with Russia's recent decision to reestablish relations with Israel.

Chile is interested in selling copper to Russia and China in view of the increasing difficulties in marketing this strategic material in the United States following the Korean armistice. Unless the United States is willing to absorb Chile's output, Chile wants the right to sell elsewhere and Santiago is now negotiating this matter in Washingon.

Go 600 Miles From North Pole On Prospecting Trip

By LESLIE WILSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A Montreal engineer told Thursday of a prospecting trip for radium and uranium to Axel Heiberg Island, 600 miles from the North Pole and thought to be one of the last remaining pieces of Canada yet uncharted by the explorer.

George Jacobsen, president of the Tower Company, a Montreal engineering firm, described a two-week trip with four companions, Dr. E. A. Porsild, Dalton Muir and Col. Graham Rowley, all of Ottawa, and E. E. Reid of Montreal, which ended when the Canso amphibian "Arctic Queen" touched down Tuesday at nearby Uplands airport.

Mr. Jacobsen said in an interview the trip was undertaken because on several occasions he saw streaks of black rock which looked like pitchblende—the ore from which uranium and radium is made—in flights over the mountainous island in United States Air Force planes.

His company, which has built meteorological stations at a dozen points in the Arctic for the transport department, chartered the Canso at Churchill, Man., to make the trip.

Col. Rowley, head of the defence research board's Arctic section, and Dr. Porsild, a resources department expert on the arctic, were invited along to make scientific studies. Mr. Muir, of the national film board, went to make a film record. Mr. Reid is a Tower Co., engineer.

Mr. Jacobsen said the "pitchblende" he sighted from the air turned out to be "the blackest appearing shale I ever saw but from a geologist's point of view the trip was a success."

He said the expedition found large deposits of lignite, a soft coal, "a whole cliff" of pure gypsum, used for the manufacture of wallboard and plaster, and rock structures which seemed to indicate the presence of oil.

The explorers found an "arctic alpine" landscape, a 2,000-foot plateau covered with grass and an 8,000-foot mountain on the 225-mile-long Axel Heiberg Island. There were herds of muskox and caribou on the plateau and traces of wolf, hare and fox. Snow geese abounded on the coast.

Mr. Jacobsen said the Mokka Fiord and lake landings on Axel Heiberg are probably the farthest north landings ever made by aircraft.

Drill For Oil Dead Sea Area

NEW YORK — Drilling operations, based on optimistic geological findings, will be undertaken this month in the Dead Sea area for what is hoped will be Israel's first commercially productive oil wells.

This attempt to discover oil in Israel will be the first since the fruitless British exploration in 1947, which was halted by the impending Israeli-Arab conflict.

Abraham Dickenstein, president of Ampal-American Palestine Trading Corp., said drilling will begin on one of the sites where the Ampal-financed Lapidoth-Israel Petroleum Co. has acquired licences covering some 500,000 acres of leases.

George B. Kitchel, manager of dirilling operations of Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., Oklahoma City, Okla., which has signed as exclusive drilling contractor, said 20 American field personnel will be sent to Israel. In addition, 80 Israeli workers will be employed in the operation.

Kerr-McGee, it was said, has contracted to train Israels who will replace the American personnel, possibly within two years. About 1,800 Israelis are expected to be at work on the project in a year.

Sentimental Journey Ends In Sarnia

SARNIA (CP) — A 5,500-mile "sentimental journey" by water ended here for Roy G. Selman, a former native of nearby Sombra, absent from these parts for 53 years.

Selman and his wife arrived at the government dock Wednesday night aboard the 43-foot cabin cruiser "B for Bob,"—constructed by Selman in B.C.—after a six months journey from Vancouver to Sarnia by way of the Panama Canal. The Selmans travelled from Los angeles to Puerto Rico by freighter.

Find Body In Lake

PEMBROKE (CP) — Body of Charles Stuart, 63, of nearby Eganville was found Thursday in shallow water in Mink lake, about 10 miles south of here. The body was spotted by an observer in a military plane from Petawawa military camp. Death was believed due to a heart attack.

Say Guided Missile Better Than Atomic Cannon Weapon

CAMBERLEY, England (Reuters)—Commonwealth military leaders have decided the guided missile is a better weapon for tactical atom warfare than the United States atomic cannon.

Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff, addressed a press conference at the end of a three-day study of atomic weapons. More than 100 British and Commonwealth service chiefs attended the study.

Harding said Britain is not following the lead of the United States in turning out a gun to fire atomic shells. The American 85-ton "Atomic Annie," triggered by remote control by scientists 10 miles away, was tested three months ago.

The field marshal said that facts about the 280 MM. atomic field gun are known—"but if I could have only one or the other, I would prefer the guided missile" with an atomic warhead.

Among those attending "Exercise For'ard On" at the imperial staff college here was Gen. Alfred M Gruenther, American commander of NATO — highlighting speculation on the chances of atomic information being exchanged between the U.S. and Britain.

Britain has recently made significant advances in nuclear research and plans further atom weapon tests in Australia this fall. Harding would not comment, however, on the prospects of information being exchanged.

PREFAB SKYSCRAPER TAKES SHAPE — There's something new in building along New York's Malison Avenue. It's the city's first aluminum-faced skyscraper. The entire job of putting up the outside walls on the 26-storey skyscraper took only six-and-one-half working days, while ordinary brick-and-stone construction would have taken eight weeks. The prefabricated aluminum panels making up the facade of the building were carted from a Long Island plant to the site ready for installation. Left, workers start installation of the two-storey-high panels; at right, company officials look over a seven-foot model of the new building.

Expect Russia To Continue Steady Supply Military Material To China

BY MARGUERITE HIGGINS

HONG KONG, — The Soviet Union, which intervened in Korea far more directly than the Canadian public yet realizes, is scheduled to continue a steady flow of military and technical assistance to Communist China in spite of the Korean truce, according to information reaching western intelligence sources.

Concerning Korea, it can now be disclosed that Soviet citizens, including non-Oriental pilots, constituted at one juncture close to 50 per cent of the Communist Air Force which enngaged United Nations air power in battles near the Yalu River.

For reasons that have ultimately served only to help the Russians to cover up their aggressive actions, the UN has thus far confined itself to a passing reference, about a year ago, to the fact that "Russian-speaking" individuals were manning Mig-15 jet fighters in North Korea.

Actually, radio intercepts of pilot-to-ground conversations in the Yalu River area—exchanges which are easily monitored and recorded—established as early as January, 1951, that Soviet personnel were actively engaged in the Communist air effort.

Other intelligence sources have subsequently confirmed the fact through other channels. Since Russian dialects and accents vary considerably, there even exists a catalogue indicating what parts of the Soviet Union various Mig pilots hailed from.

TANK DRIVERS

Soviet citizens also served in Korea as tank drivers, artillery officers and in anti-aircraft battalions. The vast majority of the Communist ground troops in Korea were, of course, of Oriental extraction, but it is noteworthy that some were persons born and educated in Soviet territory.

If Japan, as an ally of the United States, should become involved in a war and if the United States were to send American soldiers of Japanese extraction—such as the Nisei troops of World War II—to fight in that war under the Japanese flag, then it would be following the Soviet pattern of sending Soviet citizens of Korean or Manchurian extraction to fight against the United Nations.

Actually, the Soviet Union keeps trained on Soviet soil a kind of foreign legion of various nationalities, including forcibly retained German, Yugoslav and Japanese prisoners taken in World War II.

SEND ANY PLACE

They are shock troops which the Russians can send to any place where it suits them to pretend that a given conflict is a civil war. The German troops, for example, would come in handy if the Russians should decide to initiate a Korean-type civil war between East and West Germany.

In spite of the fact that the Chinese Communist press has been talking since the spring about the imminece of a truce in Korea, there has been no drop in the tempo of the Soviet supply build-up by rail or by sea, although it currently is less, of course, than in the emergency build-up phase in 1950 and 1951 when the Chinese and North Korean air forces were being created.

As indicated by types of equipment and the categories of Russian training missions appearing in key areas of mainland China, the present pattern of Sino-Soviet supply seems to involve a conscious effort to round out Communist China's military capabilities—which in the air, for instance, has been limited to fighter forces — and to give greater striking power and versatility with use of the equipment the Chinese Reds already have.

It appears that the Chinese Communist jet and other fighter planes and medium bombers are destined to remain fairly static numerically, with the Russians providing replacements and spare parts.

The existing Red Chinese air force will be given a new potential by activation of an additional complex of airfields in South and Southwest China. The Mig forces in the base complex South of Shanghai, as at Nigpo and Hangkow, have been reinforced. Between Shanghai and Canton there now are about 250 Migs, at a minimum.

The Chinese Communists have activated recently an important group of airfields in the Southwest, near French Indo-China.

Communist China's air progress has been signifincantly aided by the recent transfer to a base South of Peking of a force of strategic bombers—the Soviet version of the American B-29 Superfortress. The presence in Central China of Soviet-style jet bombers also has been reported, but so far as is at present known none of the latest Soviet jet bombers have been permanently transferred to the Chinese government.

CHINESE NAVY

Now attention is being given to the Chinese Communist navy, and the Russians have been taking an increasing number of Chinese candidates into their naval training centres at Port Arthur and Dairen.

It has been reported persistently that a dozen Soviet submarines have been turned over to Red China, but Western intelligence is not yet prepared to accept this report without reservations, for one reason because it is a far more complicated job to train a submarine team than to train individual Mig pilots.

However, there is no reason to doubt that such a move is in the cards, as it is known that Chinese are being trained as submariners and that a number of Chinese ports, including Tsingtao, are capable now of handling submarine traffic.

It has been established that the Russians have in the Far East alone seven times as many submarines as were manned by Adolf Hitler's Germany when the Nazis were launching deadly undersea attacks in World War II.

SUPREME SOVIET MEETS — With Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov (arrow) listening to proceedings, Soviet Finance Minister A. G. Sverev addresses the meeting. Behind him are seated the Deputy Chairmen of the Soviet Council of Nationalities. It was during this meeting that Malenkov made the announcement that Russia had exploded her first hydrogen bomb.

Malenkov Speech Important To Foreign Policy Planners

By NED RUSSELL
(Special To The Examiner)

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Malenkov's speech before the Supreme Soviet last Saturday was an event of the most profound significance for the men who plot both the short-term and long-term lines of American foreign policy.

For the men who deal in the day-to-day manoeuvres of American-Soviet relations and who plan ahead for a few weeks or months, Mr. Malenkov's announcement that the United States no longer has a monopoly on the hydrogen bomb may have a shattering impact. It could easily upset many of their basic calculations, particularly regarding Germany and Western Europe.

But for the men who must think in terms ranging over the next decade or two, Mr. Malenkov's passages concerning the Soviet Union's domestic situation present a major challenge to the United States. It is now clear that Russia is on the long road to the position where it can challenge American influence in many areas of the world.

In these passages of Mr. Malenkov's speech, two things stood out. First, and probably most important, is the fact—accepted by some of this nation's best authorities on Russia—that the Soviet Union's Socialist industrial economy is functioning remarkably well and at an impressive pace.

Second, there was the lengthy and highly critical analysis of Russia's lagging agricultural development program. But perhaps even more important than the confession of failure regarding such fundamental Soviet concepts as collectivization was Mr. Malenkov's announcement of plans for overcoming this situation.

WOULD BOOST PROFITS

The "material interests" (profits) of collective farmers are to be increased. The heavy taxes levied on private "auxiliary" holdings are to be slashed as much as 50 per cent. Personal incentive, Mr. Malenkov said, in effect, is to be the rule from now on.

Thus, there seems to be a flexibility in Mr. Malenkov's attitude that is remarkable so soon after the death of Stalin.

But it was Mr. Malenkov's discussing of Russia's industrial progress and future plans which has made a profound impression on the long-term policy planners. Mr. Malenkov laid down in considerable detail a great deal of evidence to show what has been suspected for some time; the rate of growth of Russia's industrial power is plainly outstripping that of the Western powers—even including the United States. The policy of concentrating on heavy industry is paying off to such an extent that a considerable shift is now in order to provide more and better consumer goods and generally to improve living conditions for the hard-pressed Russians.

What does all this mean? Clearly, it means that the United States cannot look forward to a gradual diminution of its efforts to bolster and develop the economies of its allies and friends. It may well mean that the efforts of the post-war years to prevent Western Europe and the Middle East and Southeast Asia from falling under Communist domination will prove to have been cheap by comparison to the challenge that lies ahead.

This challenge is a serious one for the Eisenhower administration and for its successor, particularly if, as seems increasingly likely, World War III is going to be averted and the tension of the cold war is going to subside.

It is not difficult, for example, to imagine the extent to which Russia could impress visitors from countries of the Middle East, Africa, Southeast Asia and perhaps Latin America if they were admitted to the Soviet Union and were shown some of the achievements which have been made in a relatively short period of years. To be sure, these visitors would be much more impressed by the achievements of the United States or Britain or Germany. But that is not the problem here.

The masses of people in those countries are desperately hungry for economic progress. This is more important to them than the political and social freedom which they have never known. Thus, Russia seems to be moving at a remarkable rate to the point where it may become a "pole of attraction" competing directly with the United States.

At this mid-way point in the first year of the Eisenhower administration, the signs are unpleasantly clear that the United States is veering away from the Soviet challenge. The promise of lower taxes and less onerous and dangerous responsibilities throughout the world are not the answer to the problem.

Comedy Gets Premiere Next Week

Next Monday the North American premiere of "Will Any Gentleman?" opens at the Peterborough Summer Theatre. This play is one of the funniest English comedies of the modern stage. The author, the great English farce-writer Vernon Sylvaine, wrote last season's popular romp "One Wild Oat." He has concocted a number of situations that kept London in stitches for over two years, in "Will Any Gentleman?".

The opening of teh play is set in a suburban London Music Hall with a continental hypnotist called Mendoza in the middle of his act. During the act he hypnotizes a hen-pecked little bank clerk (a part hand-tailored for Ronald Bailey) and sends him out into the world no longer terrified by life and people and especially his mother-in-law.

FAST FUN

The little bank clerk, who had in fact sneaked off for his first visit to a Music Hall to celebrate his fiftieth birthday, after getting permission from his wife to attend a Rotary Club dinner, returns home a new man. From here on the fun and riotous situations are non-stop throughout the evening. In the words of the Punch critic, "The fun is fast, traditional, and outrageous, a gilt-edged farce!"

Also featured in the production are Harry Geldard, as the ne'er do well brother Charlie of the little bank clerk, David Powell as the ancient and decrepid Doctor Smith who endeavors to bring the little man back to his senses, and Margaret Braidwood in the double role of the wife and mother-in-law. Also in the cast are Robert Barclay at the hypnotist Mendoza, Barbara Cummings, Ron Gould, Charlotte Schrager, Peter McCombe, Sonia Donaldson, and Don Endicott. The production is directed by Michael Sadlier.

Four Injured As 2 Cars Crash On Highway 30

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Four persons were injured and three small children escaped unhurt when two cars collided at Bradley's Corners, an intersection on Highway 30 about seven miles south of this town on Thursday afternoon.

The accident occurred when a 1938 model car travelling east pulled out of the county road onto Highway 30, intending to go north into Campbellford. A 1953 model car with only 1,000 miles on its speedometer was travelling south and collided with the older car.

Driver of the southbound vehicle, J. Allard Little of Main St., Markham, received lacerations to the left side of his head, left elbow and both knees, as well as shock. Five-year-old Barry, riding on the front seat beside him was uninjured.

INJURIES SLIGHT

Mrs. Litle was X-rayed at Campbellford hospital, but her injuries, though painful, were found to be slight. She sustained a badly-bruised left ankle and right shoulder and shock. Three-year-old Dianne was riding in the rear seat of the car with her mother, but escaped injury.

Driver of the other car, Reg. Brohart of RR 4, Cobourg, suffered a cut left hand, body bruises and shock. Mrs. Lloyd Bohart, 17, a sister-in-law of the driver, who lives at the same address, received laceration to her scalp, abrasions to her left arm and possible internal injuries.

TO PETERBOROUGH

All the injured were taken to Campbellford hospital by car, and all but Mrs. Brohart were released after treatment. Mrs. Brohart suffered a relapse on Thursday evening and was taken to hospital in Peterborough by Bennett's ambulance of Campbellford. Her condition is reported today as fair.

Mrs. Brohart's 10-month-old daughter Irene was with her mother in the car but escaped without injury.

The occupants of the Brohart car were coming to Campbellford to visit friends when the accident occurred. The Little family were returning to their home in Markham after spending a short vacation in the district.

Damage to both vehicles was extensive. Provincial Constable George Rose of Campbellford investigated.

Eludes Police, Citizens Hour-Long Chase

TORONTO—A young housebreaker whose clumsiness got him into trouble Thursday proved swift enough to elude half-a-dozen policemen and eight citizens in an hour-long chase that wound up in the Exhibition grounds.

The housebreaker, described as about 20 years of age, gave himself away when he dropped a window screen from the attic of 184 Lansdowne Ave., the house he was apparently burgling. The screen missed, by something like six inches, Violet Aihers, whose parents rent the house. Miss Aihers looked up and saw a face beneath a brown, woolly head of hair peering at her from the window. She screamed.

While neighbors hurried to the scene and Mrs. Edward Aihers telephoned police, the visitor left by the way he had apparently come, across the flat roofs to the north. Then, as eight persons milled about the lawn, the housebreaker reached the ground, ran down Lansdowne to the house and jumped on a motor scooter.

Several neighbors tried to stop him, but he tore away. Two neighbors jumped into a car and gave chase. They followed him down Lansdowne to Seaforth Ave., along to O'Hara Ave., down to Queen St. W., and along to Dufferin St., where he went south to Liberty St.

Trapped by the pursuers, he left his scooter near a warehouse and ran through it to Fraser Ave. There, he sped through a factory yard and went down Fraser to the CNR tracks.

By this time, three police cars were catching up with the chase. The man was sighted two or three minutes later on the Exhibition grounds near the main fountain. But he hasn't been seen since.

What with all this activity, and on a hot day, too, it was hardly a profitable afternoon for the young criminal. Mrs. Aihers reported only $1.50 missing from the upstairs room. And the police, of course, confiscated the scooter.

British Industry Prepared For Its Greatest Air Show

By FRASER WIGHTON

FARNBOROUGH (Reuters) — Britain's booming aircraft industry opens its doors to the public next month with a display of new supersonic fighters and revolutionary jetliner projects.

Experts from all over the world will gather at this southern English airfield for the annual week-long show put on by the British Society of Aircraft Constructors.

They will watch a flight by the all-weather radar - equipped De Havilland 110, first two-seat fighter to fly through the sound barrier, which now is under development for the British Navy.

Test pilot John Derry, his observer and 25 onlookers were killed at last year's show when a twin-jet DH-110 disintegrated in mid-air above 130,000 spectators watching it dive from 40,000 feet.

Other fighters scheduled to go through their paces at Farnborough, 30 miles south of London, are the latest versions of the Hawker Hunter and record-breaking Supermarine Swift. Both fly at supersonic speeds.

Flights will also be made by Britain's three V-wing jet bombers, the swept-wing Valiant, Delta-wing Vulcan and crescent-wing Victor. Civil versions of two of these bomber types, with cruising speeds at between 550 and 600 miles an hour are planned by the industry.

British progress on rockets and other guided missiles will be on show to experts at Farnborough before the public is allowed through the turnstiles.

They will also see the latest developments of Britain's three jet-engine airliners now in big demand on world markets—the jet Comet, prop-jet Viscount and prop - jet Britannia.

The Britannia, which with the Comet will inaugurate British round-the-globe air services by northern and southern routes, will fly with a new engine, the powerful Bristol Proteus 313.

The British industry is going through the biggest boom period in its peacetime history. Exports in June were worth more than $19,600,000—a record. Exports so far this year total more than $96,800,000 and the industry hopes to set up a record by December.

Orders on the books for jet-engined airliners are worth $72,800,000. These are made up of 22 Comets, 40 Viscounts and six Britannias.

There are 100 potential orders for Comets alone. The industry's big problem is not finding buyers but getting scarce raw materials in sufficient quantity to meet the demand quickly. At present there are long backlogs of orders—and many airline operators cannot afford to wait.

Cottesloe WMS Plans Bake Sale For Fund

COTTESLOE (ENS). — August meeting of the Cottesloe WMS is taken each year by its associate members, and was held recently at the home of Mrs. Percy Ivey. Mrs. John Gallaher, president of the WMS, was in charge of the worship service, which was taken from the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. J. Thompson read the meditation, and prayer was given by Mrs. J. Kidd. Little Karen Ivey received the WMS offering and Mrs. William Forsyth dedicated it.

The secretary of the associate members, Mrs. Charles McMillan, then took charge and read the books of the Bible written in verse. Mrs. Thomas Webster gave a reading. Mrs. McMillan took the topic and gave a short account of the meeting of the Dominion Board, as given in the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. Elmer Metcalfe read some highlights of the address of the president of the Dominion Board. Mrs. Forsyth led in prayer.

At the business meeting which followed, Mrs. George Webster was appointed to purchase flannelette, so that sewing may be begun on the layettes early in the fall.

Mrs. J. Kidd and Mrs. Fred Girven, assisted by Mrs. Ivey, served lunch.

It was decided during the lunch hour that a bake sale would be held August 22 at Crowes Landing in aid of the building fund. A travelling basket is to be brought to each meeting henceforth, the proceeds of which will go to the building fund.

Both Sides Make Charges Of Prisoners Held Back

PANMUNJOM (CP) — Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., the third Canadian to be released under the armistice, and 405 other Allied troops including 84 Americans rode eagerly from Red captivity today, but the Korean prisoner exchange was shadowed by angry charges of prisoner holdouts on both sides.

Rothwell, 27, a member of the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, was captured Oct. 23, 1952. A Second World War veteran, he is the husband of Mrs. Marion Rothwell, who lives in Dundas.

Rothwell and eight American repatriates were classed as sick and wounded. None was a litter case.

The first Canadian to be released was Cpl. Joseph Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., who was freed in the first prisoner exchange Aug. 4. He arrived in Vancouver early today, on his way home by commercial plane from Tokyo.

The second Canadian, Gunner Orval Jenkins of Toronto and Hamilton, was released Sunday. He is in Tokyo where he will stay for a few days before flying home.

The UN command asked the Communists officially today if the Reds plan to hold back any Allied prisoners "sentenced to confinement for any reason" from the prisoner exchange.

The UN made its first official demand for an answer in a meeting of the joint UN-Red repatriation commission at Panmunjom.

The Reds gave no immediate answer.

Col. Lucius C. Friedersdorff, chief Allied representative, asked confirmation that the Reds would send back all prisoners who insist on repatriation.

MAKE ACCUSATIONS

Both the Reds and the UN accused each other of holding back prisoners entitled to go home.

On the Allied side, there was an apparent conflict between Korean and Washington sources whether all eligible Chinese PoWs already had been freed.

Returning Allied PoWs have said some left behind were jailed on phony charges. There has been no official report of the number.

U. S. State Secretary Dulles warned the Reds to send back every Allied prisoner and threatened to hold back some Communist PoWs as a safeguard against any Red holdouts.

The Reds' Peiping radio in turn charged Dulles with "blackmail" and accused the Allies of illegally holding out 120 Chinese. Peiping said it has a right under the Geneva Convention to hold back any Allied prisoners charged with an "indictable offence."

But the U.S. state department denied the Red charge and said the truce agreement specified that all PoWs who want to return must be sent back with no exceptions.

The tense debate was snarled further by conflicting reports whether all Chinese who want to go home have been returned to the Reds at Panmunjom.

The UN command said Thursday that its shipment of 222 Chinese that day was the last delivery of 5,495 Chinese scheduled to return.

However, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens stepped from his plane in Washington after a Korean visit and said 250 Chinese Reds involved in crimes during their captivity might be held back. He said he understood that not all eligible Chinese PoWs had been repatriated.

Asked to explain the apparent conflict, a UN spokesman said the PoW situation and all related matters have been reported to "high authority in Washington."

He said any comment would have to come from Washington.

Meanwhile, more Americans repatriated in the early days of the exchange started for the United States and home.

A plane with 11 American repatriates aboard stopped for the night in Honolulu on the trip from

East And West Meeting In Grid Exhibition

MONTREAL (CP)—East meets West tonight in what has been termed the hottest grid plate ever offered Montrealers.

And a flock of this city's football fans—some estimates range as high as 20,000—will turn out to savor the offering as Montreal Alouettes meet Saskatchewan Roughriders in a pre-schedule exhibition tilt that may be the forerunner of a regular interlocking series.

Both clubs finished out of the running last year in their respective playoffs. Alouettes won only two games on their schedule and Saskatchewan three. However, some sideline observers see in the impressive lineups of both entries possible Grey Cup opponents come November.

DUE BY PLANE

The Saskatchewan entry, led by playing coach Frankie Filchock who has seen service with Montreal, Hamilton and Edmonton, was due here early today by plane.

The visiting contingent includes Glenn Dobbs, Bob Marlow, Mac Speedie, Whitey King, Ray Collins, Martin Ruby, Jim Carson and others considered by Reginans as contributing to its best all-round team in history.

Coach Doug Walker of the Als will offer 13 imports and four American players now considered Canadians. He will be minus two of his better pre-schedule prospects. Zippy Morocco of Georgia has answered a U.S. Army draft call and Chuck Hunsinger, late of Chicago Bears, is nursing a bad ankle.

Belleville Ladies Capture Triples

STIRLING (ENS). — At the Ladies' Triple Bowling Tournament held here Wednesday afternoon and evening the Belleville ladies captured the majority of the prizes. For three wins Mrs. R. Gerow's rink of Belleville won first with a score of 42 plus 2, and Mrs. M. O'Connor's rink second with a score of 41 plus 1. For two wins the prize went to Mrs. T. Mott's rink of Belleville with a score of 39 plus 15, and Mrs. Walter Elliott's rink of Stirling took the prize for one win with a score of 32 plus 2.

Eleven rinks participated, composed of rinks from Belleville, Campbellford, Brighton and Stirling.

Tokyo to Travis air force base near San Francisco. All but one were sick or wounded.

An earlier plane, bearing 17 seriously ill repatriates, landed at Travis Wednesday morning.

At the South Korean port of Inchon, 303 Americans boarded the transport Gen. W. F. Hase for San Francisco or Seattle. It was scheduled to sail by Saturday.

The transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker left Inchon Tuesday with 328 repatriates for the two-week trip to San Francisco.

Fifty more Americans are scheduled to be freed at Panmunjom in Saturday's exchange, along with 50 Britons and 300 South Koreans.

THE OLD RUT—Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox crosses home plate at Boston after slamming his first home run on his first hit since his return from Marine duty in Korea. It was homer number 325 in Williams' major league career. But the Cleveland Indians won it anyway, 9-3.

Ottawa Team Flies To West

OTTAWA (CP) — A revamped Ottawa Rough Rider team of 36 players, still carrying 12 imports, embarked in three planes Thursday for exhibition football games in the west.

At Winnipeg's new Civic Stadium Winnipeg Blue Bombers were planning to fete the Riders Friday and clobber them Saturday. Monday the Ottawa club takes on Edmonton Eskimos.

With a wealth of new talent and a better-conditioned team than in previous years, coach Clem Crowe expects tough opposition in the west.

Six United States imports will be playing their first game of Canadian football. Four others are Rider hold-overs from last year and two are former Calgary men—Dave Anderson, quarterback, and Paul Salata, end.

Topping the import list is big John Kissell, star tackle with Cleveland Browns last year.

Polio Crowds Hospital

HAMILTON (CP) — Medical superintendent Dr. J. B. Neilson told board of control Thursday that accommodation at the General Hospital here is being seriously taxed by polio patients and patients from outlying districts are being directed to other hospitals. He said there are 54 polio patients in the hospital. Some victims from outlying districts had been sent to Welland, Simcoe and Niagara Falls, but Hamilton could not refuse them all.

P.G. & C.C. CHIP SHOTS

In a close match before a good-sized gallery on Sunday, Les Reid successfully defended his club championship by defeating Jim Clarkson 3 and 1 over 36 holes. At the end of the first 18 holes Les was one up. Jim squared the match at the 29th hole. Les then won the 30th and 31st holes to go two up but on the next one Jim hit the pin on his second shot and he conceded the hole. One down with four holes to go, Jim really uncorked a long drive on the 33rd and, when Les missed his, it looked as though Jim might come on and win it. However, Les wasn't giving up that easy and stood up and socked a spoon that shot 10 feet from the pin. They halved the hole with par fours. Les won the 34th with a par to go two up and halved the 35th to close out the match. The spoon shot on the 33rd hole was the one that won the match for Les. It seemed to unnerve Jim and he didn't play a good shot after that.

FAIRLY GOOD

For a championship match the scores were fairly good but it was obvious that both players were keyed up and were playing each shot very carefully. Jim's short game was off but both boys were really hitting them off the tees. Some of their drives were well over 260 yards, with Jim's drive on the 33rd being the longest. It was a very interesting match to watch and the gallery enjoyed it.

Les, in winning the club championship, earned the right to play the Kawartha champion in a 36-hole match for the city championship. This match will be played after a championship is declared at Kawartha and suitable arrangements are made. Congratulations, Les, and good luck in the big one.

OTHER NOTES

Did you know that we have two champs at the Peterborough Club? Well, we have. None other than Milf Hardill. By defeating W. A. McEvoy 5 and 4, Milf won the championship for men over 50 years, and also took possession of the Stratton Trophy. He really earned it, too. Milf shot an 81 in the final. Nice going, Milf. Shooting that kind of golf we wouldn't be surprised to see you batting it out with the younger fellows next year.

In the Hulbert Memorial Field Day, Jack Hardill won low gross and a trip to Lambton to compete in the pro-amateur matches by shooting a terrific 73. Len, however, won the trip for the second flight players with an 82. It's good to see you breaking 100 again, Len.

LADIES' SECTION

Ladies' field day was played Thursday. The competitions were low gross and tied by Mrs. H. Baptie and Mrs. S. McBride. Low net was won by Mrs. H. Bletcher and second tied by Mrs. S. Pearson and Mrs. McBride.

This week's field day was the honeypot competition, won by Mrs. A. Lamers. Mrs. H. Baptie had low gross and tied with Mrs. Pearson for low net. Second low net was won by Mrs. McBride.

All the ladies took part in the pro's competition this week and the pro distributed a neat array of prizes. In the silver division, Mrs. H. Baptie, Mrs. S. Williamson and Mrs. C. Selkirk won. In the bronze, it was Miss G. Mortimer, Mrs. S. Pearson, Mrs. Dit Clapper, Mrs. S. McBride, Mrs. C. R. Stacey, Mrs. L. Lawrence and Mrs. O. M. Steer.

In the nine-hole section, winners were Mrs. G. Sheedy, Mrs. C. L. Upper and Mrs. H. Inman. The lucky draw was won by Mrs. Clapper.

HIYO, SILVER — You'd never know it, but this is Harvey Kuenn sliding home in a cloud of dust. The Detroit shortstop was safe. The camouflage would fool any catcher.

Jockey Strike Now Averted

TORONTO (CP)—A threatened strike of jockeys scheduled to ride at the fall meeting at the Long Branch race track opening today was averted Thursday at a meeting between the Ontario racing commission and representatives of the Jockeys Benefit Association of Canada.

The dispute arose over the $50 fine imposed by stewards at the Fort Erie race track on apprentice jockey George Duprey. Duprey rode Mrs. G. McMakin's Kandi Kid in the fifth race at Fort Erie last Saturday and was fined, said the stewards, for allowing his mount to drift out during the running of the race.

The jockeys association viewed a film of the race and, deciding that the apprentice rider was not guilty of the offence, took action on his behalf.

A settlement was reached when the commission decided to view the film this Saturday with the jockeys agreeing to abide by its decision.

17 Canoe Teams In International Classic

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que., (CP)—One of Canada's unique and most colorful sporting events—the International Canoe Classic—will start Saturday at Latuque, 200 miles northeast of Montreal.

Seventeen two-man canoe teams are entered in the 100-mile dash down the treacherous St. Maurice river, from Latuque to Shawinigan Falls.

Most contestants are bush workers from the St. Maurice region but included in the competition are Irvin Peterson and Wayne Carlson of Minneapolis and John Hanley and Laurent Bernier of Longueuil, near Montreal.

The classic, run in two stretches on the turbulent St. Maurice, is considered the only race of its kind in the world as it demands not only speed, strength and endurance but true navigational skill. The river is full of rapids, eddies, and drifting logs.

Seixas Makes Spurt, Defeats Mervyn Rose

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas came from behind in a gruelling battle to defeat Australia's Mervyn Rose 3-6, 6-2, 13-15, 6-3, 6-2 Thursday and gain the semi-final round of the Newport invitation tennis tournament.

In the other quarter-final, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, the United States No. 2 hope, outstroked Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-0, 6-3, 6-8, 4-6, 6-3.

Both Seixas, a Philadelphian, and Rose were off their games at times and in the end it was the Australian who had the most trouble. Rose, a left-hander rated No. 1 in Australia, slammed his racket to the turf in disgust several times.

Turpin, Olson Matched For Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Randy Turpin and Carl (Bobo) Olson were matched Thursday for a 15-round world middleweight title bout, Wednesday, Oct. 21 at Madison Square Garden with New York blacked out on home television.

The huge New York market area has gone without TV of other important fights that were carried only on theatre TV but this is the first time the big town will miss a battle that other sections of the country will watch at home for free.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Harry Markson, his managing director, have been negotiating for over two months to land the bout.

From the start there have been differences about the site. Sid Flaherty, manager of Olson, held out for San Francisco where the transplanted Hawaiian now lives. George Middleton, Turpin's manager, balked at taking the British champion anywhere except New York.

Markson, announcing the bout for Norris, said the fighters agreed to a 30-30 split of "everything" including the TV receipts, believed to be around $40,000.

WORLD TROTTING RECORD

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Rowe, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Dufferin Simcoe, set a world record for trotting horses at Thorncliffe Raceway Thursday.

Driving his two mares, Celia's Counsel and Volo Van, in a race against the clock, Rowe circled Thorncliffe's half-mile track twice in 2:07.4 to break a record that has stood since 1918.

This trotting team hitched to a pole eclipsed by almost three seconds a mark set by Roy Miller of Syracuse 35 years ago.

Threatening to share honors with Rowe's pair was another remarkable mare, five-year-old Ruth Chips which won both halves of a $2,000 purse in the feature of Thorncliffe's getaway day program. Ruth Chips, owned by E. Barnes of Ailsa Craig, took the first heat in 2:07, pacing from the No. 2 spot position, and then, remarkably, came through in the second heat from the outside in 2:06.1, the fastest she has ever paced.

Jack Mehlenbacher was loaded with largesse for proving the leading driver of the 34-day meet. The wintertime NHL referee from Hagersville totalled 152 points with 30 victories, 20 seconds and 22 thirds based on a system of three points for win, two for second and one for third. Mehlenbacher won the Carling trophy and a lump of cash, among other gifts.

SUSPENDS LOLLAR

CHICAGO (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League Thursday disciplined two Chicago White Sox players for their conduct after a close decision Wednesday night in Cleveland.

Sherman Lollar, catcher, was suspended indefinitely pending receipt of umpires' reports of the incident. Lollar's battery mate, Gene Bearden, was fined $100.

Both players got into an argument with umpire Joe Papparella after he had called Bob Avila, Cleveland second baseman, safe at home plate in the seventh inning. Cleveland won the game 7-4.

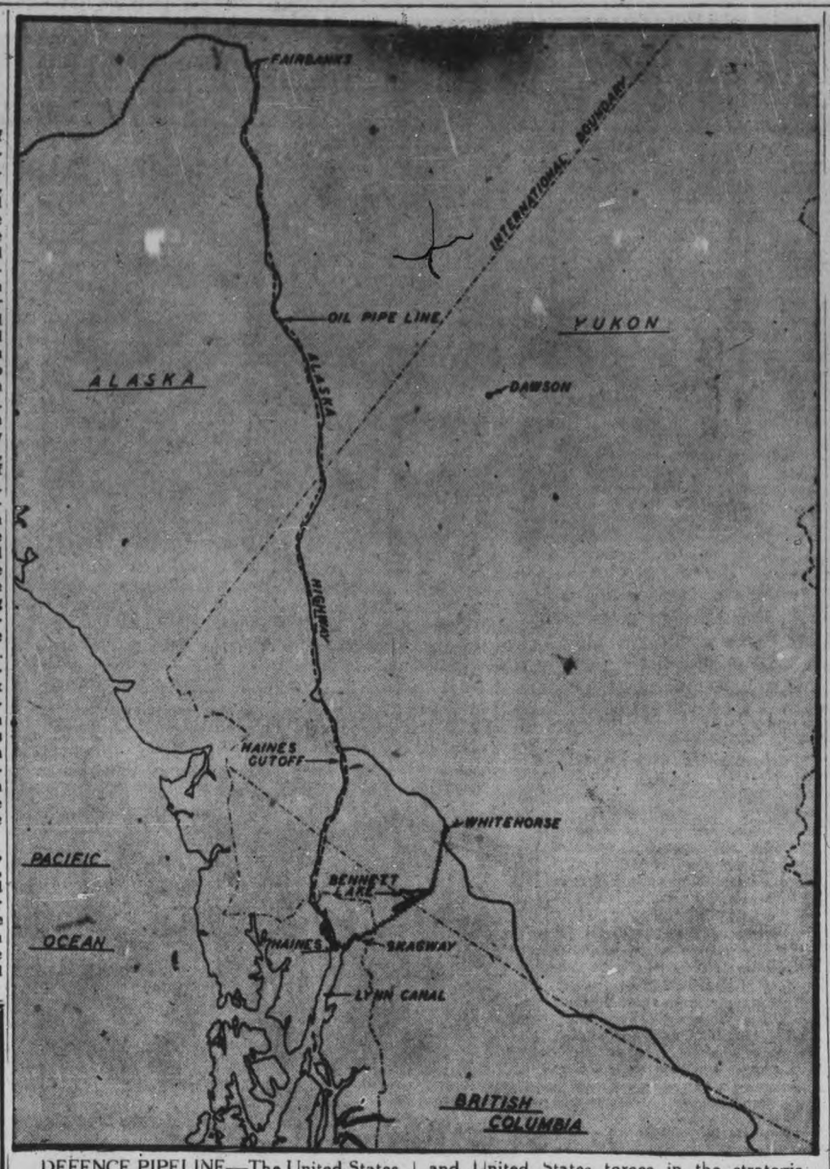
Antarctic Vast Area Of Unexplored Ice Wastes

WASHINGTON—A frigid land mass, virtually devoid of life, draped with an ice cap hundreds of feet thick, and cut off from the rest of the world by icy seas—that is Antarctica, the last continent, explored by at least a dozen nations and claimed, in part, by eight of them.

Antarctica is as large as Europe and Australia combined. Averaging 6,000 feet, it is higher above the sea than any other continent. In the centre is the South Pole, on a plateau 9,800 feet above sea level.

Whales and seals are the only mammals indigenous to the frozen waste. Together with penguins and a few other species of birds, they inhabit the fringe areas. Away from the sea there is no life. In the heart of this vast Sahara of dry, powdered snow, ice, and intense cold, not even bacteria can develop.

Captain James Cook, a Yorkshireman, made the first crossing of the Antarctic Circle, on January 17, 1773, but it was not until 1895 that man first set foot on the white continent. The South Pole was not reached until 1912. Amundsen, Shackleton, Scott, Byrd, Ellsworth and other twentieth century explorers have mapped much of Antarctica's estimated 5,250,000 square miles, including the Pole itself and virtually the entire 16,000-mile perimeter.



Although the United States has sponsored a number of expeditions to Antarctica, it has never pressed any claims to the lands at the bottom of the world. England, France, Norway, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Chile and Russia have staked claims.

Antarctica is shaped like a huge, round white cake with triangular pieces cut out on two opposite sides. The indentation south of the Atlantic Ocean is the Weddell Sea, long a base for whalers. The other, south of New Zealand, is the Ross Sea. Here Admiral Richard E. Byrd founded Little America, base camp for his three expeditions in 1929, 1934 and 1947. Only segment of the continent which is not entirely within the Antarctic Circle is Palmer Peninsula, a jagged finger of land 800 miles long projecting toward South America. The peninsula bears some resemblance to northern Norway's coastline in winter. Peaks rise to 16,000 feet. Great glaciers flow down from the central highland into narrow fjords. Unlike Norway, however, Palmer Peninsula has no Gulf Stream drift to warm its shores.

Away from the coastline, Antarctica is a high plateau, broken only by mountain ranges and the ridges and furrows of packed snow driven by the wind, like ripples left on a beach after the tide has receded. Surrounding the Pole there is an almost permanent area of high atmospheric pressure, caused by intense cold.

At the Pole the sun is constantly above the horizon for six months, and there is more sunlight than England receives in a year. During the other six months there is constant night. Even in the Antarctic summer, the temperature rarely rises more than a few degrees above zero near the Pole. In winter, the temperature may be the lowest on earth.

Unlike its Arctic counterpart, which has an oceanic climate, Antarctica's climate is continental and thus subject to much greater extremes. Antarctic temperature averages 40 degrees colder than the Arctic the year around. The winds are the most constant and violent in the world.

DEFENCE PIPELINE—The United States Army will build a $40,000,000 fuel pipeline from Haines to Fairbanks, Alaska, passing through British Columbia and the Yukon. The 610-mile pipeline will feed Canadian and United States forces in the strategic area where Russia is only a few hours flying time away. The broken line shows the route of the pipeline following the Alaska Highway.

Won't Attempt Weber Return

MILWAUKEE (CP)—Deputy district attorney Joseph Tierney said Thursday no attempt will be made to return Gordon E. Weber, 40, from Los Angeles where he told police he burned the body of his father-in-law after the older man was killed during an altercation in 1949.

Weber, formerly of Kitchener, Ont., was questioned in Los Angeles by Milwaukee detectives who report that he told a rambling, confused story.

Weber first told police Rudolph Maier, 69, was fatally injured during a fight in a Milwaukee railroad station and that he burned the body on a city dump. Later he revised the story and said he killed Maier in a Guelph, Ont., hotel room and buried his body on a Kitchener golf course.

Authorities in both Canada and Milwaukee have been unable to uncover evidence to support his claims.

Tierney said new information will have to be uncovered before the district attorney's office would seek to have Weber returned here.

Bicyclists To Be Brought To Court

"We've finished telling them," PC William G. Scott commented this morning as he reported that eight bicyclists will be summoned to court on charges of riding without a light at night.

One man involved, between 20 and 25 years of age, told the officer when stopped he had never heard of the regulation that a bicycle must carry a light at night. Thinking it a new law he protested he hadn't read of it in the newspaper.

The regulation is, in fact, one of the first sections of the Highway Traffic Act.

Canada-U.S. Money In Pocket Following Co-operation On Salmon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada and the United States are money in pocket because they decided to co-operate where salmon are concerned.

The value of the Fraser river salmon run has increased by some $6,000,000 since 1949, because of the construction of the Hell's Gate fish ladders.

Before the ladders were constructed in 1945 the once-mighty yield from the waters of the Fraser had been reduced to only a small fraction of the record 2,400,000 cases packed in 1913.

In that year the walls of the river canyon collapsed. Four years later, when the next run went up the river, the pack slipped to only 133,000 cases.

In contrast, Canadian and American boats so far this year have taken 3,521,000 sockeye fish, or 320,000 cases. This figure may reach 400,000 cases before the season ends.

NOTE DIFFERENCE

In 1949 the sockeye pack was half of this or 181,000 cases. At the current price of $38 a case in the United States and $33 in Canada, this means Canada will show an increase of some $2,500,000 over the 1949 figure.

In 1951 the total catch was more than $8,000,000 ahead of the previous run in 1947 and last year the run was almost $3,000,000 ahead of 1948. It must be remembered in these calculations that the fish have regular and periodic treks into inland waters such as the Fraser.

Statistics show that the increase in the last three years has covered the cost of the Hell's Gate ladders—the mechanism installed in the stream to allow the salmon to climb to their ancestral spawning grounds.

The profit also covers the operation of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, a body which regulates the fishing on both sides of the border. Regulations of the commission, coupled with the ladders which enable the sockeye to get through the Fraser canyon, are the important factors in the return of sockeye gold.

Ottawa Man Killed In Plane Crash

BLYTH, Ont. (CP)—Flight Cadet Ronald Bryan Falls of Ottawa was killed Thursday when the RCAF Harvard training plane he was piloting crashed in a field near this village 25 miles northwest of Stratford.

The plane was seen circling the village about noon when eyewitnesses said it seemed to somersault before the engine stopped. In a forced landing the craft from the RCAF station at Centralia became entangled in a wire fence which tore off one wing.

The plane bumped along for about 500 feet and then exploded. Debris was scattered over an area of 50 feet by 100 yards in a field on the farm of Ed McMillan, about 1¼ miles east of here.

Hope For Peace Depends On World Living Standards

TORONTO (CP)—There is no hope for world peace unless people all over the world have a reasonable standard of living, Mrs. D. B. Sinclair of the department of national health and welfare, Ottawa, said Thursday.

Speaking at a round table discussion on technical assistance programs at the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Sinclair said programs are hampered by lack of funds, but one example of what can be done is the Colombo Plan.

Dr. K. Nimbkar said sending trained personnel to India means the creation of a need for special equipment. Such equipment must be adapted to the special needs of the land to which it is sent.

Members said that to make a technical assistance program of value, rural women should appeal to their governments for the sort of thing they need and want. They also said the most urgent need is for a program of education since there is a great deal of illiteracy in the world.

Discussing the education of rural youth at another round table session, Mrs. D. Moysted of Norway said ignorance and isolation are two factors which create fright, and fright in turn creates aggression.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beeson of UNESCO said only half the peoples of the world can read and write.

"We must agree we have a responsibility towards these," she said, "and seriously consider the UNESCO program and how we can contribute to it."

A U. S. delegate said foreigners are absorbing too much ballyhoo about America, Mrs. Gertrude Warren said money doesn't grow on trees in the U. S. and homes aren't all designed in Hollywood.

"It is amazing how little is known about the rural American way of life," she added.

Mrs. A. M. Berry of Australia said correspondence schools and hostels for country children near central high schools have been effective in her country.

Delegates agreed that with closer co-operation with UNESCO and other UN groups, the ACWW can help illiterate children throughout the world.

At another session, Mrs. Matilda Gross of Cairo, Egypt, said too many westerners think money is the solution to all the problems of needy countries. Just as important, she said, are friendship and understanding of the differences between Western and Eastern philosophies of life.

The 12-day conference continues today with business sessions.

Short Wed. Gown Popular

NEW YORK—Rosette Pennington is famed for a lot of things, not least of which are all the beautiful bridal gowns that are to be had there. The collection for this fall and winter is as romantic as brides and weddings and gives off all the excitement and beauty that go with them.

The short wedding gown is becoming more and more popular. Because the informal wedding is just as important an occasion to the bride as a more suptuous one. Rosette Pennington has done "little wedding dresses" in the same elegant fabrics and with the same exquisite details that are found in formal wedding gowns. Heavy Italian silk satin makes a waltz-length gown with tiny petal-cuts underfaced with net strewn over the bodice. Pink muguet-de-bois are spaced on white satin for a very simple ballerina gown, worn with a pale-pink. Steel tones of blue satin make another dress of very simple line, with a pale blue veil. The young and different look of color on a bride is new and very flattering.

Formal gowns are more regal and elegant than ever, and more simple and austere of line. Heavy de-lustred Italian satin makes a gown with a Renaissance look, which trails a leafy vine of self-applique along the neckline and over the skirt. Self-ruching also edges and scrolls many gowns, simple enough to wear with an heirloom lace veil.

Portrait necklines are still very important, but are not too bare. Most sleeves are long and pointed, and bodices are close and curving. Bridesmaid's dresses are now functional as well as integrated with the bride's attire. Sage-green taffeta is used in a short dress with a full skirt, and elbow-length sleeves which tie in tiny bows up the seam. It could make an appearance at cocktail parties afterward with perfect ease.

Of the long bridesmaids' gowns, a mauve taffeta is striking. The strapless bodice is wrapped with a circular stole of purpose velvet which drapes into a chin-high cowl, a new look reminiscent of medieval days. With the stole off, you have a smart dance dress. With all the beautiful workmanship, elegant fabric, and functional design that characterize these gowns, a bride should be able to turn out a memorable wedding party.

Fairview Friends Honor Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Milburn, a recent bride and bridegroom, were honored at their home when their neighbours and friends of the Fairview community gathered to honor them on the occasion of their marriage.

A lovely poetical address which was composed by Mrs. Gerald Harrison was read by Harold Lewis and a lovely wall mirror was presented by Mrs. Everett Cockburn and Mrs. Clarence Mann. Both bride and groom expressed their sincere appreciation for the lovely gift.

Games were enjoyed on the lawn and a number of tables of cards, crokinole and Chinese checkers were played.

Those responsible for the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cockburn and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis.

Mrs. Milburn was the former Miss Amy Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Curtis, of Peterborough.

Lunch was served.

Pearl Morgan Wed At Edmonton

St. Stephen's College Chapel, Edmonton, was the scene of a double ring ceremony recently when Reverend D. J. C. Elson united in marriage Miss Pearl R. Morgan of Peterborough, Ontario, and Mr. Donald J. Motherwell of Edmonton, Alberta.

For her wedding the bride chose a strapless dress of pink Chantilly lace over taffeta with matching jacket buttoned to the neckline. She wore a pink lace model hat with matching shoes and gloves. Her shoulder bouquet was of white gardenias and stephanotis.

She was attended by Mrs. J. L. Reid, sister of the groom, who wore a gown of slate blue with black and white accesories. Her corsage was of pink carnations and stephanotis.

The groom's brother, Mr. Kenneth T. Motherwell, was groomsman.

The groom's mother, Mrs. T. J. Motherwell, of Punnichy, Saskatchewan, selected a powder blue afternoon dress with navy accessories. Her corscage was of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Calgary, Banff and Jasper the bride donned a navy and white suit with matching hat and bag. Mr. and Mrs. Motherwell will make their home in Edmonton.

Suggests Exchange Bureau As Aid To Rural Women

TORONTO—The great majority of women of the world are not only rural women, but rural women living in the less developed areas, and their lot is hard, Dr. Frank R. Scott, of McGill University, said in one of the round-table conferences of the Associated Country Women of the World at the Royal York Hotel Thursday.

Dr. Scott was technical assistance representative for the UN in Burma, co-ordinating programs of all agencies.

"These women are overburdened with manual work and continually threatened by disease and early death," he said. "While it would be wrong to suppose that such lives are devoid of happiness, there is much needless suffering that can be eliminated by welfare measures."

It was agreed that all programs that improve economic conditions and introduce better methods for health, nutrition and education are of direct advantage to the women.

Social programs are being sponsored to some degree by all governments and by technical assistance program of the United Nations. The pace of progress depends upon public opinion which women can influence as well as men, Dr. Scott declared.

Apart from governments and the UN "there is an open field for voluntary endeavour. Women's Institutes are doing a great deal to improve the lot of rural women and the more these are related to other programs in these countries, the more effective they will be. Proposals to bring women from less-developed countries, for training in more advanced countries have much to recommend them," he said.

An exchange bureau, where information about all countries could be made available, was suggested by Mrs. Matilda Greiss, of Cairo, Egypt.

"We want to know what goes on in Ceylon, India, and all countries," she said, after a number of British and U.S.A. delegates had told of work in their respective countries.

"It must be two-way traffic," said Lady Coomaraswamy, of Ceylon. "We need experienced extension workers from well organized countries to go out and help lesser developed countries organize—we also want to bring people from these countries to observe."

Mrs. Omura, of Yokohama, an observer for Japan, which does not yet have an ACWW organization, told through her interpreter, Prof. Tsune Shirai of Tokyo Women's Christian College (at present studying at the University of Toronto), of what is being done by the rural women of her prefecture, in collaboration with the government, for the improvement of rural conditions.

She mentioned especially the improvement of kitchen facilities, including burners to cut down on fuel. Already they have saved two-thirds of what they used to burn, she said. People realize the necessity for this, she said, when cutting of so many trees resulted in devastating floods.

Every prefecture now has its home advisers who go out on bicycles to instruct farmers' wives in home economics, "because the Japanese women are too busy to attend meetings." This spring, for the first time, a conference of rural women was held, said Mrs. Omura. She invited the ACWW to visit Japan, "to see what we are doing."

Good Skin Yours With Care

One frequently-repeated wail is "Why wasn't I born with a perfect skin?" But you were. Somewhere along the road to womanhood you mislaid it, and because skin-beauty is so necessary to your loveliness it is the first subject for any beauty school.

It's vitally important to realize that skins are not simply hold-alls into which we are packed until we bulge in varying degrees. Skin is a living organ playing a major part in keeping our temperatures level by allowing perspiration to evoporate, ridding us of impurities and defending us against certain infections.

The surface is shed continually and renewed from below, and it's here that we can help ourselves to skin health and beauty.

Thorough cleansing with a mild soap, plus a suitable cleansing cream and gentle stimulation with a compexion brush or glove can work miracles for us all. But it will do most for sallow or oily folk.

USE RIGHT CLEANSER

Cream should be used if you have dry or normal skins, liquifying cleansers if oily. Either should be massaged into your face, after make-up and surface grime have been removed. In this way the cream is able to loosen dirt and grit which has penetrated deeply into your pores.

Open pores are generally clogged pores; exterior dirt and internal oil, generally a combination of the two, will cause any skin to coarsen. This is why adolescents whose oil glands are often over-active have a far more difficult task than drier-skinned women. Not only has cleansing to be more frequent, but diet must be watched carefully with make-up well chosen and sparingly used.

WATCH THE DIET

Turn a deaf ear to the call of the chocolate box, to all fried foods and rich, sticky snacks. If that sounds spartan, remember the reward in health, digestion and looks is tremendous—and will be noticeable in a matter of weeks if you are conscientious.

Be a "nature girl" and take as much water, fruit or fruit juice and greenery as you can tolerate. Raw salads are a good habit. Though these diet suggestions are made here primarily for correcting oiliness, they are basic rules for health.

Those of you who neglected adolescent oiliness probably suffer still from coarse pores, though your skins may have dried considerably over the years. The same cleansing rules apply in your case, but a light application of cold cream or skin food will counteract the over-drying action of frequent soapings.

As a rule, however, dry skins are fine skins, too, and need very gentle treatment if they are not to develop patches of "broken veins". They need constant protection against sun, wind and cold weather.

DOROTHY DIX:

Complete Your Education Before Going To The Altar

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 15 and going steady with a wonderful boy the same age. I know I love him, and that we are meant for each other. Do you think we are in love in a grown-up way? We're both sure of it. My family will soon be moving to the suburbs and this means I won't see him so often. This is breaking our hearts. Do you think we will still stay in love, even though separated?

PATSY

DISTANCE LENDS ENCHANTMENT

ANSWER: Whether or not you are in love in a "grown-up" way, only time will tell. Grown-up, or mature, love is something that even many adults never realize. You're a couple of lucky youngsters if you feel that you already have attained this wonderful goal. Certainly, if you sincerely love each other, distance won't lessen the feeling. After all, there are mailmen who will carry letters for you. Stick to your resolution to complete your respective educations, then see how well your love has survived.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Until I was 17, I never had a date. I was too bashful. Then I met Bob, and fell in love with him. We went steady for six months and then he went into the Navy. We agreed to postpone marriage until he came out. While he was away I dated other boys, but still loved Bob. He's been in service three years, and I still love him, though my sisters say it's impossible. He knows of my dates and he goes on dates, too.

BEVERLY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have handled a difficult phase of modern life very well, and don't let anyone discourage you about your actions or feelings. Where a long separation is involved between two young people, it's much better to postpone permanent commitments until the waiting period is over.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a housewife with two small children. We are a very happy family. However, when my husband is late coming home from work, I am almost in tears from being lonesome. His business takes him away for two weeks a year, and I almost go out of my mind while he's away. The children keep me busy but I still can't be happy while my husband is gone.

L.O.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: What you need is a little growing up. Your so-called loneliness is just a manifestation of the childish desire to possess completely everything in sight. Your man has a living to earn, and four mouths to feed! Do you expect him to spend twenty-four hours a day at your feet? I hope you don't make your husband too conscious of your agitation over his two-week absence, or he may wish he could go off for a long time. Hysteria isn't really becoming to a woman; don't let yours get too apparent.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 15, a sophomore in high school and have just begun to smoke. All the kids around here do. My parents don't exactly approve of it. I'd like to know what age you think teen-agers should start smoking.

KARIN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My opinion is simple, and straigh to the point. Smoking is a prerogative of adults, not for youngsters under 18. Of course, I realize that I am now open to be condemned as an old fuddy-duddy. Nothing looks so ridiculous as a young teen-ager aping adults with a dangling cigarette. If the idea of doing it is to make an impression, it's successful—only the impression is never a good one. If you want to show how grown up you are, try it with something constructive, like taking on a bit more responsibility at home, or acquiring some adult manners.

6 Canadians Take Office In IFUW

LONDON (CP)—Six Canadians were appointed to office Thursday at closing sessions of the 11th conference of the International Federation of University Women.

Dr. Aileen Noonan of Mount Forest, Ont., chairman of the international affairs committee of the Canadian Federation of University Women, was re-appointed to the IFUW council, representing the 35 member countries.

Dr. A. V. Douglas of Queens University, Kingston, Ont., was named convenor of the committee for awards of international fellowships.

Jean Royce, also of Queens, is convenor of the standards committee.

Elizabeth Monk of Montreal is legal adviser on the latter committee.

There's no let-up in color for the first fall fashions. Tissue-weight woolcrepe in a delightful shade between violet and deep purple is used for a charming afternoon suit, the moderately fitted jacket lined with pale pink satin and worn with a matching pink chiffon blouse with all-over shirring.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: My husband is a diabetic and I would like the recipe for Black Currant Jam for him. I did have this but loaned it and it never was returned.

Mrs. A. E. H.

ANSWER:

SUGARLESS BLACK CURRANT JAM

Four cups perfectly ripe perfect black currants are washed, drained and mashed with potato masher in flat-bottomed saucepan. Simmer gently 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets (to be bought in large drug stores), 6 tablespoons glycerin, and ½ teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low heat until juice is a little thickened—about 8 minutes—and immediately pour into jam jars which have been sterilized by boiling for 20 minutes in water to cover. Cover at once with fresh nearly boiling hot paraffin, and add a second coating when cold.

I want to remind readers that are making sugarless jams that nothing but heat and sterility preserves them, so you must work carefully, using sterile cups and spoons to do your pouring, and never touch the rims of the glasses with your fingers. I think you are well advised to keep sugarless jams in the refrigerator.

QUESTION: Your column is very interesting and helpful and we all delight in your homey bits like the one where "Two became Seven". Most of us have been in the same fix at some time or other, so we say "How clever, What wonderful ideas! Must remember that!"

My problem is cakes which have not been turning out successfully, but have been taking twice as long to cook. I have a thermostatic control on my oven but since the power is low here an oven set for 350 deg. may register only 300 on the inside thermometer. Not withstanding I have still been able to turn out good cakes in the few months I have been living out this way. However, last week their was a special birthday, for which I wanted to make my special yellow angel cake. This is a superb mouth-watering cake which has never failed me before in 6 years of making it. The first cake which was heavy and soggy was cooked 1 hour. The second looked lovely when taken from the oven, but fell out of the pan. The third, I cooked for 1½ hours and it was good, but not nearly as nice as I have made it in the past.

Three days later I was entertaining and I made one, then another, then another and they were all uncooked or heavy. I made two chocolate ones usually delectable and ditto. In tears, I had to buy cakes from a bake shop, where I told the woman my troubles. "Do you think the vitamin-enriched cake flour is any harder to use?" I asked. This woman who works in a shop which has homebaking replied "I think it is. Look how heavy this bread is". What do you think Mrs. Moore? These cakes were all made with a new package of vitamin-enriched flour which I had never used. The scientist in my family said that there was quite a possibility that the chemical action of the new flour made the slow cooking necessary and therefore the dry and heavy cakes! The chocolate cake which never takes more than 30 minutes took 70! The yellow angel, usually 50 or 60 took 90! The hydro station here is being improved, but if the difficulty is flour what can be done?

What do you think of the papaya meat tenderizer. Because of the hot weather when I shelve pot roasts I have used it only once on a cheaper cut of roast meat. The results were as tender as the expensive cuts. How did Pete make out in his exams? Every time I've used his recipe for Julep Fluff it has drawn paeans of praise.

J. C. G.

ANSWER: I'm working like fury to answer this cake quesiton. Dozens of readers are asking it. Meanwhile try to buy unimproved flour. If you can't do that make sure your flour is not damp; also bake cakes at 25 to 50 degrees higher, but watch that they do not burn. Pete passed with honors. Thanks for being interested. Watch for more on cake flops as I have time to work on it and get more information. The meat tenderizer does what it claims but I wish it were cheaper.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Floral Design Opens Field For Florists

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The art of floral design has made great strides in recent years and an accomplished florist shouldn't balk at any request, says James Lawrie of Toronto, president of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association.

Illustrating his point, Mr. Lawrie said one American florist recently had an order from India to send a pure white goat with a blanket of roses to some Hindus attending a religious ceremony in Los Angeles.

"Undaunted, the florist bought a goat, gave it a scrub, made it a coat of roses and delivered it to the Hindus"

BIG INVESTMENT

The florist business in Canada, Mr. Lawrie says, represents an investment of some $80,000,000 and the number of florists here has increased by half since the war.

A peak year for the floral telegraph service occurred during the war when $30,000,000 worth of flowers were delivered. However for the last fiscal year $41,000,000 worth of flowers were ordered by wire between Canada and the United States alone.

Although there is no permanent school for florists, the Allied Florists and Growers of Canada hold a two-week annual summer school at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

This year's course has just finished and was attended by 65 persons, among them a former member of the tank corps, an optometrist and a nurse.

HOLIDAY AT SCHOOL

The nurse said she wanted to know a bit more about the care and arrangement of flowers her patients might receive. A former optometrist now runs a flower shop in Peterborough.

One man from Nova Scotia made the florists' school part of his holiday and brought along his family.

The ex-army man, Bill McKillop, now with a Toronto florist, said the students were told not to forget 3-D in flower arrangements—there should be height, width and depth.

Fashion Flashes

Something new in the world of jewelry is being imported from abroad. It is jewelry created by dipping real ivy, elm, maple and oak leaves in a 24-carat gold solution. The leaves are first given an extremely lightweight metal base. The result is perfectly beautiful and very different. They are being used for pins and earrings.

✧ ✧ ✧

Good idea to extend the life of a plain black sleeveless sheath is to make a sleeveless tunic of pleated nylon yardage. A crush belt or cummerbund of satin will add to the effect.

DASH AND DRAMA

Fall news! See the coatdress influence in this smart step-in dress! So dashing —it buttons all the way over to one side! So dramatic—point up the neckline with contrast-color scarfs. Note the button trim on the sleeves, flattering flare of the skirt.

Nurses there say Miss Hoover had rib fractures and facial cuts. Mr. McLellan was released after treatment for multiple sprains and a deep laceration on the bridge of his nose.

The transport driver, Bruce Crawford, 30, of Harrow, escaped injury.

Damage was estimated at $6,000.

HIGHWAYS OF MISERY — Repatriated American prisoners of war tell of almost incredible hardships endured on forced marches to prison camps, and to infamous "Death Valley," along the Yalu. Newsmap indicates routes by which thousands of prisoners, subsisting only on rice, beans and cracked corn, were forced to travel to their terminal points of miserable imprisonment. Route from Seoul northward claimed lives of many during the bitter Arctic-like winter of 1950-51, according to the returnees.

Woman Hidden 5 Weeks In Young Man's Attic

By KEN BOTWRIGHT

HAYES, England (Reuters)—A detective searching a house for a stolen deck chair climbed into a dingy attic, where he found the chair—and a young woman sitting on it. She told him she had been in the attic five weeks.

Detective Norman Woolett said in court here Thursday that he asked the man suspected of stealing the chair, 24-year-old Norman Clewett, who the girl was.

Clewett replied that she was his sweetheart, 21-year-old Mrs. Veronica Valentine, "who I hope to marry one day."

"Her mother wouldn't have her at home, so I hid her in my attic," he explained. "She has been there five weeks and has only been out once to wash."

His mother and grandmother with whom he lives never knew about the woman in the attic, though they were suspicious because he kept stealing food from the kitchen.

SMUGGLED IN NECESSITIES

Clewett, a laborer, smuggled food, cigarets and magazines up to Mrs. Valentine. He even supplied her with a small oil stove on which she cooked canned goods.

Mrs. Valentine dropped notes in simple code through the trap-door of the attic whenever she wanted Clewett to bring her anything. And he communicated with her often on a home-made telephone located in his room.

During her five-week confinement, Mrs. Valentine, a slight girl with a pretty, thin face and dark hair, was unable to stand upright.

Her temporary "home" had a sloping roof which was only five feet at its highest point.

At night she slept uneasily on two planks, laid alongside a water tank which took up much of the available space in the tiny attic.

NEEDED COMFORT

Clewett confessed in court he stole the deck chair from a neighbor's garden recently "to get her a little more comfort as she was very, very weak indeed."

A welfare worker backed up his testimony about Mrs. Valentine's condition. She said the girl, estranged from her husband and seeking a divorce, is "suffering physically and mentally as a result of her ordeal."

The judge sentenced Clewett to six months in jail for theft of the deck chair.

He remanded Mrs. Valentine for three weeks on a charge of receiving and sent her to a welfare institution to recuperate.

Abandon Plans To Stop Food

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin's government today abandoned plans to halt its food distribution to East Berliners for 11 days and announced the give-away would continue without pause.

The city Senate said the U. S.-sponsored parcels of food would be given out daily to all Soviet zone residents who come for them. Earlier the Senate had planned to continue supplying only East zoners from outside Berlin and to hold up distribution to East Berliners beginning Sunday while the program's facilities were reorganized.

Since the venture started July 27, almost 2,500,000 parcels of lard, sugar, canned milk and dried vegetables have been given to Easterners.

Volunteers have been handling the distribution so far. The government said paid staffs would take over.

Famous Princess Dies

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's most famous Indian princess, Diacui (Prairie Flower), died Thursday in childbirth. She achieved wide notice last year through her marriage to Indian agent Ayres da Cunha over government objections. Agents are not supposed to marry into the jungle tribes with which they deal. Diacui was 17. The child, a daughter, is reported to have survived.

UN Nations Attempting To Close US-UK Rift

March North For Unity Rhee Pledges

100,000 Hear Leader Term Battle "Crucial Struggle"

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean troops paraded through this battered capital today and President Syngman Rhee shouted his determination to "march north at the earliest possible time" as this war-shattered republic marked its fifth independence day.

In an address to thousands packed into Capital Plaza Rhee reiterated that the post-armistice political conference has 90 days to unify Korea. And he predicted again that the conference will fail.

Rhee made it clear that unification is his goal.

"The one and only standard by which the success or failure of the political conference may be judged is whether it achieves this common objective," he said.

Rhee said the armistice shifted the "battle of Korea" from a military to a political field but it still remains the crucial struggle to avoid a world war.

100,000 LISTEN

He spoke at a giant gathering in front of the war-scarred Capitol Building. At least 100,000 South Koreans lined the streets and Capitol Plaza to hear the speech directly and over loudspeakers. Korean police estimates ranged as high as 500,000.

After the speech, the Republic of Korea paraded its military strength. Units from 16 RoK divisions marched through the streets.

"It is our wish and determination to march north at the earliest possible time to save the North Korean brethren from the sure death they are facing today," Rhee said.

DESTINED TO SHARE

"We are destined to share with them life or death and we are fully aware that our mental attachment and official obligation to them hardly allow us to delay their ultimate salvation another few months."

Rhee denounced any political "appeasement" of the Communists.

"The war could have been won," he said, "but the United Nations deliberately decided against victory as its goal."

Winds To Hit N.S.

HALIFAX (CP)—A tropical storm with hurricane fore winds will slice up the backbone of Nova Scotia today, the weather office says in its latest storm warning. The storm is regarded as still dangerous. The storm will sweep seaward later today and reach Newfoundland on Sunday. Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula will receive its full force.

Marlene Down 1 To U.S. Girl At Halfway Mark

LONDON (CP)—Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., was one up on Canada's Marlene Stewart after 18 holes in their 36-hole Canadian Women's Open golf championship this afternoon. Both were decidedly off form and they were hampered to some extent by a strong wind. Both were five-over-par 82 over the 6,225-yard par-77 course. Marlene posted 43-39 rounds and the Californian miss carded 42-40.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Barbara Romac, 20-year-old Sacramento, Calif., golfer, held a one-up advantage over Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., at the end of nine in their 36-hole Canadian women's open championship final here today.

The sun-tanned Californian went one up on the short 165-yard second hole when Marlene over-clubbed her tee shot and shot 50 yards past the green. Miss Stewart evened it at the 130-yard fourth when Barbara overshot the apron and landed in weeds, winding up with a double bogey against par-three for Marlene.

Marlene, British Open champion, shooting for her second open title in three years, three-putted to lose the 375-yard fifth hole and she went two down on the sixth when her tee shot went about two yards out of bounds to the right.

CUTS LEAD

They halved the seventh and Marlene cut the lead to one with a birdie four on the 405-yard eighth, when Barbara's second shot plunked into a sand trap at the right of the green. The Californian was on in three and twoputted for a par.

Marlene missed a glorious chance to tie it up at the ninth but a poor approach shot and another three-putt green from 14 feet out allowed the Californian to halve the hole.

A strong wind blew up as the players started out with about 500 persons following them. And their play was far off championship form—Barbara shooting the nine in three-over-par 42 and Marlene four over par.

Strikes May End Soon In France

Small Breaks Show In Solid Front; Test To Come Monday

PARIS —(AP)— The long, costly series of French strikes seemed today to be running out of steam. It was still too early to say when the work stoppages might end or that there would be no recurrence—but enthusiasm semed to be waning. No new walkouts were announced Friday, and a few small—but perhaps significant—breaks were appearing in the solid front the strikers put up the last week.

Although most of the demonstrators were still off their jobs, there was no way of estimating the real strike strength. Today is Assumption Day, normally a holiday. The big test will come Monday and Tuesday, when the holiday weekend is over and many workers are due to report back to their jobs.

The only new strike scheduled is a one-day walkout for newspaper plant employees Monday. The unions have agreed, however, that the publishers would be permitted to shut up shop today instead of Monday if they wished.

REDS' BID FAILS

A Communist-led attempt to spread the strike among laborers as well as civil employees apparently has failed so far. Official sources estimated that 2,000,000 persons actualy quit work although strike calls went out to 4,000,000. The stoppage included workers in the postal, telegraph, telephone, gas and electric service as well as railroads and coal mines.

Government civil servants also left their jobs in protest against Premier Joseph Laniel's economy decrees. The government measures designed to halt the drain on France's near-bankrupt treasury included upping the retirement age of civil servants and firing surplus government employees.

NO REAL BREAK

Although the tension seemed lessening, there still was no indication of any abrupt break in the strikes. Trains apparently still will run only spasmodically. Long distance telephone calls will be next to impossible to make. Almost no mail will be delivered. Local bus and subway transport will be curtailed.

The government has made no move to give in or talk to any union leaders while the strikes go on.

The only possibility for an outright reversal of its position was slow in developing. It was a movement for calling a special National Assembly session.

The deputies can force a special session if a third of the assemblymen make written requests. By Friday night fewer than 80 assemblymen had been able to get letters through.

Pearson Believes Russia To Sit As Parley Member

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The 16 countries that fought under the UN banner in Korea scheduled another try today at patching up Anglo-American differences over the proposed inclusion of India and Russia in the forthcoming Korean political conference. Delegates gathered at U.S. mission headquarters for their third private huddle on the issue only a few hours after the British government said it was not committed to a renewal of the Korean war if the armistice were broken by any country on the UN side.

The declaration apparently was aimed at President Syngman Rhee of South Korea, who told a rally in Seoul today that "it is our wish and determination to march north at the earliest possible time" to achieve unification of divided Korea.

BRITISH STAND

The Anglo-American rift over the makeup of the political conference followed Britain's nomination of both Russia and India. The British government has maintained that if the world wants a real settlement Russia must be represented and it put forward India as a symbol of non-Communist Asia.

The United States has insisted that only countries which fought for the UN have the right to represent the international organization at the conference. It maintains this is the clear meaning of the armistice agreement.

Britain was reported to be prepared to carry the issue to the floor of the general assembly unless prior agreement is reached before the 60-country body assembles Monday for its special Korean session.

L. B. Pearson of Canada, president of the general assembly, said in Ottawa Thursday that it was a good guess that Russia would be represented at the conference.

FAVORS INDIA

As for India, he said Canada believes she should be represented because the outcome of the conference may have far-reaching effects on peace in the Far East.

A Latin-American source said Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, had indicated the U. S. would oppose India all the way but might abstain on Russia if the issue came to a vote in the assembly.

Lodge conferred with delegates from the 20-country Latin-American bloc Friday night. The source said he told them a U. S.-sponsored resolution would name 10 countries as UN participants in the conference. The countries listed, according to the source, were:

Britain, Canada, Australia, Thailand, Colombia, France, the Philippines, Turkey, South Korea and the United States.

RoKs Stone Reds Leaving Camp For Repatriation

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The United Nations command said today South Korean civilians stoned taunting Communist war prisoners moving north for repatriation Friday, injuring 314 Reds and nine American guards.

The outbreak of violence near Inchon brought no immediate echoes at this dusty village where 400 more Allied prisoners were freed from Communist prison camps today.

Fifty Americans, all apparently hale and hearty, were among the group freed on this, the 11th day of the prisoner exchange.

The UN command said some 3,600 Red prisoners, flaunting banners and chanting Communist songs, hurled boots and metal canteens at South Korean bystanders as they were being taken by truck to a rail station from Inchon harbor.

The South Koreans responded with rocks.

TELL OF TERROR

Today's liberated Americans added to the stories of horrors in Red PoW stockades. And Communist Peiping radio continued the war of words over the withholding of some prisoners.

Peiping said the Reds had protested to the armistice repatriation commission against what it called "the forcible retention of a number" of Communist prisoners due for repatriation.

The broadcast accused the UN command of "brutal treatment" and murder of Korean and Chinese PoWs.

The Reds also protested that the UN command "had been imposing restrictions obstructing the work" of Communist Red Cross teams visiting UN camps.

The broadcast said the protests were lodged Friday and that an explicit answer was demanded within three days.

The UN command Friday told the Reds to say definitely whether they plan to withhold any Allied prisoners. The UN has made no mention of a Communist protest.

Today's group of 50 Americans was the smallest returned so far by the Reds. Fifty Britons and 300 South Koreans also were repatriated Saturday.

Seaway Power Plan Stalled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four petitioners have taken what could be a first step toward a court contest over proposed development of St. Lawrence river power by the New York state power authority. The federal power commission Friday received four requests for a rehearing on its decision authorizing the state authority to join Canada in the project. The deadline on applications for a rehearing expired Friday night. Opponents of the project would be required to file such petitions before they could contest the FPC order in the courts. Under the law, the petitions automatically will be deemed denied if the FPC has taken no action on them within 30 days.

Court action could follow.

Requests for a rehearing were filed by a private firm whose application for the licence was denied by the FPC, and by three intervenors in the action.

They were Public Power and Water Corp. of Trenton, N.J., the private firm; the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association of Altoona, Pa.; the Lake Ontario Landowners and Beach Protective Association Inc., of Rochester, N. Y., and the National St. Lawrence Project Conference.

The FPC last July 15 ordered a 50-year licence issued to the state power authority, authorizing it to join the Ontario hydro-electric commission in construction and operation of the project on the International Rapids section of the river. But the formal licence was not issued, pending a 30-day period for applications for a rehearing.

The FPC ruled that the National St. Lawrence Project Conference was not properly a party to the proceedings as an intervenor. In its petition, the conference claimed the commission had erred on that point.

Public Power and Light contended that the FPC was wrong in finding that its proposal was not economically feasible and in holding that the company lacked a satisfactory financing program.

The firm also said the commission had erred in finding that Public Power and Light had failed to show effective contracts with Canada for construction of the Canadian share of the project.

Public Power and Light said that "as a private person" it was prohibited from negotiating with a foreign government, and that "it is surprising to find a federal commission using petitioner's failure to do an illegal act as an element to support the denial of an application."

The coal association claimed the FPC had erred on 16 points. Mainly, it contended that the commission lacked authority to licence part of an international project without the consent of Congress.

The Lake Ontario Landowners body sought a rehearing to show to what extent property on the south shore of the lake would be damaged by the project, the estimated amount of such damage and what destruction of recreational facilities would result.

Greek Tremors Grow Less As Air, Sea Forces Rush Help

PATRAS, Greece (AP)—The terrifying series of earthquakes that visited death and destruction on Greece's Ionian islands appeared to be dying down today as air and naval forces of many countries pressed a vast joint rescue operation. The Athens observatory reported earth tremors were continuing, but they were only feeble rumblings. Observatory officials would not say that the danger had passed completely but they predicted there "probably won't be an immediate recurrence of this week's disasters."

At least 40 warships from Britain, Greece, the United States and Israel, standing off the three stricken islands, sent a steady stream of men and relief supplies ashore. Many other smaller vessels, mostly Greek, removed hundreds of victims.

The islands of Ithaca, Keffallinia and Zakinthos were ripped by a series of shocks starting last Sunday. The quakes completely destroyed the three largest cities on the islands, partially wrecked many villages, tore up roads and left thousands homeless.

NO COUNT OF DEAD

There still was no accurate count of the dead and injured, but almost all officials agreed the death toll will reach 1,000 and may go even higher. Many thousands of the islands' 120,000 residents have been injured.

People continue to die—some from injuries received earlier, others from fire still sweeping the port city of Zakinthos on Zakinthos Island. The blaze has raged continuously since Tuesday, the day of the strongest shocks.

Zakinthos and Agrostalion and Lexourion, on the island of Kefallinia, have been almost completely destroyed. They are the largest communities on the islands.

Lieut. William H. Cooner, a U. S. Air Force medical officer, said Zakinthos was a scence of complete devastation, with uncounted dead and injured.

"The entire population of 15,000 was homeless," he said, "and many persons still were trapped under tons of rubble. Some were being burned alive without any chance to escape."

"Bodies were being buried "helter skelter" and there was no way of determining the number of casualties, he added.

Arrest 2 Pickets After Incident

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Police arrested two picketers today after they allegedly tried to haul a transport truck driver out of the cab of his truck as it moved out of the Overland Transport Company yards here.

Several dozen picketers, all from Hamilton, are still picketing all transport company premises in the city.

About 2 a. m., city and provincial police moved a 12-truck convoy out of Direct Winters transport yards while pickets stood by thumbing their noses. There was no interference.

The arrests at Overland came about 5:45 a. m., when picketers tried to prevent a truck from moving out.

Drivers in this area are members of the Toronto local and are not on strike. They signed a new contract about two months ago.

Ground St. Hubert Jets For Special Inspection

OTTAWA (CP)—CF-100 "Canuck" planes of No. 423 squadron at Montreal's St. Hubert air station are undergoing special inspection following the crash last Tuesday that killed nine persons, an RCAF spokesman said today.

All of 423 squadron's planes likely will be flying by Monday, however, he added.

Wing Cmdr. W. L. Gillespie, executive assistant to the chief of the air staff, telephoned St. Hubert, headquarters of air defence command, to check reports that all CF-100s have been grounded.

The reports were unfounded, he said. The Canuck squadron at North Bay, Ont., has been flying as usual. There has been no blanket order grounding CF-100s as a class.

Britain To Repay Portion Of Loan

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Kingdom has agreed to pay the outstanding portion of its 1942 Canadian loan by 1958 through an immediate lump payment of about $39,000,000 and 20 equal quarterly payments of $7,500,000 beginning next March, Finance Minister Abbott announced Friday.

In return, Canada has freed Britain from a pledge to apply the dollar proceeds from the sale of Canadian securities held by British investors against the interest-free loan, Mr. Abbott said in a statement.

The payments decisions were reached following discussions between the two governments and announced simultaneously in Ottawa and London.

The 1942 loan, made by Canada to Britain before the wartime mutual aid program developed, totalled $700,000,000.

US Farmers Vote For Grain Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. farmers have accepted rigid controls on next year's wheat crop in return for continued high government price supports. In doing so they eased pressure on farm-belt Republican members of Congress facing campaigns for re-election in 1954.

Incomplete but conclusive returns showed growers gave a top-heavy vote in Friday's referendum, 338,751 to 51,487, for marketing quotas on the 1954 wheat crop. The restrictions will cut production and sales about 20 per cent from this year's 10-per-cent-above-normal crop.

The favorable vote of 86.7 per cent—far above the 66 2-3 per cent required, is the biggest ever piled up in a wheat quota referendum.

The difference in price resulting from approval or rejection of quotas could have been close to $1 a bushel, or perhaps $1,000,000,000 on the whole crop.

Farm law requires the government to support crop prices at 90 per cent of parity—about $2.20 a bushel in the case of wheat—if farmers approve quotas in times of surpluses, and at only 50 per cent of parity—about $1.22 for wheat—if they reject controls. This year's support rate is $2.21.

Tobacco Crop Good

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—The tobacco harvest is in full swing in this southwestern Ontario area and one official said recent rains have been a boon to growers. "The crop this year is in fine shape," J. A. Leathong, secretary of the Ontario tobacco marketing board, said Friday.

Australia Scores 275 In First Test Inning

LONDON (CP)—Australia was retired for a first-inning total of 275 today in the fifth and final cricket test with England for the mythical "Ashes."

Australia had scored 178 for seven wickets by tea time and went on from there.

Captain Lindsay Hassett, who won the toss and led Australia to bat first, went down for 53 along with Neil Harvey for 36 and Jim de Courcy for five.

Alan Davidson, four, and Ray Lindwall, 14 were not out at the interval.

Flash Flood Kills 229 In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—The third flash flood to hit Japan this summer killed at least 229 persons, injured 260 and left 103 missing today near the ancient Japanese capitol of of Kyoto, Japanese national police reported.

Incomplete reports to police said 680 houses were washed away.

More than half of Kyoto's southern suburb of Ide disappeared in raging floodwaters when swollen waters burst a dam east of the village.

A flood in the narrow mountain valley of Kizu washed away one half of the village early this morning, police said.

Police said at least 50 citizens of Ide, who were sleeping when the floodwaters surged down on them, were killed and 150 others were injured.

3 RCN Officers Face Charges Of Stranding

HALIFAX (CP) — Two officers of the destroyer Huron will face charges of stranding their ship and the commanding officer one of suffering his ship to be stranded, the Navy announced today. Their courts martial open at HMCS Stadacona here Tuesday.

The charges arose out of the Huron's grounding off the east coast of Korea July 12.

Cmdr. Richard Chenoweth of Montreal is charged with suffering his ship to be stranded. Lt.-Cmdr. T. J. C. Thomas of Dartmouth, N.S., and Lieut. G. H. Emerson of Bathurst, N.B., are charged with stranding their ship.

The three will also face lesser charges, the Navy said.

Refuses Link With CCF

TLC Moves Cautiously To Political Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's biggest central labor body, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is moving cautiously towards political action and fusion with other union organizations.

However, it has turned down an attempt to associate itself with the CCF in the political field.

The moves came at Friday's session of the 580,000-member TLC's annual convention here, attended by 600 delegates who inched the big organization along a few steps in the political and labor-unity fields.

On the political side, the delegates re-affirmed the TLC's old non-partisan stand, but asked the executive to set up a "league for political education." A similar league exists in the American Federation of Labor, big United States ally of the TLC.

In Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor has a hook-up with the CCF, which it describes as the "political arm of labor." An attempt to have the CCF so designated by the TLC was defeated Friday.

A close liaison between the two big congresses was suggested in a resolution adopted by the TLC, which proposed a "no raiding" policy and expressed the hope of eventual organic unity between the central labor organizations in these countries.

Besides the TLC and the 350,000-member CCL, these include the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with 100,000 members and the Independent Rail Brotherhoods with around 40,000 more.

The CCL for years has been the main advocate of full labor unity in this country. The TLC, older and bigger, has been somewhat skittish. Reasons include differing political outlooks and the question of which organization would come out on top.

The TLC executive—which favored the convention resolution—now has modified its view. It accepted a convention declaration that it explore "further steps" towards unity.

A. R. Mosher, CCL president, Friday night welcomed the move of the rival body and said he does not care who the officers of a unified congress would be.

"I'm all for it," he said in an interview. "I think I can say the CCL as a whole would look with a great deal of pleasure on a no-raiding arrangement and on getting together in one central labor body."

Walks 472 Miles With Leg Ailment

MALTON, Ont. (CP)—A man who said he walked 472 miles on an ulcerated leg arrived at the workmen's compensation board hospital in this community near Toronto Friday.

Lou Martino, 48, of Timmins, arrived in a state of collapse after Ontario provincial police picked him up 28 miles north of here and brought him the rest of the way. It was the first ride he'd had since he left home 12 days ago.

Martino, father of four, told police he got "tired of waiting" for permission to enter the hospital for leg treatment and decided to make the trip on foot.

He hurt his leg five years ago while working for the Ontario Northern Railroad and later had seven operations. Then his leg developed ulcers.

Jeans-Clad Blonde

Princess Anne Celebrates Third Birthday

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Little Princess Anne celebrates her third birthday today at Balmoral Castle in Scotland and nothing will better illustrate her advancing years than the delight she's bound to take in her dress for the tea-time birthday party.

Just old enough to get a big kick out of a pretty dress, the slight, blonde Princess nevertheless spends most of her time as a jeans-clad tomboy who shares the boyish toys and whims of her older brother, Prince Charles.

Her first real interest in her own appearance came on Coronation Day. She was fascinated by her reflection in the mirrors of Buckingham Palace.

Today she was to don the same smocked cream lace dress, worn with a pendant of eight pearls and a shoulder brooch of rubies and diamonds, given her by the late Queen Mary.

Princess Anne is a little girl completely different in temperament to her sturdy, amiable brother and one who is already showing a determined, independent nature.

"She's quicker to anger than Prince Charles," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman. "And it's more difficult to turn her from a set purpose."

A brother 21 months older has taught the silver-blonde Princess, now wearing a "big girl" bubble-cut hairdo, to achieve some childish talents faster than Charles managed himself. But Charles has always beaten her in command of vocabulary.

Even at three, Charles was a chatterbox, shooting questions at all who came within earshot. On the other hand, Anne remains absorbed in a game and pays no attention to a stranger entering the same room.

Although inseparable, the children have different interests. In his fourth year Charles took his first dip in the Buckingham Palace swimming pool. He can't swim but he loves the water so much he takes a daily dip with Prince Philip when his father is home. So far, Anne hasn't yet been tempted into the water.

Hurricane Swings Toward Coast Of New England

NEW YORK (AP)—The edge of hurricane Barbara swept past the eastern tip of Long Island early today. The strongest winds missed the Island and were reported heading toward the southern New England coast.

New York Coast Guard headquarters, responsible for all of Long Island, said they had no word of excessive damage and no immediate distress calls.

However, the weather bureau said the Nantucket and Cape Cod areas faced the possibility of a strong buffeting from the hurricane, which swung out to sea Friday after sweeping a patch of destruction over North Carolina and Virginia coastal areas. At least five persons were dead.

Indications were that the northeast battened down for the worst, would get only a taste of the damage visited in the south and nothing like the hurricane disaster of 1938.

WINDS 75 M.P.H.

The weather bureau's advisory Friday night said the storm was moving at about 16 miles an hour and was expected this morning near Nantucket, resort island off Massachusetts.

Highest winds are estimated to be about 75 miles an hour over a small area near the centre, the advisory said, with gales extending outward about 200 miles.

Strongest winds on Long Island were reported at 40 miles an hour at Montauk, 125 miles from New York City on the eastern tip of Long Island.

The hurricane, the first of the season and second of the year, caused more than $1,000,000 damage. It flattened fields of crops in North Carolina, swept over the Virginia coast and out to sea.

Atlantic City, N. J., received 7.29 inches of rain and strong gales.

Korean Red Gets Jail, Not Death Sentence

LONDON (AP)—Rhee Won Cho, former deputy propaganda chief of the Korean Communist party, was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment and not to death in a recent purge of 10 top North Korean officials.

The 10 were charged with plotting armed rebellion and spying for the United States.

In the original AP dispatch—carried Aug. 8 and based on London monitoring Moscow—it was mistakenly stated that Rhee received the death sentence.

Sign Bill For Bridge At Ogdensburg, N.Y.

DENVER (AP)—A bill to renew authority for construction of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river near Ogdensburg, N.Y., was signed by President Eisenhower Friday.

The bill revives an act approved Aug. 19, 1950, which authorized the Ogdensburg bridge authority to build and operate a bridge across the St. Lawrence, as far as United States jurisdiction was concerned.

The new legislation provides that the authority will be void if construction is not started within two years and completed within four.

$10,000 Addition For Transports

A $10,000 addition is being put on the Herb Payne Transport garage on Romaine St. It will be used to house the 12 tractor-trailers in the Payne fleet.

Previously the trailers were parked out on the lot and this made it awkward to service them, particularly in winter. A year or so ago Mr. Payne applied to the planning board for permission to build the garage addition but was turned down because the area was zoned residential.

However since then Mr. Payne has circulated a petition among the residents of nearby streets and only two people wouldn't sign the petition so he could build. The result was that permission was given him to go ahead with the 100 foot by 60 foot addition.

Work on the garage has been going on for three weeks now and should be completed in another two weeks.

Fairbanks Draws Ice From Glacier

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—This northernmost U.S. city, only 133 miles from the Arctic Circle, is suffering from an ice shortage.

To fill the gap—and the city's tinkling highball glasses—ice is being dynamited by the ton from an interior Alaska glacier and trucked 300 miles to the city.

Harvesting the ancient ice is a dynamite and bulldozer proposition. W. D. Fitzgerald, the city's ice house tycoon, took a boiler to the scene to thaw holes in Worthington glacier. Dynamite blasts are set in the holes, a bulldozer scoops up the scattered chunks and they are sawed into blocks of from 30 to 500 pounds each for trucking.

The sub-arctic ice problem began developing back in April. Spring came early. The usual ice supply is cut from frozen ponds outside the city. But of the 1,000 tons of ice cut from the ponds this year, only about 600 tons were salvaged by summer time. The short supply combined with an exceptionally warm summer to empty ice houses.

There's a premium on the long-haul, old-age ice. The price has jumped from the usual $2.30 to $3 per 100 pounds.

Picnickers Invading "Skinny" Swim Hole

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP)—"Bare Boy Beach" is being invaded despite efforts of its owner, J. F. Carwith, 59, to preserve it for the exclusive use of lads in the district who like to swim "skinny."

The tree-shaded pool is on Mr. Carwith's farm and boys of this district north of Oshawa have been dunking there in their birthday suits for 50 years.

It's a tempting spot for picknickers and signs put up by Mr. Carwith saying "private property for boys only" haven't halted fully-clothed intruders—many of them women.

"It seems a shame a boy can't have one swimming hole where he can swim the way nature meant boys to swim," said the farmer.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Advances in United States markets were reflected Friday in trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Prices showed a firm tone.

Oats featured light shipping demand, while barley trade showed export support in connection with small sales to the United Kingdom. Rye prices were higher due to favorable market conditions in the U.S. Routine orders were received in flax from processor and seaboard houses. Prices for Class 2 and IWA wheat were 5½ cents higher.

Trucks moved in and out of Kitchener last night without interference from striking driyers. Police supplied escorts.

Dreams Of Ore Fade At Simcoe

SIMCOE (CP)—Dreams of an iron ore industry for Ontario's Norfolk county on Lake Erie, vanished Friday—at least for the present.

Farmers of the area, however, jingled $500,000 in their pockets to show that the dream was not altogether empty.

The iron ore vision faded when United States Steel Corporation announced that it has completed its exploration drilling in the vicinity and had found only low-grade ore of no commercial interest.

The corporation added that it will not exercise its options for purchase of some 5,400 acres on some 60 farm properties. The options are estimated to have cost $500,000, or about 10 per cent of what would have been the purchase price if they had been taken up.

Caids Name New Spiritual Leader

PARIS (AP)—The council of Caids meeting in Marakesh today chose Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, uncle of the reigning sultan, as their choice as "leader of the faithful," the French Agency reported today from Rabat.

The choice of the 72-year-old descendant of the prophet's son-in-law by the caids was in open defiance of the wishes of the French and of followers of the reigning sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Yusuf.

The clash between the two groups—the caids led by Pasha El Glaoui of Marakesh, and the reigning sultan—has threatened to break into open conflict.

El Glaoui has demanded repeatedly that the sultan step down from the throne so that a ruler he felt to be less tainted with the Red-fringed independence movement might take the throne.

Briton's Wife Freed By Russia

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirty-six-year-old Alfred Hall of the British high commissioner's office here is going shopping for the most beautiful bunch of flowers ever put together by an Ottawa florist and the biggest toy he can find.

The flowers will be for his 29-year-old Russian-born wife, Clara, who has been granted permission to leave Russia after being separated from him for seven-and-one-half years. The toy will be for seven-year-old Nicholas John Hall, the son he has never seen.

Mr. Hall, information secretary in Ottawa with the United Kingdom information office, said he was "delighted beyond words" by news that the Russians had agreed to grant exit visas to his wife and son. The announcement that the visas were forthcoming was made in Moscow today by the British ambassador Sir Alvary Gascoigne.

Mr. Hall married Clara in Moscow early in 1946 after a "quick romance." She was a student at Moscow University, studying English. In March, 1946, he was transferred to London. The Russians refused to allow Mrs. Hall to leave the Soviet Union.

Bodies Of Four Taken From River

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The fourth body recovered from the lower Niagara river has been identified as that of a Hamilton man who jumped off the Rainbow bridge Aug. 2.

Stamford township police said the badly-battered body recovered from the whirlpool Friday afternoon was that of Robert Babcock, 23.

The four bodies recovered Thursday and Friday are an unusually large number for this honeymoon spot where an average of one body a week is recovered during the summer months.

Authorities have listed all four as suicide victims.

Mr. Sugg has no recipe for long life, but points out with a grin that he never married.

Huntsville RR Draws Crowds For Brief Ride

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—People still come from miles around to ride on the "world's shortest railway," despite the fact they end up back where they started from.

The 1¼ miles of track between two lakes in this summer vacation area 140 miles north of Toronto for years has been called the world's shortest railroad. The route twists and turns between Peninsula lake and the Lake of Bays. It used to take people and freight between steamers on the two lakes—until last year when the steamer on the Lake of Bays sank.

This year there's been no new steamer to replace it. And people expected the railway, like a chicken with its head cut off, would die a natural death.

But the old coal-burning locomotive still hauls its cars between north and south portage on the two lakes, even though rail passengers who used to take steamers at both ends of the line now find there's nothing to do but come back again.

Says the railway's engineer Gilbert Thompson: "Passengers now pay just to see our railway and take a ride on it. We get capacity loads."

The railroad was built at the turn of the century. It has a miniature 42-inch gauge, and for almost half a century was an indispensable link in the Ontario highlands. It carried all the freight, express and mail and almost all the passengers that went into the Lake of Bays district.

Calgary Statue To Honor R. B. Bennett

CALGARY (CP)—The late Viscount Bennett, prime minister of Canada during one of the country's most unhappy periods, will be honored here Sunday when a monument to perpetuate his memory is unveiled.

R. B. Bennett was a man whose place in Canadian history has yet to be dispassionately determined. Whatever his role, he will be long remembered in Western Canada.

Many who knew Viscount Bennett by his initials only—R. B. are expected to attend the ceremony Sunday. The monument, a simple pyramid of heavy stone, rests in Calgary's public library in Central Park.

Viscount Bennett invested almost his entire life in Canadian politics. The height of his career came when he led the Conservative government in the depression years of the 1930s.

He was born in Albert county, N. B., attended school in the Maritimes and was a graduate of Dalhousie University.

He came west to Calgary in 1897 and soon made his presence known in the political and social life of Calgary. When the province of Alberta was established in 1905, he served in the first legislature.

He first sought a seat in the House of Commons in 1911 and was returned for Calgary West. Subsequently he served as undersecretary for external affairs in the Borden government and became minister of justice in 1920 after Sir Robert retired and Arthur Meighen became head of the Conservative government.

The Conservatives suffered a setback in the 1921 election and Viscount Bennett was defeated in Calgary West. He returned to the House in 1927 and became Conservative leader when Mr. Meighen resigned after the election of 1927.

Viscount Bennett brought the Conservatives back into office in 1930 and was prime minister until 1935 when once again the political tide went against him. He was leader of the Opposition when he retired in 1939.

The same year he moved to Britain and was made Viscount Bennett of Mickleham county, Surrey, and Calgary and Hopewell, N. B., in Canada. He died June 27, 1947.

The monument, erected by the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, will be presented by Prof. M. H. Long of the University of Alberta. It will be unveiled by Eric L. Harvie, Qc, honorary colonel of the Calgary Highlanders, of which Viscount Bennett also was honorary colonel. Lieut.-Gov. J. J. Bowlen of Alberta will speak.

Old Sailing Custom Revived Figurehead Mounted On Bow

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the sleekest ships to visit Vancouver is the new Norwegian motorship Bonanza, whose bow is adorned with a remarkable model of an Indian chief with a peace-pipe in his hand.

The owners of the Bonanza, the Fred Olsen Line of Oslo, are reviving the old sailing custom of mounting a figurehead on the bow of a ship. The Bonanza's sister ship, Buffalo, which has already visited Vancouver, has an effigy of Buffalo Bill, the pioneer buffalo hunter, mounted on its bow.

The Indian chief, cast in bronze and copper, is based on primitive North American art and was modeled by one of Norway's most eminent sculptors, S. Nome.

The Bonanza, white-hulled with a yellow streamlined funel, was built at Gothenberg, Sweden, and has a loaded speed of 17 knots.

In command of the 7,147-ton vessel was Capt. L. Nygaard, making his first visit to Vancouver.

Also aboard the Bonanza on her maiden voyage was Capt. J. Holmsen, who has commanded vessels of the Olsen Line in the north Pacific service for 35 years. He is here as a guest of the line, prior to retirement.

The Bonanza discharged 250 British cars and a mixed cargo of Norwegian products here. On the return trip to Norway she carried grain from Canada and oranges from California. There is also accomodation for 12 passengers.

Italians Defy Warnings In Search Sybil's Grotto

By HORACE CASTELL

MONTE MONACO, Italy (Reuters)—Twelve men have defied native warnings and begun digging for an ancient cave where a beautiful prophetess was once supposed to have held a bawdy court.

The expedition, supported by the Italian government's antiquities department, began on Sybil mountain in central Italy.

Local tourist officers, with an eye to business, also helped finance the venture.

Eagles stirred from their craggy perches and wheeled over the shovelers. Peasants and shepherds cringed at the foot of the mountain, refusing to have anything to do with the exploration.

For centuries, their forebears have feared terrible storms would ruin their crops if the home of the sybil, the mountain oracle, were disturbed.

The expedition's leaders, Rome music teacher Domenico Falsetti and Belgian Prof. Fernand Desonay of Liege University, were forced to hire 10 Italian mountaineers from distant villages, and at a handsome fee, to help in the digging.

Ancient Greek and Roman chronicles mentioned the "sybil's grotto" where the prophetess, one of 10 famed sybils, served as oracle for their gods. By mediaeval times, the sybil on this mountain had become known to minstrels as a queen of peerless beauty.

Andrea da Barberino, a 14th century Tuscan writer, described how his hero discovered a shapely young queen surrounded by a "thoroughly licentious" court in the grotto. He gave directions for finding the cave and set off a rush to the site.

Prof. Desonay is convinced that a magnificent grotto, with waterfalls, natural rock bridges and lofty ceilings, high on the mountain served as a basis for the legends.

Search For Sybil's Grotto Results In Fierce Storms

By HORACE CASTELL

MONTE MONACO, Italy (Reuters)—The ancient oracle of Sybil mountain has delivered her 20th century curse on two men who dared to pierce the mountainside in search of her secret abode.

She spoke—according to terrified natives here—in terms of thunder and lightning. She cut short the brazen explorers' hunt in terms of cold cash.

The two men — Rome music teacher Domenico Falsetti and Belgian Prof. Fernand Desonay—ran out of funds after 10 days of hacking away 7,000 feet high on the central Italian mountain.

In those 10 days, this mountain village has been subjected to some of the worst storms in the memory of local shepherds and farmers. From father to son, through the centuries, Monte Mancese have passed down the saying: "Terrible storms and famine will come to our village if the Sybil's grotto is disturbed."

The hidden grotto is one of the 10 legendary homes of the famed oracles of Greek and Roman gods. Medieval knights spoke of strange happenings in the towering chambers and echoing corridors of the sybil's grotto. They said they came upon a licentious court, headed by a beautiful young prophetess, where debauchery went on unabated night and day.

VAIN SEARCH

Thousands struggled up the mountain cliffsides in a vain search for a life of immorality. Freak storms broke over the mountain. One winter night in 1928, an earthquake is supposed to have sealed off the grotto's narrow entrance.

Local superstition was powerful enough to prevent further searches until Desonay, a history professor at Liege University, became intrigued by the ancient tales. He claimed to see a historical basis for them.

With his own funds and contributions from the Italian government, he organized the expedition with Falsetti as co-leader. They were forced to hire 10 mountaineers from distant regions because local natives refused to have anything to do with the project.

A reporter who visited the scene of the excavations returned convinced there is some basis for the legends of the sybil's curse, a freak summer storm drenched him even to the cigarets in his trousers pocket. Thunder grew louder as he climbed nearer the summit.

Up there, in the strange world above the clouds, it was easy to believe this was no ordinary storm. At the scene of the digging, an immense mass of rubble clogged a mountain cavity, believed to lead to the grotto's narrow entrance.

It took three hours by mule and foot from Monte Monaco to reach the scene. The mule track wriggles steeply up the mountain face past rock, thickets, woods and grasslands.

Monte Monaco mules have the habit of walking on the edge of a narrow track which drops into a yawning gulf thousands of feet deep. At 6,000 feet, the track winds through clouds always floating past the tops of the Sybilline chain of mountains.

A short distance from the summit, mules have to be abandoned and the visitor is forced to scramble over the slippery grass and sharp rocks. The cavity lies just off the summit, overlooking green valleys and villages nestling in the fertile foothills.

The two explorers were forced to quit their work just as they cleared away sufficient rubble to reveal a narrow hole. They believe this leads to the oracle's home.

Both the pious, who sought guidance for the future, and the wantons, who sought debauchery, must have had a difficult time in climbing the mountain — unless mules were more co-operative in those days.

Fined Maximum For Speeding 85 To 90 MPH

COBOURG (ENS)—The maximum $50 fine was levied Friday on Edgar Humper, 24, of 624 Romaine St., Peterborough, when he pleaded guilty to speeding in the town of Cobourg on July 22.

Police said they chased him out the highway at 85 to 90 miles an hour and couldn't catch up to him.

PC C. Cunningham said that he had received a complaint on the night of July 22 concerning a car and they spotted it going by the police station. It made a U-turn and then swung up George St. off the main street at a high rate of speed. It came back and made another fast turn off main street and the constable went after it in the police car.

Going out the west end of the main street, the car was doing 50 miles an hour. It continued at high speed until it reached Highway 2 and then opened up.

85 TO 90 MPH

The constable said his speedometer varied from 85 to 90 and still the police cruiser could not catch up to the fleeing car. The car ahead made a turn off to the Dale cut-off and was stopped when the police car pulled up, testified the constable.

Asked why he was speeding, Humper said he had some carburetor trouble and took the car up the highway to clear the gas feed. He said he was not aware that the police car was chasing him.

"You jeopardized not only your own life, but the police officer who was chasing you. There is no excuse for it. I am going to stop this nonsense and impose the maximum penalty of $50 and costs," said Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

Cochrane Favors Idea Of 'Siberia'

COCHRANE (CP) — A suggestion that a "Siberia" type prison camp be built in this district for Ontario's hardened criminals was welcomed today by Cochrane's civic leaders.

The North (Cochrane is 470 miles north of Toronto) has much to offer for such a project, said Mayor Mike Palangio. There was plenty of land for prisoners to clear.

He was commenting on a statement by J.S. Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Renfrew South that a tough Siberian-like prison should be set up, perhaps in the Cochrane area. Mr. Dempsey made the statement before the legislature's select committee on reforms institutions in Toronto.

Mayor Palangio said that in a Siberia in his community prisoners could develop work habits "which they lack so much."

Services' Vote May Change Results Of Civilian Ballot

OTTAWA (CP)—The armed services vote, tabulated this weekend, may bring some changes in the results of civilian voting in Monday's federal election.

On the basis of the civilian vote count election night, Liberals elected 171 members to the new Parliament, Progressive Conservatives 50, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independent Liberal two, Liberal-Labor one and Independent three.

However, the civilian vote in at least 13 ridings was close enough to engender upsets, either from the armed services vote or possible recounts later.

Men and women in uniform eligible to vote during the week-long service poll Aug. 3-8 totalled about 105,000 at home and abroad. An estimated 20,000 were eligible to vote in mailed polls abroad. Results are expected Monday.

Polls were open a minimum of three hours daily for service personnel. Their ballots were placed by them in envelopes and sealed, then enclosed inside another and mailed to returning officers at five centres.

A returning officer at Kure, Japan, opened and counted ballots received from Canadian troops in Japan, Korea and at sea in the Far East. London was the returning officer's headquarters for service voters in Britain and north-western Europe.

Edmonton served as headquarters for the three Prairie provinces, British Columbia, the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Ottawa handled the Ontario and Quebec votes and Halifax those of the four Atlantic provinces and some from vessels at sea.

The result of the service vote as counted by the five returning officers was wired to Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, in Ottawa. The vote totals were added to the civilian counts reported election night.

The overseas vote will be a bigger factor in this election than in 1949. That year only a handful of the 22,714 ballots cast by the armed services came from the small numbers of Canadians serving abroad. Service voters eligible numbered about 50,000.

All Canadian citizens or British subjects serving in the Canadian forces were eligible to vote this year, including 16-year-old apprentices and some 8,000 war veterans in hospital.

The service vote has produced upsets in former general elections. In 1917, the men in uniform ousted 14 candidates elected by civilians and in 1945 the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King was rejected in Prince Albert on the service vote.

For the first time in this election, deputy returning officers scattered through the various detachments at home and abroad were provided a list containing the accepted home address and constituency for each service voter. The troops declared before the election in which constituency they would vote.

The service voter also had available to him a list of the candidates in the various constituencies showing their political affiliations. This could be consulted when the serviceman prepared to mark his ballot.

The ballot itself was different from the civilian ballot. It said simply: "I vote for"—leaving a blank for the candidate's name. At the top of the ballot are instructions to the voter to fill in the name of the candidate of his choice. Civilian ballots list the candidates and the voter marks an X against the candidate of his preference.

Some of the ballots from the four non-Ottawa returning headquarters were flown here for counting, particularly those marked for candidates in ridings where the election-night results were close. They will be available quickly should a recount be called.

The election produced its share of headaches for election officials trying to get the votes of servicemen in out-of-the-way spots. One poll was set up on a German train to take the votes of a group of servicemen en route to Canada.

An automobile collected the marked ballots of a group of Canadian seamen training off the Maine coast and took them to Halifax. Arrangements were made to fly votes to the various headquarters from naval vessels at sea or from their ports of call.

Any ballots which reached the five regional headquarters after the 9 a.m. deadline Tuesday were not counted. It is not yet known if there were any of these, but there is a possibility that some became tied up en route to London because of strikes in France.

Driving Licence Not Returned Man Fined $25

LINDSAY (ENS) "You know how slow they are down in those provincial departments," commented Magistrate E. A. Gee Friday, in informing Bernard Arthurs of Lindsay that payment of an unsatisfied judgment did not mean suspension of his driving license was automatically lifted, and fining him $25 and $12.50 for driving while license was suspended.

According to the officer, Arthurs tor vehicle accident on an Emily township road August 4 according to Provincial Constable Clive Naismith of Lindsay. The other driver Harold Magee, of Omemee, has been charged with failing to leave half the road free.

According to the officer, Authurs admitted he had no license, but produced a receipt from the Dept. of Highways, showing that an unsatisfied judgment, for which his license has been suspended has been settled. Arthurs was under the impression this lifted the suspension.

"You can't drive until you get your license back from the department. That may be days of course" said crown attorney Lorne Jordan. "It's unfortunate you couldn't wait" said Magistrate Gee in setting the fine.

Young Man Fined On Vagrancy Charge

LINDSAY (ENS) A young Indian man from Atherley, William David was sentenced to seven days in county jail Friday when he appeared before Magistrate E. A. Gee and pleaded guilty to a vacrancy charge.

According to the evidence and David's own statement he had been on his way to the tobacco fields near Ponty Pool when he became stranded in Lindsay. "I went to the hotel" he said.

Early the next morning, two young waitresses from a local restaurant left the business to take a taxi to their homes. Shortly after they left, according to another employee, they came running back to the door, with David in pursuit. One of them said David had "poked" her, while the girls were standing on the main street, waiting for the cab.

David moved away when told to by Gearge Munday, the other employee, and was later picked up by Constable Percy Mark. David was charged with loitering on Kent St., obstructing traffic on the side walk and using rough language.

Dulles Takes Holiday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles left by plane Friday for a week-long vacation at his lodge on Duck Island, Lake Ontario. The state department said Dulles plans to stop off in New York after his vacation to attend some of the United Nations assembly sessions.

Repair Bill Not Accepted As Cost Estimate

LINDSAY (ENS)—"If the driver was to be the judge of the amount of damage, we would never have a charge brought such as this," commented Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan in police court here Friday, in the trial of John Austin of Rosedale, charged with failing to report to police an accident in which more than $50 damage had been done.

Austin was driving his mother's car alone toward his home, from Peterborough, when he went to sleep at the wheel and struck a telephone pole a mile and a half north of Lindsay July 31. The front bumper, grill, hood and radiator were damaged in the crash. Austin told the court he turned the car around and headed for the home of a body repairman in Lindsay, since the fan was knocking on the radiator.

STOPPED AT LIGHTS

In town his car stopped at the traffic lights at Kent and William Sts., where Constable Ross Bailey of the town police was parked in the cruised.

The officer heard the noise caused by the fan and stopped the car on Simcoe St. He then inspected the damage and asked Austin if he had had an accident. Austin at first said the damage had occurred two nights before, then admitted his collision with the telephone pole.

Provincial Constable Clive Naismith was called, inspected the car and estimated the damage at $100 and laid the charge.

Defence Counsel A. T. Lacey prompted Austin to present the bill for repairs to the car which amounted to $40.

Crown Attorney Jordan however contended that if such bills were used as sole basis for estimating the damage, the driver in such an accident could shop around for some days looking for a price below $50, before reporting the accident. Magistrate Gee agreed that the apparent damage had seemed more than $50 to the officer and found Austin guilty. Austin was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Unfortunate Isles Of Greece

Canadian sympathy goes out to Greece in this time of trouble, and already it is taking practical form, through the Canadian Red Cross. The Government itself may rightly lend a material hand, for humanity's sake and because it is politically important that Greece be sustained as an outpost of NATO.

* * *

Greece is a small and poor country, perhaps the poorest in the Balkans. Half of her total area consists of dry barren mountains, and only a fifth of her soil is capable of cultivation; the rest is sparse forests and poor grazing land for goats and sheep. The historic Ionian islands, cradle of western culture are monuments of history and idylls of romantic beauty, but history and romance cannot succour them this week. It is here that the devastating earthquakes have occurred, destroying habitation and life and reducing tens of thousands of people, always on the brink of destitution, to absolute misery and the pain of death.

Small And Big Capitals

A sign of the hustle and bustle of Ca an life is the provincial capitals. Every one is the province's largest city, except Quebec (Que.) and Fredericton. Not for Canada's provinces to raise to pretentious eminence some village as a provincial capital. Even the Yukon is showing the Canadian tendency: Whitehorse, grown larger than Dawson City, has replaced the latter as the capital of the territory. The capital of Alberta long suffered from an inferiority complex, since Calgary was larger. Now Edmonton, a city spread out like a dog's breakfast, has filled in its reaches and become larger than Calgary.

It is not common that capital cities be the largest—witness New Delhi, Canberra, Ottawa. What is the capital of Florida—Miami, Jacksonville, Tampa? No—Tallahassee. What is the capital of Michigan—Grand Rapids, Detroit? No—Lansing. What is the capital of Nevada—Reno? No—Carson City. And so Bismark is the capital of North Dakota, Columbus of Ohio, Harrisburg of Pennsylvania, and Albany of New York. Edinburgh not Glasgow is the capital of Scotland. Cardiff is not the capital of Wales, nor Auckland of New Zealand, nor Casablanca of Morocco, nor Liechtenstein of Liechtenstein.

Canadian philosophy on this matter is not altogether clear. For instance, Ottawa makes Whitehorse the capital of the Yukon Territory because it is bigger than Dawson City, but Ottawa allows itself to continue to be the Bytown capital of the country, instead of setting itself up in Greater Montreal or Greater Toronto. Of course, capital Ottawa makes bows in the direction of the largest cities, for instance, it sends the National Film Board to Montreal. Ottawa may merely be sitting tight, waiting until its civil service swells it into the largest Canadian city. Quebec continues to allow Quebec city to be its capital, but the French-Canadians are different in so many ways that this difference may be set down as just another idiosyncrasy. New Brunswick tolerates Fredericton as capital, despite Saint John's pre-eminence in population.

There is a certain charm in the practice of capitalizing smaller towns and allowing the bigger to go their own ways. Thus the small capital has character as the capital, and not for extraneous reasons like night clubs, a million people or big railway stations. One of the beauties of a small English cathedral city is that nothing makes it a city except the cathedral, dominating the town yet rising above it. So it may be with small capital cities. And they have a quiet and intimacy which is appealing —both Fredericton and Quebec are charming places.

The best-placed capital of all—best placed to resolve the philosophic dichotomy between biggest city capital and small town capital, is Charlottetown. It is a small town, yet it is the largest in the Province of Prince Edward Island. It combines a little largest-town bustle with a good deal of small capital town quiet. It is at once the Canberra and Calcutta of P.E.I. One wonders if our state-makers of other years were wise in shifting the capital of Canada from Kingston to Montreal and Toronto. Did they not end up in Bytown on the Rideau? Goodness knows, it was small enough then to fit the requirement that a capital be small, but Bytown, transformed into Ottawa, lost its head—which Kingston would never have done. It has grown pompous and corpulent, and even established Miss Whitton in the chief magisterial chair. In Kingston Miss Whitton was a Trustee—of the University (not a Trusty of the other famous Kingston institution).

The Same Faces

Some new members were elected to the House of Commons, but the front benches on both sides of the House will be occupied by the same persons as before. The newcomers replace resigned members of no special prominence, or come in with new seats, or, in a few cases, with victory over former occupants.

When the next session is begun there will be the whole Cabinet, all re-elected (despite a close call for the Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture and some local difficulties for others). There will be Mr. Drew, Donald Fleming, James Macdonnell, Davie Fulton, Major-General G. R. Pearkes, John Diefenbaker, Gordon K. Fraser, senior and familiar Conservatives, all back on their benches. There will be Mr. Coldwell and his chief lieutenant in the CCF, Stanley Knowles. (By the way, the CCF increased its seat-holdings by ten—largest per cent. rise any party made, although it won one per cent. less of the total vote than in 1949). There also, when the House opens again, will be the three old standbys of the Social Credit: Solon Low, Ernest George Hansell and John Blackmore.

The Montreal Gazette remarks:

> If anyone happened to be away on a desert island during the election, and came back, and entered the visitors' gallery of the House of Commons, he might hardly suspect that there had been an election at all. He might wonder who that plump Newfoundlander with the forelock might be, sitting among the cabinet ministers as the representative of Bonavista-Twillingate. But otherwise he would be looking down upon the old familiar scene.

The "plump Newfoundlander" is, of course, the Hon. Jack Pickersgill, a certain Toronto morning paper's hero, the paper to which John Cabot P. sent a telegram on election night: "Thanks for Your Help."

Where, O Where?

We offer the following song to tourists, visitors, the Board of Works, and yawning home-town people. It is to be sung to the tune Peterborough Obscurum:

Where O where is the Liftlock gone?
Where O where can it be?
With its trail so short
And its pontoon down,
Where O where can it be?

The unauthorized version goes, to the tune Peterborough Notellum:

Has anybody seen the Liftlock?
I know where it is,
I know where it is,
I know where it is.
It's holding up the old Trent line
(finale, crescendo)
AND THERE AIN'T NO SIGN.

Monument To Prime Minister

The Hon. Robert H. Winters, Minister of Resources, has announced that "the distinguished public services" of the late Viscount Bennett will be commemorated by a cut-stone monument erected in Calgary, where "R. B." carved much of his notable financial career. Mr. Bennett was Conservative Prime Minister of this country from 1930 to 1935. Four years after his defeat by the Depression and Mr. W. L. M. King, the millionaire Bennett retired to England, where he was raised to the peerage (in 1941) as Viscount Bennett of Mickleham (Surrey,) Calgary (Alta.) and Hopewell (N. B., where he was born).

We approve of such memorials in stone to our notable leaders; all Prime Ministers should have their effigies carved for posterity, and at least a bronze tablet. Our past slips by quickly; it needs a stop-block, in bronze or stone, to keep history on the rails.

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has recommended the Bennett memorial. We hope that it will soon get around to examining the claims of Peterborough to some historic tablets. After all, the Irish immigration of 1825, directed by the Hon. Peter Robinson, was the first large-scale operation of its kind ever attempted in the colonial empire.

Simulated Beaver

Canada's history began on fur-trade. For a couple of centuries furs were the flesh of her economic life and thereafter, even today, the fur business is an important segment of the nomy. Thus Canadians should look concern at the newest threat to the industry. It is a fur, made in England by unnatural means.

The new product is a nylon ur," completely developed in Britain and first marketed there last year. It will soon be available to Canadians. Thirty cases containing four hundred garments of the nylon "fur", simulating mink, ermine and beaver, were recently shipped to Canada—to earn $14,000 for Britain and, its promoters hope, to get a corner in the Canadian fur market.

This should worry us, particularly this year and in these parts, where the natural beaver is so prolific and active, damaging cottages, felling their trees, and building dams which flood the highways. Why import synthetic beaver when all we need is a licence to shoot the real, live goods?

Hubby's Friends

By BON VIVANT

THE OTHER EVENING I was invited to take "pot-luck" with some people I know. While waiting for the household drudge to warm up the weiners and beans, and himself to prepare some fatigue medicine — which contained, in addition to its restorative properties, an ingredient making us immune to ptomaine, or poisoning from eating tinned food — I came across a magazine for women. Among the various items of literary fare it contained, much prominence was given an article on "How to Meet Your Husband's Friends."

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER reading this learned bit of wisdom I was glad I had few, if any friends. I rejoiced in my innermost heart I was not a wife, and therefore would not have to meet my husband's friends, assuming he had any. The article gave me a new insight into wifehood. My soul writhed at the recounting of the worst quarrel John and Mary ever had because Mary thought John paid too much attention to his dinner partner the night they were invited to dinner with the head of the wire works. This gaucherie of John's, if the magazine article is to be believed, made Mary feel like the fifth wheel on a wagon.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS I've always felt, if properly equipped with a pink shirt and large calabash pipe, I would be peculiarly fitted to give advice upon problems afflicting the lovelorn, and domestic contretemps which seem to be decimating more and more homes each year, I took issue with the tone of this article. Unfortunately several other characters have cornered the lovelorn field, but this does nothing to deflate my feeling of omnipotence in matters domestic. This wife meeting husband's friend stuff is old hat to me.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHOULD it be you missed the illuminating article to which I refer here are a few hints you may find of value should your husband have gall enough to introduce you to any rowdy characters he classifies as bosom companions. Every wife must realize her husband can have two kinds of friends, male and female. They each present different problems.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF your husband phones at 5:45 in the afternoon to tell you he is bringing Good Old Herb up to the house for dinner, the night you have prepared something tasty, and mysterious, by using up all the odds and ends in the ice box, do not be disconcerted. Rush upstairs, steam the curl out of your hair, wipe off your make-up, put on your oldest and most ragged housedress and a pair of shoes with runover heels, the whole pointed up by well-laddered hosiery.

✧ ✧ ✧

YOUR next step is to prepare the children. Be sure to dress them in the clothes you had put aside for the rummage sale, making sure the garments are either too large or too small for the wearer. Don't trouble to make them wash up. A little dirt adds to the picturesque effect you wish to achieve. If you haven't any defunct jugs of your own hustle the kiddies around the neighborhood to borrow as many whiskey, gin or beer bottles as they can. I'm afraid they'll be empty, but they will do for stage setting. Strew these around the homestead where they will catch the eye. Bring from the cellar or attic those broken lamp shades you have been planning to mend or throw away, and be sure the curtains at all windows are askew. Burning the food will help.

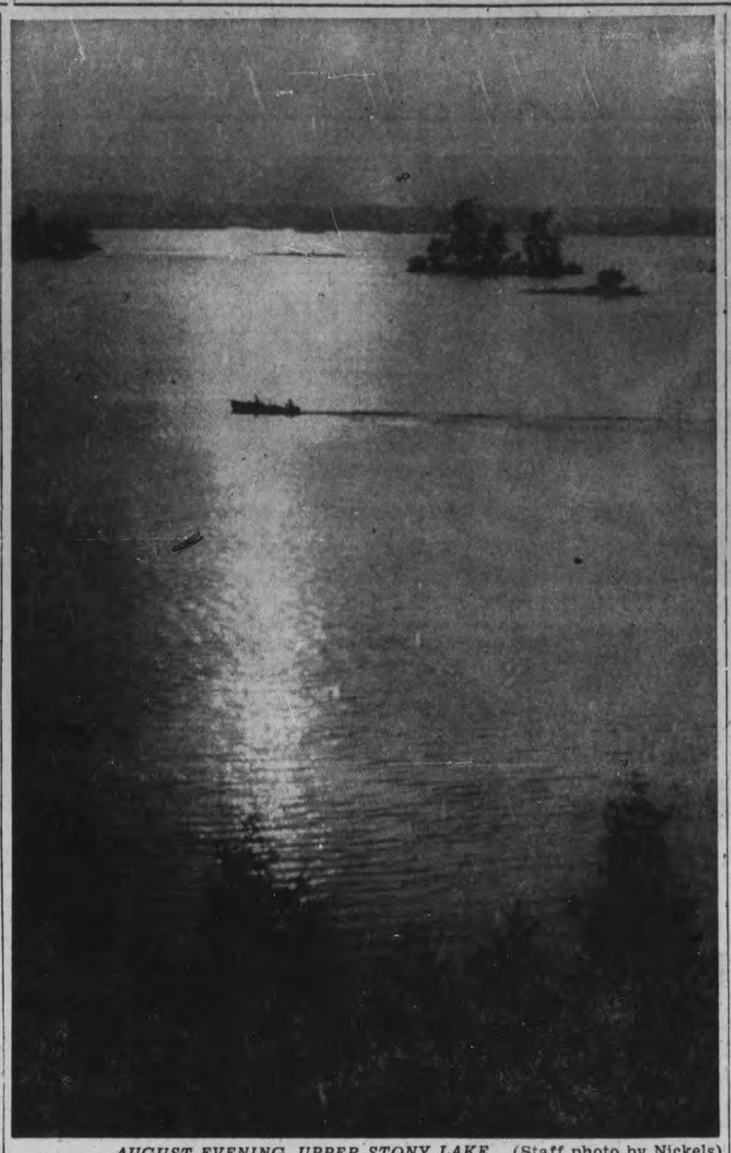
✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN husband and Herb arrive greet them in a whiny, squeaky voice. Above all do not permit them to collar the conversation or you'll be bored to death. Begin as soon as they are in the door with a recital of the day's woes. Stress how hard you have worked, how rambunctious the children have been and the botheration you've had from bill collectors. Hint you husband does very little at the office. Casual mention might be made that he takes two hours for lunch, with cocktails, a half hour morning and afternoon for coffee, and is not above beating you, or at least giving you a good clout now and then, when he feels safe from censorious observation. This should round out your tirade nicely.

✧ ✧ ✧

YOU can materially add to the general aura of depression which surrounds dinner by endeavouring to recollect when was the last time the man you married took you out. These antics guarantee Herb's early departure, and that he will never darken your door again. Also it will give him excellent material to spread among any others your bread-winner may think are kindly disposed toward him. He won't risk having you meet any more of his buddies, and will be amenable to a surfeit of your friends, who are the only people you are interested in anyway.

✧ ✧ ✧



FEW HUSBANDS have the daring to introduce female friends to the little woman. Should your man be one of the nervy minority you can give her the same treatment you gave Good Old Herb, or you can snooter her. There are several ways of doing this, clothes and jewels coming high on the list. However, there is a risk here as she may have better clothes, costlier jewels and be a stranger to the motherly or domestic chores which are fading the roses in your cheeks, and putting wrinkles where you could just as well get along without them.

✧ ✧ ✧

A FAR BETTER gambit in this game is to explain at length what you have done for your husband. Hint pretty broadly that if he hadn't married you, and been given a job in your old man's firm, where he has been boosted to an executive vice-president, he would, without a doubt, be a bum. Do this in a nice way of course, and not all at one time. The female friend is going to seek to stir up a bit of interest by recounting good times she and your husband had before you came on the scene. You want to be able to counter any such nonsense as this as it only upsets the serf and puts giddy ideas into his head.

✧ ✧ ✧

NONE of this excellent advice was contained in the article I read on meeting your husband's friends. The gist of it seemed to be you were actually anxious to meet such people. There may be maladjusted women who court such disasters, but you being wiser, and more adroit, will file these hints away until you need them.

Canada's Choice

(American Opinion on the Election Results)

New York Herald Tribune

The results of the Canadian elections are a clear-cut triumph for the incumbent Liberal party and its leader, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent. The victory extends the party's tenure of office to twenty-two years, indicates a remarkable degree of unity among the Canadian voters and delivers a serious blow to the political aspirations of Mr. George Drew, leader of the Conservative opposition. Mr. St. Laurent remains, at seventy-one, the chief of state in a succession that will outlast the record recently set by the Democrats in the United States.

The Liberal victory is further emphasized by the course of the campaign. The Prime Minister toured the country from coast to coast, making no promises for the future and standing firmly on his record in the past. Against this assured approach Mr. Drew set up a promise to cut taxes by half a billion dollars. The issue of confidence in the policies of the St. Laurent government was thus clearly joined, and, despite some falling off from his record-breaking victory of four years ago, the Prime Minister has an enviable mandate to continue on his present tack.

So far as the United States is concerned, the elections chiefly present an opportunity to congratulate a durable government and a friendly head of state. It is good to know that Mr. Lester Pearson, president of the U.N. Assembly, won his parliamentary seat without difficulty. And the failure of the Communists to win any seat at all is, though not unexpected, agreeable. The best wishes of all Americans will surely be with the Canadian government as it continues on its lengthening career.

New York Times

The showing of the Progressive Conservatives, headed by George Drew, was surprisingly poor . . . They hoped to pick up another thirty-five or forty seats, but now they are hardly any better off than before. To have lost ground in the Maritime Provinces was the most unexpected development of all.

The Socialist Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, by making every vote count, raised its representation from thirteen to twenty-three seats, which was an impressive gain. The party strength is still largely in the Province of Saskatchewan, but it surprised everyone by picking up seats in British Columbia. Social Credit, the other splinter party, did about as expected by gaining five seats and raising its total to fifteen in the House. This, however, will be a disappointment to the party leaders, who hoped for thirty seats and thought they would get twenty. The Communist Labor Progressives, as expected, got exactly nowhere.

All in all, Canadian politics and economy will continue exactly as before without a change of personalities or of policies. Certainly Americans have no cause whatever for complaint or disappointment. The Liberals won fairly and squarely. They have the kind of Government most Canadians want. It has shown itself to be a good and prudent Government in domestic affairs and a staunch ally on the international scene. With their eyes and hearts on last year's American Presidential election, the opposition had been saying, "It's time for a change." The voters thought otherwise.

No Truce For Motorists

(Chicago Daily News)

On the day the Korean war ended, the National Safety Council announced a 1952 U.S.A. national accident toll that far outstripped everything that occurred in that bloody three-year conflict. As usual, automobile casualties led the accident list. There were 38,000 killed and 1,350,000 injured in traffic mishaps. This compared with a U.S. casualty toll of 139,272, including 24,965 dead, in the Korean war. The frightful losses on our highways grow steadily higher with each passing year. In 1952 urban accidents increased by 3 per cent and rural accidents by 2 per cent.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. (Luke 13: 23, 24.)

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O most High . . . O Lord how great are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep. (Ps. 92: 1, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And he spake this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others:

Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.

And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other; for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. (Luke 18: 9-14.)

BENEFIT GAME

Sir: On Saturday, August 7th, a soccer game was played between the Downer family and the Canadian Scottish club.

This game was the outcome of a very sporting gesture by the Downer family and the Peterborough merchants on behalf of a Scottish Club player who had had the misfortune to fracture his wrist during a previous game.

Mrs. Jack Downer, through the generosity of various Peterborough merchants, collected a large number of gifts which were drawn for and presented to friends who had contributed handsomely to the financial side of this game.

The game ended in a 3-3 tie, and Mrs. Caroline Downer, who had made the prize draw, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mr. Tom Nimmo, president of the Scots club.

This club wishes to place on record our appreciation of the good sportsmanship which prompted the Downer family and the Peterborough merchants to put on this benefit game.

JACK GILCHRIST, Secretary
Canadian Scottish Club.

Fantastic Kitimat Project Draws Ontario Men To It

It wasn't a great many months ago that Sherwood (Bill) Collins of R.R. 3, Peterborough, was content to search the northern sections of Peterborough, Hastings and Haliburton Counties for one sort of mineral or another. He also kept his eyes on the stock market. When he suddenly disappeared again his many acquaintances thought he was just away on one of his lone ventures.

Bill came back to the city a few weeks ago with stories galore of one of the world's greatest engineering and development programs—Kitimat, B.C. He had bundles of pictures, maps and charts to prove his stories were not fiction and though newspapers and periodicals have turned out millions of words on Kitimat since it was started there is nothing like first-hand information from one who works there. The following are some of the facts Bill Collins told the boys back in his old home town:

TO 500,000 TONS

Kitimat, on the Coastal Range just south of Prince Rupert, is a site chosen by the Aluminum Company of Canada to erect a smelter that will produce an initial 83,000 tons of ingots annually with facilities to step it up to 500,000 tons when necessary.

In the manufacture of aluminum from raw bauxite ore engineers say it is more practical to move raw materials to the remotest end of the earth providing the necessary electric power to manufacture it is available at that point.

The power site, then, was the attraction and the development of it—50 miles from Kitimat at Kemano River—is even a more astounding job of work than the erection of the smelter.

The peak of one mountain is being shaved off and dumped into the Nechako River to turn the water backward for 150 miles. A tunnel ten miles long is being driven through a mountain to make a giant raceway to turn generators that will also be housed within the same mountain.

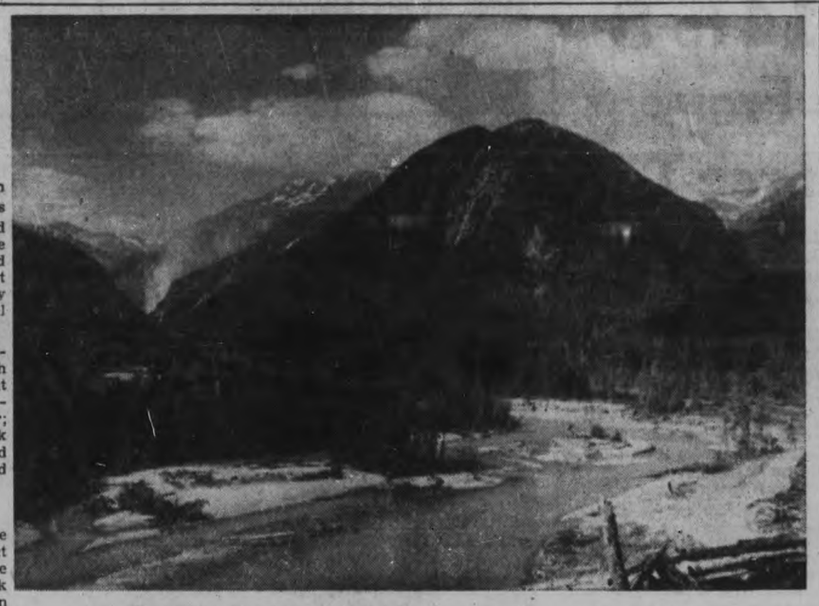
HIGHER THAN NIAGARA

It is estimated that the fall of water—16 times higher than Niagara Falls—will churn the giant turbines to such high voltage that the power lost in wire resistance over the 50 miles between the waterfall and the smelter would be enough to supply a city the size of Edmonton. The Aluminum Company will eventually spend $550 million on the Kitimat job, on more than the original cost of building the Canadian Pacific Railway.

An engineering colossus of this size requires manpower and machines that we staid provincial folk can scarcely imagine. Take a few facts from camp life at the main Kemano Camp where 4,000 men are employed.

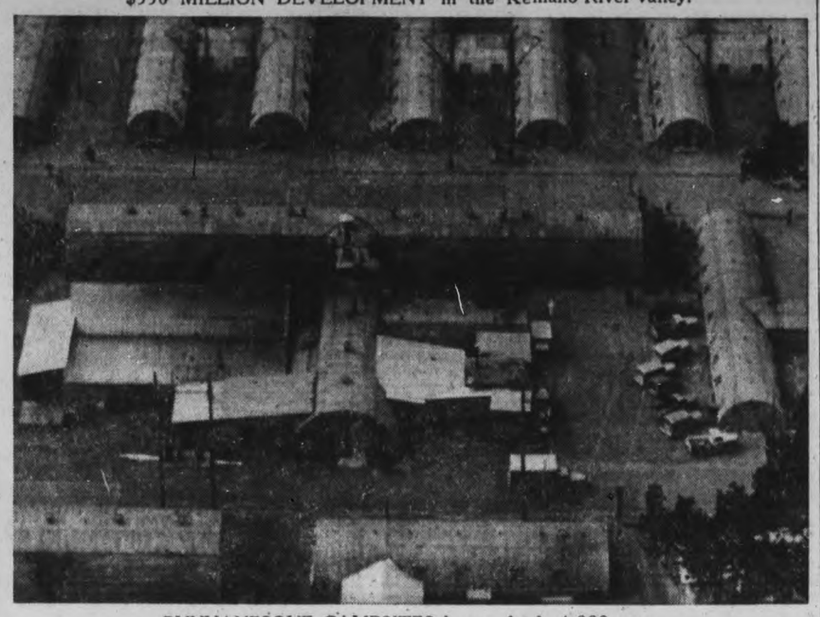
The pick and shovel boys earn $1.40 an hour, time and one-half after eight hours and double time on Sundays. Other pay rates in semi and skilled classifications rise sharply from this figure.

Sixty-four workmen sleep in the metal H-shaped Quonset huts with adjoining washrooms and laundry. Two men to a room have sheets and pillow cases changed once a week, the floors swept daily and scrubbed weekly. They eat in the immense cookhouse, all for $2 a day.



Cookhouse figures are Bunyanesque: 11,000 meals served each 24 hours; 750 workmen seated at one time; meals served to various shifts every hour on the hour; steak and ice cream twice a week and turkey every Sunday and milk, tea, coffee, fruit juice and cream on the tables at all times.

FOR SIX MONTHS



Workmen from the East are hired on a six-month contract basis while those living at the Coast are only required to work for 60 days. The above description is of only one of the eight current camps at the power plant project.

The company is encouraging any of the workmen on the job to stay on and develop businesses at the Kitimat smelter townsite, also a-building. But many of them are in there to make a quick money stake.

And that is Bill Collins' object in working there now, he says. He left your reporter rather hurriedly to get into the bank across the street—to draw funds for a single air ticket to Vancouver for another six-month stretch at Kitimat.

Early Otonabee School Superintendents Were Men Of Unusual Characteristics

BY MRS. GERALD MARRYAT

(Ed. Note. This is the first of two articles on education in Otonabee from 1829 to 1861; the second article will appear on this page at future date.)

The first school-house, a log building, was erected in 1829 on the east half of lot 20 Con. 4; intended to accomodate a few families, it was never used, and a second was built on the east half of lot 20 in Con. 3 a year or so later. Glass for the windows was obtained through the interest of Cobourg people, and that town supplied the first teacher.

David Housten was unfortunate in contracting lake fever and ague and for two months was detained at the home of John Williams near Sully (Harwood), where Dr. Gilchrist attended him. To the poor teacher's plea of inability to repay the doctor, that good Samaritan told him to pay it along whenever he met a fellow-creature needing help; and in that way he would be repaying his doctor. Apparently Mr. Housten recovered and taught in Otonabee's first school.

Thomas Denehy, according to Dr. Poole, opened a school in Keene in 1832 for 20 children. Thomas J. Denehy, as he is better known, was listed by Mr. Dobbin in "Our Old Home Town", as a Deputy-Surveyor who gave evidence at the investigation into the claims against the Government made by Dr. Gilchrist when the dam at Crooke's Rapids (Hastings) backed the water up the Indian River and rendered his mills useless. He was also a contributor to Richard Birdsall's subscription list in aid of the fund to restore the damaged Brock's Monument, giving 2-6. He was a non-commissioned officer, as privates gave 1-3-at the annual Militia training held on the shore of Rice Lake in the autumn of 1840. Mr. Dennehy made the first reliable map of Hastings, still in use. He also ran a hotel in addition to his extensive practice as a land surveyor. He was alive in 1876, living in Norwood.

William Coulter was the first teacher in what was afterwards S.S. No. 5 Otonabee in 1833 when he had 21 pupils and 23 in 1835. He was a Justice of the Peace for Peterborough and an Auditor.

HOW TO GET PUPILS TO SCHOOL

No other school are mentioned by Dr. Poole. There were far more children than recorded in the township, however. The list of prospective settlers, copied from the Dom. Archives by E. S. Clarry, and printed in the Examiner, Dec. 27th 1947, gave the number of children in 1820 as 80 and there were 135 among the settlers brought in by the Peter Robinson scheme in 1825. No account it taken either of all those who came independently, Capt. Rubidge, Fifes with six sons, all the Camerons, and others. Greater than the task of building would be the collection and transportation of scholars through the unbroken forest.

In 1846, there were only nine schools, and in the whole Colborne District, the newly appointed Supt. Elias Burnham, found only two English Grammars, only an occasional geography, no history, except for a few reading books and no other book in general use except the Bible. He blamed this lack on the parents' lack of interest and considered that it handicapped the teachers in their classification of pupils. Mr. Burnham resigned his arduous post in 1850, having been compelled to travel on horse back for six to eight hundred miles annually. His appointment followed the passing of the new Common School Act in Upper Canada by a Reform Government in 1844.

MR. BURNHAM'S SERVICE

Elias Burnham was born in Northumberland Co. in 1811. His father, John Burnham, was a native of New Hampshire, who came to Upper Canada early in the 19th century, and settled near Smith's Creek (Port Hope). His mother was Hannah, daughter of Myndert Harris, U. E. L. Although one of a numerous family, Elias Burnham received the best education obtainable and later studied law in the office of M. F. Whitehead of Port Hope. He completed his studies with Chief Justice Draper in Toronto, and after being called to the Bar in 1835 came to Peterborough, then a straggling village. In 1884, the Rev. C. P. Mulvaney interviewed Mr. Burnham, who had retired after a sucecssful career as a barrister, and who had never married, his household being presided over by his sister. But, nothing was recalled concerning education, although Mr. Burnham's service as a Municipal Councillor for nearly 20 years was noted as well as the time and attention he had given to public affairs.

Dr. Poole, however, did justice to the particular service rendered by Mr. Burnham, as Supt. of Schools for the Colborne District, in those early years when Government was attempting to bring the best of education to the many instead of its remaining the privilege of the few. His salary was at first Twenty-five pounds, then Fifty Pounds per annum, including travelling expenses. His comprehensive report may be found on pp 55-6 of Poole's History of Peterborough County.

FIRST MAYOR

Thomas Benson succeeded Mr. Burnham as Supt. of Schools and held this post until January, 1852 and his letter of resignation furnishes much detail concerning the arduous duties and scant remuneration afforded. It may be found on pp. 57-8 of Poole's History. Mr. Benson met an untimely death in the disasterous train wreck when a train filled with passengers fell into the Desjardins Canal in 1857. He was the first Mayor of Peterborough in 1850. Four Local Supts., were appointed in 1852, following Mr. Benson's retiremene. The Rev. Edward R. Roberts was in charge of the first Division, consisting of Smith, Douro and Otonabee. Later he was minister of the Baptist Church in Smith Twp.

James Anderson and Adam Starke had been appointed Local Supts. for Otonabee for 1844 and 1845, following the passage of the Common School Act. James Anderson was Deputy Reeve in 1852-3 and Reeve in 1854. Both he and Adam Starke were Justices of the Peace. The Rev. E. R. Roberts succeeded them. He in turn was followed in Otonabee in 1855 by the Rev. Francis Andrews of Keene.

REMEMBERED DIVINE

The Rev. Francis Andrews, who passed away on Feb. 4, 1902, having almost reached the age of fourscore years is remembered by many middle-aged residents of Peterborough County, especially those who heard him preach. Born in County Antrim, Ireland, he was educated in Belfast and Edinburgh, where he studied under such eminent divines as Dr. Cook and Dr. Chalmers. After his graduation, he was sent to Canada by the Presbyterian church, and for a few months did mission work at Grand River, whetnce in 1850 he was called to Keene, where he was inducted on January 11, 1851. Mr. Andrew's obituary noted rather an unusual incident in his life, namely his marriage to a daughter of William Forsyth, whom he had baptized as an infant, soon after coming to Keene. She died in 1886, leaving him with three of their five children.

In 1901, Mr. Andrews celebrated his golden jubilee, and one of the guests was Principal Grant of Queen's. Soon afterwards this university honored Mr. Andrews by conferring upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. Dr. Andrews continued to minister to his two congregations at Keene and Westwood as usual. On Sunday he took both services, on Monday he was ill, and on Tuesday, Feb. 4 he died.

His long pastorate gave him a unique opportunity of observing the changing face of things in Otonabee, and one wishes that he had left some record of his impressions of life as he found it in those early days when he had assumed, in addition to his double duty as minister, the position of local superintendent of schools for Otonabee.

PROSPEROUS KEENE MAN

George Read of Keene sent in the reports for Otonabee in 1855 and 1858, in his capacity of township treasurer. Born in Augusta, Grenville County, in 1819, George Read was the son of Guy Carleton Read; educated at Brockville, he entered commercial life, first as a clerk in a store in his home town and later in the office of a contractor who built two locks on the Cornwall Canal. After various positions held in Belleville, Kingston and Napanee, he finally settled in Keene and commenced with the assistance of a partner, a business which proved very successful. So much so that when he died in 1903 he was one of the wealthiest men in Peterborough County, his real estate being supposed to exceed 1,500 acres.

As a volunteer, Mr. Read had served in the Rebellion of 1837-8, at the Battle of Windmill Point near Prescott, and he held a commission in the militia for many years. He also filled many local offices, including those of postmaster, clerk of the division court, coroner and township treasurer, as well as acting as a magistrate. His obituary noted that he was one of the oldest magistrates in Canada. He was well known as a member of the Provincial Legislature, for the first and second Parliaments following Confederation.

He married Miss Crawford Reid of Brockville, and following her death in 1861, he married her sister, Jane.

He was a Presbyterian and a generous supporter of missions. He died on March 28, 1903, and his obituary in the Hastings Star of April 3 supplied the above biography.

The Rev. David Cantelon of Peterborough succeeded Mr. Andrews as local superintendent in 1855 and continued in that office until 1866.

In 1846 there were nine schools; in 1861, when these records end, there were fourteen, and in 1884, when Mr. Mulvaney wrote his history of Peterborough County, there were thirteen school sections and four union school sections supplied with twelve schools, the two largest being in Keene and Allendale. And instead of one log hut there were handsome brick school houses with good fittings and good teachers.

Drat Crab Grass! Here's How To Treat It—Don't Mow It

BY HENRY PREA (NEA)

Unwelcome crab grass is beginning to lift its broad green blades above the other finer and more desired grasses of our lawns.

Now is the time to hand-pull this pest before its flattens out and begins to form seed for next year.

It is a distinctly hot-weather growth and thrives best in full sun and will not grow at all in medium or deep shade. It makes a vigorous growth in almost any type of soil, provided the competition from other grasses is not too keen.

Crab grass will not cause much trouble in a heavy stand of turf. For this reason alone it is advisable to fertilize the lawn early in the spring and to raise the blades of the lawn mower to at least 1½ inches so that the blades of the desirable grasses shade the ground.

Crab grass is an annual, appearing each year only as new growth from seeds. Even though the young plants seem not to be making much headway above ground for the first month or so, the root systems are rapidly developing during that time.

By late July or early August the seed-bearing spikes appear. These will produce and mature seeds, either upright or lying flat against the ground. Ordinary mowing will not prevent seed production, as it does with most weeds and grasses.

On the contrary, it increases the pest, because pieces of stems scattered by the lawn mower contain joints or nodes which take root and produce new plants.

Crab grass is a tropical plant and its extensive shallow network of fine rootlets is able to take up whatever limited moisture is available in dry seasons. Thus the common practice of giving lawns a light sprinkling every day may benefit only the crab grass.

There are two methods by which crab grass may be overcome once it gets the upper hand. The simple way is by proper cultural practices, and the other is by using specific chemicals which are highly toxic to crab grass but less so to the desirable turf grass.

Should the grass get beyond the hand-pulling stage and into the creeping stage, control is partially effective by use of the lawn mower and rake.

Mow the area in the regular way and then rake vigorously with a heavy iron rake or special weed rake. The purpose is to raise the prostrate creeping stems which escape mowing and later produce seed heads.

Now's the time to get rid of that pesky crab grass, before it seeds next year's crop.

Gardening Questions

Q—Will the health of a lilac be harmed if pruned in midsummer?

A—The answer is No. As far as the health of a tree or shrub is concerned, pruning can be done almost anytime.

Early flowering shrubs like lilacs are best pruned shortly after the flowers have faded, thus avoiding the danger of cutting off the buds for next season's bloom.

Q—The lower foliage on our hollyhocks have turned a rust color and apparently passed on. What causes this and what is the cure?

A—Hollyhock rust, a serious disease, cannot be cured but several spring applications of sulphur dust on underside of the leaves will reduce rust to a minimum. In addition remove and burn all infected leaves now—and repeat in late autumn when cleaning up the garden.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

When anyone asks me now how I am doing with my fishing I can look them straight in the eye and say "Fair, just fair . . ." for I did simmer down long enough this week to get into Lake Koshkabogamog (Kosh) for a day.

WITH TORONTO BANKERS Ted Highstead and Art Lee we started the trek over the tortuous trail from the Nephton mine road early one hot morning in Ted's heavy car at one-half mile an hour clip, in places. They thought it was a rough trail but it recalled family stories of the old days when wagons loaded with canoes and women folk—the men walked—made the trip from Jack's Creek to Fred Hull's landing. Tire marks of wagon wheels can still be traced on the bald stretches of granite rock. Old timers made the rough passage for a few days of camping out and to enjoy the fabulous fishing. We tried it in desparation because my pals had fished many spots such as White Lake and various parts of Stony without any luck.

At Garfield Puffer's landing we got a boat and our gear together and struck north into the deep bays. Garfield warned that the day would be hot and that we had arrived four hours too late or several hours too early if we expected to catch anything of decent size in Kosh. He was so right.

THE LIKELY STEEP ROCKY SHORELINE HOLES produced nothing but small black bass, with only two just-keepers in several hours of worm dunking and flatfish casting. Few panfish were taken, however, which was encouraging from the future fish harvest point of view.

Signal for our noon lunch time was a series of rock blasting shots from the mine quarry nearby (three-quarters of a mile). The knock-knock of rock tremors sent the small bass scurrying. They disappeared for two hours.

Later in the afternoon we went south to the mouth of the North River where bass used to show us some encouragement above the new water-control dam. Not on Wednesday.

SOME OBSERVATIONS of Kosh Lake noted were the great number of cottages that have sprung up and are abuilding. To begin with we found there are now 180 establishments on that sprawling lake, the great majority of them on Connor Bay and reached by a road at the eastern end out of Havelock. A few of the buildings on the west end are attractive but many are bare, box-like ready-built homes on flat, stunted-oak shorelines and islands. They seem to have been built by people determined to have themselves a summer place with a minimum of site planning.

The south shore of Stony Lake Bay is the most attractive on the lake. The cottagers with forethought for a view have built here and there and there appears to be many rocky inlets without dwellings on them, though the land may be tied up by private ownership or the Crown.

BAD ROADS to the west side of the lake are the present bugbear but rumor has it that the Department of Lands and Forests are driving a good road through from Nephton to the west end of Stony Lake Bay in September. Where the road will end a public waterfront park with benches and fireplaces is to be built.

There is to be a permanent wharf on the park waterfront, too. This nine hard-working members of the Kosh Cottagers' Association learned after building two drum floating docks for public use. They spent $135 dollars and many hours of labor, July 25, on each of them. Col. Jack Truman spent many more hours in addition cutting out the lumber before building commenced. Now, with a new dock in the offing, the association has moved the floats to Hull and Puffer Landings, respectively.

KOSH LAKE WILL GO AHEAD faster than ever as it becomes more accessible, that, and the normal growth of young black bass with which the waters abound.

Though disappointed on Wednesday, we may call ourselves pioneers of a new era. Maintained water levels well filled with black bass. The dawn of new and improved roads. And, no doubt, hydro in the not too distant future.

Before some tourists start hollering about the prices of meals in some of our main street restaurants let me be the first to complain.

The other evening I was taxed 35 cents for a plain salmon sandwich on white bread titivated up with two small dabs of lettuce. A wholesale grocer friend tells me that the going price to restaurants for half-pound tins of this grade of salmon is 26 cents, enough filler for lots and lots of salmon sandwiches.

Complaints to the management did no good for the item was properly priced on his tariff. Time for the local body representing the Better Business Bureau to do some snooping on the right hand side of restaurant menus?

Fishing has generally slowed up in the upper Kawarthas, though reports are still firm from Rice Lake and the Trent. No whoppers being reported in the immediate area this last week.

Up Dorset way, though, Julius Wagner of that village became attached to a 31-pound, 6-ounce lake trout and landed it in Kawagama Lake, northern Haliburton. Wouldn't you give your eye teeth to be in the shoes of Julius Wagner? Yes, sir.

Norman Geale, Rogers St., upbraided me on the street the other day because I hadn't recognized him as a fisherman. He fishes every 15 years, for five minutes or so, in Lake Catchacoma. A few weeks ago while travelling from his cottage to his car trailing a troll he snagged a Kamloops trout, 3 to 4 pounds. Gull Lake fire towermen who looked over this newcomer specie were agog, and pleased, that the trial trout had taken a liking to Catchacoma waters. Where there is one there are bound to be more, they think.

Petes Down Yorks 14 to 8 In Rugged Lacrosse Fray To Lead Series by Three Tilts

Petes' Trailermen need but one more win to move into OLA and Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals. They dumped Orillia Yorks by a 14-8 count here last night before about 2,800 fans to take a 3-0 stranglehold lead in their best-of-seven set, the fourth game being Monday in Orillia. The Thorpe team were held to a 2-all draw in the first quarter, but outscored Yorks 4-2 next heat for a 6-4 halftime lead. They threw in four goals to one in the third to lead 10-5 and edged Orillia 4-3 in the tight fourth frame. It was a hot tussle all the way but the locals looked just a bit better, especially in the last half, and they hope to wrap it up securely in four straight.

HARD FEELINGS

Hard feelings and hard checking was in evidence from the first faceoff, but it didn't really erupt until the third period. Don Ashbee caught masked George Masters by surprise with a stiff bodycheck when Masters was off-balance and the latter lost his temper. He came up swinging his stick in an attempt to cut Ashbee, and the pair tangled briefly. They were given major penalties, with Masters also getting a match penalty for attempt to injure.

AIDS ON FIVE—Husky Jerry Fitzgerald, though a Petes' defenceman, is a smart playmaker. He proved it again last night in the locals' 14-8 lacrosse playoff win over Orillia here when he assisted on five markers.

This touched off a lot of argument, with first Elmer Lee and later Stu Scott trying to get at Referee Piper Bain, but being held back by their teammates. They wound up by being chased from the game, also, with match misconduct penalties, and their actions will be reported to the OLA secretary. Orillia drew 11 of the 18 penalties handed out in the rugged fray. Several other fights almost broke out but were halted in the nick of time.

ARGUMENTS, TOO

The game was late finishing, owing to frequent arguments over penalties, the fight, and finally the timer's clock refusing to work. But when the game was on there was plenty of keen action to keep the fans yelling. Both goalies turned aside plenty of rubber as the rival squads kept the ball moving up and down the pitch fast in combination plays, marked with the sharp slapping of checking sticks.

Once again Rusty Slater proved the big money player for the Petes with four fine goals. Jerry Fitzgerald was johnny-on-the-spot to aid on five markers in a nifty performance. Two goals were counted each by Ike Hildebrand and Curly Mason, with singles going to Harry Wipper, Bob Thorpe, Ross Powless, Nip O'Hearn, Lou Nickle and Don Ashbee. Powless also had a pair of assists, as O'Hearn, Thorpe and Moon Wootton earned one apiece. For Yorks, Merv McKenzie and Elmer Lee scored two each, the others going to Tony D'Amico, Les Digby, Don McPhail and Frank Facto. The latter, McPhail and McKenzie got two assists each, and Digby and Lee one apiece. Teams:

Orillia: Goal, Johnson; defence, McPhail and Webster; centre, Teatro; wings, Croft and D'Amico; alternates, Masters, McKenzie, Lee, Facto, Scott, J. Kapasky, Digby, Hammond and Jim McNulty.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald and O'Hearn; centre, Mason; wings, Slater and Powless; alternates, Smith, Thorpe, Ashbee, Hildebrand, Vitarelli, Wipper, Nickle, Batley and G. Robinson.

Referees P. Bain and J. Murphy.

ROSEWALL WINS AGAIN

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Ken Rosewall continued his steady progress toward the finals of the Newport invitation tennis tournament Friday with a four-set quarter-final victory over his fellow Australian, Rex Hartwig, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5. Lew Hoad, Rosewall's husky doubles partner, held a 2-1 lead in sets over Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., when rain halted the match. The score stood at 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 for Hoad.

There are four teams left in the Industrial Fastball League at the conclusion of the schedule. So the semi-final draw pits Mount Pleasant against Norwood in one bracket, and Outboard Marines 'gainst Curve Lake Indians in the other. Both series will be best-of-three, with the finals a best-of-five set for the Fraser Trophy, Prexy Bill Gunn announces. Series opens Monday with Mount Pleasant playing Norwood, next night seeing Marines meeting Curve Lake. They resume Aug. 19 and Aug. 20; third games if necessary being Aug. 24 and possibly Aug. 25. All games go at Quaker Park at 6.15 on the dot. Fastballers use a sort of streamlined men's softball style.

Quinte columnist remarks "The junior Regents meet their first acid test of playdown baseball on Saturday when they tackle the starry Peterborough youngsters in the first of a best-of-five series in Peterborough. The Carson-coached kids should give a good account of themselves, especially since they are well fortified in the pitching department. But they face a well-balanced team in the Petes, who have been playing organized ball the past few years in the Lakeshore Intermediate League. They have a good hurler in Jerry Frizzelle and a couple of others. It should be quite a series." Tilt here tonight is at six in Riverside.

When East Meets West

Canadian Lacrosse Association mentions a rule interpretation which will have to be ironed out for Mann Cup finals. It says: "In Ontario a defenceman is permitted to pick up a loose ball in the defending crease. He may throw it out or carry it out. In B.C. a league rule permits a player to stand 10 seconds behind his own goal holding the ball without passing before rag is called. In Ontario this is left to the discretion of the referee as to when to call rag. In B.C. the present crease lines are extended, meeting the boards at the back. The area thus created behind the goal will be the one where the player may remain for 10 seconds. Mann Cup finals will be played with six players a side and four-foot goals. Minto Cup series will have seven men and four and a half-foot goals, unless both sides agree to six-man lacrosse."

Beating Orillia Yorks 14-8 here last night—same score as Petes won by in Orillia last trip—the Trailermen took a stranglehold on the OLA senior semi-final set. St. Kitts have won two in as many starts over Fergus in the other series. Petes need but one more win to take the best-of-seven sawoffs, and they're hoping to clean it up Monday in Orillia. Some 2,800 fans saw a smart struggle last gloaming, a hard-hitting affair that nearly got out of hand in the third quarter. The Yorks took defeat hard and three of 'em wound up with match misconduct penalties, George Masters for attempting to cut off Don Ashbee's head, and Elmer Lee and Stu Scott for going after Ref Piper Bain over the sentence to the masked Masters. Some fun.

Use Bush League Tactics

That's rather bush league stuff. No doubt the OLA will get a full report on the doings, but probably won't take action till after the next game, and Yorks may be through by then. Petes earned the verdict on solid work from starry Moon Wootton out through the close-checking defencemen and smooth-passing forwards. Rusty Slater again paced their attack with four markers, while Jerry Fitzgerald contributed five assists. Ross Powless was in on three, and Ike Hildebrand, Bob Thorpe, Curly Mason and Nip O'Hearn two apiece. For Yorks, Merv McKenzie, Elmer Lee, Frank Facto and Scotty McPhail each figured in on three or more, with Les Digby in on a pair. We look for a bruising battle up Orillia way to start off the week.

Peterborough Pats dropped an 18-15 decision in Long Branch last p.m. and are now down two games in the best-of-five OLA junior "A" semi-finals. They had a 13-11 lead going into the fourth but ran into rough luck and some cheap penalties to be edged out by the husky homesters. Bob Curtis, Carl Brioux and Frank Farley led Lou Vitarelli's pack in sniping, with Ivan Thomas, Willie Logan and Bob Hobart also scoring. So, it's up to the scrappy young Pats to really dig in on Monday night here and get back in the hunt. One more loss and they'll have to call it a season. Should be a sizzling struggle all the way at Miller Bowl.

Little Marlene Powers Way To Golf Finals

By JACK SULLIVAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Put it down to guts.

That's the only explanation for Marlene Stewart, a shy ladylike 19-year-old whose bristling machine-like playing on a golf course earned her a final berth today in the Canadian Women's Open golf championship. She did it on the strength of a comeback that turned almost certain defeat into a brilliant victory.

That's the way she did it Friday, barging through to wipe out a three-hole deficit at the 14th to take the last four and a one-up victory over Seattle's Pat Lesser in the semi-final. It was one of these finishes that belongs in fiction.

Against her today is Barbara Romack, a 20-year-old honey-colored blonde from Sacramento, Calif., who played in-and-out golf to defeat Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., in the other semi-final 3 and 2 over the Hunt Club course. And if the Californian takes a lead and can't stand prosperity she may as well hand the trophy to the Fonthill, Ont., kid.

2,500 IN GALLERY

A large gallery of about 2,500 that followed the Lesser-Stewart match over the 6,225-yard layout figured the Ontario girl was ready for the showers when Pat birdied the 455-yard par-five 14th to take her big lead for the second time in the match. But a case of jitters brought about by the driving play of Marlene, marked her downfall.

She hooked her tee shot on the short 140-yard 15th into a clump of bushes, got on the green in three and three-putted from 15 feet for a booming six. Marlene was down in one-over-par four.

It was the second hole Marlene had taken in the match and the big crowd sensed that the British Open champion was going to make things tough for Pat, just as she had done two days before against Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., when she came from behind to win. And that's exactly what she did.

She took the 410-yard 16th when her approach shot clicked for the first time in the match. Marlene chipped to within 18 inches of the cup and Pat's approach was five feet beyond it. The American's putt was long and Marlene sank hers to take a birdie four.

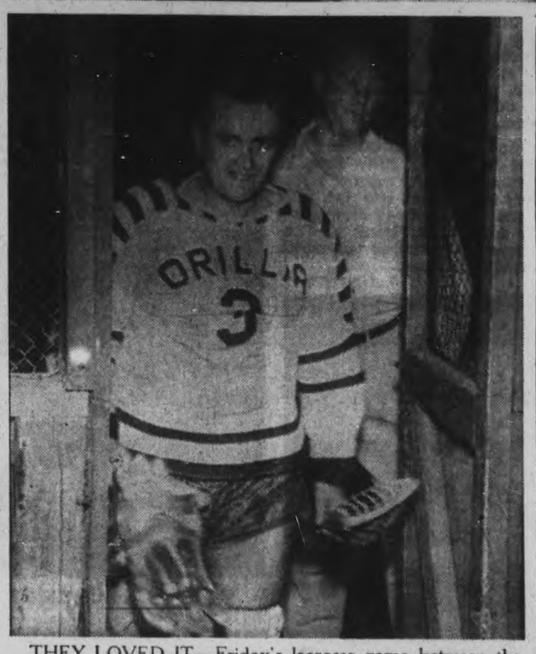
DRIVES 260 YARDS

Marlene powered a 260-yard drive on the 17th, at least 15 yards ahead of the American girl. Pat's approach was 10 feet off the pin and Marlene got within six feet. Again the American missed and Marlene got it to square the match and lay the setting for her game-winning 18th hole.

Both had drives of about 220 yards and their second shots were on the green, Marlene's 10 feet to the side of the pin and Pat's 12 feet. Pat putted weakly, the ball stopping 4½ feet short and again she missed it. Marlene putted within 18 inches of the flag and canned it for her par four.

That was it.

A corporal's guard followed the Lenczyk-Romack match that finished on the 16th. Miss Romack was one up at the turn, lost her lead on the 10th and won the 12th, 14th and 16th holes to advance into the final.



$150,000 Price For Franchise

MONTREAL (CP)—President Albert Molini of the class C Provincial Baseball League, taking note of oft-recurring reports that Quebec City may step up to the triple A International circuit, said Friday it would cost the International League $150,000 to buy the Quebec franchise.

Reports have had it that Springfield, low in attendance, may drop out of the IL next season. Chicago Cubs hold the Springfield franchise. Reports also have it that Baltimore is next in line for a major league berth.

Molini said if the International heads or team sponsors want to shift either franchise to Quebec, they will have to find $150,000 "to indemnify the present owners of the Quebec club and the other members of the league."

Comment from the IL office was that the $150,000 price tag was "ridiculous."

THEY LOVED IT—Friday's lacrosse game between the Trailermen and Orillia West Yorks had everything the fans wanted. It was rough, had brilliant goal-tending and saw Peterborough win the third game for a 3-0 lead in the series. A small portion of the 2,800 fans is shown in the top photo. They had plenty to yell about minutes later when George Masters, Elmer Lee and Stu Scott, of Orillia, were thrown out of the game for attacking referees Joe Murphy and Piper Bain. Lee, former Hamilton star, quite sour-faced, is seen leaving the playing field. He caused quite a rumpus in the dressing room before he calmed down.

300 Marksmen Enter Finals OF DCRA Shoot

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—The prize every sharpshooter wants to win is up for competition today at the final day of the 85th annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot.

Three hundred marksmen, who qualified to enter the final stage of the Governor-General's match Thursday, are set to sprawl along these ranges near Ottawa to compete for the coveted Gold Medal.

Ten rounds are to be fired from the 300-yard range and 15 rounds from each of the 600 and 900-yard ranges.

Friday, an Ottawa RCAF officer captured two big awards in the week-long shoot.

Sqdn. Ldr. Dave Reynolds, 45, a member of air material command at RCAF station Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, won both the grand and all-comers' aggregate to win the DCRA Silver and Bronze Crosses and chalked up a score of 610 of a possible 625 in the all-comers' aggregate to win a silver ice tub.

Capt. D. O. White, 45, of Pine Falls, Man., who Friday won the Macdonald Challenge Trophy by posting a score of 124 of a possible 125 firing 10 rounds from 300 yards and 15 rounds from the 600-yard range, placed second in both aggregates.

SELECT BISLEY TEAM

Top aggregate standings during the week are added to the scores that will be posted in the final stage of the Governor-General's match today and from this will come Canada's 1954 Bisley team.

Four tie shoots also were decided Friday.

Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, 48-year-old member of the King's Own Calgary Regiment, captured first place in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match in a five-way shoot-off.

He scored five bulls-eyes in the regulation five-round shoot-off to beat out Lieut. Gilmour Boa, Toronto, Maj. R. W. Hampton, Camp Borden, Ont.; S. Sgt. G. B. Kay, Hamilton, and Sqdn. Ldr. Reynolds who finished the match proper Thursday with tied scores of 148 of a possible 150 from 200, 500 and 600 yards.

Cpl. A. M. Hughes, 37, of St. George, N.B., beat out another Maritime marksman in a two-way shoot-off to decide the qualifying stage of the Governor General's match.

He scored a 23 of a possible 25 in the shoot-off to retire CPO H. Winters of Dartmouth, N.S., who finished with 22. Both marksmen finished the match proper with 147 scores, three off the possible.

Sgt. Alec Parnell, 73, of Verdun, Que., won the Transvaal Cup in a two-way shoot-off with Sgt. C. G. Douglass of Moncton, N.B. In the shoot-off Sgt. Parnell scored 24 of a possible 25 to a 23 score for Sgt. Douglass.

The cup is awarded for the highest score in the first stage of the Governor-General's match by marksmen who have served outside Canada with any branch of the armed services during the South African or First World Wars.

Flt. Sgt. J. V. Martin of Camp Borden, Ont., went into a shot-for-shot competition beyond the regulation five rounds to beat out Cpl. A. M. Johnston of Charlottetown, and Sgt. M. T. Davies of Regina, to win the MacDougall challenge trophy.

The marksmen, who finished the match proper Thursday with perfect scores of 100 each shot 24s of a possible 25 after five rounds.

Flt. Sgt. Martin finally won out after firing three bulls-eyes in the extra shot competition when Cpl. Johnston and Sgt. Davies dropped to inner fours.

SCORES FOUR—Poker-faced Rusty Slater scored four goals to be leading lamp-lighter for the Petes in their 14-8 OLA senior playoff win over Orillia here last night. Rusty is proving the best money player for the Thorpe team in the current series.

Kingston Rink Captures Trebles' Play

Augmented with rinks from Kingston, Perth, and Carleton Place, the Peterborough Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club held their open trebles tournament on Friday afternoon and evening. A Kingston rink won it.

Although the weather was perfect the attendance was well below the average. It could be that there are too many tournaments and the bowlers feel that they cannot take them all in.

However, it was a well played tournament, and all seemed to enjoy it. All rinks played three 14-end games — two during the afternoon and one after the supper hour.

Mrs. J. Knights and Mrs. H. Wilson were the committee in charge of the tournament, and they kept things going in fine style.

WINNERS

First: Kingston—Mrs. M. Lowe, Mrs. W. McCullagh, Mrs. M. Edney, skip.

Second: Peterborough — Mrs. E. Williamson, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. F. Dawe, skip.

Third: Peterborough — Mrs. R. Penrose, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. W. Hepburn, skip.

Fourth: Peterborough — Mrs. F. Mowry, Mrs. J. Knights, Mrs. L. Ackford, skip.

Fifth: Peterborough — Mrs. R. Gamble, Mrs. Althouse, Mrs. R. Dyer, skip.

WINS SINGLES

Thomas Parker, one of our most popular bowlers, and known to the boys as "Mr. Parker," won the club's handicap singles competition last night by defeating William Jones 21-19 in a mighty well-played game. It was unfortunate that there was not a bigger crowd on hand to see this classic. It was close all the way, and in fact on the last end it was 19-all—"Mr. Parker" put in two nice shots, and the game was his. He now holds the title of "singles champion" of the club for the 1953 season, and he well deserves it. Tommy was being congratulated by all when we left the greens last evening, and no doubt it will set "Mr. Parker" up in conversation for a long time to come.

Pats Edged Out In OLA Tilt By Long Branch

Long Branch yanked out an 18-15 victory over Peterborough Pats at Long Branch last night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five OLA junior "A" semi-final series. They had pulled out a close win in the first game here last Wednesday. The third playoff tussle between these clubs will be Monday evening here, and the fourth, if necesary, back at Long Branch next Wednesday. Oakville and Brampton are tangling in the other semi-final series.

In the Friday fray, Long Branch struck fast to build up a 4-1 lead in the first quarter, but they were only in front 8-6 at the halfway mark. Pats fought furiously in the third to take over the lead, having a 13-11 margin going into the fourth. But the husky and classy Toronto crew cashed in on breaks and penalties to eke out the verdict in the hot fourth stanza.

NO BREAKS AT ALL

The Peterborough squad felt they didn't get any breaks from the referee, but being especially peeved at a five-minute misconduct penalty handed to Bob Curtis. Play was speedy and rough enough, with a lot of penalties passed out, being fairly well divided.

Curtis led the losers with five markers, Carl Brioux also starring with a four-goal effort, and Frank Farley clicking for three nice ones. Singles were counted by Bob Hobart, Willie Logan and Ivan Thomas. Teams:

Pats: Goal, Hil; defence, Brioux and Allan; centre, Curtis; wings, Hobart and Daniels; rover, O'Reilly; alternates, Bloom, Logan, Farley, Thomas and McDougall.

Long Branch: Goal, Russell; defence, L. Ruse and Kapasky; centre, Lyttle; wings, Passmore and Tomchisen; rover, Walton; alternates, P. Ruse, Henderson, Coleman, Smith, Rowson, Neave, Clancy and Anderson.

Red Wings Knock Royals Silly In 16-1 Nightcap

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals were like lambs who had been led to slaughter after Rochester Red Wings got through with them Friday night.

The Royals took the seven-inning International League opener of a twilight doubleheader, 8-4—but that second game!

The third-place Wings belted the Royals silly in winning the nightcap 16-1. The home club uncorked a 23-hit attack, their second highest of the season. Rochester made 27 hits in a seven-inning game in Buffalo last week.

The split left Montreal 1½ games back of the pace-setting Bisons who defeated Syracuse Chiefs 6-4 at Syracuse. The Wings are 4½ games back.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Baltimore Orioles split a twin bill, the Leafs winning the nightcap 4-0 after losing the opener 4-2, while Ottawa Athletics defeated Springfield Cubs 7-3.

ALLOWS SEVEN

Rochester lefty Bob Hoch, a reinforcement from Columbus, O., got the nightcap win over the Royals, stopping them with a seven hitter. Ken Lehman was the loser.

Rookie Wally Moon cracked two homers for Rochester and Don Richmond also hit for the circuit.

Art Fabbro got his first win when he beat the Wings in the opener. Octavio Rubert was the loser.

The Bisons clinched the Syracuse victory in the fourth inning with three runs. Jack Wallaesa opened that frame with his 28th homer of the season.

At Baltimore, Hal Hudson limited the Orioles to five hits in the nightcap, while his mates got 10 off starter Jack Sanford and a pair of reliefers. Howie Fox, pitching six inn ,s, gave up seven hits to the Leafs in the first game to win his 11th victory.

At Ottawa, Mike Kume went all the way for his first win against three losses. Springfield starter Dave Hillman lost his eighth decision against one victory.

Lions Whip Stars 24-10 At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—A record-breaking passing attack catapulted by Bobby Layne swept the powerful Detroit Lions of the National Football League to a 24-10 victory over the College All-Stars before 93,818 at Soldier Field Friday night.

Layne's 19 hits on 30 shots gave the Lions 339 yards through the air to riddle the spasmodic collegians who waited until the final five minutes to thrill the big crowd with their only touchdown.

That came on a 17-yard end sweep by halfback Gib Dawson of Texas after Jim Sears of Southern California streaked 73 yards on a punt return. Dawson also kicked a 29-yard field goal.

Ill feeling several times broke out into open warfare between the All-Stars and the Lions, who scored the pro's 12th win against six losses and two ties.

Halfback Bob Hoernschmeyer scored two Lion touchdowns on short smashes, end Cloyce Box snagged a 10-yard scoring pass from Layne and half back Doak Walker's 10-yard field goal comprised Detroit's payoff strikes.

Chicago Sox Hold Second By Whitewashing Detroit

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Even if Chicago White Sox don't catch New York Yankees, manager Paul Richards should rate a rousing cheer for his 1953 successes. The current edition of the Sox is playing better ball than any Chicago American League entry since 1920. That was the last time the Sox finished as high as second in the flag chase.

Richards took over a sixth-place team at the start of the 1951 season. He finished fourth in his first year and third last season.

In beating Detroit 7-0 Friday night the Sox maintained their five-game margin over third-place Cleveland. While the Yankees—6½ ahead—appear out of reach, the Chicagoans seem a solid bet for second.

GETS BIG BOOST

Richards, a catcher in his playing days, has received a tremendous boost from two fellows who used to pitch to him and now pitch for him—Billy Pierce and Virgil Trucks.

Trucks came to the White Sox in mid-June from St. Louis Browns. He's won 10 games and lost two and has an over-all record of 15-6.

Pierce won his 16th game Friday night against Detroit, the most he's ever won in the majors. It was his third straight shutout and ran his string of scoreless innings to 34 2-3.

Pierce, a small fastballing lefthander, struck out four men in winning his fifth straight. He's fanned 142 so far—tops in the league.

FOUR RAINED OUT

Rains in the wake of an Atlantic hurricane washed out half of the major league program Friday night. New York at Philadelphia and Washington at Boston in the American League were postponed. So were Pittsburgh at Brooklyn and Philadelphia at New York in the National.

Cleveland outlasted St. Louis Browns 8-7. Chicago Cubs battered Milwaukee 11-4 and Cincinnati edged St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in 11 innings.

Luke Easter blasted a pair of two-run homers to aid the Indians and Al Rosen hit one. Bob Lemon, last of three Cleveland pitchers, was credited with his 16th victory.

RUIN BRAVES

Home runs ruined Milwaukee in Chicago as the Braves slipped eight games behind the league-leading Dodgers. The Cubs hit four into the seats including a pinch-hit grand slam by Bill Serena, his first in the majors. Ed Mathews hit No. 37 for the Braves in the first inning.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell lost the decision to Joe Nuxhall in Cincinnati although they each gave up only seven hits in the 11-inning struggle. Mizell singled home St. Louis' run in the fifth after rookie Harry Elliott had doubled, his first major league hit. Ted Kluszewski was the big gun for the Redlegs, driving home the first run in the fourth and scoring the winning tally. He doubled in the 11th and rode home on Roy McMillan's single.

Eskies Chill Argos By 28-16 As Regina, Stampeders Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The baseball season is hardly in the home stretch, but today is one for rejoicing among Western Canada football fans. In three pre-season exhibition games Friday night, western football teams came through every time.

At Montreal, the Alouettes went down 16-6 before a determined Saskatchewan Roughriders squad; at Hamilton, Calgary Stampeders shaded Hamilton Tigert-Cats 19-18; at Edmonton the home town Eskimos blasted Toronto Argonauts 28-16, to make it an old-home night for the West.

The Als' two-year record, including Friday night's exhibition, now stands at two victories and 15 losses.

A crowd of 17,582 watched the Western Conference team outplay the Als practically all the way, striking for two third-quarter touchdowns over the Big Four squad.

A big factor in the Riders' victory was the passing of Glen Dobbs who threw one touchdown pass to Mac Speedie and later two more to the same player that put the westerners on the five-yard line. Jim Harper went over from there.

The Riders' other points came from a single in the first quarter, a rouge in the second and Joe Aguirre's 25-yard field goal in the fourth.

The Als' brief bid came late in the third quarter when Tom Hugo, a new import from Denver, intercepted one of Dobbs' passes, heaved to the Rider 35-yard line and ran to the eight, from where Virgil Wagner went over on third down.

It was close through the first half, but after that the Roughriders appeared to be in better condition and were never seriously threatened.

At Hamilton, Bob Shaw's 26-yard field goal in the last quarter gave the Stampeders their narrow victory before 15,000 fans.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union club came from behind an eight-point deficit in the last half after blowing a 10-point lead in the first.

John Henry Johnson led the Stampeders, scoring two majors, one from 25 yards out and the other from 14. He was over standing up both times.

Dave West, fleet Calgary halfback, got the other touchdown and Shaw booted a convert besides his field goal.

Bernie Custis got the first Hamilton major on a 100-yard return of a Calgary kick-off and the other two Big Four touchdowns were scored by Tommy Holler and Cam Fraser.

At Edmonton, Billy Vessels, sensational Oklahoma scatback, was almost a one-man team as the Eskimos roared from behind in the second half to whip the Argos before 14,000 fans.

Vessels, top American college player in 1952, lived up to his press clippings with sparkling running, plunging, passing and pass-catching. He scored three of Edmonton's four majors.

Until Vessels took over, Argos, paced by the heaves of Knobby Wirkowski in the first half, threatened a repeat performance of their 21-11 victory over the Eskimos in the Grey Cup final last fall.

Edmonton's other major was scored by Normie Kwong. Argo majors came from end Al Bruno and halfbacks Ulysses Curtis and Johnny Pont.

Showing little or no pass defence against Wirkowski in the opening stages, Eskimos trailed 10-9 after the first quarter and 16-9 at the half. They were ahead 21-16 at three-quarter time.

Paddlers Meet In Toronto For Annual Canoe Regatta

TORONTO (CP) — The best paddlers from Canada and the United States get together at the Centre Island course here Sunday to battle it out for the North American Canoe championship regatta.

The regatta, first of its kind, is being staged by the Canadian Canoe Association and its U. S. counterpart, the American Canoe Association. Competing crews have been picked from among the top three in the CCA regatta held at Ottawa Aug. 1 and the American national events, held last week.

A. D. Fluker, secretary of the Canadian body, said the meet will have a great bearing on the 1956 Olympics as far as the Canadians are concerned.

"It will give us the opportunity to become more proficient with Olympic-type shells," he said.

The special shells, 17 feet long instead of the 16-foot type generally used in this country, are nothing new to the Americans. They have been using them for several years.

But the boats are so scarce in Canada that only three could be made available.

"This will be a point in the Americans' favor," said Mr. Fluker.

The events scheduled are single and double-blade singles, tandems and fours. They will be run off over the standard Olympic 1,000-metre course with no turns.

Crews are entered from Toronto, Montreal, Sudbury, Lachine, Que., Washington, D.C., New York and West Roxbury, Mass.

Looked upon as Canada's outstanding representatives in the regatta are Don Stringer of Sudbury, who captured the single-blade singles at the CCA championships in Ottawa, and Lloyd Rice of the Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club.

Rice, who won the western division trials of the CCA, works in Port Hope, Ont., and drives to Toronto every night of the week to get in a few hours' practice.

Supremacy Of Christ Made Plain In Gospels

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

In Jesus of Nazareth we see the portrayal and record of a life wholly human. He called Himself "the Son of Man," and He is called "the man Christ Jesus" (I Timothy 2:5).

We have the story of Jesus from babyhood to manhood, and the emphasis upon His humanity is as clear in the details of His experience as it is in the records and testimony of the disciples who believed in Him. He knew hunger and thirst. He needed rest and sleep. He wept with sorrowing friends, and spiritually He felt the need of prayer. One testimony is that He was "in all points tempted like as we are" (Hebrews 4:15).

Yet in its uniqueness, that earthly life was "without sin," and in that sinless life the Christian disciples saw the incarnation of the Eternal Christ. The life of Jesus of Nazareth from the Manger to the Cross, and beyond that to the Resurrection, was the revelation in time and human affairs of an eternal and divine life. Jesus was the incarnation of the Word that had been, from the beginning, the Word that was in God, and that was God.

It is not only in the first chapter of the Gospel of John that all this is expressed. It is emphasized repeatedly in the Epistles of Paul, in the Epistle to the Hebrews and in other parts of the New Testament.

All this we express in our beliefs and creeds. Yet I think for most of us it lanuches us out into a realm beyond our compretian disciples saw the Incarnahension. What I am impressed with is the fact that it was the earthly life of Jesus that led those who knew Him, and those who received their testimony, to believe that He was not only the Son of Man, but also the Son of God, in a special and eternal sense beyond that in which we are all children of God.

I have long believed, also, that if we are to believe in and know the Eternal Christ, beyond the formal repeating of creeds, it must be through knowing that earthly Jesus as His disciples knew Him. It is as we feel His supremacy as man that we feel and know that God was in Christ, as Paul expresses it (II Corinthians 5:19), or that we are impelled to cry out, with Peter, "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the living God."

We may not be able to know, or express, all that means, but it has for us a sense of the vastness and completeness of all things in heaven and in earth—the fullness of truth and righteousness, as well as of love and mercy and grace and freedom.

So, in the Eternal Christ, known through the earthly Jesus, the Christian lives in an eternal environment. "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:23).

But all the mystery and greatness concentrate on that earthly life of Jesus, portrayed in the four Gospels. It is there that the supremacy of Jesus is made plain. For the reader of those Gospels today it is as true as it was for those who heard and recorded the words of Jesus, words that never man so spake, and never man so lived.

The supremacy of Jesus has been the deep and abiding faith of many who have been far apart, insofar as formal creeds and metaphysical conceptions have been concerned.

CALL FOR CAUSEWAY TENDERS

Tenders for the contracting job to excavate 80,000 cubic yards of limestone rock and then dump it in the narrows to lay the foundation for Gannon's Narrows Causeway will close 5. p.m. August 27. Contractors will also bid on the job of dumping 14,000 cubic yards of clay to serve as top dressing. Jack Kean, county engineer, drew up the specifications for the combined causeway and overhead bridge and they have been approved by the Ontario Department of Highways and the Federal Departments of Transport and Public Works.

City, Provincial Police Hunt Vandal Cows Of Maniece Ave.; Innocents Watch From Field

You think you have troubles when you find a rabbit has scrounged a carrot from your back yard; or a gopher burrowed up under your favourite petunia.

Allan Faulkner, of 315 Maniece, woke up this morning to find his garden had nocturnal visitors Friday night, too: Cows! Nothing simple like chewing a carrot or two, either; they consumed and trampled three rows of corn.

Other neighbors complained of similar plights and the objects of their complaints were three cows wandering along Maniece Ave.

Another Maniece Ave. resident who, incidentally, owns a herd of cows, was accused by Faulkner as being responsible. Charles Harris claimed, however, he had kept all his cows under control at night.

Faulkner, who lives inside the city limits, visited the police station this morning. Another Maniece Ave. man called Provincial Police. Two officers, OPP Constable Jim Healy and City Police Constable Cec Bowyer arrived at the scene about 9.30, and, though there were ample traces of cows, no cows could be seen . . . except, of course, those grazing in the Harris pasture.

The two cruisers scanned the immediate vicinity, partially city property and partially county property. Nope, they couldn't find the cows.

Maybe it's just as well, too. What would two policemen do with three cows?

Constable Arrests Suspect In $10,000 Embezzlement

Working on a tip, Minden OPP Constable Alex Edwards apprehended a Toronto man at Kushog Lake Thursday, climaxing a year's investigation of a $10,000 embezzlement. The man, Leslie A. Watkins, 47, was held at Lindsay where Detective Sergeant Charles Cook took him into custody later that day.

After checking around the district, Constable Edwards located Watkins at a Kushog Lake cottage with his wife and two children.

SECRETARY-TREASURER

Police said the embezzlement from Sterne Equipment in Toronto occurred over a four-year period. Watkins, former secretary-treasurer of the firm, was dismissed a year ago when discrepancies in the books came to light.

Since dismissed, the man, a resident of 42 Donalda Crescent, Agincourt, has been employed by three real estate firms.

Man Killed In Crash At Myrtle

3 Toronto Men Injured In Headon Collision

An Oshawa man was killed and three Toronto men were injured in a headon crash at 3:30 a.m. today between a panel truck and a car on Highway 12, three miles north of Brooklin.

The dead man is Robert Steele, 21, an assistant engineer at Radio Station CKLB, Oshawa.

Injured and in Oshawa General Hospital are Bud Jones, 22, a passenger in the truck, minor injuries; and the two occupants of the car —Bob Tagart, 23, multiple fractures and cuts, and Brian Train 23, a broken shoulder and left knee.

Whitby provincial police who investigated the accident said that the two vehicles crashed headon and then rolled upside down after the crash.

Steele is believed to have been killed almost immediately. The three Toronto men were taken the 13 miles to hospital in Oshawa.

Apples Appear On Market From District

Home grown apples during the last two weeks have steadily become more plentiful on the open market. Farmers and jobbers this morning were asking 50 cents a basket for Harvest and Dutch apples and 75 cents for Red Astrakhan's.

However, freshly home grown vegetables took up most of the room on farmers' stands. They were the biggest sellers of the day. Green peppers were selling for two for 15 cents; two bunches of beets 15 cents; two boxes of green beans 15 cents; head of cabbage 10 cents; two bunches of carrots 15 cents; cucumbers five cents or three for 10 cents; Swiss chard two for 15 cents; onions 25 cents a box; vegetable marrow 15 to 25 cents; lettuce 10 cents, and new potatoes were still selling from 30 to 35 cents a basket.

Corn was still up in price and was selling for 50 cents a dozen.

Tomatoes were another big item on the market. They were selling for 65 cents a six quart basket, a big drop in price from three wecks ago, when they first made their appearance.

Eggs were selling for the same as last week. Grade A oversize 73 cents, large 70 cents and medium large 68 cents. Chickens were selling for 50 cents a pound, the same as all year. There was also home made bread on sale for 25 cents a loaf. Horseradish was selling from 50 to 75 cents a jar.

Blueberries were still plentiful and they were going for $2.25 a basket, cherries $1.50 a basket, plums 20 cents for a small basket, 30 cents for red curarnts and thimble berries 45 cents.

A local beekeeper was selling honey for 30 cents a jar, four pounds for 95 cents, and a section of honey for 50 cents. Gladioulus were still as popular as ever and were selling for 50 cents a bunch.

Son Absolved Of Dad's Death In Car Accident

LINDSAY (ENS)—A coroner's jury at Coboconck Thursday night found that 55-year-old Vernon Alexander, of St. Catharines, died in a car accident when he was thrown from his car and broke his neck.

His 21-year-old son Walter, who was driving the car when it flipped through the air and went out of control, was cleared of blame.

Dr. Gratton Graham, of Fenelon Falls, was the coroner.

Mrs. Alexander, wife of the dead man, and his daughter Judy were also injured. Another son, Jack, was unhurt.

The fatal accident occurred two miles north of Rosedale on Highway 35 as the Alexanders were returning from a weekend holiday at Minden. On a straight stretch of road the car went out of control on the wet pavement, struck a culvert, flipped end over end twice, and landed on its wheels in the ditch.

Mr. Alexander was thrown from the car and killed instantly.

Mrs. Alexander got a broken wrist, Walter a cut scalp and Judy minor injuries.

Jets Crash, One Dead

WITTMUND, Germany (CP)—West German police said two British jet planes collided over nearby Werdum today, killing one pilot. The other pilot was said to have baled out.

Villagers Corral Escaped Cattle For Trucker

BETHANY (ENS)—Joe Simpkins, farmer and trucker from Hespeler, Ont., is convinced that Bethany folk live by the Golden Rule.

While passing through the village en route from Smiths Falls to his home with a truckload of newly purchased cattle valued at $1,800, the end gate of the truck racks became unfastened and one of the animals jumped out on the main street.

Several men rounded up the animals and another got out his car and took after the truck driver and was able to stop him some two miles out of the village and tell him of his loss. When Mr. Simpkins got out to investigate, he found he had lost not only the one animal, but four others. He turned around and started back along the highway . . . the obliging car driver also returned, picked up a friend and they too joined in the search.

They stopped cars, making enquiries along the way and finally, after some two hours of search, located all the cattle. None of them were seriously injured by their tumble from the truck.

They were all finally coralled in a farmer's yard and loaded back into their truck with the end gate repaired. Another man and his wife invited Mr. Simpkins to their home for dinner and later in the day he was able to proceed on his way home convinced that nowhere else would he have found so much neighborly kindness.

Sudbury Named City Of Smiles

Sudbury's nickname, the Nickel City, may be changed. In a letter to Sudbury's mayor, Daniel Jessup, mayor Jack D. Burnet of Cobourg, suggested a second name "The City of Smiles".

Following his visit to Sudbury for the Canadian Legion convention early this month, Mayor Burnet wrote that he was particularly impressed by the "general cheerful atmosphere which prevailed everywhere".

"As a convention city," he added, "Sudbury is in a class by itself. The entertainment was grand, particularly the civic banquet. To me, the most outstanding characteristic of Sudbury is the spirit of optimism and the general cheerful atmosphere which prevailed everywhere".

"I think if I wer asked to provide a suitable slogan for your city, without a moment's hesitation I would write The City of Smiles."

HIDDEN TALENT FOR PAINTING has been discovered among Peterborough's youth in art classes, taught by painter-instructor, Oscar Schleinger, and sponsored by The Examiner. This year he has 36 pupils, five more than last year. This talent has been unveiled in the pencil, pen, oil wash and opaque oil paintings by the students. Dalia Eidimtaite, Joanne Tait, David Biggs (back, top photo), Marjorie Barry and Nancy Armstrong (at front) all second year students, listen as Mr. Schleinger explains their work. Peter Harris, David Donaldson, John Madill, Eleanor Ball, Marcia Readman, Barbara Bonney and Tim Thompson (back row, lower photo), Reginald Chandler and Bob Cardwell (front) watch as the painter-teacher dabs at a painting. They are all first-year high school students' class. A pen sketch (bottom photo), showing the west bank of the Otonabee River from Riverside Park, was done by a second-year student, Miss Eidimtaite. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Talent In Young People Uncovered In Art Lessons

Some suprising talent—that's the estimate of painter-teacher Oscar Schleinger when he comments on his 1953 summer art class. His estimate, he feels, is borne out by the results in pencil and pen drawing, oil wash and opaque oil painting. The classes, inaugurated last summer, are sponsored by The Examiner.

If his students want to advance in the world of art, Mr. Schleinger says, they have some background to help them. "If they go to the big city — Toronto — they will be on a better than equal basis with the students they may meet there."

36 PUPILS

In classes spread throughout the week, Mr. Schleinger has 36 pupils, five more than last year. Of these, five are holdovers from the 1952 class, good enough, he believes, to be worth the extra time spent on them.

Mr. Schleinger says he is "extremely satisfied" with the progress made by his second year students.

But the first year pupils also show talent and stamina, two qualities their teacher feels will help them to become competent artists.

"Some of the first year work in oil is as good as that being done by the second year pupils. However, some of the second year pupils have forgotten a bit over the last year. Besides, some of them were quite young when they started," he said.

Better work done this summer by freshmen students was due, he thought, to the fact that older children had been selected, and that a greater proportion of them were high school students.

In addition to that, fewer dropped out in comparison with 1952's class.

"We gave special consideration to high school pupils. Also, we took no children below 13," he said.

It was still too early to say definitely that the school had been a success. One girl who studied with last summer's class graduated with honors this spring from an art course at Toronto's Ryerson Institute.

PLAN EXHIBITION

As there was last year, an exhibition is planned for the conclusion of this year's classes. A Toronto artist will do the judging and give criticism. Judge last year was the well-known Canadian artist, Charles Comfort.

"We give them the best material to work with. Their boxes are the style used by professional artists; their brushes are the best, because good work can only be done with good tools," says Mr. Schleinger.

Indoor classes, for still-life and figure drawing, plus elementary teaching, are held in Ashburnham Hall, on Hunter St. E. This space is donated by the city's recreation commission.

Students learn the basic principles of drawing, and advance through the various stages of work until they attempt oil painting. Pencil drawing comes first, followed by oil wash work, then opaque oil painting. Second-year students are taught pen-and-ink work, the techniques of which are closely related to those of engraving.

They learn perspective, both line and atmospheric. In the latter, they learn to diminish color values to approximate the fading of color with distance.

MOVE OUTDOORS

From indoor training at Ashburnham Hall, they advance to landscape work, most of which is done from Riverside Park, south of the baseball stadium. A group of second year students received winter training over a ten-week period, during which they painted ceramic figures and worked on more detailed pencil and pen sketches. Next year, said Mr. Schleinger, they will attempt sketches from life.

There is real talent in the city, says Mr. Schleinger, if it can only be developed.

Head-on Crash Damages Cars

LINDSAY (ENS)—A head-on collision on Highway 7 Friday night caused considerable damage to the cars involved, but resulted in no injuries.

Dr. W. N. Earle, of Omemee, was driving toward Peterborough, some two miles east of Omemee, when he pulled out to pass a truck and failed to see an oncoming car, driven by Grant K. Brown, of 13 Cluxton St., Peterboorugh.

The two cars collided head-on causing damage of some $250 to the front ends of both vehicles.

Constable Jim Hall, of Lindsay OPP, investigated the accident.

Rally Called For Workers

A rally of workers in the building trades has been called for Wednesday night to mark the opening of an intensive organizational drive in this district.

Prominent labor leaders from the Toronto Building Trades council will attend, including William Jenoves, president; William Hardy, secretary; and Jack Kellythorne, of the TLC, district representative for the various building trades.

Electricians, carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, painters and laborers have been invited by John Johnson, chairman of the building trades committee of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC), to attend the rally 8.30 p.m. Wednesday in the Orange Hall.

"It is hoped that the workers will respond in large numbers to this effort to improve their pay and working conditions," said Mr. Johnston.

Altogether there are some 500 workers in the building trades in the Peterborough district, half of them unorganized.

Other members of the local committee are William Given, Cameron Wasson and James Chalmers.

THE WHITBY—This design is specifically for a lot of narrow width but not less than 40 feet. It provides direct access from the kitchen to the front door. There are three bedrooms and a fairly large living room. Construction is in brick veneer with full basement. This is another in the series on practical home planning by Harold C. Beckett, Architect, 52 Chatham Street, Windsor, Ont.

Attractive Landscaping Adds 10 Per Cent To Value

Better living and decidedly more happiness and pride in the home are achieved when the homeowner works to a carefully thought-out landscape plan. When properly planted, your property becomes much more valuable too —real estate men estimate 10 to 15 per cent is added to the value of a home when attractively landscaped.

Harmonious planting is due to an eye for beauty and nature than it is to anything else. Because of the wide choice of plant materials available, it is particularly not due to the size of one's pocketbook.

EXTEND LIVING AREA OUTDOORS

The reduced size of many homes today suggests extension of living to the outdoors. Smaller homes suggest slow-growing plants that are not too large at maturity, especially close to the house. This is of course also true of the one-storey or ranch type house.

The best approach to planning is to have a landscape nurseyman lay out a planting plan for your family. In lieu of this, if one made a rough drawing of the grounds and house with measurements of both house and property, and brought it to a competent nurseryman, the latter could mark on the drawing where you should have certain trees, shrubs and other plants. Then you can proceed with the planting bit by bit, until you have achieved the whole.

AVOID THESE MISTAKES

If you plan the landscape layout all yourself, here are a few "don'ts":

1. Don't plant in a monotonous row against the house.

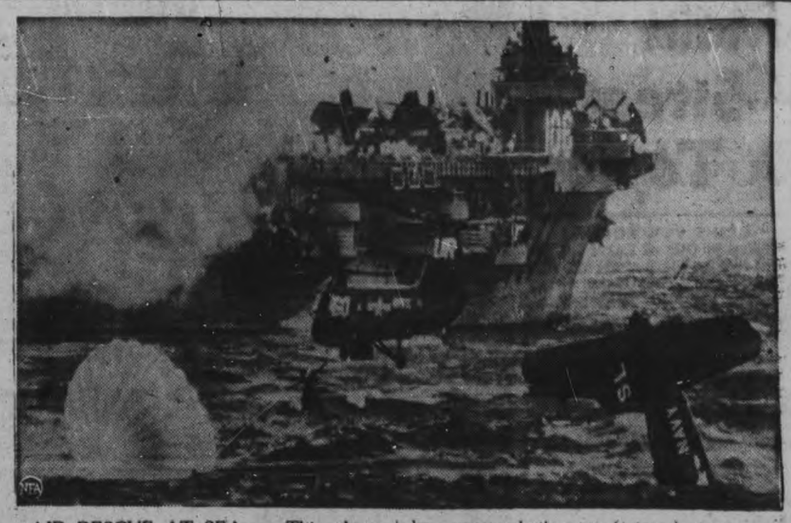
2. Don't plant a shade tree on the east, unless you want shade still further to the east. The hottest rays of the sun are from the west, in the afternoon. Therefore plant your shade trees on the west so you will shade your own property rather than your neighbor's when the tree is full grown. Figure out first exactly where you want shade. Then take a broom and hold the straw against the sun in the afternoon in summer to see where it shades the property. If the broom is held high enough, either by tying it on a pole or otherwise, you can learn exactly where the shade will be, were a tree there instead of the broom.

3. Don't start with too large an area and plant it poorly. Small areas well planted are more attractive. You can expand the area from year to year, according to your needs.

4. Don't try to plant the property all at once if doing the whole job yourself. Plant it gradually. You will get new ideas as you go along.

FOLLOW THESE RULES

Here are a few "do's":



1. Plant for your family's comfort—appearance alone is not enough. Figure out how you can use a hedge, so your family can use the property or parts of it without being in full view of everybody. Maybe you can spot a few shrubs or trees so they at least will partially screen off the street, or too-close neighbors, as the case may be. Privacy is important.

2. Observe properties in your neighborhood that are well planted. Copy the planting ideas that appeal to you.

3. Use flowering shrubs and perennials to give delightful views of the property. Borders of roses, or climbing roses alongside a garage, for instance, achieve this as do other perennials like flowering vines. The beauty of roses lies in the fact that they make excellent cut flowers for the home.

4. By all means have a few fruit trees or berry plants if you have the space. Beautiful when flowering, fruit trees, properly sprayed and cared for, can produce some of your table delicacies. Grapes, too, are easy to grow and make charming fences or arbors. Of course, floribunda roses make beautiful flowering fences. With one you get fruit, with the other flowers, so you can take your pick, or have both.

There's real satisfaction in planting your property. From year to year you watch its beauty grow. Sometimes it's somewhat discouraging when you plant bit by bit, instead of all at once. But then, one day, you'll realize how beautiful your grounds have become—and be glad you exercised the patience you did!

AIR RESCUE AT SEA — This photo shows the dramatic moment off the Virginia capes in a recent naval manoeuvre when a Navy pilot was forced to ditch his plane immediately after a take-off from the carrier Block Island (background). Pilot Ens. E. H. Barry, of Indianapolis, was approached by a rescue helicopter (left), but his parachute opened (lower left), making his pickup impossible. Berry fell back into the water, cut his shroud lines, and was pulled to safety by a motor whale boat. In this photo, he is caught in a tug-of-war with his 'chute and the helicopter. Tail of his crashed plane is at right.

Wrestler Plans To Trap Monster

SARNIA (CP)—New Hamburg's monster better watch out. There's a man here says he can catch him.

Tuffy Truesdall, a former wrestler turned monster expert, says he agrees with New Hamburg police chief George Thomas that the critter that slinks up from the Nith river to prowl the village streets after dark is an alligator.

"Alligators leave bicycle-type tire tracks when walking on land, like the tracks seen on New Hamburg streets," he said Friday. He should know. Tuffy wrestles alligators as a hobby.

He's laid plans to entice the New Hamburg monster to a place where he can get at him. He's offered to take one female and two male alligators to the village as assistants.

He says he'll tie the three 'gators to the bank of the Nith and wait for the monster to show When it does, he'll jump it.

25 Youths Sentenced In Case

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-five youths from the Beamsville district were sentenced Thursday on charges arising from offences involving a 13-year-old girl. All had pleaded guilty.

Magistrate Harley D. Hallett sentenced 23 youths, ranging in age from 15 to 22, to 28 days in jail and imposed fines ranging from $55 to $405. Two others who were present when the offences occurred were fined $225 or 45 days in jail.

Twelve of the youths were charged with having carnal knowledge; the other 11 were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency. The girl now is in a Toronto girl's training school.

POOR MORALS

Magistrate Hallett said the accused were a fair cross-section of the youth of the province but they had "defaulted in moral thinking," had "too much free time and too much money," and didn't have "enough mental capacity to face their responsibilities."

He said none of the boys had bank accounts, although almost all were employed and making up to $70 a week. All of them either had a car or had easy access to the family car. Noting that they always stayed out until 2 or 3 a. m., he termed their confessions "disgusting." He felt the community was also to blame.

"Not one of you had the common decency to stay away from this sordid mess," he told the youths.

Attorney-General Porter at Toronto said today it was impossible to comment on whether the sentences handed down were fair without hearing a resume of the evidence. He said the youths could appeal their sentences if they so desired.

Nova Scotia's Strong Man At 59 Can Lift 1600 Lbs.

By JOHN MURPHY
Canadian Press Correspondent

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—At 59, Chalmers Bigney of nearby Keble still lays claim to the title of "strongest man in Nova Scotia." He feels he can still lift 1,500 to 1,600 pounds unassisted.

In his prime, Bigney has held four horses pulling with all their worth, has lifted 16 men in a single lift, has had a car run over his body, has had a huge stone broken on his chest with a heavy maul, and has broken off six-inch spikes with his teeth.

When a reporter visited him, Bigney demonstrated his strength by splintering a broom handle with two quick blows across the biceps of his left arm. He raised a hefty stick of cordwood above his head with ease, and offered to lift a horse if the reporter would return on a finer day. It was pouring rain at the time.

YOUTHFUL POWERHOUSE

A native of River John, Pictou county, Bigney first realized his strength when he was 14. In those days it was common sport in the Nova Scotia coastal villages for the men of the community to match strength in weight lifting. Bigney was in the village store when a stranger offered $10 to anyone who could lift a 350-pound barrel off the floor. Bigney promptly hoisted it to the store counter.

Because of this and other feats, he soon became known as the "Pictou county strong man" and toured Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island giving exhibitions.

While working with Halifax Tramways during the First World War he amazed fellow employees by carrying a 1,250-pound transformer by himself and placing it on a set of blocks. It took eight men to return it. At another time he demonstrated his strength to doubting members of the Halifax police force by lifting the patrol wagon, with three officers inside, clear off the ground.

At 22 he could make a back lift of 3,800 pounds, and could hold a 20-pound sledge hammer, with a three-foot handle, horizontal in his teeth. To warm up he would hold one end of an ax handle in his teeth while three men tried to twist it.

STEEL MUSCLES

The sinews in Bigney's chest, neck and arms are still as firm as steel. Though he stands only five feet six inches, he is still rugged, healthy and active.

He retired from the strong man act about two years ago and now spends his days farming. The horse on the farm has life easy, as Bigney himself does most of the heavy work.

Bigney has newspaper clippings to back up his claims and though his strong man title has often been challenged no one has yet topped him. Closest competitor is his son Nathan, living near Halifax, who Bigney claims can back-lift a ton.

An animal lover, Bigney risked his life several times to aid animals in distress. Once he went down into icy waters to rescue a horse that had broken through the ice. He got under the animal and lifted it to the surface where others pulled it out.

HURT ONLY ONCE

Such events were everyday procedure for Bigney and he apparently suffered no ill effects. His only serious injury came because of the carelessness of one of the handlers of a team of horses.

Bigney was to hold four horses with his arms—two horses hooked to each arm. It was easy for him to hold both teams in the straight pull, but when one team made a sudden lurch, the ring around his left arm slipped, tearing the muscles of the arm.

But Bigney was a good showman. Despite the injury he held the team.

Old Remedies Often Give Clues To Cures

WASHINGTON—Far-off lands and the "superstitions" of primitive tribes still are important contributors to the medicines of modern science.

Into the warehouses of huge pharmaceutical firms come not only basic chemicals to be compounded into today's exact prescriptions and drugs, but also tons of strange, exotic plant materials from the world around.

One company reports it uses 140 different types of medicinal plants. Crude drugs arrive in paper - and - varnish containers from the Orient and in woven baskets from the tropics. Storage bins smell like apothecary shops of old.

ANCIENT REMEDIES

The science that deals with the history, collection, identification, and use of drug plants is known as pharmacognosy. It is as old as medicine itself.

Priest-doctors of Assyria knew the use of several hundred plant remedies. They treated wounds with sea kelp and goitre with burnt sponge, both rich in iodine used for the same purposes today.

In the Middle Ages arose the so-called "doctrine of signatures," a belief that Nature gives clues to its plant remedies for man's ailments. Hepatica, for example, had liver-shaped leaves; therefore it was believed to be a liver remedy. The walnut was used as a brain medicine, bloodroot as a blood tonic.

Such homely potions, based more on superstition than on science, were widely used even a few generations ago. Herbs gathered as medicines were called "simples". As medical knowledge grew, many of these remedies were revealed as worthless. But others were found to have solid substance.

Digitalis for heart disorders is made from the foxglove plant, which Welshmen used as far back as the 13th century. Opium from the poppy, henbane, peppermint, and castor oil were all known in ancient Egypt. Ephedrine, a drug used for treating colds, asthma, and hay fever, comes from a plant used in China for nearly 5,000 years.

Witch doctors, shamans, and other primitive medicine men, from the tribes of inner Africa to the American Indians, have given medicine many an important drug.

The South American tribe that first chewed the bark of the cinchona tree when stricken with jungle fever, gave quinine to the world. Curare, the deadly native arrow poison, now is widely used as a muscle relaxer.

North American Indians discovered the use of cascara, made from bark of the buckthorn tree. Wild parsnip, which they used, has been discovered to yield a drug active against pneumonia and meningitis. Another old Indian remedy was found several years ago to damage cancers in mice.

Medical scientists today take very seriously new reports of strange or primitive cures. No matter how fantastic they may seem, they are investigated in the hope that some might lead to important medical discoveries.

Kitchener Police Find No Body On Golf Course

KITCHENER (CP)—Objects uncovered in digging near here Tuesday have not tied in with the investigation of the whereabouts of Rudolph Maier, police said Friday.

Some of the articles analyzed were bone fragments but tests have shown they were not human bone.

Digging on a golf course in this area was begun after Gordon Weber, formerly of Kitchener, told police in Los Angeles that he killed Maier, his father-in-law, in a Guelph hotel four years ago and buried the body in a trunk on a Kitchener golf course.

The 69-year-old Maier disappeared four years ago and relatives have heard nothing from him since.

Charles C. Williams Mines Professor Dies

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Prof. Charles Gunning Williams, 71, former head of the department of mining engineering at the University of Toronto, died Friday after suffering a stroke at his Muskoka district summer home.

Born in London, Ont., he attended the University of Toronto and was graduated with honors in 1905.

Summer Home Cooling Is Dream Come True

MR. FIX

The hot water-steam and warm air heating industries are going full speed ahead toward providing home owners with reasonably priced residential summer cooling systems—a midsummer night's dream come true.

The best part of the dream — the part where you usually wake up and find you've been kidding yourself—is that some of these cooling systems can be installed in existing homes with little or no major remodeling. And that's no kidding.

In some instances it is possible to use in the cooling system the same hot water and steam pipes or warm air ducts that serve the existing heating system. Thus these pipes and ducts, whichever the case may be, become units of a combined heating and cooling system.

There are four general types of cooling equipment being manufactured today, and may variations of the four.

The first is a single unit that is independent of the heating system. It has its own refrigeration and air-movement equipment and distribution system. It is used in homes with hot-water or steam-heating systems.

A second, used in some homes already equipped with warm air heating systems, consists only of a refrigeration unit that removes heat from air passing through it. The furnace blower circulates the chilled air through the furnace ducts.

The third type is separate from the heating unit, has its own air-movement equipment, but shares the distribution system with the heating unit.

The fourth, a combination system, wraps up the heating and cooling functions in one unit. In a warm-air heating system the same air-movement equipment and distribution system are used for both. In the hot water installation the same pipes are used to carry refrigeration-chilled water in summer and hot water in winter to convectors or radiators throughout the house.

It is easy to see how, from these basic units, manufacturers are able to branch off into a wide variety of equipment, in a broad price range, adaptable to many purposes and conditions.

For example, one variation of the hot-water combination system is called a "split" system. In the winter, heat supplied by hot water or steam piped to radiators, convectors, etc., is supplemented by warmed, filtered and humidified air conveyed to some rooms by ducts from an air-conditioning unit.

In the sumer, chilled air is carried by the same air conditioner ducts.

Winter air-conditioning systems are also manufactured by the warm-air heating industry, and these, too, are adaptable to summer cooling.

The fact is, the home owner who installs a warm air, winter air-conditioning system is more than half way toward the year-around, air-conditioning goal, as the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association points out.

All that will be necessary to add summer cooling later on is to install a summer air-conditioning unit next to the furnace and connect it to the same air-distribution system.

SOME TYPES of "package" cooling and heating equipment are compact enough for installation in basementless homes.

Huge Wheat Crop Causes Little Joy Among Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—Farmers didn't start cheering today over the report that Canada this year may reap the second biggest wheat crop in her history.

There would be sobering ramifications of such a huge harvest:

1. A big portion of Canada's record 1952 wheat crop of 688,000,000 bushels is still in storage, even before the combines start cutting this year's stands;

2. Another big crop could choke storage facilities;

3. Sales and transportation outlets could be overwhelmed or at least strained;

4. World wheat prices might be forced down.

CROP LATE

In its first seasional forecast Friday, the bureau of statistics estimated the 1953 crop at 603,793,000 bushels. But experts emphasized that this was only the first estimate. Not only is the crop late, but part of it also has already been hit by rust. It could also be hit by frost later in the season.

However, taking even these crop-lessening factors into account, Canada may cut an above-average yield at a time when world storage bins are stuffed. The bureau earlier this week estimated stocks in Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia at 1,188,500,000 bushels at July 1, more than double the 566,800,000 held on the same date last year.

ESTIMATE CARRYOVER

Carryover of Canada's wheat supplies into the new crop is to be estimated by the bureau Tuesday. The amount is expected to be big though not as large as the peak 1942-43 carryover of 595,000,000 bushels. However, it will probably be far higher than the 217,200,000 bushels a year ago.

Prices for Canadian wheat now are high. Under the International Wheat Agreement they are around $2.02 a bushel (Canadian funds) compared with the ceiling of $2.05 (American funds).

But Britain, world's biggest wheat buyer, is not an IWA member this year, considering the $2.05 ceiling too high. With huge supplies in Canada and the U.S., she might be able to obtain lower prices through competing Canadian and American bids.

Quebec Forest Fires Bring Emergency To Two Villages

FORESVILE, Que. (CP)—Uncontrolled forest fires burning on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river have brought about a state of emergency at Forestville and Ste. Therese de Colombier.

The main fire line is approximately 25 miles away from this lumbering centre but the state of emergency was declared when a small fire broke out in surrounding forests.

It was quelled in short order but police and fire chief H. R. Lachance said the state of emergency will only be lifted when "all danger is passed."

The 2,500 residents of this centre gathered in the parish church Friday night to pray for rain to help the 575 men battling the major blaze along the Riviere Sault au Cochon.

There was another beacon of hope, too. A rain-maker has been called in from the United States and is expected to arrive here today by plane.

Damage so far from the week-long blaze that has reduced 50 square miles of forest to ashes has been set at $1,000,000.

For a time Friday, high northwesterly winds fanned the blaze through the area, 200 miles east of Quebec. The region has been parched by a three-week drought.

Friday night, however, the wind had dropped and chief Lachance said attempts are to be made today to produce rain artificially.

The rain-maker, from the firm of Dr. Wallace Howell and associates of Cambridge, Mass., was called in by the Laurentian Forest Fire Protection Association.

Forests in the district contain birch, pine, spruce and cypress, ranging in height from 50 to 75 feet. Volunteer fire-fighters, paid from 75 to 80 cents an hour under a Quebec government plan through which companies share 50 per cent of expenses, are using tractors, pumps, picks and axes.

Two lumbering camps have already been engulfed by the flames.

PoW SURRENDERS — Heins Fromme, 32, escaped German prisoner of war, is waiting a decision of whether he may remain in Canada. He gave himself up to the RCMP in Ottawa, travelling there from his home at Marathon, Ont., with his wife and three-year-old son. He escaped in 1946 from a camp at Cooksville, Ont., 15 miles southwest of Toronto and was married in 1948.

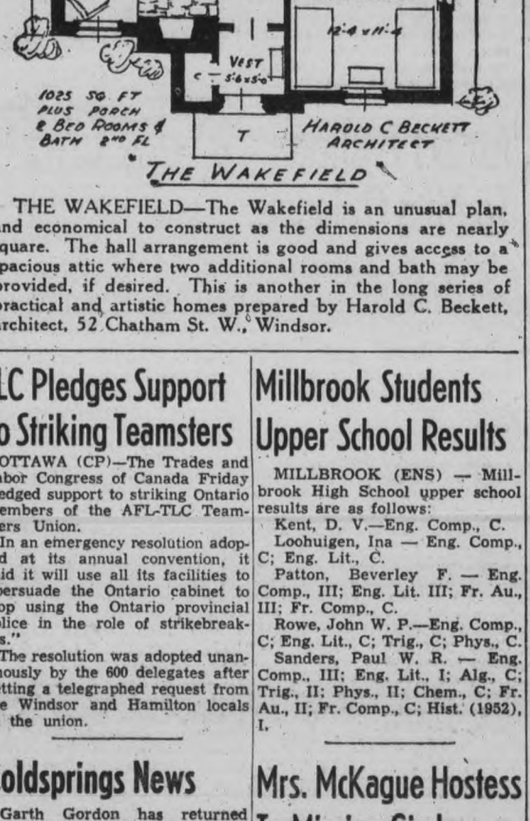
Four 'Lunge Caught Near Trent River

TRENT RIVER (ENS. — Two guests from Cedar Isle Lodge, owned and opearted by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ellis, landed two large 'lunge in nearby waters.

Harry Hutchison of Toronto landed an 18½ pound 'lunge, 43 incehs long, at Lunge Bay, using a river runt lure.

Jack Yates of Toronto, fishing in Dunn's Channel, landed an 18 poud 'luge, 39 iches log, with a pikie minow.

Excellent catches of black and green bass and pickerel are also reported by gests at the summer resort.



Fire Guts Store

RICHMOND HILL (CP) — Fire destroyed a dry-goods store here Friday and forced a family of five from an apartment above.

John Parisi, 19, jumped from a second-storey bedroom to the ground below to call firemen. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Parisi, owners of the store, groped their way to the street with their two children, 6 and 2 years old. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Child Is Polio Victim

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Paul Aicken, two-year-old Mitchell boy admitted to Victoria Hospital here Friday, died a few hours later of polio. It was the second polio death this year at the hospital. The previous death was that of a boy of two years from Clear Creek, in Norfolk county.

THE WAKEFIELD—The Wakefield is an unusual plan, and economical to construct as the dimensions are nearly square. The hall arrangement is good and gives access to a spacious attic where two additional rooms and bath may be provided, if desired. This is another in the long series of practical and artistic homes prepared by Harold C. Beckett, architect, 52 Chatham St. W., Windsor.

TLC Pledges Support To Striking Teamsters

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Friday pledged support to striking Ontario members of the AFL-TLC Teamsters Union.

In an emergency resolution adopted at its annual convention, it said it will use all its facilities to "persuade the Ontario cabinet to stop using the Ontario provincial police in the role of strikebreakers."

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the 600 delegates after getting a telegraphed request from the Windsor and Hamilton locals of the union.

Worst Grain Tie-up Likely As New Bumper Crop Ready

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain officials in Winnipeg said Friday Canadian farmers face the prospect of the worst grain tie-up since the Second World War as they prepare to harvest another bumper crop.

The bureau of statistics has estimated the 1953 wheat crop at 603,793,000 bushels, second highest in history.

Officials here said as a result of last year's record crop, more grain is stored in country elevators and at the Lakehead terminals than at any time since the war. Stocks on farms also are estimated to be at a post-war peak—despite a huge volume of 1952 wheat which already has been moved.

The present situation is considerably worse than at any time last year, officials said. Reported deliveries to country elevators and shipments since the beginning of the crop year indicate elevator stocks exceed 233,000,000 bushels, compared with about 145,600,000 at the same time last year.

Lakehead stocks now are near 50,000,000 bushels, an increase of more than 8,009,000 from this time in 1952.

Grain stored on farms at the end of the crop year, July 31, was estimated at almost 85,000,000 bushels, compared with some 17,500,000 bushels at July 31, 1952.

A two-week extension of open quota deliveries allowed farmers to clear more of their 1952 crop than had been expected, but it also had much to do with filling country elevators. At many Prairie points there is no space left for new crop deliveries.

2 TKOs Scored In 7 Bouts At Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS).— The Kiwanis Boxing Club staged an inter-club card at the Kinsmen Club's carnival Friday night with Minden fighters from the recreation centre as visitors.

With no previous fights on their record they turned in a creditable performance, winning two of their four bouts, drawing one, and losing the other..

The card had seven bouts. Two ended in TKO's, one a draw, and four in decisions.

In the feature fight, John Angiers of Lindsay won his fourth bout in a row, defeating Glen Vasey of the Minden club, after having the visitor in trouble in each of the three rounds. Angiers boxed sharply and landed the best shots during the three-round go. He had Vasey hanging on at the end.

One of the best fighters to appear in Lindsay during the current season featured another of the heavy bouts. Don Campbell, of the Minden club showed great form and boxing knowledge in taking a decision over Doug Cooney of Lindsay. Campbell, a roly-poly 160-pounder, was surprisingly light on his feet, but showed too much skill to rate the "novice" tag. Cooney landed a few good blows during the match.

Another Minden fighter who impressed greatly was young Stafford Yearwood, husky 16-year-old fighting at 145 pounds. Yearwood took a TKO from Vince Curtin of King's Wharf, when Curtin's handlers failed to stanch the flow of blood from his nose for the opening of the second round.

Yearwood opened the nose half way through the first round and worked on it viciously to the bell as Curtin was literally sprayed with claret. Observers noticed that both Vince Curtin and his brother Don, who fought previously during the season, bled easily, causing two of the defeats the brothers have suffered.

SECOND TKO

The other TKO came in the first bout when two local youngsters, Johnny Lawson and Dale Martin mixed it up. Martin landed too many solid punches in the early part of the first and referee Bill Cummins stopped the fight at 55 seconds of the opener.

In the second fight, Leo Lynch won his second decision in two nights, punching out a clear-cut margin over Spencer Norris. In the third, Gary Vasey of Minden, and Harold Saville of the local club, boxed to a draw in a real slugfest, despite the fact that Vasey lost the second round for low blows.

In the last bout of the card, the judges awarded a surprising decision to Tommy Quibell over Paul Henley, both of Lindsay, in a 75-pound bout. Henley, though he boxed carefully, lacked aggressiveness and perhaps lost the decision on that basis. Quibell landed few really solid punches throughout the round. Henley had the smaller lad in trouble at the end of the first and might have finished the fight had Quibell not managed to slip away from him.

Matchmaker Lloyd Burrows announced another card of fights under the lights at Victoria Park next Thursday night.

Gregory McGrath, 7, sets out the white flags for an extra run on his "dream" railroad at Westmere N.Y., left, but guess who does the track-walking? Right! Mother and Dad. Construction and maintenance of the pint-size pike is the hobby of Gregory's father, Louis McGrath, and Mother is the one-woman signal maintenance department. Ont. "Siberia" Said Answer To Hard Cases

TORONTO (CP)—A Siberia in Ontario might be the answer to the criminal who treats jail as a second home, J. S. Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Renfrew South, said Friday.

He told the legislature's select committee on reform institutions that some of Ontario's jails are too comfortable, and suggested the province buy land in the Cochrane area where a jail could be built that would offer a tougher life to prisoners.

"If men knew they were going to a Siberia they wouldn't be so anxious to get back to jail," he said. He suggested prisoners be taken from the balmy weather of southern Ontario to a more rugged life in the north.

Reforms Minister Foote said new reform institutions are being built in the southern part of the province because they are closer to county jails.

Mr. Foote said a new method of handling hardened prisoners will be tried at the province's jail at Millbrook. Prisoners will be organized in groups, he said, instead of being segregated. Thus the number of guards needed to look after them would be reduced.

Mr. Foote said construction of a campus-type prison to replace dormitories now in use at Burwash reformatory near Sudbury is being planned.

He said the new set-up there will provide each group of 50 men with a sitting room, complete with fireplace, which they will all share. In addition each man will have his own room, he said.

U.K. Train Crash Kills 10, Injures Fifty

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Two British trains crunched into each other atop a viaduct 80 feet over the River Irk today, killing 10 passengers and injuring 50 others.

One coach somersaulted into the river bed, landing upside down after ripping a 30-foot gap in the viaduct wall.

An emergency call went out for acetylene equipment to burn through parts of the wreckage to reach at least three persons believed trapped in the coach. The river is shallow at the isolated stretch of track about a mile from Victoria Station.

Breakdown gangs went to work to remove wrecked coaches from the main line. Exactly how the collision occurred was not announced.

DERAILS ENGINE

The crash derailed the engine and two coaches of a steam train running from Manchester to Bacup 21 miles north of this Midlands industrial centre, and three cars of an electric train to Bury, nine miles to the northwest.

Some of the passengers were hurled into the river. Firemen found others trapped in coaches.

The first news of the crash reached police when a man telephoned to say the steam engine of the Manchester-Bacup train had "blown up." Ambulances, fire engines and heavy cranes rushed to the scene.

Three of the injured were taken to hospital in Manchester and admitted with serious multiple injuries. Eleven others received treatment.

The British Railways issued a statement saying: "The engine and two coaches of the steam train and three coaches of the electric train were derailed. All electric lines are blocked."

Attempts got under way soon after the wreck to raise one coach which buried itself in the river bank.

Peach Price Down By $7.50 A Ton

HAMILTON (CP)—R. W. Neal, secretary of the Ontario Canned Foods Association, announced today that minimum prices for peaches for 1953 had been agreed upon by the negotiating board which met in Toronto Friday.

Jubilee peaches will sell at a minimum price of $90 per ton, a drop from last year's figure of $97.50. Marilyn, victory and elberta peaches, and all other varieties of elberta peaches, will sell at the same price.

A minimum price of $80 was set on all remaining varieties. This is also a drop from the 1952 price of $92.50.

Rifle-Toting Grandmother Repulses Invading Workers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Chalk up another round for Mrs. Wanda Sienkelewski, the rifle-totin,' pistol-packin' grandma. She has repulsed the invaders by sea as well as by land.

The 57-year-old grandmother scored her latest victory Friday in the six-month battle with a construction company which has parked some heavy equipment on her property just east of Baltimore.

Discouraged by a wire fence she built around the equipment — and by the .22-calibre rifle she always keeps handy — a band of construction workers decided to forgo another land assault. An amphibious invasion looked like a better bet to recover a pipe-layer they need for work on a $3,000,000 sewer project.

When the first attacker negotiated adjoining Bear creek on a barge and hit the beach, Mrs. Sienkielewski was ready.

"Get off my property," said the soprano voice behind the trusty rifle.

The invaders hesitated, then slowly began to haul huge wooden beams from the deck of the landing craft to the bluff below Mrs. Sienkelewski.

A workman edged across the improvised gangplank of beams but halted uncertainly as the defender lay aside the rifle and whipped out a pistol.

"Come any further," she warned, "and I'll let you have it."

Then she climbed the fence and gave him a shove which sent him skidding down the sandy bank. Soon the cops arrived.

"I don't like being pushed around," the aroused grandmother informed the hesitant workmen, the cops and assembled spectators.

Mrs. Sienkelewski contends the Leo G. Butler construction firm of College Park, Md., parked the building equipment on her well-kept lawn by the creek without permission. They haven't offered a fair rental fee, either, she adds.

Granddad Fails To Swim L. Erie

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A valiant effort to swim Lake Erie from Point Pelee to Cedar Point, Ohio, ended in failure Friday night when William Sadlo, 51-year-old grandfather from Brooklyn, gave up 15 miles from his objective.

When Sadlo climbed into the escorting motor launch he had been in the water 15 hours and 20 minutes.

"I could have gone for another couple of hours," Sadlo said, "but I never could have made the American shore and there was no sense continuing."

Jerry Bake, crewman on the escort vessel, said that everything had gone against the Brooklyn swimmer. "If the wind had been from the north or if the water had been calm Sadlo would have made it," he declared. The attempt ended at 7:45 p. m. Friday.

The party spent the night near Pelee Island and reached Leamington about seven a. m. today.

Coast guard boats and private craft from Cedar Point spent hours hunting for Sadlo after they lost sight of him last night.

Niagara Residents Boil Contaminated Water

NIAGARA-ON-THE-Lake, ONT. (CP)—The 2,500 residents of this historic border town were boiling their water for drinking and cooking today while health authorities hunted the cause of the contamination of the town's water supply.

Water leaving the filtration plant, after being pumped up from the Niagara river, shows contamination, apparently occurring somewhere in the mains leading to homes. Dr. J. M. McGarry, medical officer of health for the St. Catharines-Lincoln health unit, advised council Friday of the situation.

CF-100 Flights Halted At Quebec Airport

TORONTO (CP) — Crawford Gordon, Jr., president of A. V. Roe, Limited, said today he understands that flights of all CF-100 jet fighter planes have been forbidden from the St. Hubert RCAF air base near Montreal.

Mr. Gordon said the grounding was reported after a CF-100, built by A. V. Roe at nearby Malton, crashed into houses near the base Wednesday, killing seven civilians and its crew of two.

He said his information was that the grounding was only for the St. Hubert base.

Expect Typhoon To Miss Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A Pacific typhoon veered slightly tonight and weather experts said this huge U. S. base may escape the full fury of the storm.

Lieut. Jim Wolff of the Okinawa air base communications centre said the storm—one of the worst ever to churn through the western Pacific—veered slightly to the south.

"If it remains on its present course its centre may pass to the south of Okinawa," Wolff said. "We'll know by 9 a. m. tomorrow (1 p. m. EDT. Saturday)."

Okinawa was braced for a big blow even if it is spared the full brunt of the winds.

The typhoon, generating winds of 13 miles an hour, is moving northwesterly at 10 miles an hour toward Wenchow, a Communist China port about 250 air miles south of Shanghai.

Wolff said he believed the centre would pass far enough north to spare Formosa, Nationalist China island stronghold.

Undeveloped Nations Can't Use Machinery

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. J. F. Booth, federal department of agriculture expert, said Friday that machinery sent to farmers in undeveloped countries often rust in the fields because no one knows how to use it.

Speaking at the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, he said: "There is no use collecting money to send tractors and special seed to the starving countries of the world, if farmers there would prefer to have a better hoe or handplow."

Dr. Booth added: "In some countries, farmers are plowing their fields with sticks. Agencies who want to help them can do nothing better than give them a workable piece of simple farm equipment."

Two P.E.I. By-Elections Slated For September

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) —Two provincial by-elections will be held in Prince Edward Island Sept. 10. Writs were issued Friday for voting in Third Kings and Fourth Queens ridings.

The vacancy in Third Kings follows appointment of former premier J. Walter Jones to the Senate and that in Fourth Queens from the resignation of Progressive Conservative John A. MacDonald to run in the federal election. Mr. MacDonald was defeated.

26 Bancroft Girls Start 2,000-Mile Trip By Bus

The girls, students at North Hastings High School in Grades 10 to 13 in Bancroft were accepted for the tour according to academic standing. They will cook their own meals and sleep in bedrolls under tarpaulins stretched from the bus during stops in their journey to Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Binghamton, New York City, Montreal, Ottawa, Smith Falls, and Kingston.

The District School Board has contributed $200; the girls provide the remainder. Half of the total budget will pay the cost of the bus and the driver. The remaining costs are kept low by the girls preparing their own meals using coleman stoves as the source of heat. The girls boast that they can prepare a meal much more quickly than it could be obtained in a restaurant. The group will take turns at various camp jobs such as setting up tarpaulins, cooking, packing the bus etc.

GM Lines Halted By Factory Fire

DETROIT (AP). — Car assemblies were halted at two General Motors plants and reduced at another today as a result of Wednesday's $50,000,000 fire at GM's Detroit transmission plant.

Assembly lines were down at the Pontiac plant in nearby Pontiac and at Oldsmobile in Lansing. Production was limited to five hours at the Cadillac plant here Friday and today.

Both Pontiac and Oldsmobile hope to resume assemblies Tuesday for a few days at least. Cadillac says it will have another short day Monday but "just doesn't know" what its production schedule will be after that.

Operations at the Fisher body plants supplying these three divisions also were uncertain.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice said the burned transmission plant in suburban Livonia will be rebuilt as soon as possible, but it was impossible to foresee how long production would be crippled by the costliest fire in Michigan history.

The transmission plant is a supplier of all GM car divisions except Buick and Chevrolet.

Up to 50,000 GM workers are facing layoff threats because of the fire.

Manitoba Nurses Get Globulin Shot

Winnipeg (CP) — Provincial health officials have taken a new anti-polio step in Winnipeg's hospitals.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy minister of health for Manitoba, met Friday with an epidemic specialist from the federal department of health and welfare, Dr. A. F. W. Peart. As a result, nurses treating polio victims will be innoculated with the polio-preventative gamma globulin.

Dr. Elliott said that local committee is now assured of an adequate supply of gamma globulin. Children of married women acting as nurses for the duration of the epidemic will also be inoculated.

Deaths for the season across the four Prairie Provinces mounted to 45 by Friday. The disease was behind its last-year's pace in two of the provinces, but in Manitoba was bounding far ahead with 13 deaths in 767 cases, compared with 179 cases last year.

Flint Family Adopts Polish Girl In Ontario

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Congressman Kit Clardy today informed a Flint couple that President Eisenhower has signed a bill permitting them to adopt a 12-year-old Polish girl now detained by customs of ficials in Ontario.

Clardy said the president signed the bill allowing Irene Andreszszakewicz to join Mr. and Mrs. George Makohon. Ontario Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday he would like "to see the girl's case go directly to President Eisenhower."

The Polish girl has been living in a Toronto orphanage operated by the Catholic Children's Aid Society. She became a ward of the society when her mother died last year.

Irene's father was killed by the Germans in 1944.

Spreading Activities To Other Fields Form Of Industrial Slump Insurance

NEW YORK (AP)—Many United States companies are taking out slump insurance these days in the form of diversification, spreading out into other fields.

That puts a company's eggs into many baskets. If a business slump comes, one of the baskets may well prove safer for profits than the others.

The diversification idea is spreading. Steel companies go into plastics. Oil companies buy up cosmetic firms. Food companies and coal companies make a big thing of chemicals. Radio and television set makers also go into the electric stove business.

The Elgin National Watch Co. announces this week it is looking for smaller companies through which to branch out into two new, high growth-rate fields: miniature electronic components and precision production instruments.

President J. G. Shennan stresses that watches will still be his company's first love. But it wants the other two strings to its bow and is choosing fields in which workmanship similar to watchmaking skill should pay off.

An avowed disciple of diversification is Vick Chemical. Its main business is making products for treatment of colds and other respiratory ailments.

Vick has bought into chemicals, cosmetics, owns a top-flight perfume company, and is a maker of toiletries for men. Vick recently bought Extruded Plastics Inc. of Norfolk, Conn.

Sometimes companies find diversification thrust upon them. Northern Pacific owns a lot of land in Williston basin. After oil was found there many stock exchange traders came to think of Northern Pacific more as an oil stock than as a railroad.

At other times a company has diversified because it lost a good customer. Example: Republic Steel's Berger manufacturing division in Canton, Ohio, was making steel cabinets. A major customer started doing its own fabrication.

So, after looking at census bureau figures on the growing number of families and the 41,000,000 dwellings in the United States (60 per cent of them more than 20 years old), Republic Steel launched "Republic Steel Kitchens," a good outlet, too, for Republic's cold rolled sheets, should the day come when the general demand for steel is less pressing.

Eight In Running As Lawn Bowlers Near Meet's End

TORONTO (CP)—Eight players remained in the running for three trophies in the singles competition as the fifth day of the six-day 19th annual provincial lawn bowling tournament ended Friday.

The Rice, Roden and R. T. McLean Memorial trophies are to be decided today.

Carroll F. Chase of Pasadena, Calif., in the Roden finals and J. E. (Uball) Rouleau of Cornwall in the McLean semi-finals are the only out-of-towners in the running for singles prizes.

John Henderson of Toronto Moore Park defeated Charlie Sedgewick of Weston, 12-5 to enter the finals of the Rice Cup. Harold G. Stitt of West Toronto reached the finals when he defeated Gord McMillen of Oshawa 15-8.

In the quarter-finals, McMillen defeated G. Whitley, Ottawa, 13-8 while R. Pearson of Cornwall went down before Henderson, 15-11.

In the Roden trophy semi-finals 20-year-old Bill G. Power of Toronto Rusholme downed Frank Bell of Toronto Kew Beach 16-7. Carrol Chase of Pasadena, Calif., the other player in the finals, defeated John Masson of Weston 14-12.

Two Detroit entries fell in the quarter-finals of the R. T. McLean Memorial Trophy. Toronto Runnymede's Tom James eliminated Jim S. Weir 13-12 in a close one and Hughie McNeill of Toronto Withrow ousted W. Laird 16-9.

Ottawa's A. Edgecombe was beaten by Al Sage 17-11 in the second half of the McLean quarter-finals and Rouleau defeated Toronto Rusholme's Tom Gill 16-11.

SET WORLD'S RECORD — A world's record for trotters on a half-mile track was set by Earl Rowe, Progressive-Conservative member of Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, driving Celia Counsel (left) and Vola Van at Thorncliffe Raceway at Toronto. The new time of 2:07.4 for a mile was almost three seconds faster than the old record set in 1918 by Roy Miller, of Syracuse, N.Y. Rowe was racing against time in his record effort.

NEWS OF INTEREST

No one actually needs to be reminded of the every-other-week dances at the Kawartha. These have been the most successful club dances in a number of years. The entertainment committee with "little" John McIntyre at the helm deserve the proverbial "big hand." This Saturday night will see yet another of these get-togethers at the Kawartha, starting a 9:00 p.m. Open to club members and their guests.

LADIES' TOURNAMENT

Ladies' Day at the Kawartha will be all day Saturday, August 22, and this promises to be for the ladies what the great Kawartha Lakes tournament was for the men.

LADIES' SECTION

Another successful day was spent on the golf course by the ladies of the 18 and 9 hole sections. Everyone is getting quite excited about the coming tournament and hoping the weatherman has something special lined up for us this year.

Mrs. F. Dunfield, captain of the 18-hole group gave out the prizes for Thursday's competitions. Mrs. Ed. Riley received a point for 1st low net and Mrs. I. MacGillivray won 2nd low net and received a golf ball. The competition, low putts on odd holes was a three-way tie: Mrs. Ed Riley, Mrs. R. Miller and Mrs. J. Gatfield, each winning a point and Mrs. G. Hill won the silver spoon.

Low gross on the 9-hole event was won by Mrs. N. Williamson and Mrs. J. Haldimand each getting a point and the silver spoon going to Mrs. Wm. Todd and the golf ball to Mrs. J. McNab.

BUSINESS GIRLS

Approximately 35 BG's teed off Thursday evening and a number of matches were played, putting many of the competitions into the semi-final rounds.

A point was won by Mel Mortimer for low gross score and Marg Lundy was next and won the spoon. Betty Metcalfe won the spoon for the lowest number of putts.

TOURNAMENT—AUGUST 22

From a meeting held Thursday evening, it was learned that everything is in order for the big day—August 22, with the entries coming in very well. No doubt there will be many more received by Monday next so if the weather is in our favour a week from Saturday, the tournament should be "tops."

Most Big-Name Golf Players On Deck For $25,000 Open

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — The brand new $25,000 Open golf tournament gets under way at the Montreal Summerlea course next Thursday preceded by a three-day run of special and exhibition events with a bit of shenanigans tossed in.

Tournament officials say practically all the big-name players from the United States will be on hand except Ben Hogan. No definite word has been received from Lloyd Mangrum, but the remainder of the American entry looks like a Who's Who on the pro golf circuit.

If Mangrum makes an appearance the field will include the entire U.S. Ryder Cup team that will go overseas to meet the British pros later this year.

Canadian entries are topped by Henry Martell of Edmonton, 1953 Canadian Professional Golfers Association champion, along with a host of pros from eastern Canada.

First prize in the 72-hole medal-play scramble is $5,000, second $2,780 and third $2,100. In addition to 35 cash prizes for the open proper, $1,500 has been allotted for Canadian pros, who can pocket two money prizes depending on where they finish. Top prize out of the $1,500 for Canadian pros is $350.

A sizeable number of amateurs will be out after the silverware portion of the awards. The entry list includes Frank Stranahan, Toledo millionaire who has twice held the Canadian amateur championship, and Walter McElroy of Vancouver, who won it two years ago. Stranahan led the amateurs in the recent Tam o'Shanter tournament in Chicago.

The U.S. entry list among the pros includes Sam Snead, Doug Ford, Jack Burke, Jr., Ted Kroll, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Ed Oliver, Fred Haas, Jr., Al Besselink, Dave Douglas, winner of the Canadian Open in Toronto a few weeks ago; Walter Burkemo, U.S. PGA champion, and Jim Ferrier, twice Canadian Open champion.

DROP QUALIFYING ROUND

At the request of the U.S. PGA, tournament officials eliminated a qualifying round scheduled for Tuesday. If it is necessary to restrict the field, this will be done by fixing the number of post-entries. The figure is to be decided Monday.

The U.S. PGA said that most of the American pros entered are finishing a tournament at Fort Wayne, Ind., and, except for those who would have automatic qualification, the long trip to Montreal in time for a qualifying round would impose hardships on the players.

Special events will start Monday when a golfer, an archer and a baseball player do their stuff. Jules Huot, pro at Montreal Laval, will play orthodox golf. Goody Rosen, one-time Brooklyn Dodgers player, will use a fungo bat and will hole out when he gets the ball within a five-foot circle around the cup. Orla Larsen, Canadian archery expert, must shoot an arrow into a target at the pin.

The "National Hockey League golf championship" the same day pits Ted Kennedy of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Turk Broda, former Leaf goaltender, against Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION

Another special attraction is a "re-enactment" of the U.S. amateur championship of 1932 at Baltimore when C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., became the only Canadian to win the title. He defeated Johnny Goodman of Seattle in the final. Now they will meet again, along with Gordon B. Taylor of Montreal, who won the Canadian amateur crown in 1932.

Tuesday will be given over to practice rounds, in which a "masked mystery entrant" will take part. There will also be an exhibition of trick shots by Joe Kirkwood, Sr.

More practice rounds will follow Wednesday, along with an exhibition match participated in by Babe Zaharias, former U.S. and British national women's champion, and another event in which 24 Montreal district juniors, aged 14 to 16, will play along with 12 professionals.

Plan 125 Matches If Weather Favors Jr. Tennis

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 125 matches are to be played today in the Canadian junior tennis championships at the Ridea Club here if the weather holds and the organizers can keep up with a tough schedule.

With diversion of players to the interprovincial team events, only 33 matches were played Friday for individual championships. There are 13 titles at stake this year and few of last year's winners have returned to defend them.

The 30 Americans among the 210 teen-aged competitors are a strong force and three classes have been introduced for Canadians only for the first time—closed junior men's and boys' and girls' singles championships.

In interprovincial team play, Quebec retained the men's championship by defeating Ontario 3-2 in the semi-final and Nova Scotia 3-0 in the final. Nova Scotia downed the West 3-2 in the other semi-final.

Nova Scotia took the women's title by knocking out Ontario 3-1 in the final after Ontario had disposed of Quebec, defending champions, in one semi-final 3-0. Nova Scotia won the other semi-final from the West, 3-2.

Result of these team events is decided on best of five matches, three singles and two doubles. If all three singles are won by one team, the doubles are not played.

In the decisive doubles match of the women's event, Carolyn Fleming of Truro and Mary Chipman of Halifax defeated Barbara Cotton of Ottawa and Carol Barton of Toronto 6-2, 6-0.

In the men's event, the Quebec players—Guy Durocher of Sherbrooke, Rene Royer of Montreal and Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville—swept through the singles against Nova Scotia, making the doubles unnecessary.

In the first round of junior men's singles play, E. Britton of Rothesay N.B., defeated A. Kalil of Cornwall, 6-1, 10-8.

Sox Southpaw Pitches Over 34 Scoreless Frames

DETROIT (AP) — Not many pitchers approach Walter Johnson's fabulous pitching records but Billy Pierce, 26-year-old southpaw of Chicago White Sox, is taking dead aim at one of them.

Following his 7-0 whitewash of Detroit Tigers Friday night, the speedy lefthander boasts a sparkling string of 34 2-3 scoreless innings.

That's 21 1-3 behind the major league record set by Johnson in 1913. Toiling for Washington Senators, the "Big Train" went 56 innings without yielding a run.

Pierce has three straight shutouts to his credit. Two more, plus a brief relief job, and he can tie or pass Johnson's 40-year-old mark.

REACHING PEAK

He still has a long way to go but his manager, Paul Richards, thinks Pierce is pitching the best ball of his life.

"He's just reaching his peak," Richards said.

"He's been using the same stuff as in the past, but now he's using it with more savvy. His fast ball is his best pitch. That's the one that strikes them out."

Pierce leads the league with 142 strikeouts.

The lefthander is also seeking to become the first White Sox pitcher in 12 years to win 20 games. Thornton Lee was the last to do it, winning 22 in 1941.

Pierce has 16 wins against seven setbacks—by far his best mark in the majors.

Transports Victors Against Foresters

T. P. Transports, Dormer Trophy winners for 1953 in the men's senior City League softball derby, defeated the league-leading IOF nine of the Civic League 5-3, Friday evening at the East City Bowl, in a spirited exhibition match.

Ken Guilfoyle, veteran of a quarter century of softball twirling, Haddy Eakins and Reg Gordon each took a whack at the hurling chores for Transports, opposing Ken Hall, erstwhile UEW slinger of the Men's City League. The latter held out well against his opponents; though George Bennett's lads were slightly shorthanded. He allowed seven hits against the combined efforts of his rivals.

IOF, who enter intermediate AA playdowns on August 29 against opposition yet unnamed, held a 3-1 edge until the fifth, when T P's tied the score with a pair. The winning margin came in the seventh when errors played a part in the outcome as Foresters gave way to the city finalists after a nifty battle before a fair crowd. Transports meet Seabrooke Motors tonight in the first of a best-of-seven city final series.

The scaup, a wild duck popular with hunters, is found in northern Europe, Asia and America.

NUMBER TWENTY—Robin Roberts (right), ace right hander for the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team, looks at the magic number 20 in Pittsburgh after he became the first pitcher this year to score 20 victories. The game was an 8-4 win over the Pirates. Holding the number is John Wise, Philadelphia's travelling secretary.

TRIBE FLAG HOPES FADE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Even their best friend—manager Al Lopez—appears just about convinced Cleveland Indians are out of the running for the American League pennant.

Lopez maintains he is sure his club can pass Chicago and nab second. But all he says about first place is that "we haven't forgotten about" it.

The Indians, touted before the season started as a top contender for New York's flag, went into Friday night's game against St. Louis Browns 12 games off the pace set by the front-running Yanks.

That's as far as the Indians have been behind all season and just about lets them out, since there are only 45 games to go. They beat the Browns and gained a half game on the idle Yankees but are still 11½ games behind.

Weepers in Cleveland blame the fielding, which is not good. Right now the club is tied for fifth in ball-catching.

Mrs. Dupont, who ruled as U.S. champion in 1948, 1949 and 1950, and was Essex winner in 1941, 1949 and 1950, is unseeded in this year's tournament.

He was past president of the International League Baseball Writers Association.

Guelph Wallops Waterloo 20-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Maple Leafs swamped Waterloo Tigers 20-3 Friday night for one of the most decisive victories of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League season.

Guelph batters clobbered four Tigers hurlers for 16 hits and collected 12 walks, giving manager Ken Yount his ninth victory.

League-leading Kitchener Panthers took advantage of Waterloo's crushing defeat to extend their lead over the second-place Tigers to 1½ games. They downed the third-place Brantford Red Sox 6-3 while London Majors consolidated their hold on fourth place by defeating the hapless St. Thomas Elgins 9-7.

George D'Addario, George Carruth, Marv Rich and Ed Smolinski led the Guelph attack with three hits apiece. Frank Kinder drove in four runs.

Yount held the Tigers scoreless until the sixth inning when he eased up, 16 runs ahead. Don Oberholzer started for Waterloo and took the loss, yielding five runs and five hits in 2 1-3 innings. Hank Biasatti gathered three of the Tigers' seven hits.

In the Kitchener game, right-hander Mel Duncan of the Panthers went all the way for his 11th win of the season against three losses. He was touched for 11 hits and walked six.

Brantford grouped three hits for a single in the second to take a 1-0 lead and got two more in the seventh on another three hits. Panthers picked up three runs on five hits in the bottom of the second and made it 5-1 with two more in the third. Kitchener's Erv Ler and Duncan led the hitters with three each.

London's win came in the ninth with three hits, including a double by Jerry Wilson, who paced his side with four for five. Russ Evon's drive proved to be the winning run.

Gerry Burke, who relieved Bill Best in the sixth, won his seventh game against six losses and Joe Grasso, who took over from Jack Caffery in the seventh, was the loser. Grasso has won two and lost 14.

Tonight Oshawa visits London, Kitchener is at Waterloo, Guelph at Brantford and St. Thomas at Galt.

Final Test Game Decides Battle For Ashes

LONDON (CP)—A small patch of green grass in south London becomes the focus of England's hopes and fears today with the start of the fifth England-Australia test cricket match.

This is it, the final test, the deciding match in the struggle for "The Ashes," and the setting could hardly be more exciting. With the first four matches drawn, England must win this last one to regain the Ashes, symbol of cricket supremacy held by Australia since 1933.

Another drawn match would be more or less a victory for the Aussies and add a further exasperating chapter to England's long story of frustration.

The six-day match, which has cricket fans here and in Australia agog with anticipation, will be played at Kennington Oval, a pitch ringed by grimy gas works and apartment buildings whose windows are prized vantage points for spectators.

Both sides will be at or near strength for the decisive encounter. England's big gamble is the use of Yorkshireman Fred Trueman, a 22-year-old fast bowler who may be just the medicine for the Aussies. A year ago Trueman was regarded as England's big hope for the future, but RAF duties seemed to blunt his bowling edge and he has not played in the first four matches.

England's failure to win the Ashes has long been a source of humor. Oddly enough, this real-life final Test coincides with the playing at suburban movie houses of a British cricket film called "the final test," and it's a short cinema queue indeed in which somebody doesn't quip:

"Well, let's hope England can score a few runs in this one!"

A SAILOR'S LIFE IS A MAN'S LIFE

STYLES DO CHANGE!—When the Canadian National Exhibition first opened 75 years ago the ladies walked around the grounds in hand-made leather boots such as that on the right. Today's midway stroller has considerably more freedom in the dainty leather shoe held at left by Delores Nixon. With the Exhibition celebrating its 75th anniversary this year, starting August 28, the styles of 1879 will be routed from attics for display.

Rather Direct Than Act Says Gill

Robert Gill, who is director of all but several of the 10 plays on the Peterborough Summer Theatre program this season, has been director for seven years at Hart House for the University of Toronto players.

But here in Peterborough he has acted for the first time in six years. Mr. Gill would much rather direct than act. However, he is glad to have had experience in three plays here and be re-acquainted with the problems of the actor.

Acting is a rewarding occupation for those who are winning applause, but there is the fact that the actor must go through the same performance night after night, while the director, once he has the play in shape, can relax and need only keep an eye out to see that it is going well, he explains.

Summer stock is a little different, however. The actor has only six performances of a play to go through, while the director has just a week in which to get his play ready. Mr. Gill is used to having four weeks of rehearsals and he prepares only four plays a year at Hart House. Here he has been both actor and director in two plays.

In past seasons he has been at the summer theatres in Woodstock, N.Y., and at Chautauqua, and he has taught summer sessions in drama at the University of British Columbia and at Banff.

Several of the people in the Stratford Shakespearian Company this year have worked under Mr. Gill, and there are students of his now on the stage in United States. Miss Charlotte Schrager came here this season when he recommended her as one of his promising students at Toronto.

Being a play director is Mr. Gill's work and his hobby. However, next summer he intends to take a holiday and go back to England.

Double Ring Ceremony At Bannockburn

MARMORA (ENS) — In a double ring ceremony at St. Bartholemew's Anglican Church, Bannockburn on Saturday, August 8, Shirley Elzina, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Simpson, of that village, was united in marriage to Harry Cassalman, of Trenton.

The Rev. T. H. Good, rector of the parish, officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother Donald, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of white marquisette net over satin, tailored with a full skirt and fitted bodice, embroidered with seed pearls and silver beads. A coronation headdress of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Her attendants, Miss Sheila Simpson, maid of honor, and Miss Jean Simpson, bridesmaid, wore floor-length gowns of Moir and green nylon lace over taffeta and carried cascade bouquets of pink lavender, gladioli and fern.

The flower girls were Darlene Simpson and Betty Empey, dressed in yellow and pink taffeta with matching gloves and headdress, carrying baskets of pink and yellow chrysanthemums.

Donald Casselman, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

The ushers were Ben McMasters, of Trenton, and George Wiley of Kellar's Bridge.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Harold Lloyd, organist of the church. During the signing of the register, John Simpson, brother of the bride, sang "I love you truly."

For the reception at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received in a rose crepe dress with matching accessories and corsage of roses.She was assisted by the groom's mother, dressed in navy crepe, matching accessories and corsage of roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Peterborough, Trenton Belleville, St. Ola, Steenburg, Gilmour, Deloro, Marmora, West Huntingdon, Brighton and Oshawa.

The young couple left on a trip to Niagara Falls. They will reside in Trenton.

Mrs. S. Higgins and her daughter, Mrs. T. Gill, of Lakefield, have fashioned a piece of Canadian homecraft which is now on display in a Lakefield store window. It is a satin comforter padded with fluffy wool from lambs raised on their own farm. They have presented it to the Altar Guild of the Church of St. John the Baptist, Lakefield, and it will be sold and proceeds added to the Sunday school building fund. Genuine wool stuffed comforters are becoming somewhat of a legend in the district, but oldsters can probably recall their warmth and comfort as well as the unbelievable wearing qualities.

Recipes Designed To Make Mealtime A Pleasant Affair

Easy does it. Especially in warm weather, we try to plan meals that are easy to prepare and that will not demand much cooking over a hot stove. While we enjoy a cold meal occasionallly as a rule we like something hot.

Slices from the Sunday roast or cold cuts bought specially will be enjoyed all the more if the vegetables served with them are hot. If the vegetables contrast in color they will be even more appetizing. Usually, they will be dressed with butter or perhaps cream, but sometimes we like a special sauce.

Carrots with a lemon- orange dressing are particularly delicious. The carrots, by the way, may be cooked in the cool of the day and reheated in the sauce. Tiny new potatoes will not take long to cook and may be combined with peas, butter or margarine and parsley.

A hot bread will be enjoyed with a meal of this sort. Muffins may be purchased ready-made and reheated in a roll warmer or a covered saucepan, which will do just about as well if heat is kept low. A piece of foil may take the place of a rack, so there will be no danger of over-browning the bottom. Of course, a double boiler can be used if you do not care for a crisp crust.

PEAS WITH NEW POTATOES

Cook small new potatoes in their jackets, and peel. Cook peas in small amount of salted water, until just tender. Add potatoes to peas. Dress liberally with butter and add minced parsley. If desired, lemon juice may also be added.

ORANGE SAUCE

¼ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup of butter, 3 to 4 cups cooked carrots.

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add boiling water gradually, stirring constantly to keep smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring until clear and thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in fruit juices and butter and continue stirring until butter is melted. Fold in cooked carrots. Yield: two cups sauce. Note: Diluted frozen orange juice concentrate may be used instead of fresh orange juice.

In warm weather, iced tea is a favorite accompaniment for dinner as well as for lunch. Besides well made tea, sugar or sugar syrup and lemon, there must be plenty of ice available. To be enjoyable, iced tea should be worthy of the adjective.

While most of us are content with the blend of the two flavors, lemon and tea, for party service, you may like to add a touch of rum and brandy, to use some sparkling water and, for a special occasion, to add enough champagne to add this word to the title of the recipe.

For a cool, easy lunch or supper, a pitcher of iced tea with a hearty dessert such as a luscious layer cake will be both refreshing and satisfying. Perhaps you will like to bake the sandwiches after wrapping them in foil and serve each one in its own envelope.

HOT SANDWICHES

Combine grated cheese, minced ham, prepared mustard and pickle relish. Spread between slices of bread. Cut in triangular halves and wrap each sandwich in foil. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Serve in foil wrapping.

TEA PUNCH

1 quart water, 3 tablespoons tea, 4 tablespoons rum, 2 tablespoons brandy, juice of 2 lemons, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1 quart sparkling water, chilled, 1 quart champagne, ice cubes.

Bring one quart water to a full, rolling boil. Remove from heat. Immediately add three tablespoons tea. Brew three minutes. Stir and strain. Add rum, brandy and lemon juice. Keep at room temperature. Boil sugar and one cup water to make simple syrup. Cool and chill thoroughly.

When ready to serve, pour tea mixture, chilled syrup, soda water and champagne into punch bowl. To serve, place small ice cubes in champagne glasses and fill with punch. If desired, punch may be served from thoroughly chilled, scooped out watermelon on bed of ice, garnished with fresh fruit. Yield: 25 servings.

A salad platter is buget-wise as well as pretty, and should score a real success in family menu-planning.

By using plates of different sizes, and setting one within the other, you can achieve a "lazy Susan" effect, and thus add drama to your buffet service. Arrange lettuce and tomatoes around the edge of the large plate, deviled eggs around the edge of the smaller one, and a bowl of salad dressing in the centre to complete the arrangement.

CATERER'S TOUCH

For that caterer's touch with deviled eggs, force the egg yolk mixture through a pastry tube. It is piquant and delightful to the taste, and salad dressing, prepared mustard and onion juice are responsible. The salad dressing used both in the deviled eggs and accompanying the platter is unique in that it has the richness of mayonnaise, yet a lighter body and stimulating flavor.

Your buffet luncheon or supper can be completed with a tureen of cream of mushroom soup and baskets of melba toast and hot rolls.

SLICED TOMATO PLATER

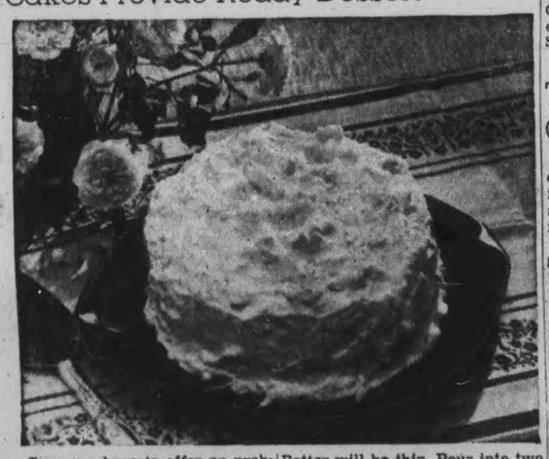
6 hard-cooked eggs, ¼ cup salad dressing, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon onion juice, salt, pepper, paprika, salad dressing, peeled sliced tomatoes, leaf lettuce, watercress.

Cut the eggs in half lengthwise. Press the yolks through a sieve and blend with the ¼ cup of salad dressing, mustard, onion juice and seasonings. Refill the egg whites, forcing the mixture through a pastry tube.

Put a small bowl of salad dressing in the centre of a small round plate, surround the bowl with deviled eggs and place the plate in the centre of a larger round plate. Arrange sliced tomates, on lettuce, on the rim of the larger plate. Garnish the deviled eggs with watercress.

Who would ever think about baking a salad, yet this can be a most delectable dish. This recipe suggests a combination of crab and shrimp as the chief ingredients; add green pepper, onions and celery as flavorsome satellites. Pour into a shell casserole and cover with crushed Corn Flakes and paprika, then bake for 30 minutes and serve with lemon slices.

BAKED SALAD



½ cup chopped green pepper, ¼ cup minced onions, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup flaked crab meat, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 up mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups Corn Flakes, paprika.

Combine green pepper, onions, ½ teaspon salt.

celery, flaked crab meat, shrimp, mayonnaise, salt and Worcestershire sauce; mix lightly. Place mixture in individual shells or shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with crushed Corn Flakes and paprika, dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with lemon slices.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Cakes Provide Ready Dessert

Summer desserts offer no problem whatsoever with a well-stocked shelf of your favorite cake mixes—they're so delicious and so little trouble. You'll particularly like this one with its refreshing orange flavour—and wait until you taste the frosting! Don't worry about making it with whipped cream! it doesn't last long enough to turn.

ORANGE CAKE

Empty a package of orange cake mix into a mixing bowl; fluff with a fork. Measure out one standard 8-oz. cup water. Add half the water (4 oz.). Mix until practically free from lumps. Add remainder of water (4 oz.) slowly, blending well after each addition. Batter will be thin. Pour into two 8" layer cake tins lined with wax paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 25-30 minutes. Cool 5 minutes before removing from cake tins. Frost cake when cold.

ORANGE AMBROSIA FROSTING

1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 cup shredded cocoanut
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Mix orange rind, cocoanut, sugar, orange and lemon juices together. Let mixture stand for 15 minutes. Whip cream; fold in cocoanut mixture. Use for frosting and filling.

Tasty Meat Loaf—Company Style

A good meat loaf is a subtle combination of meat and seasonings. It requires just the right amount of several flavor-giving ingredients.

In the recipe that follows, ground beef is the base and onions, parsley, pepper, celery and tomatoes are skillfully combined and added for seasoning. Crushed corn flakes bind the meat together and contribute to the flavor.

For company serving, bake meat loaf in individual size baking dishes, or form into individual size loaves.

Recipe—2 cups corn flakes; 1½ pounds ground beef; 1 egg, slightly beaten; ½ cup finely chopped parsley; 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper; ¼ cup finely chopped celery; ½ cup canned tomatoes; ½ cup milk; 1½ teaspoons salt.

Crush corn flakes slightly. Combine with remaining ingredients; mix well. Pack in greased individual loaf pans. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes or until done.

Yield: 4 generous servings.

Time-Saving Hint

Of all reasons women advance for not sewing more often, "lack of time" is one most often bewailed, yet most easily remedied.

It's a problem worth looking into at this time of year. Sewing experts emphasize that the solution does not depend entirely upon skill—though skill in machine sewing, they say, is more easily acquired by right methods and practice. Organizing your time is an important part.

The time saving secret is to cut out several garments at once. This is the ideal method for a mother who is sewing for children. Little notes from pattern instructions should be attached to sections where piecing is necessary or where there is some special point to remember.

Then roll the pieces up neatly into separate bundles, so that the machine work for all can be done at once. The handwork can be done at leisure, in the evening hours, while listening to the radio, chatting with the family, or even during the visit of a neighbor.

On Looking Cool

When you feel as limp as a rag, review these 10 commandments drawn up by a famed cosmetic expert, calculated to make you look and feel as cool as frost on a julep:

1. Apply foundation with a sponge dampened in ice cold skin freshener. Your face will look and feel as cool as a porcelain plaque.

2. Keep a spare lipstick in the refrigerator.

3. Wear loose, lightweight, peek-a-boo (keep it decent) clothing that provides entry to air, exit to moisture before it has a chance to chill the body.

4. Avoid extremes of temperature—the deep-freeze of an air-conditioned office to the sizzling sidewalks, for example. Or guzzling an iced coke, then a cup of hot coffee.

5 Take your bath warm. A cold one will only make you warmer.

6. Wear roomy shoes. This is one time your feet will reward you for larger quarters.

7. Keep your temper under leash. Letting it loose won't add to your or its victim's comfort.

8. Keep your cologne in the refrigerator, when not in use. Applied to steaming flesh, its tang plus chill can be as bracing as a trip to the mountains.

9. Eat plenty of vegetables and fruits and drink lots of water.

10. Do not wear tight belts, or wrist bands, or heavy jewellery.

Coronation Froth Missing In New Fashions

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The term "bread and butter" collection used by Hardy Amies to describe his newly-released winter styles would fit most of the London fall fashion shows.

Amies, Worth and other top British couturiers appeared to agree that after the "iced-cake" look of the Coronation styles, a down-to-earth, "spiced-bun" winter plainness seemed in order.

This earthy look, however, can still be pretty delectable when handled by such royal designers as Amies. The simple, tailored styles created by this couturier for the Queen's Canadian tour drew comment in many places and he now is making some of the clothes Her Majesty will wear on her coming tour of Australia and New Zealand.

The swing away from the frosted embroidered elegance of Coronation wear merely means British designers have concentrated on the exquisitely-tailored clothes for which they have long been famed.

COSTLY SIMPLICITY

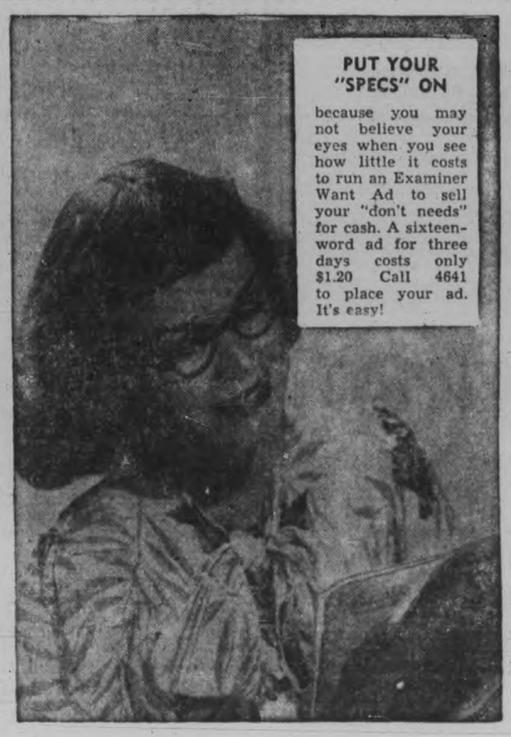
The effect is seen in muted knobbly tweed suits—simple and expensive. They will still look good after years of wear.

Tailored dresses with price tags bordering on three figures are a masterpiece in British understatement. They look so easy to make at home. But this year's winter styles are the type manufacturers can copy only with care. Perfect styling means individual fitting and a master touch.

Many designers give dresses an "exit appeal" by means of skirt fullness drawn to the back. Pencil-slim in front, they cascade into waterfall fullness behind, coming generally from under an uneven peplum.

Coats and suits are lined and trimmed with fur. And everywhere, from Lyons velvet evening dresses and brocade cocktail gowns to featherweight woollens, there is a predominance of black. Brandy, beige, cinamon, sage and leaf green and chinese yellow are inked over or speckled with black.

The most vivid splashes of color are seen in dresses by John Cavanagh, with the stirring reds and tantalizing black of Spanish flamenco dancers. He received applause for his evening dress in flamenco red satin—a brilliant pink—embroidered with jet and rhinestones and sporting black tassels. It was worn under a coat of white duchess satin lined with black seal, severely tailored.



Three new winter colors with a forecast popularity are Clarence rose, a soft smoky pink; ambassador blue, a muted silvery blue; and a pure royal blue. As patron of the British Color Council, Princess Margaret sponsored these colors, including shades the Queen will wear during her tour of the Antipodes.

DOROTHY DIX:

Eight Sons And Daughters Glad To Support Mother

DEAR MISS DIX: Perhaps you don't receive many letters like this, but I just have to "sound off" about my family. The reason why this letter is different is because the "sounding off" is boastful.

It concerns the care with which we provide for our mother. Whenever I read of anyone—especially a family—mistreating an elderly person, I do a fast burn. Before my father passed away, two months ago, we gave our parents money in order that they could keep their apartment. There are eight of us children and we all contributed. Each was ready to take our parents if they preferred it that way. After my father's passing, my mother, at her own suggestion, moved into my brother's home. And I must say this about her in-laws, judging by the attention and care given my mother, they gave her the same attention as we did. H. D.

A WELCOME TALE OF KINDNESS

ANSWER: Your letter certainly was a welcome interlude on a hot day. I hope that printing it stirs the consciences of those who are neglectful of elderly or dependent parents. Too much of my mail describes the shunting of all responsibility onto one pair of shoulders—even when several children could share it. Or worse yet, no one will be willing to tend to the needs of the oldsters, leaving them completely neglected. How much happier any family would be if they would try to achieve the spirit of co-operation that inspires your group. I'm sure it doesn't come automatically to your people, any more than it does to others, yet your brothers and sisters, along with their husbands and wives, fully recognize the greater measure of happiness to be attained through helpfulness.

You folks have set your standards on thoughtfulness, loyalty, and kindness, instead of giving vent to petty jealousy. If only more people would rule their lives through consideration rather than dissension, the world would be all the happier.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like your personal opinion as to whether or not it's wrong to attend movies. I don't see where there is any harm, especially in seeing such educational pictures as "Macbeth." D. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you belong to a church that doesn't approve of some movies, you are bound by conscience to stay away from them. My personal opinion is valueless in a matter of this sort, if the dictates of your religion are involved. However, for what it's worth, I don't see any wrong in movies, especially those of the type you mention. Since early history, the theatre has been a great source of education, as well as pleasure. The scope of the living theatre is so limited today, that good movies must take its place in many localities.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: It is a source of great regret to me that I am not as close to my father as other 15-year-old girls are to their fathers. How can I remedy this situation? SANDY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You might begin by taking your problems to him, and showing your appreciation for any help he gives you. He probably has the same feeling as you have, but just doesn't know how to get closer to you. A booklet put out by the Public Affairs Pamphlets, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y., called, "Making The Grade As Dad," would be good reading for him. It costs 20 cents, and I suggest that you get a copy, then enlist Mom's cooperation in seeing that Dad reads it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been in love with a girl for a year, and we've gotten along fine except for one thing. On a date, she always insists on going where she wants to go, even though I have other ideas. My friends say she rules me, which I guess is about right. Can I change her? T. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Might as well try to stop the stars in their courses. A woman determined to have her own way is not to be side-tracked. If you're straining at the bit now, what will happen if you marry the girl? If she hasn't even the courtesy, or consideration, to give you a break, you may be sure she never will.

Wool Fabrics Now Washable

A 6,000-year-old miracle fibre — wool — has been brought up to date by the introduction of new wool shrinkage control techniques. This latest scientific development means that today you can shop for almost any type of wool garment — from high style dresses to lounging robes, from a hunting jacekt to a baby's sweater — in sanforlan shrink-resistant wollens. It is wonderfully convenient and time saving to wash wool garments without special care such as blocking or stretchers. People who prefer to have their woollens done by a drycleaner know that untreated wools can shrink out of fit after one cleaning.

But, of course, for some stains, such as perspiration, sugar or syrup, soap and water is the best and the only way to remove them.

Peach-Pear Salad

Peach halves. Pear halves. Maraschino cherries, cut into quarters.

Salad dressing or mayonnaise.

For each serving place 2 peach halves and 2 pear halves, cut sides up, on lettuce on a salad plate. Place crushed pineapple in the centre of each pear half. Arrange 4 quarters of maraschino cherry on each pear half. Fill the peach centres with salad dressing or mayonnaise.

MORE AND MORE children are taking an interest in studying the stars. It is something they hear very little about in elementary school; however, it is a hobby which brings real fun and pleasure. Books are to be had in the public library.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Star Gazing Can Be Fun With Thrill Of Learning

By NANCY CLEAVER

"How bright the stars are tonight!" mother said when she went out on the lawn to tell Johnny that he should come in from the hammock and go to bed. "Do let me stay up a little longer, Daddy and I have been watching the falling stars—Oh! Look! There's a whopper!" A brilliant light streaked across the sky and seemed to tumble right into the far tree top at the bottom of the garden.

"That one's just as bright as a fireworks rocket!" Johnny exclaimed, "But Daddy just said that falling stars aren't real stars but chips off comets. What is a comet?"

✧ ✧ ✧

STARS REALLY SUNS

Very few public school youngsters study astronomy and so they can have the thrill of learning something quite new and different as they star gaze. Few of them know that the stars are really suns. Our sun, around which the earth revolves, is only a very minor star, similar to the other faint stars in the Milky Way galaxy of which we are a part. Planets are heavenly bodies revolving around a sun and they shine with a steady, reflected light. Our sun has nine planets. Our moon, which revolves around the earth, is our nearest space neighbor, but even it is 240,000 miles way.

There is only one seemingly fixed star, Polaris, the Pole or North Star in our sky in any season. For centuries, sailors have piloted their ships and travellers have plotted their courses by its light. Polaris has a different spot in the sky for every latitude within that hemisphere. At the North Pole it is directly overhead, while at the equator it is near the horizon.

FINDING NORTH STAR

Every child should know how to find the North Star, so called because a straight line drawn from it to the horizon marks due North. It is the brightest star in the Little Dipper and is the last star in its hnadle. This North Star and also five of the seven stars of the Big Dipper are Second Magnitude stars and can easily be seen overhead in our Northern Hemisphere. The two "pointer" stars of the Big Dipper, in the bowl of the Dipper farthest from the handle, seem to point to the North Star. The Pole Star is like the centre of a great Clock Face, with the Pointer Stars forming the hour hand. The Big Dipper seems to swing from leit to right,, the "Pointers" moving in a contra-clockwise motion. When one Dipper is upright the other is upside down, their handles stretching in opposite directions.

Because of the yearly motion of the earth around the sun, the stars appear a little farther west at the same time on successive nights or they may be observed in the sky in the same position four minutes earlier each night. Thus the June evening constellations differ quite a bit from the August stars. Orion, the dazzling constellation of the Winter Evenings cannot be seen on a summer evening.

Planets follow a path, somewhat similar to the sun. The ancient peoples called this pathway the zodiac. Different planets are located in varying constellations each year. There are five planets which can be seen with the naked eye—Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn and Mercury (which is always close to the sun and can sometimes be seen in the West immediately after the sun set).

FASCINATING HOBBY

Studying the stars, can be a fascinating hobby for children and parents to pursue together. The dramatic flash of a "falling star" cannot but attract attention. Answers to questions about the stars and planets, meteors, falling stars, and the moon can be discovered in a reliable book on stars. Any good public library has books on astronomy for beginners and star legends which are not too technical for the ordinary reader. Invest in one handy star guide or book on stars for the home library. Read bits of it aloud as a family. Insert a page in the back and keep a record of each new constellation you can point out.

It is fun to look at the stars through a good pair of field glasses and a real thrill to see them and the moon through a powerful telescope. But many star gazers use their eyes unaided by any magnifying device. They are always discovering something new.

Read the poem "Dauber" by John Masefield, the story of a boy who ran away to sea to learn to be an artist. You will come on these lines which any lover of the stars will understand:

Dauber stood silent, "leaning on the boat,
Watching the constellations rise and burn,
Until the beauty took him by the throat,
So stately in their glittering overturn—
Armies of marching eyes, armies that yearn,
With banners rising and falling and passing by Over the empty silence of the sky."

ANSWER:

CRUST FOR CHICKEN OR OTHER MEAT PIE

One and three-quarters cups sifted bread or pastry flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons butter or shortening, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks or 1 whole egg, ⅜ cup cold milk. Mix and roll out thicker than for pies. Use only ½ teaspoon of salt if for ham pie. Double this quantity for a 2-crust meat pie or for a pie where you line the sides of the baking dish. Rich plain pastry or biscuit dough with double quantity of shortening are also good for meat pies. (see recipe for Anna's Tea Biscuits below.)

QUESTION: I have read your column frequently and have noticed ladies asking for various recipes and have also found some very interesting tips ...as I am very busy I do not get to read the paper every day and know I have missed a great deal...would you have a recipe for crumpets? I have asked everyone but no one seems to have ever made them...

(Mrs.) Jean K.

ANSWER: Welcome to this column Jean.

CRUMPETS

One-quarter cup finely grated very soft cooked potato, 2 cups boiling water, 2 yeast cakes, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt. When measuring grated or mashed potato it should be well-packed. Let the water cool to lukewarm, then add yeast and potato, stir to dissolve yeast, then add flour and salt and beat for 2 minutes. (NOTE: If granular yeast is used pour 2 packages into ½ cup lukewarm water, add ½ teaspoon sugar and let stand without stirring for 5 minutes. Stir and add but reduce water to 1½ cups in recipe.) Let this batter rise 3 times for 30 minutes each time, beating it after each 30-minute rising for 3 or 4 minutes. The beating makes the very large holes characteristic of crumpets. After last beating bake at once. Have ready and hot heavy iron griddle with muffin or crumpet rings set on it—they are 3½ inches in diameter and are to be bought at large hardware or restaurant supply stores. You can use buttered jar rings.) Pour batter into crumpet rings to 1-3-inch depth—crumpet must not be thick. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes. Do not turn. Let cool when baked. To use, toast and serve hot.

Although proper equipment is most desirable if you work expertly the batter may be poured directly onto a hot greased griddle and put into a very hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. and baked about 12 minutes. They are not perfectly round but the flavor and texture are the same.

QUESTION: I was out to tea... and ha dthe most delicious tea biscuits...hostess got recipe from your column...would you also send peach pie with meringue which appeared ...Winnifred T.

ANSWER: I have mailed the peach pie recipe.

ANNA'S TEA BISCUITS

Two cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each cream of tartar and salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2-3 cup milk, ½ cup butter or good quality shortening. Sift dry ingredients together and cut shortening or butter into them with pastry blender, until it is crumbs. Add milk all at once. Quickly stir to moisten flour. Pat and roll out to ½-inch thickness. Do not grease baking sheet. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. 10 or 11 minutes.

Fashion Flashes

The leading line is still the straight line or sheath. It is seen everywhere in late summer and early fall collections. Some softening, such as a slight blousing in back, is a favorite device with designers as is a draped low back for late afternoon affairs. Sheer rayon crepe in dark brown, navy, grey or black makes a handsome afternoon dress with a draped high front and draped low back marked by a lace insert. An elaborate rhinestone pin at side front of drapery and push-up, three-quarter sleeves complete the picture. Skirt is straight and slim.

✧ ✧ ✧

Prepared for early autumn is a series of very fine-ribbed corduroys in interesting prints on such colors as rust, dark red, dark green, lapis blue. Suits of the corduroy with matching fine wool jersey tops, dyed to match, or sweater-blouses will soon be in the stores, especially the back-to-college departments.

✧ ✧ ✧

Fun items in the shops for late vacationists or for a nice gift to a seashore hostess include sunglass and earring sets. The eyeglass rims are decorated with elaborate designs in tiny, colored sea shells, pearls and rhinestone—usually in floral designs—with large button earrings picking up the motif. From California.

✧ ✧ ✧

Earrings can best be described as hoops, loops and buttons, and the contour of the face will determine your choice. Very exciting are the hoops within hoops, all the drama of the hoop earring with a new attention-getting feature, for the slightest movement of the head will cause the hoops within hoops to turn and glint.

East-West Shrine Tilt Suggested For Canada

WINNIPEG (CP)—Possible plans for organizing an East-West Shriners all-star football game in Canada were outlined Friday by Remmie L. Arnold of Petersburgh, Va., imperial potentate, ancient Arabic order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Arnold was interviewed when he arrived here for the official opening of Winnipeg's new $500,000 stadium. But leading the list of his discussions with local shrine officials will be possible organization of an East-West Shrine game.

Similar games staged annually by Shriners in the United States have raised thousands of dollars for crippled children hospitals, he said.

Hypnotize Rugger Players? New Zealanders Shocked

INVERCARGILL, N.Z. (CP) — Rugby Union football—the original game as invented at England's famous old Rugby public school—is almost a religion in New Zealand. Something like horror was the reaction of enthusiasts when a visiting hypnotist came up with new ideas for winning.

The hypnotist, a bearded young South African named Leon van Loewe, offered to inspire the Southland team with the will to win in a forthcoming challenge match against Wellington for the Ranfurly Shield, the premier rugby trophy in New Zealand.

Van Loewe said he could not make supermen of footballers, but he could inspire them with the will to win. He claimed he tried it on a team in Australia, lowest team in a local competition, and that they went ahead to make mincemeat of the leading team.

Southland, the extreme southern district of New Zealand, is strongly conservative in its outlook, but rugby mania is even stronger there than in most parts of the country. To win the coveted Ranfurly Shield would be a proud achievement for Southland, and its rugby administrators sat down to examine the hypnotist's offer.

But rugby traditions were too strong. "We might be accused of playing unethically and using witchcraft," declared the president, R. G. Webb.

"If the hypnotist could take the team out of a trance instead of putting it into one, it might be more to the point," said another member.

The club regretfully declined the offer with thanks.

Climbing Everest From North Tough Route For Russians

By PETER JACKSON

NEW DELHI, (Reuters)—If the Russians or Red Chinese should decide to try climbing 29,002-foot Mount Everest from the Communist-controlled Tibetan side, they'll find it rough going, according to the two men who did scale the world's highest peak.

When New Zealand bee-keeper Edmund Hillary and Sherpa tribesman Tenzing Norkay reached the "top of the world" at the summit of Everest astride the Tibet-Nepal border they had a good look at the route any climbers from the Tibetan side would have to take.

EXCEEDINGLY STEEP

"The final slopes looked exceedingly steep on the Tibetan side," Hillary said. "The earlier approaches looked somewhat easier than our route, but the last 1,000 feet looked pretty hard."

To which Tenzing added: "The rocks on the north side were black and clear of snow. It may be possible to climb Everest from the north, but the last part certainly appears to be more difficult."

Everest was first approached from the north because Nepal was a "forbidden kingdom" to Europeans.

Though Tibet was scarcely less welcoming, the good offices of Sir Charles Bell, the British agent in Sikkim, who was on friendly terms with Tibet's ruling Dalai Lama, won permission for an expedition when he visited Lhasa in 1920.

The success of the British expedition is attributed here to the fact that its leader, Col. John Hunt was able to make his plans after studying the experiences of all previous expeditions, including that of the Swiss.

SAVED BY OXYGEN

Oxygen carried the assault teams to the top. For the first time on Everest, the equipment carried worked satisfactorily.

The assault camp from which Hillary and Tenzing reached the summit was the highest ever placed on Everest—27,900 feet.

In the opinion of Dr. Griffith Pugh, the physiologist with the British expedition, an important factor contributing to this year's success was ample provision of liquids at high altitudes to counteract the loss of vast quantities of moisture when air is expelled from the lungs.

Chief Mike Gets Railway Pass For Work, Book

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., (CP)—Chief Mike Mountain Horse has earned fame in southern Alberta while advancing in a white man's civilization.

Born 65 years ago, he recently was presented with a 10-year railway pass in recognition of his work. A full tribal chieftain, he works as a locomotive laborer here.

Before starting work with the railway he was well known as a soldier, writer, lecturer, police scout and interpreter.

Son of a Peigan Indian mother and a Blood Indian father, he was born in a teepee lined with symbols representing the ancient feuds and battles of his ancestors.

SAGA OF PLAINS

His family history instilled in him a desire to learn all he could of the North American plains Indian. The knowledge he gathered 20 years ago became a book, "Indians of the Western Plains," depicting the Indian's reaction to the ever-advancing strides of civilization.

Mike's father was Chief Mountain Horse, a noted Blood warrior who fought in the last big Indian battle on the Canadian plains, the battle of Lethbridge in 1870 between the Bloods and Crees along the river bottom and coulees near where this city has grown.

Mike himself fought in France during the First World War and was wounded twice. He came out with the rank of acting sergeant and the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

Later he was a scout and interpreter for the RCMP at Lethbridge and Fort Macleod.

His fellow workers two years ago elected him president of the Lethbridge local of the Stationary Firemen and Oilers Union here.

Dam To Cut Erosion

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The hydro-electric power commission obtained permission Friday from the parks commission to build a control dam as part of the remedial works program to be conducted by the Canadian and United States governments. The works are aimed at protecting the crest of Niagara Falls from erosion. A start is expected to be made soon.

Czechs Ban Film

VIENNA (AP) — The Austrian government Friday banned a 20th Century-Fox film showing the escape of a Czechoslovak circus into the American zone of Germany "for reasons of state policy." It did not expand on that. The film is "The Man on the Tightrope," starring Fredric March and Adolphe Menjou.

Lost In Red Zone

HOF, Germany (AP) — U. S. Army officials here reported today that two American officers have been missing since Friday night when they made a forced landing in their light plane about five miles inside the Russian zone. The plane was on a routine flight from near this East-West German border city when it apparently got off course.

Norway-Vancouver Journey Ends B.C. Man's Wanderlust

VANCOUVER (CP) — A globe-trotting Vancouver adventurer who sailed a 45-foot ketch from Norway to Vancouver—has lost the wanderlust.

Michael Fitz-James, 28, has decided to settle down in his home town, sell his ship, and get a job—shoreside, but with a tang of the sea about it.

He went to sea four years ago. Then, in Norway, he bought the ketch Maaken to sail her back home.

The Maaken is an oak-hulled vessel, built in 1910 as a life-saving patrol boat. When Fitz-James found her in Norway, she was practically a derelict, but with the help of three other Vancouver men, whom he met in London, she was put in shape for the long voyage which ended here July 11.

There was little money to spare, but generous Norwegians showed great interest in the voyage and when she put out into the North Sea, the Maaken was completely re-rigged and ready for the passage.

Members of Fitz-James' crew varied throughout the voyage as various persons made on a leg or two of the trip.

Toughest passage was from Lisbon, Portugal to Las Palmas in the Canary Islands where the little ketch ran into head-on gales and was hove-to for several days in huge seas.

Passage from Las Palmas to Curacao took five days, and Curacao to Panama another six. The long haul up the west coast to San Francisco took 80 days against the prevailing winds and currents.

A faulty bilge pump and broken fuel line, repaired by the U.S. Coast Guard, delayed Fitz-James at San Francisco. He exchanged an old compass for a new bilge pump.

Twenty-one more days took him to Victoria, where he put the Maaken into "spit-and-polish" shape before siling into home port.

11,000 Gold Bricks Poured In Yellowknife Gold Mine

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Gold brick No. 1,000 was poured in late June at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's Con mine here.

The event was of historic interest. A new chapter in Canadian mining was opened 15 years ago at the same mine with the pouring of the first gold brick in the Northwest Territories.

Mrs. O. L. Stanton, wife of the doctor at the mine, was present at both events.

The 1,000th brick was poured by Neil Kerr, the mill shift boss, and Ed Thornton, the testing engineer. It weighted 810 troy ounces or about 46 pounds.

Cominco first became interested in exploration in the Great Slave lake area of the Northwest Territories nearly 30 years ago. For many years company men combed the district, using the then revolutionary flying - prospector technique.

In 1935, on the heels of the first discovery of gold in Yellowknife, Cominco staked the Con group of claims. A prospect shaft was sunk and later the property was diamond drilled. By 1938 it was in production. Except for a three-year wartime shutdown, the mine has operated ever since.

It employs about 300 men and is the oldest producing gold mine in the Northwest Territories. Production last year was 128,824 tons of ore, averaging 0.57 ounces of gold a ton.

Jet Airliners' Operation Shows Profit

LONDON (CP) — Turbo-prop Vickers Viscount airliners operated by British European Airways have earned a clear profit of nearly £70,000 in their first 2,000 hours of scheduled service, it was announced here recently.

Peter Masefield, BEA's chief executive, says in an article in the corporation's magazine that this represents a profit of about £34 a flying hour, and is "tremendously encouraging for the future."

The Viscount went into service April 18. BEA now has nine in service on routes from London to Cyprus, Istanbul, Zurich and Geneva.

Masefield says the profit was made over BEA's most lucrative longer routes and during summer peak traffic. Even so, he says, it is encouraging that the Viscount is operating already at the lowest cost a ton-mile of any passenger airliner in the BEA fleet.

"It shows," says Masefield, "that in the Viscount we have a plane which is not only in the lead in its attraction to passengers, but also one which is going to be a first-class proposition economically—a wonderful start for the world's first turbo-prop airliner."

(Trans-Canada Air Lines has an order for 15 Viscounts. Deliveries are to start in 1954.)

Tillicum Class Holds Corn Roast

KEENE (ENS) — Members of the Tillicum Class, along with their husbands and many holiday tourists, gathered around a huge open fire on Thursday evening at the Highland View Tourist Camp on Rice Lake to enjoy their annual corn roast.

The program, prepared by Bertha Wilson and Mary Elmhirst, opened with a reading by the president, Marybelle Elmhirst, followed by a hymn, "Unto the Hills Around." The scripture reading was given by Arthur Elmhirst. The Rev. H. B. Herrington led in prayer. Mary Elmhirst and Olga Gall both gave readings and a hymn, "This Is My Father's World," was sung. Edith McIntyre gave a reading, followed by a guitar duet by Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Fletcher. Bertha Wilson gave a recitation; the hymn, "Day Is Dying in the West" was sung, and Mr. Herrington closed the worship service with the benediction.

A sing-song followed, led by Alf. Fletcher. Edith McIntyre recited "The Birthday Party." Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Fletcher gave a guitar duet, "Drifting and Dreaming."

A skit was put on by Tom Gall, with Mary Elmhirst, Edith McIntyre, Arthur Elmhirst, Bill Brown and Donald Manley taking part.

The group then gathered around the fire to enjoy corn on the cob, cooked in a large boiler, marshmallows and soft drinks.

Music was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Fletcher, Mr. Hilliard Barridge, and Mr. William Bryer on their guitars and banjo. The evening was brought to a close with a vote of thanks given by Isobel Wismer to the hostess, Mrs. Harold Wilson, and to all who had taken part.

BBUURRRR, IT'S COLD—Quite a distance from swimming beaches along the river, children in the King Edward park neighborhood cool off these warm days in the park's wading pool. They love to run through the chilly water, sit on the water spout or just be content to stand under the water as it falls. "Lucky To Live" After Accident

REVELSTOKE, B. C. (CP)—Two Ontario men were "glad to be alive" today after plunging down a 400-foot embankment while attempting to establish a new record for small-car travel from Ottawa to Vancouver.

Peter Haddon, 28, of Toronto said he and his companion R. J. Thurgood of Brantford were both "darn lucky" to escape without serious injuries when their small English Morris car hurtled off the Big Bend highway 66 miles north of here Thursday.

Haddon said he expects hospital authorities will release him from hospital later today. His companion is in "satisfactory condition" with face and head lacerations.

The Toronto motorist blamed fatigue for the accident that foiled an attempt to set a new record when the drivers were only a few hours from Vancouver and a planned civic reception. They had planned to complete the 3,145-mile journey in less than 100 hours.

"We were both so tired we hardly knew what we were doing," he said. "It all happened so fast, I can't really remember what did happen."

Haddon said Thurgood was at the wheel when, without warning, the car veered off at a sharp turn and rolled over and over until it came to rest in an upright position at the bottom of the gorge. Both men were dazed but still conscious.

Taken For Ride, Robbed

HAMILTON (CP)—Police said a delivery man told them he was robbed of $350 Friday night after being taken for a ride in his own truck. Driver Frank Mushing said two men jumped into the cab of his truck inside city limits, ordered him to drive to the country where they stole his money and made off with his truck. Police later found the vehicle nearby.

To Use Warning Lights

TORONTO (CP)—Many department of highways vehicles are being equipped with flashing blue lights, Highways Minister Doucett said Friday. He said all department snowplows, blowers and control trucks are being fitted with the lights. The purpose was to warn motorists of vehicles of extraordinary width, slow speed and the lurching action of a snowplow.

Dorset Camp Site For Meeting Game Problems

DORSET, Ont. (CP) — Wildlife problems affecting both Canada and the United States are under discussion here by representatives of the federal governments of both countries and of 13 midwestern states and three provinces.

More than 50 officials have gathered at the Ontario forest rangers' school in the Haliburton Highlands for the 20th annual meeting of the Association of Midwest Fish and Game Commissioners. The association is holding its two-day session in Canada for the first time.

Panels of administrative experts are considering subjects ranging from the future of fish hatcheries and zoning regulations through establishment of a common basis of fish and game laws.

Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the division of fish and wildlife of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, is presiding.

I. T. Bod, director of the Missouri Conservation Commission, represents Missouri at the conference. He is conference vice-president and Dr. C. H. D. Clark of the Ontario fish and wildlife division is secretary-treasurer.

Represented are the provinces of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba and the states of Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Dr. Harkness expressed the hope this international exchange of ideas and experience would tend toward a general uniformity of administration so that sportsmen would find a similarity of conditions from state to state and a greater standardization of fish and game laws than at present in both countries.

Ex-PoW Welcome Any Time: Town

MARATHON, Ont. (CP)—Heins Fromme, escaped prisoner-of-war who surrendered to RCMP authorities at Ottawa Thursday, can take up his life again as a millworker and part-time photographer here as far as the local folks are concerned.

"His job will be waiting for him when he wants it," William Forrester, personnel supervisor at the paper mill in this Lake Superior community, said Friday of the 32-year-old former German merchant seaman who escaped from a work camp near Toronto in 1946.

He came to Marathon a year later and got a job with the Marathon Paper Mill. In 1948 he married Herti Kaiser, an Austrian-born Canadian girl formerly of Toronto and Kitchener. They have a three-year-old son.

As a part - time photographer, many of Fromme's pictures have appeared in the Daily Times-Journal at Fort William, 125 miles to the west.

Stocks Continue At Low Levels

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The stock markets this week seemingly were intent on prolonging the "summer doldrums" to the limit. Low volume and almost stationary prices prevailed for the sixth successive week.

Trading on the Toronto stock exchange was the slowest since Christmas. Daily turnover was under the 2,000,000-share mark.

At Montreal, advancing paper stocks again were the feature. Wall Street recorded steady to lower prices, rails encountering mild selling pressure.

At Toronto and Montreal, much of the small-scale activity centred in papers. Going to a high for the year on Montreal exchange averages, paper stocks culminated an advance that has lifted the shares of leading companies an average of more than 15 per cent above their April lows.

JUMP $15

Montreal's star performer this week was Dryden Paper. It jumped $15 to $50, its highest point since 1928, before settling back at $45. This stock's performance was outstanding, perhaps due to unconfirmed reports that a large international paper concern was negotiating to purchase a large interest in Dryden at $50 a share.

On the Toronto exchange, Anglo-Canadian and Consolidated Paper led papers higher in irregular dealings in the industrials group. Golds and western oils added small amounts while base metals hovered near last week's closing levels.

Base metal interests expressed satisfaction at the firmer tone of copper prices toward the end of the first week of free dealing on the London metals exchange. However, market analysts said a return to more stable copper prices awaited the United States government's decision on whether or not to buy Chile's 60,000-ton surplus.

N.Y. PRICES EASIER

Prices at New York opened the week on an easier note, brightened late Tuesday, then settled steady to lower until Friday's downturn. Rails were the market's "weak sister."

From Friday to Friday, Toronto indexes showed industrials up .41 at 313.10, (highest level since early April), golds up .77 at 78.60, base metals down .61 at 153.20 and western oils up .44 at 105.19.

Montreal averages had papers up 8.07 at 718.68, banks up .13 at 34.27, utilities up .1 at 95.8, industrials down .5 at 189.8, combined down .2 at 158.5 and golds up .04 at 57.87.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks slipped 20 cents to $108.90.

Succeeds Senator Tobey

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Robert W. Upton, 69-year-old Concord lawyer, was appointed Friday to succeed his long-time friend, Charles W. Tobey, in the United States Senate. Upton, a Republican, will serve until January, 1955. The remaining two years of the late Senator Tobey's term will be filled at the state elections in November, 1954.

Stay Hearings On Strikers' Neglect Of Order

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer Friday adjourned indefinitely hearings on motions to commit 34 miners to jail for breaking a court injunction in connection with picketing at the strike-bound Broulan Reef mine at Timmins.

E. B. Jolliffe, counsel for the miners, told the court he had obtained written statements from the men that they would obey the injunction in future.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported earlier Friday that Mr. Jolliffe assured the court all picketing at the mine would cease. His comment, however, related only to the 34 men cited in court.

Mr. Jolliffe also said the miners, members of the United Steelworkers Union (CIO-CCL), have been advised that they should stay off its picket lines for the duration of the strike.

A motion by the Hallnor Mines, to restrain pickets at their property which adjoins the Broulan Reef mine, was adjourned until Aug. 21.

About 750 miners are on strike in the area. The Broulan Reef miners walked out July 11 for higher wages. Hallnor miners joined the strike two days later.

Daley Announces Strike Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Charles Daley of Ontario announced Friday he has asked union and company officials involved in the strike of 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario to meet with him at Toronto Monday in an effort to settle the walkout.

The meeting will be held four weeks after Mr. Daley's first talks with the company and union. Those talks ended unsuccessfully after nine hours of discussion and union and company representatives said afterward they had come no closer together on wages, the main issue.

The grip of strikers on movement of trucks on southern Ontario highways meanwhile appeared to be tightening. Strikers from Hamilton moved into the Niagara Peninsula Friday and picketed trucking yards at St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and Fort Erie.

Many AFL, CIO and independent unions in the Hamilton area and in the peninsula gave their support to the strike Friday by assuring James Groat, president of the AFL Teamsters' Union representing the striking drivers, that their members will be asked to refuse to load or unload transports.

Boy, 13, Drowns

HAMILTON (CP) — Louis Todd, 13, of Hamilton was drowned Friday night at Van Wagner's Beach near here. Police said he had gone swimming at the beach near his home with other children and his disappearance in the water was not immediately noticed.

SAVE GIRL 8 FROM DROWNING IN POOL

UP IN SMOKE—Cobourg's Recreational Centre and Memorial Arena was destroyed by an early morning fire today. The loss estimated at $175,000 was covered by insurance. $175,000 Fire Destroys Cobourg Memorial Arena

COBOURG (ENS)—Cobourg's Recreational Centre and Memorial Arena was destroyed by fire in the early morning hours today. The loss was set $175,000 but it is completely covered by insurance. The $36,000 ice machine which is installed in a brick building of its own adjoining the west side at the front was saved by Cobourg and Port Hope firemen. The arena which seats 2,200 was built in 1949 at a cost of $100,000 and was opened in January, 1950. The fate of the $10,000 hard surface terrazzo floor that was installed last year will not be known until the ruins of the building cool down enough to inspect it. A sheet of ice kept for the summer skating school may have saved it.

Cause of the fire has not yet been determined. Rink manager Ross Drew said that after the usual ice revue Sunday night staged by members of the skating school, he pulled out the wall plugs attached to hot plates in the canteen. Ice engineer Joe Goody said that everything was in order when he made his rounds in the arena about 11 p.m. after the crowd and the skaters had left.

CEMENT BLOCK STRUCTURE

The arena is a cement block structure with a brick front. At the front on the main floor are dressing rooms, a large canteen and a heating system. Above this front section on the second floor is a large auditorium, a secondary canteen and offices.

The fire is believed to have started on the second floor near the canteen about 5 a.m. At first it was not thought serious, but it built up in the confines of the auditorium section until it ate up into the loft and then through

Massey-Harris, Ferguson Companies Amalgamate

TORONTO (CP)—Two of the world's largest manufacturers of farm implements announced Sunday they intend to amalgamate. In a joint statement, James S. Duncan, president of the Massey-Harris Company, and Harry Ferguson, chairman of the Harry Ferguson Companies, announced their organizations have agreed to unite and will operate under the name of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited. The former is a Canadian company, the latter British.

The statement said Mr. Duncan will take over administration of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited as president and Mr. Ferguson will be chairman of the board.

In addition to farm implements, the new company will continue to manufacture Standard motor cars. The Ferguson name will continue to be used on all implements of Ferguson design.

IMPORTANT NEWS

Their statement said the uniting of the two interests is probably the most important news of the century in the farm implement industry. The 68-year-old Ferguson has blazed a trail in every important agricultural country in the world with tractors equipped with his revolutionary system of mounted implements. The Massey-Harris comp-

'King of Saboteurs'

East German Gestapo Head Blamed For Liner Fires

By PETER PERNYES

BERLIN (Reuters)—British intelligence officers here say that Ernst Freidrich Wollweber, the new, 55-year-old head of Communist East Germany's secret police, is probably the most expert saboteur the world has ever seen.

They suspect him of having been involved in the destruction by fire of the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada at Liverpool last January, the two equally mysterious fires on board the liner Queen Elizabeth in Southampton a week later and also in the disappearance two years ago of British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean.

They also put to his account explosions on board the British Navy's 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Indomitable in the Mediterranea, in which two sailors were killed and 40 injured.

When the East German government was formed in 1949 under Russian sponsorship, Wollweber was made "deputy director of sea and internal shipping," a post from which he could conduct shipping sabotage effectively.

MASTERMINDED FIRES

It was through this post that British intelligence officers believe he masterminded the Empress of Canada and Queen Elizabeth fires and the disappearance of the two diplomats.

New evidence to link Wollweber with the disappearance of Burgess and Maclean came with the arrest of Edmund Wegner, 50, in West Germany in January.

Wegner was a member of the crew of the Polish ship Warmia, which British intelligence officers say "almost certainly" was used to carry Burgess and Maclean behind the Iron Curtain. Wegner admitted to police that he had been a member of Wollweber's widespread spy network.

Wollweber's espionage agency was brought up last year in the trial of Friijoh Enbom, who was convicted of supplying Swedish military information to Russia.

Because of his connections in Sweden, Wollweber also is linked with the case of Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, who disappeared, presumably to Russia, via Sweden. Pontecorvo was a friend of convicted atom spy Klaus Fuchs at Britain's Harwell atomic research station and once worked at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

SMUGGLED ARMS

More recently Wollweber is believed to have engaged in smuggling arms to North Korea and Communist China.

Officially a Soviet citizen and long a faithful follower of the party line, he was a member of the German Reichstag (lower house) from 1928 to 1933 when he was forced by the Nazis to flee to Denmark where he became known as the "king of the saboteurs" while heading the western European bureau of the Comintern from Copenhagen.

Boy 14 Sees Youngster Floating

Young Swimmers Lift Child From Pool, Lifeguard Gives Aid

A young swimmer and lifeguard Betty Thomson combined to save the life of Teresa Burke, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, 262 Wolfe St., about 2:20 p.m. today.

Bob Delpellaro, 14, 327 Burnham St., swimming in the Lions pool in Riverside park saw the girl floating on her back with her head under water. He pulled her to the side of the pool and brought her half way up the ladder and then with the help of his 13-year-old cousin, who has the same name, of 78 Park St., and Gerald Roy, 12, 295 King St., lifted her out.

Miss Thomson immediately started to apply artificial respiration and she was relieved by Jim Coulson, 30, 612B Armour Rd. She revived in a few minutes and Mr. Coulson told her to cry to help her breathing. Coulson said she was crying hard when firemen arrived.

Firemen applied a resuscitator for about 20 minutes to complete the rescue job.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

After being examined by Dr. Donald Whyte, she was found in a satisfactory condition and sent home.

It was not known at press time how she happened to be floating like that in the pool, but she had a cut lip and a story that she was pushed in was being investigated.

Homes Looted Hold Juveniles

MONTREAL (CP) — Three remaining members of a gang of juveniles, said by police to have looted homes in the posh Mount Royal-Outremont districts of $20,000 in household goods, were taken into custody today. The arrests now total eight.

Sgt.-Det. Nathan Smith said police now believe all members of the gang have been rounded up and that "most of the stolen goods should be recovered in a short time."

PARTY LEADER RESIGNS—Edward B. Jolliffe has resigned as provincial leader of the Ontario CCF. Requirements of his professional work made it impossible for him to continue, he declared.

Strikers Stop Truck Convoy

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Striking truckers stopped a police-escorted truck convoy on the Queen Elizabeth way early today but allowed it to move on to Toronto after warnings from the police.

The four-truck convoy, escorted in front and at the rear by Ontario provincial police cruisers, was just turning into the Queen Elizabeth way from Niagara Falls when 16 strikers in half a dozen cars forced it to halt.

"They just seemed to swarm around me at all angles until I had to stop," said constable E. Edlington, of the Niagara Falls detachment.

The strikers isolated the leading police cruiser and separated the trucks. Edlington warned the pickets to move off the highway and threatened arrest. They moved aside and the convoy proceeded after a delay when one of the trucks developed motor trouble.

Meanwhile, the police sent out a radio call, and cruisers from detachments at Dundas, St. Catharines, Fort Erie, Niagara Falls and Grantham township arrived.

New Earth Tremors Terrorize Islanders As Work Speeded To Aid Greek Refugees

ARGOLSTOLION, Greece — (AP)—New earth tremors including one rated as a strong earthquake wracked the stricken Ionian Sea islands today as officials estimated the toll from the week's devastation at some 600 dead and 700 seriously injured.

Fifteen new tremors were recorded during a 12-hour period Sunday night and today. They heightened the islanders' near-panicky desire to flee their homelands but otherwise could make little difference on the three islands practically levelled by the last week of upheavals.

The new casualty estimates came from the Argostolion headquarters of Gen. Dimitrios Istrides, who is directing the Greek rescue work. Previously it was feared more than 1,000 persons had been killed.

The figures were based on complete reports from the Island of Ithace and nearly complete reports from the other two stricken isles, Zakinthos and Kefallinia.

Three hundred of the badly injured have been moved by boat and plane to Athens. The others are in hospital in Patrai.

Fears of a typhoid outbreak still hung over the devastated area today, and one case of smallpox had been found.

Naval ships of five countries continued to pour in thousands of tons of emergency supplies in an effort to feed nearly 120,000 hungry and mostly homeless islanders.

Ornamental Swimmers Win Championship In U.S. Team Competitions

After nine years of work, Mrs. Pansy Forbes' Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club finally won the United States Amateur Athletic Union's team championship in women's synchronized swimming over the weekend at the solo, duet and team championship meet at Ormond Beach, Florida. This is by far the club's greatest achievement. Before a capacity crowd at the spacious Beach pool, the 12 Peterborough girls came from behind to win the championship. Swimming to the theme, "Little Jumping Jacks," they just edged out the defending champions, Oakland, Calif., by 1.92 points.

Alex Sinclair, recreation director who accompanied the girls south, described the team's performance as "brilliant."

WIN 264.93 POINTS

Mrs. Forbes' girls placed first when awarded 264.93 points for their performance by the meet judges. Oakland came second with a close 263.02 points. California third with 221.70 and Texas fourth with 216.29.

Under Mrs. Forbes' guidance the girls, Joan Craig, Joan Monks, Joan Lynch, Betty Welch, Donna Bristow, Norma Douglas, Shirley Moldaver, Elaine Humphries, Jean Russelle, Nancy Doubt, Iris Rielly and Isabel Crary timed their movements to the music with perfection.

The first honor to be bestowed upon the girls after winning the championship will be the filming of their performance by RKO-Fox movie company on Tuesday at Crystal Beach.

Travelling by chartered bus the team is expected to be back in Peterborough this Friday. Ald. S. J. Black said that they will probably be received by a public reception similar to those given football and lacrosse teams when

Boat Capsizes Scouts Unhurt

PULASKI, N. Y. (AP)—Thirteen U. S. Sea Scouts and their two leaders were hurled into Lake Ontario Saturday when their boat capsized at the channel entrance to Sandy Pond.

The scouts, all of whom wore life preservers, swam and waded to shore on a sand bar. They were returning from Kingston, Ont., when the craft lost its rudder.

The vessel, a old Coast Guard motor surf boat, was unable to make the entrance into the channel five miles west of here.

Shah Of Iran Flees After Revolt

TEHRAN (AP).—Aged Premier Mohammed Mossadegh held supreme power in Iran today after crushing a bloodless attempt to unseat him by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi. The young ruler and his beautiful Empress Soraya fled to neighboring Iraq and Communist mobs screamed for an end to the monarchy.

Acting swiftly in the wake of the attempt against him early Sunday, Mossadegh jailed top leaders of his opposition and dissolved the remnant of Parliament. Though the 34-year-old monarch had not abdicated, the government was believed readying a regency council to take over his powers.

The leader of the coup attempt, Maj.-Gen. Fazellah Zahedi, hid in the hills. In a statement to reporters, he claimed the shah had given him a imperial decree ousting Mossadegh and proclaiming Zahedi premier.

DETERMINED HUNT

Police and troops, armed with rifles and sten guns, started a determined hunt for the rebel leader. Mossadegh ordered customs and frontier forces to prevent his escape abroad at any cost.

Tension lessened in Tehran today as truckloads of armed troops and tanks called out by Mossadegh rumbled back to their barracks and bases. Sunday the city had bristled with troops protecting the government against their titular commander in chief, the shah.

Along the capital's main streets today shop owners cleared away broken glass left by anti-shah demonstrators who stoned the monarch's portraits in shop windows Sunday night.

The mob of Communists and Mossadegh supporters, more than 100,000 strong, had packed the capital's main Parliament Square Sunday night, howling for the ruler's blood. Banners demanded "death to the shah" and "end the dynasty."

Evacuate Quebec Village As Fire Advances, Worst Blaze In 25 Years

Fire Patrols Strengthened Around Area As 2 Boats Standing By; Wind Whips Up Flames Against Firefighters

FORESTVILLE, QUE. (CP)—Ste. Therese de Colombier, one of two villages lying directly in the path of northeastern Quebec's greatest forest fire in a quarter-century is being cleared of its population today. Lt.-Col. J. B. S. McElhiney, head of the Canadian Red Cross in Quebec City, said evacuation of women and children from the village started early this morning and would continue throughout the day. The fire was reported to be six miles from the community.

Col. McElhiney said Most Rev. Napoleon Labrie, bishop of the St. Lawrence gulf diocese, is "having trouble convincing the people of Ste. Therese they should leave."

"The flames haven't actually reached Ste. Therese and the people don't want to leave their homes."

The Red Cross official said already 300 residents of Ste. Therese and vicinity have been evacuated.

Col. McElhiney said necessity of evacuating the village of Baie Paul may arise within the next few hours because a new fire has started a few miles from there.

Police Chief H. R. Lachance of Forestville said shortly after noon today the blaze is still burning about six miles away at the foot of mountains outside Ste. Therese.

"We are well prepared for any eventually." Chief Lachance said. "We have organized a 200-man patrol and divided the whole region into zones under the supervision of responsible persons."

"The job of these men is to put out flying embers carried by today's fairly strong winds and to advise of any serious advance by the flames.

SMOKE BIG PROBLEM

"Smoke is the biggest problem right now, as it is pouring heavily over the whole region.

"Another problem is to make sure nobody in the area gets unduly alarmed.

"This morning, some people thought they heard on the radio that Forestville was being evacuated and my office was flooded with calls.

"There is no danger for Forestville as long as the wind continues to move in a southeasterly direction."

Chief Lachance said in any event evacuation could be carried out easily should it be necessary.

As far as he knew only women and children from an area outside Ste. Therest were evacuated. He did not know of plans to evacuate the whole village.

England Scores 235 In 2nd Day Of Match

E. B. Jolliffe Resigns As CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP).—Edward B. Jolliffee, 48, has stepped down from Ontario leadership of the CCF, a position he has held since the office was created in 1942.

The party's provincial executive Sunday night announced acceptance of the resignation, submitted in a letter Aug. 1. It called a meeting of the provincial party Sept. 5 to consider what action to take in view of the resignation.

Mr. Jolliffe, China-born lawyer and one-time Rhodes scholar, said in his letter to party secretary Kenneth Bryden that the demands of his Toronto law practice have made it impossible for him to continue to give the position the "strenuous and single-minded effort" it requires.

He said he believes another provincial election—the last was Nov. 22, 1951—is only a year or two away and that, in it, the CCF must make a determined bid for power. Such a bid would require the closest possible attention from the CCF and its provincial leader, whose many duties would constitute much more than full-time work.

NOT FAIR THING

"For me, this is no longer possible. Necessity requires that I give full attention to my professional work, which has been hitherto a secondary interest. It would be less than fair to the CCF and to

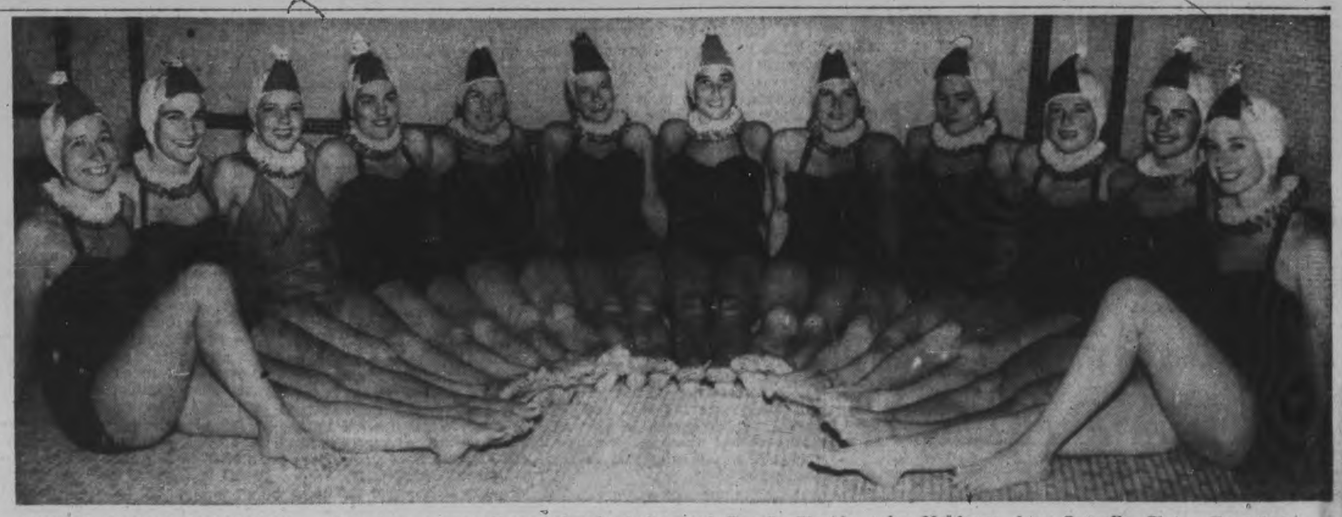
Rumor President Of Syria Slain



BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Unconfirmed reports circulated in Lebanon today that Syria's president Adib Shishekly had been assassinated in Damascus, his capital, but authoritatively Syrian sources here denied the reports.

The Syrian sources said the stories were part of an organized campaign by enemies of the Syrian president.

The reports said unknown assailants mowed down Shishekly with machine gun fire as he stepped from his bullet-proof car.

(This dispatch did not disclose the source of the report of the assassination. News usually seeps quickly over the Syrian-Lebanese border, though an official announcement on an event of this kind might be bottled up in Damascus for several hours.)

Shishekly, Syria's "strong man", had made his first public appearance Sunday since his election as president last July 10.

UNITED STATES CHAMPIONS — Peterborough's Ornamental Swimming Club's team of 12 girls, under Mrs. Pansy Forbes, won the United States Amateur Athletic Union's team championship in women's synchronized swimming over the weekend at Ormond Beach, Florida. They just edged out the defending champions, Oakland, California, 264.93 to 263.02. The girls, Isabel Crary, Joan Craig, Joan Monks, Betty Welch, Iris Forbes-Reilly, Norma Douglas, Shirley Moldaver, Jean Russelle, Elaine Humphries, Nancy Doubt, Donna Bristow and Joan Lynch (left to right, above), used the theme "Little Jumping Jacks" for their precision water act.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Soviet Seat At Parley Seen Certain

See India's Chances Of Being Asked To Conference Slim

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP)—Russia appeared assured today of a seat at the forthcoming Korean political conference — if her satellites North Korea and Communist China want her there. India's chances of being asked to the parley dimmed, however.

Diplomats, gathering for the UN general assembly beginning this afternoon freely predicted approval of a carefully worded Western resolution tossing the issue of Soviet participating to the Communist side.

Two British Commonwealth countries—Australia and New Zealand—came up with this formula Sunday to patch-up part of the split between the United States and Britain. Both agreed to support it.

The Anglo-American differences over the proposed inclusion of India at the conference table, however, remained as great as ever, and it was doubtful whether India could win a two-thirds majority in the 60-nation assembly.

WON'T SUPPORT IT

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge. J. R. said frankly Sunday that the United States would not vote for a British-sponsored resolution to include India in the conference.

Lodge insisted Indian membership would not be in accordance with the terms of the armistice agreement, which, in the U. S. view, calls for representation only of fighting participants in the conflict. India had only an ambulance unit in Korea and has frequently claimed neutrality.

Some diplomatic quarters predicted that India might withdraw her name in view of the strong U. S. opposition. Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon already has said his country is not a "candidate" for a place at the conference.

The resolution on the participation of Russia merely calls on the assembly to recommend that the Soviet Union take part "provided the other side desires it."

the people of Ontario if I were to continue in a position which demands so much more than I am able to afford."

Mr. Jolliffe, leader of the Opposition in six sessions of the Legislature, came closest to realizing his ambition of becoming Ontario's first socialist premier when, in 1943, his party won 34 of the 90 seats, only four fewer than the victorious Progressive Conservation was reduced to eight seats tives led by George Drew.

But in 1945 the CCF representa- in a vote that came 11 days after Mr. Jolliffe accused the then Premier Drew of maintaining a gestapo to spy on his political opponents. A royal commission later exonerated the Progressive Conservative leader, now national leader of his party.

Mr. Jolliffe first entered the House in the 1943 election as member for York South. He lost that seat in the 1945 election but regained it in 1948 when his party won 21 seats and replaced the Liberals as official opposition.

STRENGTH SHRANK

The 1951 election shrank CCF strength in the House to two members. Mr. Jolliffe again lost his seat but continued to direct his party's legislative activities from outside the chamber.

Last April a party convention re-elected him by acclamation for his 11th successive term as party leader despite a motion by Philip Moore, York East delegate, that no leader be named this year because of "a certain amount of dissatisfaction about our present leadership."

Mentioned as likely candidates for the CCF Ontario leadership are C. C. (Doc) Ames of Kirkland Lake, defeated CCF candidate for Timiskaming riding in the last federal election; Charles Millard of Toronto, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL); Eamon Park, Toronto labor organizer and former member of the legislature for Toronto Dovercourt; Ted Isley of Breslau, CCF provincial president; and Andrew Brewin of Toronto, defeated candidate for Toronto St. Paul's in the last federal election and a former provincial president.

Louis Henry Mikels, army private stationed in Alberta, was sentenced to 30 days in jail this morning on charges of false pretences laid August 8. Charged with passing rubber cheques, Mikels was given the light sentence because RCMP officers are scheduled to arrest him for car theft.

Mickels was picked up by police officers at the water ski meet two Sundays ago, after two service stations had been stuck with cheques of $10.

PC's Keliele and Gillis were the arresting officers.

Found guilty on a charge of speeding Keith Gordon of Campbellton was fined $12.50 in magistrate's court today. He was convicted after evidence by OPP Constable John Cawood who stated he chased the accused nine miles at speeds up to 70 and 80 miles per hour on July 26.

He finally succeeded in catching up with Gordon at the corner of George and Lansdowne Sts. Constable Cawood had first spotted the Gordon vehicle at Indian River.

Spend 13 Hours On Rafts Airmen Reach Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Three United States airmen arrived here Saturday with a grim tale of some 13 hours on life rafts bucking foul weather and 15-foot waves in the Atlantic ocean after their RB-36 reconnaissance plane crashed in flames south of Iceland Aug. 4 with a loss of 19 lives.

The men—Maj. George B. Parkes 37, of Vacaville, Calif., Staff Sergeant Charles M. DeHaven, 24, of Stroudsburg, Pa., and Airman First Class Harold E. Parker, 22, of Fairfield, Calif.—arrived aboard the British freighter Manchester Pioneer which picked them up from the ocean 500 miles west of Scotland.

They were met by relatives and U.S. Air Force officers.

The only other survivor of the 23 aboard, Staff Sergeant Roy O. Speer of Bennington, Okla., was rescued by the Manchester Shipper and taken to Liverpool, Eng.

FIRST BROKE OUT

Maj. Parkes said the crash occurred soon after fire broke out in the port engines. The plane's control system conked out and the other engines failed to function properly.

DeHaven and Parker, in the tail section, bailed out with three others. The major was in the nose section and had no time to bail out before the plane crashed, he said.

"All of a sudden I was in the water. I could see a light above my head and I tried to fight my way up to it, but was caught in the framework. The plane seemed to give a sudden lurch and somehow I was free".

FOUND AFTER 11 HOURS

Parkes clung to a raft for 11 hours before a B-29 search plane spotted him and dropped a lifeboat. He paddled over to it and found Parker, who had landed nearby, already in it.

They spent almost two hours in the lifeboat before the Pioneer fou i them.

DeHaven said he was battered, half-frozen and suffered from shock when the Pioneer picked him up.

Shah Flees

APPROVE REGENCY

The meeting bawled assent to a demand for a regency by Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi, who was seized by Imperial Guards and held for 6½ hours in the palace. Fatemi in a newspaper blast called the shah a "snake" who had "robbed the property and chastity of the people."

There was no immediate statement from the shah in Baghdad. He and his queen flew in his private plane from a Caspian sea resort in north Iran, where they had been vacationing. They arrived in the Iraq capital unheralded and went into seclusion in a government guest house.

The ruler's flight to Iraq drew new government blasts at Britain, a favorite whipping boy for Mossadegh and his followers. Fatemi told the mob the shah, "a traitor . . . ran away to the nearest British embassy."

The coup attempt appeared to have been put down without bloodshed.

ROUND UP SUSPECTS

The government roundup of suspected plotters put at least a dozen key opposition men behind bars, including Deputy Mozafar Baghaie, long a major fighter against Mossadegh in Parliament.

Others picked up included Ernest Perron, the shah's Swiss secretary; Acting Court Minister Abolghassen Amini; Col. Nemitellah Nasiri, commander of the Imperial Guard, and Soleiman Behboodi, a top court official.

The government made no move, however, against religious leader Ayatullah Kashani, who so far was not implicated in the plot.

A few hours after announcing the coup had failed, Mossadegh issued a communique formally dissolving the Parliamet which so long had opposed his attempts to trim most of the powers the shah had left.

All but 22 opposition members already had resigned, leaving it without enough members to hold a session.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat opened sharply higher in a burst of buying on the board of trade today.

Farmer approval of marketing quotas for the 1954 crop in Friday's election was considered responsible for the urgent demand.

Wheat started 1¾ to 6 cents higher, Sept. $1.91-$1.93, corn was ¼ to 1⅛ higher, Sept. $1.47¾-⅝, oats were ⅜ to 1⅛ higher, Sept. 78⅛-½, and soybeans were ½ lower to ½ higher, Sept. $2.46¾-½.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Oats and barley prices were barely steady in dull trade early today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Truckers Parley Postponed To Wednesday

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario says a meeting scheduled for today aimed at settling the strike of 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario has been postponed to Wednesday.

He said Saturday by telephone from his summer home at Niagara-on-the-Lake that the meeting date was postponed because some of the parties had previous commitments.

Mr. Daley said representatives of the 36 companies involved have told him they will attend Wednesday. A Hamilton union official said James Groat and Casey Dodds, presidents of the Hamilton and Windsor union locals whose members are on strike, will also attend.

ARREST TWO PICKETS

Police arrested two pickets at St. Catharines on assault charges after officers said two men jumped on the cab of a truck, tore out a partly-opened window and tried to get at the driver. Gordon Donald of St. Catharines suffered minor cuts.

Police identified one of those arrested as Edward Kovacs, 29, of Hamilton. Police said he and another man had tried to stop a four-truck convoy leaving the Overland Transport depot.

About 40 police averted an incident at Direct-Winters Transport depot in Welland Saturday night by moving a convoy of eight trucks while 250 picketing truckers milled about. Truckers picketing the depot jeered the drivers and jostled with police until 25 additional officers were called in.

The truck drivers, members of the AFL Teamsters' Union, walked out July 20 in demands for higher wages.

Massey-Harris Shares Feature Mixed Trading

TORONTO (CP)—Rising Massey-Harris and Dryden Paper shares featured mixed afternoon stock market trading today.

Dryden Paper made the most spectacular rise, adding $15 at $48, its highest level since 1928.

Massey-Harris rose almost $1 on a 21,515-share turnover following an announcement that the company was merging with a large Harry Ferguson Companies. Elsewhere in industrials, small fractional gains and losses were listed. Refining oils and miscellaneous industrials weakened but foods and banks firmed.

Golds were up as Preston East Dome, Campbell Red Lake and Madsen posted gains.

Losses in western oils were registered by Central Explorers, General Petroleum A Home Oil and Pacific Petroleum. Husky rose 25 cents against the trend.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals traded gains and losses about evenly as Gunnar, Brilund and Anacon slipped and New Larder U., Headway and Nesbitt Labine added pennies.

Base metals slipped. Lower were Smelters, Falconbridge, Noranda and Hudson Bay.

any, 106 years old, added new lustre to its reputation with the first mass production of combines.

Mr. Duncan said that after a complete disclosure by Mr. Ferguson of new and as yet secret inventions and a full investigation of new patents and applications for patents, Massey-Harris officers decided to make an offer to join forces.

Massey-Harris shareholders, at a special general meeting in September, will be asked to approve the merger plans which call for the transfer to Massey-Harris of all the operating Ferguson companies in exchange for 1,805,055 shares at approximate book value of net tangible assets of Massey-Harris common shares. On the basis of present market price, that would be a purchase price of $15,342,967. The merger has already been sanctioned by the United Kingdom Treasury Board.

MANY PLANTS

The new company will have five plants in the United States, four in Canada, and others in England, Scotland, South Africa, France and Germany.

While Massey Harris gains the benefits of Ferguson's patents and inventions, the British company will benefit from the manufacture, sales and distribution facilities of the Canadian firm. The Ferguson Co. does $75,000,000 worth of business in the United States and $45,000,000 worth in the United Kingdom.

A Massey-Harris official said the merger would put the new company in a position to challenge for the world leadership of the farm implement field.

Mr. Ferguson, a short, slim scholarly-looking man, won a $9,250,000 settlement from the Ford company after breaking a Ford-Ferguson alliance in 1947. Since then he has had to create his own manufacturing and distributing system in the United States.

In his personal credo on which his system is founded, Ferguson goes back to much the same motives which stimulated Daniel Massey in his Newmarket foundry and Alanson Harris in his early Beamsville plant. Just as they sought to simplify farm labor, Ferguson believes in the complete mechanization of farming. He contends that the use of horses or other animals is wasteful in the extreme.

Possibly his greatest contribution to the farm implement field has been the complete integration, in the tractor-mounted implements, of the power and the working farm machines.

OBITUARIES

MISS ANNA NIMMO

The death occurred in citl hospital Saturday of Miss Anna Roberta Margaret Nimmo, life-long resident of South Monaghan township, after an illness of two and a half years.

wall separating the front part of the arena from the rink itself. When it reached the rink, flames seemed to explode throughout the whole building.

The roof was supported by curving laminated wooden beams that stretched across the cement block walls. In no time it was a seething mass of flames.

SAVE HOUSES

Seeing that there was little they could do to halt the flames in the arena, firemen concentrated several lines of hose on houses across the street which were endangered by flying embers. House owners for a block away climbed up on their roofs and with garden hoses squelched the embers before they could start more fires.

Only the front wall of the arena will likely be left standing. The side and rear walls were badly cracked by the heat and will probably be demolished. The arena committee must wait to see whether the floor given to them last year by the Cobourg Kinsmen Club must be replaced or can be used again.

Just this year the committee headed by Col. Gordon King increased the insurance to give the arena complete coverage.

Col. King could not say whether or not the rink would be rebuilt but general opinion was that it would be.

Russians Ease Rents

VIENNA (AP) — Soviet occupation authorities waived rents for Austrian farmers holding Russian-leased land who were hit by recent weather catastrophes in lower Austria, it was announced Sunday. In a note to the Austrian government, the Soviet command said its decision also included the easing of other liabilities by such farmers.

Evacuate Village

Winds that sprang up at dawn after dying down during the night raised a new threat to small lumbering and farming communities along the north shore area 200 miles from Quebec city.

Lying directly in the path of the broad-fronted fire, in addition to Ste. Therese de Colombier, is Canton Latour.

Ste. Therese and its neighboring village have a combined population of 1,000.

Winds abated Sunday night as the mile-long wall of fire roared only a few miles away from the villages.

Evacuation of 200 women and children from outlying farm areas was carried out in haste along a 20-mile road between Ste. Therese and Forestville. They were taken by bus to Ste. Anne de Portneuf, 10 miles west of here.

Today winds picked up speed shortly after dawn and weather forecasts from Father Point, across the St. Lawrence river, say strong winds will continue.

P W. MacKay manager of the Laurentian Forest Protective Association, said: "This fire is the biggest disaster on the St. Lawrence river north shore in 25 years."

"We haven't had time yet to get down to estimating the damage. Our men have been working around the edge of the fire and it's difficult to say how much timber had been lost in the centre of the blaze.

"So far as we know the area of green timber burnt over is very small, nearly 90 per cent of the area is cutover timber."

Mr. MacKay said the Forestville fire "is possibly bigger" than the disastrous Gaspe forest fire which caused millions of dollars worth of damage in 1942.

Theo Caron, chief forester of the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company, who is directing fire-fighting operations, said that if the blaze reached Ste. Therese "it will be a house to house battle."

Volunteer workers recruited by the Red Cross greeted the travellers with sandwiches and hot coffee. Camp beds for the night were provided by the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company, wrich holds large tracts of land in the area.

Red Cross authorities arrived here Sunday to set up a relief program in the event a mass evacuation of either village is necessary.

At Rimouski, two vessels of the Clarke Steamship Company were standing by to move persons from the north shore to Rimouski should ity. The vessels are capable of carrying 150 passengers.

See Destruction Everywhere In Quake Area

By JOHN PERRY

Zakinthos, Greece (Reuters)—The stench of death drifted up in the hot air as I flew over the earthquake-flattened town of Zakinthos in a Royal Navy helicopter Sunday.

People waved as they clambered their way over smouldering wreckage and the corpses of animals to the pitiful wrecks of their homes.

I saw looters tied to a tree in the main square which had been cleared.

U.S. and British marines were running camps outside the town. The north camp can now be reached by road after marines cleared debris with bulldozers Saturday night.

BLOW UP RUINS

Demolition squads are blowing up tottering ruins to make the town safer for survivors.

Helicopters from the Royal Naval air station at Malta were bringing in casualties to the central clearing station and flying doctors to outlying villages inaccessible by road.

Among the people lifted out was a 280-pound 86-year-old woman and her daughter, picked up Saturday night after lying under debris for three days.

Liquor On Reserve Six Men Fined

Six men were each fined $14.50 in Magistrate's Court today on charges of having liquor on an Indian reserve. RCMP officers charged they were in possession of beer Saturday night on the Hiawatha Reserve at Rice Lake.

Pleading guilty to the charges were Harry Jordison of RR 7, Peterborough; J. Turner and Gerard Carey of RR 8, Peterborough; Eric Hawley of Toronto and James Calladine and William Turkington of Peterborough.

they returned from Canadian championship games.

As chairman of the council's reception committee, Mr. Black said that it was the first he'd heard of their winning, being at the cottage ove the weekend. But he added "that we'll come up with something."

GIVEN DINNER

Mr. Black pointed out that the girls will be probably recognized by the city at a dinner for all championship teams. That dinner will be held some time in the next month or so.

James Fraser, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was out of town today but is expected back Tuesday. He usually works along with the city council in making preparations for a public reception.

Since its beginning in 1944 the Peterborough club has won many international and national meets. But the United States AAU team championship has always been out of their grasp.

Last year with the same theme the club team placed fourth and in other years has placed second, third, fourth and fifth at Cleveland, Chicago, Des Moines, Detroit and South Bend, Indiana.

Ever since placing fourth last year in the team competitions in Florida, Mrs. Forbes has been drilling them for this year's competition. They used all the available time they could get at the YWCA, YMCA and Lions club outdoor pool.

As a preliminary to the championship meet in Florida, the team performed at an international meet a month ago in Niagara Falls, New York. There with the same theme they took first place, but the competition wasn't as keen as in Florida, where practically each state sends its champion.

Actually this is the second United States AAU championship won by the club. In April, 1948, Jean Millard and Iris Forbes-Rielly, won the duet championship, marking the first time that at AAU championship in synchronized swimming was taken out of the United States.

Mexico Plans To Boost Oil Production

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico expects to produce next year for the first time more than 100,000,000 barrels of oil.

The government hopes to increase the possible output even more in later years. One of the prime goals of the administration is greater oil production and establishment of a heavy chemicals industry, partly based on oil.

Figures on production were given recently by Antonio J. Bermude, head of Pemex, the government oil company. Plans for the future were outlined by Gilberto Loyo, minister of national economy, to the Association of Foreign Correspondents.

Loyo said the administration of President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines has three main aims in the economic field:

1. Increase the output of electric power and minerals;
2. Increase Mexico's production of iron and steel;
3. Increase oil production and chemicals.

GIVES FEW DETAILS

He gave few details of the chemicals Mexico hopes to produce at home. But he did say the eventual products might be paints, insecticides and disinfectants, and fertilizers. Mexico now has a big government-built ammonium sulphate plant which has reduced the size of the possible market for Chile's natural fertilizers.

The chemical industry could also look to increasing the production of sulphuric acid, the basis of many industries. Most of the present production of some 50,000 tons of sulphur a year comes as a by-product from the refining of oil.

Some two years ago, when the world sulphur market was tight, foreign companies began exploration for sulphur domes in the Tehuantepec isthmus. Their production is due to reach the market next year. Meanwhile the sulphur supply situation has eased. Much of the increased production should be available for Mexico's industry.

Houses Searched After Girl Raped

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Police launched a house-to-house search for an attacker Sunday after a 16-year-old girl was raped only a few blocks from where the body of a 55-year-old woman was found.

The girl was grabbed from behind and hurled to the ground. Her stockings were used to tie her hands behind her back.

Officers meanwhile were running down clues in the slaying of Mrs. Hallie Perkins. Her body, bound by her clothes, was found Saturday. Police said she had been strangled and apparently raped.

Surviving her are her five daughters: Blanche, Elsie and Clarice Kidd, all at home, Mrs. Denton McCarthy (Rose) of Port hope, and Mrs. Allan Taylor of Trenton; three sons: Roy and Herman, both of Lakefield, and Harold Kidd of Toronto; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held Tuesday at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, minister of Lakefield United Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

COLLAPSED BUILDINGS form a tragic backdrop for residents of the tremor-stricken Greek city of Agostolion as they flee from a sinking quay following five days of earthquakes that have spread death and desolation through Ionian Sea communities. Large fissures scar the earth as the terrified islanders stream to the coast to board small boats and canoes and paddle to rescue vessels standing off shore. Argostolion is one of the biggest towns on Kefallinia, largest of the stricken Ionian group of islands.

Liberals Make Sweep Of Federal Election Service Vote

by JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals made a sweep of the service vote in the federal election.

Armed forces ballots sustained the return of 171 Liberals to the Commons on civilian voting, extended the majorities of many Liberals and in some cases shaved opponents' margins to a thin point. No seats were upset.

Prime Minister St. Laurent's supporters took 34,074 of 52,234 service votes—far ahead of their civilian percentage—and led in all but a few widely-scattered ridings among the 263 represented in the new Commons.

With almost exactly half of the 105,000 eligible service personnel voting, they gave the Liberals 65.2 per cent of the ballots, compared with the 48 per cent the government party got in the civilian returns Aug. 10.

The service vote, taken the week before election and released here Saturday, showed the Progressive Conservatives with 10,812. This was 20.7 per cent, against 31 on the civilian side.

RECOUNTS IN PROSPECT

George Drew's Opposition party held the 50 Commons seats indicated for it in election night returns, but slipped on some constituency majorities to an extent where recounts are in prospect.

Mr. Drew himself lost out to a Liberal on the service count—the only leader of a Commons party failing to top the service poll in his own riding.

The service vote left the CCF with 23 in the Commons, and the Social Credit with 15. There also are three Independents, two Independent Liberals and one Liberal-Labor in the 265-seat House.

Like the Progressive Conservatives, the CCF and Social Credit groups slipped in the service vote from their percentage of the civilian popular vote. The CCF got 4,230—eight per cent compared with 12 in civilian returns. Social Credit came up with 2,482, or 4.4 per cent compared with 5.2.

Tim Buck's Communists got the grand total of 128, none getting more than nine votes and Buck himself scratching up three in Toronto Trinity. Thirty-two of his 100 candidates got none at all.

TIDE RUNS HEAVILY

The service tide ran heavily for the Liberals even in those ridings where opponents were ahead on the over-all results. Less than 10 non-Liberals breasted it.

The chief military spokesman for the Progressive Conservatives—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC—joined his leader in losing out on the service vote. He was elected in British Columbia's Esquimalt-Saanich, but a Liberal led him on the armed forces count by 226 to 114.

The Progressive Conservatives had been sharply critical of alleged waste and extravagance in defence spending, and had promised to cut down expenditures without reducing the efficiency of defence. During the campaign, Mr. Drew charged the Liberals with misrepresenting the Conservative attitude in a "dishonest" letter sent to the troops from party headquarters.

NEARLY AN UPSET

Nearest thing to an upset came about in New Westminster, B. C. William Mott, the sitting Liberal, was behind Social Credit's George Hahn by 138 on the civilian returns, but the service vote shot him up to within 19 votes.

Another razor-thin plurality was created in Ontario's Oxford Riding. Clark Murray, Liberal member of the last House, was 48 votes behind Conservative Wallace Nesbitt on the civilian tally but edged up to within 39 votes on the service count.

Other tightened races that may call for recounts:

In Ontario's Wellington-Huron, Progressive Conservative Marvin Howe had his lead cut to 87 from 98 over Arnold Darroch, the former Liberal member.

In Kindersley, Sask., CCFer Mervin Johnson's lead over Liberal Fred Larson was reduced to 102 from 107, with several civilian polls still to be heard from.

In Queens, P. E. I., J. Angus MacLean, sitting Conservative, saw his margin over Liberal Cecil A. Miller cut to 98 from 114.

The leads of some Liberals in close election-night races were widened. The tightest of these was in Edmonton-Strathcona, where Liberal R. F. L. Hanna had his advantage over Social Crediter Orvis Kennedy lengthened to 68 from 16.

In the narrowest race involving a woman candidate, Margaret Aitken, Toronto Telegram columnist and Progressive Conservative candidate in the new riding of York-Humber, slipped in the service vote. Liberal Ken Thompson was ahead by 36 votes on the civilian tabulation and widened this to 84 votes on the service results.

All cabinet minsters led the service polling in their ridings. In Quebec East, Prime Minister St. Laurent snowed under a Progressive Conservative—292 to 17—and came up with an over-all majority of 20,012. This was by far the highest in the country.

Defence Minister Claxton, chief target of opposition criticism on defence, swamped a Progressive Conservative in Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George, 150 to 20. His associate minister, Ralph Campney, was ahead of a Social Credit opponent by 92 to 52 in Vancouver Centre.

George Drew lost on the service vote to John H. McDonald, Liberal, in Carleton, Ont. The vote was 407 to 239. It had no effect on Mr. Drew's big plurality in the over-all result.

Progressive Conservatives who came out ahead on the service vote were John Diefenbaker, runner-up to Mr. Drew for the party leadership in 1948, and Gordon Graydon, veteran Conservative specialist in foreign affairs.

Mr. Diefenbaker won in Prince Albert, Sask., after his old Lake Centre seat had been wiped out in redistribution, and Mr. Graydon was re-elected in Peel, Ont.

Ross Thatcher in Moose Jaw-Lake Centre and G. H. Castleden in Yorkton were CCF members leading their respective service votes along with party chief M. J. Coldwell.

Ray Thomas of Wetaskiwin joined his Social Credit leader Solon Low in heading up his service count.

The highest armed services vote went to John Dickey, Liberal, in Halifax, where there is a heavy concentration of navy and other personnel. Mr. Dickey, parliamentary assistant for defence production, hung up 1,525 votes.

Italy Gets New Cabinet

ROME (AP)—A new cabinet of Christian Democrats led by Giuseppe Pella was sworn in today, giving Italy a breather from political crisis.

President Luigi Einaudi administered the oath of office to the 51-year-old premier, a financial expert, in the presidential office.

Other cabinet members were sworn in in the neighboring Hall of the Madonna. All are Christian Democrats.

Missing from the lineup was eight-time premier Alcide de Gasperi. Anxious for a rest and also to avoid controversy, he turned down the foreign minister's portfolio in a government which is committed to make only an administrative housecleaning and push no major policy measures.

The new cabinet will go before the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday. It seems certain to win a vote of confidence.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty-eight persons lost their lives accidentally in Eastern Canada during the week-end, 21 of them in highway mishaps.

A Canadian Press compilation early today showed that of the remainder, four were drownings and two were falls. Quebec had the highest figure with 13 deaths, including 12 traffic. Ontario had 10 and New Brunswick and Nova Scotia two each.

Mrs. John Orange, 37, of Pine Grove, near Toronto, was killed when her husband's car collided with another. Police have charged the driver of the other auto, Frank Payne, 18, of Toronto with dangerous and careless driving.

In a two-car collision in Montreal, Elaine Veillette, 25, Ste. Genevieve de Batiscan and Yves Gervais, nine months, of Montreal were fatally injured.

Traffic—Joseph Woodcock, 4, Kingston, when he ran into the side of one auto and was thrown into the path of another; Robert Steele, 21, Oshawa, in a car-truck crash at Myrtle; Daniel Ryan, 1½, Bolton, who was run over by a truck; Frederick Allan Dartnell, 18, and Ronald W. Moyer, 20, both of Hamilton, as the result of their car plunging from a bridge; Mrs. Grant White, 20, Royal Oak, Mich., when a car driven by her husband collided with a truck just north of Alvinston;

Drownings—Victorian Monsette, about 50, when he jumped from a boat in Toronto harbor; Gregoire Ducharme, 35, Ottawa, when his canoe capsized on Lake McGregor near Ottawa.

Donald Bertrand, 16, Arnprior, was killed when he fell from Scaffolding while on a hospital construction job at cornwall.

Silver Cross Women Give Hospital Vases

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The Silver Cross women of Campbellford, consisting of wives and mothers of men who gave their lives in the Second World War, have purchased 84 flower vases to be used in the new Campbellford Memorial Hospital which opens here on August 23.

The vases are of assorted shapes, sizes and design. Some of them are on display in the window of Mrs. Ruth Atkinson's grocery store on Queen St.

Miss Kathleen Ferris is preparing a plaque to hang in the lobby of the hospital, to inform visitors that vases are in memory of those who died during the war.

Clips 5 Guard Posts Blames Loose Gravel

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Loose gravel was blamed by 27-year-old Lloyd Partridge, of Front St., when he lost control of his truck while passing a car and took out five county guard rail posts Saturday night.

Partridge told police the loose gravel on the Castleton road, a half mile south of Norham, caused him to loose control.

The half-ton truck clipped off five posts and received damage to the right front fender. The truck remained upright and there were no injuries.

OPP Constable Archie Eady investigated.

Where Silence Is Eloquent!

Have you ever heard a 1953 Cadillac?

The odds are that you haven't—unless you've listened quite carefully.

For it is a literal fact that you must concentrate to detect the sound of a Cadillac car in motion . . . save, of course, for the soft song of the passing wind and the quiet hum of the tires on the pavement.

Even that great, powerful engine never raises its voice above a whisper!

But, oh, the wonderful, wonderful story this marvelous quiet tells.

It tells, for instance, of Cadillac's rigid adherence to the highest ideals of automotive construction . . . of the great engineering that enables every part of the car to perform in perfect harmony . . . of the magnificent styling and design that give the car its smooth, easy, steady, floating ride . . . and of the flawless craftsmanship that keeps the car so unbelievably free from vibration through the miles and the years.

And it speaks with equal clarity of the many things a Cadillac provides its owner.

It promises rest and relaxation . . . and a freedom from distraction that adds safety to every journey.

It foretells mile after mile of extraordinary dependability and a minimum of upkeep expense.

And, of course, it prophesies longevity . . . and, hence, bespeaks the wisdom and soundness of its owner's investment.

Yes, the quiet of the Cadillac car tells a wonderful story all of its own. And it's one that we think you should "hear" for yourself.

Why not come in soon—and spend an hour with a 1953 Cadillac?

We think you'll agree that silence was never more eloquent.

Paint Peterborough Pink

The suggestion was made to us a couple of months ago, and we advanced it then, that the commercial centre of Peterborough should have its face lifted —by painting all buildings down town harmonizing pastel hues. The idea originated with a prominent person who knows a good deal about the effects of colour, although he is far removed from the paint business. On the face of it (Peterborough's face) the notion may seem fantastical. Paint Peterborough pink? Wowee! But in all seriousness it seems to us a very practical and attractive idea, as well as commercially profitable.

• • •

Peterborough is a shopping and tourist centre. Tens of thousands of visitors come into town each year, to look around, to spend money, primarily in the summer. Why not make the place look summery? Pastel paint would do it. Why not make the shopping area attractively distinctive? Pastel colours, carefully harmonized from one group of buildings to the next, one block to the next, would do it. A high Mediterranean tone.

• • •

Peterborough merchants are doing their best, singly, to present a bright store front and to make their appearance the kind that will attract customers into them. But the total effect of Peterborough's shopping centre is still rather dowdy, still rather unpleasing, still rather second-rate and small townish. More is required than an individual effort. What is needed is a collective enterprise to change the total appearance for better. Peterborough is too small to have really handsome, large stores whose dignity and prestige raise the whole appearance of the block (as in Toronto or Montreal). No one store can do it alone. Nor can it be done hodge-podge. One of the cheapest, quickest and surest ways to lift the face of down-town Peterborough is by painting—done according to an over-all plan.

• • •

A plan could be devised by a decorating expert by which no store would lose its individuality but each would gain prestige through total effect. The suggestion is thoroughly practical. There is no new red-brick building on George or Charlotte streets. New buildings made of brick, whose owners might not want to paint over them now, are white or cream and would readily fit into a pastel pattern for Peterborough. It is obvious that commercial interests favour the light shades—witness the new brick buildings and also the paint work being done now on exteriors—all light colours. If an overall plan were devised, with the co-operation and sanction of store renters and owners, it could be effected as each premise needed painting, at street level and also on the second and third storeys. Instead of painting any colour at all, the plan and designer would be consulted and a fitting hue used.

• • •

The total effect would be, we feel, extraordinarily good and striking. Instead of Peterborough's shopping centre looking like any one of a hundred small-town sections across the country, it would have a unique aspect, attracting customers, so that they would say, even as they come into the town: 'This looks like a wonderful place to shop.' The pastel colours would make it a light-hearted, summery tourist centre. A few towns in resort areas in the U.S. have such schemes, and Bournemouth, England, a coastal resort, has completely banished dull and heavy colours, to its own profit and the pleasure of its visitors.

• • •

The chief deterrent that we can see is the smoke. Light colours become dirty quickly, in smoke-laden Peterborough air. However, the Council already has the smoke nuisance under study and measures will assuredly be taken to reduce it.

Another Boss Goes Down Hill

The political boss, once a solidly entrenched and influential figure in municipal, state, and occasionally national public life in the United States, has practically disappeared. Some of the political machines they operated may still be functioning, but individuals responsible for the operating are no longer as prominent as they once were. The days of Boss Croker and Boss Tweed are far back in New York's history, but their organization, Tammany Hall, remained almost all-powerful until a few years ago and is still influential. And the Kelly-Nash combination bossed Chicago and Cook County during the Presidency of the late Franklin Roosevelt, while Boss Hague in Northern New Jersey, Boss Macdonald in Southern New Jersey and Boss Ed Crump in Tennessee were also political dictators during that period.

With the exception of Ed Crump, these men and others are no longer public figures; some are dead, none appear to be in the news, with the exception noted. And Mr. (pronounced Mistah) made the news last week only by reason of an incident that seemed to indicate that he was losing some of his grip on the last stronghold of power he had managed to retain.

Boss Crump lost his political power in Tennessee when Estes Kefauver and other candidates opposed the candidates of the Crump machine and defeated them. The boss, however, managed to remain established as the ruling force in his home city of Memphis, but when he angered a quiet little gasoline-station operator there last week, even his hold on Memphis appeared to be slipping.

Although Boss Crump is no stranger at the betting wickets of race tracks, he has ruled that there must be no gambling whatever in Memphis, on the ground that it undermines character. In the course of a campaign against alleged gamblers, his police arrested the man in question and charged him with vagrancy and loitering, although he was in his own gas station and had $300 in his pockets when arrested. He was fined $26 and told to leave town. However, he decided to fight and did so very effectively, talked to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, hired a lawyer, and received support from the press and ministers of the Gospel.

Boss Crump and his police reversed themselves very quickly. The latter attempted to save a little face by telling the operator he would not be arrested if he behaved himself, but it was a humiliating reversal for the elderly boss. There was a time when his word was virtually absolute law in Memphis, but the day appears to be coming when he will not be able to fix even a parking ticket.

Pakistan Anniversary

The sixth anniversary of the founding of the dominion of Pakistan, celebrated last week, has been marred by new demonstrations arising from the Kashmir situation. The war there has not been settled, and the uneasy armistice does not prevent occasional flares. Since the Coronation, when the Premier of Pakistan and the Premier of India consulted together, and through following conferences, there was hope that a final agreement could be reached. The political future of Kashmir—whether it should be part of Pakistan or of India or would be independent—has caused racial bitterness, a great deal of bloodshed, and, very important to the two new nations trying to establish themselves firmly, a tremendous drain on man-power and national finances.

Pakistan has done well in its first six years, considering the costly state of warfare into which it was immediately plunged. It has mainly an agricultural economy, and much has been done to improve the methods of farming and to raise production. In this effort, American and Commonwealth funds have been used to advance the economy and improve the prospects of the people. Social services have been expanded—in education, medicine, living conditions.

Trade has prospered—cash crops of jute and hemp have secured excellent prices on world markets. These are the two chief exports. Efforts are being made to diversify both exports and imports and thus reduce the dependence on one or two products and one or two markets. Railways and communications are being improved, and the first modern locomotives, coaches and wagons were installed—some of them imported from Canada.

Kashmir and the resultant flood of refugees remain the nation's two most urgent problems.

Is The $200 Deposit Enough?

Every candidate for a seat in the House of Commons must deposit $200 before his nomination will be officially accepted. If he makes a good run for his money he gets it back. If he polls less than half the number of votes the winning candidate receives, he forfeits his deposit. The deposit is intended to be a means of testing the avowed candidate's sincerity of purpose.

In other days, in the mid-thirties, for instance, a deposit of $200 was sufficient to deter crack-pots from wasting public time and public money in printing the numerous documents attendant upon nomination and polling. We question that this sum now serves its legitimate purpose.

Anybody these days can find $200; and, moreover, many persons are willing to squander $200 on a whim. If it is their whim to run as a candidate for the House of Commons, they can gratify it for a total outlay of $200. This may not be enough to protect the electorate and the decorum and sincerity of elections. It was not enough to deter the Communists from putting a hundred candidates in the field and thus securing for themselves kudos in the Russian press (which could parade the hundred as a sign of Communist strength in Canada); and also securing for the Communist Party free CBC time for their political propaganda.

Industrial Design In Britain

By PAUL REILLY

IT IS NOT surprising that Great Britain, having the longest industrial history in the world, should also have the longest record of interest in industrial design, or "industrial art" as it was called from the middle of the eighteenth century until recent times. There have been societies and associations and movements for improving art in industry from 1754 onwards but not until this post-war period has any substantial official support been given to these attempts or any real headway in industry been made.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GREAT Crystal Palace Exhibition of 1851, filled as it was with multifarious bric-a-brac and "art manufactures" in everything from precious metals to butter fat, put the clock back for design almost as far as it aimed to put it forward. It established the basic misconception that "art" was something to be bought by industry and applied to the product as an after-thought, a surface dressing to catch the eye or to conceal the real nature of the article. The word "art" has probably never been so overworked to so little purpose as in those middle years of the last century. Art-manufactures, art-bronzes, art-furniture, aristic machinery, even artistic sanitary fittings—the word could sell anything so long as it cost enough; our own current favourites such as "good design" and "good taste" seem to have been reserved in the catalogues for the cheaper lines only.

✧ ✧ ✧

AND YET there were many among our forefathers who protested vigorously, who deplored the conceits and deceits of the manufacturers and who saw clearly enough the causes, whether social, economic or intellectual, of the debased design of the early industrial age. There were many too who, sensing the widening gulf between maker and customer—a gulf peopled by a host of merchants and middlemen with no real understanding of quality—pinned their faith to a revival of handcraftsmanship. It has become fashionable in recent years to belittle the late Victorian return to fundamental principles of sound construction and honest workmanship, and to recall the mediaevalism of William Morris and his colleagues rather than to admire their championship of honesty and sincerity in manufacture. Admittedly there was, by our contemporary standards, too much retrospection in the practice of their preaching and too great a nostalgia for the past. We can quite fairly trace to their example the implicit faith that so many British families have ever since placed in antiques, and also the persistent commercial exploitation of reproductions.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT EQUALLY we could trace to their philosophy and teaching the early budding of the modern movement, the same return to first principles that served to clean the slate in preparation for the next lesson. Nor should we forget our last debt to the late nineteenth century Arts and Crafts Movement. It came at a time when it was sorely needed. The Crystal Palace had unleashed a hunger for decorative rubbish, which manufacturers were quick to exploit; it had opened the door to a flood of amateurish handcrafts, full of fantasy and dexterity but with few of the qualities of traditional craftsmanship. These and their machine-made imitations rapidly became the junk that cluttered the Victorian home. In all this welter, the words of Morris and the work of the Arts and Crafts Movement laid sound, commonsensical foundations on which succeeding generations of English craftsmen have been glad to build. Had it not been for these early pioneers there might have been no examples in this Canadian exhibition of the British tradition of handicrafts.

IT IS NOT my purpose here, however, to try to assess the standards of the last century. The conflict between precept and practice has been too often remarked. Indeed the only consistent feature of British design over the last hundred years could be said to be a consistency of precept. Men of goodwill have throughout used almost identical words of advice or of criticism to advocate or condemn utterly dissimilar standards and achievements.

With this is mind, it would be a brave man who would attempt any definitive judgment on the standards achieved today. One can claim only that our new attitudes to the problems of design in industry seem more reasonable and more likely to produce good results. We at least recognise today that the designer for industry is not a studio artist working on his own but a member of an industrial team on an equal footing with other technicians, a specialist to be called in at the birth of a product, not a tailor to give it a top coat. We also accept that "an artist is not a special kind of person but that all persons are special kinds of artists"; the industrial designer, therefore, must approach his task with all due modesty, recognising the claims of his colleagues, the production engineers, cost accountants and salesmen, to an equal voice and hearing.

WE CAN too, I believe, fit our present styles and mannerisms into an unfolding and somehow repetitive pattern of taste. We can recognise, even at this short distance, the changing face of modern design, the shift from a high puritan phase to something more gracious, lively and friendly. The grammar of criticism itself suggests this familiar turn of the wheel; words like "strong", "plain", "bold", simple", give way to others such as "light" "gay", "elegant" and even "pretty". Pattern, texture, colour and contrast are again at a premium and decoration for its own sake is no longer shunned like the plague.

There is nothing either reactionary or revolutionary in this. Reaction or revolution appear only when attempts are made to halt or to hasten a natural development. Nor can we claim that this more human attitude to design is peculiarly British; the same evolution has been recognised wherever the contemporary movement is well rooted. The New York Museum of Modern Art recently staged a small exhibition to demonstrate the new trends, underlining that emphasis has shifted from formal clarity and a geometric precision to a new and softer mood expressed in a greater fluidity of line and a more relaxed appearance. Indeed it would be unnatural if modern British designers were not sensitive to these international trends.

THE SPECIALIST could, I believe, detect in the present taste of our avant-garde two apparently conflicting trends of accents. The first would be humane, graceful, full of sweet reasonableness but fundamentally anonymous and self-effacing, stemming via Scandinavian democracy from traditional British ideas of common-sense and craftsmanship. The second would be brilliant, individual, experimental, stemming perhaps, on the one hand, from the brittle genius of present-day Italy and, on the other, from American preoccupations with machine production. And that is just as it should be. For Britain is ideally situated geographically, politically and economically to be an entrepot for new ideas from whatever source.

This modest enough claim that Britain has caught up with, and is giving its own interpretation to, the modern movement may perhaps surprise visitors to our shops or foreign students of architecture in search of the new England. It does not, however, rest solely on the tangible evidence of the display and content of the British contributions to this exhibition, nor on the few distinguished examples at home of modern architecture and modern interior design. It rests more especially on two intangibles that would not at first sight strike the foreigner in our midst.

FIRST in order of importance is the new attitude of British industry to problems of design. This was reflected in the remarkably successful Design Congress in London in 1951 when unanimous support was given by a great audience of distinguished industrialists to the proposition that Design Policy is a responsibility of top management in Industry. It is reflected in the importance attached to design by the Federation of British Industries, the most powerful organization of industrialists in the country. It is reflected, too, in the financial support given by the British Government to the work of the Council of Industrial Design, who were responsible for choosing the British goods in this exhibition.

The second intangible is British public opinion. Not for generations has there been such a popular interest in questions of taste and design. This is reflected not only in the columns of our daily and magazine press, whose sensitive antennae are quickly aware of popular preoccupations, but also in the crowded attendances at any exhibition concerned with design. It is a commonplace of history that schools of art are only generated by intensity, by the heat of a common pressure. The propaganda of two generations—the voluntary Design and Industries Association was founded in 1915—has not passed unnoticed. The common pressure for better standards of domestic design is gathering intensity and this most fortunately at a time when Britain is endowed as seldom before with trained designers whose tastes and humours are capable of winning sympathetic responses from the populace. In the pioneer days of the modern movement—the square, spare, bare phase—there was little chance of bridging the gap between the tastes of the few and the instincts of the many; the pre-war modern movement in Britain, as elsewhere, was necessarily confined to a limited, intellectual audience. Today our young designers are using their hearts as well as their heads. To that extent they are better attuned to popular ideas of good living. And manufacturers are not slow to note this new rapprochement. The designer becomes a commercial asset, the proper link between maker and consumer. This trinity of designing talent, industrial patronage and receptive markets could work magic.—(U.K. Information Office.)

Food For Thought

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

A Swiss journalist who recently visited Australia made this statement:

"Can a nation of 8,000,000 people working 40 hours a week defend itself against 800,000,000 people working on an average of 80 hours a week?" Even when allowances are made for the technological "know-how" of countries like Australia, the question is a pertinent one for Western civilization.

Can Canada, with a population of 15,000,000, dedicated to a 40-hour week, defend itself against the threat of aggression from the Soviet Union, 200,000,000 strong and working from dawn to dusk? Can the entire Western world afford to continue shortening the work week when civilization itself is in peril?

Such questions deserve to be pondered long and well.

40,000 Knives

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Manufacturers of Sheffield, England, renowned for their cutlery, gave away 40,000 souvenir pocket knives to school boys of the town as Coronation mementos.

Result: Fancy carving all over town. School desks suffered, as did furniture in homes. Two youngsters were treated for serious stab wounds.

At one stage or another of a boy's life, a penknife is his most prized possession. There are very few boys who should be denied the use of the tool. However, it is problematical whether or not the Sheffield manufacturers did the right thing when they handed out 40,000 of the knives to 40,000 youngsters on the same day. Boys being boys, trouble was bound to develop.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep in all thy ways. (Ps. 91: 9-11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his lovingkindness . . .

In all their affliction he was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them: in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; and he bare them, and carried them all the days of old. (Isa. 63: 7, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God . . .

Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil leaveth him, and, behold, angels came and ministered unto him. (Matt. 4: 1-4, 8-11.)

Satisfying Progress

(Fort William Times-Journal)

The opening of the new road between Schreiber and Marathon next month will be another major step in progress toward the completion of the Trans-Canada Highway along the Northern section of Northern Ontario. The department is now starting work out of White River and Chapleau, and the time will not be too long in coming before the dream of many years is a reality.

To repeat, a modern highway following the shortest route to Sudbury and Southern Ontario will mean more to the faster development of Northern Ontario than the creation of a deep waterway to the head of the lakes.

Ten Inches Off A Taxi

(Ottawa Journal)

The city of New York has 12,000 taxicabs, each of them 17 feet long. Somebody comes up now with the idea that if taxis were 10 inches shorter it would do something to relieve the traffic congestion in that city.

He has something there, all right!

Ten inches off all those 12,000 cabs would work out at an aggregate saving of 10,000 feet.

And what would New York do with this street space thus saved for the public? Why, says our statistician, it would fill up the space with 588 more taxis!

TLC Launching Strong Drive Expose Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress Saturday handed one more blow to the dwindling minority of Communists in Canadian union ranks.

The congress, concluding its annual convention, decided to launch a strong campaign to expose the activities of Reds in the labor movement and ensure that none will be allowed to attain influential jobs.

For the 580,000 member TLC, once riddled by Communists, it was about the final wallop the Congress could administer. It started a house-cleaning of Reds a few years back, and there now is only a minor scattering left in office among Congress affiliates. None have been admitted as delegates to recent TLC conventions.

The Congress convention move, voted by some 600 delegates, was to set up an educational drive to "expose the disruptive, subversive" activities of Reds in the labor movement. It was carried against a few no's.

ASK PRECAUTIONS TIGHTENED

The same resolution also called on the federal government to tighten precautions against sabotage by subversive elements in Canadian defence plants.

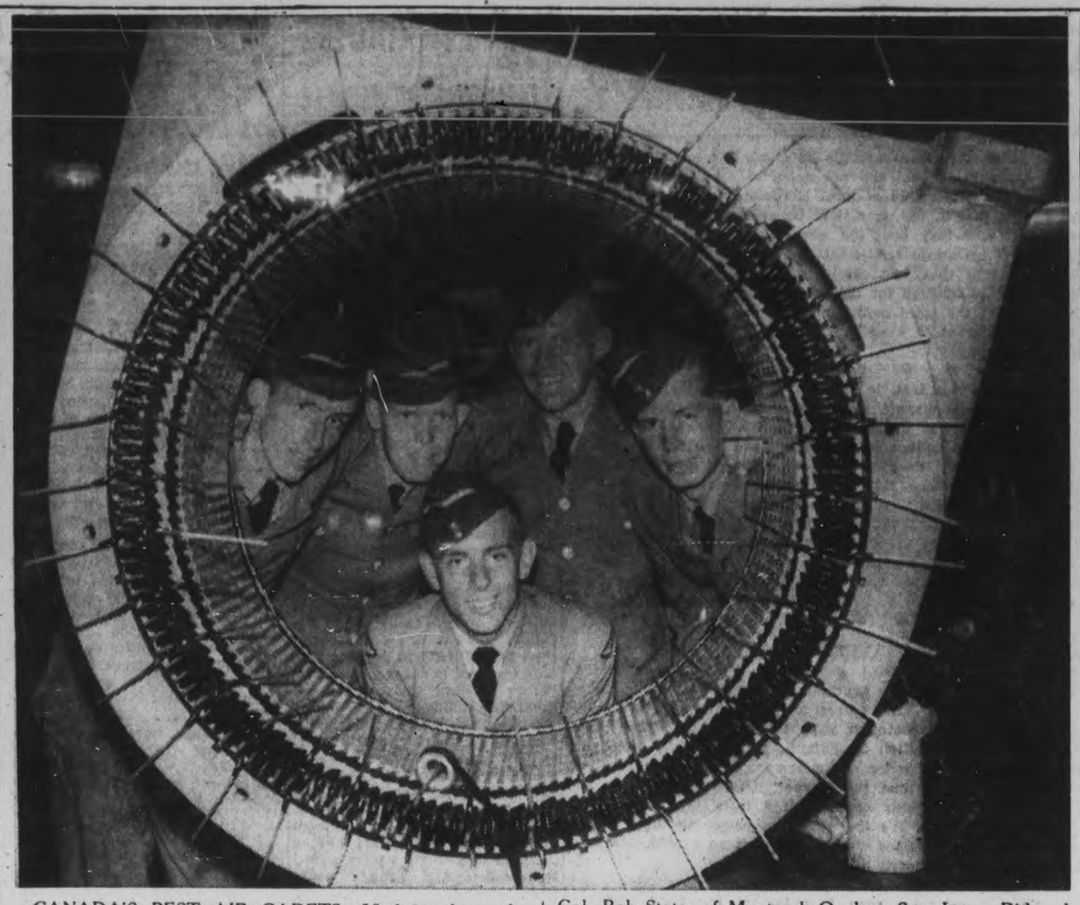
In another resolution touching on politics, the Congress Saturday reaffirmed its support of a strong United Nations organization.

Most of the other congress resolutions adopted on the last day of its six-day convention were restatements, brought up to date, of previous TLC policy.

Dealing with social security, the congress called for universal pensions at 65 for men and at 60 for women, with payments of $65 a month. It also asked for a national health insurance plan and increased payments on mothers' allowances.

Increased federal aid to education was sought, particularly for primary and secondary schools.

The congress decided to press for legislation for a 30-hour week, and it also sought a minimum wage of 85 cents an hour across the country. On housing, it directed its executive to press for the encouragement of construction of multiple-tenant projects under the National Housing Act with the co-operation of municipalities.



Mark Derry Day

BARRIE (CP)—Derry Day was celebrated Saturday with one of the largest parades ever seen in this town. It was held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the Allandale Royal Black preceptory, No. 601. Approximately 2,000 marchers took part in the parade. Lodges of Royal Black Preceptories and ladies of the Crystal chapters came from as far away as Sudbury and Hamilton, with a number of lodges from Toronto, Guelph and other Western Ontario points.

Top Canadian Air Cadets Taken Through CGE Plant

As part of their educational course, fifty of Canada,s best air cadets visited Peterborough Saturday for a special tour through the Canadian General Electric plant.

A week ago the first group of 50 air cadets from the senior leaders' course at Camp Borden visited the city and toured the Peterborough works. The 100 boys, from every province of Canada, were all selected from air cadet squadrons for their work during the past year.

Last year a group of air cadets on summer courses visited the Peterborough factory and the tour was so satisfactory that the air force included it as a "must" for the senior course cadets this summer.

The cadets Saturday arrived from Camp Borden about 11:30 a.m. and after freshing up they were banqueted by the CGE in the company's cafeteria. Then led by Squadron Leader Archie Green of Windsor, Ben Smith of the CGE personel department, James Ridyard, Peterborough air cadet squadron instructor and CGE employee, and other members of the personnel department, the cadets were divided into groups and taken throughout the plant.

After the tuor in two RCAF buses the cadets went to the lift lock for a visit there. A week ago when the first group saw the lock, an American cruiser stayed at lock in order to let the cadets see a boat go through. Saturday the cadets didn't see a boat go through.

After several hours of free time for shopping and visiting, the cadets left at 7 p.m. for Camp Borden.

Tours such as the Peterborough trip are included on the educational course for the cadets. They are taken to Toronto, Ottawa and other Ontario cities to visit various other centres of interest.

Will Respect Picket Lines

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — About 425 truck drivers in the Niagara peninsula decided Sunday night to "respect and support" picket lines set up by the striking Hamilton and Windsor locals of the Teamsters Union (AFL).

James Groat, head of the Hamilton local, said after attending a meeting of 20 Niagara peninsula shop stewards that the peninsula truckers will walk among the Hamilton pickets, "asking for information from the pickets."

A meeting of 300 union members voted to assist the Hamilton local, while permitting perishable and bonded goods to go through the lines today at least.

Gets 18-Pound Muskie With 7½-Pound Line

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) —An 18 pound muskie lost an hour long battle in Bradley Bay Sunday morning, when Murray Locke, of Campbellford, hooked the fish on a seven-and-a-half-pound test line on a spinning rod.

Murray was trolling a pikie-minnow through the waters of the bay when the big fellow struck.

Another fisherman, Don Free watched the battle from another boat nearby and assisted Locke in gaffing and boating the fish, which measured 41 inches.

This was the second lunge taken by Mr. Locke with the same spinning line this season.

Two Youths Hurt

MARMORA (ENS)—Two youths sustained injuries Friday by being thrown over the handlebar of a bicycle. Eddie McMurray was riding his bike at the northern end of McGill St. with Larry McInroy along with him. The second youth got a foot entangled in the wheel which caused the somersaulting of both lads. He sustained two broken toes and a badly mangled foot, while McMurray was badly bruised. They were taken to Dr. H. G. Parkins' office for treatment and later returned to their homes.

Corps Of 101 Trade Commissioners Super-Salesmen For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—A corps of 101 super-salesmen is selling Canada to the world every day.

They are the Canadian trade commissioners posted in 38 countries by the department of trade and commerce. Their job is to find new markets for Canadian exporters and to get more manufacturers in this country interested in selling their products abroad.

To carry out this task the trade commissioners, working from 51 different cities, perform a sort of double duty.

They work for a few years in a foreign country and concentrate their energies on finding new markets for Canadian Products. Then they return to Canada for varying periods to re-acquaint themselves with latest economic developments i this country and to bring Canadian manufacturers up to date on selling possibilities in the country in which they worked.

The policy of the trade commissioner service is to bring about 25 trade commissioners back to Canada each year. They make coast-to-coast tours talking to manufacturers, boards of trade and other organizations. After their tours they either return to their post or are given a new appointment in another country.

"The Canadian tours of the trade commissioners are a vital part of the work of the trade commissioner service," says J. H. English, director.

"They are designed to develop a greater interest among Canadian manufacturers in export markets. The trade commissioners inform manufacturers of market possibilities and pass on to them their enthusiasm for greater export trade."

GO OUT ON LIMB

Mr. English says the trade commissioners "really go out on a limb to help exporters get established in foreign markets and to keep them informed of market possibilities. They are Canada's super-salesmen, the real business getters of the whole foreign service."

Mr. English says there are o immediate plans for establishing trade commissioner posts in any additional countries. There are also no plans for sending trade representatives to any Iron Curtain countries.

However, Mr. English says, "we are always on the watch for countries where Canadian manufacturers might find markets."

SUPREMUS THE SUPREME — Supremus, owned and driven by Harry Inglis, of Brighton, swept both heats of the free-for-all event Saturday as harness racing started a five-day (all Saturdays) meet at Morrow Park. A large crowd wagered at a government-operated booth on the speedy five races (two heats a race). Bonnie Doon, owned by Joseph Vincent, of Oshawa (top photo), breezes to an easy finish in the first heat of the 2.22 class. Supremus (lower photo) takes another easy win, her first of the afternoon.

Batawa Takes A 2-1 Win

A well-balanced Bata soccer team gained a one-goal margin over the local Merchants, Saturday afternoon, by a 2-1 count in King Edward Park before a good attendance. Busiewiez, Bata custodian was spectacular in goal; Pacas and Mofin being best for the visitors; while Raymond Gremer, German youth, Tom Foster and Merv Buchan for the losers shone. Art O'Halloran, official referee, handled a hard game.

Near the end, H. Payne received his "walking ticket" from the referee. There are four different nationalities in the eleven.

The visitors opened up with positional play that brought success early in the period when the local goalie went out of his citadel to permit Mofina to register the opening counter. This was followed by an oblique shot by Hrywnak, inside left, to make it 2-0.

The Merchants opened up the second period with a series of combination plays that brought out the superb qualities of defense by Bata, particularly Pacas, Tremb and Koklis as they nullified the attack of the local boys while Bata forwards always looked dangerous in every break-away. At the other end, Gremer, Merchants, repeatedly outguessed Bata fullbacks with his serving pivot shots that caused anxiety to Bata defence. Fifteen minutes to the finish, H. Payne "got the finger" to the dressing room. With only 10 men Merchants did everything but score. A break-away by the W. Downer-Cremer wing let the latter feed his wing man with a perfect pass that Downer rattled into the rigging. Bata replied with a series of attacks to find the forwards hitting the upright, then cross bar, and missing the far corner by inches. Merchants pressed until the final whistle. At the end of the game, three players attacked the referee with language "unprintable" and the association will stop this practice with stiff sentences.

Merchants: J. Hutchinson, goal; T. Foster and Al Downer, full backs; K. Downer, M. Buchan and E. Lane half-backs; W. Downer, P. Gremer, H. Payne, G. Downer and J. Downer, forwards.

Bata: R. Busiewicz, goal; J. Kuklis and W. Sulkiewicy, full backs; R. Hrywnak, C. Tremb and J. Tilipon, half-backs; C. Nieoczyn, P. Mrywnak, C. Pacas, D. Mofina and A. Quno, forwards and two subs.

Supremus Of Brighton Wins Firsts In Free-For-All In Harness Race Meet Here

Supremus, owned and driven by Harry Ingles of Brighton, took both heats in the free-for-all feature of the Peterborough Turf Club's harness race meet here Saturday. More than 30 pacers went in the 10 heats of five events before a fair-sized crowd. It was announced that next Saturday's local meet will be a twilight one. The first heat of each race was six and a half furlongs, the second dash being a mile. One accident marred the competition when three horses tangled on the first turn of the 2.24 race, none of them finishing though all went in the second heat. A bike wheel was smashed, A. C. Wells, of Brighton, suffered a cracked rib and driver Howard Bone, of Port Hope, got a two-stitch gash on the head.

June Elgin, Star Allstrange and Pastime Vern were the three racers.

Wagering was fairly brisk on the handbook, especially in the free-for-all. The fastest half-miles was 1.05 in the 2.22, while 2.13 was the best time for the mile, this being recorded in the second go of the free-for-all. Amelia Brooke was withdrawn in the second heat of the 2.19 when she went lame.

Buddy C. Gratton, owned by C. Budd, of Cannington, and driven by Ross Dowson, was a double winner in the 2.19 event. In the 2.22, Joe Vincent's Bonnie Doon of Oshawa, with Jimmy McIntyre the driver, took a first and a second; Penny Patch, owned and driven by Roy Lawson, of Midland, also came first and second. William Brayley's Peter C. of Indian River (with Mr. Brayley at the reins) was a double winner in the 2.24 class. The race for non-winners of $100 saw Walnut Dick take two first places. Roy Lawson, of Midland, owned and drove Walnut Dick. The results:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Potentially the Peterborough Pats are Minto Cup material. They at times get redhot and are unbeatable in OLA junior "A" ranks, being a classy club of local lacrossers, plus some first-rate imports. But they're not consistent, blowing some neat leads at times. Right now they trail the smart Long Branch crew 2-0 in the best-of-five Ontario semi-finals, losing two close ones. Which, of course, means they just cannot afford to lose one more this series, or they're through for the season. They tackle Long Branch here tonight in the third game and will shoot the w.k. works in a desperate attempt to keep in the titular hunt. It ought to be a hot scrap.

Senior Petes trek to Orillia tonight for their fourth OLA semi-final playoff, Petes having won the first three. So, a win tonight wraps up this series. The Yorks will give it the old college try, no doubt, and win or lose are likely to lay on the gad. Could be a rough one, but the Thorpe players can take care of themselves. St. Kitts' columnist remarks: "Though a better all-round unit, Petes have the same type of players as Fergus Thistles. Both teams play it rough, have the experience to back up their rugged brand of lacrosse, but can be beaten by one expedient—speed." Personally, we believe the Petes are just as speedy as the A's.

Is He A Money Player?

Though the official OLA scoring list hadn't been received by us at this writing, 'tis generally believed that Doug Smith of St. Catharines was high scorer for the season. Ross Powless was the best for Peterborough with 105 points, and then Petes won a game over Hamilton by default, giving Roscoe no chance to tally in that tilt. If we're not mistaken, Doug Smith piled up his best percentage against the weaker sisters of the loop, and also counted a lot of easy ones when a team was well beaten and not giving a hoot. It's the guy who comes through against strong rivals in close games who really rates an orchid. We have several such players aboard the Trailermen.

Some keen races seen Saturday at the Turf Club harness meet in Morrow Park. One three-horse accident, too, but no serious damage resulted. A fairish crowd saw Supremus of Brighton win both heats of the free-for-all and there was masuma wagered aplenty on this event. Other heat winners on the day's card were Buddy C. Gratton of Cannington, Bonnie Doon of Oshawa (driven by Jimmy McIntyre), Penny Patch from Midland, Peter C. of Indian River, and Walnut Dick from Midland. An entry by Hugh Davis of this city took two thirds, and another was second once. Manson Cathcart's Miss Chipso was second twice in the free-for-all and Graydon Sheldon's Gadabout took third twice. The meet next Saturday is a twilight one.

TPT-ers Take First One

Quite a tussle at the Bowl d'Ashburnham on Saturday eve before a hefty gallery as TPT Petes took a 5-4 win o'er Seabrooke's. It was the opener of their best-of-seven City Softball League finals, the second struggle going Tuesday p.m. Fine flinging by Haddy Eakins and Lefty Doris, but the winners fielded better to get the close verdict. Toodie Greenlaw won the game with a clutch hit to send Junior West and Gus Leonard galloping home in the seventh. Red Sullivan had a triple and homer for the losers, his 20th circuit clout of the season and seventh in playoffs this year. Mighty exciting ball as the top two clubs fight it out for the Wm. Taylor Trophy.

Belleville Regents took a 9-4 win over the local Liflocs here Saturday to open their OBA junior "A" playdowns, return joust being on the Quinte diamond this week. Johnny Mowat on the Regents' hilltop limited the local lads to five hits as he struck out 11 in a good showing, receiving some snappy support. Doug Ash and Jerry Frizzelle saw slab service for Howie Dalton's pack. It's a best-of-five affair and the Liflocs should still come through if they get their batting eyes back. Our midgets also play in Belle Villa this week, going there Saturday to begin OBA playdown. In a bantam game here Saturday, Dodgers dumped Maple Leafs 8-1 on Wade's no-hit hurling effort.

Tennis Championships Move Into Fourth Day

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian junior tennis chmpionships are bidding to become the longest sports event in Canada.

They swing into their fourth day here today with still a lot of paring to be done. The finals probably won't be played until Saturday.

Thirty doubles matches and a couple of singles were fitted in between two rainstorms Sunday. The second heavy shower washed out play altogether. Organizers hope to get a carload of singles matches and several doubles out of the way today.

The best match Sunday saw Raul Karman of Havana and Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck, Mich., eliminate second-seeded Harry Hall of Toronto and John Paquette, Ottawa junior champion, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, in second-round junior men's doubles play.

CHAMPIONS OUTPLAYEED

Karman and Dubie, boys' doubles champions last year, were outplayed in the first set by skilful baseline shots but crowded the net in the last two to overpower the Canadians.

Kalman (Buzzy) Hettleman, an 18-year-old from Baltimore, set himself up as a favorite for the junior men's singles title by the way he disposed of David Livingston of Ottawa in the first round.

Hettleman, junior men's singles and boys' singles champion of Maryland and a semi-finalist in the United States national, won 6-0, 6-1. Stephen Gottlieb of New York is not defending his championship.

Hettleman's strongest Canadian opponent appears to be Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., who reached the second round easily with a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Don Hehler of Ottawa.

Mariette Laframboise of Montreal, twice junior women's singles champion, is back to try to keep the title in Canada.

TPT Gains Verdict Against The Saints

George Bennett's TP Transports, currently battling Seabrooke Motors for the city softball championship, journeyed to Kingston over the weekend to engage Kingston Penitentiary Saints in a thrilling exhibition duel. Transports emerged winners 7-6, after a hard battle before a huge crowd of inmates on the prison diamond.

Reg Gordon twirled two frames for the Peterborough boys; then Haddy Eakins finished up in strong style. Coach Sonny Finney used three hurlers over the route.

TP's bunched four hits in the first for four as Mackness, Collins, Greenlaw, West and Castle combined to lead the attack; then added three more in the next two. Saints fought back for three in the third, then added singles in the fourth, seventh and ninth to make it cloes as the home twirlers held off TP's power after the third for six goose eggs. It was the first victory over Saints by a Peterborough squad this season.

Officials of the institution played host to the Lift Lock visitors, providing a fine dinner for all after the game.

TPT — Floyd, rf; Legrow, 1b; Mackness, cf; West, ss; Crowe, 2b; Collins, 3b; Castle, c; Gordon, p; Greenlaw, lf; Fryia, Eakins, Williams.

"A" Cricketers Triumph Over St. Simon

On Saturday in Toronto, the local cricket "A" team won over St. Simon's Club, the score being St. Simon's 104, Peterborough "A" 107 for three wickets. This was a very different result from a match played between these teams at the Oval on May 16, when the score was Peterborough "A" 163 for one wicket declared, St. Simon's 16.

St. Simon's batted first and, thanks to some good batting by H. Smith (24) and R. Kemp (22), the total reached 104.

In bowling, F. Booth with four wickets for 25 and W. Wright three for 22 were most successful and they were backed up by good work in the field, C. Boardman making three fine catches.

The locals opened their innings in good style, the opening batsmen, R. Smith and E. Bedford, taking the score to 37 before the former was out for 14. B. Roberts then joined Bedford and the pair took the total to 73 for two wickets before Bedford was out for another fine innings of 46, including six fours. H. Dibben then joined Roberts and the pair took the total to 97 when he was out for a most useful innings of 11, and then Cridland joined Roberts and the pair won the match with B. Roberts not out for a most valuable innings of 21, having batted while 70 runs were added to the score. And so the "A" team maintained its record of winning all its matches played in the Toronto District Council.

Score, St. Simon's:

Batting—E. Pike 5, R. Crawford 10, H. Gillies 2, R. Kemp 22, P. Pattenden 2, P. Johns 11, H. Smith 24, A. Leigh 2, L. Reid 4, R. Brewitt 4, J. Stansfield 3 not out; extras 13; total 104.

Fall of wickets—One for 23, two for 23, three for 27, four for 39, five for 63, six for 75, seven for 79, eight for 82, nine for 87, ten for 104.

Bowling—T. Clarke one for 21 F. Booth four for 25, E. Boardman one for 19, W. Wright three for 22, E. Cotton one for 4.

Peterborough "A":

Batting—R. Smith 14, E. Bedford 46, B. Roberts 21 not out, H. Dibben 11, W. Cridland 7 not out; extras 8; total 107 for three wickets. T. Scott, E. Cotton, T. Clarke, F. Booth, W. Wright, H. Boardman did not bat.

Fall of wickets—One for 37, two for 73, three for 99.

Bowling—J. Stanfield none for 24, H. Gillies none for 17, H. Smith one for 26, R. Brevitt none for 8, L. Reid one for 9, L. Crawford none for 3, Pike one for 12.

On Saturday next, August 22, St. Simon's team will play the Peterborough "B" team at Nicholls Oval. The "A" team will be playing Grace Church "B" team in Toronto. It will be interesting to see how the St. Simon's team fare against the local "B's" after the result of Saturday's game. The "B" team defeated St. Simon's on May 23 at the Oval.

Transports Get The Opener Over Seabrooke's, 5-4 In Men's League Final Set

East City Bowl was filled to capacity Saturday night, to witness the first game of a best-of-seven final softball series for the Taylor Trophy, emblematic of the senior men's city championship, between Seabrooke Motors and TP Transports. The latter edged a 5-4 win after a hard battle that might well have gone either way. Final victory was virtually assured when clutch hitter extraordinary, Toody Greenlaw—who frequently delivers when it counts—smote a hard liner to left centre in the last of the seventh, to score West and Leonard, by virture of a hit and fielders' choice respectively. The poke completed a three-run rally for George Bennett's men begun when Mackness walked and scored on Fryia's slow infield roller that went for an error.

Haddy Eakins, fireball king of local softball, hurled the route with speed and control to burn, opposing clever Lefty Jack Doris, whose effort matched that of his rival, in possibly the finest duel of the season. Each gave up eight hits; the former struck out a dozen men and walked but two; the latter whiffed three and passed a like number. Defensively, T.P.'s held the edge, however, with but one miscue whereas the Sullivan lads erred five times afield, with the seventh inning lapse fatal to their cause.

ONE IN FIRST

Seabrooke's opened with a single run in the first inning when Thompson bunted safely, and scored later with two away, as Red Sullivan tripled to right for his 17th RBI of the playoffs. Transports tallied twice in the second amid thunderous applause, when Fryia singled and was out on Greenlaw's fielder's choice; Castle doubled on a terrific bouncing drive over left-field fence that scored Greenlaw, then he scored on Buck Legrow's safe rap to centre.

Red Sullivan opened the fourth with a liner over the right field fence for his 20th homer of the campaign, and seventh of the playoffs, to tie the ball game. The capacity crowd gave the big-time hockey star a great hand. The Sullivan-Scriver crew added one more next frame when Lefty Doris doubled, then scored on Currie's infield rap.

Doris and Eakins both toiled skilfully; and victory for Seabrooke's seemed almost certain when Doris poked his second safety to left, then scored on Thompson's solid smash to centre to give the East City Madcaps a 4-2 bulge. But Transports fought on doggedly till the seventh, when the gods of skill and fortune alike, smiled upon them to reward them with victory over their bitter rivals. The series continues Tuesday.

Yanks Knock Off Athletics In Doubleheader

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

With six weeks to go, the baseball season has just about boiled down to a question of who's going to pitch the World Series opener for New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers. Both could blow the pennants. But with 40 games to play and eight-game leads, the smart guys are getting buddy buddy with the Yank and Dodger ticket sellers. Both league leaders have identical 77-37 records. The Yanks Sunday picked up a game and a half on Chicago and two full games on Cleveland by knocking off Philadelphia Athletics 8-0 and 7-3. Chicago White Sox bowed to Detroit's Ralph Branca 3-2 and Cleveland dropped a pair to the last-place St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 7-5.

Washington and Boston split in the other American League games, Mel Parnell winning his 17th for the Red Sox 4-1 and Spec Shea taking the second for the Senators 7-4 despite Ted Williams' home run.

Brooklyn ran its winning streak to nine by knocking off Pittsburgh twice 3-1 and 9-5, but Milwaukee kept step by sweeping two from Chicago Cubs 4-2 and 6-2. Against Philadelphia, New York Giants ruined Rob Roberts' bid for his 21st victory by knocking him out in the eighth inning of an 8-1 game and also whipped the Phillies in the second 4-3. Cincinnati edged St. Louis 3-2, but the Cards' grabbed the second 6-2 behind Stu Miller. The split and Philadelphia's twin defeat left St. Louis tied with the Phils for third place, 15 games back.

5-HIT SHUTOUT

Vic Raschi came up with a five-hit shutout to win his 10th for the Yankees with the help of Phil Rizzuto's batting. Little Phil hit a homer with two on and drove in two more with a double.

Allie Reynolds lasted only one inning of the second game when the Yankees needed a five-hit relief chore by Johnny Sain to whip Charley Bishop. Rizzuto drove in the tying run and scored the tie-breaker in the sixth. The Yanks wrapped it up with three in the eighth.

Branca had to stave off a ninth-inning rally by the White sox to win for Detroit. He held the Sox to four hits.

Harry Brecheen and Dick Littlefield, both working in relief, dealt damaging blows to Cleveland's faint pennant hopes by copping a pair for the Browns. Brecheen pitched 3 2-3 innings, facing the minimum of 11 batters, to win on Dick Kryhoski's single. Littlefield received credit for the second game. The Indians now are 13 games behind New York.

MADE FIRST START

Williams made his first start for the Red Sox in the second game after a few pinch-hitting jobs, but his homer and double weren't enough to save Boston. He left after five innings.

Duke Snider hit three home runs, making it 27 for the year, as the Dodgers bowled over Pittsburgh twice to make it 15 out of 16 this season.

The Giants bounced back to the .500 mark behind a pair of six-hitters by Jim Hearn and Ruben Gomez. Bobby Thomson hit a home run with the bases loaded off Thornton Kipper after the Giants chased Roberts in a six-run inning. Al Dark, Whitey Lockman Dusty Rhodes homered off Karl Drews to help Gomez.

Ted Kluszewski smashed home runs in each game for a season total of 36, breaking the Cincinnati all-time club record of 35 set by Hank Sauer in 1948.

Bombers Clip Ottawa 18-11

WINNIPEG (CP) Winnipeg Blue Bombers christened their new $500,000 stadium before some 15,600 fans Saturday night with an 18-11 exhibition win over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Bombers, paced by the placement kicking of flying wing Buddy Korchak, overcame a 5-3 half-time deficit in the third quarter and led the rest of the way. Korchak, a Winnipeg boy and Western Interprovincial Football Union all-star last year, scored two field goals and a convert.

Ralph McAllister, holdover American import, and Gerry James, Winnipeg high school product, scored touchdowns for the Bombers.

For the Rough Riders, Don Hollingsworth, an Ottawa boy, and veteran import half Gene (Choo-Choo) Roberts scored majors.

Montreal Drops 3 Straight Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals dropped three straight to Rochester Red Wings during the week-end and you can almost hear the jubilant cries down Buffalo way.

Montreal's losses while the Bisons won two of three games, left the Herd leading the International Baseball League with a 3½-game margin over Montreal and Rochester.

Buffalo split a Sunday doubleheader with Ottawa Athletics, losing the opener 8-7, then winning 9-4. The Herd defeated Syracuse 4-1 Saturday.

The Wings downed the Royals 5-0 and 9-2 Sunday, after edging them 5-4 Saturday.

Eddie Kazak smacked three homers and accounted for eight tallies to salvage the Sunday nightcap for the Bisons. Frank Carswell rapped his 18th and 19th homers of the campaign. Ed Burtschy's fine relief pitching in the opener accounted for his 10th victory for Ottawa against five defeats.

Rochester's Lefty Niles Jordan hurled a four-hitter to stop Montreal in the Sunday opener—his fifth victory in six decisions. Vern Benson, Tom Burgess and Les Fusselman all homered in the third off Ed Roebuck.

Jack Faszholz picked up his seventh win in the nightcap, beating Earl Mossor.

The tail-end Springfield Cubs won all their week-end games.

The Cubs used home runs to sweep a double bill from Syracuse Sunday, 3-2 and 5-2. Saturday they defeated Ottawa 5-1 behind John Pyecha's five-hit pitching.

Baltimore Orioles defeated Toronto 6-2 Saturday—six errors proving the Maple Leafs' downfall. The Leafs came back Sunday to win 7-4. Jim Post, with the aid of Ray Shore in the last three innings, won his 10th decision while giving up seven hits, including a home run by Russ Kerns.

St. Kitts Whips Thistles 17-9

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics took a 3-0 lead in their Ontario Lacrosse Association senior final series Saturday night with a 17-9 victory over Fergus Thistles.

The Athletics spotted the Thistles four goals at the start and roared back to lead 5-4 at the quarter, 7-4 at the half and 14-5 at three-quarters.

Norm Corcoran paced the winners with four goals. Doug Smith, John Dewar, Al Frick and Ted Howe scored two each.

Jay Hill and Ron Landoni scored two each for Fergus.

10,000 Attend Highland Games

FERGUS (CP) — Ten thousand persons attended the eighth annual Highland Games here Saturday, the biggest crowd to attend the event since it was started in 1946.

The dancing classes drew entries from as far away as Vancouver. Pipe bands came from Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Mount Forest.

In the pipe band contest, the 48th Highlanders of Toronto won the march, strathspey and reel classes and the slow march.

Leaders Of 4 Main Parties Expected To Remain At Posts

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of the four main national political parties are expected to remain at their posts indefinitely although there are rumors of changes in the offing.

Party leaderships are matters for the executives and delegates at party conventions to decide unless an incumbent decides on his own initiative to resign.

As far as could be discovered here the results of last Monday's general election, which brought the the fifth consecutive victory to the Liberal party, will not bring any immediate change in party heads.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, 71, has no intention of returning to law but is far from being on the shelf. The general presumption, borne out by his own statements and those of his associates, is that he will remain at the head of affairs for a number of years now that he has a fresh mandate from the people.

TRYING CIRCUMSTANCES

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, is expected to occupy his place in the House when Parliament meets and as far as could be learned here there is no immediate idea in his mind or in the minds of his associates for a change of leadership.

Though Mr. Drew, 59, in two unsuccessful campaigns has failed significantly to increase the numerical strength of his party in the House of Commons, there are many who believe he has given good leadership under trying circumstances.

Should Mr. Drew decide to retire in the near future, it would seem that the party might turn to John Diefenbaker, 57, who just won an impressive victory in Prince Albert after redistribution eliminated his old riding, Lake centre.

But information here was that Mr. Drew is prepared to make an attempt to build and solidify the party.

ONLY TALK

M. J. Coldwell, 64, CCF leader, talked about retiring during the campaign just ended, and which brought his group back to Parliament with increased representation. But he said he would be content to retire only if he was assured the government would bring in a satisfactory national health plan—a prime objective of his group.

This is also a Liberal party objective but only when it is considered the country can comfortably stand the cost.

Solon Low, the present House leader of the Social Credit party, is only 53 years old and as far as has appeared on the surface there is no reason to believe he will be replaced.

Orphan Thrilled At U.S. Chance

TORONTO (CP) — A breathless orphaned girl of 12 just couldn't believe Saturday that the president of the United States has bypassed immigration laws to let her go to relatives in the U.S.

"Can I really go?" asked Irene Andruszczakewicz over and over again as she was told that President Eisenhower has signed a special bill permitting her adoption by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Makohon of Flint, Mich.

The Polish girl has been living in Toronto for four years. Her father was killed by the Germans in 1944. On the death of her mother last year she was made a ward of the Children's Aid Society.

Irene, pretty and excited, exclaimed: "I'm so happy. When can I go? I want so much to see my new parents."

17 Injured In Bus Crash

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Seventeen persons were injured, two critically, when a bus loaded with soldiers skidded through a busy suburban intersection Sunday night and collided with six automobiles.

Police said the chartered Greyhound bus was carrying 28 soldiers from Camp Wellfleet, Mass., to Ft. Niagara, in western New York. Only one of the servicemen was injured.

Police quoted the bus driver, Robert Edwards, 30, as saying his brakes locked as he tried to slow down for the intersection at the foot of a steep hill near Williamsville.

Payroll Missing

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,900 payroll belonging to the A. D. Gorrie Company in downtown Toronto was discovered missing Saturday a few hours before 29 employees were due to collect their week's pay. A padlock on the main floor locker was cut open, police said.

RUBBISH FIRE PUT OUT

City firemen had an unusually quiet week-end. One fire was reported—a rubbish fire burning in front of 297 Rogers St. It wasn't necessary to use an extinguisher to put it out.

REPORT ON LABOR DAY

Main item on the agenda of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) that meets tonight will be a report on the plans for Labor Day celebrations. The program is being drawn up jointly by the CCL body and the Peterborough Trades and Labout Council (TLC).

CYCLIST HURT

While riding his bicycle west along Charlotte St. early Sunday afternoon, Barry Le Roy, 10, of 1403 Monaghan Rd., was crowded by a passing car. Unable to stop in time he struck a parked car on the rear bumper and was thrown to the pavement, hitting his head on the ground. Driver of the car failed to stop. The youngster was not seriously hurt.

TWO-CAR CRASH

Damage estimates were set at over $200 in a two-car crash on the Chemong Rd. Sunday afternoon. Drivers involved were Arnold Patton of RR 1, Peterborough and James Reid, 38, of Lakefield. Driving north on the highway, Patton stopped in the line of traffic to make a left turn and was hit from behind by Reid's vehicle. Reid's car sustained $200 in damage and Patton's $100.

New Signs

Peterborough's northern limits on the Chemong Rd., changed January 1, are now identified by highway signs. The whole area, though still appearing very rural, is now zoned for 30 miles per hour.

Four Injured Horse Killed In Accidents

MARMORA (ENS) — Four people were injured and a horse was killed Saturday in motor vehicle accidents in the Marmora district. A Peterborough woman was involved in one of the accidents.

Most seriously injured is 24-old Harold Culham, of Perth, who received a badly lacerated left arm when his car rolled over. He is in Belleville hospital and his condition today is "fair."

Culham was driving west on Highway 7 about 8 p.m. Saturday when his car went out of control, four miles east of Marmora. The car rolled over on the pavement and mangled his left arm which had been resting on the driver's window.

He was treated by Dr. G. L. Mullin, of Madoc, and Dr. H. G. Parkin, of Marmora, and was later taken by ambulance to Belleville.

BOY KNOCKED DOWN

Seven-year-old Donald Bateman received cuts on his head and bruises when he was knocked down by a car on Highway 14, a mile and a half south of Marmora. He was treated by Dr. Parkin and then permitted to go home.

Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bateman and Saturday afternoon he had been visiting the farm of his uncle, Victor Neal, on the other side of the highway. He got a ride out of the farm in a construction company truck and when he reached the highway he ran across it and was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Edith Wood, of 187 Stewart St., Peterborough.

"He darted out from behind the truck and started across the highway without looking," said Mrs. Wood. "I couldn't avoid an accident."

A horse was killed and two men were injured in another accident near Sine at 9.15 p.m. The driver, Kenneth Greenley, 26, of Smithfield, may be charged by Madoc provincial police.

Greenley was driving south on Highway 14 to Sterling with Cecil Howe, 23, also of Smithfield, when he ran into the horse owned by Donald Heath, of Sine. The impact killed the horse and wrecked the front end of the Greenley car. Howe sustained cuts on the head from flying glass and Greenley was bruised.

OPP Constable Art Bolyea, of Madoc, investigated all three accidents.

Armed Forces Cut Majority Of Fraser

Servicemen Give Swanston 122 Results Unchanged

Gordon K. Fraser's majority in Aug. 10 general election was reduced by 65 votes as the result of balloting by members of the armed forces from Peterborough riding.

Results of the service vote were announced today. They gave Max Swanston, Liberal candidate, a plurality of 52 votes over Mr. Fraser, the Progressive Conservative candidate, whose majority in last Monday's civilian voting was 1,239 over the combined totals of Mr. Swanston and the CCF candidate, Maurice Ketechson.

The service vote was:

Fraser	70
Ketcheson	13
Swanston	122

There were no rejected ballots.

Adding the service vote to the civilian totals compiled by The Examiner on election night last Monday produces the following totals:

Fraser	13,132
Ketcheson	1,783
Swanston	10,175

OFFICIAL COUNT

Official count of the total vote got under way at 1:00 p.m. today at District Returning Officer Arthur McClellan's headquarters on Charlotte St. Taking part in the count will be Mr. McClellan, Mrs. M. G. McCartney, election clerk, and representatives of the three local candidates.

Counting is expected to take all afternoon.

Although it revealed a majority for the Liberal candidate, the service vote in Peterborough riding did not show as much support for the Liberal party as in the rest of the country.

Of a total of 205 service votes, Mr. Swanston obtained 59.5 per cent. The Liberal party generally received 65.2 per cent. of the service vote cast. A total of 52,-234 service ballots were cast and the Liberal party got 34,074.

The Progressive Conservative party received 20.7 per cent of the service vote, while Mr. Fraser obtained 34.1 per cent. The CCF polled eight per cent of the service vote, while Mr. Ketcheson obtained 6.4 per cent locally.

MORE THAN 100 MOTORCYCLES took part Sunday in the Kawartha Motorcycle Club's second field day of the 1953 season at Indian River. Despite the rain, cyclists from as far east as Carleton Place and west to Georgetown and Buffalo went through the events which included trick, novelty and jumping feats. Fred Hill of Peterborough (top photo) seems to be riding over the jump but he was actually flying through the air about 10 feet in front of the ramp. He landed with quite a bump. One Toronto rider lost several valuable parts off his bike on landing. The riders had their girl friends along for the hike. Norma Neilson and Heather Bittle of Carleton Place (lower photo) take their first lesson in riding from Humber Valley Rider, Jack Vanstone. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Fired 3 Shots Group Flees Man Arrested

Three shotgun blasts pierced the darkness of the bush near Nogie's Creek about 9:00 p.m. Saturday.

It sent five men scurrying through the bush for safety, fearful that one of their number had ebeen hit. But, although no one was struck by any of the shots, a sixth man was brought before Magistrate E. A. Gee here today to explain the incident.

"He came around the house just as we was trying it out," said Morley Davis, 60-year-old caretaker of a timber holding near Nogie's Creek ,about 32 miles northwest of Peterborough.

Sentence on Davis was suspended for one year when he pleaded guilty to pointing his gun at Joseph Traynor.

Traynor, with his brother George and three friends, all of Nogie's Creek, entered the property Saturday night to recover a truck which had broken down a week before. It had burned out a piston rod and it took a week to get a new motor.

"Stop in your tracks!" a voice cried out in the darkness, followed by the three shots.

FLED INTO BUSH

The five men immediately took to their heels and scurried into the bush. When they finally emerged, there were only four of them.

At first they thought that Joseph Traynor had been shot but it developed that he was a faster runner than the rest of them and had run home.

Meanwhile, one of the four went to the nearest telephone and informed the OPP in Peterborough. The remaining three went to Traynor's house, where they found him in bed.

OPP Sgt. J. K. Smith and Constables J. S. Gray and John Cawood arrived on the scene and began a search of the area. The search continued from 10:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m., with the assistance of local residents who were familiar with the area.

But Davis had got into his car and driven away from his two-room frame cabin. Later, when told he was wanted by the OPP, he returned to Bobcaygeon where he was placed under arrest and taken to Peterborough county jail.

Asked by the magistrate today if he had had anything to drink Saturday evening, Davis admitted he had had "a couple of beers."

Suspected Worst Beat Up 2 Innocent Men

"I just went berserk," a Curve Lake resident said sheepishly after the dust was cleared and he heard the explanation of a visitor's car parked near his home.

He had been working and hadn't been home for two weeks. When he arrived Saturday night he saw the car near his home and suspected the worst.

Then he saw two men walking nearby. Without any warning, he flew at them, knocked down one man, bit him behind the ear, and cracked two of his ribs before the victim's friend could pull off the attacker.

He then rushed into his house to get a gun. His wife shouted a warning to the visitors and they jumped into their car to get away.

But they flooded the motor and it wouldn't start. As they tried to get going, their attacker appeared again with a gun. But he was so excited and in so much of a hurry, he couldn't get the shell into the breech. Finally he threw the detachable butt of the gun at the men in the car and hit one of them on the back of the head.

The ruckus attracted neighbors and they put an end to the campaign. It was not until then that he learned that the visitors had been brought to the reserve by another of its residents intent on doing some fishing and had not been visiting with his wife.

Provincial police who had raced to the scene expecting mass murder, brought the injured men to hospital for treatment.

The victims looked on the whole things as a joke and no charges were laid.

Three Cars Pile Up In Rear Collisions

A pileup of three cars late Sunday afternoon on Water St. resulted in $1,800 damages to the front of the three vehicles.

Involved in the accident were: Urwin Wilson, 17, of 33 Edgewater Blvd., $600 damage done to his car; John D. Kent, 20, of 211 Bethune St., $700 damages to his car, and Donald G. McAdam, 19, of Apsley, $500 damages done to his car.

Wilson was travelling south on Water St. when he stopped to let a car in front of him make a left-hand turn. Kent was directly behind him. He couldn't stop in time and crashed into the rear of Wilson's car, pushing it ahead. The third car, driven by McAdam, also couldn't stop in time and crashed into the rear of Kent's car, pushing it ahead into the first car.

The car that made the left-hand turn escaped damage. There was no one injured in the triple accident.

Officer Harold Andrew investigated.

Car Struck In Rear 2 Share $250 Damages

About $125 damage was done to each of two cars involved in a collision about 10:00 p.m. Saturday on Highway 7, a mile east of Fowler's Corners.

After running out of gas, William A. Phillips, 33, of 509 Wolsley St., had sent back to the garage at Fowler's Corners for a fresh supply. After refuelling, he was turning about to return to the garage when his 1939-model car stalled.

Kenneth Earl Warner, 19, of 45 William St., Lindsay, who was driving towards Peterborough, struck the rear of Phillips' car, driving it upon the shoulder of the highway.

The left front fender and headlight of Warner's 1953-model car and the rear of Phillips' car were damaged. No one was injured.

OPP Constable Ernie Lunn investigated.

100 Motorcyclists Compete In Field Day Events

Motorcycle enthusiasts from many parts of Ontario rallied Sunday afternoon to a field day sponsored by the Kawartha Motorcycle Club, southeast of Peterborough off Highway No. 7, at a ball diamond. About 100 motorcyclists of some 15 clubs from Ontario were present at the meet. They were the Yellow Jackets from Georgetown, the Buffalo and Brampton Motorcycle clubs, the Humber Valley Riders, the Mustangs and the Toronto Motorcycle club, all of Toronto.

This is the second field day to be held by the Kawartha Club, and it is hoped it will be made an annual affair.

A cloudburst during mid-afternoon drove most of the spectators scampering to their cars, but it failed to dampen the spirits of the ardent motorcyclists. They carried right on with their program, which included varied events that tested the skill and driving ability of the drivers.

JUMPING EVENTS

Most popular of the events were the jumping contests, which tested the ability of drivers to keep their bikes in perfect control as they hurtled over a greasy wooden plank, raised a foot in the air.

Other popular events were the straight races over the rough terrain of the field. They were decided by the ability of the driver to stick to his saddle and not principally by speed. The Australian pursuit race was another popular event. It was run on a circular track in which any rider who was passed had to drop out. The winner was the man left riding alone.

One reason for the field day was to give members of other clubs a chance to meet each other and to compare notes.

Anyone present not knowing anything about motors and happened to be listening to the conversations of the cyclists would be at a loss to know what they were talking about. They were grouped about bikes talking in motorcyclists' jargon and helping one another make minor repairs to their bikes.

Organizers of the field day were John Wharton, president of the Kawartha Motorcycle Club, Stan Mitchell, treasurer, and John Fulford, secretary.

Following is a list of winners:

Dizzy Race—Bill Mantell.
Potato Race—Sandy Leil and partner.
Drag Race (under 750cc. class) — Doug. May.
Drag Race (over 750 cc. class) — Ollie May.
Drag Race Finals (all classes). — Doug. May.
Jumping (10" ramp)—Doug. Smith.
Stake and String Race — Sheldon Smith.
Balloon Contest — Don Presley and partner.
Pie Eating Contest, heat 1 — Bill McEnery and partner.
Pie Eating Contest, heat 2—Sheldon Smith and partner.
Egg Thowing Contest—Bill Mantell and partner.
Plank Ride—Don Presley.
Blind Race—Stan Whyte.
High Point man of the day—Stan Whyte.

Find Girl 2 In Weeds After 9-Hour Search

NEWTONBROOK, Ont. (CP) — After a nine-hour search by 800 neighbors, police and firemen, two-year-old Elaine Weaver was found lying exhausted in a bed of weeds two miles from her home in this village near Toronto Sunday. Apart from scratches and bruises she was unhurt.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Weaver, she vanished Saturday evening.

The search ended at 4:30 a. m. in a wheat field when a group of five volunteers heard a voice calling: "Mommy."

Held For Break-In At Police Station

TORONTO (CP)—James Ross Winters, 23, was locked up today on a charge of breaking and entering a police station.

Police said they arrested Winters Saturday night on a charge of illegal possession of beer when they found him with two bottles. The beer was taken from him and he was told he would be summonsed on the charge.

Later police found that the police station on Toronto Island, where the beer had been deposited, had been entered while officers were on patrol. They arrested Winters for trying to remove the evidence.

Commissioner Slain

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (AP)—C. H. W. Larsen, New Zealand resident commissioner of Niue, in the Cook islands, was slain in his sleep Sunday night by three escaped convicts. His wife was badly injured. The Larsens were asleep at the residency when the slayers entered.

Worker's Body Found In Trent

A Trenton fisherman Saturday found the body of C. G. Goode of Toronto, a railway worker, who drowned while swimming in the Trent River Thursday afternoon.

Roy Shepherd of Front St., Trenton, was fishing near No. 1 dam when he hooked the body which had been caught between rocks. The dam is about a mile north of Trenton.

Police had been dragging for more than 44 hours when Shepherd located the body.

Goode was employed on a CPR extra gang near Trenton, and after his shift, which completed his part-time job, he went with fellow workmen to swim in the Trent River. They swam 1,000 feet from a dam to a railway bridge.

Goode complained that the swim made him "groggy," and after his companion had climbed out of the water he remained in, holding onto a buttress. When his friends went to investigate they found that he had disappeared.

$2,038 Stolen From Safe Of Household Finance During Sunday Night

Safe Discovered Unlocked, Money Missing From Jimmied Cash Box; No Marks Found On Office Door Or Safe

Some time between 8 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 a.m. today thieves entered the office of the Peterborough branch of Household Finance Corporation, 343½ George St., and took $2,038 from the safe. When HFC representative Ross Rice arrived for work at 8:30 a.m. today he found the door to the second-storey suite unlocked.

A few minutes later he tried the office safe. It, too, was unlocked, though pushed to, and the cash box containing $2,038 in bills and change had been pried open and the contents stolen.

The most curious factor in the theft was that there were no signs of the office door being jimmied, and there were no marks on the safe to indicate that force was used to open it.

OFFICE LEFT LOCKED

Only two people are believed to have the combination of the safe—Maurice Holt, manager, now on holidays, and Gerald McCann, assistant manager. Mr. McCann said the safe was locked when business closed for the weekend on Saturday noon. And Sunday night he went to the office to check and see if everything was in order. The office door was locked but he didn't try the safe.

Prowlers were reported in the building last week. Since then Mr. Holt and Mr. McCann have been periodically checking up in non-working hours to make sure there were no break-ins.

One of the iron bars over a window at the rear of the suite shows signs of recent sawing with a hacksaw, indicating that a previous unsuccessful attempt was made to enter the finance company offices.

The thieves did not touch a number of marked cheques that were in the safe, and some payment cards were also left undisturbed.

An unusually large sum of money was in the safe because the banks are closed Saturday; the morning's receipts were in the cash box.

Sgt. of Detectives John Stevenson and Detective Douglas Farthing are investigating the puzzling theft.

Freighter Held Under Seizure

SARNIA (CP) — The French freighter Marquette was held under RCMP seizure order today pending payment of a $200 penalty under the Canada Customs Act.

The order was placed on the ship after seven officers raided the vessel Sunday and seized a quantity of goods. All that RCMP headquarters here would say was that "a quanity of contraband has been consifscated and a penalty imposed."

The RCMP have summary powers under the Customs Act to impose such a penalty.

The ship is being operated by the Hamburg-Chicago line between the Mediterranean and ports on the Great Lakes.

Windsor Musician Heads Bandmasters

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Peter Allen of Windsor, Ont., was elected president of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association at the annual convention Sunday.

Other officers:

Secretary-treasurer—A. L. Robertson, Kilworthy, Ont.; assistant secretary—Ernest Whitton, Gravenhurst; vice-presidents—W. H. Coulter, Wheatley, Ont.; Clifford Hunt, Toronto; directors—Capt. C. Atkins, Toronto; Harry Mann, Hanover; Von Ayres, Wallaceburg.

Skiers Sweep Events In Ottawa Meet

Water skiers from Peterborough's Water Ski Association practically swept all the events Sunday at the Ottawa Valley meet, sponsored by the Ottawa Water Ski Club. The meet was held at Mooney's Bay on the Rideau River.

The junior members won the junior events, which were not too largely contested. But they did defeat strong opposition.

Stephenie Stuart took the junior girls' over-all championship. She trick-skied her way to a first, jumped to a first and skied to a third in the slalom. Those places easily gave her the top girls' honors.

Another of the Stuart family, John Stuart, who made an outstanding showing at the Ontario championships at Inverlea Beach a week ago, was the junior boys' champion. A first in the trick skiing, a first in the jumping and a second in the slalom event, placed him at the top.

Gus O'Brien was Stuart's closest competition in the junior events. O'Brien placed first in the slalom run and then second to Stuart in the jumping. He was disqualified in the trick skiing, but still placed second in the over-all.

MORE COMPETITION

The senior men's events were more closely contested, featuring several of Canada's best skiers. Just the same Peterborough skier, Terry Hill, association president, placed third in the over-all, second in the slalom, third in the jumping and fifth in the tricks.

Hill was making his first attempt at jumping and trick skiing in competition. He faced competition from John Clifford, Olympic snow skier and one of Canada's best water skiers, and from Dave Hyman of Ottawa.

Clifford placed first in the senior men's events, Hyman second and Hill third.

Accompanying the skiers were Doug Laird, Mrs. Norma Gordon and Jack Stuart. Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Stuart acted as two of the judges.

Cars Collide At Crossing

A collision between two cars at Park and McDonnel Sts. early Sunday afternoon resulted in $75 damage to both cars.

Drivers of the cars were: Harry A. Webster, of 391 Parkhill Rd., and Harry Sarafiam, of Warsaw.

Webster was driving south on Park St. and was almost at McDonnel St. when he saw the car driven by Sarafiam crossing Park St. The cars hit in the middle of the road.

Constable W. A. Scott investigated.

Finish Deepest Underwater Oil Pipeline

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP)—The deepest underwater oil pipeline ever attempted was completed Saturday, a week after it was launched at St. Ignace, Mich., four miles across the Straits of Mackinac.

Twenty thousand feet of 20-inch pipe were pulled from the north side of the 243-foot deep straits to connect with the land pipeline on the south side here.

It was the longest water crossing ever attempted by the pull method. The operation will be duplicated in another month when a parallel 20-inch pipeline will be pulled across the straits 1,250 feet to the east of the line just laid.

The cast iron pulling head and two pontoons touched the shore at 9:14 p.m. EDT.

NEXT MOVE

The next step will be to shove a four-inch line through the pipe from the St. Ignace side. It will suck out all the air. The pipe then will be filled with water and tested. The weight of the water will pull the line down into its channel.

The double line across the straits will be linked on both sides to the 30-inch pipeline being laid between Superior, Wis., and Sarnia. The water crossing alone will cost an estimated $8,500,000 in the $76,000,000 project.

The Superior-Sarnia line will connect to the present line from Edmonton to Superior to bring oil from Alberta's fields to Eastern Canada and Michigan.

PoWs Report More Men Held

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists freed 400 Allied war prisoners today, and promised 450, their biggest shipment of the Korean PoW exchange, for Tuesday.

Today's group brought 73 American, 75 Britons, 250 South Koreans, one Japanese who had served with U.S. forces as a houseboy, and a Japanese-born Korean who said he served with the South Korean Army although he was released as a civilian.

The Americans and British jumped briskly from the Red trucks that rolled them down from the Red grouping centre at Kaesong. They laughed as they moved into the Allied tents and appeared in good health.

A total of 5,177 Allied troops including three Canadians, have been freed in 13 days of the exchange. The Reds have said they held 12,763, 14 of them Canadians.

SINGING LOUDLY

As the Allied prisoners were handed over, truckloads of Communist PoWs rolled north, singing loudly.

Meanwhile, the PoW command said four ships carrying 2,400 Red prisoners to the port of Inchon from Koje Island were forced back by typhoon winds.

The PoW command said the delay would not effect Tuesday's delivery, but may reduce Wednesday's shipment to 600. The UNC has been sending back about 2,400 Reds at Panmunjom daily.

The Communists said their big shipment Tuesday would include 75 British, 75 Americans and 300 are South Koreans. They usually have been sending back about 400 Allied PoWs a day.

There was no reason given immediately for the step-up.

SEE NEW PLANES

The returning Americans told of seeing what they believed are new types of Red jet aircraft, twin-engine fighter - bombers and jet fighters smaller than the Russian-built MiGs.

One repatriate said he saw nine Communist jet bombers, flying in formations of three each, as he passed through the North Korean capital city of Pyongyang on his way from prison camp on the Yalu river to Panmunjom.

Other prisoners added to earlier reports the Chinese are holding back American PoWs.

Cpl. Howard Waters, Jr., 25, of Battle Creek, Mich., said 12 to 14 men in his company were suddenly taken away by the Chinese a short time before the armistice was signed.

He said these were the "popular guys" in the company—the leaders.

Waters said men from other companies also were taken away on trucks suddenly, but he did not know the number.

SEVEN MEN SENTENCED

Sgt. Carl R. Head of Evansville said: "The Chinese told us seven men had been sentenced. They got one to three years and the Chinese said they would have to serve them before they could go home."

Several PoWs told of an unconfirmed report that the Chinese at Camp 1 had planned to hold back 200 men, but the Red Cross interceded. Prisoners said the camp had been broken up into three units and all of them left together for Kaesong.

And there were more of the now-familiar stores of hunger and disease in the far northern stockades.

Malay Communists Hope For More Red Aid

By WARREN WHITE

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Now that the Korean armistice has been reached, the Communist leaders in Malaya are telling their hungry, beleaguered supporters:

"Not much longer to wait, comrades. Our Chinese comrades are seeing off the Americans in Korea. They will soon be with us. Tighten your belts and have patience."

In five years of fighting, the Communists in Malaya have been reduced to an estimated 5,000, facing sickness, death and starvation in unhealthy jungle hideouts.

British authorities hope to further cut this number through surrender, but they believe a hard core will try to remain in the jungle beyond the reach of the security forces, waiting for Malaya's "liberation" from the outside.

There was a time when the Communists were saying that Malaya soon would be "the Malayan People's Communist Republic" and that not a train would run, not a car venture over the roads, not a tin mine or rubber plantation function, under British rule.

STILL DETERMINED

Since then 6,000 Communists have been killed, captured or surrendered and the effectiveness of the remaining Communists severely curtailed.

Nevertheless those who remain are still determined to wait for "the day" when help arrives from outside.

Meanwhile, under tough Gen. Sir Gerald Templer the British security forces are concentrating on starving and harassing the Communists into surrender.

Millions of leaflets, prepared by psychological warfare experts to appeal to Chinese, Malays and Indian Tamils, regularly festoon jungle areas suspected of containing Communists.

Slow flying "voice planes" skim the tree tops broadcasting through loud speakers appeals in Chinese, Malay and Tamil.

MAY INCREASE ASSISTANCE

The usual argument is: "Surrender. Your only alternative is death—through sickness or shooting."

A common Communist propaganda phrase, in morale boosting documents captured, is: "Hold on comrades. We shall be liberated by the international situation."

Meanwhile, British military planners are considering whether the Communists now that an armistice exists in Korea may not increase assistance to the beleaguered Malayan Communists and to the Indo-China Communists.

Did I tell you I'm driving a Monarch now? A couple of weeks ago I was talking to Jim Fraser—the man who does our legal work—and he started telling me how much he liked the Monarch he'd bought. Jim seemed so enthusiastic I thought I'd better have a look at the car, so I went around to the showroom the next day. Glad I did, too. My Monarch's everything Jim said it would be—and more. I like a big, fully powered car, and I found that by paying a little extra I could get power steering, power brakes and automatic transmission in my Monarch that take all the effort out of driving. I like the kind of power I'm getting from my engine, too—smooth V-8 power I know I can depend on. And I don't mind admitting I get a kick out of the nice things my friends say when they see my new Monarch. Tangy Sweet Treat For YoungAndOld

Another treat for summertime is pineapple buttermilk sherbet, made sweet and flavory with golden crushed Hawaiian pineapple. The young, the old, the "in-betweens" call it delightful . . . and calorie counters take heed . . . it's a popular dessert for waistline whittlers.

PINEAPPLE BUTTERMILK SHERBET

2 cups buttermilk
½ cup sugar
1 cup crushed Hawaiian pineapple
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white

Mix all ingredients except egg white and 2 tablespoons of the sugar, together. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until mushy with refrigerator set at coldest setting. Beat egg white stiff with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Turn buttermilk mixture into chilled bowl and beat hard with a rotary beater for a few seconds. Fold in egg white. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Turn refrigerator control to normal and allow to ripen until ready to serve. Makes 1 quart.

Fine Arts School Completes Its 20th Year

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — A school where students combine work with vacation activities, the Banff School of Fine Arts, has just finished another summer season with a big student enrolment.

Established 20 years ago by the University of Alberta to teach "arts related to the theatre," the school now offers a wide range of courses. To theatre, ballet and play-writing are added painting, music, short story and radio writing, [illegible] French, photography and a number of handicrafts.

The faculty, gathered from many parts of the world, teaches between 500 and 600 students from Canada, the United States and overseas. Another 3,500 students in 40 different groups attend special short courses, educational meetings and conventions.

PRIZED RECOGNITION

The Henry Marshall Tory award, offered by the Canadian Association for Adult Education, has been presented to the school in recognition of the role it is playing in adult education.

Accommodation for students is provided in schooo chalets, and in a bungalow court, residences and in private houses or tourist homes in Banff.

High in the Rocky mountains on the Bow river, the school provides supervised painting trips for students to such scenic spots as Jasper, Maligne lake, Bow lakes and the Valley of the Ten Peaks.

The music department has probably seen the biggest expansion in recent years. This year it planned two operatic performances and a production of Haydn's oratorio "The Creation," among other features

Nearly all these performances make use of the orchestra which is an outgrowth of the violin course started three years ago by Clayton Hare of Calgary.

The strings class, in the last few years, has had students from such places as Charlottetown, Halifax, Toronto, Montreal and Minneapolis.

Hosiery Makers See Good Omens

Hosiery manufacturers see a good omen in the change to shorter skirts in women's styles.

They expect men's trouser lengths will get shorter, too. That means a boom for dealers in men's socks.

Deploring the present length of men's trousers, a spokesman declared: "In the present custom, men's trousers, instead of appearing to be firmly supported by belt or braces, seem to be making a lamentably inadequate effort to stand by themselves — or to be in the first stages of falling off altogether."

1,000 Members Make Pilgrimage To WI Birthplace

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP)—One thousand members of the Associated Country Women of the World made a pilgrimage Sunday to the birthplace of Women's Institutes.

The first Women's Institute was founded at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, in 1897. Since then, the idea of an organization to improve the welfare of rural women and their families has spread throughout the world.

The institutes, under various names, are linked internationally through the ACWW, which has 103 affiliated organizations having a total membership of 6,000,000.

Lined up to meet the delegates, who came here from the ACWW convention in Toronto, were the five remaining charter members of the Stoney Creek Women's Institute.

Mrs. Murray Neil of Hamilton, 90, said she remembered the first meeting at Stoney Creek at which Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, the founder, spoke of her institute aims and ambitions for Canadian farm wome.

New Straw Cloth Easy To Clean

The straw cloth you've been seeing this season is actually a plain-weave cotton fabric, processed to give it a durable straw-like effect. It comes in natural straw color and in colors white, prints and embroideries.

Straw cloth is available in ready-to-wear separates, shorts, pedal pushers, jackets, bathing suits, shoes, belts and bags.

Keeping straw cloth clean is simple because of the special processing which prevents dirt and stains from penetrating the fibres. The soil stays on the surface.

Shoes and other accessories in this fabric can be sponged with thick soapsuds and then wiped clean with a damp cloth. Use a soft brush on especially soiled articles. Dry in the shade in the breeziest spot you can find.

Straw separates can go into the washing machine but avoid spin-drying. Use no bleach. Starch is unnecessary. If you wash by hand, avoid twisting.

Majority Of Women Stand Five Feet Seven And More

(Special to The Examiner)

NEW YORK.—Eight per cent of American women happen to be over five feet seven inches, and to Lane Bryant, this is a factor that shouldn't be overlooked. At a recent showing they previewed fashions scaled to fit women up to six feet.

Since tall women wear narrow pants and slacks most effectively, there is a great variety of these to choose from. Narrow-wale black corduroy is used for slacks which accentuate the lanky look. Over them, a tailored wool shirt in basket-weave tweed has slit sides, breast pockets and is completely lined.

For at-home entertaining, black velveteen toreador pants are teamed with an easy pullover of black Italian wool woven with a red, green and white patterned-stripe. The sides are slit and sleeves are short and loose.

For country wear or lounging, winter denims are news. Faded navy pants slit at the ankles, are faced with red. Red demin pants are fringed down the seams with black and white braid.

Separates are done with an eye to mixing and matching. Roman-striped wool jersey makes a blouse with a matching stocking cap. This is long enough to be worn as a cumberland, too.

The skirts are all designed with an eye to flattery. Gray wool-tweed is snow-flecked with white, has front hip pockets and easy back-fullness. Brown and white herringbone-tweed is made with stitched gores and a leather tunnel belt. This is a wonderful basic for all blouses and sweaters. One whimsical skirt is cut in navy leather felt. Stepladder pockets, graduated in size, march up the front.

The jumper, a boon to any wardrobe, is designed for wear with or without a blouse. Lane Bryant shows it in flame corduroy with a wide-away turtle neck. The suggested blouse with it is in eggshell cotton with a spaced red-clover print.

Tweeds are big this fall, and are very good on the tall girl. One of a black-and-white tweed is fitted has a straight skirt and a shell-knit black collar which matches the nubby sweater underneath. For dressier wear, black broadcloth appears in a suit with a round collar, and horizontal tucks running from under the bosom to the jacket hem.

Basic dresses come in for their share of the spotlight. Navy-and-white printed corduroy has a high round neck bound in red velvet to match the belt. Gray jersey falls in fluid lines in a dress with a turtle neck and lapped-seam raglan sleeves.

The coat story is a functional one. Black gabardine is faced with black-and-yellow checks in a raincoat with matching reversible hat and umbrella. Fawn fleeces fashions a coat that is completely reversible to cocoa alpaca. For dress, the lush look of black velvet appears in a full coat with horizontal curved-seaming across the back.

Also available are extra-long umbrellas and shoulder bags with more length in the straps. All the fashions are scaled perfectly. They do not minimize or emphasize height, but merely accentuate its best advantages.

READY FOR OLYMPICS

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—A $675,000 expansion program is planned for the Melbourne cricket ground in preparation for the 1956 Olympic Games. A new three-tier stand will be built to increase accommodation to at least 119,000.

Sewing Tension Defined

"Sewing tension" is a term often used by women well-known for their ability to make their own clothes successfully. The phrase is apt to baffle the beginner who may be inclined to apply it to herself.

Actually sewing centers, who work a great deal with beginners point out that few women today feel tense at the sewing machine. Much of the work in home dressmaking courses is concerned with giving advice on choosing the right style and colour for the women's type and figure, fitting the pattern to the figure, and cutting out. Once the machine sewing stage is reached, the women are ready to relax and enjoy it.

Present day machines with stitch regulators, preser foot that sews over pins, backward and forward stitching mechanism, labour saving attachments, and electric power smooths rather than furrows the brow of a home dressmaker.

But what is "sewing tension"? The dictionary defines "tension" as stress by pulling." It is the pulling of the threads together that completes a stitch on the sewing machine. There are two tensions on the lock-stitch machine: the upper controlling the movement of the thread from the needle, and the lower governing the rate at which the thread unwinds from the bobbin. If both are adjusted at the proper tension, the lock in the stitch occurs in the thickness of the material and a perfect stitch is formed.

If the needle tension is too tight and bobbin too loose, the needle thread will show unslightly loops on the right side of the material. If the error in tension is the reverse, the loop will show along the underside. If tension is too tight on fine material, threads will break, if too tight on a seam, the seam will pucker, if too loose on a seam, the seam may pull out.

When in doubt about adjusting tension, or unsure of the proper tension for different materials, the safest thing is to consult a sewing centre. Good tension is what gives clothes a well finished look.

Simple fare—like soup and sandwiches—is the order of the day in summer. And did anything ever taste better?

There is something about the fresh, outdoor brilliance of the season that gives special enjoyment to hearty, homey sandwiches, bowls of thick soup, fresh garden salads. The mild mellow flavor of cheese is at its best in this perky new sandwich idea.

CHEESE AND BACON ROLL-UPS

Sliced fresh white bread, crusts trimmed.
Slices of pasteurized process Canadian cheese.
Partially broiled bacon strips.
Chicken Gumbo soup.

Slightly roll each slice of bread with a rolling pin. (This is necessary to remove some of the "spring.") Cover each slice with a slice of cheese. Roll up like a jelly roll. Wrap a strip of bacon around each roll-up and hold in place with a toothpick. Toast the roll-ups under low broiler heat, turning often until the bacon is cooked. Serve with chicken gumbo soup.

A soldier after returning from World War No. 1 described the kind of a meal he dreamed of when his company was tired and hungry and wet in the trenches in France.

He said he dreamed of sitting at the table in his widowed mother's farm kitchen eating applesauce from a big blue bowl, made from the first Duchess apples from their tree. Beaten applesauce, not strained, but beaten until almost all of the ulmps were out. And with it he wanted an inch-thick slice of his mother's homemade bread—maybe 4 slices—with butter on it a quarter-inch thick—hard butter made in their own churn.

Doesn't it sound wonderful? His mother had it ready too, for the boy who had left, but who had returned a man.

The summer apples have something so delicate about them. Maybe they taste so good because we are so hungry for them.

Anyway there's a bowl of applesauce in our refrigerator made from Duchesses right now, and I'm going to have some for my lunch, icy cold, with bread and butter—not homemade though. I can make bread—and butter too, given the equipment.

SUMMER APPLESAUCE

Wash, pare, core and cut into eighths a quart of Duchess or Astrachan or Melba or Yellow Transparent apples. The amount of water to add to them depends on your individual taste. I add 1 cup of warm water. Cover and boil gently until they are mushy and beat with rotary beater for a minute then add ½ cup sugar and beat until the whole thing is foamy and smooth. Cover and chill. You may want to add more or less water and more or less sugar.

APPLE COMPOTE

This is interesting and can be used for dressier occasions, for it jellies a little and may be colored.

Pare summer apples and save the skin and wash it and add it to a syrup of 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar and a stick of cinnamon bark and cook 10 minutes and strain out the peelings. Add quartered apples to fill the syrup and simmer uncovered until apples are sofe but not broken. Skim out the cooked apples into a bowl and cook the remaining apples. When all are cooked and in a bowl pour the syrup over them and chill. This syrup will jelly a little.

Variation: Instead of cinnamon bark add a dozen red cinnamon candies. These give the whole dish a lovely rosy blush.

All parts of Canada do not have Gravensteins, but if you hunt hard enough you can find them I think. They make superior apple pies, nice and thick and juicy.

APPLE PIE

Six cups pared, cored apples (preferably Gravensteins just now), 2/3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 teaspoons butter (¼ teaspoon cinnamon is optional). Make pastry from 2 cups unsifted pastry flour, 2/3 cup good quality shortening, 2/3 teaspoon salt and a scant ¼ cup cold water. Roll out into 2 crusts and line large pie plate with one of them. Turn apples into it which have been mixed with the above ingredients. Cover with gashed top crust, sealing edges. Brush top with mixture of 2 teaspoons each sugar and milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 for another 25 minutes. Winter apples require a little longer baking to make them tender.

WOMEN DESERTED

SNAKE LAKE, Sask. (CP)—The women folk of this northern Saskatchewan village are up in arms. Seems the men volunteered almost to a man to work for a railway at the Manitoba port of Churchill.

DOROTHY DIX:

Dutch Treat Can Boomerang Making Girl A Doormat

DEAR MISS DIX: I have known a man for five years and have been going steady with him for two. When we first dated, he took me to fine dinners and a show occasionally. Lately, however, he expects me to pay my own way when we go out—and often his, too.

I know he can well afford treating me, but it's hard for me to pay all the time since my salary barely covers my living expenses. We're no kids, either; I'm 35 and he's 42. At times he'll borrow a dollar or two from me, then, when we go out, he'll repay it by deducting it from my share of the meal. Please hit hard at a piker of his type.

M. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

TELL MISER OFF

ANSWER: In the time you've known this man, you've changed from what was probably a fairly self-sufficient woman of 30, into a doormat of 35. However, while his naggardliness is contemptible, you actuallly encourage your friend's stinginess, since you obviously give in to him at every turn. His nature being what it is, he can't resist taking advantage of you.

This is a free country, you know, and no one can force you to take a man out to dinner if you don't want to. You may be assured that he has absolutely no repect for you, has no intention of letting his friendship go beyond the free-meal state, will continue borrowing money and considers you nothing more than a very compliant date who wont' say "no" to anything he wants.

Do yourself a favor and save your money against the rainy day that is surely in store for one as improvident as you. Also, inject a little starch into your backbone and tell the miser off. Let him know that if you must pay for your own dinners, you'd prefer more amenable company, and that his sponging days are over.

Dont' expect anything I write could possibly change the spots of your parsimonious friend. Why should it? A pleasant companion who doesn't cost anything isn't easily acquired, and it's quite a feather in the fellow's hat to have latched on to a girl as easy-going as you.

You are weak one—not he! You need the reforming! Better change soon.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Would you, or perhaps some of your readers, know where I could get envelope addressing to do at home? am alone with my invalid mother and cannot leave the house. Yet I must do something to supplement our income. Have you any suggestions for work that can be done at home?

MRS. H. C.

ANSWER: I have had so many requests recently from folks who need home work, that I hope some of my readers may have suggestions for them.

At one time there was quite a market for home addressing, but it seems to be slowly vanishing. The names of firms, in large cities and smaller towns, who can use home workers, will be appreciated. In the meantime, try to get a copy of "How To Make Mony et AHome," by Polly Webster, from your library or bookstore. It costs $3, and the fine solutions it gives for your problem make it well worth-while.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: About every six weeks or so my husband goes on a drinking spree lasting three or four days. Otherwise he is a wonderful husband and father. How can he be helped?

P. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Contact Alcoholics Anonymous, who will be glad to lend a hand. While their activities formerly were directly chiefly toward the drinker who came to them for help, they now are ready to give assistance to families who ask their help.

Trail Of Thefts Comes To An End

HAMILTON (CP)—A trail of thefts and break-ins which led from Hamilton to Stoney Creek, and back again, came to a sudden end early Sunday morning, when two men were surprised changing a pair of licence plates at a street corner. The paid fled over back fences, leaving their loot behind.

In one of the vehicles was found about $1,800 worth of electrical appliances, including two television sets and 17 radios, stolen Saturday night from Stoney Creek Electric.

Courier Service Established To Carry Mail

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS
(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON—Private enterprise is meeting the emergency situation of the French strikes and their complete disruption of postal service in that country by creating its own system of delivering and collecting unofficial mail in London and Paris.

Business houses in the two capitals which are accustomed to being in daily contact are responsible for the rapidly growing courier service which handles their correspondence. It has been found worthwhile to pay air passages for carriers of unstamped mail.

There is no evidence here as yet that this technique of avoiding the royal and Republican monopolies on mail in the two countries runs the risk of being "organized" on a black-market scale.

But with post offices shut down in France and telephone calls to Paris restricted to brief emergency messages, the number of informal postmen has been growing.

One example of how the paralyzed mail communications between France and Great Britain are being overcome was given by the London "Evening News". In a front-page story in French, it offered to accept brief messages from French students and tourists to relatives at home.

The "Avis Aux Groupes d'Ecoliers et de Touristes Francais" promised delivery of their communications by having them printed in three nationally circulated French newspapers.

While the number of British tourists stranded in France far outweighs the French stranded here, the French consulate has announced it had started to advance British money to "hundreds" of unfortunate travelers here.

Fifty French nationals, unable to travel farther than Calais and other channel ports due to the railway strike, were the first to received case advances. They signed receipts which contained a promise to refund the French government on their arrival home.

Board Cancels Liquor Licence

TORONTO (CP)—One liquor licence has been cancelled and two have been suspended in Southern Ontario, the Ontario liquor licence board said today.

At Toronto, the Civil Service Association clubhouse licence was cancelled because the association is putting its St. George street clubhouse up for sale.

At Watford, Ont., the Watford Hotel licence was suspended for two weeks because beer was consumed on the premises on a Sunday. In Tilbury North township, the Lighthouse Hotel licence was suspended for one week because of failure to clear premises within 30 minutes after sale of beer ceased.

Two new licences were granted, to the Muskoka Hunters' Club, Draper township, and the Lido Tavern, Windsor. The latter was given a dining-lounge licence to replace its dining-room licence.

Arsenal Company To Step Up Production

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's munitions-producing company, Canadian Arsenals, Ltd., expects to step up production to $7,000,000 a month in the coming year, Defence Production Minister Howe said today.

The minister made public the annual report of the company for the 1952-53 fiscal year, showing that production in that period had been increased to the value of $5,000,000 a month from $1,000,000.

Mr. Howe said the company has a $200,000,000 backlog of business.

Lindsay Boy Rides Into Side Of Truck

LINDSAY (ENS)—A six year old Lindsay boy David Horslen, suffered minor injuries today when he rode his bicycle into the side of a truck.

According to Sergeant Gordon Eberts of the town police, the boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Horslen, Queen St., rode into the side of a truck driven by Howard Lynch, also of Lindsay. He was thrown to the pavement, and suffered injuries to his back.

He was not admitted to hospital and received treatment from Dr. J. C. Arnold. According to police the boy struck the truck ahead of the rear wheels of the trailer. His bicycle went under the wheels but he was thrown clear.

Few French Papers Publish

PARIS (AP)—The French had only a few provincial newspapers and the English-language European edition of the new York Herald Tribune in which to read today about the country's continuing crippling strikes.

Most newspaper workers joined for one day in the walkout in state-run communications and transport fields. Some out-of-town papers published under an agreement with the unions which called for them to lay off Tuesday instead of today. The Herald Tribune was exempted from the stoppage.

There was no evidence of a break in the strikes by government workers. Railroads were still practically paralyzed. The postal, telegraph and telephone closure went into its 12th day. Coal mines remained shut.

Premier Joseph Laniel and his top ministers met Sunday to discuss suggestions by Leon Jouhaux, head of the Socialist Trade Unions, for breaking the impasse. Later they handed the labor leader a reply but its nature was not disclosed.

A group of labor chiefs met Sunday night to study the government reply but gave no indication they were about to end the strikes.

Sarnia Youth Gets Medal In Cadet Work

SARNIA (CP)—Robert Cook, 17, of Sarnia today received the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal for the best cadet work of the year.

The silver medal, given for a 11-round proficiency in drill, small-arms training, field craft, athletics and other cadet subjects, was presented to young Cook at a ceremony at Camp Ipperwash by Maj.-Gen. H. D. Graham, general officer commanding central command.

Cadets from schools all over Ontario are attending the seven-week camp at Ipperwash. The camp period ended today.

Mrs. Roy H. Young

Funeral for the late Mrs. Roy H. Young of Todmorden, who died at her home on Thursday, was held today from the home of her brother, Vincent Crowley of this city to St. Luke's Catholic Church, Downeyville. The Rev. C. Lynch was celebrant of the requem mass, assisted by the Rev. G. Weiss, deacon, and the Rev. R. Garvey, sub-deacon.

The following clergy were in the sanctuary: the Revs. J. McGuire, V. G. McFadden, Dr. C. O'Donohue and John Coughlin.

Pallbearers were Lorne Doyle, Jim Bogue, Frank Hancock, Elton Herlihey, Dennis Scully and Jim Scollard. Graveside prayers were said by Father McGuire assisted by Fathers Kay and Lynch, and burial was at St. Luke's cemetery.

Russia Suggests Germany Be Reunified

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia suggested Sunday night that Germany be reunified, and severed from military ties with the West, in what Western diplomats generally regarded as a propaganda move aimed at the overthrow of the Adenauer West German government.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government faces popular elections Sept. 6 and, as diplomats here read the Russian proposals, Moscow was doing all it could to assure its overthrow by holding out hope for early unification of East and West Germany.

The most important question in Europe, the Moscow radio said, is the "peaceful reunification of Germany and the conclusion of a peace treaty with it."

In notes delivered in Moscow to the United States, Britain and France, the Kremlin urged immediate creation of a provisional all-German government. It also urged the Western Big Three to support a peace conference on Germany of "all interested parties" within six months.

END TO REPARATIONS

Moscow simultaneously called for an end to German reparations by next Jan. 1, and it summoned its East German puppets to the Kremlin for talks.

The all-German government, proposed to replace the Adenauer regime and the Red-controlled East German government, would be assigned the task of devising an election law which would permit free elections throughout Germany.

Russia offered to give up more than $3,000,000,000 worth of German manufactures now earmarked for her from East Germany, while proposing that reparations payments end by Jan. 1 and that the Big Four powers limit German payment for their occupation costs to five per cent of the annual revenues from East and West Germany.

West Germany, with 48,000,000 people, and the Red-ruled eastern sector, with 18,000,000, have been separated since the end of the Second World War.

As Western diplomats here and in other capitals saw the Moscow note, the idea was to capitalize on recent sentiment for unification in an effort to defeat the Adenauer government, which has been friendly with the western powers.

FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES

The fact that the 14-page note was released, through the Soviet licenced German news agency ADN offered a further indication that the note was written primarily for political purposes.

The three Western countries had proposed on July 15—also with an eye on the September elections—that the Big Four foreign ministers meet in late September to arrange for a German election. The Western powers have maintained that this should be arranged by the occupying nations, rather than by the two German governments.

Western officials are confident the Communists would be defeated in free elections.

Ft. Erie Freight Traffic Stopped

FORT ERIE (CP)—Except for perishables, truck freight stopped moving at this Niagara river town today.

Most of the scores of vehicles which ordinarily pass through and are loaded here daily stayed off the highways or were left idle in trucking yards, police said.

Meanwhile striking truck drivers from Hamilton and other southwestern Ontario centres picketed trucking yards here.

At nearby Niagara Falls, strikers from Hamilton picketed all the city's trucking companies and Niagara Falls drivers refused to cross their lines to get in to work.

The last to close was Kingsway Transport, which announced at 10:15 this morning that it would move no more freight today. Only perishable loads were passing through picket lines.

Steelworkers Union Backs Striking Miners

TIMMINS (CP)—William Mahoney of Toronto Sunday night told 750 striking Northern Ontario gold miners the 1,200,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) have pledged support.

Mr. Mahoney, assistant to Canadian director Charles Millard of the steel union, said that at a Pittsburgh conference officials of the steel union assured the union's Canadian arm that the entire international membership will provide assistance.

Movie Pioneer Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Gore, 77, movie industry pioneer and founder of the Fox west coast chain of theatres, died Sunday. Gore, who amassed a fortune in the movie industry, also was the original franchise holder in the First National Pictures Co., now known as Warner Brothers.

WINS BY THREE—Peterborough Golf and Country Club member Jim Clarkson won the city medal golf play championship Sunday when he scored a 73 and 79 for a total of 152. Bill Moore, of the Kawartha Club, placed second with a 75 and 80. Twenty-seven golfers, of the 16 qualifiers for the clubs' championships, took part, playing the first 18 holes at the Peterborough links and the last 18 at Kawartha. Lachine Club Wins Canoe Championship

By PETE REILLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Lachine Racing Canoe Club of Lachine, Que., Sunday won the club championship at the first North American canoe regatta ever staged. The cream of American and Canadian paddlers fought it out for top honors at Centre Island.

Canadian paddlers amassed a total of 36 points against 12 for the Americans. In all, 13 clubs were represented, nine of them Canadian.

Don Stringer of Sudbury, racing in an old-style 16-foot "peanut" shell, used it to good advantage against the longer kayaks in the single blade singles event. Stringer raced home with room to spare over Don Bingham of Samoset Canoe Club, West Roxbury, Mass.

Stringer, who copped the Canadian Canoe Association title in the same event Aug. 11 at Ottawa, took the lead half way through the 1,000-metre distance and stayed there.

SMITH TAKES SINGLES

The double blade singles was won by Bob Smith of Lachine, who holds the CCA title for the event.

The American team of Don Bingham and George Byers, Samoset club, took the single blade tandem event in a close finish over Tom Hodgson and Bill Stevenson if Island Canoe Club, Toronto.

The Sudbury boat of Al Duval, Rusty Hubbs, Louis Lukanovitch and Tony Petrovitch came home half a length in front of Island in the final event—the double blade fours. This was Sudbury's second first, and enabled them to tie with Island at 10 points for second place in the team aggregate.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The main event at our bowling greens this week will be the Selkirk Trophy. It is purely a local competition and provides plenty of fun and interesting bowling. Ches Mowry is supervising this tournament and he asks for the co-operation of the bowlers.

Monday night's draw appears on Page 38 of the schedule book, and Tuesday night's on Page 39. These games commence at seven o'clock sharp.

The Thursday night games — when all rinks entered play the final game—are called for 7:30 o'clock. Please be on time.

Just by way of a change the ladies skipped the rinks in the "Family Hour" tournament Saturday night and it proved to be a big success. The winning skips were Mrs. C. Turbull, Mrs. W. Wilson and Mrs. J. Adams.

Words of wisdom: "It is always safe to learn, even from our enemies—seldom safe to instruct, even our friends."

No-Hitter For Wade

Dodgers took an 8-1 bantam baseball win Saturday over Maple Leafs, as Wade hurled a nine-inning no-hit game, fanning 15 and walking but two in a grand slab showing. His mates booted one while Leafs kicked a couple. Dodgers piled up 12 hits in scoring a run each in the first and third innings, and two apiece in the second, fifth and seventh heats. Leafs got their run in the second on two walks and an error. Rowe whiffed nine and issued three free tickets from the Leafian mound. Kimball conked a homer and Griffin a triple for the winners. Native Dancer Scores Easy Victory

By OLLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred Vanderbilt has proved it's more profitable to own a horse than bet on one—especially when the horse is Native Dancer.

The Dancer's easy victory in Saturday's Travers at Saratoga Springs was his 17th in 18 starts. But Vanderbilt, trainer Bill Winfrey and jockey Eric Guerin probably are the only ones who have fattened their bank accounts to any great degree.

And its likely to be the same story Saturday, when the grey son of Polynesian goes after the $75,000 added American Derby at Chicago's Washington Park. There's nothing in the midwest that figures to give the Dancer a serious argument. At least there wasn't on his previous trip west, when he won the Arlington Classic by nine lengths.

The $18,850 Native Dancer picked up in winning the 1¼ mile Trabers by 5½ lengths boosted his total earnings to $67,470, fourth on the all-time money bags lists behind Citation, Stymie and Armed.

It is customary for the jockey to receive 10 per cent of all stake winnings. And it's fairly likely that Vanderbilt turned a nice chunk of the colt's gleanings over to Winfrey.

But the $2 better can't point to any such windfall. If you had wagered $2 straight on the Dancer in each of his 18 starts you would be just $12.60 richer. That includes the two bucks you would have lost when he ran second to Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby.

Only in his first race, when he paid $4.80 for $2, has the big grey been held at more than even money.

Parkdale Victorious Over "B" Cricketers

On Saturday the local "B" Cricketers met Parkdale "B" of Toronto at Nichols Oval and a well-contested game resulted in a win for Parkdale by 5 wickets. The score was Peterborough B, 85; Parkdale 91 for 5 wickets.

The best bowler was Smillie, 5 for 20.

On Parkdale going to bat they quickly lost a wicket for 3 but subsequent batsmen did better with R. Garton scoring 35 and E. Pickup 14, and the score was 64 for 5 wickets. Then a partnership between Tanckert 18 and Hutchinson 9 won the match for Parkdale by 5 wickets.

California Golfer Noses Out Marlene

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart hopes to return a compliment to the Americans next week.

Her dreams of three straight national titles shattered by a 2 and 1 defeat in the Canadian women's open golf tournament on Saturday by gum-chewing, music-loving Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif. the Fonthill kid sharpened up today for the U.S. national at Brookline, Mass., Aug. 24-25. She is determined to become the first Canadian to win the event.

The 19-year-old whiz kid made a big bid to add the Open to her 1953 British Open and Canadian Close championships but an off-color short game bogged her down in the 36-hole final against the American. She went over regulation figures for the second time in the week-long tournament, three-putting two holes—just enough to spell defeat.

She walked off the 35th green, where the match ended, with a smile on her face, but it was forced. She just couldn't reach the heights of previous rounds when she charged from behind to keep alive Canada's chances of returning the title to this country.

LOVE A CHAMPION

And Saturday's match proved an old theory, that everybody loves a champion. With the game over, the record-breaking gallery of 5,000 thronged for a close-up peek at the honey-blonde Californian.

They had swarmed over the 6,225-yard London Hunt Club course to see Marlene win the title for the second time in three years and possibly stage another of her dramatic come-from-behind finishes that highlighted the week-long tournament. After congratulating the winner, Marlene walked off towards the clubhouse almost alone.

The result was a big surprise to the experts. The American, lost in the shuffle and with only a corporal's guard following her during the week, went ahead early in the match and dictated play most of the way.

She was one-up at the end of the morning 18 which both played up on the 130-yard 22nd and lost the next two holes to make it all square. She went ahead for keeps in five-over-par 82, made it two-on the 27th, added another on the 28th and the trophy was hers with another on the 33rd—three up and three to go.

Marlene made a gallant bid to stay in the game with a birdie on the 410-yard par-five 34th but a half on the next hole ended it and the American, who listens to popular music before each match to soothe her nerves, had won her first major tournament.

Marlene, possibly the gamest competitor golf has seen in Canada, "made" this tournament. She was the lone Canadian given a chance to withstand a strong challenge from the United States and the rating was borne out.

Drawn against the class of the invaders, the former caddy outfought them to a standstill until the final. She won on the 19th over Pat O'Sullivan, a veteran campaigner from Orange, Conn., after spotting the American three holes at the end of nine in the second round.

She brushed past Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., the defending champion, 2 and 1 in the quarter-final and entered the final with a bristling one-up decision over Pat Lesser. The Seattle girl held a three-up lead at the 14th and Marlene knocked her to the sidelines by taking four straight holes in a hair-raising finish.

Sets Hydroplane Course Record

GRAND ISLAND, N.Y. (AP)—Bernard Daoust of Lachine, Que., piloted his hydroplane at a speed of 72.13 miles an hour Saturday to set a course record at the Buffalo Launch Club's two-day powerboat regatta.

Daoust, at the helm of his "Canada Maid," was winner of the second heat in the 266-cubic-inch hydroplane event. The previous record for the 2½-mile Niagara river course was 68.2 mph, set in 1950 by Art Hatch, of Hamilton, Ont.

Daoust was disqualified in the first heat of the event, which was won by Francis Alvigne of Montreal in "Escapade."

In Sunday's events Dave Belfie of Gananoque, Ont., took second in the 135-cubic - inch hydroplane event. Irv Daus of Buffalo was first.

Wins Canoe Classic

SHAWINIGAN FALS, Que. (CP)—The team of Henri Goyette and Ovila Denomme of Grande Anse, Que., won the 100-mile international canoe classic during the week-end for the second straight year in record time. They covered the distance on the St. Maurice River from La Tuque, to Shawinigan Falls in nine hours, 55 minutes and 44 seconds, bettering last year's time by nearly one hour.

Middlecoff, Wall Tied For First

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff and Art Wall Jr., came home with seven-under-par 65s Sunday to tie for first place with 265 totals in the $15,000 Fort Wayne open golf tournament.

Middlecoff, a veteran tournament campaigner, and Wall, a 25-year-old in his second season on the circuit who never has won a major meet, are to play 18 holes today.

The 265 scores were four strokes under the record for the tournament, set by Jim Ferrier of San Francisco in 1951.

AP Photographer Tells Story Of Imprisonment By Chinese

(Editors' note: Frank Noel, Associated Press photographer, is a free man again after more than 32 months as a prisoner of the Chinese Reds in North Korea. Now in Tokyo for medical and dental treatment necessitated by his long captivity, Noel has collaborated with AP correspondent Olen Clements to tell of some of the things he and his fellow Americans saw and endured as prisoners of war.)

By FRANK NOEL
As told to Olen Clements

TOKYO (AP)—Life as a prisoner of the Chinese Communists was a thing of doubt and fear—doubt of what our captors would do to us next, and fear that an incautious word might be overheard by some fellow prisoners who had become an informer.

There is a strange thing about all the Communists I have met. They trust no one — especially a fellow Communist. Somehow they managed to instil this same feeling of distrust into their prisoners, even though those prisoners had fought bravely side by side before being captured.

Some few men turned informers. Others, in the constant questioning by the Communists, said things the Communists did not like.

As a result, lots of us went into the "hole,"—a cell in which a man could neither stand nor stretch.

THE HOLE

One particularly bad hole was reserved for prisoners the Reds hated most. When you went into that hole, you stayed for weeks without ever leaving it, even to go to the latrine. You sat and slept in your own filth.

In winter you froze, day and night; in summer you sweltered. A little food was thrown in once in a while, and a Chinese guard was on duty at all times.

Many of us spent days, weeks, months, in the hole, simply as punishment for not thinking the way the Communists wanted us to think.

A Red prison is one of the cruelest forms of torture ever devised by man.

There are still Americans up there—some of them driven insane in prison.

I am sure there will be some of them there when the Chinese say repatriation has been finished. These men will be a club which the Reds will hold over our heads in the post-armistice political conference.

PEOPLE SAID FRIENDLY

I was captured Nov. 30, 1950. In the early days of my imprisonment, the Chinese took some American officers into Antung, Manchuria. I know of one who said the people on the streets there were very friendly.

So far as I know, all of these Americans were soon returned to North Korea, but there are other Americans today in Chinese territory. They are the ones who swallowed the Communist line and chose not to come back with the rest of us.

Not all of them, however, are there of their own volition, I am sure.

I know of one man who is among seven who left us at prison camp No. 5 when the armistice was signed. Just two months ago this man and I planned a new escape attempt.

I had saved and scrounged some food, about 10 pounds of hard candy, 5 fountain pens and a wrist watch. The pens and watch would have served us better than money if we had gotten out. They were given to me by some of the sick and wounded Americans who were exchanged last April.

Our escape plan did not jell because the armistice came before we were ready. Yet this man who planned it with me did not come back with the rest of us. I will never understand why. He must be under some form of pressure from the Communists or from the "Progressives,"—as the turncoat prisoners were called.

I spent many dreary months as a prisoner in Pyoktong, North Korea.

It was there that I saw two Russian pilots who had been shot down in fights with American jet planes.

Russians were flying MiG jets against the Allies all through the Korean war.

There were many other Russians engaged in the Korean war.

I saw Russian truck drivers, Russian engineers, Russian intelligence agents, and a headquarters that the Russians maintained in Chonchong.

The Russian language is taught as the second language in North Korean schools.

When I was in Chonchong on a picture-making trip, I saw the Russian headquarters.

These are some of the things I saw and experienced in the long months of captivity.

One of the things I have learned at my present age, 48, is that a man can endure almost anything.

Mark S. Burnham Last Of Line Of Pioneer Family

The last direct male descendant of the district's pioneering family of Burnham, Mark Stanley, died at his home farm "Engleburn" on Sunday following a short illness.

He was born at the farm 80 years ago, eldest son of the late Zaacheus Burnham and Martha Fowlis, and lived there all his life.

Mr. Burnham farmed for more than 60 years and took an active interest in it until six months ago. He was a quiet man and took no part in public life though he represented the County of Peterborough on the Board of Education for about ten years and was former trustee of S.S. No. 12 for many years. His two younger brothers, Thomas Henry and George Clarence Burnham, predeceased him.

He leaves his wife, the former Mary Frances Erskine, and two sisters, Miss Florence Burnham and Mrs. Annie Nickels, both of this city. Mr. Burnham was a life-long member of St. Luke's Anglican Church, whose property was donated and parish formed by his grandfather and namesake, the Rev. Mark Burnham.

The body is resting at his home and funeral service will be conducted at St. Luke's Church on Wednesday at 2 p.m. Canon W. J. Gilling will officiate. Honorary pallbearers will be Sheriff John Harstone, Heber Rogers, Dr. Gordon Langley, Fred Hills, J. D. Collins, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Charles S. Brown and Albert Roberts. Active pallbearers, all neighboring farmers, will be Low Van der Zwaag, Fred Truman, Clarke McKinley, William Brown, John Walsh and Kenneth Petrie. Burial will be in the family plot at Little Lake cemetery.

Plane Lost, 4 Missing

HALIFAX (CP)—A single-engine float-equipped plane carrying the pilot and three passengers is missing on a flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, to St. Anthony, Newfoundland.

RCAF search and rescue officials here said the plane, owned by Boriel Airways of St. Felicien, Que. was last heard from shortly after it left Goose Bay Saturday.

Practising Doctor Wins Flying Trials

KINGSTON (CP)—A 36-year-old practising physician won the St. Lawrence zone flying trials here Saturday and will compete at Quebec Sept. 25 for the Webster Memorial Trophy, the award for Canada's top amateur pilot.

Dr. William A. Young, vice-president of the Kingston Flying Club, scored 2,295.4 points out of a possible 3,000 on his flying and navigation tests. Second was Orla Larson of Kingston with 2,247.4.

Out Of Gas, Man Rescued

PORT DOVER (CP)—A handkerchief tied to a fishing rod as a distress signal brought rescuers Sunday to 45-year-old William Weese of Hamilton as he drifted in his out-of-fuel motorboat on Long Point Bay in Lake Erie.

The 18-foot craft ran out of gas while Weese was heading home. Weese dropped the anchor but it dragged in the high wind.

After the boat had been drifting for five hours, H. R. McKellar of Hagersville spotted the improvised distress signal when Weese was about five miles off Port Dover.

McKellar used his own boat to tow the motorboat into Port Dover.

In Wreckage 5 Hours

EXETER, Ont. (CP)—Two seriously injured district youths lay unconscious for more than five hours in the wreckage of their car after it struck a bridge on Mount Carmel road early Sunday. Roy McCurdy, driver of the car, received treatment in South Huron Hospital here and then was transferred to Victoria Hospital, London. Reg Morrison is in South Huron Hospital with severe cuts and abrasions.

Kills 2 Rattlesnakes

SEVERN FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Two large rattlesnakes were killed Friday on a road near this community 110 miles north of Toronto by George Baybrooke of Chalk River. He crushed both reptiles with blows from a stick. He said both were more than three feet long.

GUSTY GOING—Billowing sails dotted Lake Erie off Put-In-Bay, O., as the three-day Interlake Yachting Association Regatta got under way. Competition was in all sailing classes, with schooners and cruisers first to have their mainsails hoisted.

Swept Overboard Official Drowns

TORONTO (CP) — Col. J. C. Law, general agent for the Wabash Railroad here, was drowned in Lake Ontario Friday a few miles east of the city when he was swept overboard from his 23-foot yawl during a storm.

A sailing companion, Dr. Gordon Allan, 50, Toronto dentist, was picked up late Sunday night after two days in the boat which sprang a leak soon after the accident. Suffering from sunburn and shock, Dr. Allan said he had been bailing the boat every hour since Col. Law was swept overboard. Col. Law was the only one of the two who knew anything about sailing, he said.

Jack Norton of suburban Leaside, out in his motor boat, found the yawl drifting without its mainsail.

UC Minister Dies

NEWMARKET (CP)—Rev. Robert T. McMath, 60, retired minister of Newmarket United Church, died Saturday. Born in Northern Ireland, he came to Canada in 1920. Before coming to Newmarket in 1937, he served at Perth, Alverton, Que., and Montreal. He retired in 1942.

Report Russia Has Chain Of Guided Missile Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The well-informed magazine, Aviation Age, said today Soviet Russia has built a chain of launching bases for guided missiles, extending from Finland to the Black Sea and from Archangel to northeastern Siberia.

It said these sites are capable of being trained on targets in Western Europe, Alaska and the United States.

The technical aviation publication said some of the most important bases are in the Riga area of the former Baltic state of Latvia. It said installations at Gipka and on the islands in the Bay of Riga are aimed at the north Swedish mining centre of Kiruna.

AIMED AT BALTIC

The magazine also reported that:

Numerous bases along the Lithuanian coast and on the peninsula jutting out from the Kalingrad area are all aimed apparently either at Sweden or out over the Baltic.

Bases still under construction farther to the west, mostly on Rugen Island, are aimed at Denmark's Bornholm Island, athwart the entrance to the Baltic.

Some bases, including those at Koberg-Deep and Henken-Hagen, have experimental firing ranges extending all the way to Saaremaa Island off the Estonian coast, about 400 miles. These missiles, launched in the opposite direction, could reach the Ruhr industrial region of West Germany.

Festival Has Sell-Out For Last Week

STRATFORD (CP)—Tickets for the final week of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival have been sold and the box-office has been closed.

Festival officials announced this week's sell-out following a meeting of the board of directors Saturday. They said more than 53,600 persons have seen the two plays—"Richard III" and "All's Well That Ends Well" since the festival began in July and receipts total some $200,000.

Festival president H. A. Showalter said no decision has yet been reached on the plays to be presented next year.

Attending the meeting were Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, and CBC television producer J. Mavor Moore of Toronto.

Clever Forger

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—A forger who obtained $18,000 by signing cheques on Auckland banks was so skilled that depositors as well as bank officers were deceived. One man whose signature was forged picked a false cheque as his own and rejected his genuine signature as a forgery.

Roosevelt Jr. Attacks Niagara Power Monopoly

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (Dem.-Lib.-N.Y.) Sunday attacked the proposal to give five U.S. companies the right to develop Niagara power and said if it succeeds this city "will be practically a ghost town" within five years.

"If the hydro-electro power of Niagara Falls is turned over to them for development," Roosevelt said, "there will be a steady exodus of industry from the American to the Canadian side."

He said Niagara Falls, Ont., would become "a thriving, prosperous metropolis."

His remarks were in a talk prepared for the annual picnic of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union (CIO).

ATTACKS BILL

Roosevelt came into the congressional district of Representative William E. Miller (Rep.-N.Y.) to attack Miller's bill to licence five New York companies to develop the falls.

"Niagara Falls is the people's resource," he said. "It does not belong to any private power company and it should not be given to a monopolistic combination of five power companies."

Roosevelt disputed the companies' statement that they would pay $9,000,000 a year in U.S. federal taxes.

He said the "give-a-way, grab-a-way and steal-a-way" Republican administration in Washington probably would allow the companies to wipe off almost $150,000,000 in federal taxes to build the project.

Urged To Revive Protestant Faith

SIMCOE (CP)—A group of some 2,500 Royal Black Knights of Ireland representing many parts of Western Ontario were urged Sunday to give all support possible to their churches in an effort to revive the Protestant faith.

"We must be the stimulant to stir them up to a more aggressive and virile Protestantism," said Most Worshipful Brother A. S. Brooks of St. Catharines, grand master, grand black chapter, Ontario West.

Lost Child Hungry

MANIWAKI, Que. (CP) — "I'm hungry."

That's all two-year-old Viany Varin had to say Sunday when found asleep under a clump of bushes two miles from his home here. He wandered away Saturday while playing and four members of a 200-man search party found him after a 24-hour search.

Bus Strikes Car Then Careens Into Farm House

BROCKVILLE—(CP)—A Colonial Coach Lines bus piled into the rear of a parked car near here early today, skidded across a ditch and crashed into a farm house. Three sleeping car passengers were hurt but there were no injuiries aboard the bus. The bus, bound from Toronto to Montreal, hit the automobile on No. 2 highway about four miles west of Brockville. The car had pulled up beside the highway while its occupants rested. The injured:

Harold Good, 34, driver of the car, who suffered shoulder injuries; his 11-year-old son, George, who received head injuries; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Cromier, 51, who suffered lacerations and shock. They are from Langstaff, about seven miles north of Toronto, and were taken to hospital here.

Two other passengers in the car escaped uninjured. They were Good's seven-year-old twin sons. The family was heading for New Brunswick to visit relatives. Mrs. Good and an infant son were at home at the time of the accident.

It was not known how many passengers were on the bus, driven by Hubert Somerville, 29, of Kingston.

CAR IN DITCH

The accident happened at 3 a. m. on a four lane stretch of road. The car was driven 300 feet along the highway and ended up in a ditch.

The bus careened across the road, hit a parked truck and ended up against a house owned by George O'Hara. The bus ripped some shingles from the one-storey dwelling.

Passengers were served refreshments at the O'Hara home. Another bus was sent from Kingston and they continued on their trip.

A serious accident occurred July 31 about 35 miles east of here when a Colonial bus crashed into the rear of a parked truck and plunged into the Williamsburg canal. Twenty persons lost their lives.

Hungary Frees UK Businessman Goes To Austria

NICKELSDORF, Austria (AP)—Edgar Sanders, British businessman jailed by Communist Hungary for nearly four years as a spy, rode across into Austria today a free man at 12:59 p. m. (7:59 a. m. EDT).

The Red Hungarian government pardoned the 47-year-old Briton last night and expelled him from the country where he and American Robert Vogeler were sentenced in February, 1950, on charges of espionage and sabotage. Vogeler was released in April, 1951.

Like Vogeler, Sanders came across the frontier to freedom at Nickelsdorf, a little Austrian border station. Russian tanks on manoeuvres and Austrian farm combines cluttered the narrow road on the Austrian side of the frontier.

Sanders crossed the frontier in a car of the British legation in Budapest.

LOOKED PALE

He looked pale, wore his customary glasses and a grey suit.

Shortly after Sanders crossed, the Italian legation car bearing Vincenze Sciotto, an Italian, also reached Austria.

Sciotto was convicted of espionage and sentenced to four years in prison in 1951.

An Italian foreign ministry spokesman in Rome earlier today declined to comment upon Sciotto. Spokesman said that publicity on the case might harm members of Sciotto's family who are still in Hungary.

The spokesman said the ministry had known of Sciotto's arrest and that the Italian government had sought repeatedly to have him freed. The spokesman said Sciotto was employed by a Hungarian construction company.

WAVES TO REPORTERS

Sanders did not get out of the car when it stopped at the frontier. Sciotto covered his face with his hand as he sat in the back seat of the Italian car, attempting to avoid photographers.

Shah And Wife Fly To Europe

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—The Shah of Iran and Empress Soraya left Baghdad today by British Overseas Airways plane for Europe.

The airliner carrying the Iranian royal couple was due in Rome on its way to London, but it was not known whether they would stop in Rome or go on to Britain.

The departure of the 34-year-old ruler and his wife for Europe came as a surprise here. They had been quoted as telling Iraq parliamentary leaders who visited them Monday that they would leave today for a two-day visit to Moslem holy shrines at Kerbal and Najaf in central Iraq.

On their unexpected arrival here Sunday, the government had installed the couple in an official guest house and King Faisal had called on them.

The warm welcome extended the fugitive rulers brought a quick implied warning from neighboring Iran. Mossadegh's government in a note to Iraq said: "The Iraqui government is expected to take sufficient care to avoid any kind of unexpected political incident between two friendly and neighboring countries."

Parley Failure Strike Certain

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Contract negotiations between the big Noranda copper and gold mine and its 1,650 employees have broken down. A strike appears a certainty.

Officials of the company and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), representing the workers, met for only 10 minutes Monday. The conference broke up and no further talks were planned before Thursday, earliest date on which the union can legally strike.

In a vote held last Thursday and Friday, most employees voted for a walkout. Recommendations of an arbitration board were released Aug. 6, and the earliest the union can go on strike is two weeks after the recommendations are made public.

After Monday's meeting, the union said company representatives announced they would not consider further negotiations unless the union withdraws its demands for the check-off.

The union is seeking a 30-cent increase above the present starting rate of $1.05 an hour, a 44-hour week and other concessions. They now work 48 hours.

Disaster Expert To Handle Evacuation

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada's No. 1 disaster relief expert prepared to leave Quebec City today by air to direct evacuation preparations in northeastern Quebec's biggest forest fire in 30 years—if the move should become necessary.

Col. Edwards Reynolds, national director of disaster services for the Canadian Red Cross, said he is flying to Forestville, centre of the blaze area, to make sure all preparations have been made for mass evacuations.

115 Traffic Deaths

TORONTO —(CP)—Traffic accidents took 115 lives in Ontario during July. It was a record for the month. The toll was boosted by the July 31 crash of a Colonial Coach Lines bus which hit a truck and plunged into the Williamsburg canal near Cornwall and killed 20 persons. The worst July for traffic accidents previously was in 1952.

Truck Driver Says Strikers Cripple Truck

CHATHAM (CP)—A non-union truck driver told police that striking drivers crippled his truck Monday night after other strikers persuaded him to leave the vehicle to attend a meeting.

"When the strikers stopped me and asked me to go to the union hall, I agreed," said Doug Dalgleish, 31, Kingsway Transport Limited driver. "After all, I've got a wife and two kids. I wasn't going to get my head bashed in for nothing."

Dalgleish said that while he was at union headquarters, hose connections between his cab and trailer were broken, the trailer was taken behind the Kingsway firm's building and air was let out of some tires.

Ontario provincial police made no comment on the complaint.

The incident was the second in this district since more than 1,500 truck drivers went on a wage strike a month ago in southwestern Ontario. About two weeks ago a flash bomb was thrown in the window of a transport cab, injuring the driver.

Reports from Southwestern Ontario indicated that striking members of the General Truckdrivers Union are succeeding in their attempt to squeeze most of the area's road transport off the road.

With many Niagara peninsula drivers falling into line to support the union's "no business" campaign, overnight reports showed that road transport was only a fraction of what it was a week ago.

In the Hamilton beach area, where 40 and 50-truck convoys were being escorted by the police last week, the average convoy had only three or four trucks.

Labor Minister Daley of Ontario will meet with union representatives and officials of the 36 companies involved at Toronto Wednesday in an attempt to settle the dispute.

Democrat Leader E. J. Flynn Dies

DUBLIN (AP) — Edward J. Flynn, American Democratic party leader, died in hospital here Monday night.

The 61-year-old Democratic national committeeman and leader in the Bronx, New York, had been vacationing here.

Give French Strikers Ultimatum

Paratroopers Guard Paris As Workers Ordered To Return

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel threw down the gauntlet before France's strikers today, telling them he would not negotiate no more until they went back to work.

The Christian (Catholic) workers Federation (CFTC) called on its members to continue their walkout. The Socialist Workers Force (FO) said they would talk the matter over.

The deadline hour passed this morning without any union move to get the strikers back to work.

BRING IN PARATROOPERS

The government brought three companies of tough paratroopers —about 500 men—into the capital to cope with any violence. But a government source denied reports that tanks had been rushed to the city.

The premier served his ultimatum in a radio speech Monday night. Demanding that the union workers who have snarled France's communications and transportation for almost two weeks report back to work this morning, he said:

"The government has henceforth definitely fixed its line of conduct. There will be no more talks with those who do not return to work Wednesday.

"There will be nothing more left but a vast national effort directed toward the necessity of assuring the country's essential services—no matter what the cost."

Meanwhile, the national assembly president, Edouard Herriot, called upon the assembly steering committee to meet Friday to decide whether the lawmakers should be recalled from vacation for a special session.

Communists and Socialists have demanded parliamentary intercession. It is considered possible the government might even be forced out of office.

A Communist threat to spread the strike to the big Renault automobile factory appeared to have flopped today. The plant reopened this morning after a vacation shutdown with machines humming, though fewer than the usual 37,000 workers were on hand.

The strike of postal, telephone and telegraph workers continued to tie up communications for the 13th day. Railroads and public services still were virtually paralyzed also by walkouts. Coal mines were shut down.

DIES FROM WOUND

PEMBROKE (CP) — Ernest Barnes, 45, of nearby Petawawa village, shot in the back last July 25 by a stray bullet, died in hospital here today.

Police who investigated the shooting said Wallace Lance was shooting at birds in the garden of his neighboring home. A stray bullet apparently hit Barnes. Lance was charged with wounding.

Kidnap Cashier Make Him Open Vault At Bank

FLORAL PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Daring gunmen grabbed an assistant cashier on the lawn of his home this morning, forced him to open his bank's vault and escaped with $160,000.

They took the cashier with them, but dumped him out a few miles away.

Eric Gronewall, 44, told police that as he was leaving his Bellemore home to go to a branch of the Franklin National Bank, a man stepped out of the bushes.

He had a gun and a canvas bag. They got into Gronewall's car and drove to the bank. Gronewall became aware another car was following.

MARCHED INTO BANK

Arriving at the bank, the gunman marched Gronewall into the bank, forced him to open the vault and after taking the money, marched him back to his car again.

They drove to Bellerose, Queens. Gronewall was told to get out. He never got a good look at the man in the other car, he said. His own car was found a short distance away after he notified police of the holdup.

Russia Wants 5 Neutrals At Korean Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(CP)—Russia proposed today that the Korean peace conference be made up of five neutrals in addition to the six countries who took part in the actual fighting. The Soviet resolution called for inclusion of the following countries:

The United States, Britain, France, Russia, Communist China, India, Poland, Sweden, Burma, North Korea and South Korea.

The Soviet move came as the general assembly's 60-nation political committee rejected a Russian demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to take part in the current UN Korean debate.

The vote on the two countries was taken separately. The proposal to invite Communist China was 14 in favor, 34 against and nine abstaining. The vote against inviting North Korea was 18 to 34 with seven abstaining.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y Vishinsky warned before the decision that "no solution is possible in their absence."

He also disclosed that the Soviet Union wants the forthcoming Korean peace conference to include a broader membership than the actual countries who participated in the fighting, as the United States has been demanding.

Immediately after the vote, U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. opened the general debate with a

Ask Canada Take Greeks

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) Hugh Gibson, director of the intergovernmental committee for European migration, today urged Canada and Australia to take some of the 100,000 persons left homeless by the earthquakes on the Ionian islands off Greece.

Gibson has cabled the two governments stating that his organization is ready to facilitate such action in every way possible, including free transport from Greece to Canada or Australia.

In the first seven months of this year the committee helped 1,789 to emigrate—most of them going to Australia and Brazil.

The appeal will receive the government's "sympathetic consideration," an immigration department official said today at Ottawa.

Deputy Treasurer Will Step Down

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Chester S. Walters will step down from the position of deputy provincial treasurer Aug. 24 when he reaches his 75th birthday, Premier Frost announced Monday night.

Dr. Walters, who has held the post 18 years, will continue as finance controller but Hugh E. Brown will take over the executive duties of deputy minister.

Dr. Walters, appointed by the late Liberal premier, Mitchell F. Hepburn, held the office 18 years, longer than any deputy treasurer since Confederation. He served under six premiers and three provincial treasurers.

While announcing the new appointment, Premier Frost was celebrating his own anniversary as provincial treasurer. He said Ontario's financial problems now are as large as those of all Canada before the First World War.

Fly In 50 Helpers From Rimouski To Help Fight Blaze

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Fifty men flown in from Rimouski were rushed today into the threatened village of Ste. Therese du Colombier, east of a huge forest fire burning north of this St. Lawrence river north shore town.

"Two fires were deliberately set east of Ste. Therese," Maurice Vezina, assistant manager of the Laurentian Forest Protective Association, said. "Provincial police are investigating."

P. W. MacKay, manager of the association in Quebec, confirmed malicious setting of the two fires but declined to give details.

"I prefer not to say anything further on this matter at the moment," he said.

ADVANCE ON TOWN

Two new fires, which merged about three miles east of Ste. Therese, broke out Monday night and the tiny lumber town was today battling blazes to its east and west. The new outbreaks raged through three square miles of timber land. About 400 men from the village battled the outbreaks which have threatened 10 settlers' homes in outlying farming strips.

The major fire, burning 10 miles north of this St. Lawrence river lumber centre, 200 miles east of Quebec City, was reported about 10 miles from Ste. Therese. Winds in the area died down and no immediate danger to the village was foreseen.

Townsfolk were worried but not alarmed by the turn of events.

Westinghouse Work Stoppage

HAMILTON (CP)—Several thousand employees at the main plant of Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited resumed work at approximately 12 o'clock noon today after halting work for an hour in a protest against the unloading of trucks driven by non-striking drivers.

The employees, estimated at 1,900 by the company and at 3,000 by union officials, walked off the job after five employees of the wire department were suspended for refusing to unload the trucks.

A meeting of the workers was held immediately but, except for a few hundred from the air brake division, all were back at their jobs shortly after. Production is expected to be back to normal by Wednesday morning.

On being advised of this work stoppage, Eric Taylor, chairman of the Ontario labor department's conciliation board, currently hearing evidence in a contractual dispute between the company, and Local 504, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, immediately adjourned the hearing.

Mr. Taylor stated it was unfair to both parties to attempt to reach agreement of contract matters in an atmosphere disturbed by this action.

U.K. Scores 38 Runs For One Wicket

LONDON (Reuters) — England scored 38 runs for one wicket before the close of play in today's final test match with Australia.

They had dismissed the Australians for 162 in the second innings and now need only 94 runs to win.

The English side was all out for 306 just at lunch time in the third day of the match. The total was in reply to a first-inning stand of 275 by the Australians.

Chinese Thumb Noses at Blockade

Use Canadian Ships Carry War Goods

Written for The Canadian Press By F. K. WU

HONG KONG (CP)—The seven Canadian-owned Ming Sung motor vessels have been converted from passenger to cargo ships and are being used by the Chinese Communists to transport war materials.

Reports from Canton say the celebrated ships, built in Canada in 1947 for the Ming Sung Industrial Company Ltd., are known to be operating in international waters outside Hong Kong and could be intercepted by Canadian destroyers visiting the British colony. Students of international law here state that the Canadian warships would be entitled to seize the ships if they are found on the high seas.

(Government officials at Ottawa declined comment on the Canton reports that the ships are being used by the Chinese Reds to transport war materials. They also refused to say whether Canadian warships had the right to seize them on the high seas under international law.

("It's too complicated a legal question to make any comment on," said an official of the external affairs department.

DECLINE COMMENT

(The Navy at Ottawa also declined comment on the legality of Canadian warships seizing the Ming Sung ships. However, a naval spokesman said the three Canadian destroyers now in the Far East could not seize the vessels.

(The destroyers are operating under United Nations command, the Ottawa naval spokesman explained. He was unaware of any seizure order being issued to the three destroyers by the UN.)

The seven vessels became the property of the Caadian government after the collapse of Nationalist China. However, they were rushed to Communist-held Canton in 1951, a move which prevented Canada from taking possession.

The seven ships were built in Canadian shipyards by the Ming Sung company with a $12,750,000 loan from a number of Canadian banks guaranteed by the Chinese Nationalist and Canadian governments. The company and the Chinese government defaulted on principal and interest payments in 1951 and the Canadian government was obliged to carry out its guarantee.

While the Canadian government held the mortgage on the ships, it has rescinded an order-in-council which granted the vessels the right to fly the Canadian flag. However, they still are registered as Canadian ships in the hope that at some future date Canada will be able to collect the mortgages or take possession.

BACK IN SERVICE

The Canton reports say the ships were converted to cargo carriers by the Reds after being idle at Canton for more than a year. The three larger ships, the Fu Men, Yen Men and Yu Men of 3,000 tons each, are carrying strategic goods and military materials between Canton and Peihai, a port on Hainan Island. The four smaller ships, the Shih Men, Chi Men, Lung Men and Chien Men of 1,000 tons each, are operating between Canton and Kuangchowan, also known as Fort Bayard, on the Kwangtung coast about 250 miles southwest of Hong Kong.

Hainan Island, which lies off the coast of South China, is a newly established air and naval base for the joint use of Soviet Russia and Communist China. Fort Bayard, now re-named Chanchiang, is the supply base for the Communist-led Vietminh insurgents in French Indo-China.

Shipping circles here also believe that the vessels are being used to move strategic goods between Canton and an island known as La Sha Wei or Garbage Dump about 25 miles west of Hong Kong.

The island is located outside Chinese territorial waters but few foreign warships are on patrol in this area due to the proximity of Communist shore batteries. It is safe for the ships to make quick dashes between Canton and Garbage Dump, a distance of about 90 miles, without fear of interception by Canadian warships.

Garbage Dump, according to reports here, now is a huge warehouse of war materials and strategic goods shipped to Communist China from Europe.

Ocean-going vessels unload their cargoes on the island. They are then loaded on the Men ships and other vessels for shipment up the Pearl river to Canton. Smaller vessels take their cargoes to the port of Whampoa, 10 miles east of Canton.

Both Canton and Whampoa are connected by railways to central and north China and southwest Kwangsi province as far as the border of French Indo-China.

BIG LOOPHOLE

The Peiping regime is buying or bartering strategic goods from Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Belgium and other countries. The supplies are all landed at Garbage Dump in view of the Hong Kong embargo on the movement of strategic supplies to Red China.

The Communist shipping route to move supplies into Canton and Whampoa is a violation of the United Nations embargo prohibiting the export of strategic goods to Red China.

Since Nationalist China and the Ming Sung company defaulted, the Canadian government has reduced its liability to the banks from $12,750,000 to $10,200,000 as of March 31, 1953.

However, this $2,550,000 reduction in the principal does not represent all government payments to the banks. Interest accounted for an additional $490,163.

Payments to the banks by the government in the 1951-52 fiscal year amounted to $1,432,910, including interest, and to $1,607,252 in 1952-53, a total of $3,040,162. The loan bears interest at the rate of three per cent quarterly and matures in 10 equal annual instalments, the first of which fell due June 30, 1951.

Hunger Big Problem Now

Drop Supplies To Greek Inland Villages

ATHENS (Reuters)—Inland villages, cut off from main centres, have become the main problem for relief workers in the quake-stricken Ionian islands.

Helicopters have been surveying the villages and dropping supplies by parachute but most of them have still not been directly contacted. The helicopters are guiding isolated groups to food dumps.

Hunger is so acute that some villagers have eaten their dogs. Thousands are sleeping out of doors and need blankets and tents to protect them from exposure.

Reliable estimates put the death toll of the quakes at 600, with 800 seriously injured and 1,500 less severely hurt.

In the wrecked towns survivors, wrapped in blankets, huddled together in tents, still convinced the disaster is not over.

First aid centres have been set up for mass inoculation against disease. Some relief workers have had to become midwives, assisting at births amid the ruins.

Fraser, Swanston Gain Votes

CCF Candidate Loses 36 In Official Count

Both Gordon K. Fraser and Max Swanston picked up a number of votes as a result of Monday's official count of ballots cast in the August 10 general election.

Mr. Fraser gained 74 votes and Mr. Swanston gained 43, while Maurice Ketcheson dropped 36 to make the official result:

Fraser (PC)	13,206
Ketchesor (CCF)	1,747
Swanston (Lib.)	10,218

The official result made no difference to Mr. Fraser's winning Peterborough riding.

The job of checking the ballots began Monday at 1:00 p.m. and lasted until 5:54 p m. It was conducted by District Returning Officer Arthur McClellan and election clerk Mrs. M. G. McCartney, with the three candidates or their representatives in attendance.

The difficulty of the task was increased by the fact that officials of a number of polls had not sent in their results in the proper form.

PoWs Report Seeing New Red Planes

By JIM BECKER

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP) — The Communists now fly new twin-jet fighter-bombers in North Korea's skies where they never dared appear in wartime, returning prisoners said Monday.

Several American repatriates also told of seeing a new-type jet fighter smaller than the MiG, mainstay of the Red Air Force.

At least one twin-jet fighter-bomber was spotted on an air base near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang only two days ago. No bomber was safe at any base in North Korea during the war.

Presumably this is the Russian IL-28 which flies close to the speed of sound and can carry the atom bomb. It was sighted in Korea before.

BROKE DEADLINE

It is known the Communists flew swarms of planes into North Korea the night the armistice became effective. Some flew in after the armistice deadline. If they remained based in the north this was a violation of a truce ban against military reinforcements.

U.S. 5th air force radar picked up the flights of Red planes from Manchurian bases to North Korea but at that late stage at night Allied planes were helpless to stop them. Furthermore, Allied night planes had been called to base early lest they violate the truce.

Cpl. Charles W. Jewell of Wilmington, Del., said he saw nine of the jet bombers fly in formation as he passed through Pyongyang and thought the Reds were "showing the people what they had."

The twin-jet undoubtedly is the Russian IL-28, which a reputable source told Associated Press correspondent William C. Barnard last January could fly up to 650 miles an hour. It carries four cannon.

Big Three Agree To Work Anew On Austrian Treaty

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Big Three western powers have agreed to Russia's demand that work be resumed on a comprehensive peace treaty with Austria—if the Soviets are willing to stick to the issues and finish the job. The United States, in a note similar to ones dispatched from London and Paris, said it is willing to shelve the abbreviated treaty which the western countries have been pressing on this understanding:

"That there will be no extraneous issues raised and that the Soviet government is prepared to conclude a treaty for Austria which will insure Austria's political and economic independence."

After more than 200 sessions by deputy foreign ministers of the four countries met with no success in agreeing to a full Austrian treaty, the United States, Britain and France proposed an abbreviated version.

MAIN DIFFERENCE

Main point of difference between the two drafts is that the short form omits a clause calling for the payment to Russia of $150,000,000 for the return of industries which the Soviets are holding on the ground that they belonged to the German Nazi regime.

The notes delivered to the foreign office in Moscow Monday and made public Monday night suggested that diplomats appointed by the western powers and Russians meet in London for talks on the long treaty.

They were in reply to a Russian note of July 30 asking that the western countries drop the short-form treaty, which Russia has contended is a violation of the Big Four agreement made at Potsdam in 1945.

In another note Aug. 4, the Soviets said that "it goes without saying that a possible successful solution of the German problem could also help a solution of the Austrian question."

In reply, Monday's U. S. note said it was assumed this did not mean that hope for an Austrian treaty would be deferred "until other unrelated conditions are met."

Report Pasha Warns French

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The pasha of Marrackech threatened today to turn against the French if they continue to back the sultan of Morocco. Later he softened his tone and said he only wanted to warn the French.

Known for 40 years as France's best friend in this strife-ridden North African protectorate, Pasha Thami el Glaoui is a bitter foe of Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, titular ruler and nominal spiritual leader of all Morocco. The fierce Berber tribesmen who support the pasha were reported ready to ride out of the hills against the sultan at the first command.

The pasha's menacing words were contained in an interview published this morning in a Casablanca paper. Later El Glaoui said he had given the interview over the telephone and that it had been "badly understood and badly interpreted."

Nine Injured In Collision

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Nine St. Thomas and London persons were hurt, some severely, in a head-on collision Monday night of two cars on No. 2 highway near Delaware.

In one car were a St. Thomas couple and their four small children, including a small baby. All were admitted to hospital.

William Mathers, 46, of St. Thomas, suffered multiple fractures, including pelvis and leg; his wife, Katherine, a scalp laceration; their 17-month-old baby, Margaret, a broken leg; sons Richard, 7, and Donald, 5, scalp lacerations, and David, 10, broken arm.

Occupants of the other car, John Matrer, 20, and Joseph Kazmiarczak, 28, both of London, suffered possible broken pelvis and arm, and undetermined injuries.

There is no water in a stream which runs through the area and a tank truck has been sent to the fire carrying 1,000 gallons of water. There is no other source of water in the area.

Most settlers in the village stayed close to their homes to protect them in case the fire reaches the village.

AFRAID OF WIND

A red glow could be seen in the sky. Fear was expressed that a wind blowing from the southeast would carry flames into the village. A trace of a northwest wind was blowing early today.

"A southeast wind, however, would bring rain and that would be welcome," said Leo Durand, a settler, whose wife and 10 children have been evacuated from their home.

Durand's home is at the north-western-most point of Ste. Therese and directly in the path of the huge fire which started 10 days ago about 48 miles north of here.

Durand said settlers hold their crude gas-lit homes as their worthiest possession.

There has been no rain in Ste. Therese since June 5, Mayor Narcisse Tremblay said, and trees and bushes are very dry.

"The land is dry to a depth of three feet and there is no water in the small streams around here."

A shipload of 100 men from Rimouski, across the St. Lawrence river, arrived here today and went immediately to the scene of the major fire to create a fire break. A fire protection official said the fire break will be made as "wide as possible."

Near the fire centre a rain maker from the United States has been unsuccessful so far in attempts to produce artificial rain. From a plane at an altitude of 12,000 feet, more than 200 pounds of dry ice was sprinkled on clouds Monday. Another 400 pounds of dry ice is scheduled to be flown into the area today for new attempts to seed the clouds.

J. H. Merrill, woods manager of the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company which holds large tracts of timber stands in the area, blamed the fire on "criminal carelessness on the part of blueberry pickers."

He said police have launched an investigation to determine the cause of the fire.

The fire has been described by protection officials as the worst disaster in northeastern Quebec during the last 25 years.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 1-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 98 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.78¼, against $2.78 7-16.

Sanders smiled out of the car and waved in reply to the greetings of reporters who shouted: "Welcome to Austria."

Sanders and Sciotto stopped on the Austrian side of the border only a few seconds, then drove toward Vienna.

In London, a foreign office spokesman said no negotiations directly precede Sanders' arrest, but exchanges have been continuing since he was arrested Nov. 21, 1949. The spokesman said his release opens the way for resumption of normal trade, which Britain shut off a month after Sanders was arrested.

Sanders, cousin of film star George Sanders and accountant for the Budapest subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Vogeler, East European representative of I. T. and T., were arrested in November, 1949.

During their trial both Vogeler and Sanders "confessed" their guilt, and both the British and U.S. governments promptly branded the confessions the result of Communist pressure interrogations.

As a result of Sanders' conviction, Britain broke off trade relations with Hungary and the United States also took retaliatory measures.

Hungary recently has shown interest in reopening trade with Britain, and it was presumed the British have readied concessions along this line in exchange for Sanders' release.

The Hungarian announcement of Sanders' pardon implied the action was based on a clemency petition submitted to President Istvan Dobi earlier this month by the Briton's wife, Winifred. She gave her letter of appeal to Hungary's ambassador in London, Imre Horvath, just before his return to Budapest on Aug. 11.

$450,000 In Gold Removed From Ship Sunk During War

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Using modern salvage methods, a British expedition in the last few months has dredged up $450,00 in gold which has lain for more than 10 years in a wrecked liner off the New Zealand coast.

The Liner Niagara, which used to ply between Canada, New Zealand and Australia, was sunk by a German mine off the northern coast of New Zealand during the war.

She was carrying a large quantity of bullion and some years after the wreck an expedition recovered about $6,000,000 worth of the gold by blasting open the bullion room and sending divers down.

NEW DEVICE USED

There remained 35 gold bars not accounted for. The British salvage ship Foremost 17, owned by a firm engaged in world-wide salvage, was sent to New Zealand after work off the Australian coast, in an effort to find the remaining gold.

The ship was equipped with the latest salvage devices, including an "iron man," a cross between a diving suit and a diving bell, capable of working at greater depths and in more adverse circumstances than ordinary diver.

Despite bad weather at the scene of the wreck, the first gold bar was brought up unexpectedly only three days after work began.

It was found that much of the Niagara's superstructure had collapsed with the passage of time and the effects of earlier blasting operations. Extensive use of explosives was necessary to force an approach to the bullion room. Thereafter gold bars were brought up in ones and twos, mostly in pieces of wreckage caught in a grab and hauled to the surface.

By these means 30 of the known 35 bars were recovered from the sea. The remaining five have been abandoned. At least two are known to have fallen into the depths of the vessel during early salvage efforts and the other three may be anywhere in the area round the wreck. Probably they fell or were blasted out during the salvage work and are now lying deeply embedded in the mud and silt of the seabed.

FISHERMAN KNEW BEST

But although scientific modern methods have triumphed in wresting the gold from the sea, science had at least one setback in the search. According to an Auckland fisherman, he saw the salvage ship steaming back and forth at the start of the search looking for the wreck with her echo-sounding devices.

The fisherman told the salvage team they were looking in the wrong place. They denied they could have made a mistake. Their charts were exact and the echo-sounding tests confirmed them. "Well, if you want the Niagara, follow me," the fisherman replied.

With that he chugged off in his little boat and dropped anchor at the exact spot where the wreck was found. He explained he often fished there because fish cluster round a wreck.

Cult Secrets On Samothrace

WASHINGTON—On mile-high Samothrace, set like a huge boulder in the north Aegean Sea, Greek ruins hold secrets of an ancient mystic cult.

Excavation which in 1863 uncovered one of the world's most famous statues, the headless "Winged Victory" now in the Louvre at Paris, have been continued of late by American archeologists, says the National Geographic Society. Recent discoveries have shed new light on the ancient religious center, but some 50 years more of digging lie ahead before the site is fully explored

The ruins, with the largest round building of the ancient Greek world, consist of a walled town and a large sanctuary area on the north coast of Samothrace. They witnessed mystic religious rituals and initiations in honor of the Cabeiri or Great Gods, underworld fertility deities of obscure origin. Scholars still know little about the rites.

The cult attracted attention as early as the fifth century before Christ. It reached its greatest fame in the Hellenistic period following the death of Alexander the Great, when pilgrims flocked to the island to be initiated as a safeguard against misfortune. The cult was still powerful when St. Paul visited Samothrace on his second missionary expedition.

Greek-owned Samothrace is an oval island about 12 miles long and seven miles wide. Of the Aegean Islands, only crete is higher. From the cloud-capped, craggy summit of Mt. Fengari, 5,249 feet high, the sea god Poseidon is supposed to have watched the Trojan War.

The population of Samothrace is about 4,000. Most live in the castle-crowned town of Samothraki, the modern Greenk form of the island's name. The islanders are sponge fishermen and beekeepers, and they also make charcoal from the oak woods that cover mountain slopes. Grain, olives and vegetables are grown on the few fertile patches of land.

In ancient times, Samothrace enjoyed peace and autonomy, partly because of its sacred character and also because the harborless island was of little political importance. In the 15th century, however, conquering Turks carried off most of the population. In 1821, during the Greek war of independence, forces of the Turkish Sultanate again decimated the people of Samothrace. Nazi troops occupied the island in World War II.

German Firm Builds Liners For Israeli

NEW YORK — Two passenger liners, each with accommodations for 200 to 250 passengers, will be constructed for service between New York and Israel, the American Israeli Shipping Co. has announced.

The vessels, of about 8,000 gross tons each, will be built in German shipyards as part of German repatriation funds to the Israeli government. The ships are scheduled to be completed in 1955 and are expected to maintain a bi-monthly service between New York and Haifa with passenger accommodations largely destined for tourist class.

The line is also planning to build an 11,000-ton passenger vessel in a British shipyard for Mediterranean service, but plans for this ship are still in the tentative

Welfare Plans Ruining U.K. Financier Says

LONDON (Reuters)—J. Gibson Jarvie, one of Britain's top financiers, said today the country's welfare program and consequent heavy taxation policies are destroying British business and individual ambition.

Jarvie, chairman of the $12,000,000 United Dominions Trust, addressed an annual meeting of his banking company which provides credit funds for commercial enterprises throughout the Commonwealth.

The government's refusal for the third time to permit his company to increase its capital stung him into one of the most forthright attacks yet from financial quarters on taxation and social welfare measures.

The welfare program, he declared, "is pandering to the shirker and the lazy . . . no one who is capable of feeding himself should be fed or subsidized at the expense of the state."

Declaring that government regulations are throttling free enterprise, he said: "No man can build his fortune out of wages or salary. There is no longer real ambition because there is no longer any possibility of satisfying it.

"The rich are disappearing, but no civilization can exist without them."

Jarvie said taxation burdens have deprived business firms of the needed reserves with which to expand, while the government "squandered" the money on social services.

"Businesses should be free to function on business lines without the restrictions and regulations imposed by planners who know nothing of business," he said.

strong plea that the peace parley be limited to the "two sides" as opposed to the so-called round table idea.

It was on this ground that Lodge opposed the invitation of the Chinese Reds and the North Koreans.

Sir Percy Spender, Australian delegate, backed up Lodge.

The main debate on the Korean peace conference was delayed temporarily by Vishinsky's proposal.

Russia had been expected to demand immediate discussion of Korea in the assembly. However, in Monday's brief opening session Vishinsky merely took notes and said nothing.

This led a highly-placed Canadian spokesman to express the opinion Russia may be approaching the ticklish Korean question with a more conciliatory attitude than she has displayed in the past. The spokesman cannot be identified, but he is one who has seen Vishinsky and other Soviet delegates give forth with violent outbursts on the slimmest pretext on other occasions.

The job of the political committee will not be easy. Biggest question is what countries will attend the political conference which will attempt to work out a peaceful settlement in Korea. Its failure could mean a resumption of the war there and perhaps beyond.

The United States wants the political conference confined to those states which had fighting forces in Korea. Britain, Canada and other Commonwealth countries and some other western European powers favor participation by countries which did not take part in the war, particularly India. India had a medical unit in Korea but no armed forces.

Monday a Russian spokesman came out in support of the course sponsored by Britain, Canada and the others.

Mrs. Winifred Sanders and the three smiling girls took a special chartered plane from London's Crydon airport and said they planned to be back just as soon as they can.

"It's wonderful," Mrs. Winifred Sanders cried at her home in the east coast resort of Frinton as she heard the new by phone that her husband was leaving a Red prison after nearly four years there.

"We have been hoping so long that it's difficult to know what to say now it has come true," she added.

Two Electrocuted At GM Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Two workers were electrocuted Monday as the crane they were working on hit a 40,000-volt high tension wire at the site of the burned-out General Motors plant in suburban Livonia.

The men, part of a crew clearing debris from the area, were guiding a bundle of sheet metal as the crane set it down.

Killed were Walter E. Smith, about 40, and George Trombley, 53.

The plant was virtually wiped out in a $50,000,000 fire last Wednesday.

Car Hits Elderly Bicyclist, Overturns, Driver Unhurt

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A 76-year-old Toronto man, Harry Slater, of 341 Highfield Rd., was seriously injured Monday afternoon when he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle on the highway.

Mr. Slater was riding his bicycle north on Highway 30 about three miles south of Campbellford. A car, driven by Walter F. Elliott, 26, of Campbellford, was also travelling north and was just approaching the slower moving cyclist.

Elliott told police he was almost upon the man on the bicycle when the cyclist swung to the left, apparently to make a U-turn on the highway.

Elliott applied his brakes and swung sharply to the left, the right rear fender of his new model car striking the bicycle and throwing its rider to the roadway.

Elliott's car continued on into the west ditch at the side of the highway and overturned, coming to rest on its roof with the four wheels in the air.

TAKEN TO PETERBOROUGH

Passing motorists did what they could for Mr. Slater and kept him warm with blankets until the arrival of a Campbellord doctor. The injured man was removed from the scene by Bennett's ambulance of Campbellford and taken directly to Peterborough Civic Hospital where his condition today is reported as serious.

Mr. Slater had been staying with relatives at Percy Boom, a short distance away from where the accident happened. Mr. Elliott, driver of the car, was able to crawl from his overturned vehicle uninjured.

Provincial Constable Archie Eady, of Campbellford, who investigated, said no charges would be laid.

Funniest Comedy Of Season Offered By Summer Theatre

The funniest comedy of the season. That's what you get this week at the Summer Theatre. This reviewer candidly says that while some of the comedies earlier in the season could be damned with faint praise, "Will Any Gentleman" as played Monday night can be praised with the biggest laughs of the year.

It is a smart English farce, warmly played. The actors enjoyed themselves; so did the audience, hugely. You cannot waste any reluctant laughs on it; the genuine ones come so fast and easily that your face gets tired crinkling. The audience was, by the way, the largest this year, jamming the Queen Mary auditorium beyond its doors.

HYPNOTIC

The farce has a good sound theatrical basis, hypnotism, and from it the play takes off into romping fun and larks as dippy-winged as ever flew over Peterborough. The hypnotist, Mendoza, is a wonderfully transformed Robert Barclay, unrecognizable to his Summer Theatre fans in either voice or appearance. The fore-curtain prologue sets the mood and direction speedily and well.

Ronald Bailey takes the central role of the bewitched bank man, Henry Stirling, and gives to it his own delicious, gentle and skilled comedy. His fun delights. Harry Geldard is cast as his wild-oat brother Charley and has a wonderful romp, playing as naturally as if he were milled for the part. They are foils to each other's frolic, giving the stage warmth and gaiety and a very pleasant humanity. David Powell is got up as decrepit old Doctor Smith and extracts giggles with every quaver of voice and fuddle of action.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE

Margaret Braidwood is very amusing, done to a T in costume, voice and movement as a proper middle-class wife. A beautifully rendered part. Miss Braidwood's art gets a double exposure—for she also acts her own mother and thus, of course, mother-in-law to harassed and hypnotically-happy Henry. Her transformations are excellent, and every line is landed in the audience's lap at precisely the right moment with precisely the right plop. Charlotte Schrager is turned out as an Angel from the music-hall, gorgeously blonded; attractive, too, without the wig and costume.

Peter McCombe has a hilarious moment at the final curtain. The maid Beryl is played by Barbara Cummings; in this role, too, is the human warmth which gives so much vitality to the farce. Others playing parts are Ron Gould, Don Endicott, Michael Sadlier and Sonia Donaldson.

MASTER-HAND

Two things give the performance its farcial excellence. First, the whole company plays with obvious enjoyment, the timing (difficult to achieve properly in this sort of play) is good, and the spirit, in front of Monday night's audience, was lifted up. The second reason that "Will Any Gentleman" is the best comedy of the year is that it is a good farce, written by Vernon Sylvaine, a master-hand at concocting situations, incorporating fresh quips about recent events, and in skilled, bright dialogue. If there is any smut, it is as polished as chromium. This sort of thing: "We've been engaged for years". "What at?"

The temper of the play is carried out in the costumes (e.g. Henry's hat, the doctor's coat) and the set is good. The dressing-room, first scene, third act, is a quick change and authentic.

The production was directed by Michael Sadlier, and the scenes were designed by Wilf Pegg.

The play is long. So be in your seat before 8:20 so as not to miss the prologue.—T.J.A.

Forest Travel Banned Along St. Lawrence

QUEBEC (CP)—Henri Kieffer, chief of Quebec's fire protection service, announced Monday a forest travel ban along more than 600 miles of the St. Lawrence river north shore.

Mr. Kieffer said the ban, effective between Montcalm, north of Montreal, and Saguenay has been ordered because a three-week drought throughout the area persists and forest fires are breaking out in a number of districts.

Apart from the major fire burning out of control north of Forestville, Mr. Kieffer said, most of the fire outbreaks are of a minor nature.

We Went Along, Dangerously

An odd document, oddly concocted, has involved Canada in an agreement which could possibly have very grave consequences. It is the declaration binding upon sixteen nations to act as one in the face of any new attack in Korea. Canada is one of the sixteen countries party to the agreement. The document troubles us because it was secret, and because of a threat contained in it. It was signed in Washington on July 27th; it was kept a secret until August 7th, when formal notification was sent to the U.N. The warning in it—hardly distinguishable from a threat—is that any breach of the Korean armistice would lead to such grave consequences that in "all probability it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea".

* * *

Under certain circumstances we can approve secret negotiations prior to signing an international agreement; that is part of the art of diplomacy. A secret treaty or declaration which might require a nation's substance or its blood is a different item. The nation should know about it before it is undertaken. Parliament should be consulted. Had this document been merely an instrument of political pressure, of political warfare with no tinge of policy changes, the Cabinet or the Minister of External Affairs alone might have put Canada's name to it as a routine piece of departmental business necessary to be despatched quickly. It was this in part—to serve notice on the enemy that U.N. troops committed to Korea would stay committed. But it was more. Policy approved by parliament was enlarged by the implication that if the war is renewed, our troops might be committed beyond the borders of Korea—to China. The implication of the threat overreaches the Canadian Korean participation sanctioned by Parliament. The note of belligerency and threat of extending the war are in fact contrary to what the Canadian people have been led to believe is Government policy.

* * *

The British have been quicker than Canadians to realize how dangerous is the offending part of the declaration. Canadians were busy with elections when the declaration was made public. If the document was not intended as a declaration of policy but as political warfare it has misled people at home and may have caused American people to believe that fifteen other nations will immediately launch with the U.S., a war against China if the truce is broken. It is not enough for the Department of External Affairs to say that there would have to be a full consultation between the sixteen signatory nations before any action is taken, should the armistice be breached. Soothing syrup is no balm for Chinese wounds. The declaration has been signed by Canada. Should the United States (as well as China) take Canada and the other fifteen countries at their word, actual and implied, where would Canada be? Tagging along after the U.S., right into China, the way Canada seems to have gone along in signing this disquieting document.

* * *

A curious piece of work altogether. When the declaration was made public on August 7th, it was said that its drafting was agreed to by the sixteen governments in January, 1952. When did the Canadian public hear about it, when did Parliament consider it? And was the offending threat approved more than a year and a half ago, too? Another oddity is this. The sixteen nations signatory to the paper are supposed to be committed in Korea as part of and at the call of U.N. Yet this secret document signed on July 27 was notified to U.N only on August 7th. What kind of bamboozle is it?

Ornamental Swimmers Triumph

Peterborough has an Ornamental Swimming Club and swimmers in it who can swim so ornamentally to Waltzing Matilda and any other tune to which feet in water can trip that last weekend they swam off with the U.S. championship. Their Florida laurels, were won by synchronized swimming to the theme, "Little Jumping Jacks". This gained them the team championship of the Amateur Athletic Union of the U.S.A.

The young ladies are a treat to the eye as they swim in their graceful and intricate formations. Peterborough people have long known this; so have camera eyes—they have been filmed in action by major companies, American and the National Film Board. In the nine years during which Mrs. Pansy Forbes has been training ornamental swimmers in Peterborough, the Club has gained a wide reputation, and been runners-up to champion teams. Now the twelve young ladies of this year's team are on top of the aquatic world (ornamental); they are the champions.

The fame and prized place have been won by skilled coaching, serious and constant training, and real enthusiasm for their special art. The Club which brings a unique renown to Peterborough has made its way, as most successful artistic and sporting groups do, with a minimum of outside financial support and a maximum of self-help. Theirs is a double triumph: to reach the top and to reach it by their own efforts. When the young ladies return to Peterborough this week-end Peterborough will not be slow in acclaiming them.

Prisoner Exchange

The armistice in Korea was delayed many, many months because the American and U.N. party refused to repatriate to North Korea and China those prisoners of war in their hands who did not want to be sent back. Finally the armistice was brought about, with concessions from the Chinese and Korean Reds, in which they accepted this condition. The exchange of prisoners is in progress, but the Reds have now announced that they have prisoners who do not want to be repatriated and whom they will not repatriate. The American command and the American State Department (under Mr. Dulles) have denounced this as a breach of contract and altogther unacceptable. They say all the U.N. prisoners must be returned.

The Chinese are much too late in making their condition. They should have done so during the armistice negotiations. On the other hand, the Americans should not be surprised that there are some U.S. and other U.N. prisoners of war who have been persuaded to the Red philosophy, or for other reasons wish to remain with their captors rather than to return to their home bases. Some of them may have deserted to the Reds. Others may have become prison camp spokesmen for them. Still others may have had a genuine conversion to Communism or believe that the "Chinese People's Volunteers," the "Chinese People's Committee For World Peace" and other Red agencies have right on their side. Such men would obviously not be graciously received by their former comrades and their governments back home.

If it is humanitarian for the U.S.-U.N. side to refuse to repatriate prisoners against their wishes, it is also humane for the Reds so to do. The Americans may, of course, be absolutely unconvinced that even one American could prefer another way of life than the American way.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A new electronic brain has been designed and constructed near Chicago. Something better for Colonel McCormack?

Yesterday an out-of-town reader telephoned us from the long distance of a 100 miles to approve our, comment on the difficulty visitors have of finding the Lift Lock. Earlier this year he spent all one Sunday afternoon in Peterborough trying to discover the world wonder—and went home Lift Lock-viewless.

"The tinkling of tea-cups in the vicarage (of the Brontes, Victorian England) is as relaxing as the hum of dynamos in a space ship" says a reviewer of Jane Eyre. Ah! yes:

Tinkle, tinkle, little cup
How we wonder what is up;
Up above the sky so high
Like a dynamo in the sky.

In our editorial remarks Saturday about big and small capital cities we slighted Victoria by not even including it in our citations of small capital cities. Victoria people, please accept our apologies; the truth is that, looking westward our vision of quiet, small and graceful Victoria was obscured not only be Vancouver's skyscrapers but also by Victoria's 110,000 people.

Finnish Crisis Helps Russia

By E. MICHAEL SALZER (in Helsinki)

THE WHEELS of Finland's vital export industries now turn only at half speed. This summer many saw-mills and cellulose factories are standing idle for long periods. Meanwhile, workers find employment on the land until the harvest is in. Then, the effect of the export crisis will finally be seen in the unemployment figures, and so brought home to the layman, who has not yet felt the impact of the threatening economic depression about which Finnish politicians have been talking these last weeks.

Finland faces the forthcoming municipal elections in sombre mood. She has the prospect of doubled unemployment figures and resultant State expenditure of some 20 per cent. of the total budget to combat it; steadily sinking chances to compete on the world market, because of high production costs, and thus over-high prices for her all-important wood products; a fierce tug-of-war between the leading political parties, and so a more or less permanent Government crisis; and the spectre of currency devaluation, with its threat of inflation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DR. URHO KEKKONEN, the shrewd and tough leader of the Agrarian Union, presides over a minority Cabinet consisting of Agrarians and Swedish Liberals with no more than a third of the Parliamentary votes behind them. With its plan to combat the economic crisis defeated, the cabinet is still fighting hard to out-manoeuvre the Opposition's attempts to provoke immediate Parliamentary elections. The President, 82-year-old Juho Kusti Paasikivi, has refused to dissolve the present Parliament, fully aware that elections in the present economic situation would only result in a gain for the Communists, without solving the deadlock between the other Parties.

Dr. Kekkonen has therefore withdrawn his defeated proposals of drastic price-cuts through reductions of wages, taxes and public expenditure on certain social benefits, which might have helped to restore the competitive powers of Finnish products on the world markets. He evidently hopes to find some other compromise that will find acceptance both with the trades unions and the manufacturers, without upsetting his own Party supporters, the farmers.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOBODY denies that the situation is serious, and yet no political Party seems willing to sacrifice principles and doubtful privileges to save the export markets and tow Finland out of the doldrums.

No doubt there is also bitterness among some Finnish people, who feel that they cannot solve their problems without help from the West. They rightly point to the fact that the country is today the easternmost outpost of Western democratic ideals. Nowhere else can one find such eager demonstrations of the honest will to live the Western way of life, to fight for personal freedom and integrity, to halt the Communist steamroller, than in this country in the shadow of the Kremlin.

✧ ✧ ✧

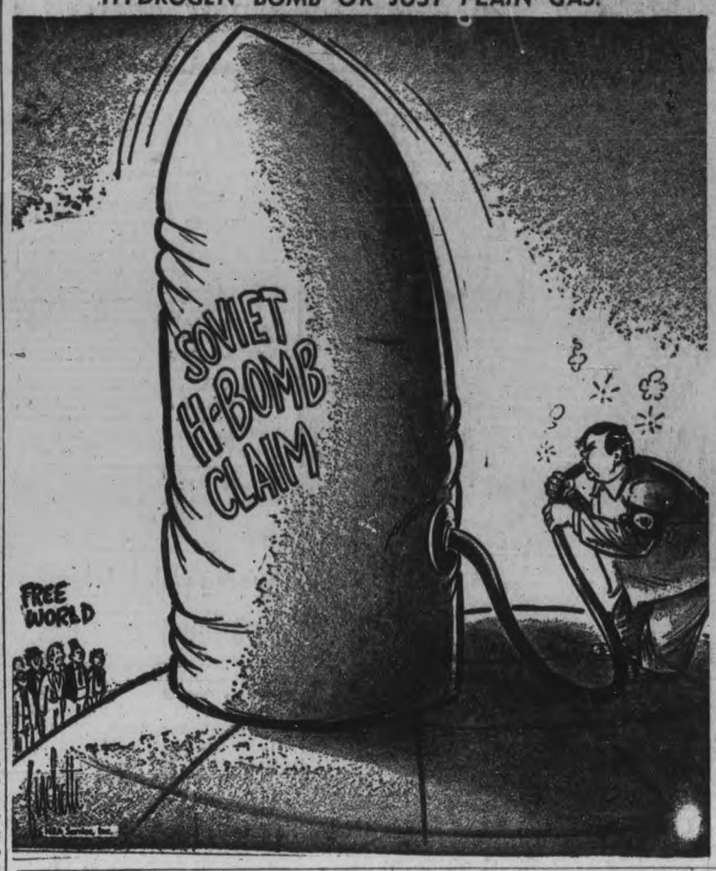
YET, these people complain, there seems little understanding for their plight on this side of the Iron Curtain. More and more, Finland glides into the Soviet orbit.

The political and military friendships pact with Moscow proved to be only of symbolical importance. In spite of it, and of the fact that Soviet guns are barely 30 miles from Helsinki, Finland's Communists have been excluded from public affairs for the last five years. Neither Communist-inspired strikes, fierce demonstrations nor sharp Soviet Notes would frighten the Finns, or alter their determination to rule their country without Russian interference.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT all these gallant efforts have not stemmed increasing economic dependence on Russia. While other countries haggled, Russia stepped in with a "generous" offer to secure for Finnish industries a steady and safe market, free of price fluctuations.

In 1939 Russia was at the bottom of the list of Finland's trading partners. Britain headed the list, absorbing 43.9 per cent., of total Finnish exports and supplying 21.6 per cent., of her total imports. America with roughly one-tenth of total supplies and purchases came a good third after Germany. In 1951, Britain still headed the list with 21 per cent., of all imports, and buying nearly one-third of Finnish exports. But the American turnover had shrunk to about 6 per cent., while Russia's figure was 8 per cent.



✧ ✧ ✧

THE LATEST figures show the great inroads Moscow has made in the last two years. Russia now absorbs—together with Poland and Czecho-Slovakia under a tripartite agreement, and with the other satellites—roughly one-third of Finland's total exports, and provides more than a quarter of the goods needed by Finland. Prices are fixed for a year ahead, based on current world market levels and are not affected by later fluctuations. Two years ago Finland stood third among the countries dealing with the East; last year she took second place, after Britain, in exchanges between East and West European States.

This year Britain is buying for £47 million about the same amount of Finnish goods for which last year she paid £60 million. It is this sort of fall in prices which has precipitated the present economic crisis, and which as some Finns complain, is driving their country into the arms of Russia, making the country's economy gradually dependent on Moscow's goodwill. A more generous Western trade policy could help Finland out of her crisis.

Other Finnish financial experts, though, believe that the remedy lies first of all with the Finns themselves. No other country can be expected to buy Finnish products if they are above world market prices. High production costs must be brought down by stringent internal economies, if necessary by devaluation of the currency. To stabilise the export industries, stem unemployment and so lessen Communist chances in the forthcoming elections, they maintain, is a purely Finnish problem, which can only be solved by concessions of all Parties and temporary sacrifices by all the people, and by a remonstration of the traditional Finnish "SISU"— determination and pluck. HYDROGEN BOMB OR JUST PLAIN GAS?

Kashmir Hint To India

By RAWLE KNOX

SHEIKH Abdullah's latest pronouncement on Kashmir, in which he says clearly that the State must steer between the two extreme views of merger with Indian and merger with Pakistan, is being studied with great interest here. It is the strongest declaration of independence which the Sheikh has made, in a series of speeches which show his determination to try and strike a line of his own.

Referring to the events of 1947 and after, Sheik Abdullah said: "At this critical moment (when Pakistan attacked) we appealed to India for help which she could not have given unless the State had acceded to her. The accession that took place at that time was forced by Pakistan's attack on the State. Legally the accession was complete, but it could be considered to have become final only when ratified by the free will of the people as conceded by the Government of India itself. The people have not so far been given the opportunity to express themselves on this question."

There could hardly be a clearer reminder for India that the promised plebiscite has been far too long in coming. The hint is given at a time when a number of new political parties have sprung up in the Kashmir Valley. These parties show none too covert a sympathy for Pakistan – the latest being a revived Muslim Conference led by Mohammed Amin, brother of Mohammed Yusef, who is currently Premier of the Pakistan-sponsored Azad Kashmir Government. (The Muslim Conference was first formed by Sheikh Abdullah and others in 1931, but split when the issue of Pakistan was introduced; the Sheikh then formed the National Conference).

There is nothing surprising about the expression of sympathy for Pakistan in the Kashmir Valley. Sheikh Abdullah, mentioning poor communications (the main trade route, closed since 1947, leads straight down to Rawalpindi, on the Pakistan side) lack of openings for Kashmiri Muslims in India's armed forces, and fears that agitation of Kashmir's Hindu and Sikh minority for full accession to India had the support of influential Indian politicians, listed some of the obvious grievances. What is strange is the new vocal freedom of Sheikh Abdullah's opponents, who were so effectively neutralised during the elections to Kashmir's Constituent Assembly that the Sheikh's National Conference gained a 100 per cent victory.

The new liberalism can be traced to Sheikh Abdullah's own position. His claims for independence have been countered in recent months by speeches by the important Mohammed Sadiq, President of the Constituent Assembly, and by the Sheikh's own Deputy Premier, Ghulam Bakshi Mohammed, urging closer association with India. There is a deep split in the National Confesence, and though Sheikh Abdullah still holds the majority in its working committee, there is some chance of him being outvoted during the October session of the Constituent Assembly.

There is no doubt, according to sources close to the Indian Government, that Sheikh Abdullah's present attitude has severely shaken Jawaharlal Nehru's faith in his old friend (for whose cause he was imprisoned in Kashmir by the last Maharajah). It is a striking coincidence that in this morning's "New Delhi Statesman" there appears a long letter advocating the partition of Kashmir by allowing the Provinces of Jammu and Ladakh to remain with India, with whom their sympathies obviously lie, and allowing "Azad Kashmir," for parallel reasons, to go to Pakistan, while Kashmir's Constituent Assembly would decide the fate of the Valley. This, it is believed on excellent authority, was the gist of Nehru's suggestion to Mohamed Ali in Karachi last month. It has the benefit of peaceful simplicity and, from the Indian viewpoint, of a good chance that the Assembly would override Sheikh Abdullah and accede to India. The scheme is vitiated in Pakistani eyes by the firm belief here that a 100 per cent National Conference Assembly is quite unrepresentative of Kashmir's Muslims.

Pro Hockey

(Sudbury Star)

The official name of a hockey body in Canada is still the Canada Amateur Hockey Association, despite the fact that a recent convention of CAHA and National Hockey League representatives shows it to be a little more than a third arm of professional hockey.

"Arrangements" between the CAHA and the NHL regarding players and finances seem to remove any vestige of "amateurism" that remains, and it is well that this be written clearly into the records so that parents of young hockey players fully understand that there is less of "game for the game's sake" than "game for the money's sake" than was the case a couple of decades ago.

It would seem to be in the best public interest to drop "Amateur" from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and let it be simply known as the Canadian Hockey Association. It would put an end to a lot of the talk of "shamateurism" now associated with the sport in Canada.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring me an offering: of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart ye shall take my offering. (Ex. 25: 1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. (Prov. 3: 5, 6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And thou shalt speak unto all that are wise hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to consecrate him, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office . . . And thou shalt make the breastplate of judgement with cunning work; after the work of the ephod thou shalt make it; of gold, of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of fine twined linen, shalt thou make it . . .

And thou shalt set in it settings of stones, even four rows of stones . . . And thou shalt put in the breastplate of judgement the Urim and the Thummim; and they shall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the Lord: and Aaron shall bear the judgement of the children of Israel upon his heart before the Lord continually. (Ex. 28: 3, 15, 17, 30.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory. Thy sun shall no more go down; neither shall thy moon withdraw itself: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended. Thy people also shall be all righteous: they shall inherit the land for ever, the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I may be glorified. (Isa. 60: 19-21.)

Letter To The Editor

POLICEMEN'S STANCE

Sir: To the people of Peterborough and anyone concerned. Especially to the business taxpayers.

We have a constabulary here in this town (if you could call it that) with a few good members, but for the few good one's there's many bad; In more appropriate words "— — — — —" is a much better way of saying it and all tied up in neat little uniforms or should I say sloppy uniforms, and dopey stuffings.

I served a term in the army, and I've seen two-day recruits that would put seventy five per cent of the police force in this city to shame, in dress, performance and stance.

Now we all know that dress doesn't make a soldier or policeman. But neat dress, stance and performance go to make a good showing for discipline and that's rare on the police force here.

For instance, did any of you veterans in Peterborough get a chance to see a show while on guard duty in the service? Well, Friday night I went to a show, I enjoyed the show very much, but what spoiled it was when I was leaving 11:15 by time, I saw for about the one hundreth and fifty-first time, not one but two constables in full duty dress leaning up against the wall enjoying the show immensely, and when the show finally ended these two cops left in a rush.

Whether it was to get out of standing too for God Save The Queen or were they hurrying back to their beats? I have my own answer to that question as well as any of the thousands of citizens commenting on the supposedly unique and infallible (so the police think) police force.

Two things about the police here is that they make good parking-meter nurse-maids, and a great many laughs for the general public.

Lack Of Space Problem For Doctors

TORONTO (CP) — Two women doctors say lack of space and trained medical personnel are tragic problems for doctors in India and Ceylon.

The doctors, Dr. Krishnabai Nimbkar of India and Dr. Mary Rutnam of Ceylon, toured the Women's College hospital here. Both are delegates to the seventh triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Dr. Nimbkar, who has a private practice and a small maternity home in Poona, said Monday: "Our doctors in India would be very envious if they could see how you can concentrate treatment in small wards. Unfortunately our hospitals are so crowded that patients must be kept on verandas and sometimes in corridors."

The Indian government has set aside more money for health projects since independence, she said.

NEED SHORT COURSES

Dr. Nimbkar said short intensive courses in home economics and simple hygiene could turn out an army of social workers who would be able to pave the way for health reforms.

Dr. Rutnam, born in Guelph, Ont., began medical missionary work in Colombo in 1896. She said increasing interest in health problems in Ceylon has filled hospitals to overflowing with patients seeking advice and treatment. Rural health problems were being tackled by women's institutes.

Dr. Olive Robertson of Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, said her country's main medical problems are illiteracy and ignorance among the natives. Native women were barred from medicine, but some native men had been trained to accept responsibility in hospitals.

Commit Weber To Asylum

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An accountant who told police he had killed his father-in-law in Milwaukee, Wis., or in Guelph, Ont., was committed Monday to a state mental hospital.

Gordon Emerson Weber, 40, born in Kitchener, Ont., had been in custody here since July 30. He volunteered stories that his father-in-law, Rudolph Maier, 69, Los Angeles, was slain four years ago.

First Weber said it occurred during an argument and scuffle in a Milwaukee railroad station in 1949 and that later he burned the body at a dump at Hartland, Wis.

Later Weber changed his story and said the killing occurred, under similar circumstances, in a Guelph hotel. The family said Maier disappeared in 1949.

But Weber's wife, Muriel, insisted all along that her husband made up the stories.

Police of Wisconsin and Guelph reported they were unable to substantiate the tales.

Finally Los Angeles sheriff's Capt. Floyd Rosenberg petitioned for committal of Weber to a mental institution. Superior Judge William Houghton signed the order Monday.

French Strikes Give Premier Laniel Tough Problem

AUGUST USUALLY BRINGS PEACE to the labor "front" in France. It is a time when French workers suspend their differences and go on vacation, but this August, more than 3,000,000 workers are out in the worst strike since 1947. The strike started in opposition to Premier Joseph Laniel's plan to bolster the national economy by slashing government spending by 15 per cent. Instigated by the Socialist-dominated Workers Force, and supported by the Catholic OFTC, the Communists are doing their best to profit by the national catastrophe. Thousands of tourists and Frenchmen are stranded, trains are halted, garbage rots in the streets and gas and electricity are cut off. Experts feel that the worst is yet to come with the strike spreading to some4,000,000 workers, and invading still more segments of the economy.

PREMIER Joseph Laniel stands firm against strikers.

IDLE LOCOMOTIVES are one manifestation of strike involving 3,000,000 French workers. Labor unions have tied up all railroad traffic, stranding many people and goods.

FRENCH POSTAL WORKERS join the nationwide strike; gather in front of the Main Labor Exchange in Paris to hear their leaders.

BECAUSE PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION isn't available, Parisian girls use their ingenuity and get to work on a passing steam roller.

Predicts Upswing In Population

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Canada will probably double her present population of 15,000,000 in the next 40 years, a Princeton University expert said Monday night.

F. W. Notestein, director of Princeton's office of population research, said at the Couchiching conference on international affairs that rapid growth in Canada, while almost certain to be good for the country, will entail some costs.

If the population increases by two per cent a year, production of almost all goods and services will have to increase at the same rate merely to avoid a drop in income per person, he said.

Want 3 Central Points For Hanging Murderers

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario should have three central points where convicted murderers can be hanged, Don Morrow (PC—Carleton) urged Monday at a meeting of the legislature's select committee on reform institutions.

Reforms Minister Foote, who attended the discussion, said he doubts if any Ontario municipality will welcome such an institution. Since W. J. Grummett, CCF leader had first made the suggestion of a central hanging point, Mr. Foote said, he should have first chance to have it in his riding of Cochrane South.

Mr. Grummett said: "We have lots of muskeg up in my rising and we could easily bury this place in it."

STILL EFFECTIVE

Mr. Morrow said that by not having more than three places, the local deterring effect on hangings on the public would still be effective.

Mr. Grummett said women resent a hanging in their area no matter how vicious the crime and by announcing the date and time "we are brutalizing our people."

He added: "If we have to hang persons, let us do it as quietly as possible."

A sub-committee report urged an organization to take care of parole, probation and rehabilitation of prisoners. Mr. Foote said he approves the report in principle and will pass it on to the government.

Mr. Grummett criticized suspended sentences, which he said are faulty and should be abolished.

"A boy on suspended sentence thinks he is free," he said. "We should be able to impress on him that he is convicted and he should get some kind of punishment."

GALETTA, Ont. (CP) — Three persons escaped death near here Sunday when their car went out of control and plunged into the Mississippi river.

Hint Election Held In 1954

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper said Monday that the resignation of Edward B. Jolliffe from the provincial leadership of the CCF has heightened Quebec Provincial speculation that an election may be called in the fall of 1954.

Premier Frost, whose Progressive Conservatives hold 79 of the Ontario legislature's 90 seats, has given no hint of when he plans the next election except that it will not be for another two years. The last election was in 1951 and the government could wait until 1956.

But the paper said in a news-page story, many leading Progressive Conservatives believe that next year is more likely.

"For one thing, both the major opposition parties now are without leaders; and, for another, there hasn't been more than three years between elections since 1943," the

Petes Gain Eastern Final Set With 27-7 Lacrosse Win Ousting Orillia Four In A Row

Plastering a 27-7 reverse on Orillia Yorks on the latter's floor last night, the Petes' Trailermen swept into OLA and Eastern Canada senior "A" lacrosse finals after erasing the Yorks in four straight semi-final playoffs. They open the eastern final series here Friday night against St. Catharines, who rubbed out Fergus in four straight. Underlining their superiority over the packed ex-Toronto Yorkers, who made Orillia their home this season, the Thorpe team handed their rivals the worst defeat of the season in blasting home 27 goals to seven. Practically half of the so-so crowd at the Orillia game came from Peterborough and they punctuated the Petes' brilliant effort with roars of encouragement and delight.

CALGARY POWERHOUSE—John Henry Johnson (35) battered his way to two touchdowns in the first 10 minutes for Calgary Stampeders to help them gain a close 19-18 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in an exhibition game at Hamilton. He bashes his six-foot, two-inch, 205-pound frame through the Ti-Cats' line despite efforts by the defenders to stop him.

ROUGH AT FIRST

It was a savage scrap for the first half, but then settled into a one-sided waltz for the winners. Seven penalties were passed out in the initial inning and five in the next heat. Only two culprits sat it out in the third and none in the clean and slow fourth frame. But in the early stages, the Yorks set out to soften the Petes and in turn were softened up considerably. They had little fight in the last two stanzas.

George Masters early charged Moon Wootton, who was out of his net, and knocked him cold for nearly two minutes. After considerable delay (Masters drawing no penalty) the Moon went back in his net and played a sparkling game throughout. Don McPhail and Bob Thorpe got into a slashing duel shortly and sat it out and Jim McNulty later drew a major for cuttting Curly Mason over the eye. In the second period, McPhail and Slater tangled to earn majors and Rusty had five minutes more tacked onto him for slicing Scotty's forehead. Things tamed down a lot after Scotty took time out for repairs.

BUT ONE-SIDED

The game was speedy enough for three quarters, but one-sided, and the teams just romped through the motions in the fourth as the score piled up, though the victors kept tallying even in the last go. It was 6-2 in the first frame, 12-5 at the half and 20-7 to end the third. Peterborough chucked in seven without a return in the fourth and they didn't even seem to be trying hard in this period. Orillia folded up completely somewhere during the third chukker.

Russ Slater again sparked the Petes' attack with six smart goals, though checked hard all the way. Roger Smith was in great form, too, to notch four nifty ones, while Ross Powless and Harry Wipper each clicked for three. Two apiece went to Jerry Fitzgerald, Nip O'Hearn, Ike Hildebrand and Curly Mason, with singles gained by Dootch Vitarelli, Bob Thorpe and Don Ashbee. Powless led in assists with four, Hildebrand getting three, O'Hearn, Mason and Smith two each, and Wipper, Fitzgerald, Ashbee, Thorpe, Vitarelli and Wootton one apiece.

TWO FOR SCOTTY

For the losers, McPhail grabbed off two goals, singles going to McNulty, Stu Scott, Tony D'Amico, Jack Kapasky and Frank Facto. An assist each was marked to Merv McKenzie, George Johnson, Facto and D'Amico. While the Yorks fought hard for half the game or a bit more, they were completely outclassed and outfooted. The speedy Petes passed them dizzy, checked hard and closely, and were deadly when in scoring range. Johnson turned in one of his weaker netminding efforts. Orillia players congratulated the victors at the close. Teams:

Long Branch Takes Series In Three Straight Games Down Pats 20-14 At Bowl

Lou Vitarelli's junior Pats bowed out of the lacrosse scene for 1953 Monday night when Long Branch swept their best-of-five series three straight with a 20-14 victory at Miller Bowl. Long Branch, paced by Kenny Lytle, Larry Ruse and Porky Russell, swept the three games 14-12, 18-15 and doubled the winning margin of those games in the final. The Pats sadly lacked depth, especially along the defence where Jerry O'Reilly and Carl Brioux patrolled throughout the season. They had scoring punch in Bob Allen, Bob Curtis, Bob Hobart, Ivan Thomas, Willie Logan and others but still could have done with a third equally strong threesome.

Long Branch on the other hand had size, speed and experience, three of the best requirements for a strong lacrosse team, one which will likely advance into the Minto Cup championship series.

Larry Ruse paced the Long Branch team throughout the season with his scoring and then in the Pats series Long Branch came up with Kenny Lytle, who has seen considerable senior action. Lytle and Ruse did the trick for Long Branch.

That twosome easily presented Long Branch with their third successive win Monday night. They spotted the Pats a one-goal lead, then broke ahead 5-1 at the quarter, 11-6 at the half and 16-9 at three-quarters.

As in th previous series game, the Long Branch youths used their size to advantage, pushing and checking the smaller Pats. They roughed the smaller Peterborough lads and this resulted in numerous roughing penalties to both clubs.

The roughness reached a peak in the third quarter when Coleman and Carl Brioux tangled. With sticks high they took several swipes at each other, then slashed and then finally dropped their sticks and used bare fists.

Rolling along the ground, both players landed solid rights and then Coleman applied the boots to Brioux. That was enough for referee Lou Vipond who thumbed Coleman out of the game.

Once broken up, the two exchanged a few words, then Coleman slashed out a second time at Brioux, hitting with a left flush into Brioux' face. Vipond this time didn't waste any time getting Coleman off the field with a match misconduct penalty and Brioux with a major.

Rochester Clips Buffalo 11-7; In 2nd Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings climbed into sole possession of second place in the International Baseball League Monday night — the result of their 11-7 victory over the pace - setting Buffalo Bisons, coupled with Montreal's loss.

The Wings now are 2½ games back of the herd. The Royals, who lost a 5-3 11-inning decision to Baltimore Orioles, are 3½ games off the pace.

A hometown crowd saw Rochester score six runs with two out in the second inning to stun the Bisons.

The Herd reached starter Dennis Reeder for two runs in the first, before Ellis Deal took over and stopped them for the next six innings. Outfielder Wally Moon whacked a three-run homer in the Rochester rally. Deal registered his 11th win against eight losses.

MAKES BAD THROW

A bad throw to first by Montreal shortstop Humberto Fernandez gave the Orioles the triumph at Baltimore.

Stan Jok opened the Oriole 11th with a single off Tom LaSorda and stole second as Jack Graham struck out. LaSorda was lifted and Art Fabbro took over. He retired Damon Phillips, who had hit two homers and batted in three runs. Marty Tabacheck rolled to Fernandez whose throw was low and skidded past Rocky Nelson at first, Jok scoring.

Phillips' second homer in the ninth forced the extra innings.

At Springfield, the tail-end Cubs won their fourth straight, defeating Ottawa Athletics 2-1—Walt Derucki's two-run single in the first carrying the Cubs through.

Toronto and Syracuse had an open date.

Shenanigans Off To Start Before $25,000 Golf Open

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Can a ball player and an archer beat a golfer at his own game? Who is the Masked Marvel? Are Lach and Richard better than Kennedy and Broda?

Those were the questions posed Monday by the sponsors of the $25,000 open golf championship to start off a few days of hoop-de-la before the hot-shot pros get down to business.

The whole shebang started off with a bang—in reverse. The crowds stayed away like mad. Provincial police and Lachine city police swarmed around the highway leading to this swank layout as if they were protecting the Bank of Canada. They were out there to direct traffic—but the motorists kept on going.

MAYORS GIVE SPEECHES

The mayors of Montreal and Lachine gave speeches at the first tee. The Lachine mayor, using a gold-plated driver, hit a gold-plated ball to give this fourth-richest golf tournament in the world a send-off.

He hit it 10 yards.

Answering those questions:

The ball player (Goody Rosen, formerly of New York Giants) beat the golfer (Jules Huot of the Royal Quebec Golf and Country Club, Boischatel, Que.) and archer (Orla Larsen of Kingston, Ont.).

TOO TOUGH

Rosen used a couple of fungo bats and a regulation baseball. The hole for him was supposed to be a five-foot circle around the cup but the golfer and the archer conceded that this was too tough and just let the guy hit the green.

The archer, using bow and arrow, holed out on his approach shots by smacking a target (a blown-up tire) and Huot went at it the right way—a bag full of clubs, a few balls and a caddy.

The scores: Rosen 36, Huot 38, Larsen 40.

GO INTO OVERTIME

Who is the Masked Marvel? Well, the guy was third behind Sam Snead in the Ilesmere, Que., tournament a couple of years ago. The best guess is Kas Zabowski of Halifax.

And the Maurice Richard-Elmer Lach-Teeder Kenhedy-Turk Broda "National Hockey League championship."

The thing went into overtime with the Montreal Canadiens combination of Lach and Richard winning on the 20th hole over the Maple Leafs' Kennedy and Broda.

Somerville Beats Goodman Again

MONTREAL (CP) — C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville did it again—21 years after he defeated Johnny Goodman of Omaha in the final of the United States amateur golf championship.

The "re-enactment" of that famous final in 1932 at Baltimore, when Sandy won 2 and 1 and became the only Canadian ever to take the U.S. amateur crown, was played over the Montreal Summerlea course. It was one of the preliminary special events to the $25,000 open starting Thursday.

This time Somerville won with a medal score of 74 against Goodman's 81 over 18 holes. Summerlea's par is 36-34—70, and Somerville went 35-39 for the nines. John took 41-40.

Gordon B. Taylor of Montreal, who won the Canadian Amateur the same year that Somerville took the U.S. title, was a third member of the special threesome and equalled Somerville's score.

In the best-of-seven Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association semi-final series, Peterborough defeated Orillia Terriers 27-7 Monday night to win the series 4-0. St. Catharines also won its series 4-0 by downing Fergus Thistles 11-7.

Athletics had an easy time all the way, leading 2-0 at the end of the first, 5-0 at half time, and 7-4 at the end of the third quarter.

Leading the St. Catharines attack were Al Frick with three goals and Derry Davies, Jim McMahon and Skip Teal with two goals each. Doug Smith and John Dewar notched singles.

Scorers for Fergus were Don Gear with three goals, and Harry Kazarian, Bob Dobbie, J. J. Hill and Elmer Harris with one each.

Two Golfers Renew Rivalry

NEW YORK (CP) — Marlene Stewart and Barbara Romack renew their rivalry next week in the 53rd United States women's amateur golf championship at West Barrington, R.I.

Thus Miss Stewart, 19-year-old Fonthill, Ont., shotmaker who took the British Women's Open, again meets the girl who beat her Saturday in the Canadian Women's Open final at London, Ont.

The big field will include eight players (counting Marlene) who have accounted for 13 assorted national titles.

The United States Golf Association Monday listed 159 entries for the all-match play tournament at the Rhode Island Country Club, Aug. 24-29.

Since last year's tournament of upsets at Portland, Ore., the surprise winner, Mrs. Jackie Pung of Hawaii, has turned professional.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

There are still two weeks left of August, the last summer month, but football huskies are starting to crowd onto the sports' scene. Even locally. As a matter of fact, our gridiron Orfuns have been practising a couple of weeks now and have their first game this coming Saturday. An exhibition in Ottawa against the Riders' farm club. That team was ousted in Quebec intermediate "A" finals last autumn by Montreal, the team Peterborough put out in Eastern Canada finals here. Orfuns later lost out in the Canadian playoff in Winnipeg. Ottawa invited the eastern champs for a preseason exhibition and Prexy Dr. Don Aiken agreed to have it this weekend.

ORFU intermediate "A" schedule is slated to open a week from Saturday with Orfuns meeting the Galloping Ghosts in Cobourg. A double schedule is planned for the group comprising Peterborough, Cobourg, Oshawa and Toronto, meaning there'll be six league games here, plus playoff in all likelihood. The western winner comes east this year. Meantime, Coach Tony Kotowski is stepping up the pace of the nightly practices in Morrow Park. While he has a good idea of some of his starting players, workouts have been open yet to all prospects and few if any trying out have been cut off so far. But it won't be long till he lists his 1953 squad for the gridiron campaign ahead.

Defenders Tally, Too

It's rather interesting to note that a lot of senior OLA defencemen are high scorers under present playing rules. Loop's leading sniper is defenceman Doug Smith of St. Catharines. Don Moore and Derry Davies of the A's are also well up. Tony D'Amico has been fairly hot lately for Orillia. Jerry Fitzgerald and Nip O'Hearn have been prolific producers for the Pete's Trailermen the latter part of this season. Harry Wipper always did well, but he was out of action a lot this semester. Perhaps the new six-man game has given defencemen in lacrosse a new lease on life in a scoring sense.

* * * * * *

Don Holden's golden dream to bring Yorks the Mann Cup in Orillia this year faded completely away last night as Petes' Trailermen rode into OLA and Eastern Canada finals on four straight wins. Their last being most impressive indeed, a 27-7 shellacking of the ex-Toronto team. St. Catharines Athletics erased Fergus Thistles in four straight, also, and these two powerful packs—Petes and A's—now clash in the series which sends one squad into oblivion and the other one west on Sept. 12 after the Canadian crown. OLA secretary Chuck Rowan told us last night that the best-of-seven finals would open in Peterborough this Friday, second game being in St. Kitts on Monday. Back here Aug. 26 and away the following Saturday. If necessary, fifth is Aug. 31 and sixth Sept. 2. Seventh on neutral grounds, unless clubs agree otherwise. Rained-out playoffs go the following night.

Petes' Fans In On Kill

A lot of local fans enjoyed that walloping victory for the Trailermen last p.m. in Orillia. By quarters the scores were 6-2, 6-3, 8-2 and 7-0. Just nothing to it at all. Rough the first half, the Petes made it such a walkaway in the last two quarters that Yorks quit fighting as the score mounted. They were down to practically a slow stroll in the fourth chukker. Goalie Moon Wootton was knocked for a loop early in the game but came back to look sharper than ever. The whole Thorpe team clicked like gramp's store teeth, turning in a polished performance going either way. Not a weak sister out there for 'em. Prominent on the score-sheet were Russ Slater, Roger Smith, Ross Powless, Ike Hildebrand, Curly Mason, Harry Wipper, Jerry Fitzgerald and Nip O'Hearn. That's most of them, isn't it? A fine show.

* * * * * *

It was different at Miller Bowl last gloaming as Long Branch junior "A" lacrossers rubbed out the Peterborough Pats in OLA semi-finals three straight, the tally in the third tussle being 16-9. The classy visitors took a 5-1 lead in the first stanza and never looked back. That endeth the season for Lou Vitarelli's lads, a crew which showed much promise at times during the stiff campaign but didn't prove consistent in the dough blows. Play was rough enough with the big Toronto boys using their extra weight to advantage, Coleman and Brioux tangling in a hard fight in the third. The former put the boots to Brioux and was tossed out of the game. Sorry to see the colorful young Pats fade from the 1953 lacrosse picture.

Rangers Continue To Trade Players

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers, still trying to improve their National Hockey League prospects through trades, Monday acquired their seventh defenceman, Ivan Irwin, in a deal with Montreal Canadiens.

The Rangers sent two veteran forwards, Ed Slowinski and Pete Babando, to Montreal for Irwin, who played last season with the Canadiens' Victoria farm in the Western Hockey League.

Irwin, 26, has had four years of professional experience, the first three with the Cincinnati American Hockey League club.

Yankees Capture One-Sided Pair From Philadelphia

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers virtually have run off and hidden from the rest of the clubs, they're working on a little intramural competition to hold their interest. Their new goal is 100 victories each, well within range but still a mark that will keep them hustling. The Dodgers, with 39 games left, need to win 22 to hit the century mark—a figure reached by only two other Brooklyn clubs in history. The Yankees will have to win 21 of their last 38. Yankee teams in the past have reached 100 or more eight times, but not in the last 11 years.

If both clubs make it, this would be the first season since 1942 to produce a pair of 100-game champions. In that year the Yankees won 103 and St. Louis Cardinals took 106 and the series.

FATTEN MARGINS

Both the Yankees and Dodgers fattened their margins over their nearest rivals Monday night. The New Yorkers won a pair of one-sided games from Philadelphia 10-3 and 9-0 and moved nine games in front of the idle Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn came from behind on Duke Snider's two-run homer in the ninth and then beat Pittsburgh on Gil Hodges' three-run blast in the 115h, 5-2. The Dodgers gained half a game on the unscheduled Milwaukee Braves and lead by 8½ games.

In the only other activity New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies split a pair at the Polo Grounds. Only 2,885 cash customers watched the Phils win the first game 5-2 and bow in the second 6-0. The doubleheader was the third in three days between the two clubs. The Giants won the series, four games to two.

CLINCH FIRST GAME

The Phils clinched the first game with four runs in the eighth inning off Dave Koslo who started his first game since June 23. The Giants took the nightcap from Andy Hansen, making his first start in three years.

Johnny Lindell tamed the Dodgers on three hits until Bobby Morgan opened the ninth with a single and Snider followed with his 28th homer. In the 11th Lindell got into trouble by walking Snider and Jackie Robinson and running the count to 3 and 1 on Hodges. The big first baseman then hit his 26th home run. Snider got three of the Dodgers' seven hits.

Yogi Berra hit his 21st home run in the Yankees' first game romp. Whitey Ford picked up his 15th victory, but needed help from Tom Gorman in the seventh. In the second game the Yankees opened with five runs, more than enough for Bob Kuzava who scattered 11 hits effectively enough to score a shut-out. Joe Collins homered twice, Bill Martin once.

Although they weren't scheduled St. Louis Browns were eliminated mathematically from the pennant chase. Even if they won their remaining 36 games the Browns would finish two games behind the Yankees' present mark.

Use Alligators Hunt Monster

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Tuffy Truesdale, who likes to set an alligator to catch an alligator, was a disappointed but undaunted man Monday after his unsuccessful attempt to catch New Hamburg's "monster."

Truesdale, who calls himself "the world's greatest alligator wrestler," brought two alligators from Sarnia in the hope that they would lure the "monster" from it's hiding place, but although one seven-foot 'gator made a few runs of the Nith River Saturday, it failed to flush the creature that has been leaving alligator tracks in the New Hamburg area.

Now Tuffy is going to try to howl it out of hiding. He said today he will return to New Hamburg this week with three alligators and tie them to trees along the river bank for a few days until they get used to their surroundings. Then, he says, when they begin to feel at home they will set up an awful howling and any other alligator within five miles will hear them and be lured in.

He has told chief constable George Thomas that he intends to pitch a tent on the river flats and stay there until his baying 'gators bring in their prey.

Hundreds of people visited the river bank here Saturday to watch Tuffy's alligators perform.

Says Provincial Police Aiding Non-Strikers

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Pat Delany, business manager of Hamilton local of the striking teamsters' union Monday blasted London and provincial police for what he called "deliberately allowing non-striking drivers to break the highway code."

Mr. Delaney said that police escorting trucks keep them tightly bunched up, less than 100 feet apart, which the law requires.

He claimed that non-striking drivers moving through the city under police escort travel at 35-40 mph.

"The police are acting as strike breakers," he added.

A couple of week ago Premier Frost denied police are acting as strike breakers. He said the police were interested only in making sure that both sides kept the law.

Wild Typhoon Rips Across China Proper

TAIPEH, Formoa (AP)—A wild typhoon ripped across the China mainland Monday after sideswiping the U.S. base at Okinawa and the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa.

The Japanese weather bureau in Tokyo said the big storm, which changed course and did not hit Okinawa or Formosa with its full force, struck the China coast about 150 miles south of Shanghai, and was churning northward.

Okinawa escaped with minor damage, mostly to power lines, but northern Formosa was lashed with heavy rains and winds up to 69 miles an hour.

The typhoon was one of the mightiest ever recorded in the Pacific.

New Oklahoma Film

NEW YORK (AP)—The authors of "Oklahoma!" have announced their world famous musical, now running for its 11th straight year on the stage, will be filmed with a new wide-screen movie process. A spokesman for Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, who wrote and produced the show, said they agreed to film it after seeing samples of a movie technique created by an optical company.

QUICK SWIMMING LESSONS—Sqdn. Ldr. Scott E. Alexander has devised a method of teaching RCAF members to swim in three hours. Alexander, whose job is to train airmen to survive crashes on land or sea, stands in the swimming pool watching his pupils in the early stage of the course.

Teaching Airmen To Swim In Three Easy Lessons

EDMONTON (CP) — An RCAF officer is teaching Canadian airmen to swim in three easy lessons of one hour each.

Sqdn. Ldr. Scott E. Alexander, an Arctic veteran whose job is to train RCAF personnel to survive crashes on land or sea, worked out the three-hour swimming scheme.

In 1952 he was given what looked like an insurmountable problem. RCAF headquarters ordered that all his survival-course students be brought up to swimming standard before graduation.

The 14-day survival course included 11 days in the northern Alberta bush learning to live off the land. That left only three days in Edmonton, and only three one-hour instruction periods in which to teach them to swim.

An expert swimmer and instructor, Sqdn. Ldr. Alexander had always considered a month the minimum time required to teach the rudiments of swimming, but he and his staff came up with a solution.

The instructors stripped the course to the essentials. They reasoned that three one-hour periods on successive days would eliminate need for revision, leaving 60 full minutes for instruction each day.

Since 1952 they have graduated 168 men. There hasn't been a single failure.

"The ability to swim is born in us," says Sqdn. Ldr. Alexander. "It's simply a matter of overcoming fear of the water. The most difficult part of the training is convincing the student that he is able to float as long as he has some air in his lungs."

He demonstrates this with a toy balloon. He inflates the balloon and holds it under his chin against his chest. Then he empties his lungs and floats, illustrating to his pupils that only a small amount of air is needed for buoyancy.

The instructor then demonstrates hand, arm, leg and foot movements breathing and the proper position for the swimmer's head.

That the system works is demonstrated by one young officer who, off and on for 11 years, had unsuccessfully tried to learn to swim. After 50 minutes of RCAF instruction, FO. Walter Gryba, 22, of Saskatoon was swimming the width of the pool.

His style left much to be desired, but he did swim. At the end of his second instruction period he swam four widths of the pool. The third period saw him practising emergency drill in nine feet of water

To overcome the students' initial fear of water, they are told to squat and hold their breath while under water. They find they can hold their breath from 35 to 40 seconds. They are kept at this exercise until they acquire confidence.

Next they stand in water to their armpits and are taught the movements of the breast stroke. They find this exercise tends to lift their feet from the bottom of the pool, giving them buoyancy and teaching them propulsion.

The third step consists of having the students grasp the rail at the side of the pool while they are taught proper leg movements.

The instructor then demonstrates with his balloon how little air is needed in the lungs to stay afloat.

The students now are told to take a deep breath, lie face down in the water and kick their way across the pool using dog-paddle hand movements, but keeping their legs still.

Then they cross the pool, still with heads down and holding their breath, but using both hands and legs.

After the students have learned these steps to the instructors' satisfaction they are taught proper breathing while swimming.

Sqdn. Ldr. Alexander says the instructors have found the average student is crossing the pool—head down, breath held, legs still—after 90 minutes' instruction. At the start of the third period they are ready to practise crossing the pool using all their limbs, and to learn proper breathing.

Union Threatens Strike At Quaker Asks Changes

Another strike is brewing at the Quaker Oats Co. unless management changes its attitude, William Triggs, president of Local 293, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), Monday night told a meeting of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL).

Mr. Triggs, who led the production workers through their recent strike lasting nearly three months, was bitter in his denunciation of management, particularly Fred Ash, plant superintendent.

"They mention the letter of the contract but not the spirit," he said. We accepted the agreement and the workers—90 per cent of them anyway — were anxious to get things running again efficiently and smoothly. . .I'm sorry I can't say the same thing about some company people."

He accused the company of taking "a vindictive attitude" and using "vicious tactics". They either refuse union officials legitimate information or "tell us lies".

"It seems they are trying to make monkeys out of the committee," Mr. Triggs charged.

JOBS ELIMINATED

He said that everybody in the oat mill had been downgraded on the basis of seniority. Jobs are being eliminated—the bag factory won't open up again. There has been a reduction in the number of tinsmiths, and Quaker Oats trucking is now being done by contract not by employees. Even the canteen selling such things as chocolate bars has been done away with, he said.

Last Tuesday management told the committee that there wouldn't be any more jobs open until September, he said. Yet a few days later all the 465 employees were back with the exception of about five. And these five were physically incapable of doing the "bull gang" work.

"I'm sorry to say that the company's attitude will lead to more trouble and another strike," said Mr. Triggs. "I can't say when the strike will be, but we'll probably be asking the working people of Peterborough to support us again."

After hearing this report the labor council delegates voted to ask their individual locals to "mobilize support" for Local 293 so as to back up the Quaker Oats workers on whatever course of action they choose.

FARYON SURPRISED

Reginald R. Faryon, Canadian president of Quaker Oats, today expressed surprise at Mr. Triggs' statements.

"We've had no complaints from the union," he said. "All our meetings have been amicable; there has been no evidence of dissatisfaction. We've consulted the union constantly. . . Certainly things aren't like what they were before the strike. The company is going to suffer for a long time. It's one of the repercussion of a long strike."

Mr. Faryon said that the company had gone out of its way to get the employees back and provide some work for them.

(Employees, according to the agreement, are being called back on the basis of departmental seniority. And they are paid at the rate called for in the job they are doing—which is not necessarily the job they were doing before the three-month shutdown.)

SCHEDULED ECONOMIES

Closing of the bag factory and other job eliminations (trucking by contract, for example) are economies that would have come into effect in any case he said.

Mr. Faryon stated that business had been cut "tremendously" because of the strike and it will take some time before things return to normal.

"We're out of the markets, off the shelves—and don't forget we're in a very competitive business. It's hard to get back again.

"I hadn't heard about going on another strike. But that would be one way to eliminate all the jobs."

Separate Picnics Planned By Labor Groups

Once again Labor Day in Peterborough promises to be a festive occasion for children.

In Nicholls Oval there will be a Labor Day picnic sponsored jointly by the Peterborough and District Labor Council CCL and the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC). Further south, at Riverside Park, the two city locals of the United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Indep.) will have a similar celebration.

Neither of the labor groups has yet drawn up a full agenda of the day's activities, but giving the children a good time of it seems to be the underlying thought.

TENTATIVE SCHEDULE

The AFL and CCL committee have drawn up a tentative schedule but there must be a number of further meetings before it is decided on in detail. There will be free milk for boys and girls, free ice cream and races.

Grownups will also compete in races and there will be bingo for those who like less active entertainment. Booths will be set up for games of chance.

A power lawnmower will be drawn for at night, the proceeds going to defray the cost of entertaining the children. And the finale will be a street dance on Aylmer St., between Charlotte and King Sts.

The joint committee consists of Alfred Barber, chairman, CCL; Glenn Price, vice chairman, AFL; George Linsdell, treasurer, CCL; and George Gimblett Jr., AFL.

Details of the UE's program at Riverside Park will be released later this week. The committee consists of representatives from Local 524 and 527 and the women's auxiliaries.

They never had a vacation, never saw a movie, never got as far as London, 100 miles away, and Martin never quit work. Ann died Monday. Broken-hearted Martin died today.

Pool Lifeguard Praised For Reviving Young Girl

High praise was accorded 19-year-old Betty Thomson, lifeguard at the Lions pool in Riverside Park, for her part in saving the life of eight-year-old Teresa Burke Monday. Both pool manager Jim Wilkinson and Fire Chief William Sorrie said Miss Thomson deserved a lot of credit for the way she applied the Holger-Nielson method of artificial respiration immediately when Teresa was taken from the water.

It was only the fourth time Teresa had been in the pool. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, 262 Wolfe St., said she "could not swim a stroke." Mr. Burke is a winder at the CGE.

Teresa had gone to the pool about 2.00 p.m. with her brother, Jack, 11, and her cousin, Geraldine Martin, 19, of Kingston, who was visiting the family. Jack contracted an ear infection a few days ago and was unable to go swimming but he watched his sister from the edge of the pool.

AT SHALLOW END

He said Teresa usually played in the wading pool but Monday she accompanied her cousin, who is a good swimmer, to the larger pool. She went into the shallow end where the water is between three and 3½ feet deep. He said there were about a dozen children playing near her.

Jack said he saw her wading into the water with her arms above her head, jumping up and down. He turned to a friend to speak to him and "no more than five minutes later" saw her being taken from the pool.

Rumors circulating among dozens of children present at the time that Teresa had been pushed into the pool were pretty well discounted by her brother's statement that from the time he saw her until she was brought out "I'm pretty sure she was in the pool."

Bob Delpellaro, 14, of 327 Burnham St., was swimming in the pool when he saw Teresa float by on her back with her head beneath the surface. He pulled her over to the edge of the pool and managed to get her part way up the short iron ladder at the side.

Bob was assisted in getting the girl up on the platform at the edge of the pool by his cousin, also Bob Delpellaro, 13, of 78 Park St., and Gerald Roy, 12, of 295 King St.

SAW YOUNGSTER

Miss Thomson was sitting on the lifeguard's chair in the tower on the west side of the pool. She had seen Teresa floating on her back and at first thought she was still just playing. But when Bob Delpellaro lifted Teresa's head, Miss Thomson rushed around to the east side of the pool in time to help lift the girl out of the water.

Teresa's eyes were glazed and she wasn't breathing when she was first brought from the water. Miss Thomson immediately began to apply the Holger-Nielsen method of artificial respiration.

Will Tranter, another lifeguard, massaged Teresa's legs and arms. Jim Coulson, 30, of 612B Armour Rd., had just arrived at the pool and had taken a shower before going in swimming. He rushed over and also massaged the girl's arms.

A few minutes later, the girl revived, and Mr. Coulson told her to cry to relieve the tension and help her to breathe.

"She was crying hard before the firemen came," Mr. Coulson said. She had a cut lip but it was thought she may have bitten it.

When the fire department arrived, Teresa was breathing intermittently and her eyes were dilated, according to Fire Chief William Sorrie, who, with the assistance of Firemen William Trick and Chris Cummiskey, administered oxygen with an inhalator to stimulate the girl's breathing.

Dr. Don Whyte was called and at 2.35 p.m. pronounced her condition satisfactory. She was taken home by Chief Sorrie in his car.

Lives Of Explorers Depend On Cable

PIERRE ST. MARTIN, France (Reuters)—The lives of three French cave explorers depended today on the ability of their team members to snake a thin steel cable 1,150 feet down into Pierre St. Martin cavern.

The cable became jammed Monday, leaving the three men stranded in what is believed to be the world's largest underground cave.

Leader Norbert Casteret, Dr. Robert Mairey and Robert Levi are in what is described as a "tricky position." There are hundreds of bottlenecks—such as jutting rocks—which can impede the cable as it is being lowered.

Fire Destroys Farm House, Contents Lost

Elderly Bachelor Away At Time Neighbors Save Car

HAVELOCK (Staff) — In less then two hours Monday morning, fire destroyed the 1½-storey farm house of George R. Wannamaker on the 4th concession of Belmont township about four miles north-east of here.

The house and contents were a total loss but neighbors, who gathered quickly from a three-mile radius, managed to save Mr. Wannamaker's car and trailer and a few tools from a shed a few feet behind the house. The shed was also destroyed.

Amount of the loss was not determined but it was believed to be partly covered by insurance.

First to notice smoke from the house about 9:30 a.m. was Jack Pilling, of 522 Chamberlain St., Peterborough, who was staying at his cottage on Belmont lake. A neighbor, Tony Allan, saw it almost simultaneously and was quickly on the scene. He found the inside of the house filled with smoke.

The Havelock fire department were called but were unable to stem the blaze which soon spread through the wooden partions of the old house.

They concentrated instead on preventing spread of the blaze. There was a small section of bush about 100 feet from the house and it was feared that if the flames spread to it, neighboring farms would be in danger.

At first it was feared Mr. Wannamaker was in the house but it developed he had gone to show some neighbors where they could pick berries. About 70 years old, he is a bachelor and lives alone. He spent Monday night at the home of a neighbor, Frank Winfield, on the Cordova road.

Workmen Start On Second Floor Of Post Office

Construction of the new Federal Building on Charlotte St. has gone ahead during the past few months and concrete for the second floor of the building will start to be poured by the end of the week.

All the concrete has been poured in the basement, coal bunkers, boiler room, mezzanine and front entrances, and forms and pillars for the second floor are completed.

Eighty per cent of the plumbing, heating, and ventilating equipment has been installed and the back fill around the building is almost finished.

A truck load of 16 tons of red, green and white granite from Quebec was brought in last week and will be ready to be cemented into place by the middle of September.

Boy On Bike Knocked Down

Knocked to the ground unconscious after his bicycle hit a parked car, Barry LeRoy, 10, of 1403 Monaghan Rd., escaped serious injury Monday night while riding on Charlotte St.

He had been riding west on Charlotte when, at Aylmer, he was forced into the parked vehicle by another car. Dr. Rodger Chenoweth examined the boy and found he had sustained only a bump on his head. His bicycle was damaged to the extent of $5.

Two other accidents were reported to the police Monday with damage in each not exceeding $50.

One, on Aylmer St., involved Wilbert Hayes, 30, of 469 Howden and Norman Bradley, 62 of 302 Aylmer St. Hayes was driving south and Bradley, pulling out of his east side driveway when the accident occurred. The Bradley truck collided with Hayes' trailer.

Cars driven by Paul Sinclair, 17, of 509 Braidwood Ave., and Allie Watkins, 64, of 545 Bethune St., collided at Stewart and Dalhousie Sts. Sinclair was westbound on Dalhousie St. and Watkins, northbound on Stewart St. when the accident occurred.

The corner is not equipped with stop signs.

PC William A. Scott investigated both accidents.

Marooned In Stony

Apprehension was caused in the Burleigh Falls district on Monday night when a canoe was found floating in Stony lake with water in the bottom. Bob and Victor Brown, two Burleigh Falls brothers, had a hunch and equipped with flashlights they toured around some nearby islands, and on one of them, sometimes used as a Scout camp, they found 26-year-old Robert F. Luke of Paris, Ont. Apparently Mr. Luke had rented the canoe from Blewett's livery earlier in the day, and after a paddle and swim he pulled the canoe up on the island beach. Then he went to sleep. When he woke up the canoe had drifted away and he was temporarily marooned and chilly.

Union Questions Using CCF As Political Arm

The decision of the Trades and Labor Congress to intensify their political action program but not to affiliate with the CCF Party has given some Peterborough CCL unionists food for thought.

At the August meeting of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) on Monday night two CCL members questioned the wisdom of choosing the CCF as the political arm of labor. The political action committee of the labor council shouldn't tell them which party to vote for, they contended.

The upshot of the 20-minute debate was that the labor council executive will call a meeting to discuss political policy with the executives of the 17 affiliated locals.

MAKE PROPOSALS

"We shouldn't back any particular party," said George Linsdell of Local 19, National Union of Public Service Employees (CCL). "We should put forward certain proposals and back the party that will carry them out."

Thomas Cupoli of Local 570, IUE (CIO-CCL) agreed with Mr. Linsdell.

"We should use our own judgment and not back any particular party," said Mr. Cupoli. "We join a union, and if it's democratic we shouldn't be told how to vote. I don't want to be dictated to.

"I've voted several ways myself. This time — and I'm not apologizing for it—I voted Liberal. I like to belong to the CCL, but I—and a lot of other labor people — didn't like the CCF Party having their campaign room up here in the Labor Centre."

Mr. Linsdell suggested backing a party that's in power.

(The CCL has chosen the CCF as its political arm in much the same way that the British trade unions have chosen the British Labor Party as their political arm. This matter has again come into the news with the debate among delegates at the annual convention of the rival Canadian group—the Trades and Labor Congress. The TLC-ers chose a different tactic from the CCL. They decided to intensify the education of their membership along political lines "to further the aims of our affiliated membership" but they refused to endorse any single party, including the CCF.)

(As the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) is composed of CCL unions they theoretically line up behind the CCF Party, but, as the voting indicates, not many CCL union members put the theory into practice. Most of them vote Liberal or Conservative.)

UNION PROGRAM

William Gunn of Local 293, UPWA, said that it wasn't a simple matter of the CCL backing the CCF unconditionally. He quoted Pat Conroy, formerly president of the CCL, as saying that they would be prepared to back the Liberals or Conservatives if those political parties would carry out the trade union program.

What happens, said Mr. Gunn, is that only the CCF incorporates the program of organized labor into its platform.

Delegates thought the matter important enough to call a special meeting of the executives of the affiliated locals, along with the labor council executive, to discuss political action. No date has yet been set.

New Clue Discovered In Robbery

Safe Combination In Desk Drawer Found Jimmied

A new clue to the theft of $2,038 from Household Finance Corporation Sunday night was uncovered Monday by Maurice Holt, manager of the Peterborough branch.

He discovered, after being called back from his holidays, that his desk drawer had been jimmied. A paper bearing the office's safe combination is kept in the drawer.

The large sum of money had been taken from the safe but there were no marks on either the safe or office door to indicate they had been forced. Only two men, Mr. Holt and the assistant manager, Gerald McCann, were in possession of the combination prior to the robbery.

PROWLERS

A previous report that prowlers had been seen in the building last week is gaining significance as police continue to investigate the theft.

Mrs. Charles Carson, a resident of one of the upstairs apartments above HFC, was going up the stairs when she met two men coming down.

She asked them: "What's the hurry?" and one replied by striking her in the stomach. They rushed away leaving her on the steps.

The incident occurred approximately 11 o'clock Thursday night.

R. Palmer, district inspector of the finance company, was also called into the investigations Monday. He will return later this week to make further enquiries.

Chain-Driven Watch 142 Years Old

MAXWELL, Ont. (CP)—An old man's dying gift of a watch gave farmer Levi Duckett a collector's prize.

At his home near this village in the Owen Sound district, Duckett treasures a chain-drive "turnip" watch that a relative of James Shipley left for repairs with London watchmakers Mansfield and Son 142 years ago.

"When I was a young 'un, James Shipley came out to Canada from England and settled down at Eugenia where I was born," says Duckett. "We were neighbors and soon fast friends."

Shipley brought with him a box full of family heirlooms, mostly watches and coins.

"He prized them pretty highly and never let anyone know where he kept them."

Duckett married and moved here and Shipley, in his declining years, came to live at the Duckett home, where he died at 102.

Duckett just recently ventured to pry out the repair slips from the ck covers of his watches, to get some idea of their age, for none of them bear the date of manufacture.

One made by "Jackson, clock and watch maker, High Street, Horncastle, mourning rings on short notice," had a circular paper in its back saying: "Mr. Parkinson, Belchford, repaired by Cartwright, Oct. 10, 1852."

A repair slip in another heavy gold timepiece is date d1848, and another 1850.

"I never thought it would be worthwhile to dig out the repair slips," said Duckett. "But now it's been done, I wonder how in tarnation old these things really are."

Duckett thinks the watches might be valuable collectors' items.

A few of the heavy heirlooms have finely wrought gold or silver chains.

Duckett's wife and their daughter, Mildred, have chosen two century-old fancy lady's watches. Said Mrs. Duckett firmly:

"They'll stay in the family out of any collector's reach."

"MY WIFE TOOK THIS GREEN BASS," explained James Hayes, of 14 Wolverton Ave., Toronto, to Constable Bert Howden on Monday morning. Mrs. June Hayes snagged the 6 pound, 13 ounce large-mouth in Clear Lake with a jitterbug lure just offshore from Curvin's Camp where they were staying.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Promise Aid To Crofters Stay On Land

FORT WILLIAM, Scotland (CP)—United States funds may provide a new way of life for the poor, proud "crofters" of Scotland's highlands and rocky islands—at a cost of $2 a head.

For centuries, the crofters—owners of small farms ranging from five to 30 acres—have managed to eke a precarious living from marginal land handed down through generations. And for centuries they have kept much to themselves, resenting interference and distrusting outsiders.

MANY LEAVING LAND

But progress is catching up with Scotland's 25,000 crofters.

Thousands of young men and women have been quitting the highlands for the cities. Rising living costs have forced more and more crofters to augment their meagre incomes by fishing, working for periods as hired hands or on hydro-electric projects.

They usually can feed themselves from their land, but their hand-weaving and kindred crafts no longer can provide them with enough ready cash.

Scottish authorities want the crofters to stay where they are, especially with every acre of land needed to produce food.

This week, the British government announced that $50,000 in counterpart funds has been allocated for a project to teach the crofters modern agricultural methods.

AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS

They will be invited to leave their homes—often single-roomed buildings with peat fires—for modern study courses in the nearest cities. The courses will be specially designed to adapt modern methods to the small farms. Scholarships may be awarded to young crofters for further study in agricultural colleges.

Scottish officials believe the crofters will welcome the project. The highlanders and islanders are expected to be willing to do anything which will allow them to live with dignity as they always have done.

FLED IRAN—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and his Queen, Saroya, have flown to Baghdad from their native Iran where Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh held control after smashing an attempt by the Shah's military guard to displace him. The Iranian Embassy in Baghdad said large scale arrests were in progress in Tehran after the abortive coup by the Imperial Iranian Guards of the Shah.

Dairy Output Increased By 6.5 Per Cent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand's dairy production for the season just ended was again a record.

Total butterfat processed by dairy factories was 471,256,000 pounds, an increase of 6½ per cent over the record set last season, and 16 per cent above the average for the last five seasons.

Production now has shown an unbroken increase for seven years, and total butterfat output each year now is about 100,000,000 pounds above that of the pre-war years.

The season just ended was favored with unusually good weather, but an important part of the increase is officially attributed to improved feeding and management techniques. Farmers are giving close attention to great advances in grassland research and animal husbandry achieved by farm scientists here.

Results of this work at the country's animal research institutes are attracting world-wide attention and visiting specialists say that in many branches of dairying technique New Zealand has established a lead.

Detailed results for the last season show there was a further increase in the average butterfat content of milk. Production per cow "at the pail" averaged 276 pounds of butterfat, an increase of 13 pounds or 5 per cent above the previous season's average.

Blind Officials Ask Gov't End Pension Means Test

TORONTO—Twenty-one sightless people are meeting here this week in an effort to make the federal and provincial governments and the general public see better.

Delegates to the ninth annual conference of the Canadian Council of the Blind, they are mapping a program seeking more enlightened legislation for the blind. They met yesterday for closed panel discussions and today the council is expected to forge recommendations into policy.

Legislation chairman H. A. Lacey, a concession stand operator from Edmonton, said the blind hope to make the federal government see that the basis for blind allowances should be changed and the means test abolished. Provincial governments will be asked to provide a program of hospital, medical, dental and eye care free to needy blind persons and on a contributory basis for those who can afford it.

Emphasizing that the council works in complete co-operation rather than competition with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Mr. Lacey said British Columbia and Alberta already provide this comprehensive program and Saskatchewan has a hospital scheme for the blind. A most important phase of the program, he said, is that the patient, whether under free or contributory care, should be allowed to choose his own doctor.

NEED EDUCATING

The public as well as the federal government needs educating on the means test argument, the white-haired but vigorous Mr. Lacey said, "Money paid to blind people," he said, "should be paid as compensation for disability and not as a living allowance." That's the basis of the argument on the means test.

"We can't see," he added, "why there is one law without the means test for old age pensioners and another for us."

Under the Blind Persons Act, sightless citizens receive $40 a month from the federal government. However, their earnings during a month are restricted to $30 if they wish to remain eligible for the federal aid.

Federal authorities, Mr. Lacey said, seem to think a blind person only needs at a maximum, $70 a month to live. "They seem to forget that a blind person who is employed often is forced to spend $40 a month more than a sighted person in a similar job."

OTHER NEEDS

He said the additional money is needed for special transportation, guides, care for clothes and other extras which their disability forces on blind persons. That is what federal aid should provide, he said, and the $40 a month should be made available to all blind persons without a means test.

The government recognizes this theory in allowing blind persons an additional $500 exemption on their income tax, Mr. Lacey said, and there is no reason why a consistent policy shouldn't be carried through to the allowances.

The council's legislation panel will also discuess the advantages of having a single objective when approaching governments or any other regulatory group.

Will Attempt Break Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — Roderick Thurgood of Brantford, undaunted by a 400-foot plunge down a mountain gorge, said Monday he plans to make another attempt to break the small car record for the run between Ottawa and Vancouver.

A cross-country dash by Thurgood and Peter Haddon of Toronto ended abruptly last week when their small Morris car swerved off the Big Bend highway 60 miles north of Hope, B.C., and rolled down a steep mountain gorge. Thurgood suffered a broken jaw and facial lacerations. His companion escaped with a shaking up and slight scratches.

Thurgood, driving at the time of the mishap, said the accident was caused by fatigue. "The failure was a human one. There was nothing the matter with the car."

The 24-year-old chartered surveyor, a member of the Toronto Sports Car Club, said he will try the trip again, probably next year.

Three-Car Collision Kills Kingston Man

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (CP)—William C. Babcock, 60, of Kingston, Ont., was killed Monday night in a three-car collision.

Police said the Babcock car skidded during a rainstorm and the two other autos collided with it.

They are charged with attempted false pretences.

Hope Cisco Kid Back In Saddle By September

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Youthful TV-watchers will be happy to know that the Cisco Kid will be back in the saddle by next month.

Duncan Renaldo, who plays Cisco, reported today he is making an amazing recovery from the broken neck which almost crippled him for life. With a degree of sentiment, he attributes part of his progress to the prayers of thousands of his young fans.

Renaldo was injured June 4 when a prop boulder rolled down a hill and struck him. Two vertebae in his neck were dislocated and fractured,the disc crushed and the spinal cord distended. "the doctor said if the cord had been displaced two millimetres more, it would have been disastrous," he remarked.

WEARING BRACE

The actor now is getting around in a neck brace, and he said he will be able to resume shooting the Western Series by the middle of next month.

"The doctor is amazed," he said. "At first he said I would be in traction six weeks and a brace for eight months. I was in traction for only three weeks and he predicts I will have recovered in three months.

"It is the kids who have helped me. I have received over 17,000 cards from them, and nearly all ended with 'I will be praying for you.' Many of them sent me crosses and Jewish mezuzahs. Ever since I got out of traction, I have been trying to answer every letter personally."

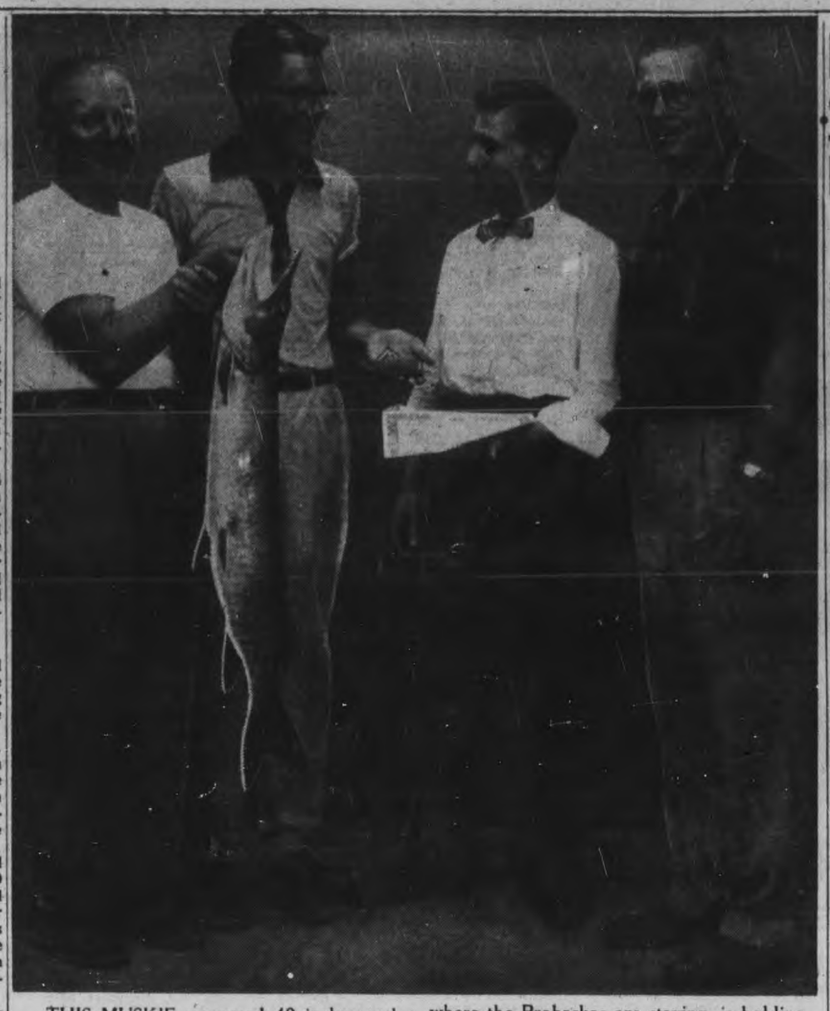
Renaldo takes his temporary setback philosophically. He is alternately amazed and happy at the new fame that TV has brought him.

"I have been in Hollywood since 1926," he remarked, "and I have had my ups and downs. In 1931, fans tore the clothes off my back in Washington when I was touring with 'Ti ..er Horn.' Six months later, nobody cared if I was alive.

"I have had success three or four times, but never have I known the amazing reaction that TV has brought. It is something entirely new in the entertainment business. When you enter people's houses every week, you become a part of the family."

Renaldo recognizes his obligation to his young audience. At his request, the Cisco Kid series has toned down the violence in its films.

"I hope some of the other Western series will follow suit. I saw one the other night that had seven murders in it. Why don't they use a little sense?"



Rescue Steamer

HONG KONG (AP)—A government spokesman said today the British frigate St. Bride's rescued the British steamer Nigelock from a Chinese Nationalist gunboat Sunday night off the coast of central China. The spokesman said the Nigelock, owned by Wheelock Marden Co., Ltd., radioed that she had been intercept by a warship south of Turnabout island. The ship was en route to Shanghai.

Small College For Negro Girls Stands Unique In Educational Field

By ALLEN RAYMOND
(Special to The Examiner)

GREENSBORO, N.C.,— Bennett College, a small school for Negro girls, with one of the loveliest campuses in the United States, stands unique today in the field of education. There is no other school like it anywhere.

This college, with buildings valued at $2,500,000 and an endowment of $1,300,000, is the result of 27 years' hard work and salesmanship by its Negro president, Dr. David D. Jones, son of a Greensboro, N.C., cobbler. He has made many friends of influence and wealth throughout the United States by his absolute devotion to a single ideal of education, to be realized in the town of his birth.

Dr. Jones' idea, when he took over in 1926 a run-down school with four buildings, a few acres planted in corn and potatoes, and $1 in the treasury, was that Negro college girls had special problems because of inter-racial relations, and that a curriculum should be designed to meet those problems.

It was also his idea, and that of his wife, that life on the campus at Bennett College should be part of the education of all students, and that this life should be conducted in an atmosphere of beauty, orderliness and dignity. This college, they decided, would be completely Democratic and without sororities. Every girl would work a little every day to make her dormitory and the campus as attractive as she would want her home to be later.

The educational courses would include not only the classics, to fit girls for teaching, a profession into which most Negro girls of higher education go, but practical skills as well. Above all, it would stress the dignity and worth of the individual, by tutelage ranging from personal hygiene to personal grooming, poise, modulation of voice, manners, and morals, based partly on religion and partly on the idea of co-operation with others for common purposes.

The school had 10 girls in college grades when Dr. Jones took over. It had 150 in high school courses. Today the college has 430, drawn from 28 states, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, Japan and China. The high school has long since been dropped.

The students are a picked lot of exceptional girls and most come from relatively poor families. One out of four who apply is accepted.

Bennett College, with a faculty of 43, has several white teachers. One, the dancing teacher, is a southern woman. A male white teacher is an ex-Marine from Boston. There are three refugee teachers from Russia and Germany, and a refugee Chinese professor of mathematics and physics, educated in the United States, who was lucky enough to get out of Shanghai with his wife and three children after the Communists took over.

The college has 31 buildings of alternate Georgian and colonial architecture. The principal ones form a spacious quadrangle, enclosing a fine green lawn which once was a corn field. At the head of the quadrangle is a combined chapel and little theatre, with a fine white spire.

Three years ago the college dedicated a students' union building which cost $500,000. It contains a dining hall, where college dances are held; bowling alleys, music studios, game rooms, a snack bar, college store and post office. It is the only one of its kind in any Negro college.

Bennett also has a model home, in which undergraduates practice the lessons they learn in household economics courses.

This year the college is building a nursery school, in which undergraduates will practice care and education of children.

Since 1940 the consulting architect for the college has been Jens Frederick Larsen who also serves Princeton, Dartmouth, and Colby. Years ago Dr. Jones visited Mr. Larsen and told him of his hopes and problems. The architect visited Greensboro and drew up plans for a campus to be. He has never charged Dr. Jones a penny.

Another who has helped Dr. Jones is Charles F. Gillette, of Richmond, Va., who aided the Rockefellers in the restoration of Williamsburg, and who planned much of the William and Mary campus. Mr. Gillette has drawn a master plan for Bennett for the next 50 years. It includes the placing of every projected tree and shrub, as well as every future building.

In the gradual development of the Bennett curriculum and for implementation of Dr. Jones' original ideas, he has enlisted the continual help of such educators as Dr. Constance Warren, now president-emeritus of Sarah Lawrence College; Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Charters, educational consultants at Stephens College; Dean Thomas Holgate, of Northwestern University, and Dr. Willa B. Player, now the college vice-president.

Bennett's tuition fee is $700, plus clothes and some travel. In some parts of the Negro press the college has been dubbed "the Negro Vassar," but its scheme of education is uniquely its own.

It stems partly from Wesleyan University, from which Dr. Jones was graduated in 1913; partly from the Methodist church, which has had a large share in building it, and principally from the driving force of the one man who has made it his life work.

Red Informers Spied On UN Prisoners

By MAC R. JOHNSON
Special To The Examiner

FREEDOM VILLAGE, MUNSAN, Korea—"What would happen to me if I killed a man now?" a returning prisoner of war asked a major the other day.

"Get it out of your head," the major replied. "You're on your way home."

The returning soldier was not satisfied with the answer. He had spent over two years in a Red prison camp. He and his buddies had been spied on and informed on by a fellow prisoner. He was bittere and revengeful.

He said his own life would have been at stake if he had taken any retaliatory action against this traitorous fellow during their imprisonment in Camp No. 5 at Pyoktong.

Chinese guards and prison officials, he said, protected pro-Communist "progressives" and informers in the camp. But now, he explained, he was free and under no threat from his captors.

He seemed perplexed by the major's answer as if he could not understand why the government of the United States would arrest or try him if he personally extracted the death penalty from the informer now.

TURN PRISONER IN

He took his problem to another major, this one in the Army Signal Corps. "Turn that guy in if you want to, but don't take the law in your own hands," the second major advised him.

The returnee shook his head. As far as he was concerned he still had a justifiable homicide in mind.

This particular returnee was one of the "hard core" anti-Communists who had resisted the Reds in every way he could while a prisoner.

He and others who crossed to freedom together had been the "bad boys" of Camp No. 5—men who had tried one, two and thee times to escape, men who had been in jail one, two or three times for protesting about poor and inadequate food, men who had been beaten for stealing food or warm winter clothing from a Chinese warehouse.

They had been kept back until the last because of their anti-Red attitude. They said that men who co-operated with the Reds were in the group that received priority to "come back first" during operation Big Switch. They also freely said that the men who did come back first were not pro-Communists because "those Reds were smart and mixed up" the pro-and anti-Communists.

OFTEN JAILED

One of the tough anti-Communist soldiers who hated informers and "progressives" because he had suffered in jail repeatedly as a result of being "turned in to the Chinese" by fellow informers for everything from escape plans to stealing food was Pfc. John Powazi, 26, of New York.

He said he was punished repeadtely on legitimate charges of attempting to escape and on trumped-up charges of trading with North Koreans. He said he would "take it" as long as he could in jail then "confess" and later do it all over again.

Pfs. Powazi said he had some scores that he wanted to settle with American pro-Communist informers but that instead of turning in names to the Army, "I'd just as soon do it my own way when I get back to the states."

The bitterness of those who feel they had been betrayed for their anti-Red actions by fellow soldiers seemed to run deep. They hadin mind everything from getting even by murder to asking for an Army investigation of how certain men behaved in prison camps.

EVER SINCE the little girl with the unpronounceable name Irene Andrusczcakewicz lost her parents, she has wondered just what her future might be. The 12-year-old Polish girl has been a ward of the Children's Aid Society at Markham, Ontario, and although her aunt, Mrs. George Makohon, in Flint, Michigan, wanted to adopt her, the way was barred because the U.S. Polish quota was full. When President Eisenhower heard of her troubles, he signed a special bill allowing Irene to enter the United States to join her aunt. Now, breathless with excitement, the little girl waits to go.

Declaration Held Threat To Extend War In China

By JOSEPH NEWMAN
(Special To The Examiner)

LONDON—Under strong pressure both from Labor leaders and prominent newspapers to correct any misapprehensions the United States may have regarding Great Britain's interpretation of the statement on the armistice in Korea issued by the 16 nations who fought there, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill is reported to have discussed the matter with two top Foreign Office officials.

There has been loud outcry in London against the second point of the statement, warning against violating the armistice, which reads: "The consequences of such a breach of the armistice would be so grave that in all probability it would not be possible to confine hostilities within the frontiers of Korea." This has been generally interpreted here as a warning to the Communists that the UN would retaliate against Communist violation of the armistice by extending the Korean conflict to the Chinese mainland.

When Sir Winston returned to 10 Downing St. for the first time since he left London June 25 for his Chartwell country home to recover from a still undisclosed ailment, he conferred with the acting Foreign Secretary the Marquess of Salisbury and Sir Pierson Dixon, a deputy undersecretary at the Foreign Office in charge of political affairs.

"The Times" of London, regarded as one of Britain's leading newspapers, published an unusual editorial of more than one column in length criticizing both the 16-nation declaration and the British government for subscribing to it.

It was unusual because "The Times", which generally supports the government, has rarely rebuked it in such scathing terms.

"The Times" began by lecturing the Churchill government and its allies with this maxim: "Never announce a threatening policy unless you are ready in the last resort to carry it out."

It then made these points:

1. The declaration is a threat to extend the war to China if the Communists resume the Korean conflict.

2. Yet the British Foreign Office maintains it has entered into no new commitment, and "there is no reason to doubt" this disclaimer since "it would indeed be absurd to think that governments which for very good reasons opposed any widening of the war before the truce was made should suddenly have decided that a wider war would be a solution if the truce were broken".

3. "If the declaration was not a declaration of policy" then its purpose was "political warfare".

4. Those who framed this warning thinking of its effect on China and North Korea "seem to have forgotten that public opinion in their own countries would distrust the implications, would ask whether new commitments had been made and would consequently draw the kind of honest and reassuring answers that would take all meaning out of the declaration even as an act of psychological warfare," thereby making the warning "disingenuous and ineffective."

"The Times" said that "the offending part of the declaration is dangerous because it may have misled many powerful sections of American opinion into thinking that 15 other nations—Britain chief among them—would immediately join in launching a war against the Chinese mainland if the truce were broken."

In the event the Communists break the truce, "The Times" observed, "pressure on Eisenhower to extend the war could be almost irresistible and the 16 nations' declaration would provide an added argument."

By making what the editorial called "a promise or half-promise" to extend the war to China, "The Times" suggested, the Churchill government departed from its "proper position" and the "accepted lines of British policy in the Far East".

Allow Woman To Keep Adopted Child

NEW YORK (AP)—A wife, who accepted and cared for the child born to her husband's mistress, was told today she could keep the little girl—despite the real mother's belated claims.

This was the child's choice, too.

The story, in which the girl, now 12, learned only recently from her real mother the circumstances of her birth, was unfolded in a decision by State Supreme Court Justice Maximilian Moss.

The record, substituting Jane Doe for the name of the unmarried mother and using Richard and Catherine Roe for the married couple, gave this account:

Twelve years ago, in an affair with Roe, Miss Doe became pregnant. When his wife, Catherine, learned of the situation, she agreed to bring Miss Doe into their home, where she remained until the birth of the child.

It was agreed the child would be raised as the couple's own. For 12 years, the child thought Richard and Catherine Roe were her parents. Miss Doe visited the couple's home regularly, as the child's godmother.

"Now, after the lapse of those long years, Jane Doe has informed the child that she is her mother," Moss related. "She did not act as a real mother should have acted."

The child, he said, "strongly feels that she should be allowed to remain in her father's household, and deeply resents the suggestion that she live with her natural mother."

To stay where she is, the judge ruled, is in "the child's best interest."

The court, giving the participants fictitious names, ordered papers in the case sealed.

"Hornless Cows" Get Better Deal In Japan Now

TORONTO (CP)—Japan's "hornless cows" are getting a better deal.

"Hornless cows" is the name applied by the Japanese to younger farm women who used to be considered little more than beasts of burden, says Mrs. Yoshie Omura, home economist from Yokohama.

Sent here by her government as an observer at the Associated Country Women of the World Conference, Mrs. Omura said in an interview that under Japan's centuries-old feudal system the farm woman's purpose in life was to raise large families and "they weren't even allowed to complain."

When government home economists began going into the villages of Japan about three years ago to help raise the living standards, they tried to meet these women. At first the male heads of families wouldn't let them go to the home-making lectures and cooking demonstrations.

"Now they let the younger women attend our oectures," Mrs. Omura said.

Today the conference delegates are to tour the Niagara Falls area as guests of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission.

Company Meat Loaf Quicky

Query: What does Mrs. Canada do when unexpected company arrives for the evening meal, and yesterday's roast looks about big enough for a midnight snack? Easy; she dips into the wonderful stock-pile of ingenuity, the recipe file, for her favorite "quicky" loaf.

This pork and apple loaf will do you proud as a "spur of the moment" meal-planner—and it will be in the best of good taste.

PORK AND APPLE LOAF

2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup evaporated milk
1 egg, beaten
3 cups ground, left-over pork
2 tart apples, pared and cored
1 medium onion
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon monosodium
⅛ teaspoon rosemary glutamate

Combine bread crumbs, evaporated milk, and egg; let stand ½ hour. Put pork, apples and onion through food chopper, using fine knife, add seasonings; mix well. Pack into loaf pan 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Older People Need Milk Special Recipes Provide

Having a Grandma or Grandpa or both living in the home while the family grows up is a part of twentieth century living. Youngsters enjoy the proverbial "spoiling", parents enjoy the built-in baby-sitter feature, and the older citizens' tales of yesteryear add to the general enjoyment of living. However, the food habits of those lovable grandparents may present a bit of a meal-time problem.

Older people—and their total count is on the up and up in Canada—need milk just as much as children and those in the in-between years do.

The excellent protein and calcium—just two of milk's notable contributions— does a repairing job a swell as that of building. That's why all people—regardless of age-need the fluid food that is milk. The problem of the Grandmas and Grandpas who don't DRINK enough milk is solved by pointing out that they can EAT milk as well as drink it.

Easily prepared and flavorful soups and puddings are especially welcomed by older people—and if these menu highlights are made with milk, then they'll be eating it all right. Since older people often have limited cooking facilities—or else lack the drive to do much "fussing" in the matter of preparation, the Bureau also suggests some easy quick-mix pudding combinations— using milk. Along with these brand new recipe ideas for soups and desserts you'll find menu suggestions that illustrate just how enticing it can be to eat the fluid food-milk.

TRY THESE WAYS

So often we think of older people's tastes running to toast and tea. Yet that toast and tea could easily be changed to give them more food value for the foods they eat. Toast and tea could be replaced with a buttered shredded wheat biscuit and hot milk. Or better still, make that old time "soup", of hot buttered toast cubes, placed in a soup bowl and covered with hot milk. Sprinkled with salt and pepper it makes a nourishing supper dish—or can be used at dessert time, with a sprinkle of sugar and nutmeg, instead of the seasoning.

Use Shampoo Of Quality

When you look for a new dress what do you consider first? Style? Or quality? Obviously, both are important. No one wants a dress of poor quality, and certainly nobody will wear a gown that doesn't have style

Have you ever considered that the same may be said for hair? Stylin is important, especially this year when there are so many different coifs to choose from. But the material is also important. That is why, no matter how you interpret current hair fashions, you must start with clean hair.

Shampooing is often taken for granted. Girls think of it as something to be done every week or ten days according to their individual schedule. And that is that!

But shampooing isn't cut and dried. You can wash your hair just to get it clean, or you can wash it to make it beautiful. There's a difference.

A hair beauty treatment starts with vigorous brushing before the shampoo. Brush up and away from your head, allowing the bristles to sweep across your scalp. The brush helps to loosen dry flakes of skin which may appear on the scalp after winter months of steam heat and tight hats.

Vigorous, however, does not mean rough. Vigorous brushing makes the scalp feel warm and tingly. Use a brush with bristles strong enough to separate the hair without flattening out, strong enough to dust each individual hair.

Then shampoo. One of the new type detergent shampoos that sudses instantly makes the business of hair washing easy and simple. Whether you use a cream, jelly or liquid type, they cleanse thoroughly and quickly in water of any hardness. Your hair seems to have more color, too; since shampoos of this type leave no residue to cloud natural hair color.

Always towel dry your hair after a shampoo before setting it. The dryer your hair is before rolling it in pin curls, the prettier it will be. One of the largest New York beauty salons will not set hair until it is almost dry, and the beauty and lasting quality of their hair styles are the envy of those who do not know this secret.

As further aids to hair beauty, never use combs with broken teeth, or sharp hairpins or clips. And try arranging your hair with a brush instead of a comb. Hair brushed with a firm hand falls into place beautifully—a comb can be used later for smoothing.

Take shampooing out of the hair-washing category. Make it a hair beauty treatment.

Eastern Delegates Urge Education By Audio-Visual

TORONTO—Audio-visual methods of education for the Far East were advocated by Eastern delegates yesterday at a group discussion held in connection with the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World.

The Far East delegates said that because of so much illiteracy in their countries the ordinary methods of education would not work as they do in the West.

Eastern delegates, it was said, also favored a wider exchange of students among the various countries.

Problems of labor on farms concerned Canadian and U.S. delegates. Representatives from both countries said that high wages in industry lured young men from the farms and the high cost of starting their own farms was an added deterrent.

U.S. delegates said the average farmer's age in their country is between 55 and 60, but they felt that the end of the Korean War would bring more men back to the land and lower the average age.

One British delegate said that in Britain there is a trend toward young men becoming "farm managers" rather than farming on their own. The reason, she said, is that large companies are buying up farm land and employing young men to run the farms for them.

Besides the group discussion, yesterday's program included a civic luncheon and a series of committee meetings.

DOROTHY DIX:

Efficient Stepmother Wrong In Denying Mother Visits

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a father, mother, stepmother and stepfather. When my father divorced mother, it was understood that mother could see us any time she wished, which she did. My father remarried when I was 11. Soon after, my stepmother put a stop to our writing or seeing our mother. Mother didn't want to cause trouble so she told us to obey our stepmother, advising us to wait until we were older and could decide for ourselves what we wanted to do. This separation went on until I married. Then I went to see my mother. When my stepmother found out, she turned her back on me. Now father has to sneak out to see us and his grandchildren, or I visit him at his office. I still have a great deal of respect for my stepmother since she did a fine job of bringing us up. I see my mother only once a year, but correspond with her to let her know how we're getting on.

EVELYN R.

✧ ✧ ✧

SECOND WIFE'S LOT

ANSWER: It's a pity that your stepmother didn't extend her excellent job of rearing you to the point where she accepted the fact that you were, after all, the offspring of another woman. Since there is no possibility of your own mother interfering in your household or in your relationship with your father and his wife, your stepmother's attitude is, to say the least, intolerant. Perhaps time and prayer will change her.

Of course, there's a side to her story, too. Bringing up children whose mother is still living is no easy job, and is almost always accompanied by jealousy—conscious or otherwise—of the husband's first wife. Resentment of a first marriage that ended in divorce is part and parcel of the second wife's lot. Obviously she should fight it, since she was aware that her marriage would be fraught with complications. However, human nature seldom heeds the laws of common sense, subsequently difficulties mount instead of decreasing.

At the present time, your father's devotion to his grandchildren may be an added factor in your stepmother's stubborn refusal to welcome you. Patience on your part is the only road to follow; your attitude of quiet acceptance may win the course in the long run.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For several months I have been dating a boy from another town and have grown to like him a lot. Recently, he asekd me to go steady, but—at a price. For that reason I have quit dating him. Am I right?

BELINDA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The price the boy exacts for the pleasure of his company is indeed too high. You may be absolutely sure that when a boy takes this stand, he's interested in the girl only for purely selfish reasons.

Forget this one. A more honorably intentioned young man will come along who will really like you and respect you. Just be patient.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a wonderful sister, 31 years old, who would like to meet a nice man but doesn't know how to go about it. She is one of seven sisters, and doesn't work because she takes care of our sick mother. How can I help her?

MRS. F. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: For heaven's sake, why don't the rest of you pitch in and give the girl enough time off to go out and make friends? In fact, if you divided the responsibility of caring for your mother, your sister could get at least a part-time job, which would be the best step in meeting people.

Quebec Has First Woman Parachutist

MONTREAL (CP)—Monique Lapierre operates a beauty parlor to make a living and jumps out of airplanes in her spare time.

The attractive 20-year-old girl from Coaticook, 100 miles southeast of Montreal has made a dozen parachute jumps in the last two years.

Monique admits that jumping out scares her. The sight of the ground so far below and the sensation of dropping give her stomach convulsions, she says.

"I never open my eyes until the parachute opens and sometimes not even then."

To make certain that the parachute does open, Monique packs it herself but even then she feels nervous until it finally blooms out above her.

ONE INJURY

The only time she was injured was when she jumped into Lake Magog last year. In jumping into water the parachutist drops out of his harness 10 feet above the water so that the chute may drift away and not entangle him.

Monique misjudged her height and plunged 75 feet instead of 10, breaking a few ribs.

Over water, where there are no familiar objects to observe, it is hard to judge height and distance, she said.

She picked up her strange hobby two years ago to impress a boy friend.

He was an aspiring pilot but could not get his licence until he had made a parachute jump. When he showed timidity about the idea of jumping, Monique offered to show him how easy the whole thing was by doing it herself.

She did—becoming Quebec's first woman parachutist—and has been at it ever since.

The boy friend never did go through with his jump.

Queen Selecting Gowns For Commonwealth Tour

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen, on holiday at Balmoral Castle, already is busy supervising the preparation of her wardrobe for the Commonwealth tour she will start Nov. 23.

Orders for coats, suits and dresses have been placed with her two principal dressmakers, Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies, it was announced Monday. Three firms are to get orders for her hats, one for her shoes.

Hartnell and Amies soon will go to Balmoral for first fittings. For the Queen this will be a tiring business, for the wardrobe she needs is so extensive that there will be long hours of standing still while fitters pin and tack.

Designs for these models were submitted well before the Coronation last June. Fittings for some began last May.

Between them Hartnell and Amies designed and made most of the clothes for her tour of Canada, which she made as Princess Elizabeth at the end of 1951, and the Australasian tour which had to be abandoned on the death of King George VI in February, 1952.

DESIGNED EVENING GOWNS

Hartnell also made her elaborately-embroidered Coronation dress. His specialty is richly embroidered evening gowns, and it was he who launched the full-skirted crinoline which has been so popular with the Royal Family for formal occasions.

Amies designed some of the most popular day ensembles and suits which the Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, wore in Canada in 1951.

The announcement from Buckingham Palace Monday said the Queen's hats will be by Claude St. Cyr of Hartnell's, Aage Thaarup and Kate Day, and her shoes by H. and M. Rayne.

NEW PARTNERSHIP

Miss St. Cyr has only recently been working with Hartnell in London. But she has made many of the hats which the Queen has worn since her accession, including important occasions during the Coronation season like the Royal Ascot races.

Thaarup has long made hats, not only for the Queen, but also for Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and other members of the family.

Presumably the models ordered for the forthcoming tour will conform to the usual custom and be off the face. Neither the Queen nor other mem ers of the Royal Family wear hats which conceal their faces from the public when they are performing public engagements.

The Rayne firm, royal shoemakers, work in close collaboration with Hartnell and Amies to match the Queen's shoes to her dresses.

Gadgets Make Women Lazy Belief Of Men

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — An English woman told 1,200 delegates at an international conference here that many husbands are reluctant to buy labor-saving gadgets for the home because they fear their wives will have too much leisure time.

The speaker, Miss M. E. Bailie, head of the housecraft department of the Electrical Association for Women, added that—according to a poll of wives—the men also believe such gadgets make their wives lazy.

Other women speakers among the delegates from 44 countries attending the International Congress on Home Economics urged better equipment and working conditions for housewives.

"We believe it is important in the home that the housewife should have the advantages that industry has of good equipment, good conditions and good tools," said Dorothy M. Elliott, chairman of Britain's National Institute of Houseworkers.

A representative of the food and agricultural organization from Rome, Margaret Hockin, appealed for more vigor and intelligence in publicizing throughout the world the contribution that home economics can make to family and community welfare.

Petite Redheaded MD Ends Tour Of Europe, East Studying Welfare Problems

By BILL BOSS

SEOUL (CP)—A petite redhead with a flair for helping the world's unfortunate, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova is heading back to Canada brimful of ideas for new projects.

Executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, with headquarters in Ottawa, she has literally gone around the world looking for useful projects to which Canadian generosity might be harnessed.

Since last May she has been in Europe, the Middle East, India and Burma, Hong Kong, Japan and Korea. She expects to be back in Ottawa Aug. 23.

If her committee approves Dr. Hitschmanova's ideas, Canadian Unitarians shortly will be helping further in the rehabilitation of Korea, and in social work in Idia.

MILK FOR KIDDIES

Noted for doing big things on lean budgets, the Canadian welfare worker is famous in Seoul for having organized a milk-feeding program for the city's school children last winter.

It provided 240,000 pounds of milk, which gave 25,000 children in Seoul's primary schools a bowlful of milk daily for the three winter months.

Milk now is reaching Korea in quantity. Dr. Hitschmanova wants to add Canadian pressed barley to give the kiddies a kind of gruel.

The barley is processed by Canadian manufacturers who have perfected a process developed by the Japanese. Their product is supposed to be more nourishing than ordinary barley or rice.

Dr. Hitschmanova experimented in a Seoul orphanage with the gruel, and reported that the children were enthusiastic about it.

She says she is impressed by the forward strides Korea has made in re-establishing normal life since her last visit here earlier this year.

MILLION WAR WIDOWS

A second project, in co-operation with Korea's ministry of social affairs' women's bureau, is for sewing machines to help in a rehabilitation program for war widows.

Korea has more than 1,000,000 widows.

The bureau is organizing knitting, weaving, embroidery and canning projects for these women, whose home industries already are producing such items as servicemen's uniforms, towels, and upholstery for government offices.

Dr. Hitschmanova has been asked to provide 33 sewing machines to be divided among six provinces, earmarked for such programs. The machines would be bought in Japan.

Her third Korean scheme she calls "Socks and Shoes, Unlimited." She is asking Canadian women to knit socks and stockings in small sizes, and any colors they like.

"My heart breaks when I think of the children who lost their feet last winter through amputation after frostbite," she says.

HEALTH IN INDIA

Her Indian projects embrace three jeep health clinics near Delhi and in the Punjab, a community centre in Delhi's Harijan sweeper's colony, a midwife for the village of Khasi in Assam, and a program of food and medicine for "Lakeside Village," 10 minutes from Madras.

She also has an idea for helping India's estimated 10,000,000 orphans.

The Indian government wants to teach them spinning — the way Gandhi supported himself while working for the independence of India.

So Dr. Hitschmanova wants to invite Canadian school children to buy "Gandhi spinnig wheels" for Indian orphans, at $2.50 each, and thereby enable the Indian children to lead useful lives.

"You can do so much in Indin for so little money," she says.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Modesty Also A Virtue In The Cook

It just ain't finnin'—or ladylike or modest—for me to sit at this desk and smugly accept the compliments you friends pile on me without public acknowledgment of it occasionally.

Daily I receive so many friendly letters that I find my self waiting eagerly for the mailman, instead of moaning at the amount of work it means answering you.

The nicest things pop-out of envelopes and boxes: a loaf of whole wheat bread from the recipe I made up and printed; a small jar of chunk pickles from a recipe in one of last year's columns; a dollar bill from a worried cook who was grateful for menus and recipes for an underweight; a tatted centrepiece and many other gifts.

I want you to know I love my work. I enjoy helping you, and your letters help me to keep going strong. The thanks should come from me—and they do with all my heart.

At this moment I'm so hungry my stomach aches—but I can wait a little longer for I'm fricasseeing a chicken and can smell it in the kitchen.

The reason for this chicken is that at about 10:45 last night just when he called "Goodnight" I asked Pete what he'd like for dinner the following evening (tonight) when his friend Thorny was coming. He said "I don't care as long as it's chicken." I said "You may have to settle for hot dogs because I'm so busy." No answer. But I'm a fall guy. He's getting his chicken. I really shouldn't compain (and don't) for with this job he is on this summer he gets up at 6:30 every morning and gets his own breakfast while I sleep until 7:30. It's an enormous breakfast too—for there are all kinds of dishes left for me to wash.

FRICASSEE OF CHICKEN WITH DUMPLINGS

5-lb. boiling fowl is best for this. Singe, wash, dress and cut up chicken into serving pieces. Put in stewing kettle, cover with 5 cups boiling water, add 1 sliced onion, ½ cup cut up celery leaves and stalk and ¼ cup parsley. Cover and simmer gently until tender. A fowl will require 3 hours. Fifteen minutes before chicken is done add 2 teaspoons salt. When done remove chicken to hot platter and keep hot. Strain the stock and stir into 3 cups of it a flour and water paste made of 6 tablespoons flour and ½ cup cold water, until thick. Now this must be on a burner where it will definitely simmer, but not boil. It also must not burn for you are going to cook dumplings on it.

FLUFFY DUMPLINGS

Sift bread flour and measure 1 cup and sift it with 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt and cut into them ½ tablespoon shortening until mixture is fine. Quickly stir in ½ cup milk that is not cold. Form this into a long smooth roll and cut on bias into 8 pieces. Quickly drop this on top of simmering sauce (see above), cover at once and cook 12 minutes without lifting lid. Then take one out and split it to see if it is cooked to the centre. Lift these out on a skimmer, arrange around chicken on hot platter. I think it is better to pass the gravy in a separate bowl or gravy boat, for so much is wasted if it is poured over the chicken.

I decided to have green beans shredded, and sliced tomatoes and cucumbers and two-crust blueberry pie with it. That ought to fill those boys.

Famous Chef Prefers Wife's Cooking

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert Audelan, despite a lifetime of preparing fancy dishes at a New York hotel, prefers his wife's cooking.

Audelan, an authority on food and chief chef at his hotel (Essex) is president of the Federation des Chefs de Cuisine d'Amerique and director of the Culinary Federation of New York.

Visiting Montreal, he said food, to be right, should be home-cooked. His own favorite dish is plain boiled beef—as prepared by his wife.

"There's nothing peculiar about that," he explained. "A chef sees so much artistically-prepared food that he develops an extremely conservative taste himself."

In the summer, Audelan said, his main meals are cold foods but warned: "One hot meal a day is important for everyone regardless of the temperature. Too many cold dishes can be disturbing to the system."

He regards Quebec chefs as among those at the top of their profession.

"I am certain that in this little French corner of North America they will continue to earn the renown which French chefs have merited throughout the world."

He came to present Amicale des Cuisiniers et Patissiers of Quebec province with a scroll of alliance to the federation of chefs.

Republican H. Noel Shot

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Alderman Henry H. Noel, 71, prominent in Massachusetts Republican activities, was shot to death early today by a masked gunman who broke his way into the Noel residence.

Noel was shot in the heart with a revolver as he was rushing down a flight of stairs from his bedroom with a .22 calibre rifle in his hands.

Noel and his wife were awakened by the noises the gunman made in jimmying open a downstairs window, apparently to burglarize the house.

Mrs. Noel said her husband grabbed the rifle and headed downstairs but got only halfway down when the masked man fired a shot.

Mrs. Noel said she ran down in time to get a fleeting glimpse of the gunman, whom she described as tall, slim and young and wearing a soft hat, a sports jacket, slacks and a handkerchief mask.

Doesn't Know PoW Father

TORONTO (CP)—Cpl. Jim Pelletier of Chatham, home from Korea after three months as a prisoner of war, landed at suburban Malton today. His three-year-old daughter didn't know him because she had never seen his moustache.

Pelletier's wife and 18-months-old daughter Charlene greeted him warmly. His wife hadn't heard from him between the time he was taken prisoner May 2 and the announcement after the Korean truce that he was among the PoWs who would be exchanged.

Meeting his family at Malton was a big surprise for the Canadian who killed four Chinese of a swarm of attackers who captured him. Cpl. Pelletier did not expect to see his family until he reached his Chatham home. The family drove to Malton this morning.

"I feel just great," he said. "For 60 days I'm just going to relax."

He said he got better treatment from the Communists than he had expected.

"The Communists didn't try to indoctrinate me," he commented. "They held classes at first, but it didn't work out well. So they gave up the idea."

Strange Sights

NEW YORK (AP)—You never know what to expect when ships pull into port these days. The Holland-Americ motor ship Westerdam arrived from Europe Monday with 99 passengers—20 swans, eight cranes and an 83-foot, 60-ton yacht riding piggy-back on the Westerdam's deck. The birds were for various zoos in this country. The yacht, built in The Netherlands, was for W. H. Perry of Cobham, Va.

Blessing Animals Still Practised In Churches

WASHINGTON — The next time Fido strays, you might look for him in church.

Dogs, as well as horses, pigs and other animals, are church-goers on occasion in many countries. The "Blessing of the Animals," an ancient church custom, is still annually observed in parts of England, Switzerland, Austria, Spain, Mexico and the United States.

At Holy Trinity Church, Hereford, England, the blessing is performed on the first Sunday after October 3, the feast day of St. Francis of Assisi. Parishioners, mostly children, bring everything from ponies to gold fish.

Rabbits, ducks, chickens, guinea pigs, even white mice, have received the blessing at Hereford. During the service two years ago, a pair of homing pigeons escaped from a basket. They perched on the church roof until the service was over, then flew home.

CALIFORNIA MENAGERIE

At the Cathedral Garden of St. James in Fresno, California, past participants in the blessing have included baby alligators, bees, turtles, snails, hamsters and bull frogs, in addition to the more common pets.

In Catholic countries, the "Benediction of Beasts" is annually performed on January 17, St. Anthony's Day. Mexican villagers gaily paint their dogs, pigs, parrots and burros and adorn them with ribbons and flowers to honor the occasion.

In the tiny hamlet of Turtmann in Switzerland's Valaisan Alps, the ceremony is held on April 23, the day of St. George, who is patron saint of domestic animals in this region.

This year, for the 142nd time, men of Jesenwang, Austria, rode their heavy farm horses straight to the altar of the village church for a special blessing. In 1811, a fatal animal epidemic plagued the community, and the parish priest was asked to involke blessings. When the epidemic promptly subsided, villagers pledged to bless their livestock once each year.

Jesenwang's unique ritual may soon cease, however. The little Bavarian town now boasts 36 tractors, and horses are in decline.

SPECIAL PEWS

Some of England's oldest churches still have pews equipped with iron hooks and rings. Here churchgoers in medieval times fastened their bloodhounds, mastiffs and other hunting breeds during services.

A few churches had a small pew within the chancel arch, known as the "hall dog pew." This space was reserved for dogs. Special tongs, with long handles and wooden teeth, were used to capture dogs that wandered to inaccessible parts of the church.

In Siena, Italy, horses are taken to church and blessed prior to racing in the Palio, the world's oldest horse race. An annual affair since the 14th century, the Palio is a gruelling three-lap run around Siena's town square that frequently takes a heavy toll of participants.

Attlee Urges Tito Allow Other Parties

BLED, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — Britain's Socialist party leader Clement R. Attlee today urged Yugoslavia to permit the formation of more than one political party.

He told a press conference during his private visit here as a guest of President Tito that Yugoslavia's one-party system is "like a race with only one entry." Only under a party system, he said, could Yugoslavia become a full democracy.

A Yugoslav reporter asked Attlee whether he agreed that Yugoslvia has individual and religious freedom.

"I have seen that," Attlee replied, "and I want it supplemented by freedom to form political parties and to see this at the next election."

The absence of a party system, he said, placed difficulties in the way of closer Yugoslav co-operation with the West and closer ties between Tito's officials and British Socialists.

Can't Land In U.K.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP)—A 24-year-old American who stowed away aboard the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary to get to Britain and swim the English channel was refused permission to land here Monday night by immigration officials. Wallace Warran Smith was found in a toilet by a master-at-arms 24-hours after the liner sailed from New York.

30 Ringleaders Arrested In Tehran Hunt

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's triumphant government continued a roundup today of suspects in Sunday's attempted coup. From a hill hideout the fugitive shah's appointee, Maj.-Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, defiantly called on army officers to lay down their lives for the monarchy.

(Shah Mohommed Reza Pahlevi and Empress Soraya, meanwhile, left Iraq by plane today for Europe.

Unofficial reports said police and pro-Mossadegh troops had arrested 30 alleged ringleaders of the palace attempt to ust the aged premier. Foreign Minister Hussein Fatemi admitted 14 were army leaders.

Zahedi's declaration was handed reporters by a courier in Tehran as troops scoured the countryside for him. Addressed to Iranian army officers, it said:

"Be ready for sacrifice and the loss of your lives for the maintenance of independence and the monarchy of Iran and the preservation of the principles of the holy religion of Islam, which now is being attacked by infidel Communists."

FIRMLY IN POWER

But Mossadegh's government appeared firmly in power following the abortive coup launched after Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi signed a decree to depose the premier.

The monarch named Zahedi to the post but pro-Mossadegh forces routed a display of force by the imperial guard. The 34-year-old shah fled with his wife, Empress Soraya, by plane to neighboring Iraq.

The government ordered a special frontier watch to prevent Zahedi from slipping across to join the shah in Baghdad. There was speculation the monarch may plan to set up a government in exile.

Soviets Hold Briton, Jeep

BERLIN (Reuters)—A British military policeman and his jeep were still in Soviet hands in East Germany today after being pounced on by Russian guards along the West Berlin-Soviet zone border Monday night.

A companion escaped to the West when the Soviet guards opened fire on the jeep, which had inadvertently crossed the border line while being turned by its driver.

A West Berlin policeman said eight shots were fired after the fleeing British soldier.

In another border incident last night Soviet soldiers forced two West Berlin girls at pistol point to cross the border into East Germany from United States-occupied Zehlendorf.

The girls were released when West Berlin police reinforcements arrived.

He made his first reappearance at Downing street last week for foreign affairs talks with Lord Salisbury acting foreign secretary.

Reach Decisive Stages In Tennis Play

OTTAWA (CP)—A marathon program of singles matches today had brought the two major competitions of the Canadian junior tennis championships — men's and women's singles—to their decisive stages after four days of play.

But the singles matches will have to await the sixth day of play Wednesday. Today was given over largely to second- and third-round doubles matches.

Several third-round matches were played off Monday in the women's singles division. On the men's side, four players got through the fourth round to the quarter-finals: D. Arnaud of Hempstead, N.Y., Jacques Paquette of Ottawa, J. McLean of Buffalo, N.Y., and Kalman Hettleman of Baltimore.

NO TOUGH OPPOSITION

The play gave no indication that there is anyone capable of stopping Hettleman, top-seeded foreign player, in a march toward the vacant title. In the two matches which put him into the fourth round, he lost only three games. He then easily disposed of Dale Jackson of Moose Jaw, Sask., 6-0, 6-1 to move into the quarter-finals. Jackson was sixth-seeded among the Canadians.

Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., first-seeded Canadian, advanced to the fourth round with a 6-0, 6-1 win over Bill White of Calgary.

Hettleman meets Paquette, third seeded Canadian player, in a quarter-final match.

In all three women's singles classes—junior women, girls and juvenile girls—the name of 13-year-old Ann Barclay of Vancouver crept forward across the score sheets.

TEST TO COME

But the western miss, with perky face and the assurance of a duchess, still has to meet tough opposition in Phyllis Saganski of Hamtramck, Mich., holder of the juvenile girls' title, and 17-year-old Mariette Laframboise of Montreal, defending junior women's champion.

Miss Laframboise won two singles Monday and, teamed with Eleanor Dodge, also of Montreal, for a doubles victory.

Miss Saganski, defending champion in the juvenile girls' singles, moved into the semi-final of that event when she crushed Dian Dodwell of Oshawa, Ont., 6-0, 6-0.

BY SUMMER'S END more than 1,200 Royal Canadian Sea Cadets will have attended Camp Ewing, on shore of the Lake of Two Mountains near Choisey, Que. At the camp cadets under rigid training enjoy a wide variety of recreational activities. Special emphasis is placed on swimming, practical seamanship, rowing and sailing. Each camp period includes a regatta in which competition runs high in such water activities. Here, great enthusiasm accompanies the swimming phase of one of the regattas.

Photographer Escaped Camp But Dragged Back By Reds

Frank Noel, AP photographer and Pulitzer Prize winner in 1943, came back from more than 32 months in a Communist prison camp Aug. 9. He tells of the thwarted plan of an American pilot with whom he escaped to steal a Russian-made MiG 15 and fly it to an American base.

By FRANK NOEL
As Told To Olen Clements

TOKYO (AP)—Four times I planned to escape. Once I did.

It was with a pilot, Capt. Zachary Dean of Kansas. It happened in August, 1951.

I had been a prisoner of the Communists then nearly a year. Dean, a fighter pilot, was shot down in April, 1951.

Dean wanted to steal a MiG-15 and fly it back to an airfield in South Korea. We planned to swim the Yalu, sneak down around Antung, Manchuria, lie up around the airport a few days, and watch the Chinese security guards. Eventually he planned to snatch a jet and fly it away.

I was going to steal a fishing boat or bribe somebody and get out the best way I could.

There were three of us involved in the escape plot.

We began to connive, scrape food bowls for leftovers and hoard up everything we could lay hands on that we could eat or use for trading or bribery.

CHOOSE STORMY NIGHT

One stormy night looked like the night. We were ready.

The third man had just come down with yellow jaundice and Dean and I decided to go it alone. That is not good. It is best that three men go together just in case of illness, injury or to keep watch while the other two slept.

We sneaked out into a corn patch.

The rain was beating down. We had all our possessions—Dean's wrist watch, two or three fountain pens, about $10 I had borrowed from Turkish prisoners, a straight razor Dean had stolen from the company barber shop, a Boy Scout knife I had.

We got through that corn patch all right. Then we hit a wood and tripped over the undergrowth and I slid down an embankment that left my behind bare. I think it was an open grave the Reds had dug.

It was black as pitch. We didn't know it, but we had night blindness due to lack of vitamins. Blindly I walked on, fell over a fence and right into a pig sty.

SWAM LAKE

Then we swam a half-mile-wide lake. On the other side, probably all night long, we walked. Yet we didn't make over a mile from the camp.

We slept all day in some bushes.

We travelled only at night, of course. We almost bumped into two or three guard huts but escaped.

Dean began to get sick. His back hurt. There was a swelling in his groin. It was jaundice.

Finally we saw a cowshed and crawled in there. Dean felt bad. We had been three days and nights in a torrential rain. We saw a farm compound and decided we'd take a chance. Maybe they wouldn't turn us in.

There were about seven families in it.

GIVEN FOOD

They gave us warm food, kindness, dry tobacco. But when we started to leave, they grabbed us.

We fought loose and dived into a cornfield and under some climbing bean vines. We lay there in the mud for about an hour. They turned about 50 boys between 10 and 12 loose to look for us.

They found us and raised hell.

Then the grown folks bound our arms behind us and bound us together with ropes.

They said we had to march back the whole 27 miles we had come from the camp. They never let us loose until we got back to the camp.

Then they threw us in the hole—Dean for two months. I got six.

Neither of us serve dthe full sentence, but the Communists never let us forget that we still had part of our sentence hanging over our heads. Dean served about 32 days in that hole—an abandoned, uncleaned latrine. I served about 42 days, because Dean's sentence originally was shorter than mine, in a better hole which was not a latrine. But it stank.

One thing I'm pretty proud of. When those sentences were pronounced, there was applause from the 1,600 men in Camp 5.

I was a prize reactionary.

Winnipeg Bombers Trample Argos 24-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Is that a new football champion looming on the Prairies?

It's a long way to Grey Cup time, but the manner in which Winnipeg's bristling Blue Bombers wiped the floor of their new $500,000 stadium with the Canadian champions has given fans and Toronto Argonauts plenty to think about.

The Blue Bombers even bested the Argos when they used Canadians.

Winnipeg trampled Argos 24-0 Monday night in one of four East-West exhibition games—the first time they've ever blanked an Argo team. To really rub it in, coach George Trafton threw a completely Canadian team into the last five minutes of the fray. In seven plays it roared through the Grey Cup holders for a touchdown.

DOWN STAMPEDERS

In other games Montreal Alouettes beat Calgary Stampeders 17-12, Hamilton Tiger-Cats downed Saskatchewan Roughriders 21-12 and Edmonton Eskimos won over Ottawa Rough Riders 17-12.

But it was Winnipeg's victory—third straight over the Scullers in pre-season tests—that set fans' tongues wagging. The Bombers' show of power, coming after an 18-11 victory over Ottawa Saturday, evoked the natural question—is this Winnipeg's year?

The power-studded Bombers threw four quarterbacks at Toronto—Joe Zaleski, Jack Jacobs, Tommy Thompson and then Geoff Crain, a young graduate of McGill University.

Crain, sent on in the last five minutes with his all-Canuck squad marched the team downfield from his own 39 on seven plays, then pitched a 32-yard touchdown pass to Bill Larochelle, former Ottawa end.

WIDE-OPEN GAME

The wide-open game saw Ralph McAllister, Ray Dillon and Bud Grant ram home the other Bomber majors. Bud Korchak converting all four.

The Alouettes displayed alert form in downing Calgary at Montreal. In a game marked by sharp passing by both sides, the Als took an edge in the first half and then kept the Stamps busy in their own end for the balance of the game.

Touchdown-makers for Montreal were Jim Staton, John O'Quinn, and Nub Smith. Calgary scorers were Bob Shaw and John Henry Johnson.

In Edmonton, the Eskimos and Ottawa ranged hard-fighting linemen in a contest remarkable in that it was the first meeting ever between the two teams.

WATCH OPPORTUNITIES

Eskimos made the most of their opportunities. One spectacular touchdown came from Negro scatback Rollie Miles, who weaved through the Ottawa team from the Riders' 33. Mike King counted another on a fumble by Ottawa behind their own goal line.

The Hamilton-Saskatchewan tilt was livened by a last-ditch stand by Negro half Bernie Custis when Regina was leading 12-7 in the fourth quarter. He caught fire when the 10,000 Hamilton fans were ready to give the game up for lost by leaping high into the air, snaring a pass and running 10 yards for a major.

Then he came right back to set up another when Tommy Koller blazed over the goal-line after taking a pass from Custis who was halted a yard out.

British Team Has Youth And Experience

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Ryder Cup selectors mixed youth with golfing experience Monday in the 17-man team they picked to battle the Americans at Wentworth, just outside London, on Oct. 2 and 3.

Heading the experienced group is veteran Henry Cotton, grand old man of British golf and hero of many a hard-fought Ryder Cup battle.

On the side of youth are Bernard Hunt and Peter Alliss who have been playing scintillating golf lately.

Hunt, 23 years old and six feet, four inches tall, last week won the Spalding stroke play tournament. To do it, he turned in one blistering nine in only 28 strokes to equal the record for British tournaments.

Alliss, 22, is the son of that old stylist Percy Alliss, who was on Britain's Ryder Cup team in 1933—the last time the trophy came this side of the Atlantic.

The others picked include: John Adams; Eric Brown, the new Irish champion; Harry Bradshaw; Fred Daly; Max Faulkner; Tom Haliburton; J. Hargraves; Sam King; Arthur Lees; John Panton; Dai Rees; Norman Sutton, C. H. Ward and Harry Weetman.

Errors Take Win From Carruthers

LINDSAY—(ENS)—Five Carruthers' errors, two in the outfield allowing three runs, cost them their final game with Combines in Lindsay Men's Softball League last night, 10-4. Carruthers outhit the league leaders, but failed to make their safeties count.

Bobby Growden and Jack Richards hit home runs for Combines, to give effective support to Jack Kean, the winning pitcher. Herb Baker, with three singles in four trips, and Art Plumpton with two hits supplied added punch. For the losers Kenny Schinkel hit a first inning home run and Jack Graham had three hits in five trips. Cec Reynolds had two for four.

Combines have one more game to play. A meeting of the team managers held last night, voted to start semi-final playoffs between Carruthers and Fairway Motors on Thursday night with the winner of the five-game set meeting Combines in a best-of-seven final series. Combines having outdistanced the second-place Carruthers, have clinched their second straight league championship.

Actor Acquitted Of Striking Pianist

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Lawrence Tierney, who once portrayed outlaw John Dillinger in the movies, was acquitted Monday of charges that he hit a night club pianist on the head with a microphone.

A three-judge special sessions court bench split 2-1 to free the 33-year-old Tierney, who described the incident as an accident.

Benjamin Azzara, the pianist, testified Tierney hit him with the mike July 28. He said Tierney was aroused when somebody at the bar heckled the actor's impromptu singing.

A waiter and two bartenders testified the mike was knocked over accidentally.

Ted Kluszewski Moves Nearer Batting Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati first baseman, is making 1953 his best year in six major league campaigns, with a good chance of winning the National League's batting and home run titles.

Kluszewski collected 13 hits in 34 trips last week and picked up four points to move into third place with a .331 average. He also drove out two homers and now trails Eddie Mathews, the leader, by only one, 37-36.

Monte Irvin of New York Giants continues to head the National League hitters with a .339 mark. Carl Furillo, Brooklyn outfielder, moved into the runner-up slot at .336, with a 10-for-22 performance last week. Roy Campanella of Brooklyn Dodgers has driven in most runs—111.

VERNON IN TOP SLOT

In the American League, Mickey Vernon maintains his No. 1 position with .331. But Minie Minoso of Chicago White Sox has climbed to within two points of the Washington first sacker. Minoso gained seven points to .329, on 12 hits in 21 at bats. Records include Sunday's games.

Behind Vernon and Minoso in the American League comes Al Rosen, Cleveland, .320. Rosen leads in runs batted in with 101 and is tied with Philadelphia's Gus Zernial for the most home runs, 29 each.

Southpaw Eddie Lopat is the American League's top pitcher with 12 victories and only two setbacks and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, has the National League's best won-lost record, 11-2.

Caballero Can Serenade Lady But First Must Get City Permit

WASHINGTON—In El Salvador, where winter is called summer and adios means hello, a caballero can serenade a lady in old-time Spanish fashion but he must first pay $2 for a city permit.

Such paradoxes and contrasts between old and new are typical of the Central American republic, says the National Geographic Society. The smallest country in the Western Hemisphere, the Little Thumb of America is the world's third largest producer of coffee, after Brazil and Colombia. Almost entirely agricultural, it is nevertheless the most densely populated nation on the American mainland and one of the most enterprising.

El Salvador's peaceful farms and green valleys would belie another national nickname. Daughter of Fire, if it were not be for a telltale line of 14 high volcanoes. Izalco, near the coast, erupts with such regularity that mariners call it the Lighthouse of the Pacific.

El Salvador's capital, San Salvador, is so often rocked by quokes that its valley is called The Hammock. The handsome city has been wrecked 12 times in the past four centuries. The volcanoes, however, compensate for their destructiveness by giving El Salvador a fertile soil, beautiful lake-spangled scenery and popular hot springs and geysers.

Maryland-size El Salvador is a rectangular 160 by 60 mile country lying between the tropical Pacific coast and the mountain backbone of Central America. An average elevation of 2,000 feet gives the land a pleasant climate, divided into wet and dry seasons. Though in the northern hemisphere, Salvadorians call their May-to-October wet season "winter," while the dry winter months are referred to as "summer".

On their farms, many resembling stone-walled New England plots, Salvadorians grow corn, sugar, rice, cotton, indigo and fibre-yielding heneguen as well as coffee. On the Balsam Coast grows another famous Salvadorian product, paradoxically called Balsam of Peru. This healing ointment's misnomer dates from Spanish colonial times, when the native Salvadorian export was shipped to Europe via Peru.

Agricultural, mountainous El Salvador might have remained a backward nation except for the energy of its people, most of whom are of mixed Spanish and Indian descent. Rich or poor, they are nearly all industrious landowners who love the soil and who are interested in new developments of agricultural science. They also mine gold and silver, and have built an outstanding road network. They have plans to develop El Salvador industrially.

Salvadorians, whose laws require every man to vote, have long been pace setters in Central America's political affairs. They were leaders in the struggle for independence as well as in a number of attempts at Central American federation. At one time, El Salvador might have become another star in the American flag, for the republic's congress once voted to seek admission to the Union.

The slim, broad-shouldered Negro from Los Angeles, built up an early lead with his stiff right-hand punches to the body. Then he held off a closing surge by Gault, defending his championship for the fifth time.

There were no knockdowns although Gault slipped momentarily in the third round.

Referee Petey Scalzo, former featherweight champion, scored the fight for Peacock 7-4-1 and judge Art Aidala also found for Peacock 7-5. Judge Charley Shortell's ballot was for Gault 6-5-1.

Gault won the crown from Fernand Gagnon at Quebec Oct. 27, 1952.

So the railways lay what they call "moose carpets" of aluminum between the rails and over the ties at spots where His Lordship may need safe footing.

It just goes to show how aluminum's combination of lightness, strength and resistance to weather comes in handy in the most unlikely places . . . And to explain why, in 1954, our aluminum capacity will be boosted to over a billion pounds a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Ate Like Pigs From Trough Returned PoW Declares

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Seventy-five more Americans streamed back to freedom today as the Korean war prisoner exchange entered its third week.

Besides the Americans, the Reds turned back 75 British and 300 South Koreans, 50 more than the 400 daily the Reds originally promised.

Among the United States prisoners released today was Pte. Richard D. Drennan, whose mother, Lillian Drennan, lives in Kingsville, Ont.

Drennan, 21, was born and educated in Kingsville and moved to the U.S. to work shortly before enlisting in the U.S. Army. A member of the 23rd regiment, U.S. 2nd division, he had been a prisoner of the Reds more than two years.

As a member of the U.S. Army, Drennan would not be included among 14 Canadians the Communists have said they held. Three of the 14 were released prior to today's exchange.

STEP UP DELIVERIES

Again Wednesday, the Communists planned the step up deliveries. They said they would return 456 Allied captives—75 Americans, 75 British and 356 South Korean. It will be the largest single group returned.

In 14 days, the Reds have returned 1,105 of the 3,313 Americans they claim they held, and 570 of 921 Britons.

Two days of bad weather, the UN command reported, prevented shipment of Red prisoners from Koje Island to Panmunjom and will cut deliveries to 600 North Koreans Wednesday and none Thursday. The daily average had been about 2,400. The UN command said it hoped to resume regular schedule Friday or Saturday.

Today's liberated Americans and Britons came back smiling, but their gaunt bodies showed the effects of many months in North Korean stockades.

DESCRIBES FOOD

One repatriate, a prisoner for more than 25 months, wryly described the food.

"We ate like pigs," said Pte. Earl C. Barnard of Martinez, Calif. "I cringe when I think of it."

"They brought the food in wooden troughs. It was soupy sorghum and rice. Of course you had meat in your sorghum—worms in the sorghum, that is.

"At times there was enough for all of us. At times there wasn't."

Other liberated Americans again told of fellow prisoners being taken away by the Reds at about the time they were scheduled for repatriation.

The UN command is reported to have renewed demands today for the return of all Allied prisoners. Reliable sources said the UN command handed the Communists a strongly worded statement at today's meeting of the joint committee for repatriation of prisoners of war.

REPLY TO CHARGES

The statement is believed to have demanded that the Communists give assurances they will return all captured Allied soldiers and replied to Communists charges of "atrocities against Allied-held Communist prisoners."

Communist propaganda mills continued to pour out stories of what they call the brutality and horrors of UN PoW camps and quoted returned Communist prisoners as saying at least 200 to 300 Chinese "were secretly withheld by the American side."

In Washington the army denied published reports that the UN command had repatriated the last of the Chinese willing to return home. It said that some Chinese still remain to be exchanged, but gave no figure.

Pulp And Paper Industry Expands To Meet Needs

MONTREAL (CP) — The pulp and paper industry spent approximately $600,000,000 on new plant construction, machinery and equipment and more than $360,000,000 on repairs and maintenance in the post-war years in an effort to bring supply into line with an ever-increasing demand.

This is from Greenshields and Company's current notes on the newsprint situation and outlook, culled from the annual report published earlier of R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

In 1952 alone, $200,000,000 was spent on plants of which $130,000,000 was on capital account and $70,000,000 on maintenance.

During this period, conservative dividend policies enabled most companies to reduce their funded debt and continuous efforts were made to improve forest management and to find new methods of utilizing small wood and saw mill waste.

SIGNIFICANT CHANGE

Newsprint last year witnessed a significant change in the balance between supply and demand. Since the end of the Second World War, despite an increase in capacity of 18 per cent and in production of 58 per cent, the industry had failed to keep pace with the growing requirements of newsprint consumers.

In 1952 for the first time, the gap between supply and demand was closed. Thus the market for newsprint ceased to be a seller's market.

In addition the industry had to contend with a premium on the Canadian dollar. This was offset somewhat by an increase of $10 a ton in the export price, but manufacturing costs continued to rise under the pressure of higher wages while increased taxation reduced net profits. The result was that all major newsprint companies reported lower earnings.

Reports for the first six months of 1953 published by leading newsprint companies seem to indicate that the trend of lower profits has been halted.

With production of newsprint up 8.9 per cent over the 1952 period, Powell River reported net earnings of $1.06 a common share, compared with 87 cents a year ago. International Paper announced net earnings of $3.16 (U. S.) a share, against $2.69 (U. S.) in the first half of the previous year.

HIGHER PROFITS

Abitibi, Minnesota and Ontario and Donahue Brothers also reported higher net profits while Consolidated Paper's earnings of $2.05 a share were only slightly below the $2.15 earned in the first six months of 1952.

Immediate indications are for the maintenance of a steady demand at a level only slightly below the capacity of the industry. So far this year, U. S. consumption of newsprint has increased by three per cent.

In the first three months, the Canadian dollar was still considerably stronger than in the same period last year, but since April the position was reversed and it seemed likely the third quarter would also prove more favorable than last year.

Despite continuing wage demands, newsprint companies would benefit this year from the lower rate of income tax. These involved prospects were reflected on the stock market and leading Canadian newsprint companies have risen by an average of more than 15 per cent from April lows.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

The long-term outlook appeared favorable. The trend in world consumption of pulp and paper products was upward tending to follow growth in population.

One report predicted that the U. S. annual consumption by 1975 would total 8,700,000 tons, an increase of 45 per cent over the 1952 figure, and that most of this increase could probably be supplied from Canadian sources.

In addition, newsprint consumption in overseas countries was still below the peak levels of the pre-war decade despite an increase of 100 per cent since 1945.

Savings Bonds Go On Sale On October 19

OTTAWA (CP)—The eighth series of Canada Savings Bonds will go on sale to the public Oct. 19, the Bank of Canada announced Monday.

Bonds offered in the eighth series will be dated Nov. 1, 1953, and will mature Nov. 1965. They will pay 3¾-per-cent interest rate each year to maturity and will carry 12 annual interest coupons.

The 3¾-per-cent interest is a record for such bonds. Previous high was the 3½-per-cent for the seventh series but these bonds had to be held for at least 26 months to earn this rate.

Sale of seventh series bonds will be discontinued Aug. 31 although applications for these bonds made prior to that date and arrangements for deferred payment will not be affected.

The new series may be purchased in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 and $5,000, and must be registered in an individual's name whether adult or minor. The registration gives protection against bonds being lost, stolen or destroyed.

The eighth series bonds will remain on sale until Nov. 16, 1953, at a price of 100 per cent.

The Bank of Canada also announced that bonds will be available for the first time in fully-registered form in denominations of $500, $1,000 and $5,000. Purchasers of fully-registered bonds will receive their interest payments annually by cheque.

FOREST FIRE RAGES—Women and children were moved out of danger along a specially-protected road while husbands and fathers remained behind to fight forest fires near the little northshore communities of Forestville and Ste. Therese de Colombier, 200 miles east of Quebec City. The blazing fire, fanned by a 25-mile-an-hour wind, has swept across 75 square miles of rich timberland since it began August 7. Father Pleased Son Now Safe In Korea

KINGSVILLE (CP) — Vance Drennan, whose son was among 75 United States prisoners of war released by the Communists in Korea, said Monday night news of the release was "sure good."

The son, Pte. Richard D. Drennan, 21, was a prisoner more than two years. Born and educated here, he moved to the U.S. to work a few months before enlisting in the U.S. Army. He was a member of the 23rd regiment, U.S. 2nd division.

Mr. Drennan said he and his wife were notified May 18, 1951, that their son had been reported missing in action. They received word Oct. 17, 1951, that he was a prisoner of war.

A U.S. prisoner of war released in the exchange last April got word to them that Pte. Drennan was in good shape mentally and physically.

They have been receiving letters from their son every six or eight weeks.

Shortage Of Vaccine To Fight Sleeping Sickness Among Horses

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan's horses—all 300,000 of them—are threatened by an outbreak of sleeping sickness at a time when preventative vaccine supplies are almost nil. It is the most serious epidemic in 12 years.

Suppliers of vaccine in Regina and Saskatoon have been swamped with orders. There is little hope of immediate supplies to meet the demand.

Sleeping sickness, officially termed equine encephalomylitis, was first noted among horses in Manitoba and North Dakota about a month ago, and gradually spread to the southeast corner of Saskatchewan about two weeks ago.

No official figures are available on the number of deaths or cases. While the disease has spread rapidly throughout the province, most cases have been reported from the southern sector.

SWAMPED WITH ORDERS

The veterinary department of the University of Saskatchewan, only manufacturers of the vaccine in Canada since the decline of the Prairie horse population, has been overwhelmed with orders from Manitoba and Saskatchewan points.

A Regina supplier had 500 orders for vaccine on hand Monday and was unable to fill them until new supplies arrived.

Dr. J. S. Fulton, head of the University of Saskatchewan virus laboratory, says a shortage of fertilized eggs is hampering production of the vaccine. It is produced from chick embryo after about 10 days' incubation.

MUST USE CARE

Humans are susceptible to sleeping sickness that strikes horses. Dr. Fulton said the disease may cause some human deaths before it subsides. No reports of persons being stricken have yet been received, but Dr. Fulton warned that extreme care should be exercised in handling sick horses.

The worst epidemic of sleeping sickness in Saskatchewan was in 1938 when 15,000 horses died. There were other outbreaks in 1935, 1937 and 1941.

Two new cases were reported in Manitoba during the weekend, boosting the total to 59, including 18 deaths.

Killed By Kindness

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis zoo's only sea elephant has been killed by swallowing ice cream sticks which spectators had thrown into its pool. Jonah II died Sunday. An autopsy showed about 18 of the small, wooden sticks lodged in the mammal's stomach.

BC Government Plans To Publish Bulletin

VICTORIA (CP)—The provincial government will start publishing a news bulletin entitled "the B.C. government news," Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Monday.

The bulletin will be sent free of charge to any organization or individual who wishes to be placed on the mailing list. The first edition will be published later this month.

The usual system of handling press releases through the legislative press gallery will not be changed.

The premier said the bulletin will be a consolidation of several departmental bulletins now circulated and will include departments hitherto without news bulletins of their own.

Defeated Liberal Asks For Recount

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—William Mott, defeated Liberal candidate in the federal riding of New Westminster, announced Monday that he will make formal application for a recount.

Mr. Mott was edged out by Social Crediter George Hahn in the Aug. 10 vote.

He said he will formally apply for a recount to a county court judge after final official counting of ballots today by chief returning officer Albert Beatty.

Mr. Beatty said inclusion of the soldier vote gave Mr. Hahn a lead of 33 votes over his opponent. Mr. Mott picked up 219 service ballots compared with 110 for Mr. Hahn.

Air Vice-Marshal Killed In Crash

STAFFORD, England (Reuters) Air Vice-Marshal William Arthur Darville Brook, commander of No. 3 Group in Britain's bomber command, was killed when his meteor jet fighter dived into a barn at a farm near here.

He was to have become vice chief of the air staff next month.

Blazing wreckage from the plane was scattered over four fields and 130 tons of hay in the barn was set on fire.

Nothing But Trouble

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Police chief George Thomas, who has been having trouble here with a "monster" believed to be an alligator, clashed with a skunk the other night. It got into a house and the family dog tangled with it. The residents called the chief who killed the skunk. He promptly changed uniforms, although the skunk did not score a direct hit.

Would-Be Robbers Foiled In Bank

VANCOUVER (CP) — Would-be bank robbers used pick and shovels during the weekend to burrow through brick, earth and plaster in an attempt to crack open a bank vault—and were stopped only inches from $75,000.

Bank accountant Bruce Mearns discovered the break attempt at a downtown branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia when he went to the furnace room early Monday to start the air conditioner.

The men had made their way nearly 30 feet under two buildings, into the bank basement, but were stopped by a steel wall. No explosives were used.

Heads Labor Board

OTTAWA (CP)—C. Rhodes Smith 57, chairman of the restrictive trades practices commission, has been appointed chairman of the Canada labor relations board, the labor department announced Monday. Mr. Smith, a former Manitoba minister of labor, succeeds Chief Justice G. B. O'Connor of Alberta.

Objective Reached

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario boys' work board of the Ontario council of Christian education Monday announced it achieved its recent fund-raising objective of $16,000. As a result, it will be able to carry on its program at the 27 inter-denominational camps it sponsors. The camps are attended by a total of about 1,500 boys and 300 group leaders.

SAFETY MEASURE—Tom Latter, of Topeka, Kan., gives his three kittens a safety lesson before turning them loose to play. The 11-year-old boy made the "Careful—Cat Crossing" sign himself, to warn motorists that his kittens' lives are precious. He started this safety campaign after his pet cat was killed last winter.

Forest Fire Arrest May Be Made

Personal Revenge Said Reason For Setting Blaze

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Arrest of a man who "deliberately" set a forest fire near Ste. Therese de Colombier to get personal revenge under cover of one of Quebec's biggest forest fires may be made today.

Provincial police investigators were scheduled to arrive later today in this lumbering town 200 miles east of Quebec, battling a fire that has already destroyed 175 square miles of forest.

Little information was available but P. W. MacKay, manager of the Laurentian Forest Protective Association in Quebec, said:

"We have pretty good evidence in this case."

WILL INVESTIGATE

He confirmed that provincial police are going to Forestville to investigate. He declined to elaborate.

Residents of nearby villages breathed easier today as the uncontroiled fire slowed its sweeping advance across mountainous timberlands.

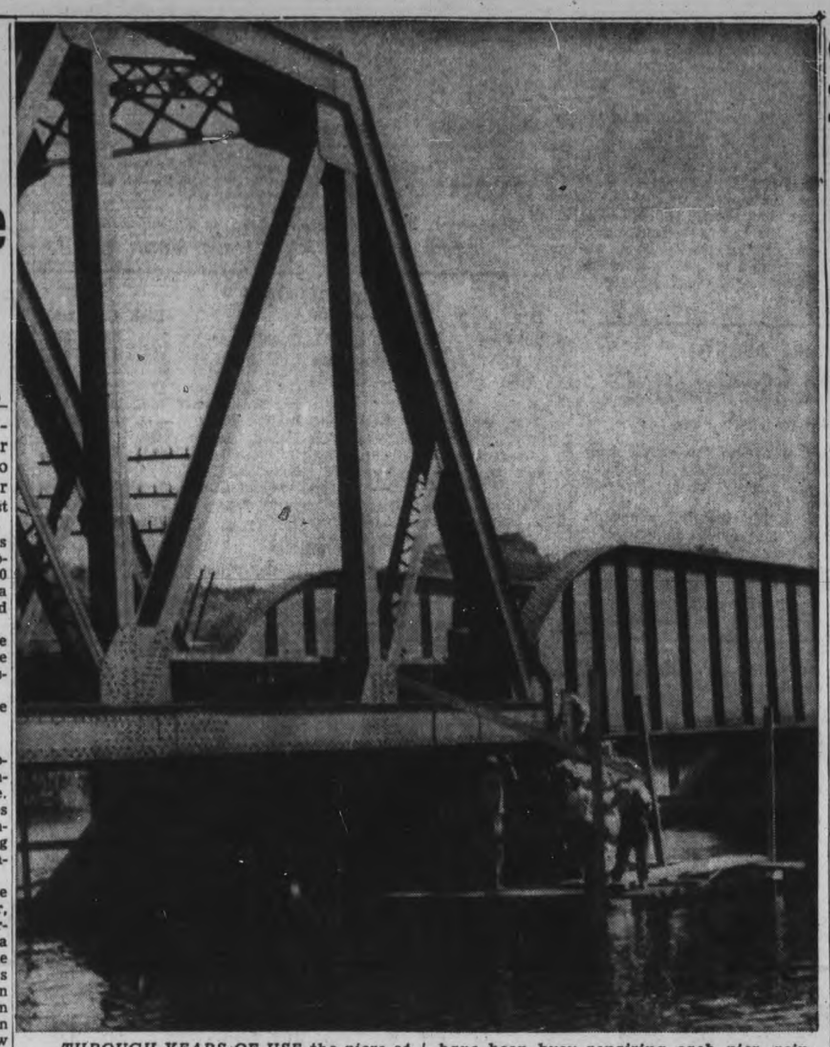
The two villages, Ste. Therese du Colombier and Canton Latour, are directly in the path of the arrow-shaped blaze moving in a southeasterly direction. During the welcomed lull, scores of firefighters hacked and bulldozed fire-breaks in the path of the blaze in case an increase or change in direction in the wind should produce a new threat to surrounding communities.

The fringes of the fire now are about six miles north of here and 10 miles west of Ste. Therese.

Two minor fires were spotted near Ste. Therese Monday night and burned over about one square mile of land before being contained in that area. An increase in wind velocity could have sent the fire rushing into the village.

Light rain fell for less than an hour in the Forestville area today, but there was not enough to have any appreciable effect on the main fire.

The main fire which started 48 miles north of here has been blamed on "carelessness on the part of blueberry pickers."



INDIANS HELP

Indians from nearby Bersimis reservation joined special volunteer lumbermen flown from the St. Lawrence river south shore to combat the major blaze which has already consumed more than 165 square miles of Quebec forest lands.

Aided by bulldozers, axes pumps, and other fire-fighting equipment, some 600 men are clearing 200-yard firebreaks six miles north of here to stop the flames.

FOREST FIRES

THROUGH YEARS OF USE the piers of the CPR railway bridge over the Otonabee river have gradually settled. Finally some of the stonework cracked, demanding repairs. For the past several weeks workers have been busy repairing each pier, reinforcing each with steel and cement. Construction men today were busy (above) working on the southwest pier, hammering, drilling and cementing.

Shah Ready To Return If News True

Will Fly, Back To Capital After Confirmation

ROME (AP)—The Shah of Iran said today he would return to his country immediately if reports of the overthrow of the Mossadegh government prove true.

The shah was eating in his hotel dining room when Tehran radio reports were brought to him.

The 33-year-old shah jumped up excitedly, bit a cigarette nervously, and said:

"Please let us know more. I want confirmation. I want to fly back immediately."

Shown the report from the Tehran radio, the shah said it appeared that the Iranian military had engineered the overthrow.

FAITHFUL TO SHAH

"Col. Pahlovan must be a member of my family," he said. "My country doesn't want the Communists and therefore has been faithful to me."

The Rome telephone exchange said lines to Tehran were broken abruptly this morning. The exchange said it had not been informed of the reason.

The shah and his green-eyed queen, 20-year-old Soraya, flew Sunday in his private plane to Baghdad, capital of neighboring Iraq. They arrived here Tuesday by a British air liner.

The handsome monarch—he has not abdicated—was interviewed this morning before leaving his hotel on a shopping tour to replenish his wardrobe. He escaped with little clothing.

Queen Soraya left the hotel ahead of her husband accompanied by an Iranian woman. She smiled and posed for photographers.

The royal couple brought only three suitcases here on their flight from Baghdad. One contained the queen's personal jewels.

REPORTED IN FLIGHT — Tehran radio announced today that royalists seized control from Premier Mossadegh and have summoned the Shah home from Rome. The premier is said to be in flight.

Premier Reported In Flight, Zahedi New Head

LONDON (AP) — Tehran radio declared that royalists today wrested away control of the Iranian government from Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, sent him into flight, and summoned the shah to return to his throne at once. A proclamation was read repeatedly over the radio, monitored here, proclaiming Maj.-Gen. Fazollah Zahedi the new premier and promising Iranians a new eight-point program of social reform. Cable reports from the Iranian capital were shut off, or badly delayed, and there was no immediate confirmation of the dramatic radio report, which said Mossadegh's foreign minister, Hossein Fatemi, had been "torn to pieces," presumably by a mob.

LONDON (AP)—Don Schwind, Associated Press correspondent in Iran, said tonight in a broadcast over Tehran radio that forces loyal to the shah had overthrown Premier Mohammed Mossadegh "in nine hours of blood street fighting."

Donald B. Schwind, Associated Press correspondent in Tehran, cabled that a royalist uprising in the army and police had flared and that there were pitched battles in the centre of the city. Buildings were burned.

MOB VIOLENCE

Dispatches filed earlier from Tehran this morning told of mob violence and police gunfire in the capital.

But these accounts said the disorders were caused by police efforts to halt nationalist supporters of Mossadegh and Communists from continuing frenzied demonstrations against the shah.

Iran's handsome ruler, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, fled from the country with his beautiful queen, Soraya, last Sunday when Mossadegh's forces crushed an attempt to oust the old premier and install the shah's choice—a pro-Western general, Fazollah Zahedi. The shah and queen arrived in Rome Tuesday.

The report from Tehran today said Zahedi had been installed as premier.

TOOK OVER IN 1951

Mossadegh rode to power in April 1951 on his strong nationalist demands for government seizure of the vast 30,000,000-ton-a-year oil industry from Britain, which had controlled the country's life blood for half a century. His refusal to compromise in his program for nationalizing the $1,500,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company shut off the flow of oil to the West and caused a bitter break in diplomatic relations between Iran and Britain.

The man who read the invitation for the shah to return home said over the Tehran radio:

U.S. Stepping Up Arms Shipments To Aid Chiang

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. is supplying substantial modern military equipment to Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa, but has reserved for itself a powerful voice over any possible major operations by them against Red China.

Officials who reported this said the U.S. government is especially concerned about the possibility of attacks on the Communist mainland which could be expected to provoke Red retaliation and thereby involve the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Information available here indicated that an agreement with the government of Chiang Kai-shek to assure the U.S. a voice in major strategic decisions did not affect the kind of harassing operations which Chiang's forces have long been carrying on against Communist units on islands near the mainland.

VIRTUAL VETO

Under some conditions, it was clear that the U.S. right to share in decisions on operations could give this country a virtual veto. Such a veto presumably would be exercised on projected Nationalist military operations which would involve American forces to a degree inconsistent with American interests.

Officials declined, however to say that a right of veto was provided in the agreement.

The arrangement between Taipeh and Washington apparently grows out of President Eisenhower's action last Feb. 2 in revoking an order to the 7th fleet to prevent Chinese Nationalist attacks on the mainland.

Subsequently, officials said Tuesday night, the U.S. stepped up its program of military aid to the

Daley Meets With Officials In Truck Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario met today with company and union officials about the strike of more than 1,500 truck drivers in southwestern Ontario, in an attempt to end the long walkout.

A United States teamsters' union official headed the union delegation. He was James Hoffa of Detroit, vice-president of the AFL international.

It was the second meeting called by Mr. Daley since members of the AFL union went on strike July 20 for higher wages. The first meeting was held the day the strike began.

Union and company officials said then that they had come no closer together on the wage issue, chief point at stake.

PATROL HIGHWAYS

Meanwhile, an extra force of 100 provincial police officers patrolled highways in areas where further outbreaks of violence were considered likely. Trucks have been damaged and non-union drivers injured at various centres since the strike began.

During the last week, the union has won considerable support from other unions in its strike against 36 transport companies from Hamilton to Windsor. Rival CIO and independent unions pledged support of the truckers by urging their members to refuse to handle truck cargoes at loading platforms of industries at Brantford, Hamilton, and districts in the Niagara peninsula.

Girl 3, Drowns While Swimming With Brother

FENELON FALLS — Three-year-old Beverley Jane Brough of Bowmanville drowned Monday night at her parents' cottage on Cameron Lake. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brough. Her father is well known in Peterborough where he has played in many badminton tournaments.

Her parents told police she had gone out to play with her brother, Douglas, 6, and another youngster. When the two boys came into the house without her, Mrs. Brough asked: "Where's Jane?" The boys didn't know.

In a few moments, a neighbor, Richard Dobie of Streetsville, came to the cottage and told Mrs. Brough he had found her daughter's body washed up on the shore. He had been on the shore photographing the sunset.

Artificial respiration was tried in vain, and a resuscitator, rushed to the cottage, failed to revive the child. Dr. Gratton Graham of Fenelon Falls pronounced the child dead at 11:15 p.m.

Constable John Williams of Fenelon Falls OPP detachment investigated.

Canada Playing Mediator Behind Scenes In UN Row

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada is playing a behind-the-scenes role in the current United Nations meeting which is struggling for agreement on the makeup of a political conference to decide the future of Korea. The role is one Canada has played before, that of attempting to reconcile differences between Britain and the United States. The issue this time is India's participation in any political settlement in Korea.

Britain wants India, as a major Asian power that undoubtedly has lines into the Communist camp, to take part in the parley that must be held by late October, 90 days after the signing of the Korean armistice.

The U.S., on the other hand, wants the conference confined to those countries which bore arms in Korea. India had a medical unit but no armed forces on the war-devastated peninsula.

CANADA MEDIATOR

Highly-placed informants disclosed today that Canada has been pressing the U.S. to forego her opposition to Indian participation. The Canadian delegation, headed by Health Minister Paul Martin, has been arguing, with the backing of Britain and other Commonwealth nations, that India has a part to play in such a vital meeting, one that could pave the way perhaps for future discussions of other Far Eastern problems such as Indo-China.

So far the U.S. has not budged from its position and one informant said it was unlikely it would. The U.S., as chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., told the UN political committee Tuesday, feels that if non-combatant India were allowed to attend, other non-combatants could rightfully demand a place and the line would be difficult to draw.

INDIA NON-COMMITTAL

The Indians themselves have been non-committal about whether they would go to the conference if the majority of the UN voted their participation but the U.S. voted against them or abstained.

Martin is scheduled to speak for Canada today in the political committee and observers expect him to put a strong case for India's attendance.

Andrei Vishinsky, the chief Russian delegate, also is expected to take the floor today. He is expected to deal with resolutions before the committee calling for conference participation by Russia and India and for U.S. "power of attorney" to act on behalf of UN in setting up the conference once its participants have been decided.

The Russian delegate also probably will deal with a resolution of his own which he added to the committee agenda Tuesday. It calls for conference participation by the U.S. Britain, France, Red China, North Korea and South Korea, the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Sweden and Burma. The last five did not fight in Korea.

The Russian resolution also proposes that decisions of the political conference be considered adopted "if they have the consent of the parties which have signed the armistice agreement."

This is seen by Western delegates as a move to shut South Korea off from any major voice in the political settlement, since the South Koreans did not sign the armistice.

Two Explorers Reach Safety

LICQ ATHERAY, France (CP)—Two French cave explorers stranded in a shaft leading to the Pierre St. Martin caves were safely brought to the surface today, leaving two other men still below the surface.

The rescued men are the expedition leader, Norbert Casteret, and Robert Levi, who played a leading part in organizing the project. The expedition set up a new world record Tuesday by reaching a point 2,395 feet below ground.

The explorers, linked to the surface by phone, had waited in the moisture-laden gloom of a cavern 1,247 feet below ground for the thin steel cable by which an electric winch on the surface would haul them out.

Still below are members of a party of Lyons scouts helping the expedition, who had posted themselves on ledges inside the shaft to guide the cable past jutting rocks which might fray it.

Kills Four Bears With Five Shots

BEARDMORE, Ont. (CP)—Dave Gordon killed four bears with five shots early Tuesday.

The 40-year-old paper company worker was awakened by something banging his garbage can.

On his front lawn, he saw four bears—a 250-pound mother bear and her three cubs. He ran for his gun and fired five times. The bears rolled over dead.

Then, in case anyone in this town 125 miles northeast of Port Arthur doubted his story, Gordon arranged the bodies of the bears in a row in his front yard.

Expect Clarification Of Plane Crash Policy

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarification of air force policy at the scenes of future aircraft crashes is expected as a result of the findings of a board of inquiry into the Ville Jacques Cartier jet crash, an RCAF spokesman said Tuesday night.

An RCAF CF-100 jet crashed last week, setting fire to two homes and taking nine lives, including the two crew members.

At the opening of the board of inquiry Tuesday reports were heard of alleged mishandling of newspapermen by RCAF guards at the scene. The board is expected to wind up investigation today.

Killed On Way To Hospital

LACHUTE, Que. (CP)—Injured in a car accident, Laurent Regimbald, 23, of Hawkesbury, Ont., was killed today in a second accident as he was being sped to hospital.

His first injuries came when his automobile crashed into a tree. His brother Bernard, driving with him in his own car, picked him up and started for hospital in Hawkesbury.

Just a few minutes later, Bernard lost control of the car, and it skidded into the ditch. Laurent was killed instantly.

Bernard was not seriously hurt.

Carrier Forced Back To Port

HALIFAX (CP)—Engine trouble forced the aircraft carrier Magnificent back to port Tuesday for the second time in two days. She turned to the naval dockyard here for repairs to a turbo-generator.

The trouble will delay departure of the carrier and the cruiser Quebec for a training cruise to United States ports.

The Maggie and Quebec first sailed Monday. Generator trouble developed and the carrier returned Monday night while the cruiser waited outside the harbor.

A second start was made Tuesday morning, but again tronble occurred in the Magnificent's turbo-generator. This time the Quebec came back too. Repairs are expected to take several days.

One Of Triplets Dies Other 2 Progressing

MATTAWA (CP)—One of the identical triplet sons born Monday to Mrs. William Mitchell died Tuesday night of a collapsed lung.

The two other babies and the mother were making good progress, Dr. J. M. Caron reported.

Mrs. Mitchell resides in Cameron township. Her husband is LAC. W. H. Mitchell of the RCAF station, North Bay.

Hospital officials said the triplets were the first born here in 60 years.

Mrs. Mitchell is the former Shirley Blair, who was a Mattawa high school beauty queen. Triplets are nothing new in her family.

Her maternal grandfather has two sisters and a brother—triplets—still living.

England Beats Australia For First Time In 19 Years

LONDON (Reuters) — England beat Australia for the "world series" of cricket today for the first time in 19 years.

The wild cheer that rose at The Oval-playing field in London echoed up and down the country from crowds of Englishmen hanging over radios and crouched in front of television screens.

Newspapers trumpeted the event in special editions with little else on Page 2. Writers talked headily of the new Elizabethan era, beginning: "What with the Coronation, the climbing of Mount Everest and now this. . . ."

The verdict in the five-match series was decisive. With the first four games drawn, the Englishmen scored a clear win of eight wickets over the Australians today with 2½ days to spare of the allotted time.

The first innings scores were Australia, 275; England, 306. The Australians knocked out 162 in the second innings. The Englishmen went in today to bat steadily up to the 132 they needed to win. They lost only two wickets doing it.

The win brings "the Ashes" back to England. It takes a cricket expert to explain what this means exactly because there is no such thing as "the Ashes."

"The Ashes" are the imaginary symbol of cricket supremacy which the two countries have battled for since 1882 when a team from the upstart outlands of Australia beat an English team. A sporting newspaper printed a long obituary column which said that English cricket would be cremated and "the Ashes" taken to Australia. Now "they" are back in England.

Today's victory is England's 57th since the official series began in 1876. Australia has won 68 and 38 have been drawn.

Rescue 25 Survivors From Burning Ship

HALIFAX (CP)—RCAF search and rescue officials confirmed today the steamship Corner Brook, a paper carrier, picked up all 25 survivors of the burning Danish steamer Else Basse and was taking them to Corner Brook, Nfld.

A report received here around 5 a. m. ADT said the Else Basse was still burning and presented a danger to navigation.

Corner Brook is 23 miles inland from Newfoundland's west coast and about 125 miles northeast of Cape Anguille near where the Else Basse was last reported.

8 Jump Out Of Burning Boat

BROCKVILLE (CP) — An outboard motor boat with eight persons aboard burst into flames on the St. Lawrence river near here Tuesday night.

The eight jumped into the river about 75 feet from shore and were later pulled from the water by nearby cottagers who went to their aid in boats.

Rescued were Marjorie Cottingham, 24, of Lachute, Que.; Rita Okey, 21, of Brockville; Jessie Johnston, 20, of Brockville; Gloria Lanthier of Ottawa; and William Hyslop, 25, Herbert Webster, 26, Dave Cieland, 26, and Harvie Johnston, 23, all of Brockville. Johnston came to Brockville recently from Orillia, Ont.

They were pulled from the water by Miss Pat Fulford of Toronto and three Brockville youths.

The eight gave no reason for the boat explosion.

Freight Cars On Loose

TRENTON (CP)—Two runaway freight cars almost hit two standing carloads of ammunition on a siding as they raced through this air force town early Tuesday at speeds of more than 50 miles an hour. The runaways finally crashed into a stationary boxcar and were derailed. Railway workers blamed the mishap on the snapping of hydraulic safety brakes.

French Gov't Tottering As Strike In Second Week

PARIS (AP)—France's most serious postwar strike entered its second week today with 1,000,000 workers still out, railroads and communications still paralyzed and Premier Joseph Laniel's government tottering.

Negotiations between the government and non-Communist unions broke down Monday; there was no prospect of a resumption in sight.

Socialist party leader Guy Mollet told Laniel that any savings he might realize through his touted government financial reforms—which touched off the walkouts—already have been surpassed by the huge losses to the French economy from the strike.

Nobody contradicted Mollet.

Parliament probably will be called to a special session next week. Laniel may be thrown out of office.

These still were the main strike areas:

1. The railroads—only a handful of trains operating, industry and trade hard hit, and hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen unable to travel.

2. Post offices and telephone exchanges—millions of letters piled up, many businesses slowed to a standstill, Frenchmen reduced to putting personal notices in newspapers to communicate with their stranded families.

Frenchmen were taking the situation calmly.

They clambered resignedly into army trucks to get around Paris in the absence of buses and subway trains. On the Riviera, vacationists packed up and went into Italy. In southwest France, they crossed into Spain.

India, Pakistan Agree To Name Administrator

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India and Pakistan have agreed to the appointment of an administrator to organize a plebiscite in Kashmir, informed sources said today.

The reported move, taken by Premiers Nehru of India and Mohammed Ali of Pakistan in their meetings here, represents their first major agreement towards solution of the six-year-old dispute over Kashmir's future.

Indian and Pakistani troops have been drawn up astride a United Nations cease-fire line in Kashmir since Jan. 1, 1949, while the two countries and the UN sought in vain for a formula to end the bitter strife over the future of the wealthy province.

Fresh Earth Tremors Rock Ionian Islands

ATHENS (AP)—Athens observatory reported today that fresh earth tremors shook Greece's quake-devastated Ionian islands. At least three of the shocks were listed as "moderately strong."

Workers continued to uncover bodies of victims killed in last week's catastrophe. Some of the remains pulled from the debris on the three islands of Kefallinia, Ithaca and Zakinthos had been charred by fire.

The series of quakes that began Aug. 8 killed at least 700 inhabitants of the three small islands and injured an estimated 1,500. Thousands of survivors were left homeless.

5-Year Study Launched On Stillbirths

OTTAWA (CP)—The health department announced today that a five-year study is being launched in Toronto in an effort to reduce stillbirths and the death rate of infants at or shortly after birth.

The study will follow up research conducted at the Toronto Western Hospital in 1947 and will be carried out by an obstetrical specialist in co-operation with the obstetrical departments of the major Toronto hospitals. It also will be co-ordinated with research being conducted by paediatric specialists at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Cost of the research, which will be co-ordinated by Dr. D. E. Cannell, head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Toronto, will be about $6,300 for the 1953-54 fiscal year.

The health department said that the maternal death rate in Canada has dropped substantially during the past 20 years and now is one or less per 1,000 live births. However, the death rate from stillbirths has changed little in 50 years. The combined rate for stillbirths and deaths at or shortly after birth has declined only slightly in 20 years.

Forest Fires

These defences have not yet been tested, but one official said today: "It will take an act of God to stop the fire."

All forest fire travel has been banned by the Quebec government along the St. Lawrence river north shore from Montreal to Sept Iles, a distance of about 600 miles.

Col. Edward Reynolds of Toronto, national director of the Red Cross' disaster service, arrived in the fire-stricken area by plane Tuesday to aid in planning mass evacuations—if they become necessary.

DANGEROUS THREAT

"Potentially this fire holds a pretty dangerous threat for the people down here," Col. Reynolds said.

Only 187 women so far have been evacuated from outlying regions of Ste. Therese, but Col. Reynolds said. ". . . We believe in being prepared for the worst . . . We hope it doesn't happen."

No rain is in sight for the drought-stricken area and efforts by United States technicals to produce rain artificially have been unsuccessful to date.

Search Spreads For Lost Plane

VANCOUVER (CP)—An international air search is under way over mountainous British Columbia wilds for five persons missing aboard a private American plane.

The twin-engined plane, owned and piloted by Ellis Hall, wealthy Albuquerque, N.M., oil man, disappeared Monday night on a 700-mile flight from Ketchikan, Alaska, to Bellingham, Wash. With Hall were his wife and two daughters, Joan, 20, and Elizabeth, 21, and 15-year-old Patrick Hibben, a friend of the family.

Four RCAF aircraft combed the B.C. section of the missing plane's route Tuesday despite poor weather conditions over the mountainous, heavily-timbered interior flight path the Hall plane is believed to have been following.

Two RCAF Lancasters flew to Annette Island airport, near Ketchikan, covering the missing aircraft's intended route. They will operate out of the Alaskan airfield during the search.

Harold Ard, an official of the painters' union, said the non-union men were paid 95 cents to $1.05 an hour. Union rates were from $1.50 to $1.85.

Some workers refused to cross picket lines Tuesday and about 50 more stayed off Tuesday night. Workers who came to their jobs at 7 a. m. found groups of pickets at each of the plant's four gates.

Wants Divorce In California

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lawyers representing crooner Dick Haymes and his estranged wife, Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes, have reached an agreement on alimony, but she has refused to divorce him in any state except California.

S. S. Hahn, Mrs. Haymes' lawyer, said he would not accede to Haymes' request that she obtain a quick divorce in Alabama or Nevada because California does not recognize the validity of such divorces.

Hahn said Mrs. Haymes had been offered a substantial cash settlement and a life income. The lawyer said the question of filing the suit in California had been referred to the New York attorney for Rita Hayworth. Haymes and Miss Hayworth are reported to be planning to marry as soon as the divorce is granted.

Robert Eaton, representing Haymes, said he would appeal to U. S. Attorney-General Herbert Brownell against the singer's deportation, a hearing on which is scheduled shortly. He said he would cite a section of the Immigration Act that permits a man to re-enter the United States if he leaves to accept work.

Premier Reported

"At this time the people have been able to capture the capital. We are eagerly waiting for your return."

Before this, the first announcement of the royalist overthrow of Mossadegh followed much confused shouting in the radio station, according to monitors in London. Apparently the dispute was about who would have the honor of reading the announcement.

The radio announcer said, according to monitors here, that the insurrection has been carried out with the aid of the armed forces.

The shah told reporters in Rome today he had fled his homeland because "I wanted to avoid bloodshed. I did not want the people to suffer for me."

The shah claimed "99 per cent of the Iranian population is behind me . . . anyone not a Communist is faithful to me and the monarchy."

As the shah left Iran, an army strong man, Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, issued a statement from a mountain hideout that the monarch had named him premier in place of Mossadegh.

REACHED CLIMAX

Mossadegh's bitter quarrel with the shah reached a climax last week when the young monarch was reported to have refused to dissolve the Majlis (parliament) after Mossadegh conducted a national plebiscite to win popular authority for dissolution.

Discontent among the deputies had been growing and Mossadegh sought to get rid of the Majlis in order to have unchecked dictatorial power.

The monitor's report to the British foreign office said after the first insurrection announcement all Tehran radio stations went off the air.

SOME CONFUSION

London monitors said the insurrection announcement followed confusion in the radio station, with shouts and yells clearly audible over the microphone.

Then a man introducing himself as Colonel Pahlavon read this communique:

"The government of Mossadegh has been defeated.

"I am one of the soldiers and one of the devotees of this country. A number of traitors like Fatemi (foreign minister) wants to sell out the country to the foreigners.

"The Iranian royalists have defeated the demagogue government through which Hussein Fatemi was ruling.

SITUATION IN THEIR HANDS

"The Persian nation's officers, army and the police have taken the situation in their hands. Premier Zahedi will assume his post. There is no place for anxiety. Keep calm."

The British foreign office has had no diplomatic mission in Tehran since Mossadegh broke relations with Britain after the lengthy Anglo-Iranian oil wrangle.

However, the foreign office told of receiving reports from Tehran through other diplomatic channels during the past few days of unrest in the Iranian capital.

After the communique over the Tehran station there was more confused shouting, monitors said. Then the radio played the Iranian national anthem and went off the air at 12:20 p. m. British time (8:20 a. m. EDT.)

Gen. Zahedi, the man said to have been proclaimed Iran's new premier, was deported by the British in the Second World War but he is known to be a loyal supporter of the imperial family and the shah.

State Dept. Watches Closely Struggle For Iranian Power

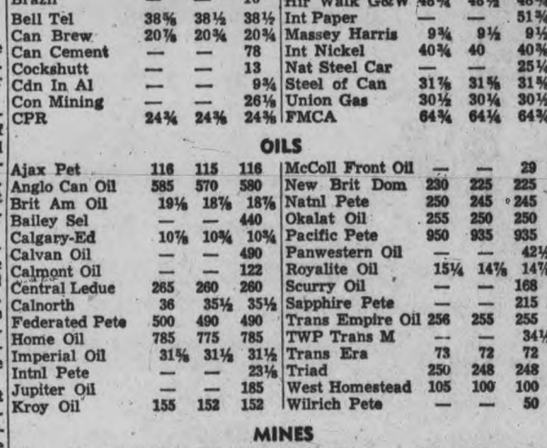
By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department kept close watch on turbulent Iran today, keenly aware that great issues are at stake in the struggle for power between Premier Mossadegh and Royalist supporters.

Little concrete information was available here at an early hour other than the Tehran radio broadcast which said followers of the shah had taken over the government and that Mossadegh had been replaced by Gen. Fazollah Zahedi. For the time being the broadcast account was unconfirmed by any other information.

Authorities here were somewhat surprised by the Tehran broadcast. Since Royalists had failed to seize the government from Mossadegh four days ago when the shah fled the country, it had been assumed that their ability to act effectively was probably crippled for the time.

United States ambassador Loy Henderson saw Mossadegh Tuesday and gained the impression that Mossadegh was firmly in the saddle despite the great ferment among the population.



If Britain, the United States and other Western countries had a choice, they undoubtedly would prefer to see the shah's people rather than Mossadegh in power. Officially and diplomatically, however, their attitude so far has been one of hands-off neutrality.

Officials here and in London have felt for a long time that Mossadegh, an ailing old man and extreme nationalist, was impossible to do business with in a rational manner.

Several attempts to settle Iran's basic economic-political problem—its paralyzing dispute with Britain over oil nationalization two years—have failed in negotiations with Mossadegh. Failures sometimes came at the last moment after it had appeared the premier had substantially agreed to all important points of negotiation.

Mossadegh has also shown a tendency, alarming in the Western view, to give rein to Iran's Tudeh Communist party when it suited his own immediate political purpose. The Communists, for example, have recently been active and claimed credit Tuesday in connection with Mossadegh's apparent triumph over the followers of the shah.

It is the Communist threat to Iran with its rich oil resources and its strategic position between the key countries of India and Turkey which is the principal source of worry to the West. There has been apprehension for many months that some time Mossadegh might overplay his hand with the Reds, the country would go Communist and the Kremlin would have made another conquest extending its power into a highly important area.

U.S. Stepping Up

Nationalists on Formosa.

The equipment which they have been receiving is increasing not only their defensive strength but also their ability to strike at the Chinese Communists. It presumably includes aircraft capable of bombing mainland military installations.

Chiang Kai-shek has a substantial force on the island measured in terms of manpower, but his navy is small, and his air force is limited.

When the stepped-up equipment program was undertaken several months ago, the U.S. faced the possibility that it might raise Chiang's strength to the point where he would be able to launch an invasion of the Red mainland or strong air strikes against Red cities.

Putting the Communists on the defensive and possibly causing them to tie up forces in the area opposite Formosa fitted in with American plans.

However, as the Nationalist forces became stronger, they might undertake a big operation which would involve the U.S. fleet in military action with Chinese Communist forces. That, in turn, could have an incalculable effect on the whole international situation.

Hears Husband Killed Wife Dies Of Shock

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—Mrs. Phillip van der Borch today died of shock when she learned her 28-year-old husband was fatally injured Tuesday in an accident at a nearby lumber camp.

The couple came to Canada from Holland with their two young children five years ago.

Van der Borch was crushed by a log which fell off a truck. An inquest was ordered.

Jet Crashes Into Field Near Montreal

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP)—An RAF F-86 Sabre jet today nosedived into a farmer's field near Mount Bruno, 12 miles south of Montreal, shortly after its pilot parachuted to safety.

RCAF officials here said Flt. Lt. Robert Clarke of St. Mathias, Que., was on a routine flight. Clarke bailed out at nearby Beloeil.

The crash was one week after a CF-100 jet crashed in flames at Ville Jacques-Cartier, plowing into two homes and killing nine persons including the two crew members.

SCHEDULED FOR U.K.

The jet was one of several scheduled to be ferried soon to the United Kingdom.

Group Capt. H. M. Kennedy, officer commanding St. Hubert RCAF station, said Clarke had used the plane's ejection seat at 30,000 feet to bail out.

No reason was immediately known as to why Clarke was forced to abandon the plane.

Senator's Condition Reported To Be Good

EDMONTON (CP)—Senator W.A. Buchanan, publisher of the Lethbridge Herald who underwent an operation at University Hospital here Monday, is "making good progress and doing very well indeed at the moment," hospital authorities said Tuesday.

Senator Buchanan entered hospital last week for observation and treatment for an undisclosed ailment.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 3-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 98 15-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.78¼, unchanged.

UN Denies Ill Treating Red Prisoners

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The UN command today bluntly denied Communist charges that prisoners have been brutally treated. It told the Reds the physical condition of repatriated PoWs proved the accusation was a "distortion of the truth."

The denial was made at a meeting of the PoW repatriation commission and answered Communist charges levelled last Friday.

Another 75 Americans were liberated here Wednesday while two ships prepared to sail for home with men freed earlier by the Reds.

DOESN'T MENTION NOTE

UN members of the commission were reported planning to hand the Reds a strong note again demanding return of all Allied prisoners, but Col. L. C. Friedersdorff, chief Allied delegate, made no mention of it in talking with reporters after the session. There were strong indications the UN command did not deliver the note, which authoritative spokesmen said earlier would be "hot."

Friedersdorff said the Red accusations of brutality were "intended to discredit the UN command." The Reds had charged the allies with amultitude of inhumane acts—from using toxic gas to food poisoning.

Fridersdorff also took a slap at Communist Red Cross workers, who allegedly have been acting as propaganda agents for the Reds.

Officer Tells Of RCAF In England

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Flying Officer J. Michael Nelligan, who served as Public Relations Officer recently with No. 1 Fighter Squadron at North Luffenham, England, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting here this week.

Mr. Nelligan spoke briefly of conditions as he found them in England. He mentioned the fact that although there are many highways in the Old Country, there were almost no level crossing accidents, as the crossing are guarded 24 hours a day.

He told of the confusion among servicemen using English banks. The men are caused a great deal of trouble through the banks' policy of issuing statements only half-yearly. There are no passbooks.

Food rationing on some items is still in existence, but everyone gets enough to eat. The weekly food bill for an English family is considerably lower than for the same family in Canada.

He told of the inadequacy of the state medicine program. There is only one doctor for every 2,500 patients, he said.

Mr. Nelligan was introduced by Austin Putnam and thanked for the club by Paul O'Sullivan.

Reds Happier Under Malenkov

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Alvary Gascoigne, retiring British ambassador to the Soviet Union, said Tuesday night the Russian people appear to be happier under Prime Minister Malenkov's new regime.

The 60-year-old envoy spoke to reporters at London airport upon arriving with his wife from Moscow.

He will retire from diplomatic service after reporting to the foreign office on his 21 months in the Soviet capital.

"There has been an upward trend in the standard of living," he said. "It has been going on for a long time."

Asked if the Russian people looked happier, he paused for a second and said: "Yes, I think they do—happier than when I went there."

Clothing is improving gradually, he said, food is plentiful in most large towns and "there is not a definite shortage of anything."

Romanian Reds Keep People Crushed To Lowest Level

(Editor's Note: For the first time in five years four American correspondents have been permitted by Communist Romania to visit that forbidden Balkan country. This is the first of several articles by the Associated Press chief of bureau in Vienna, who was among them).

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP) — Communization of Romania has made the faces of 16,000,000 Balkan people like identical masks—but it has not yet destroyed their souls.

Outside of Russia, probably no Soviet satellite has gone so far in bringing down to one monotonous, miserable level the thoughts and actions of a racially - mixed people.

Bordering on Russia, Romania's rich oil supplies are vital for the Soviet Union. Every sign points to more and more Sovietization for Romania and perhaps its eventual incorporation into the Soviet Union as a 17th republic.

But deeply hidden, there is national restlessness and even a little organized resistance.

As feudal princes and Fascists before them, the Communists have substituted murder for life and dictatorship for liberty. If there ever was real happiness or gaiety in a land of hungry peasants and wealthy landowners, westerners who know the past say there is less today.

"Nowadays, when we want to celebrate and be happy, we have a party when a friend comes out of jail," said a former middle-class woman.

Life has been communized to the smallest detail of existence. Individuality, which despite oppression always marked the national groups of Germans, Hungarians, Greeks and Romanians, seems to have disappeared.

Men wear the same shirts and shabby trousers and women identical cotton prints from the machines of the Gheorghiu-Dej ready-made clothes factory. The necktie has been abolished (except for the new Communist aristocracy) and costume jewelry is a rare, luxury item.

To remain unshaved is the mark of the "new man." "Tovaras" is the new greeting.

Recreation has been mass-organized to the extent where even a Communist worker said: "I have to get away for a few hours on my bicycle to escape the street radio." But he can't go far without police checks.

Hour after hour, insistent, nerve-shattering and deafening loudspeakers on the streets mix propaganda with Russian music. Radiofication—as it is called—pipes controlled programs into loudspeakers which cannot be adjusted in thousands of town and village homes, factories and farms.

No time is allowed for individual thought or action. If not attending political lectures or "cultural" events, the Romanian today is rushed in buses to take part in parades.

"Only the party big-shots can see the parades," explained a Western diplomat. "The public is forced to march in them."

With its own peculiar morality, communism cut out completely Bucharest's once-gay night life. Golf courses have been made into military training grounds, gambling casinos into lecture halls.

Enterprise has been almost 100 per cent socialized. Only a few private artisans, like tailors and shoemakers who cannot get cloth or leather, remain. And a few beggars.

There is the latent unrest of the city masses. In the mountains, diplomats say, there have been bands. Peasant villages in the foothills are frequently searched by police for weapons. An apparent underground ground group blew up a textile store in Bucharest recently.

All live in the hope that, with the new trend of east-west relations, Romania may shake off the Russian yoke.

"When the time comes and I hope it will be soon," said a streetcar conductor, "fully 95 per cent of us will rise up against communism."

Fears Communism In Africa

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Africa might easily pass under the domination of communism, a United States authority said Tuesday night.

Harold J. Isaacs, research associate at the Centre for International Studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said at the Couchiching Conference on International Affairs the question squarely before the western world is whether the maintenance of colonial and white supremacy in Africa is worth the future of the world.

"Do the interests of a handful of Europeans in Africa really measure up against the interest we all have in establishing common ground between the peoples of Europe and North America and those of Asia and Africa?"

Russia Concludes Trade Agreements With Nations Outside Iron Curtain

By SUSAN STRANGE

LONDON (OFNS). — Recent trade agreements between Russia and several western countries have renewed hopes for an expansion of trade across the Iron Curtain. Such a revival of east-west trade would be welcomed by many western governments as at least a partial answer to their dollar problems. Food and raw materials which otherwise would have to be paid for in scarce dollars would come to them from the Communist bloc in exchange for western manufactures. It would also be welcomed as practical proof that Russia now intends to try to live at peace with the west.

Since the United Nations conference on east-west trade held at Geneva in April, Russia has concluded several interesting trade agreements— with France, Denmark, Holland and Argentina. In these arrangements, it has been noticed, Russia has for the first time been prepared to take food, and consumer goods such as matches and textiles, instead of limiting her interest to western-made machinery and industrial plant.

This week, the Russians have also been reported to be buying butter and meat from Australia and New Zealand.

BUYING SHIPS, TANKERS

The Russians have also shown a new interest in buying quantities of tankers and cargo ships from western Europe. This is particularly welcome, since low freight rates and slack trade have recently caused a sharp falling-off in new orders, and many west European shipyards have been bracing themselves to face hard times in the next few years

At the United Nations' Economic and Social Council meeting which ended in Geneva last week, a totally new atmosphere was reported. Instead of the usual acrimonious wrangles about forced labor and freedom of information which have hitherto taken up so much time and energy, there was a tacit agreement this time to avoid controversial issues and to keep to more constructive topics. As an earnest of their new attitude, the Russians offered a donation of four million roubles (roughly one million dollars) to the United Nations technical assistance program for under-developed countries.

Coming on top of the Korean truce, and the opening of the first cracks in the trade wall surounding Communist China, this has encouraged a mood of cautious optimism in western Europe.

A real obstacle to east-west trade, in fact, has been the recent tendency of east European countries to buy more than they can sell to the west, and to accumulate deficits in bilateral barter arrangements which they then have difficulty in working off. This tendency is shown by the trade figures. Since 1950, exports from western Europe were nine per cent. less last year than in 1950, while eastern exports were 15 per cent. less. Today, east-west trade in Europe is probably scantier than at any time since the war.

CONTINUED TO DECLINE

There is evidence also that the importance of some of the technical impediments to expanded east-west trade in Europe have been exaggerated. For example, until recently each side was charging the other a higher-than-market price for is exports. The eastern countries were able to do so because their exports of timber, coal and grain had a scarcity value. The western exporters charged more because the eastern market was more troublesome and much more uncertain than their other markets. For a number of reasons, this price discrepancy has, according to the Economic Commission for Europe, tended to disapepar in the last 18 months. Yet trade has continued to decline.

Similarly, it is unlikely that the improved payments arrangements between east and west, advocated by the commission, would really have any very dramatic effect on the volume of trade.

It is suggested that export earnings acquired in trade with one western country should be transferable to others, and that the present "transferable account" system for sterling (which enables Russia to buy Commonwealth food and raw materials with funds earned by selling timber and grain to Britain) should be extended to other European countries and their overseas dependencies.

In short, some possibility of improvement can be foreseen in trade between east and west in Europe, provided political obstacles are removed and other difficulties overcome. The American Battle Act and the strict control of strategic exports eastwards from western Europe is held responsible for a decline in west European exports of machinery by ten to 15 per cent. from 1950 to 1951, and by a further 25 per cent. from 1951 to 1952.

But in the foreseeable future any improvement will only be able to make good the decline of the last three or four years. It is even doubtful whether the economic basis now exists for the amount of trade that was done in 1949. It might well be that Russia, like many other developing countries, has now passed her peak demand for the machines and capital goods which western Europe could supply; and that even if she did still need them in large quantities, it would be hard for her to find the food and raw materials to spare with which to pay for them.

The most likely development in Russia's trade with the west still appears to be that she will show an increasing interest in buying food and raw materials for a growing industrial population. OFNS-Copyright

Wailing Sailing

In and around Peterborough every summer thousands of people, including visitors, take to boats. There are few pastimes more pleasant, and few more dangerous. Experienced water-enthusiasts keep pleasure and danger in balance, and therefore survive to sail another year. Others emphasize the danger and so lose the pleasure. Still others forget the danger, and in doing so are in danger of losing pleasure forever. Two weekend instances of lack of foresight or care were reported in this newspaper. We relate them as a warning to others.

* * *

Last Friday a Toronto yachtsman, Colonel J. C. Law, aged 54, took his newly-acquired 22-foot yawl into Lake Ontario. A squall came up, ripped the mainsail and washed Colonel Law overboard, a few miles from Scarboro. He had as his only companion and fellow-sailor on what was intended to be a week-long holiday, a dentist aged 50. The dentist was a complete novice on the water. The dentist was below making coffee. He heard a scream, rushed to the deck, saw the unfortunate yawl owner in the water 25 feet away, and threw a ring buoy but it had no rope attached. The dentist went below to see if there were other rescue apparatus to throw but when he came back there was no sign of Colonel Law. The dentist went below again and for the next 48 hours stayed below, crouched near the well, afraid to go on deck for fear of being washed overboard too, and bailed for life. The crippled yawl was sighted by a cruiser, the dentist was rescued, the Colonel drowned.

* * *

The other weekend accident occurred off Port Dover, in a Lake Erie bay. A 45-year-old Hamilton man was out fishing alone in an 18-foot motor-boat. He ran out of gasoline. The boat drifted—the anchor had been dropped but it dragged in the high wind. The man drifted for five hours. He apparently had no paddle, but he had a fishing-rod. A handkerchief tied to it as a distress signal finally brought rescuers.

* * *

Our readers, particularly those who go out in boats sometimes, may draw their own conclusions from these incidents. The italicized phrases are sign-posts to their deductions. In both mishaps the weather seemed to be sufficiently unsettled as to produce high winds and high waves a short while after the boats put out. Wise persons pay attention to weather indications before they set sail, or before they start out in a motor-boat, even if it has enough gasoline for the return trip.

Gone Without The Wind

We noticed on an island in Stony Lake a homemade windmill flailing its arms gaily in yesterday's breeze. It looked like a child's toy, except that its two arms were bigger and its position higher than a plaything. It is used, we were told, actually to pump water into the cottage. Few of the islands in Stony Lake have electricity and therefore cannot be equipped with electric water-pumps.

In the advance of electric power through the Province windmills have lost their sails. A few old metal towers of farm windmills still stand by the house or barn but their windwheels have dropped off or been removed. With the increasing decrepitude of the towers and the rise in price of scrap metal during the war, many windmills were torn down. But enough remain to recall yesteryear.

It is not to old millers' mills, museum (and restaurant) pieces that we refer; those belong to mythology and gastronomy. We speak of the comparatively recent passing of the homely, barnyard structure which excited our fancy and exercised our daring as a youngster, a whirring giant by day, a creaking ghost by night. No longer can children shinny up its long legs to sit on top of the world and tremble with its sway, for the American metal windmill, its vanes and struts, careening fins and swinging tail, is gone.

This American-type windmill which decked the Ontario rural scene as commonly as cross-country Hydro pylons do today had a short career. It did not come into mass manufacture until the 1880's and only by 1900 were many of our farmers sufficiently prosperous and mindful of muscular ease to install the wind-pump and water-works. The skeletons of windmills now remaining are signs of a rural area's development. Some never had them at all.

In the immediate vicinity of Peterborough and south of it to the Lake Ontario shore, windmills were the marks of mechanical progress that a tractor is today. North of the city in areas settled later, there are and were no windmills, for by the time these farms were sufficiently developed to afford a windmill, the gasoline engine and electric motor had come; a power other than wind was put to pump. Thus many parts of our province missed the windmill era. They over-leapt history. So it has happened that in some of our rural areas children of twenty years ago had no more real idea of the appearance and airs of a windmill than, in the Northwest Territories, children of today have a personal experience of the automobile. Like windmill-less youngsters of the last generation, these northern children today have bridged history—the aeroplane is the vade-mecum, the car something from the story-books and movies, like Don Quixote.

Black Buoys

In earlier times the channels through our lakes and rivers were marked with red and white buoys. Some years ago the white buoys were painted black, or replaced with black ones. The red remain as visible as before; the black fellows are hardly distinguishable from stumps, jumping fish or spots before the eyes, especially when the day is cloudy and the water is dark, and certainly at night.

There seems to us (and to persons boating on our waterways far more frequently than we do) that there is nothing to recommend the change from white buoys to black buoys except some desk-borne officials of the marine services of the Department of Transport. They do not give the excuse that black paint lasts longer or does not get as dirty as white paint—an excuse we would not be prepared to accept. No; the reason given for the change is that black buoys are in conformity with international usage. This is a feeble reason for the change.

The people who most use our inland waterways are Canadians, and they seldom use any other country's waterways. Therefore a Canadian system is good enough for them, indeed, better. The only other people frequently on our waterways are American tourists. Few of them navigate on the sea, and certainly not in the vessels they use on our lakes. These American tourists are not without brains. Should an American be used to black, not white buoys (a doubtful proposition since most do not take to water until they come up to Canada) he would not need ten seconds to learn our system. Black buoys to conform with international regulations and practice? Poppycock. Ninety-five percent. of the users of Canadian inland waterways—excluding the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system—know no other than Canadian marine ways.

We suggest that the Trent Canal people should go out tomorrow and paint all the black buoys white again. They would be easier to see and, further, they look rather pretty. The black fellows are depressing, like bier poles from a funeral pyre in Basutoland.

Sudden Death

Eleven violent deaths, ten of them in traffic crashes, occurred in Montreal district last weekend. This brings the total of accidental deaths in that area to 43 in nine days, 24 of them being loss of life due to traffic mishaps. The Montreal report merely intensifies the dangerous and tragic condition of traffic throughout the country. Worse is still to come. At present fifteen out of every hundred Canadians own cars. In the States, thirty out of every hundred persons have cars. Canadian wealth is increasing; therefore, more Canadians will have cars—probably a percentage of them similar to the American proportion. Further, there will be more Canadians to own cars. It is estimated that in twenty-five years there will be twenty-five million Canadians. At present there are a few thousand more than fourteen millions. Another item to be reckoned is the ever-increasing power and potential speed of cars.

Traffic conditions at present are more than Canadians are coping with successfully and safely now; what will be the situation twenty-five years hence? Will it be better then not to have been born, than to attempt to pick one's way through life (or cars) in ever-present danger of being wiped violently and painfully along the face of the earth, and into it? The plans and programs now being devised to control and better to condition traffic are inadequate to present needs and quite beyond the probable future requirements, especially in big cities and on highways between them. Even Ontario, with its extensive highway system and plans, cannot escape the facts; there were 115 sudden deaths on Ontario roads last month.

Perhaps there is no cure for future traffic ills other than to take to foot or to the air, or surer still, to live parochially from cradle to the grave.

British Reaction To August 10

By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES
(In Montgomeryshire, N. Wales)

I AM told that the Canadian election created more interest in Britain this time than it has ever done before. It is true that in the more important papers like The Times, The Telegraph, and The Manchester Guardian, as well as the leading Scottish papers, the election did have a good news coverage prior to voting day and also afterwards, but it got very small space in what is known as "the popular press." Because the latter three cent papers are the only newspapers read by millions here, most Britons are still very poorly informed about Canada. The Times gave very good coverage, and The Manchester Guardian covered every province by special correspondent, and very fair articles were written. Then, too, the BBC gave the election quite a lot of attention, summarizing the situation at 7 o'clock for about a week ahead of voting day. The first returns to reach the British people were at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when the people of Britain were told over the air that the Liberal Government had been returned, and at that time had 137 seats, against the Conservatives 37. Later, on the 9 o'clock news, came a bulletin, giving the Liberals 157. Later broadcasts kept the people informed and at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening the total result was broadcast.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON WEDNESDAY, both The Manchester Guardian and The London Times carried nearly a column about the election results, both illustrated with a picture of Prime Minister St. Laurent in characteristic pose. Believing the readers of The Examiner will be interested in the viewpoint of these two influential British papers, I am quoting from them both. The Times did not comment in its editorial columns, but editorialized as follows in its news story:

As had been expected, there was no faltering in the loyalty of Quebec Province to the Liberal Party, which also did rather better than had been expected throughout the four Atlantic provinces, winning all seats in Newfoundland. The provincial swing to the Conservatives in New Brunswick last September had no influence on yesterday's voting. A greater disappointment to the Conservatives was their failure to make any considerable headway in the politically decisive province of Ontario, on which they had necessarily staked their greatest hopes. A net gain of seven seats there was much less than they had hoped for, and taken along with the increase of only two seats throughout the whole country is a measure of the failure of Mr. Drew as their national leader.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE LIBERAL party had all the advantages over their chief opponents — Canada's prosperity, its unprecedented rate of expansion in the development of its resources and of its industries, and an equally unprecedented high standard of living. The electors decided emphatically that a time when everyone has a dollar in his pocket is not time for a change.

Additionally, the Liberals have the great personal asset of Mr. St. Laurent's leadership, which in spite of his 71 years remains as vigorous as ever. Though he has been only 12 years in politics, having been called from his law practice by Mr. Mackenzie King to wartime Cabinet rank, Mr. St. Laurent has established himself as a representative Canadian, in English as well as French-speaking Canada. His party's record in office proved a solid platform.

With Conservatism out of office nationally for almost 18 years, and in the shadow of a decisive defeat four years ago under his own leadership, it was obvious that the best Mr. Drew could hope to do was make sufficient inroads in the Liberal majority to give him enough support in the Commons as would keep the Government on its toes. This is not provided by an official Opposition of 50. During the election campaign Mr. Drew promised to reduce taxation by $500,000,000 annually, a figure which hardly stood up to the analysis to which the Liberals naturally subjected it. Taxation was, of course, only one point of Mr. Drew's 16-point program, which also promised an increase of trade with Britain and other sterling countries. But the taxation issue was the one by which Mr. Drew stood or fell, and since it failed to impress an electorate who had no particular reason to be discontented with the Liberals, the relative personal merits of the leadership of the two parties played what is probably a decisive part. The result of the election diminishes rather than increases Mr. Drew's standing as Conservative leader. (So ran the Times article.)

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Manchester Guardian had a long article on the Canadian election. I quote briefly as follows:

"It is hardly an exaggeration to say that Canadian politics is no longer divided between two major and two minor parties, but instead between one major party and three splinter groups, each representing mainly sectional attitudes and interests. Clearly this situation cannot endure, in a democracy so serious minded and alert as Canada. The lack of effective opposition exposes the Liberals to the dangers of over-confidence, breeding in time both slackness in detail and errors in principle. They are more proof against such dangers than most parties, but even for them Monday's triumph must present a risk of an eventual crash followed by a disastrous reaction. It would be better for Canadian Liberalism to be faced with some counter-vailing power—with an effective parliamentary Opposition based on national rather than sectional policy.

"The Conservative party is not at present such an Opposition but remains only a party that may become one. Canadians are too content with the present and hopeful of the future for the Liberals to be challenged from the Left. But the Conservatives show little promise of playing their proper role. The radical reconstruction of the party is now unavoidable. In this election they had some useful material to work on. Examples of extravagance in Government spending had been found; the feeling that taxation is unnecessarily high was widespread; in several respects the Liberals seemed to have faltered in political judgement. But in the conduct of the campaign the Conservatives did more than falter. They entirely misjudged the temper of the electorate. Their policy may have reflected coherent principles, but it looked like expediency. It promised at once large tax cuts and a variety of supposedly popular measures that would increase Government spending. The Liberal reply was restrained: it did not deny all the mistakes and made a virtue of refraining from vote-catching promises. Under its existing Government the country had done well, and the Government would simple go on doing its best on the same lines. That has proved enough for the electorate, whose calmness in no way reflected apathy."

✧ ✧ ✧

CANADIAN visitors to Britain must, however, continue to be appalled at the abysmal ignorance of Canada among the masses. But what can one expect when English visitors to Canada do such a very bad job of interpreting Canada. I have just been engaged in a controversy with a writer from Britain who had sent back home an article to a Liverpool paper with a large circulation. This woman claims to be a school teacher, and to have run as a Conservative candidate in a Liverpool division at the last election. She has been in Canada foureen months, and in that time, according to her own story, has had six different jobs. When I read the article I made up my mind that it must be replied to. This I did, but while the article by the school teacher, misinforming the readers of the paper about Canada was about 2,500 words, the best I could get was about 500 or less. Knowing the difficulties of the newsprint situation over here, I was thankful for that much. At least it was a reply. But it will take many more 500 word articles to catch up with the misinformation which is sent back by ill-informed people, who seem to think of Canada as still a colony to be patronized.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ARTICLE was headed "Canada, Where Women are Politically Out of Date." I will not bother the readers of The Examiner with much of what this woman said, but I must tell them that "her greatest disappointment" was to "find that women and young people take hardly any interest in political life." I suggested that she get in touch with one of the hundreds of women's and young people's political associations across Canada, and try to learn something of the political life of the country. Then, too, she had been told by "a woman who before her retirement had been secretary to successive prime ministers," that our members of Parliament were merely delegates. think her exact words are worth quoting: "What you don't understand," she said, "is the difference in our conception of an M.P's duties. In Britain he is a representative. I Canada he is a delegate. He is sent to Parliament, not so much to legislate for the nation, as to watch over the individual interests of his constituency." In my reply I asked her, I think quite properly, just who does the legislating for the nation in Canada. But why quote any more? The fact that after 14 months in our country she still talked about "Canada's thirteen provinces," pretty well gives us the measure of her ignorance.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT there is a brighter side, definitely a brighter side. It is The Canada Review. This excellent 12-page tabloid newspaper which is published in London every Friday, is full of information about Canada, and I hope that its circulation and advertising patronage will grow to the point where it will become a prosperous venture for the publishers, Thomson Dailies of Toronto. Mr. Roy H. Thomson is the head of this firm which owns papers all over Canada. The Review is being managed over here by his son, Mr. Kenneth Thomson, a graduate of Cambridge, who thoroughly understands the newspaper publishing business. The Canada Review is right on its toes. On Friday, July 31st, it published a full list of the Canadian nominations, and today, Friday, August 14th, I was reading a complete list of the election returns at my breakfast up here, 175 miles from London. This paper can be a great aid in spreading accurate information about Canada, and I hope its circulation grows to a large figure.

HIS CUP RUNNETH OVER

TV Scavengers

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

CANADIAN television addicts who for preference tune in American stations are likely these days to see as nasty a collection of characters as programers have yet been able to dream up. Money, time and effort is being poured into entertainments that the sub-Yahoos would shun. Five recent specimens, all masquerading as drama, will illustrate how some sections of American TV have been degraded beyond the dreams of vulgarity.

"Suspense" offered half an hour about a stolen vial of cholera germs, a plague-menaced city and the habituee of a junk-yard. In the name of realism there were several closeups of a plague victim. In "Doorway to Danger" a wife framed her husband for murder and another character was a drunken doctor bent on doping cabinet ministers with morphine. The same program featured a Communist gun moll and several murders.

A cheap hotel with the usual house dick, was the setting for "Danger." Other ingredients of this nauseating dish were the doings of a thug and the butchering of an ex-convict in a garage. "Television Playhouse" could offer nothing better than a story of a brutal father and a hypochondriac mother, while "Studio One" plumbed the depths with a psychiatrist who hurls his wife under a train, releases a slavering madwoman from an asylum to commit homicide, and then goes crazy himself.

It is appalling that millions of people, including supposedly intelligent Canadians, should be exposing themselves to this leprous trash with its utterly false suggestion that suspense, danger and drama are found only in the lives of psychopaths, deadbeats and criminals. We entirely agree with the comment of Jack Gould, critic of the New York Times, that "there is more to art than muck, misery and mayhem," and with his plea for programs about persons of intelligence, wit and substance.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Job spake, and said, Let the day perish wherein I was born, and the night in which it was said, There is a man child conceived. Let that day be darkness; let not God regard it from above, neither let the light shine upon it . . .

For the thing which I greatly feared is come upon me, and that which I was afraid of is come unto me. (Job 3:2-4,25.)

Letter To The Editor

GREEKS NEED HELP

Sir: As a result of the destructive earthquakes the cities of Argostolion, Zakynthos (Zante), and Lixourion in the Ionian Islands, are completely ruined, as well as a great number of villages. Condition of populace as regards food and morale is tragic. Up to today (August 13) the number of dead is over a thousand and that of the wounded cannot be calculated.

The Greek Red Cross, the armed forces, doctors, nurses and all the Greek people offer their assistance.

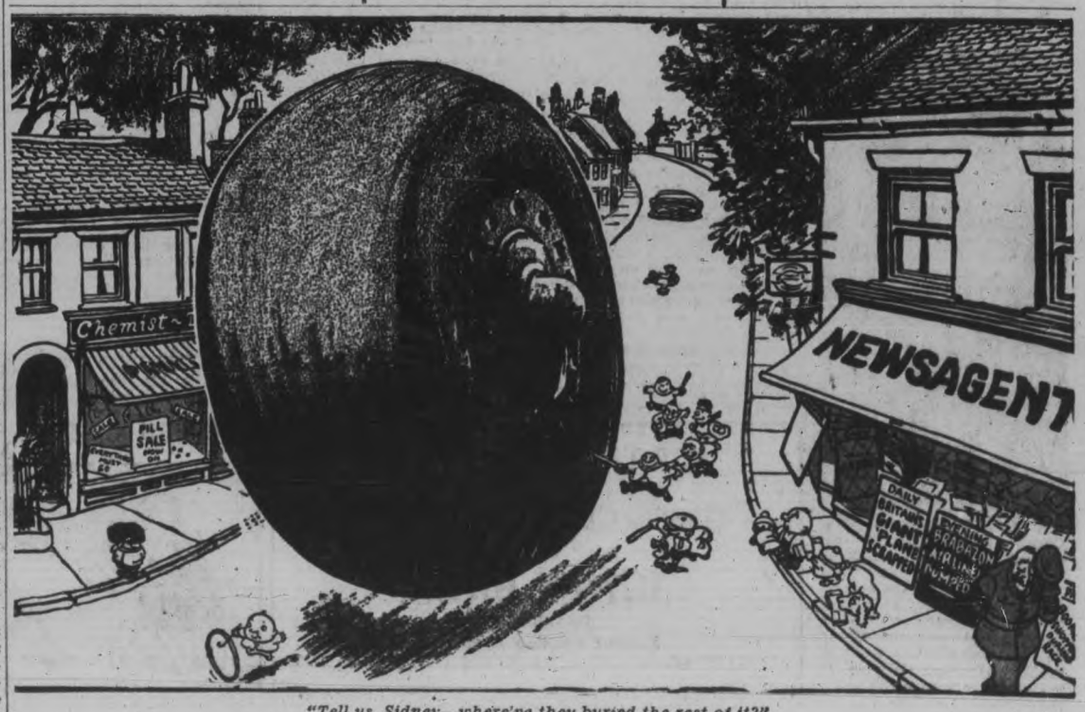
The Embassies of the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Italy, France, Russia, Holland, Brazil and others have declared their willingness to offer all assistance possible.

Here is a list of things urgently needed:

1. Large tents (capacity for more than 10 persons). 2. Clothing, used or new. 3. Blankets. 4. Dressing materials (Bandages, Gauzes, Cotton, adhesive plaster). 5. Antibiotics (Penicilline, Streptomicyne). 6. Antitetanic serum. 7. Splints for temporary immobility of fractures. 8. Metallic Iodine. 9. Wood. 10. Pitch paper. 11. Building material. 12. Assembled houses.

We earnestly appeal to you to bring to the attention of the readers of your newspaper the extent of the calamity which has befallen these Ionian Islands and the urgent and dire need, which exists for relief work. Canada and Canadians have never failed Greece in the past. We know they will not fail her in her present need.

Very sincerely yours,



GEORGE VLASSIS, Director,
Office of Information, Royal Greek Embassy,

Strike Violence Punished

(Windsor Star)

Jail terms, running from 10 days to one month, imposed on 18 gold miners at Timmins are a timely reminder to all strikers. It is that men have no right to take the law into their own hands simply because they are on strike. Any violence is crime during a strike just as it is otherwise.

The convicted men had brutally assaulted non-strikers, and the magistrate rightly condemned this violation of the rules of peaceful picketing. It will be noted of these 18 members of the goon squad only six were employees of the mine involved. It always is dangerous to bring in outside men on a strike. Those who volunteer are apt to be of an irresponsible and roughneck variety, who bring trouble to peaceful picketers.

Uses Trance To Help Find Treasure

By KEN BOTWRIGHT

PENKRIDGE, Eng. (Reuters)—Archaeologist H. Russell Kennedy Tuesday started digging here for medieval treasure which his four assistants saw in a hypnotic trance.

He hopes to find a metal-bound casket filled with silver coins which was buried near this Midlands village by refugee monks during the Reformation about 400 years ago.

The site of the treasure, the burial of the casket and the benedictine monks in their flowing robes were all seen by Kennedy's assistants when he put them into a deep hypnotic trance.

"It seems fantastic and incredible, but by putting my assistants into a form of hypnotic trance on historic sites I have been able to send their minds back into the past," he explained.

HAVE MADE SKETCHES

"They have even been able to make sketches of things which happened during the Norman conquest of Britain about 1,000 years ago."

To prepare for the dig, Kennedy hypnotized his assistants at the ruins of an ancient hunting lodge here which is supposedly haunted by ghosts.

He said they were able to describe the lodge as it was in the 16th century. They told of a slab in the garden set beneath a sun dial. Today only a pear tree grows there.

Kennedy went to the tree and began digging around it. He found the slab two feet under the ground. Beneath it was a subterranean passage leading to another ruined manor house nearby.

MONKS SEEN

A second hypnotic session produced details of the foundations of a building which was later unearthed. It was near this building that the monks were seen burying the treasure-filled casket by the hypnotized quartet.

"There is no mental telepathy in this," said Kennedy. "I leave my assistants to gather their impressions from the past and then I apply them to my own knowledge of these historic sites. In this way I know exactly where to excavate."

If he uncovers the casket of treasure, the archeologist believes he will have proved indisputably that his new technique is more efficient than any existing methods of locating historic sites.

BENNETT MEMORIAL—A memorial to the late Viscount R. B. Bennett, Conservative prime minister of Canada from 1930 to 1935, is unveiled at Calgary. The monument, situated on the south side of Calgary's public library in Central Park, was erected by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. The official unveiling is performed by Eric L. Harvie, honorary colonel of the Calgary Highlanders. Viscount Bennett at one time was honorary colonel of the 10th battalion, now the Highlanders.

Pakistan's Black Market Money

BY RAWLE KNOX

KARACHI, (OFNS) — Outside the Reserve Bank of Pakistan in Karachi, amid the construction of drains and passage of camel carts, the police have just arrested another group of traders in black market currency. The offenders were exchanging Pakistani rupees for Indian at the rate of 110-120 for 100. The official rate is 67 for 100.

That the traders can do this business and still make a profit shows the extraordinary relation of Pakistan's rupee, which did not devalue with Britain's sterling in 1949, to that of India, which did.

At India's Calcutta airport, the official money changer will give just such a rate of exchange as that for which the black marketeers are arrested in Pakistan. And tens of thousands commute every day between Calcutta and its environs and Pakistani East Bengal. Many are known to be paid by currency dealers to carry with them the 50 Pakistani rupees which they may legally take across the border, and for which Pakistani bank will legally give them 75 Indian rupees. Back in Calcutta next day the 75 Indian will turn into about 85 Pakistani rupees, and the process can begin again.

Just how much Pakistan is losing in this simplest of black markets, no one is prepared to estimate. The loss is apparently not affecting Pakistan's decision to maintain her rupee rate precisely as it is.

"I've stopped denying that Pakistan is about to devalue," says the country's able Finance Minister, Chaudhri Mohammed Ali, "because everyone reminds me of what Sir Stafford Cripps (former British Chancellor) said about sterling. Now I just don't talk about it."

Nevertheless the Chaudhri talked about it at some length in this year's budget speech, strongly making the case for the overvalued rupee, and Pakistan's Finance Ministry maintains that the position remains unchanged since April.

Those who believe Pakistan must devalue in the long run argue that now is the time to do so, since the gift by America of two million tons of wheat will firmly hold down food prices for the current year.

They reason that a reduction of the Pakistani rupee value would restore a free flow of trade with India, normally Pakistan's most convenient customer and supplier in many commodities; and would also remove a psychological barrier to foreign buyers and investors. Foreigners who have to convert their money at what they strongly believe is an artificial rate tend to look for returns elsewhere than in Pakistan.

But Chaudhri Mohammed Ali's first argument for his rupee is that devaluation would mean an inflationary pressure within his country. The producers of cotton and jute, which form 90 per cent. Pakistan's exports, would get more rupees for their goods. (India answers a similar problem by imposing export taxes; but foreign buyers do not like this artificial increase of price, either).

RESTRICTED NEW CROP

Including the carry-over from 1951-52, Pakistan has to dispose of 9,100,000 bales of jute this year and she has already sold well over two-thirds of these. By restricting sowing, she has assured that the new crop will total only 3,800,000 bales, and has every hope that next year there will be a seller's market for jute.

For cotton, which 18 months ago one used to see stacked in great untidy dumps in Karachi's goods yards, there has this year been a record turnover on the Karachi market of more than two million bales. There will be a negligible carry-over into next year, which is anyway well provided for in the Japanese agreement to take half the season's crop.

While Pakistan still needs to import heavy capital equipment from abroad, argues the Finance Ministry, and while she can still sell her raw products on world markets, there is every reason why she should not devalue. No doubt the black marketeers of Calcutta and Karachi agree wholeheartedly.

Russ Authorities Set British Policeman Free

BERLIN (Reuters) — Soviet authorities Tuesday released a British military policeman detained Monday night after an incident on the West Berlin-Soviet zone border, a British Army spokesman said.

The soldier, L. Cpl. Thomas Reeves, 23, reported to his unit in West Berlin with his jeep, which the Russians had also been holding.

Soviet guards opened fire on the jeep when it inadvertently crossed the border. Reeves' companion escaped under a fusillade of bullets.

Earlier in the day East Berlin police shot at a group of about 10 men and women running from the Soviet to the French sector. They killed one man.

A statement by the East Berlin police, published by the official East German news agency ADN, said the dead man was Theodor Schulz, 51, "a wanted criminal."

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A. E. Berry, director of sanitary engineering for Ontario, will be called in to help solve the emergency Windsor now faces as a result of a heavily overtaxed sewer system, Mayor Arthur J. Reaume announced Tuesday. Berry is expected to issue a mandatory order compelling the city to take certain steps to safeguard the health of residents following serious flooding of basements in some areas during recent heavy storms.

Frost Opens New Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — The new Mount Sinai Hospital on University Avenue, which has cost $7,300,000 and has been 12 years in the planning and building, was officially opened Tuesday.

Premier Frost cut the ribbon and Arthur Cohen, building committee chairman, rolled the cornerstone into place after a copper box containing several thousand names had been put into a niche.

After the ceremony, a large crowd went into inspect the 12-floor hospital, one of the most modern in North America.

Ask Provincial Institution For Punishment

TORONTO (CP) — A convicted person can spend as much as 10 years in reformatory under a section of the Criminal Code dating back to pre-Confederation days, CCF leader W. J. Grummett said Tuesday at a meeting of the legislature's select committee studying reform institutions.

He urged establishment of a provincial institution solely for punishment and not reformation. A prisoner, he said, can be given several reformatory terms to serve consecutively when actually he should be sent to the penitentiary.

Clifford Magone, deputy attorney general, said the reformatory term as distinguished from a sentence in the penitentiary was laid out in the Criminal Code before Confederation when all prisons were a provincial matter.

"When the British North America Act was passed, penitentiaries became a federal responsibility, but no change was made in the Criminal Code," he said.

SUGGESTS ANSWER

Mr. Grummet said the answer may be a provincial type of penitentiary for those who are not reformable.

Mr. Grummett and Don Morrow (PC—Carleton) reported on a visit they made to the Brampton reform school, which is operated on the honor system.

The school has no walls and newcomers are greeted by prisoners. It is a new experiment in reform institutions in Ontario. Prisoners themselves administer the school to a limited extent through an organization similar to students' councils.

Mr. Grummett and Mr. Morrow said it is a place "which shows you reform being carried out."

Argentine Cyclist Heads For Vancouver

WINDSOR (CP)—An argentine cyclist left here Tuesday on a trip that will take him to Vancouver and add another few thousand miles to the 13,000 he has travelled since he left Buenos Aires in January, 1952.

Francisco said he averages about 90 miles a day if the going is good.

Residents Retreating From Hostile Hebrides

WASHINGTON. — Are the remote, misty Hebrides Islands — spread fan-like along Scotland's Atlantic Coast — losing their fight against depopulation?

Latest of the island chain to be deserted by its inhabitants is Soay, near Skye. Soay's entire population—27 men, women and children — recently migrated to Craigmure, 40 miles south of the Isle of Mull.

This was the second of the Hebrides' 100 inhabited islands — there are several hundred other barren reefs — to be abandoned in recent years, says the National Geographic Society. In August, 1939, the 35 residents of St. Kilda in the Outer Hebrides moved to Lochaline on the Scottish mainland. Today only wild mouflon sheep and sea-fowl live permanently on St. Kilda.

SHARK FISHING

Soay is more fortunate than St. Kilda. A Newfoundland fisherman bought the island and has set up housekeeping there with his London wife and small son. He plans to offer shark fishing as a sport for tourists, and hopes that other English families will join him.

Decline of Soay's lobster fishing — a chief source of support — prompted residents to forsake their homeland. Poor soil, inadequate links with the mainland, and absence of medical attention with other factors which led to their emigration.

The lobster decline was a problem peculiar to Soay, but the other deficiencies are common to all the Western Islands, as reflected in dwindling population figures. Soay had 70 homesteaders in 1936. On Skye, largest of the Inner Hebrides, there are only about 8,000 people, compared with 23,000 a century ago. "Our main exports are young men and young women," Skyemen say refully.

The Hebrides' rocky moors are scenically rich but physically poor. Soil is scanty and difficut to drain. Trees are few, and pasture extremely limited. Most of the people are crofters — tenant farmers who rent house and acreage. Fishing, cattle-breeding, weaving and the tourist trade are the other major industries.

Norse place names are evidence of Norse domination of the isles from the 8th century to 1266. The Islands' people are a blend of the Nordic and the darker Celtic types. Gaelic, the old language of the Highlands, is still spoken in the Hebrides.

The climate is wet but not cold, with frequent fogs. Main tourist pursuits are salmon and sea-trout fishing, and rock-climbing. Skye's Cuillin range is the barest and most precipitous of British mountains. Its jagged pinnacles resemble diminutive Alps, although the highest peak is only 3,309 feet above the sea.

Seabrooke's Take 9-2 Win Against TPT Transports To Even City League Finals

Seabrooke Motors evened the count with their arch rivals TP Transports Tuesday night, at the East City Bowl by handing the Bennett men a 9-2 defeat in the second thrilling game of their best-of-seven men's senior softball series for the Taylor trophy, and city championship, before a tremendous crowd. Each has won a contest, and the action packed set will continue Thursday night. George Bennett, selected Reg. Gordon to tame the East City firebrands, Bill Sullivan and coach Rusty Scriver countered with Jimmy Driscoll and the latter proved hotter than a furnace poker. He had his "drop" sinking slightly better than usual, and his control was excellent. Gordon also hurled a steady game for the most part, not as effective as his rival, but his support lapsed badly, particularly in the third, fourth and eighth innings when Seabrooke's scored seven runs in all. Six miscues with men aboard greatly augmented the Sullivan lads' margin of victory, without detracting one iota from the merit of same or the opportunism and ability of the winners.

SEVEN HITS

Driscoll scattered seven hits, struck out eight and walked but two in a brilliant display. Gordon was nicked for seven hits as well, struck out four and passed seven batters. Three tickets were issued to home-run champ Red Sullivan, one intentionally in the first with Thompson aboard and two away, as TP's used the strategic approach to foil their potent rivals. Sullivan came through in the eighth, however, with a colossal drive past the lights in right field for his 21st homer of the year with Curry aboard to draw a tremendous ovation from the crowd. Thus Seabrooke's scored their final two. Ken Guilfoyle took over on the visitors' hill, and no further damage came.

Russ Scriver found his eyes of yesteryear in the second inning, when he leaned hickory on a Gordon fast ball and bounced that melon off a car roof on the carnival grounds for Seabrooke's first run. The crowd gave the veteran a big hand, Transports scored in the visiting third, when Mackness hit safely and came around as Fryia's drive advanced him to third, aided by an overthrow, and Greenlaw drove a long fly to Spencer.

SCORED TWO

Seabrooke's took two in their half as Sullivan walked again, Wyatt was safe on an error and Scriver cleaned the sacks with a freak double back of third that rolled foul and eluded West, Greenlaw, and Collins. It was Scriver's third RBI. In the home fourth, the Sullivan pack bunched hits with errors to net three runs and take a commanding if not insurmountable lead. Thompson hit safely to right; Jaquith sacrificed. Curry hit one to short right, near the first base line that Legrow got his hands on but was unable to hold; his throw-in struck the light post as well and Thompson and Currie sped around. Sullivan drew his third walk, advanced on Spencer's rap to third, and scored on Wyatt's tainted rap to West. Transports fought for one in the sixth as Driscoll worked masterfully. Greenlaw walked and scored on West's mighty smash to left, with two away. Sullivan bit safely in the home half to score Jaquith—on base by virtue of a hard single to left. That was it except for the eighth, and Sullivan's smash to score Curry (safe on an effor) for his 21st run batted in of the playoffs, and ninth playoff homer.

Two fast double plays featured afield, one engineered by Thompson and Sullivan on a hard liner, and a Wyatt to Sullivan to Scriver in the eighth, to nail Fryia at the plate and Leonard at first.

The series continues Thursday with intermediate OASA playoffs Wednesday—TPT's v. Belleville.

Lindsay Boxers Visit Camp

LINDSAY—(ENS) — The Kiwanis boxing club visited Camp Kagawong Tuesday night and presented three lightweight fights for the campers besides enjoying an outing, weiner roast and movie of the first Walcott-Marciano fight.

The boys were taken to the camp by members of the Kiwanis Club.

Thursday night the club will present its seventh card of the season in Lindsay. Boxers who have fought three or more fights this year will be presented with crests by Kiwanis president, Lee Brown. The crests, according to manager Lloyd Burrows are presented only for participation in the fights, not for wins or points standings on August 27.

Lindsay fighters will pay a return visit to the Minden Boxing Club, whose fighters were recent guests here. It is understood that a great night of boxing is being planned in the recreation centre there, with some Toronto fighters scheduled to appear on the card.

Quinte Regents Get Win From Liflocs

Belleville Regents defeated the Peterborough Liflocs 8-4 last evening in Belleville to open their OBA junior "A" playdown series. A previous win by the Quinte crew has been thrown out for the time being while the OBA investigates a protest from Liflocs that pitcher Johnny Mowatt of the Regents is over the age limit. The next game is at six p.m. Friday in Riverside Park.

Errors caused the downfall of the Dalton squad as they booted five against two Belleville errors. The winners were held to five safe hits as Peterborough collected six, but one of the winners' clouts was a homer by Goyer and another a double by Stevens. Singles were obtained by Hull, Gilmore and Strachan. Byrne and Sullivan hit doubles for Liflocs.

Strachan went all the way on the Quinte mound to throw steady ball. Doug Ash got into trouble in the fourth for Liflocs, Larry Foley taking over then. He gave way in the last two frames to Jerry Frizzelle, who hurled hitless ball and fanned three in that period. Foley fanned one and walked one, while Ash issued three walks.

Liflocs: Byrne, 3b; Frizzelle, rf, p; Foley, 1b, p, rf; Sullivan, cf; Bigford, c; Snape, lf; McGrath, 2b; Ferguson, ss; Ash, p, 1b.

Belleville: Hull, 3b; Goyer, ss; Carr, cf; Gilmore, 2b; Batchelor, rf; Strachan, p; Hall, c; Casey, lf; Stevens, 1b.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A Quinte puck item first. Ald. Don McNevin, senior "B" sponsor there last winter, states he will not put in a team this year. Bill Cook adds that he will not be back in OHA junior "B" ranks—and the sponsoring Chi Hawks have set a deadline for an answer to a junior club in Belleville. Vice-prexy Frank Buckland of the OHA expressed surprise that nothing has been done to date in re-organizing for hockey down that way as he had planned an early meeting to set up a senior "B" grouping in this area. Petes will be back and probably most of the others of 1952-53, but one can't be sure of all of them until a group meeting is called. We'd like to see Kingston, Oshawa, Orillia, Stouffville, Belleville and Petes return.

More than 20 turned out to a recent grid drill of Oshawa Red Raiders, who fill out our ORFU grouping with Toronto, Cobourg and Orfuns. Some Toronto talent is expected by Coach Wedley, especially a few ex-Beach linemen. Weight-lifter Don Pringle is working out and they hope to get Eric McIlveen as well. Most of last year's club are available once more. Cobourg Ghosts are busy building as are the local Orfuns—who have an exhibition Saturday in Ottawa—but little has been heard so far of the new Toronto entry. But it won't be long now till the pigskins are grunting with backfielders' punting.

One Of 'Em Was Tricky

George Jessel gets credit, acording to Bill Westwick, for a racehorse story re one Fleetfoot. A laughing horse which did other tricks, too. But his owner offered him for sale after winning many races. A would-be purchaser saw the owner at the stable about the sale. "When Fleetfoot won by four lengths," he boasted, "he turned around and giggled at the other horses. When he won by six lengths he laughed out loud at them. When he won the next race by eight lengths he actually guffawed at them." That settled it and the other man said: "I'll buy him." The owner accepted the cash and then said: "Fleetfoot does other tricks, too". Turning to the horse he called: "Fleetfoot, get up and make like you're lame for your new owner."

The representative football exhibition in Toronto this Sunday is at 3.15 at Greenwood Park, corner of Greenwood Ave. and Gerrard St. Local players participating should be on the grounds by 2.45 p.m., says loop president L. A Rather Elderly Junior Quinte Regents are one up on the local Liflocs in OBA junior "A" playdowns, and the next game is at six p.m. Friday in Riverside. First tilt has been tossed out as the OBA checks on a protest over pitcher Johnny Mowat of Belleville. Seems the former COBL flinger—who also hurled a bit of pro ball in the States—is going on 24, yet threw for Regents in the opener here. Quite a stretch over the age limit, eh? Errors hurt Liflocs' cause last gloaming as they outhit Belleville on the latter's grounds 6-5. Jerry Frizzelle, third pitcher used, went best for the visitors, while Strachan went the route for the winners. Goyer hit a homer, as doubles were conked by Stevens Byrne and Sullivan.

It was 9-2 last night for Seabrooke's over the Transports as men's City Softball League best-of-seven finals are knotted at a win each. Jim Driscoll of the easterners and Reg Gordon each tossed a seven-hit game but TPT-ers booted half a dozen to two and that made much of the difference. A hefty crowd saw some good ball, including circuit clouts by Russ Scriver and Red Sullivan of Seabrooke's. It was the 21st homer of the season for the redhead and his ninth in playoffs. This despite three walks last eve. They go again tomorrow night. Meantime, Belleville and TPT tangle tonight to open OASA intermediate "A" playdowns here.

Play In Closed Classes Of Junior Tennis Starts

OTTAWA (CP)—Play begins today for the closed championship in the junior men's singles class at the Canadian junior tenis championships, now in their sixth day.

This and other closed divisions were introduced this year to give Canadians a chance to reach a title without competition from tournament-experienced Americans.

Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., top-seeded Canadian, was knocked out of the open singles Tuesday by Bill Petruik, one of a strong delegation from Hamtramck Mich. Lambert's defeat, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, came in the fourth round. He will get a crack at the closed title in matches starting today.

Four Canadians are left in the open men's singles: Guy Durocher of Sherbrooke, Que., and Jean Paquette, of Ottawa, in the quarter-finals, and Rene Boyer and Stu Chapman of Montreal, who play off today for a quarter-final berth. Paquette meets the top-seeded foreigner, Karl Hettleman of Baltimore.

DOUBLES PLAY

Tuesday was given over largely to doubles play. Hettleman and Petruik reached the junior men's doubles semi-finals along with Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck and Raul Karman of Havana.

Best performance by Canadians came in the same division. Durocher and Marcel Rodrique of Granby, Que., eliminated the first foreign seedings, John McLean of Buffalo and Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N.Y., 6-4, 1-6, 8-6, in a third-round match.

The girls' doubles advanced to the semi-finals. Joan O'Brien of Toronto and Pam Davis of Halifax will meet Phyllis Saganski and Donna Zoskey of Hamtramck in one bracket; Ann Barclay of Vancouver and Carol Barton of Toronto will play Pam Stanfield and Judy Wilson of Truro, N.S., in the other.

Miss Saganski and Miss Barclay both 13, will meet in the juvenile girls' singles final. Miss Barclay also reached the girls' final by trimming Miss Barton 6-0, 6-2. Miss Saganski today meets Miss O'Brien for the berth opposite Miss Barclay in the girls' final.

Mariette Laframboise and Eleanor Dodge of Montreal moved through the second and third rounds of the junior women's doubles and Miss Laframboise, defending singles champion, also advanced in the singles division.

Senators Gallop To 10-8 Win Over N.Y. Yankees

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If winning a game already given up for lost was the spark that ignited the New York Yankees' pennant drive, will losing a game that looked like a sure victory be enough to put out the fire? It's tough to pick one game as the starting point of a surge toward the flag. But you can make a pretty good case for the Yankees' July 25 encounter in Detroit when they fought back from a 10-1 deficit to win from the Tigers 15-11 with four runs in the 12th inning. They went on to capture 17 of their next 23 games.

Then came Tuesday night. Chicago White Sox took a couple of squeakers from St. Louis Browns 3-2 and 2-1. The Yankees, using rookie Bill Miller, toyed with Washington and led 8-1 after six innings.

Clyde Vollmer and Mickey Vernon homered in the eighth and when Ed Fitzgerald opened the Washington ninth with a single, Casey Stengel figured it was time to bring on Allie Reynolds. Then he settled back to watch the big chief polish off the Senators.

DIDN'T CLICK

But Reynolds quickly gave up four tallies to put the tieing run on third base. Stengel frantically waved in Tom Gorman who gave up a walk and a single to Vollmer that tied the score.

Then Stengel switched to Johnny Sain. Jim Busby greeted him with a triple good for two more runs. Sain eventually retired the side, but the damage totalled seven runs. The final score was 10-8 for Washington.

It was a night of close games with six of the nine major league contests decided by a single run. In other American League action Boston Red Sox defeated Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 and Detroit edged Cleveland Indians 3-2. In the National Brooklyn Dodgers outlasted New York Giants 4-3 in 13 innings, Philadelphia Phillies nipped Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0, St. Louis Cardinals thumped Chicago Cubs 5-1 and Milwaukee Braves ran up the biggest margin of the evening in whipping Cincinnati Redlegs 8-2.

BRILLIANT RELIEF PITCHING

The Dodger triumph featured brilliant relief pitching by both clubs, Jim Hughes and Clem Labine holding the Giants hitless over the last eight innings. Labine worked five of those innings, Hughes three. Larry Jansen struck out 11 men in eight innings of relief for the Giants.

Robin Roberts came on in relief to save Steve Ridzik's shutout over Pittsburgh after Ridzik twisted his ankle in the seventh inning.

Eddie Mathews hit his 38th home run in Milwaukee's triumph to tie Wally Berger's all-time Braves' record for homers set in 1930.

Gerry Staley gave up a home run to Chicago's Eddie Miksis and five other harmless hits in joining Harvey Haddix as a 15-game winner for the Cardinals.

STRIKES OUT 12

In the White Sox' first victory over the Browns Virgil Trucks struck out 12 men, high for the season in the American League for a nine-inning game. Bob Boyd hit a two-run homer.

Steve Gromek beat the Indians for Detroit on six hits and drove in the winning run.

At Boston Maury McDermott posted his 13th victory at the expense of Harry Byrd and the Athletics.

Marine Sergeant Dies In 1st Round Of Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Robert L. Lee, a sergeant at the Miami U.S. marine base, died Tuesday night a few minutes after he was hit under the heart in the first round of a four-round preliminary fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Lee, an obscure middleweight fighting under the name of Bobby Leonard, was pronounced dead by Dr. S. Joseph Pearlman when he was carried to his dressing room. Pearlman said he appeared to have suffered a brain haemorrhage.

Lee was matched with Kenny Yates, Miami.

Yates was booked on a charge of involuntary manslaughter and released in custody of promoter Chris Dundee.

TORONTO (CP)—Louise Suggs, leading money winner among United States professional women golfers, and amateur Phil Farley fired sub-par golf Tuesday to defeat Marlene Stewart, British amateur champion, and professional Bob Gray by three points in a low ball and aggregate exhibition.

Miss Suggs, from Atlanta, Ga., put a one-under-men's-par 70 together with Farley's three-under 68 to win over Canadian close champion Miss Stewart of Fonthill, and Gray, who fired 73 and 68 respectively.

The match, with one point for low ball and another for low aggregate on each hole, went to the 17th before the result was apparent. On the 17th, Farley, veteran amateur from the Toronto Scarboro club where the match was played, dropped a 35-foot putt for a birdie and two points.

Gray, Scarboro pro, and Miss Stewart couldn't catch up.

Grain Elevators Plugged; Worst In 20 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Lack of buying of Canadian grains by overseas countries is reported to have plugged most grain elevators from Fort William, Ont., to the Atlantic seaboard.

One shipper said today he hasn't seen anything like it in more than 20 years.

Main storage elevators at the grain ports of Fort William and Port Arthur were jammed to the point of bursting as were transfer point grain storage facilities at Georgian Bay ports, Port Colborne, Kingston, as well as Halifax and Saint John.

There never had been so much grain stored at the Atlantic coast port elevators at this time of year but shipments had to be sent there to relieve the situation at inland elevators.

NO SIGN OF IMPROVEMENT

There was no immediate sign of improvement.

One steamship official said the wheat movement out of Montreal, Quebec, Sorel and Trois-Rivieres "is almost at a standstill."

"We have so much wheat available we have run out of space to store it. The situation could become serious with the new crop coming in."

He said the failure of Britain to sign the international wheat agreement has been one of the factors in cutting down exports from Canadian ports. Another was the fact so much wheat had been shipped in the early months of the season, storehouses in the United Kingdom also were plugged.

Pakistan Tempers Rise Over Crisis In Kashmir

By RAWLE KNOX

NEW DELHI—(OFNS)—It now appears certain that Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian Premier, will find himself unable to agree to the request of Mohammed Ali, Pakistan Premier, for an early meeting to discuss Indian and Pakistani affairs in the light of events in Kashmir.

The Indian government is expressing bland surprise at Pakistan's interest in "what is an internal matter for Kashmiris", and comments that there have been three or four changes in the Pakistani-sponsored "Azad Kashmir" Government about which India has expressed no concern.

Meanwhile, irritation in Pakistan increases daily. Pakistani newspapers which had been cooing like doves since Mohammed Ali's installation as Premier and his immediate expressions of goodwill towards India, have now reverted to shrillness and anger. Miss Jinnah, sister of Pakistan's late founder, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, has called on all Muslims to go to the help of their brethren in Kashmir, and though Miss Jinnah's name after a series of not very successful brushes with Liaquat Ali Khan's (former Pakistan Premier) Government, does not arouse such devotion as it once did, she has clearly gathered around her some of those who are discontented at Mr. Mohammed Ali's replacement of the former Premier Nazimmuddin.

Between India's smooth correctness and Pakistan's impotent rage there is discernible one most important development. The inclination in Pakistan, though it has not yet been voiced by any government spokesman, is to demand that the whole Kashmir dispute be handed back to the United Nations. It is India's clear intention—in Pakistani eyes—to avoid a plebiscite and push through ratification of Kashmir's accession to India, which Bakshi Ghulam Mohammed, Pakistan's new Premier, has promised will be passed at the October session of Kashmir's Constituent Assembly.

For the past few months, both Delhi and Karachi have been congratulating themselves on their decision to settle the Kasmir issue without the intervention of outsiders. In Pakistan, therefore, the tune shows signs of sharp variations. In India the whistling at foreigners (in respect of Kashmir) has merely grown more piercing. Today's leading Indian newspapers prominently publish the Srinagar (capital of Kashmir) story from the Indian News Agency which is an unveiled accusation that the United Nations military observers in Kashmir have been and are intriguing to cause trouble. The story implies that instead of watching the cease-fire line, the observers are gathering in their Srinagar headquarters—described, not very originally, as "a hotbed of intrigue"; it alleges that after meeting shortly after Sheikh Abdullah's dismissal, United Nations staff went around the city stirring up agitation. United Nations offices here and in Karachi wil shortly issue a strong denial.

But the story is only a heightening of the anti-Western xenophobia which has for some time past been cultivated by Kashmir's National Conference leaders. Allegations of Anglo-American interference in Kashmir have on occasion been reflected in officials' unofficial briefings to Indian correspondents in Delhi. The clear inference is that neither the National Conference, nor Indian intends to allow the United Nations to resume interest in the Kashmir dispute if this can be prevented.

Mr. Nehru's reasonable and perfectly defensible belief is that the dispute is far more likely to be solved by frank and friendly discussion between the two parties concerned; on which a knowledgeable Pakistani has commented: "Perfectly reasonable and defensivle—so long as Mr. Nehru remembers that there are two parties to the discussion."

Filmed Books Used At Hospital For Children

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The monotonous hours spent by bedridden youngsters staring at the ceiling in War Memorial Children's Hospital here have been broken.

Those white squares of acoustic tile are becoming the pages of familiar books.

The London Kiwanis Club Tuesday presented a projector and 25 rolls of microfilm to the hospital. The 25 reels are complete copies of books.

At the touch of a button a youngster lying flat on his back, unable to lift his head to read as normal children do, can advance the squares of film each of which carries a complete page of the book.

Projected Books—the name given the new idea—were first introduced in 1940 when thousands of immobile veterans came home to North America. Today there are more than 750 microfilmed books available for the projector and London Kiwanis, says president V. A. McKillop, is going to keep adding to the children's hospital supply of filmed books

Ordered To Answer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker Monday ordered the publishers of Maclean's magazine and Blair Fraser, its Ottawa editor, to answer a number of questions put to them in connection with a libel action brought by Gordon S. Wismer, former attorney-general of B. C.

Margaret Aitken Elected On Recount

TORONTO (CP)—Margaret Aitken, Toronto newspaper columnist running as a Progressive Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons for York Humber, returning officer Charles Ring announced after the official count Tuesday.

Mr. Ring said the count gave Miss Aitken 11,175 votes against 11,097 for Liberal Ken Thompson who was reported to have taken the riding by a close margin after the Aug. 10 general election.

There was no immediate indication that a recount will be asked. Mr. Thompson is vacationing in the Timiskaming area.

FOURTH WOMAN

Miss Aitken's election gives the Conservatives 51 seats in the 265-seat house. The Liberals have 170 seats, CCF 23, Social Credit 15 and independents six.

Miss Aitken is the fourth woman elected to the Commons in the election. The others are Ellen Fairclough, PC for Hamilton West, Ann Shipley, a Liberal, for Timiskaming and Sybil Bennett, PC, for Halton.

The unofficial count on election night gave Mr. Thompson a 36-vote margin over Miss Aitken. Mrs. Jane Prosser, the CCF candidate, lost by a big margin.

DR. F. J. HARDEN

Dr. F. J. Harden Appointed Veterinarian

Dr. J. P. Wells, MOH, today announced the appointment of Dr. Frederick J. Harden, DVM and DVPH of Belleville as Public Health Veterinarian for the Department of Health.

Since the resignation of Dr. Harold Worton over a year ago, Dr. Wilson Ford acted as Public Health Veterinarian, in a part-time capacity until this spring, when he was succeeded by Dr. D. C. Smith.

Dr. Harden is a native of Whitby, Ont., and received his early education there. Following his discharge from the RCAF, he attended the Ontario Veterinary College and graduated in 1949. In 1950 he received his diploma in Veterinary Public Health from the University of Toronto.

In 1950 he joined the staff of the Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington County Health Unit, with offices in Belleville.

Dr. Harden will assume his duties here on September 25. He is married and has one child.

Labor Council Seeks Homes For Evicted

What is to become of the families dispossessed of their homes by the City of Peterborough buying the site on King St. so the city can have a parking lot?

This question has been taken up by the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) who met Monday.

George Linsdell said that city council should meet as soon as possible to determine where the members stand. The motion carried without anybody objecting.

The site contains four houses that will have to be demolished for the parking lot which should be in operation by next spring. Purchase price is $20,000 for the lot, opposite the Colonial Coach Lines terminal. At present the site is owned by the Medical Centre.

Mr. Linsdell said that the rents right now vary between $16.50 a month and $25, and the city council investigated what future rents will cost.

The motion was that a letter be sent to city council asking them where they stand on this project. A meeting should be called, even if it requires a special meeting, the labor council declared.

Jury Urges Rural Corners Road Signs

Drivers Absolved In Death Of Preston Man

LINDSAY (ENS)—At the inquest into the death of Charles Benedict, 70, of Preston, Ont., the coroner's jury accepted the recommendation of Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan, QC, that all rural roads should be properly marked at intersections, especially the intersection of Concession 5 in Eldon Township at the Lorneville quarter line.

Benedict died in Ross Memorial Hospital here, July 29, as a result of an accident two days before when he was a passenger in a 1929-model car, driven by his son, Raymond Benedict.

The jury exhonerated James M. Maw, of Cunese St. Orillia, driver of the 1953 car, as well as Raymond Benedict.

Maw said the road was completely abscured by large trees and he didn't see the Benedict car until some 40 feet away. He remembered hitting the car.

MIND A BLANK

"My mind was blank for a time, he said. "I was knocked out with a blow on the head. The three of us were knocked out.

"I walked over to the other car and saw the young man lying in the back seat and the father out on the edge of the ditch. I walked to the first farm house and no one was home. I walked to the second one and there was no phone. At the third farm house I called the ambulance and doctors."

OPP Constable Mounsteven stated that Raymond Benedict was knocked into the back seat and crashed his head on the rear window. He was trapped. One door was welded closed and the other had to be crow-barred open.

Raymond Benedict stated that he always travelled on the Lorneville quarter line and as it was the most travelled he thought he had the right of way.

"I never saw the other car and never knew we were struck," he said. "I never knew of the accident until my wife told me about it two or three days later in the hospital."

Dr. Woodrow, of Woodville, and Dr. Gorman of Lindsay, said that death had been due to profound shock. Benedict Sr. sustained a double fracture of the pelvis, double fracture of the leg, a broken wrist, head and chest injuries and possible internal injuries.

The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, exhonerated both drivers and found that death was caused by profound shock. It recommended that the intersection, as well as other such roads, be properly cleared and marked with road signs.

An election night error in tabulation caused the major change in the official results of August 10 general election in Peterborough riding it was revealed today.

The error occurred in the report from polling subdivision No. 34, at 149 Rutherford St. In the rush to compile results the totals for Max Swanston and Maurice Ketcheson were somehow switched.

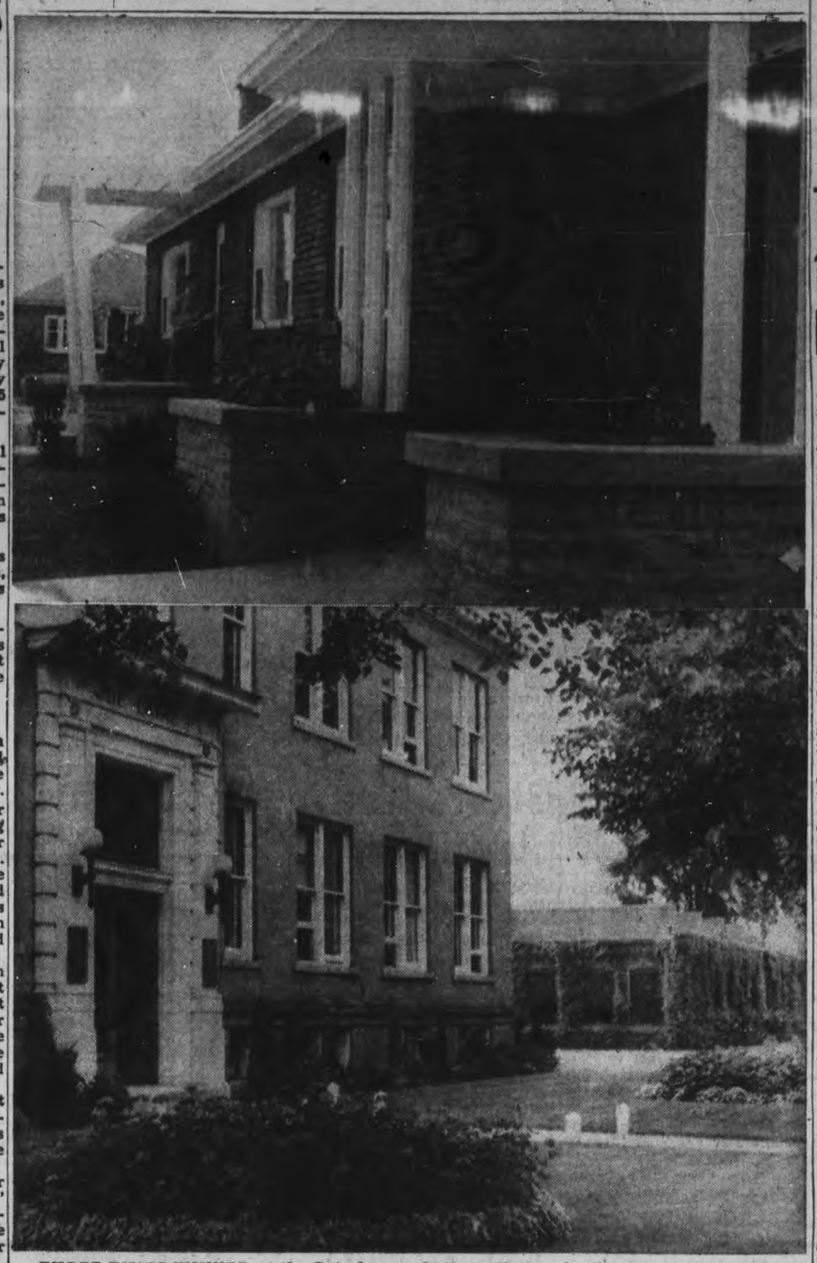
The official result for No. 34 is:

Fraser (PC) 99
Ketcheson (CCF) 26
Swanston (Lib) 70

Another switch occurred in polling subdivision No. 76 in Smith township where the A to L votes got shuffled with the M to Z. The election night result should have been reversed, although this made no difference to the final totals of the three candidates.

SECOND REVERSAL

One other reversal of figures occurred in polling subdivision No. 26 at 540 Bolivar St. where Mr. Ketcheson's votes should have read 21 instead of 12.



Mr. Fraser lost five votes at polling subdivision No. 35, where the official count showed him to have obtained 123 votes instead of the 128 reported election night.

Garden Contest Entries Best In Years Says Judge

Entries in the Peterborough Horticultural Society's lawn and garden contest this year surpassed those of the past several years it was stated by society officials who announced contest results today. Despite adverse weather conditions, entries were of an exceptionally high standard, it was said.

The judging was done on July 22 by A. E. Hick, of Lindsay, and was supervised by D. J. Emery and his committee.

Mr. Hick said judging had been a difficult task particularly in classes A for gardens and C for rock gardens. Judging of class C was conducted in the spring and the results were announced earlier.

FACTORY COMPETITION

Competition, as usual, was particularly keen in the contest among local factories, in which the class A prize went to the De Laval Co. Ltd. for the third time. The company also won the award in 1950 and 1952. It was won by CGE in 1948 and 1949, and the Western Clock Co. Ltd. in 1951.

The De Laval Co.'s lawn at Lansdowne and Park Sts. are are kept smooth as a billiard table by Vern Outwater under the supervision of Sidney Mason, who designed the layouts of the colorful flower beds, which right now are bright red with geraniums in bloom.

Mr. Hick was particularly enthusiastic about the landscaping of local industrial properties.

"In the course of my many travels throughout the province," he said, "I have seldom seen more attractive factories than those of Peterborough. They are kept in continual improvement, reflecting much credit upon the various managements and must prove a source of satisfaction to the employees.

"Visitors will remember the beautification of Peterborough's industries. They are creditable to both the city and management."

UNIQUE RECORD

A unique record was established by Mrs. Fred O'Grady, of 278 King George St., a new entry in the contest this year.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady farmed until recently and moved into their new house only in March of this year. Mr. O'Grady is now a building contractor in Peterborough.

Sodding of the property was undertaken just a couple of months ago and now the lawns are smooth as velvet and green as emerald, while the stone-walled flower beds are bright with color.

Mr. Hick termed this entry one "showing promise of future success."

Officials of the society said many favorable comments had been received in the past on the beauty of home surroundings in Peterborough. They congratulated all those whose efforts in maintaining their home surroundings had added to the beauty of the entire city.

New home owners were invited to prepare for next year's contest with a warning to plan carefully for permanent planting. Any doubts about problems of lawns and gardens should be referred to society officials, it was advised.

Results of this year's contest, with the judge's comments, are as follows:

Class A:

1st—Mr. L. Dunstan, 740 Hurley Street, "well cared for lawns, additional floral borders defined by attractive floral urns."

2nd—Miss C. Millard, 424 Stewart St., attractive borders. Tuberous rooted begonias adding to the beauty of approach."

3rd—Mrs. E. A. Kettle, 660 Gillespie Ave., "well-proportioned lawns and floral borders."

Class B:

1st—Mrs. F. O'Grady, 278 King George St., "A new entry showing promise of future successes."

2nd—Mrs. J. Meehan, 727 Lock St., "Flowers in profusion, well-balanced plan."

3rd—Mr. R. A. Feeley, 624 McKeller St., "Well-kept lawns, another entry being new, shows promise of future awards."

Class D (pools):

1st—Mrs. J. Meehan, "great improvement over previous years with a variety of aquatic plants."

2nd—Mrs. L. Titterington, 207 King George St., "attractive pool with neat surroundings."

3rd—Mr. George Benton, 782 Water St., "surrounded by natural setting, an area of quietness and interest."

Class E (vegetable garden):

1st—Mrs. W. Merritt, Canal Road, "good cultivation, neatness and vast variety of vegetables."

2nd—Mr. H. Gabbutt, 533 Chamberlain St., "cultivation good, neatly-balanced rows."

3rd—Mrs. J. Meehan, pronounced neatness and selected specimens."

Class F: (window boxes):

1st—Mr. H. Gabbutt, "profusion of begonia bloom in variety adds to general appearance of the neat lawn."

2nd—Mrs. H. Mahood, Shelbourne St., "another new entrant shows promise when established."

Factory areas:

1st—DeLaval Co., "Lawns well kept showing proper feeding and freedom from weeds. Background of foundation planting adds much to the general appearance of the whole."

2nd—Western Clock Co., "Magnificent floral display. Neat designs and most attractive lawns well kept."

Twelve drivers were reported speeding, 12 obstructing traffic, five, driving without proper lights, three, driving the wrong way on one-way streets; nine, failing to signal left turns; two having cars in improper condition; 11 driving carelessly, one disregarding pedestrians, five parking illegally and one passing on a bridge.

Blame Campers For Small Fires

A careless smoker discarding a cigarette butt from a car is thought to have started a four-acre fire in Dudley township, Haliburton County, over the past weekend; it was extinguished by alert firefighters of the Department of Lands and Forests.

Of more concern to them and to cottagers on Catchacoma Lake in Cavendish township was a small fire that covered one-third of an acre, on the east shore and was thought to have been caused by careless campers. This highly populated area is crowded with valuable lakeshore property and the fire could have been disastrous, officials say.

Though cottagers, for the most part, are very careful the small fire was a grim warning of what could happen at any time.

The law says that all fires, except for the purpose of cooking or obtaining warmth, must be covered by a burning permit.

Hot Plates Blamed In Arena Fire

Cobourg Committee Says Blaze Not Discovered Early

COBOURG (ENS) — Electric plates used for heating the hot-dog steamer were blamed for the fire which destroyed the $175,000 Cobourg Recreation Centre Monday morning.

The arena's board of directors issued a statement Tuesday night, based on the investigation of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office. They said that apparently the electric plates in the enclosed space of the canteen caused the wooden stands to char and smoulder. The odor was apparently unnoticed in the cigarette smoke in the auditorium.

Before the fire was noticed at 8 a.m. Monday, it had gained too much headway to be extinguished.

As soon as the insurance adjusters file their report on the claim, work on rebuilding will begin. In the meantime clean-up crews, composed mostly of volunteer workers, have started to clear out the debris.

Timber Structures Stays In City

TORONTO (CP)—Ward Mayer, president of Timber Structures of Canada, said today that Timber Structures of Canada Limited of Peterborough and Timber Structures Western Limited of New Westminster, B. C., will be merged into a new Canada-wide company.

Ralph H. Fulbright, general manager in Peterborough, said this reorganization would make no changes in staff or work done in Peterborough. He added that the company plans to always have a Timber Structures plant in Peterborough.

Mr. Mayer said the British Columbia company recently acquired additional property and is operating and developing a basic timber laminating and fabricating plant.

Present When Church Dedicated Attends 75th Anniversary

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—A capacity congregation was present on Sunday evening at Young's Point United Church when a special service was held on the occasion of its 75th anniversary.

The Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, minister of the church, expressed his pleasure in having, in the congregation, Mr. W. J. Dunford of Lakefield, who had attended the dedication of the church 75 years before.

Using as his text, "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life," the Rev. W. H. Tonge of London gave the anniversary address. Mr. Tonge stated that this verse from John 3:16 was the best known text in the Bible and had been translated into more languages and dial s than any other verse of Scripture.

"God's love is continually above us and around us," said the speaker, "and we would know more of it if we were only willing to accept it. It is something upon which we can lean and is for the worst sinner as well as for the purest saint."

Referring to the anniversary he said, "A 75th anniversary is a tremendous occasion in the life of any church. When we look back on the joys and sorrows and the chievements for God during these years, we realize that we owe so much to the wisdom and forethought of those who have gone before."

A duet by the Misses Anne and Ruth Wolfraim and a solo by Mrs. Raymond Jackman were greatly appreciated. John David Grylls was at the organ.

The Rev. B. Monks, rector of St. Aiden's Anglican Church, Young's Point, was present and brought greetings and good wishes for the future from his congregation before pronouncing the benediction.

Jenkins was released Aug. 9 by the Reds after almost two years in a prison camp in North Korea. He has been undergoing interrogation on details of his capture and British prisoners who were with him in prison camp No. 5 along the Yalu river.

A SHIFT IN THE WIND turned this raging fire back on itself and saved many communities on the north shore of the St. Lawrence near Forestville, Que., after it had been burning 10 days through second growth timber lands. Ordinarily it will carry 12 wheelchair patients to sports events, fairs and outings in the country. In an emergency it can carry 18 to 20 stretcher cases ad 10 walking patients.

Other convertible Callow coaches are planned and the two previously built will be made convertible for ambulance use.

In Ottawa the coach will be exhibited next week at the Central Ontario Exhibition. It will appear later in Toronto at the Canadian National Exhibition.

"I know exactly how old Tulle is," he said Tuesday. "She was born on the same day as my son Viggo. He is celebrating his 55th birthday tomorrow."

Soeren is 82. His wife, Ida, 80, confirmed his statement.

Tulle pulled Soeren's milk wagon faithfully for 32 years. In 1934, Soeren retired the horse.

Think New Nova Scotia Ferry Will Stimulate Maritime Trade

By JACK BEST

HALIFAX (CP)—Farmers, fishermen and small manufacturers in western Nova Scotia stand to reap handsome dividends from the Yarmouth-Bar Harbor, Me., ferry scheduled for delivery in the autumn of 1954.

Provincial government officials here predict that the $5,000,000 ferry, keel for which was laid at Lauzon, Que., July 30, will open up lucrative markets in the seaboard states as far south as New York.

It would also stimulate commerce with Quebec and Ontario.

The shortest highway distance from Yarmouth, at the western extremity of the province, to Montreal is 1,063 miles and to Quebec City 904 miles. With the ferry in operation, these distances will be reduced to 460 and 360 miles respectively.

TO AID TOURISTS

The ferry is also expected to boost the tourist industry. Last year Nova Scotia played host to 400,000 visitors who brought in $29,000,000. Officials hope that a 600-passenger boat making daily return voyages will increase this figure considerably.

The present ferry running between Yarmouth and Boston is considered inadequate. Operated by Eastern Steamships Ltd., it runs only three months of the year and bookings have to be made well in advance to insure passage. The company received a subsidy from the provincial government.

The new ferry will probably run the year round, depending on traffic volume. It will have an average speed of 18½ knots. The cost will be paid jointly by the federal and provincial governments. The boat will be operated by the Canadian National Railways.

It will be capable of carrying 150 automobiles. Large transport trucks are expected to constitute a large proportion of the traffic.

AID GROWERS

Agriculture officials say the more rapid transit should provide a stimulus for growing of fruits and vegetables in the Annapolis valley. They point out that the fertile valley could grow more of practically everything if markets were available.

Lobster fishermen are also expected to benefit. Last year a depot at Yarmouth shipped more than $30,000,000 worth of lobsters by small boats. They would have reached the market sooner by ferry.

Youthful Laborer Will Stand Trial

NEW CARLISLE, Que. (CP)—Tracy Boudreau, 17-year-old laborer, Tuesday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the bludgeon-slaying July 23 of Edgar Audet, 45.

Boudreau was remanded to jail pending the jury trial set for the autumn assizes of the Court of Queen's Bench in this Gaspe peninsula town.

At the preliminary hearing the victim's 11-year-old son, Francois, identified Boudreau as the man who entered a co-operative store, slugged his father and then forced him to hand over $30 from a cash box.

Wings Trample Buffalo In 12-5 Lashing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The hepped-up Rochester Red Wings are threatening to take over the International League leadership from Buffalo Bisons as the pennant race moves into the home stretch.

The soaring Wings handed the Herd a 12-5 shellacking Tuesday night at Rochester for their sixth straight victory. The contenders pasted four Bison hurlers for 15 hits for the second night in a row and vaulted to within 1½ games of the leaders.

While Rochester climbed, Montreal Royals skidded. The Royals, last year's pennant winners, suffered a double loss to Baltimore Orioles, 6-5 in 11 innings and 9-2. This left Montreal four games behind Buffalo and only two games in front of Baltimore.

FIVE STRAIGHT

Springfield Cubs increased their winning streak to five straight by downing Ottawa Athletics 6-3 and Toronto Maple Leafs swept a twin affair from Syracuse Chiefs, 4-0 and 11-4, led by steady pitching in one game and powerful hitting in the second.

Rookie outfielder Tom Burgess drove in four runs for Rochester on a pair of doubles. Buddy Hicks and Bill Tuttle homered for Buffalo.

Baltimore fans saw Ron Mrozinski limit the Royals to three hits in the nightcap. Jack Sanford and Ken Heintzelman gave up 11 Montreal safeties in the extra-inning first game, the latter gaining the victory.

TWO BIG INNINGS

The Cubs came through with two big scoring innings in their triumph over the A's. They smashed five hits for four runs in the second and added two more in the eighth. Gene Tarabilda who started for Springfield, drove in the first two Cub tallies, but Ottawa pecked away at him and he finally had to leave in the sixth with none out.

Righthander Don Johnson got the opening shutout win for the Leafs at Toronto—his 12th victory for this campaign. Lew Morton hit his 14th homer for the winners.

The nightcap saw Vic Lombardi collect his ninth victory, although relieved in the seventh. Ed Stevens sent home four runs for the Leafs with a double and a three-run homer—his 14th—and Mike Goliat belted a two-run round-tripper—his 13th.

DEAD-EYE DEARS — Iva Pembridge, left, of Phillipsburg, Kans., is a veritable Annie Oakley. Two years ago, at 17, Joan Pfleuger, centre, of North Miami Beach, Fla., beat the state titleholders, men and women, in the Champion of Champions. Atlanta's Mrs. Frances Kin was given a genuine chance to win the Grand American Handicap, now in progress.

Clair's Hopes High For Argos This Year

Editors: This is the first of a series on prospects of the teams in the Big Four football union. Tomorrow: Ottawa Rough Riders.

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Clair, on his record the most successful of the American coaches who have invaded Canadian football, leads his Toronto Argonauts into the 1953 Big Four season with his hopes high and his fingers crossed.

The studious, efficient former coach of the University of Buffalo is aiming at another Grey Cup title with the club that without argument has become the glamor team of football because of its outstanding success competitively and financially.

It already is assured of another highly successful season financially with a record pre-season ticket sale of around 15,000 for each of its seven home games in the 27,500-seat Varisty Stadium. Clair helped achieve that in his new and other role this season as the club's general manager but the toughest part of his job lies ahead.

It involves guiding the Scullers to their third Grey Cup since he became coach four years ago. He did it in the 1950-52 seasons and Clair—not one to make rash statements—summarizes his chances of doing it again as "pretty good" with one string attached.

OTHERS IMPROVED

"The other three clubs in the Big Four are all improved," he says. "But we are also and if we can get by with a minimum of injuries, our chances are pretty good."

The Argos, who won the Big Four title last season by defeating Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a three-game playoff and then whipped Edmonton Eskimos for the Grey Cup, have lost only one key player from last year's championship squad—defensive halfback Ed Soergel, now in the United States army.

However, Clair believes he has strengthened his defensive team considerably with the addition of two imports chosen on the all-American defensive team last year. They are halfback Bobby Moorhead from Georgia Tech and Don Moomaw, a towering, 220-pound, six-foot-four-inch linebacker from the University of California.

They will be two of the 11 imports Argos will carry until Oct. 1, with only eight playing each game. On that date the import limit must be cut to eight for the remainder of the season. Unless he changes his mind, Moomaw, who is studying for the ministry, plans to play only one month and then return to college.

LEFT TILL LAST

Clair's selection of his 11 imports probably won't be made until a few days before the club opens the season against Montreal Alouettes Aug. 26 in twi-light game here. On present indications, he'll probably go along with six of last year's imports for the full season in addition to Moorhead and Moomaw if the big linebacker should decide to stick around for the full schedule.

PASS-RECEIVER—Al Bruno, import and with with Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four football league, snares passes from almost any angle. The six-foot-one 190-pound Bruno was one of the top scorers with the Argos, national champions for the last two years. He now is in his second season, coming to the Argos from Philadelphia Eagles.

The six imports with the club last year and their last American teams are: Quarterback Nobby Wirkowski, Miami University (Oxford, Ohio); offensive halfback Ulysses Curtis, Florida A and M; offensive end Al Bruno, Philadelphia Eagles; offensive end Zeke O'Connor, New York Yankees; defensive tackle Jack Carpenter, Buffalo Bills; and defensive centre Red Ettinger, New York Giants.

The other imports Clair can choose from are quarterback Don Panciera, Chicago Cardinals, offensive end Al Pfeifer, Fordham University; offensive guard Joe Soboleski, Dallas Texans; defensive centre or guard Jim Slowey, Georgetown University; offensive full backs Clarence Johnson, Northwestern University, and Tom Mc. Keever, University of Cincinnati and Johnny Pont, a fast, tricky running halfback who starred with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union last season.

ALSO HAS BASS

Besides all these Americans there is veteran defensive half Billy Bass, now classified as a non-import.

The Argos are again well-stocked with Canadians. Among them are halfbacks Rod Smylie, Royal Copeland, Ted Toogood, Don Smylie, Steve Karrys, Johnny Fedosoff, Jack Grey; tackles Pete Bennett, Lorne Parkin, George Arnett; guards Marshall Hames, Don (Shanty) McKenzie, Les Ascott; Bob Marshall, Jack Roberts; centre John Shore; ends Art Scullion, Bud Fowler; and second-string quarterback Joe Krol, who again will be club's first-string kicker.

The most promising rookies are guard Merve Collins and end Ron Whatton, both up from Argos' Balmy Beach farm club.

Four Entries Named In Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Half of the eight entries in the 1953 Little League baseball World Series—including one from Vancouver—were named today as pairings were made for the four-day championships next week.

A new champion of the 8- to 12-year-old baseball class will be decided Aug. 28 in the finals to be televised across the country (CBS) for the first time.

North Newton, Mass., victor in region 2, is one of the four regional winners already named. Last year the title was taken by Norwalk, Conn., the region 2 representative.

Other entries decided to date are region 3—Camp Hill, Pa., region 4—Front Royal, Va.; and region 8—Vancouver.

Carl Stotz, Little League commissioner and founder, today announced these pairings:

Tuesday—Region 1 vs Region 2, Region 3 vs region 7; Wednesday—Region 4 vs region 8; region 5 vs region 6; Thursday—Semi-finals (winners of Tuesday and Wednesday against each other); Friday—final.

Golf Course Scheduled For Beating In Montreal

By JACK SULLIVAN

MONTREAL (CP)—This 6,515-yard par-70 course is due for a terrific clobbering.

That was the consensus of experts around this northwest Montreal layout today as the vanguard of the 142 shotsmiths from Canada and the United States went out for final practice rounds before the $25,000 72-hole four-day tournament starts Thursday. The flat course appears made to measure for the guys who make a living from golf.

An indication of things to come was shown Tuesday when the pros and amateurs made their initial appearance for the tournament. Sight unseen, they kicked around par figures as if they were lifelong members of the club.

ULRICH FIRST

First to report a sub-par round was Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., a late arrival who casually toured the layout in 66. Included in his round were a flock of "gimmes"—four- and five-inch putts that he didn't even bother to shoot for.

In chips-down competition it might be a different story, but for anybody who smacks a ball down the middle—and who can't do that amongst the pros who make this game their bread and butter?—the course record of 66 conceivably could be broken.

The guess around the clubhouse is that anybody who can turn in a 268—12 strokes under par—could pick up the $5,000 first prize. Comparisons are no yardsticks, but in 1935 Gene Kunes made it in even-par 280 when he won the Canadian Open here 18 years ago.

Along with Ulrich, some of the travelling pros made a monkey out of par figures for the course. Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., 1952 United States Open titleholder, and Fred Wampler of Indianapolis each scored a 68. Tommy (Thunder) Bolt of Maplewood, N.J., was four under par 32 on the front nine.

England Gets Ashes Back

LONDON (CP)—England won the final cricket test match and the "Ashes" series against Australia by eight wickets, scoring 132 for two wickets in their second innings.

England thus takes possession of the Ashes—mythical symbol of cricket supremacy as between England and the Aussies. Australia has held them for 20 years.

Australia had a first inning total of 275 to which England replied with 306. The Aussies were dismissed in their second innings for a total of 162.

All four previous matches this year were drawn.

At the lunch interval in the fourth day of play in the fifth and deciding match, England had scored 101 runs for two second inning wickets and with eight wickets standing needed but 31 runs for a victory.

The Ashes date from the "funeral" of English cricket in 1882, when Australia defeated England at Test cricket for the first time. An obituary notice appeared in a famous English newspaper marking the "cremation" of English cricket. The two countries have been fighting for the Ashes ever since.

CRICKET FEVER

Cricket fever swept the country Tuesday as England took its first inning total to 306, a lead of 31 runs over the Australians.

The English spin bowlers Jim Laker and Tony Lock rapidly brought about the collapse of Australia's second innings for 162 runs.

By close-of-play Tuesday night, England stood at 38 runs for the loss of captain Len Hutton and looked certain of hitting 94 runs needed to clinch the game.

World Trade Held Shaky; Blocs, Tariffs Said Factors

By MAURICE FELDMANN

According to official statistics published by the United Nations and other organizations, the actual physical volume of world trade has increased since 1948 and has surpassed that of 1929. A critical analysis of these figures, however, shows that world trade is in a more precarious situation today than ever before.

During the years from 1914 to 1932—with the exception of World War I — international trade amounted to one-third of the world's total production; between July, 1951, and July, 1953, this proportion has decreased by 10 per cent. But international trade in finished goods amounts to only 16 per cent of the world's total production.

ADVERSE FACTORS

There is no doubt that the international exchange of goods and raw materials has been hampered since the end of World War II by two major factors:

(1) the division of the world into two political camps and the destruction of private commerce and industry in China, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, and all other Communist countries.

Yugoslavia, which left the Communist block, still follows Communist principles similar to those of the satellites. In spite of official pronouncements of the Tito government, no free trade is possible for Yugoslavia. All import and export organizations are state-controlled and state-owned and are, of course, headed by government employees. There is no incentive for anyone to take the initiative in order to increase Yugoslavia's foreign trade.

(2) High tariffs and the unhealthy drive of many agricultural countries to become industrialized have likewise contributed to the downfall of world trade.

In addition, the fact that confidence in money has been shaken and that most European countries still cling to severe foreign-exchange restrictions makes the free flow of goods from one country to another nearly impossible.

INCENTIVE LACKING

In a number of countries where free trade and commerce are still prevailing and dominant factors, there is a noticeable lack of incentive and spirit of adventure. Industrialists and exporters in such countries as France, Austria, Argentine, and South Africa hesitate to risk their capital to promote their own exports in the United States, Canada, and other countries of the dollar area.

International trade would be in a terrible dilemma and would experience its greatest crisis today were it not for the assistance that the United States has given to the economy of all free countries (and Yugoslavia) since 1945. During the last seven years, United States aid totaled $35,000,000,000. This amount constitutes 10 per cent of the world's trade.

It is significant that the countries of the so-called dollar and sterling area have doubled their participation in international trade since 1938. The increase in the exports of the dollar area, especially of the United States, has resulted in a huge deficit balance fo rmost West European and Asiatic countries. The sterling area, especially Great Britain, was able to decrease its trade deficit but is at present encountering great difficulty because of the rising competition from West Germany and Japan.

WEST GERMANY BUSY

West Germany has solidly entrenched herself in all Latin-American countries and in the Near and Middle East. An example is the attitude of West Germany's industry towards reparations to be paid to Israel. The West German industrialists hope that through these reparations Israeli industry will become familiar with German machinery to such an extent that even after the reparation period has ceased Israel will become one of Germany's best customers.

"Hey! You see what I see?"

When a lion appeared on a street in Memphis people fled for the doorways, and from behind windows they asked each other "How come?"

Even though they could watch the lion with their own eyes, they still didn't know the story.

It was from their newspapers that they first discovered that Goldie the lioness had slipped away from a downtown circus. She was so bewildered by the fuss she caused, she turned around and went back.

It's exciting to be an eye-witness to any unusual event. But being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it, or hearing a brief announcement.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

You need the newspaper for that.

• That goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality.

Add to this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

No wonder advertisers—both retail and national—invest more money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Boston Baked Beans Offered On Special-Purpose Menu

Boston Baked Beans and Bacon
Maine Coleslaw
Peach Upsidedown Cake
Pouring Cream Coffee

This is a simple, economical and filling supper and was inspired by a letter from Mrs. John H. (see below).

There is an art to baking beans. They must be parboiled until they are split and tender before they are mixed with the ingredients that give this dish its character. They are then baked a long time so that beans can absorb the sweetness of the molasses and the fat of the pork, so that none of the fat is in evidence. Dried peas and beans are ideal for they are of such consistency the fat of pork that is cooked with them in thick pea soup or baked beans is completely absorbed. Don't hurry your baked beans. Follow the recipe.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS WITH BACON

Two cups dried white beans, ¼ cup cubed salt pork (use ½ cup if bacon is not used (on top), ¼ cup light molasses, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon butter (omit butter when bacon is used), 4 or 8 slices rind-on side bacon. Rinse beans in a colander with cold water. Cover with cold water and soak 12 hours. Drain. Cover with salted boiling water and simmer slowly for 1½ hours? Drain. Put in greased bean pot or baking dish with the salt pork scattered through. (If desired a small peeled onion may be buried in the bottom.) Mix molasses, mustard, pepper, and 2 cups hot water. Pour this over the beans. Dot with butter. (Lay strips of bacon on top wh .. used.) Cover and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 3 hours or until beans are soft and have absorbed most of the liquid. Uncover during last 30 minutes to dry off and brown the top.

To Coleslaw, very finely shredded, add 1 teaspoon celery seed and 1 tablespoon finely chopped chives or peppercress. Use Boiled Dressing.

PEACH UPSIDEDOWN CAKE

In a baking dish or cake pan melt 3 tablespoons butter and add ¾ cup brown sugar and place in warm oven until suger melts and mixture spreads over bottom. Arrange a thick layer of sliced peaches in this. To make it attractive when turned out you may add some halved maraschino cherries. Pour over peaches this Cottage Pudding Batter: Cream ¼ cup butter and gradually beat in two-thirds cup sugar and 1 egg. Sift together 1¾ cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Stir this into the creamed mixture alternately with ½ cup milk, until batter is smooth. Pour over fruit in pan and baked at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes. Invert for serving. Garnish with whipped cream.

QUESTION: I am one of two conveners for a Home Cooked Bean Feed . . . we had a successful one years ago, but no standard recipe and some were overcooked and mushy . . . they were tasty but not perfect . . . would you please send recipe and amounts needed for 200 . . . Mrs. John H.

BAKED BEANS (for 70)

ANSWER: Make up this recipe 3 times to serve 200.

Four quarts navy beans, 6 tablespoons salt, ¼ cup soda, 1 cup light molasses, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons paprika, 1 lb. chopped salt pork. Soak beans in cold water to cover 10 or 12 hours. Drain. Cover with water. Add the salt and simmer until almost tender. Drain. Add other ingredients and 2½ quarts hot water. Divide into shallow, greased pans and bake at 350 deg. Fahr, about 1½ hours or until tender and most of liquid is absorbed. This type is usually served with best quality tomato catsup. As I said above in small recipe onion may be added if desired, or tomato, but that is not the genuine recipe.

Make-Up Rules For Morning, Noon And Night

There is morning, noon and night for makeup, and the wise woman will make up or down accordingly.

For morning light, keep natural but help nature. The morning has no pity, and there is nothing worse than a heavily made up face in the a.m. Brush your hair and your eyebrows to a fine shine. Begin with a clean face, and then dust on powder. If you use rouge, do it ever so delicately. As for lipstick, keep it a light pink or pale red. You can't go wrong with this morning idea.

For afternoon ,there is a change of face, but first get a fresh start. In fact, never put new makeup on top of old. Your face powder can be darker now, and your lipstick a little more intense. A light touch of mascara, if it is muted, is acceptable. Brush your eyebrows, and even a slight bit of crayon with an eyebrow pencil is satisfactory. A little perfume will make you feel fresher.

For twilight through night time, start with a bath, and pamper yourself with all the luxuries—bath oil, eye pads and a good face cleansing. Try a powder base to compete with the artificial lighting. Apply rouge artfully but still subtly. Use a bright red lipstick, and if you are feeling adventurous, try a delicate dab of eye shadow. Outline the tops of your eyes with a dark pencil to make them look deeper. Spray on your favorite perfume, and don't forget to brush, brush, brush your hair.

CLEANING HINTS

Rubber flooring is an ideal choice for the children's playroom. A damp mop whisks away ordinary soil. For extra stubborn stains such as paint, nail polish or iodine, rub lightly with fine steel wool and the spots will disappear. A light rewaxing with a water emulsion floor wax will bring out the original gloss and the rubber flooring will look as good as new.

KEEP OUT OF REACH

Never leave matches where your youngsters can find them. For safety's sake, put the matches in a metal container on a high shelf.

New Features Offered In YW Program

The Peterborough YWCA is now going through the annual cleaning up and readying for fall activities which are to commence early in September.

New features on the forthcoming program are a gym class for mothers and young daughters; a gym class especially for little boys; special dancing classes for all ages; and a new swim idea in the six-lesson "learn to swim" ticket for seniors.

All classes may be discussed with the swimming instructor, Miss Roselyn Stone and the gymnasium director Miss Bea Pelsis when they return from their month's holiday on Monday, August 24th.

New club ideas and special interest groups may be arranged by contracting Miss Orra Henan when she takes charge as program director on September 1st.

Informed Living Sets Trend In Chinaware

The much-discussed "change to informal living" again is the principal factor influencing the style changes in new tableware collections. Modern appears to have passed through the awkward age into a more graceful period, particularly in domestic patterns. European designers are still experimenting with a free hand to hit American tastes, and the results often resemble those typical of our own early modern period.

Platinum has hit its stride in the field of china decoration. All of the major manufacturers have something trimmed with this precious metal.

Texture is the talisman in the earthenware field. Patterns that are proving most popular simulate texture in the form of flecked glazes, hand-painted underglaze decorations and decals.

The trends in patterns are many and diversified, but can be summed up by the phrase "tending toward simplicity." Informal subjects reign in both china and earthenware. These include woodsy motifs (twigs, pine cones, wild flowers), plains, plumes, large line-drawn flowers—all executed in crisp, controlled ways. Sparse formalized decoration appears on new china shapes, a single, stylized spray, or an outright abstract pattern. Detergent-resistant decorations are growing in popularity, anticipating an even brighter future.

Celadon is the rising shade in the color spectrum. Following greens come greys and pinks, then a wide range of browns from cafe au lait to bitter chocolate. Blue emerges as a promising starlet. In glassware, where color is becoming ever more important, greens and browns loosened purse strings with the latter showing greatest increases. Shades of red trail only a little behind.

How To Choose Perfume For 'You'

How to find which perfume you like? There's only one way to select your own fragrance and that is by trying it on your own skin . . . just as you try on several hats to find the most becoming one for a given mood and occasion.

The chemistry of each person's skin changes slightly the bouquet of the perfume applied, thus making the perfume you wear very personally yours. What smells wonderfully on your bridge club friend may not be for you at all, and vice versa. So do take time to find the perfume which you enjoy.

How will you recognize this? When a perfume brings a smile to your lips, a sparkle to your eyes, a lift to your spirits, then that perfume makes you happy, and is yours. And when other people notice something a bit unusual about you, then you'll know that the perfume which makes you happy, brings added pleasure to others, too.

Exhibit your own young-in-spirit attitudes by finding the perfumes which give you a refreshed zest for the day at hand. Perhaps you'd like to recall the beauty of something past by wearing an old favorite. (Did you know that fragrance has a memory value stronger than almost anything else about you?) Or you may want to achieve the mood of adventure. That is the time to wear a perfume completely different from your usual one . . . it might be vivacious, or sophisticatedly sultry or gay, light and feminine. Each can be a contrast to "what is expected of you".

Being a surprise to yourself and to others adds a sparkle to everyday living. That's part of the fun of being a mature woman . . . you are not compelled to conform to the opinions of others. So experiment with the myriad scents on the market today.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE

Before you go out on a picnic, learn to recognize poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac. The leaves are oval-shaped and grow in groups of three. Mature plants have white, waxy berries.

Welsh Girl, 19, Says Her Country Miniature Of This

TORONTO (CP)—Attractive 19-year-old Gwyneth Williams from Penmaenmawr, Wales, is the youngest member of the Associated Country Women of the World attending the group's seventh triennial conference here.

She is not here as a delegate but as a visitor to Canada. Her father operates a retail dairy and collects milk from surrounding farms for pasteurization.

"We average about 1,000 gallons daily," she said, "but when my father took over from his father, the average was just about 30 gallons a week."

Miss Williams said pasteurization is not yet required by law, but is general throughout Wales. There are large dairies in every county. Sheep farming is important in Wales, she said.

"But everything in our little country is in miniature compared with yours," she added.

She does not plan to remain on the farm, but to train for catering, a branch of home economics. She studies at the University of Manchester and when she completes her course in another year hopes to be located in a hospital in Wales.

EASY TO REMOVE

Fingerprints, grease and dirt can be removed from phonograph records by moistening a piece of absorbent cotton in a weak solution of soap and water, and gently wiping the surface. Repeat, using plain water.

Small And Head-Hugging Is New Helicopter Hat

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—The atom-age helicopter and that historical beauty of ancient times, Cleopatra, have inspired hats which British women will be wearing this fall.

The helicopter designed by Aage Thaarup, who has made hats for the Queen and other members of the Royal Family for years, is a small head-hugging model, like almost all the hats for the coming season.

A tiny, shaped pill-box, in chestnut and black velvet, it has a stiff bow in front shaped like an airplane propellor.

The ancient note is struck by a deeper pill-box in grey and black velvet outlined with orange. On the front of its flat "brim," a snake's tongue, is poised over a round black ornament, as if ready to strike. In mosaics and elsewhere, Cleopatra is portrayed with a band round her head and the snake poised to strike its victim.

Other clearly definable influences seen in this season's hats come from the costume of the time of Mary Stuart of Scotland, from the tricorne of Napoleonic times and the coaching days of Queen Victoria and from the headgear of the fisherboy and the ironmonger.

Keynote of many shapes is the "crescent line," inspired from the time of Mary Stuart and often emphasized by drawing upon the famous tricorne of Napoleon. On one smart black model the crescent line was stressed by iridescent plumage.

The one thing apparently essential to all hats this autumn is a feather. It may be stiff or curled, it may be long and straight like a quill, it may hug the cheeks in a graceful curve, or it may be a pom-pom.

There are pheasant feathers which add a foot or more to the height—or width—of the wearer, osprey, brilliantly-colored feathers which appear to come from mythical birds, and paradise plumes.

The hat itself is almost always small, head-hugging and favoring a sculptured shape.

in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

How Lydia Pinkham's works

It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus . . . quieting the contractions(see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

• Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine well-known for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action!

Thousands benefited!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who know the relief Lydia Pinkham's can bring.

And it should encourage you to see if your experience doesn't match theirs . . . to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness, tension, weakness, irritability—and pain—so often associated with "those days"!

Try Lydia Pinkham's Compound . . . or new, improved Tablets (with added iron).

Both are grand, too—for those "hot flashes" and other distresses common to "change of life"!

It's all pure, extra soapy!

DOROTHY DIX:

Love For Drinking Youth Causes Many Heartaches

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently I broke up with Alec after going with him for two years. I'm 18, and so is he. We had known each other only a few months when we realized we were in love, and made plans for marriage. A year ago, however, he began to go around with a group of boys who spent most of their time drinking. Of course this led to arguments between us and we broke up twice, but went back together. Lately, he has been dating other girls, which led to our last break-up. My family and friends say I shouldn't go back to him, if he wants me, but I still love him, and it would be awfully hard for me to say "No". His mother, who is a wonderful person, says he always has been headstrong, but she feels I should give him time too grow up. I am so terribly lonely without him, and want to rush to him when I see him.

MARCELLA M.

✧ ✧ ✧

VARY SOCIAL LIFE

ANSWER: The heartache and loneliness you feel now, Marcella, are nothing compared with what marriage with the wrong person can bring you. Alec is very young, it's true, but the fundamental principles of consideration and loyalty should be established in the young; they don't come automatically with growing up.

However, although Alec's failings may be due to weak character, I am more inclined to place the trouble on the fact that he began going steady at 16, which is too young an age for a boy to concentrate on one girl. Perhaps you made it too obvious that you considered him your property and he felt impelled to prove that he is still a free agent. Focussing all your attention on one boy hasn't been too good for you, either, and whether you feel Alec will come back or not, you should really set about establishing a more varied social life for yourself.

At present, to you, the future looks bleak without Alec, and you are discounting the thought that he may not be the right one for you. His general instability, stubborness, fickleness and concern for his own pleasure do not add up to satisfactory adulthood. Only you can decide whether his failings can be attributed to youth, or, more important, if they are likely to persist into later years. Widen your own social circles, then see if you don't regard the boy in a different perspective.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Several years ago my husband and I adopted a child whom we raised with love as our own. When she was about nine she began taking money from my son's walet, my pocketbook, or those of guests, and, in spite of everything we could do, has persistetd in the habit until now, when she's 16. Is there anything we can do to stop this?

MRS. M. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I notice your letter is written on hospital stationery, and I assume that's where you are employed. Surely you know that this particular hospital has a wonderful child-guidance clinic, and I urge you take the girl there for counseling and treatment. The underlying cause for her actions must be determined before an effective cure can be made. A personal interview with a child psychologist is the best course to take.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 16 and have been dating Buddy for three months. I don't care especially for him, but he's lots of fun and I like him as a friend. There is, however, another boy whom I like a lot better, though I have never gone out with him. Do you think he may assume that I go steady with Buddy, and so won't ask me out?

ANN R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm afraid you are romanticaly assuming too much. If the second boy's interest is at all aroused by you, he'll show it, whether he thinks you're going steady or not. Don't underestimate the value of a boy who is fun and good company, either. Good companionship, at your age, should be the dominant note in girl-boy relations.

Going Too Fast Says Magistrate Youth Fined $25

A $25 fine and $17.85 in costs were levied today on a Norwood youth when he was found guilty of careless driving.

Nineteen-year-old Carl W. Davis of Norwood was charged with careless driving after an accident July 11 on Highway 45 a short distance south of the village. Slight damage was done to the Davis car and to the truck it hit owned by Melville Hamblin, Dummer township.

Davis had been driving north and told the court he swerved to the left when he saw a car parked on the road about 100 feet ahead. He had just swung wide of this car, he said, when he saw Hamblin's truck, partly on the highway. He braked, but the car swung broadside and his the truck.

175-FOOT SKID

Provincial Constable Archie Eadie testified that a single skidmark of a wheel going sideways led from the Davis car to a point 175 feet south. He doubted the mark could have been made by a vehicle other than the Davis car.

Davis said he did not believe that it could have been his skidmark.

Hamblin's son-in-law, Douglas Rowe, testified that the truck lights were on at the time of the accident. Davis had said they were not lit. Rowe's evidence was supported by that of Norwood's chief constable H. E. Bradley, who said he noticed the headlights on 10 minutes after the collision.

Hamblin said he thought Davis was driving at a "terrific speed". Davis testified his speed was 45 to 50 miles an hour. This was supported by evidence from his passenger, Gordon Scriver.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope found Davis guilty, and said that the skidmarks wre undoubtedly his, caused by excessive speed.

Figure Switch

Only two other minor changes were revealed. Mr. Ketcheson picked up one vote at No. 59A, at 303 Mark St., to make his total there 14 instead of 13. Mr. Swanston picked up a vote at No. 62C, at Grove School, to make his total here 84 instead of 83.

The official totals for the three candidates, as reported in Tuesday's Examiner, are:

Fraser	13,206
Ketcheson	1,747
Swanston	10,218

The number of people who voted was shown by the official count to be 25,358, which is 473 more than the number reported election night. Some of these were servicemen's votes. There were 187 ballots rejected as improperly marked.

The addition of 228 names to the enumerator's total, was also revealed today. The additions were made at the court of revision after the enumeration.

The total number eligible to vote in Peterborough riding on August 10 was thus 33,447. About 75 per cent of these cast ballots.

Shore To Train In Stamford Lindsay Hockey Fans Irate

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay's Recreation Committee has stirred up a controversy that has every hockey fan in the town talking. Eddie Shore and his two professional hockey teams, have decided to go to Stamford Arean, near Niagara Falls for their pre-season training. They have trained here for the last two years.

The committee, at a meeting a month ago found that it could not provide an icemaker for the arena until the end of October. Shore had planned to be here in mid-September. The committee also felt it could not afford to lose money on the arena during Shore's stay, and would have to increase the rates. One member said "double" them—this year. Last year Shore paid $45 per day arena rental for a month.

The committee also told Shore it could not be sure repairs on the arena would be completed by the time he would arrive. Two weeks ago he was prepared to return to the town, and had approved price quotations from a local hotel and restaurant. Many fans have expressed the opinion that it is not worth it to loose the thousands of dollars in business Shore has meant to the town, merely to save a few hundred at the arena. But one member of the committee, commenting on the higher rental this year said "We weren't willing to penalize the taxpayers for his training. We don't want them to have to underwrite his expenses".

The members of the committee admitted they had not considered the hockey schools held here for minor players by Shore or the ... he donated to the Muskies and Juniors.

The Muskies, last year's intermediate semi-finalists, attributed their success to the early start they had in training with Shore's teams.

The town's junior hockey team also started practices early with Shore opening the arena. In addition, Shore sponsored the club, donated uniforms and equipment, cash and a guarantee for any losses the club would incur. Some hockey men in town are pondering the possibility that Shore might, with the local players on his list, have them move to Stamford with him.

This year the committee has announced it proposed to keep the arena shut until Nov. 1. The officials of the minor hockey league, with 400 players to accommodate are ready to try and effect a change in this policy rather than try to operate the league for a shorter season or cut down the number of players who will be able to participate.

Whatever the committee's decision concerning the use of the arena, with Shore out of it, Lindsay will miss him even though their tax bills may be slightly lower.

Soviet Propaganda In Israel Expected To Become More Active

By FRANCIS OFNER

TEL AVIV (OFNS).—When the Soviet Legation reopens in Israel following the recent resumption of diplomatic relations, it will find more opportunity for its propaganda in this country than it did before relations were broken off in February.

This is the prevailing opinion among Israelis and foreign observers who see three possible lines of Russian action. In the war of ideas, the Israel market may again become receptive to Russian publications; in the world of ecclesiastic organization, the return of the Soviet diplomatic mission may facilitate gains in wealth and standing for the Moscow-dominated Russian Orthodox Church here; and in the field of diplomacy, should the Russians become the first great Power to open a legation in the Israeli part of Jerusalem, Soviet prestige in Israel would be greatly enhanced, at a time when Israel's relations with the American administration have cooled slightly.

Israel's Foreign Ministry stresses, however, that the resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia "does not mean a change of policy but a reversion to the previous postion."

BOOKS FROM AMERICA

Two million dollars' worth of books, magazines and newspapers have come here from America since June last year, when an American-Israel agreement was signed. Under this agreement America began exporting publications to Israel, accepting payment in local currency. The exporters were paid the dollar counter-value of their exports by the American government.

This agreement has turned the tide in the war of information. For three years before the agreement, the Russians, selling at prices far below the Moscow value, and requiring no hard currency payment, flooded the Jewish state with their publications in a number of languages—though strangely enough, none in Hebrew.

In 1951, the last complete year of big Russian book sales in Israel, the Soviet State-owned book exporting agency "Mezhdunarodnaya Kniga" sold 50,000 Israel pounds-worth of books, worth at that time 150,000 American dollars. This was about one-sixth more than America's export of books and journals to Israel during the same period.

American book sales, at first a great success, now face three dangers; the Israel market has become saturated in certain types of publications; a 35 per cent increase in the price of American books has been announced by the Israel government for the autumn; and the Israel public's boycott of Russian books, following the anti-semitic Prague trial, and the Moscow arrest of Jewish physicians last winter, has begun to ease since the Kremlin's apparent discontinuation of an anti-Jewish policy.

In anticipation of a renewed book export drive, the three main importers of Soviet publications—two in Tel-Aviv and one in Haifa—have already announced that they will soon have new stocks, and big Jerusalem bookshops are already putting out Russian publications.

The Communist - dominated Russian Orthodox Church, poor and uninfluential when compared to Roman Catholic institutions, may also improve its position in Israel after the re-establishment of a Soviet legation. Reports from the Church's mission indicate an intention to build an important spiritual centre in the Israeli part of Jerusalem.

The Russian Orthodox Church Mission in the city favors establishing the Soviet legation in Jerusalem and not in Tel-Aviv, where the rest of the great Powers have their diplomatic representations. The virtual boycott imposed by the American Embassy and some other Western diplomatic missions on the new Jerusalem seat of Israel's Foreign Ministry, makes Russian clergymen here believe that now is the moment to make some friendly gesture towards Israel by becoming the first major Power with a legation in Jerusalem.

McCarthy Hot On Trail Of Bookbinder

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) called on an official of the U. S. government printing office today to explain why the agency kept on its payroll for years a bookbinder who won't say whether he has been a Communist spy.

McCarthy, chairman of the state's investigations sub-committee, summoned the office's personnel director S. Preston Hipsley, to a public hearing in the case of bookbinder Edward Rothschild.

The printing office suspended Rothschild without pay Tuesday minutes after he refused to tell McCarthy, sitting as a one-man sub-committee, whether he is a Communist party member or whether he engaged in espionage as recently as 10 days ago.

Rothschild's wife, Esther, also was scheduled to testify today. So was E. C. Mellor, secretary of a loyalty board which, McCarthy said, recommended only last month against further dismissal proceedings against Rothschild.

CALL IN PROOFREADER

The Wisconsin lawmaker told reporters the sub-committee will call later at least one printing office proofreader "who is accused of being a Communist," together with the witnesses against him. He did not name the man.

"It is rather difficult at this time to say how many other GPO employees may be called," McCarthy said, "We are checking at least half a dozen more to see if the facts justify calling them."

McCarthy said previous testimony demonstrates a Communist cell was formed in the huge government printing plant as earlyas 1938. There also is evidence, he said, that secret documents have been stolen from the plant.

Rothschild, told by McCarthy Tuesday there is testimony he stole a code book and other secret data, refused to admit or deny it on the grounds of possible self-incrimination.

HIGH LIFTER: This new 150-ton derrick, largest of its kind in Canada, towers 200 feet from ground to mast-top, which means it can do a lifting job to a height much higher than Niagara Falls, anywhere in the country. Here it was used to erect hugh oil cracking towers in building a new refinery.

Burnt-Over Quebec Forest Grim, Depressing Sight

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP) — A burnt-over forest, still showing signs of smouldering, is a grim sight. Depressing, too. I saw only about three miles of the devastation caused by a forest fire which has engulfed 165 square miles of timberland north of here. The section was the northeastern point of the blaze, six miles from Forestville. A crew of 100 men was trying to build a firebreak around the wedge.

The thick smoke overhead Tuesday night had an eerie, grayish-pink color in the setting sun—almost obscured.

There were no flames to be seen, but at a dozen odd places on the looming mountainsides, white smoke rose slowly. Wherever smoke was thick, men poured water, pumped from nearby Lac Fournier and small streams in the area.

NAKED TREE TRUNKS

Naked and dark tree trunks were everywhere. Some trees still bore the three or four green branches which somehow escaped destruction by the fire, now in its fifth day.

Everywhere, too, were fallen, petrified tree trunks. Trees had fallen across the road, but offered no resistance to the wheels of our half-ton truck.

Along the road and creeks, small bushes, untouched by the blaze, stood as if in promise that some day trees will grow again in the area.

But that will be many years from now. The top-soil has been destroyed and is almost lifeless. Huge rocks show dreary, gray and black surfaces.

My companion, Maurice Vezina, assistant-manager of the Laurentian Protective Association, said:

"It will take perhaps 50 to 60 years before trees can grow here again."

HARDEST JOB TO COME

Vezina said the firefighter's hardest job has not yet started despite 11 days of determined efforts to bring the fire under control.

"Once it is stopped, it will be our job to have a constant surveillance over the area to watch for and extinguish any sign of fire that might start anew in the burnt-over fimberland.

"Crews equipped with radio sets will be stationed around the circumference of the burnt area, watching for signs of new smoke reported to them by daily aerial inspections.

"That will be our job until the snow comes."

All along the road cutting through the timberland were dozens of signs warning against carelessness on the part of forest travellers and workers who smoke—the cause of most forest fires.

To Halt Migration

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government ordered troops and immigration agents to the U. S. frontier today to halt a suddenly increased flow of illegal migrants. The interior ministry said the movement of the harvest hands had increased sharply in the last 72 hours. There have been rumors here that the United States would need 300,000 Mexican workers this year, apparently starting the mass migration of jobless farm hands.

Armadilloes Show Way To Tank Designers

WASHINGTON —Right up to World War II, armadilloes were still showing military designers how to build tanks.

For a time in North Africa, Germany mystified the Allies with heavy tanks that crossed wide, deep streams despite a lack of bridges or barges. Later it was learned that Mark IV's and early Tigers, equipped with "snorkel" breathing tubes for their engines, simply crawled across the bottom under water.

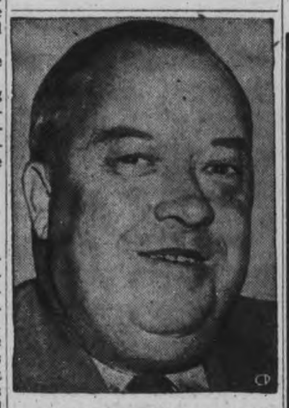
The armadillo, a 10- to 17-pound member of the sloth and anteater family, has been doing this trick for centuries. Moreover, it can go the tan kone better. If an armadillo runs out of breath, it can surface, inflate its stomach with air and swim with head out of water for fair distances.

PROTECTION FROM THORNS

Armadillo armor, however, has the tank one better. If an armadillplate design. It is little more than modified skin, like human fingernails, and not as tough as it looks. Its principal advantage seems to be that it protects its owner against the thorns of cactus and underbrush into which the animal dashes to escape its enemies.

Called Dasypus novemcinctus by scientists, the armadillo infiltrated Florida about 30 years ago, to the dismay of farmers. While it lives on a diet consisting four-fifths of harmful insects, it frequently damages plant roots while grubbing for bugs, and occasionally tops off an insect meal with tomato or melon dessert.

Members of a primtive family called Edentates, meaning toothless—not quite true in this case, since armadilloes have a few back molars—Dasypus is native to Latin American countries, but moved many years ago first into Texas, then to Louisiana and Mississippi. It showed up quite suddenly in Florida, probably as a tourist's pet, and now dwells in all of the State except the swampy southwest.



JUMPS LIKE A CAT

Slow and clumsy in appearance, armradilloes run with surprising speed when frightened. A startled individual will jump straight into the air like a scared cat, despite its heavy shell and bones. The beast lives in burrows quickly excavated by powerful forefeet.

Normally it stays in its den during the day and forages by night. A mother armadillo generally has quadruplets and each litter is invariably of one sex—all males or all females.

The "shells," in nine overlapping bands, sometimes are made into sourvenir lamps and baskets. "Armadillo" is the Spanish word meaning "little armed one". The creature undoubtedly was named long ago by some conquistador who saw the resemblance of its armor to his own.

Some people eat armadilloes. The flesh, they say, looks and tastes like pork.

Allies Planning Stern Note About PoWs

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Seventy-five more Americans were liberated here today as the UN command prepared to deliver a stern note to the Communists demanding return of all Allied captives.

The note, which one Allied officer described as "very hot," was to be handed the Reds at Wednesday's session of the joint committee for repatriation of prisoners of war.

The largest group of Allied soldiers yet turned back in one day —456—rode into Panmunjom today in open trucks.

And 130 Americans liberated earlier anxiously awaited the journey home aboard the hospital ship Haven, scheduled to leave Inchon harbor for Japan Thursday. Only sick and wounded are aboard.

Another 400 able-bodied American repatriates start the voyage home Saturday on the troopship Marine Adder.

450 REPATRIATED

The Communists said 450 Allied prisoners would be repatriated from North Korea Thursday.

The group will include 60 Americans, 90 British and 300 South Koreans.

This is the largest group of British returned on a single day since the prisoner exchange began Aug. 5.

In addition to the 75 Americans freed today, there were 75 British and 306 South Koreans, raising the total in 15 days to 6,083 of the 12,763 Allied soldiers the Reds said they held.

Moving back to life under Communist rule were 602 shouting flag-waving North Koreans, the smallest group of Reds yet delivered by the UN command.

WEATHER HAMPERING

Transfer of Reds from prison camps off South Korea to the mainland has been hampered by typhoon weather and UN command said it would be unable to return more prisoners until Saturday when it will hand over the usual 2,400.

While the flow of prisoners continued without incident, neutral inspection teams started operations at ports of entry in South Korea.

After a week of ironing out administrative problems, the 11-man teams from four neutral countries began inspecting UN military personnel and supplies pouring in and out of five South Korean ports.

And Peiping radio said the Communists have set up offices at the five North Korean ports of entry to maintain liaison with inspection teams which arrived Monday.

SOME COMPLAINTS

Some sick and wounded former prisoners have been aboard the Haven since the first days of the exchange and some personnel from the ship have privately complained she should have left sooner.

They said other ailing repatriates flown to Japan for treatment at hospitals ashore could have been better treated aboard the Haven.

Americans returning to freedom Wednesday told the now-familiar stories of Communist brutality, death marches, and relentless attempts at indoctrination.

One soldier, Pte. Alexander Kreizer, 30, Danbury, Conn., was held in a Nazi concentration camp during the Second World War. Kreizer, born in Czechoslovakia, was asked by reporters to compare German and Communist camps.

"Both were rotten," he replied. "The Chinese tried to wear a mask as a friend. The Nazis didn't try to hide their feelings. They called us dogs."

Head Itchy, Finds Snake Inside Helmet

PORTHLEVEN, Eng. (Reuters) Police constable Frank Sandercock took off his helmet—one of those typically-English coal scuttle types—and laid it on a roadside hedge as he pumped up a punctured bicycle tire near here Tuesday.

He put it back on his head when he finished fixing the flat, remounted his bike and started a 2½-mile ride to this little Cornish fishing village. As he rode, he became aware of an irritation on top of his head.

When he entered the village 15 minutes later, the irritation had developed into an itch. So he lifted his helmet and scratched his head.

That didn't help and the itch became itchier as he directed traffic in Porthleven's cobbled main street.

FINDS ADDER

Annoyed, Sandercock took off his helmet again, determined to find the bee or whatever it was in his bonnet.

What he found was a 15-inch snake, cosily coiled up in the crown of the hat.

The cop hastily dumped the reptile into the road and a passer-by killed it.

"It sure is lucky I've got a good crop of hair," said Sandercock as he mopped his brow.

An adder bite seldom proves fatal to an adult but can bring painful illness.

Predicts Vaccine

DENVER (AP)—A New York research specialist said here Tuesday that a vaccine to prevent infantile paralysis will be available at a reasonable cost within three to five years. Dr. Herald R. Restrict Unions Among Native South Africans

By HUGH LATIMER
Special to The Examiner.

CAPETOWN (OFNS). — Measures designed greatly to restrict trade unionism among native Africans are contained in the Native Labor (Settlement of Disputes) Bill, now before the South African Parliament. The key to the government's concern with this question is the statement made during the debate on the second reading of the bill by Labor Minister Ben Schoeman that it is estimated there are 1,000,000 natives employed in commerce and secondary industry to whom the bill might apply. Mr. Schoeman added that if native trades unions were recognized they would quickly swamp European labor.

The bill denies the right to strike (the penalties are fines up to £500, imprisonment up to three years, or both—and a person charged with striking is deemed guilty until he proves himself innocent (most new African criminal legislation seems to carry this stipulation). The right of association is not forbidden, but the measure is admittedly intended to stunt the growth of African trades unions by ofefring the African employee alternative machinery — appointed regional committees of Africans with the European native labor officer as chairman.

It will be the task of the native labor officer to report disputes to the regional committee. If the latter cannot settle the dispute it is referred to the Central Native Labor Board, which consists of Europeans appointed by the Minister. If that fails it is referred to the Minister with or without a recommendation that it be investigated by the Wage Board. While at present the Wage Board must give a hearing to "persons interested" (African trades unions) in future it need only consult those bodies it thinks ought to be consulted.

MAY BECOME AN ORDER

The Minister may turn a recommendation by the Wage Board into an order, which is deemed to settle the dispute. Binding for three years, these orders take precedence over all other wage regulating measures and over the Factories Act. Orders may be made binding on workers other than Africans. Boards consisting of Europeans only may be set up to administer the orders.

Turning from the ceaseless apartheid (race segregation) arguments in Parliament to the facts of present-day employment, one finds that wages received by Africans for semi-skilled jobs in the big centres run from $3.50 per week to about $19.60 per week, with the majority around $9. These are enormously high compared with those in the rest of Africa .The two oldest industries, however, mining and farming, maintain the cheap labor system of the rest of the continent, and as a result are continually short of manpower. Miners on the Rand get 42 cents a shift about $2.50 a week plus board and lodging, and have to be recruited mainly from outside South Africa. The average wage of farm labor ranges from $1.60 a week in the Free State to $2.80 in the Cape, food and wine included.

The African owes his relatively high wage in secondary industry not to his own but to European unions. Because of the far greater development of trades unionism in the Union, one finds there what is unknown in the rest of Africa—Europeans, coloreds (people of mixed descent) and Africans working at the same job and the same wages, or as near the same as to prevent the African from undercutting the European.

ADMIT NON-WHITES

This, of course, is the major trades union problem, except in the railways and other government institutions which are run at a loss to keep whites employed. Some unionists meet it by admitting non-whites, some by helping to organize them, and others, like the mineworkers, rely on government protection.

There are about 200 unions in South Africa, with a total membership of 376,000. These are 92 European, 40 non-white and 72 mixed. Of the 92 white unions, 45 make provision for the inclusion of non-whites.

In 1935 African and European employees in secondary industry were approximately equal in number. In 1952, though the number of Europeans employed had increased by 50 per cent., it was only half the number of Africans employed. The swing has been particularly marked in the textile, clothing, furniture and tobacco industries. The clothing industry is now threatened in its turn with competition from firms in Southern Rhodesia employing cheaper native labor. There are two main lines of defense for the high-paid worker in Africa menaced by competition from lower-paid labor. One is the principle of equal pay for equal work which protects him as long as he remains more efficient. But if the European cannot call on his non-white fellow workers to support him in defense of his living standards, then the pay for that job falls below the minimum, a European will accept and the European is squeezed out.

Chatham Gives PoW Welcome

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Corporal James Pelletier arrived home Tuesday to be given a surprise welcome by his family and by the city and legionnaires from both branches 431 and 28. His mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pelletier, in-laws and friends were all on hand to grab the soldier by the shoulders and welcome him back home.

He was escorted through the city in a bright yellow convertible car with Aldermen Stan Thompson and Joseph Day.

Crowds applauded the return of Cpl. Pelletier, one of the first Canadian prisoners of war freed under terms of the Korean truce.

His wife, two daughters, two sisters and a brother, met him earlier in the day in Toronto and drove to Chatham with him.

Canadian Army Taking Part In Largest Peacetime Move

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP) — More than 5,000 active and reserve force troops are participating in the Canadian Army's largest peacetime military exercise Aug. 20-29 at the Wainwright military camp, 130 miles southeast of Edmonton.

Labelled Exercise Buffalo IV, it is on a divisional scale—the first time an exercise commanding this number of men has been attempted in Canada in peacetime.

To muster the required troops, reserve force personnel were brought in from all parts of the army's Western Command whose chief, Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, is directing the exercise. About 750 reservists were needed.

Active forces elements were drawn from all across Canada, including the 1st and 2nd battalions of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and Lord Strathcona's Horse (armored), based at Calgary.

AIDS REINFORCEMENTS

The scheme is a big test for the 25th Canadian infantry brigade reinforcement group—units of which were next in line for Korean service when the armistice was signed—and for "D" squadron of the Strathconas, destined for service with the 27th brigade in Germany this fall.

The force in the field will include divisional headquarters, the 25th brigade replacement group, a brigade of reservists stiffened by a strong element from the 2nd PPCLI, and a skeleton brigade.

The active "enemy" will be provided by Korean veterans of the 1st battalion Princess Patricias.

Biggest problem of the exercise will be communications. While certain other formations can easily operate at skeleton strength, the signal corps must be up to strength. As a result, the entire signals resources of Western Command will be put on an active basis and up to 75 army signals cadets from the trades training camp at Vernon, B.C., will assist.

LIVE AMMUNITION

All reserve artillery units in the command are expected to contribute to a strength of 24 guns, representing two field regiments of artillery. They will fire live ammunition.

The exercise will be witnessed by officers from Ottawa army headquarters and by representatives of the British Army.

MOSSADEGH CAPTURED, WILL BE TRIED

France Fires Sultan Of Morocco

Ruler, Two Sons Sent Into Exile On Corsica Island

PARIS (AP)—France today deposed the Sultan of Morocco, and the French interior ministry announced it was sending him and two of his sons into exile on Corsica, the Mediterranean island.

The 44-year-old sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who has been giving the French trouble by his encouragement to independence-seeking nationalists, was ousted after the tough Berber tribesmen of Pasha Thami El Glaoui of Marrakech, the sultan's bitter foe, began to march in from the hills on the palace at Rabat.

A fierce civil war threatened between fanatical nationalists supporting Sidi Mohammed and the warlike Berber countrymen who follow El Glaoui.

CLAMP ON CURFEW

The French put a curfew on the tense North African protectorate, where press censorship already is in effect, immediately after announcing the drastic action.

The dethronement, said the French foreign office, was decided upon because France "found herself confronted with an unequivocal will expressed with extreme firmness by the immense majority of the Moroccan people."

The sultan and his sons were reported already en route to Corsica, birthplace of Napoleon.

There was no immediate indication of who would assume the throne.

The announcement of the action was made just after French Resident-General Augustin Guillaume had returned to Morocco from Paris and talked with the sultan at his palace in Rabat.

VICTORY FOR EL GLAOUI

Deposing of the sultan, who succeeded his father in 1927, was a victory for the wealthy, pro-French Pasha of Marrakech, Thami el Glaoui, a powerful leader of Berber hill tribesmen, who accused the monarch of violating his religious vows by taking a hand in politics.

Reds Explode H-Bomb Report Says

Washington Confirms Test Took Place; Still Behind U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians announced today that they have exploded a test hydrogen bomb of "great strength." They coupled their claim with a new call for international acceptance of a Russian disarmament plan including a ban on atomic weapons.

(In Washington, the atomic energy commission confirmed that it had information on the Soviet "hell bomb" test, but implied that the United States had produced similar reactions in the 1951 and 1952 tests at Eniwetok atoll.

(A statement by chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the commission had information that the Soviets conducted an atomic test Aug. 12 and subsequent reports indicated the explosion "involved both fission and thermonuclear reactions." The latter is a term used by scientists to describe a hydrogen explosion.

BLAST LAGGING

(Indicating the Russian blast lagged behind American achievement, Strauss concluded: "Both the 1951 and 1952 Eniwetok test series included tests involving similar reactions.")

This was the official Soviet announcement, as reported in the Communist party newspaper Pravda and broadcast by the Moscow radio this morning to the Soviet people:

"Recently in the Soviet Union, the explosion of a type of hydrogen bomb was carried out with experimental aim. As a result of the possession of the mighty power of thermonuclear fission in the hydrogen bomb, the explosion was of great strength.

"The test showed the power of the hydrogen bomb is many times greater than the power of atomic bombs."

ROUTINE TREATMENT

The communique, which received only routine treatment in Pravda, said, Soviet possession of the dreaded H-bomb offered no cause for alarm among peoples of other countries. It said the Russian government still favored international disarmament and a ban on weapons of mass destruction.

Recalling that Prime Minister Malenkov told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Aug. 8 that the U.S. no longer held a monopoly of the hydrogen bomb, the statement charged that Malenkov's remarks had been used abroad "to cause alarm, using it with the aim of intensifying the armaments drive."

The Soviet government considers it necessary to declare there is not, and was not, any foundation for alarm," the communique continued.

"In accordance with the unchanging policy of the Soviet Union, directed toward the strengthening of peace and security of peoples, the Soviet government repeatedly offered to the governments of other countries the carrying out of a considerable reduction of armaments and the forbidding of the use of atomic and other kinds of weapons of mass destruction, establishing within the framework of the United Nations organization a strict international control of this prohibition.

MAINTAIN POSITION

"The Soviet government stands on this position at the present time."

Russia announced her first success in the atomic field five years and nine months ago when Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told the United Nations that the West's monopoly of the atom bomb "had long since ceased to exist."

THE TEHRAN RADIO in Iran has reported that Royalists have overthrown Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's government and had sent an appeal for the young Shah and his wife to return. General Fazollah Zahedi has been installed as premier.

Premier Forming New Cabinet, Shah Flying To Iran

TEHRAN (AP)—Premier Fazollah Zahedi's forces today arrested Mohammed Mossadegh and three of the former premier's lieutenants in a house in the centre of Tehran. The arrest of the former premier, who until Wednesday held Iran in a virtual dictatorship, quashed earlier reports that he had escaped from the shambles of his bunker-like house in Zahedi's royalist counter-revolution and taken refuge with friendly Kashghai tribesmen in the south.

The three arrested with him were Ali Shayegan, Mossadegh's top political expert; Gholam Hossein Sadighi, his interior minister, and Seifollah Moazami, the former post and telegraph minister.

Mossadegh was taken to a secret strongpoint somewhere in the capital for safekeeping. His die-hard bodyguard put up a desperate battle Wednesday at his fortified home where 200 of the 300 casualties in the counter-revolution occurred.

Tehran radio said Wednesday Mossadegh's right hand man, former foreign minister Hossein Fatemi, had been torn to bits by mob violence in which 300 persons lost their lives. A dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Don Schwind this morning said police still searched for Fatemi.

UNDER PROTECTION

Gen. Zahedi said the shah had instructed him to prevent Mossadegh being lynched by the street crowds. Zahedi added that Mossadegh would stand public trial.

"We will wait for the nation to say what should be done with him," Zahedi said.

Whereabouts of Mossadegh was not disclosed.

Tehran radio said some people were injured in the street fighting this morning. There was no elaboration.

The vagueness of the announcement about Mossadegh's capture led to some speculation that Zahedi's regime might have made the broadcast in the hope of breaking the spirit of pro-Mossadegh groups.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

British informants said the Iranian people now were in such a volatile state that almost anything can happen there in the next few hours or days.

The pendulum has swung completely since Sunday, they said, and it remained possible, for it to swing once or several times more.

Giant Bomber Explodes, Fliers Injured

PICACHO, Ariz. (AP)—A giant B-50 bomber was shattered by a tremendous explosion over the Arizona desert early today and plunged to the ground in flames.

The 12-man crew of the four-engine ship parachuted down to the rocky wasteland near towering Picacho peak.

The Pinal county sheriff's office at Florence, some 25 miles to the north, reported that many were severely injured. One died at the scene.

Ambulances rushed two of the critically-hurt airmen to hospital. Doctors sped to the scene with a ground rescue team from Tucson where the plane was stationed.

Glen Hathcock, policeman from Eloy, Ariz., was an eyewitness.

"I looked up and a big light seemed to be coming toward us," he said. "All at once it started falling.

"A second later it exploded. It lit up the whole country. You could have read a paper by it.

"When it hit the ground flames leaped hundreds of feet into the air," he said. "It looked like an atomic bomb."

(In Washington, air force headquarters said the plane definitely did not carry an atomic bomb.

(A spokesman said he did not know whether conventional bombs were aboard.

(He said the plane had been in the air only about 15 minutes, and probably had a heavy fuel load of highly-volatile aviation gasoline.)

The pilot, Capt. John D. Winters, of Lake Park, Calif., was not hurt.

He said that the No. 3 engine had caught fire at about 15,000 feet altitude and he had ordered the crew to bail out immediately. He said he counted 11 parachutes and believed all of the crew had jumped.

Talks Continue In Effort Settle Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley sat down today with truck company and union officials for a second day of talks aimed at settling the strike of truck drivers in southwestern Ontario.

The group met for six hours Wednesday, quitting about 5 p. m. Mr. Daley made no statement on progress. Talks began again this morning.

The walkout, involving upwards of 1,500 drivers, has centred around Hamilton and Windsor and this week moved into the Niagara peninsula. It started July 20 and 36 firms were struck over the Hamilton and Windsor locals' demands for pay increases.

ORDERED BREAK THROUGH

The Toronto local, not on strike, Wednesday instructed its members to smash through any picket lines that may be set up in Toronto by the Hamilton and Windsor locals.

A member of the Toronto executive said the instructions also apply to members in the Niagara peninsula, which is under the jurisdiction of the Toronto local.

In St. Catharines Wednesday night, a meeting which members of Local 879 of the teamsters union said embraced 22 unions representing industries throughout the Niagara peninsula voted to support the striking truck drivers.

Queen Grants Special Awards

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen has granted special Coronation awards to two French Roman Catholic missionaries for outstanding services in British territories, the colonial office announced today.

Because the missionaries are French citizens, the Queen had to get permission of their government before conferring the honors.

Bishop John Marie Aubin, a missionary in the South Solomon islands, was named a Commander of the British Empire for spiritual aid to the natives during 45 years in the protectorate and for cooperating with the government in educational and medical work during the last war.

Mother Etienne Conan was made a member of the Order of the British Empire for 50 years' continuous work in Sierra Leone. The citation said she "had been the inspiration of the educational work done for girls."

Detain 2 Men As Witnesses In Fire Inquiry

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP). — Two men were detained today by Quebec provincial police as "important" witnesses in suspected arson in connection with two forest fires at nearby Ste. Therese de Colombier.

Police did not identify the men other than to say they were related and in their 20s. One man was said to be the other's uncle.

Police said the two men made statements which will be checked later. It was understood the statements were alibis.

Solicitor-General Rivard said in Quebec he is awaiting a full report on the case, pending further questioning by provincial police.

The men are at Forestville under guard of police of the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Company on the request of provincial police. Part of Forestville is owned by the company whose timber limits in this area, 100 miles east of Quebec, have borne the brunt of the main fire north of here. An investigation will continue today.

The Ste. Therese fire now has been confined in an area of about one square mile although constant

Western Rift On Conference Believed To Be Bridged

By H. L. JONES

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The main Western rift over the makeup of the political conference on Korea—the seating of India at the peace table—is believed about to be bridged, UN informants said today. The United States, which has opposed inclusion of India in the face of British-Canadian insistence that she attend, is said to be ready to relax her opposition, at least to the point of not vetoing India's participation.

It is expected the American shift will become apparent within the next day or two at meetings of the UN's political committee, top UN policy-making body which is wrestling with the problem of who shall attend the political parley to decide the future of Korea.

CANADA GETS CREDIT

If and when the shift is made, observers say Canada can take a good share of the credit for it. It is known that Canada's chief delegate, Health Minister Paul Martin, along with External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson, have been pressing the U.S. on the necessity of having at the conference such a powerful Asian country as India, which has played a large role in making the Korean armistice possible.

Pearson, of course, acted in these discussions strictly as Canada's external affairs minister and top policy spokesman and not in his capacity as president of the UN general assembly.

U.S. opposition to India's attendance is said to stem directly from a South Korean threat to boycott the political parley if the Indians are there.

The split in the Western camp has been somewhat embarassing. Wednesday Russia's Andrei Vishinsky, in the course of a speech in which he called for a "round table" rather than a "two sides" conference, took some sharp jibes

Dynamite Blast At Miner's Home

TIMMINS (CP)—A stick of dynamite set off in a wall Wednesday night blew a corner off the home of Kenneth Myers, a Broulan Reef gold mine shift boss who has been passing regularly through picket lines at the strikebound mine, police said.

Myers was away from the home when the blast rocked the 27-year-old log dwelling in a residential section of neighboring South Porcupine. His wife and child were away on holidays.

The explosion also caused minor damage in an upstairs apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Casper van Leeuwen, who came here from Holland a year ago with their three sons. Van Leeuwen is not a mine worker.

Police Chief Charles McInnis of South Porcupine said he felt the blast while visiting friends some distance away. After investigating he was sure it was dynamite, he said.

BULLETIN

Members of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club will arrive in the city at 20 minutes after midnight. This week they won the United States Amateur Athletic Union championship for senior women's synchronized swimming. Reports earlier today were that they would arrive sometime tonight.

Went Pigeon Hunting With Murder Suspect

ALEXANDRIA (CP) — A 20-year-old crown witness said today he hunted pigeons with murder suspect Henri Seguin, 28, in the Maxville, Ont., district a few days before a Maxville taxi operator, Leonard Z. Hurd, was shot to death in August, 1952.

Seguin, formerly of Cornwall, is charged with Hurd's murder.

Rejean Labelle, 20, of Dunvegan, Ont. testified at the second day of Seguin's preliminary hearing that Seguin rented a cabin on his uncle's farm, 12 miles northeast of Maxville in August, 1952, under the name Henry Beaudry. He said a day or two later he and Seguin went hunting with Seguin's .22-calibre automatic rifle which fired five-shot bursts.

(Earlier evidence at the hearing was that Hurd was killed by five .22-calibre bullets fired at close range).

Labelle testified that the last time he saw Seguin and the car was on the morning of Aug. 16, the day Hurd was killed.

Have Epidemic Of Bank Holdups

MONTREAL (CP)—Bank holdups kept police on the hop Wednesday, two being reported in Montreal and one near Ville Marie, Que.

Two masked men made off with an undisclosed amount of money from a north-end St. Denis street branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada and a lone gunman escaped with between $200 and $500 from a mid-town Mount Royal Avenue branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

At Ville Marie, $10,000 in cash and bonds were taken from the Fabre Co-Operative, a farmer's bank.

In the St. Denis street holdup, the two men entered the bank near closing time. They mingled with customers ad suddenly vaulted over a counter, helped themselves to a pile of bills, and disappeared.

In the Royal Bank holdup, assistant manager R. M. Cattell said the bandit walked in while about 15 customers were in the bank and handed teller Renee Archambault a note that read:

"Give me large bills or I'll shoot."

The teller handed over the money and raised the alarm when the man reached the lobby.

Canadian Indians To Be Given Land

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. (AP)—This 200-year-old town voted Wednesday night to give back a 150-foot strip of Vermont land to the Iroquois Indians of Canada as a "gesture of friendship."

The Indians appeared before the state legislature earlier in the year to seek compensation for loss of most of Vermont's northern section.

The braves agreed at the time to settle for a quarter of the state's $7,000,000 surplus. The legislature turned them down.

A group of Iroquois from Lake of Two Mountains reservation, Que., is scheduled to come to Rockingham Friday night. Town officials will give them the deed to the land Saturday at a bicentennial celebration.

Rats Four Feet Long Terrorize English Village

BATHFORD, Eng. (Reuters)—A four-foot-long rat, one of a colony terrorizing this village in Shakespeare's country, attacked a man Wednesday as he bathed in the River Avon near here.

in all my life," said Alan Hedges, 23. "It slid down into the water from out of some overhanging tree branches and made for me. I put my head down and fled.

"When I reached bank, it was only a few feet away and I could see its red teeth bared."

Hedges scrambled out of the water, picked up a stick, swatted his attacker and drove it away.

The animal is believed to be a coypu, a South American water rat with reddish-brown pelt, red teeth, webbed feet and long, naked tail.

Some years ago coypus were bred near here for their pelts and several escaped. They are thought to have formed a new colony on the banks of the Avon.

The people of Bathford have been clamoring to have the big rats rounded up since farmers discovered a dead one last week in a field near Sally-in-the-Wood, the have vowed they won't go near the wooded vale until it is clear of them.

Villagers claim to have seen coypus in the neighborhood before the dead one was found. A motorist hit one at dusk recently and saw its "red, stary eyes" shining as it scuttled off the road into the woods.

Municipal authorities have set "traps heavy enough to hold a bear" all along the river banks near Sally-in-the-Wood in hopes of catching the coypus. But so far the traps have stayed empty.

Wildlife experts say the coypu is a vegetarian and won't attack humans.

Swimmer Hedges has an answer to that: "I don't believe it."

Order 700,000 To Join Strike

PARIS (Reuters)—Strike orders went out today to 700,000 metal workers to join France's national strike wave as the cabinet went into emergency session to decide action in the three-week-old crisis.

The metal strike was called by Socialist and Catholic trade unions for 43 hours beginning Friday, after a meeting Wednesday night rejecting wage offers.

These other strikes also were called:

1. A 48-hour walkout at the Michelin tire factory of Clermon Ferrand, beginning Friday.
2. A 48-hour strike of building workers, to begin Friday.
3. A 24-hour longshore and seamen's strike, to begin today.
4. An unlimited strike by Renault car workers at Le Mans in Western France.

Report Seguin Staging 5-Day Hunger Strike

ALEXANDRIA (CP) — Henri Seguin, charged with murder, has been on a hunger strike since Saturday, his guards said Wednesday night.

The guards said the 28-year-old accused has offered no explanation for refusing food and drink except to say: "I don't feel like eating or drinking. I often get that way."

The hunger strike began at Kingston penitentiary, where Seguin is serving a 20-year sentence for attempted bank robbery at Williams Lake, B.C., last December.

His preliminary hearing on the murder charge opened in this eastern Ontario town Wednesday. He is accused of killing Leonard Hurd of Maxville, Ont., by pumping five rifle shots into him as Hurd sat in his taxi.

Seguin appeared in excellent health.

Promise Britons More Meat, Bacon

LONDON (AP)—The food ministry today promised Britons more meat and bacon by the end of the month "for an indefinite period." They will get about 20 per cent more meat and 30 per cent more bacon.

The extra amount will be off the ration, but the ministry warned it doesn't mean an early end to rationing, which has been in effect for the last 14 years.

$500,000 Fire Damages Plant, 2nd Since April

TORONTO (CP)—Fire causing $500,000 worth of damage Wednesday raced through the White Hardware Limited warehouse in midtown Toronto, the second time fire has struck the place in four months.

While firemen battled for three hours, the blaze threatened hundreds of thousands of rounds of small arms ammunition stored on the second floor. Some 200 employees managed to roll a truck of ammunition from the fire area to safety behind steel fire walls.

The warehouse contained $1,000,000 worth of hardware. Workmen were still repairing damage caused April 30 when fire swept through the top floor of the long, three-storey building, when the latest blaze started.

NEW WING GUTTED

A new wing valued at more than $200,000 was gutted by the three-alarm fire and much of the stock was destroyed. Sparks carried by a strong wind landed on the roof of a home a block away, but were put out with a garden hose.

No cause for the fire was found immediately. Neither has any cause been found for the April 30 blaze.

Seeking Wheat Marketing Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Wheat Producers' Association says it will seek a provincial marketing scheme for Ontario winter wheat.

The association, meeting in Toronto Tuesday, decided to devise its own scheme under which producers will market their wheat instead of leaving it to the vagaries of the open market. The plan will be submitted to the farm products marketing board for approval.

This move has been prompted by what the association calls disorderly marketing and low prices.

Last year's price to the producer of Ontario winter wheat ranged from 70 cents to $1.85 a bushel. This year they are receiving from $1.35 to $1.60. And yet the meeting was told that western feed wheat was being retailed to Ontario farmers for $1.90 or more. The executive said this indicates that the price of Ontario winter wheat should be considerably higher and urged the use of Ontario winter wheat in hog and poultry rations wherever possible.

The setting up of a provincial marketing scheme had been urged by farm groups in Essex, kent, Lambton, Middlesex and Elgin counties.

Cecil Belyea, fieldman economist for the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said prices are bound to be lower than last year because of the big supplies in the wheat-producing countries, but prices of Ontario wheat should not be as low as they are.

The funeral service for Mark Stanley Burnham, 80, who died Sunday at his home farm, Ingleburn, Otonabee township, was held Wednesday afternoon at St. Luke's Anglican Church. It was largely attended by city, district and people from out of town.

The service was conducted by Canon Walter J. Gilling assisted by Dr. Ronald Ward of Toronto. The honorary pallbearers were: Heber Rogers, J. D. Collins, F. D. Kerr, QC., Dr. G. R. Langley, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Sheriff John A. Hartstone, Fred Hills, Charles S. Brown, Albert Roberts, John Bertram, Frank E. Birdsall. France Fires

Presumably the French decision to take sides with El Glaoui, their best friend in Morocco for 40 years, against the Sultan, whom they were sworn to protect under their treaty of 1912, was taken at a French cabinet meeting in Paris today.

After long agitation, El Glaoui summoned a mass meeting of chiefs and caids at Marrackech last week-end and demanded the sultan's ouster.

The upshot was that he engineered a coup in which he proclaimed Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, uncle of the sultan, as the new imam, or religious leader. The sultan nominally is both temporal and religious ruler of Morocco, but his religious powers were the basis of his rule. The sultan indignantly defied El Glaoui.

El Glaoui then threatened to turn against the French unless they cracked down on the monarch.

BLOODY RIOTING

Bloody rioting in recent days had taken at least 40 lives in Morocco, where the United States has spent, or is planning to spend $600,000,000 for five big air bases in the strategic protectorate at the northwest corner of Africa.

It remained to be seen whether a bloody civil war would result between the warlike followers of El Glaoui and the fanatical nationalist adherents of the sultan. Many nationalists in the Arab world have been warning against any effort to unseat the sultan.

CRITICIZES DIPLOMACY

He also sharply criticized American diplomacy and charged South Korean President Syngman Rhee with seeking—with American help—to prevent an agreement on Korea. But he used softer language when he spoke on the main point of the makeup of the conference and left that door open.

Vishinsky followed Martin. The chief Canadian delegate, in a 15-minute speech, rejected Russia's proposal for conference attendance only by 11 nations—the U.S. Britain, France, Red China, North Korea and South Korea, the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Sweden and Burma. The latter five are not Korea combatants which the U.S. has insisted are the only countries entitled to places at the peace table.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., chief U.S. delegate, also rejected the Russian proposal.

CANADA NOT INCLUDED

Martin rejected the Russian proposal on the ground it did not include Canada, which he said had a right to be there. He also opposed it because of a proviso that decisions could be taken if consented to by Korean armistice signatory nations. This, said Martin, would leave South Korea with little voice since she did not sign the armistice.

Martin said Russia should attend the peace conference and "take her full share of responsibility not only for peace-making but for peace-keeping."

Urging India's attendance, he appealed indirectly to Rhee—and perhaps to the U.S.—in these words:

"I would earnestly appeal to, as the saying goes, 'absent friends', not to block the participation of any state whose presence is essential for the holding of an effective conference.

"It is the responsibility of every one of us to consider and urge the interests of our own government and people, but no one leader or nation today can, in this interdependent world, legitimately frustrate the will of most of its friends on an issue of not merely local but world-wide importance."

Premier Forming

British officials anxiously awaited an announcement of the ministers in the new cabinet, in the hope the list will give some hint of the Zahedi government's attidispute.

Later Tehran broadcasts said Zahedi, who until Wednesday had a $28,000 price on his head as a bitter foe of Mossadegh, had made several appointments to his new government. They include:

LOYAL SHAH MAN

Brig.-Gen. Mohammed Daftari, chief of police, a loyal shah man despite the fact he is a nephew of Mossadegh. He was chief of police in 1950, before Mossadegh's rise.

Brig.-Gen. Nader Batmanghlitch, chief of staff, a former chief of army transport who inspected flood control projects on the Ohio river in 1950.

Gen. Batmanghlitch broadcast a warning to the people against demonstrations, especially by "leftist elements which he said might try to take advantage of the situation to "execute their vile intentions."

He called upon the army to keep law and order, but to avoid disturbance and bloodshed if at all possible.

The Iranian mob which had kept the British-hating Mossadegh in power for 28 months drove him out Wednesday—with hundreds dying in the last-ditch stand at his home—and installed the premier the shah had named last week-end.

Estimates put the dead at 300 or more in the fighting around key points in Tehran, but officials of the new government said the royalists took over with a minimum of bloodshed elsewhere in the capital and in the provinces.

The former premier's furniture, pillaged by the mob, was on sale in the city bazaar.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT

British officials in London hoped Zahedi would move quickly to settle Mossadegh's two-year-old battle with them over the nationalized properties of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. Some London newspapers expressed fear however, that Mossadegh's upset would bring new pressure on Iran from her big neighbor to the north, the Soviet Union.

American officials in Washington were hopeful the new government would be able to stabilize the country and secure it against any Communist bid for power. State department officials were reported maintaining an attitude of watchful waiting.

There was no immediate reaction from Moscow. Moscow radio broadcast the news of the royalist takeover today briefly and without comment.

SHAH TO RETURN

The 34-year-old shah cabled a call from Rome for the Iranian people to obey the Zahedi government and announced he would return promptly. He planned to leave Italy on a chartered Dutch airliner tonight for Baghdad, capital of Iraq, so he could fly to Tehran in the same personal plane in which he escaped from Mossadegh Sunday.

He and his 20-year-old wife, Empress Soraya, had fled after Mossadegh's forces in the army thwarted an attempt by the palace guard to enforce a royal decree installing Zahedi.

The shah's cable called on "all members of the armed forces and all civilian officials and all people of Iran to obey the orders of the prime minister, His Excellency Fozollah Zahedi, constitutionally designated by me to lead the legitimate national government of Iran."

The shah's twin sister, Princess Ashraf, hurried from Switzerland and joined him in Rome. Mossadegh had exiled her for her outspoken opposition to him.

MOVES QUICKLY

Zahedi moved quickly to spike the guns of the outlawed Communist Tudeh party, often Mossadegh's backers. He broadcast promises of an eight-point program of social reforms for Iran's poverty-stricken 15,000,000 peasants. It included a raised standard of living, free health services, mechanization of agriculture, road construction and promotion of co-operative societies.

Zahedi also hurried to consolidate his military victory. Tehran's citizens were ordered to avoid demonstrations of any kind and troops were told to fire on any gathering of more than three persons.

The army was put on a day-and-night alert in garrisons all over the country.

A third order directed all auto drivers to refuse transportation to anyone trying to cross the Iranian border.

PICTURES DISPLAYED

Tehran bloomed today with the green, red and white of Iran's Tricolor. Pictures of the shah were on display in profusion. Communist and extreme nationalist mobs were ripping them to bits earlier this week following failure of the first attempt to oust Mossadegh.

Zahedi quickly rescinded an order of Wednesday night closing all shops except those of grocers, butchers and bakers. Instead the new premier urged all shopkeepers to reopen as soon as possible.

Government ministries disorganized by Wednesday's fighting struggled to do business as usual under their new masters.

One Of Quints To Become Nun In Fall

NORTH BAY (CP) — Oliva Dionne, father of the famous quintuplets, said Wednesday his daughters will soon "go their separate ways" and that one of them will become a nun.

In an interview with the North Bay Nugget, Mr. Dionne said four of the girls will continue their schooling this year. Marie, will enter a "religious contemplative order" some time this fall, he said.

"The time has come when the group will be broken up," the father added. "The quints, now 19 years old, are thinking seriously of their future."

NOW VACATIONING

The girls, who have been together since birth, are vacationing at the family's summer home in nearby Corbeil.

Yvonne will go to Montreal to specialize in art at the Notre Dame congregation. Cecile, Annette and Emilie will return to Nicolet, Que., to continue study at the Institut Familial. All five sisters attended the Nicolet school during the 1952-53 term.

Look Him In The Eye

15 Feet Said Best Distance When Photographing Lion

VANCOUVER (CP) — Take it from the 30-year-old Swiss adventurer Toni Schuler—the best way of photographing a lion in Africa is to walk within 15 feet of the king of beasts and look him in the eye.

If you don't believe it, you can either look at Toni's published photographs or try it yourself—at the zoo.

In one case, Toni stalked a huge male lion near famed Mount Kilimanjaro in East Africa for a day and a half before he could get within "shooting distance."

"It took me almost three hours to get within four or five yards of him and then I was ready to shoot," Toni said in an interview.

FAST MOVEMENTS FATAL

"The secret is never to lose your head and never, under any circumstances, make any quick movements with your hands." As an afterthought, he said: "It is also a good idea not to try this until after Mr. Lion has fed on his kill."

Schuler, who is on a cross-country tour of Canada, spent 11 months in Africa where he braved the charge of a rhinoceros and photographed all types of wild life with his Leica, speed Graphic or 16-millimeter movie camera.

Previous to his African assignment, the adventurer led a government expedition deep into the jungles of southern Venezuela to study and photograph a little-known Indian tribe known as the Matilonen.

He had to take his pictures from a plane, because "they (the natives) always insisted on blowing poison darts. . . and it's very discouraging for a photographer."

Bronze-Age Village Found Under Waters Of Irish Bog

BELFAST (Reuters) — The remains of what may be a 3,000-year-old bronze-age village have been discovered under the waters of a peat-bog lake near Dungannon, Northern Ireland.

They were uncovered when a shortage of water forced engineers surveillance is necessary because of its proximity to the village.

The fire was first spotted Monday while crews of firefighters were battling the main blaze which began Aug. 7.

The two outbreaks almost caused the entire village of Ste. Therese to be evacuated. Only prompt action on the part of fire fighters prevented the flames from spreading into the village.

A combination of hard-working firefighters and cool, humid weather has partially stopped the advance of the main fire—six miles north of here at its nearest point.

Light showers fell in mid-afternoon Wednesday depositing .04 inches of rain. Since Tuesday .0.7 inches have been reported.

Theo Caron, chief forester for Anglo Canadian, said it was not enough to snuff out the blaze. He could not say whether the shower was a result of "seeding clouds" in the area, or "an act of God."

Overcast skies led protection authorities to hope a major downpour was in the offing. "Nothing short of three days' rain will extinguish the blaze," said Caron.

The fire, which has burned over more than 165 square miles of timberland, has made no progress in the last 36 hours.

During the lull about 800 haggard firefighters have been busy making and enlarging fire-breaks around communities which would be threatened by the blaze should the wind increase.

Australian Emu Rival Of Rabbit Pest

WASHINGTON — Hated and hunted by farmers, admired by ornithologists and crossword puzzle fans, Australia's giant bird, the emu, is a national pride and pest.

The emu is the world's second largest bird, ranking just below the ostrich. Flightless, it is unique among the island continent's 700 bird species, and it has been dignified with a place on the Commonwealth's coat of arms, says the National Geographic Society.

Once the emu was in danger of extinction but it has staged a comeback in recent years. Today the birds are counted in the thousands in parts of Queensland, New South Wales, the Northern Territory, and Western Australia. In some sectors laws forbid their killing, but in other provinces—notably Western Australia—a 50-cent bounty is paid for each emu's beak delivered to authorities.

FENCE THEM IN

After vainly attempting to shoot, poison, and trap the wary birds, western farmers now are trying to fence them away from wheat farms. The birds annually invade just as crops are ripening. They eat the wheat and then trample the stalks with their great webbed feet. Losses are in the millions of dollars.

A five-foot high, heavy wire fence is being erected at a cost of $130,000 to keep out the emus. It stretches over 135 miles and the barrier is designed to concentrate the birds in a sandplain north of the wheatlands.

The fence project is a last resort for desperate farmers. Even machine-gun attacks have failed to stop the marauders. The speedy emu, which can run as fast as 35 miles an hour, is a poor target, and bullets which meet the mark seldom penetrate the densely feathered hide.

SMALLER THAN OSTRICH

Standing five to six feet tall, about a foot shorter than the African ostrich, and weighing some 100 pounds, the emu is a dull, dowdy-looking bird, despite a double coat of brown feathers. The male is slightly smaller than the female. The birds inhabit open country, feeding on fruits, roots and herbage — and the golden tips of wheat stalks in season.

The emu is readily tamed and is tractable in confinement. Emu eggs seldom hatch in captivity, however. Chicks that do hatch rarely live.

Young emus are the male's responsibility. He incubates the eggs, sitting from 54 to 64 days. He takes charge of the chicks when they hatch and cares for them until they are well grown. Eggs are green and rough-surfaced, and six to sixteen are laid in the nest which the female scoops.

Australian natives eat the emu, but the bird is more valuable to them for the large quantities of oil found in the fat beneath the skin. Unlike ostrich feathers, emu plumage has no commercial value.

FARMERS—ATTENTION

WANTED: A number of progressive farmers in Western districts who would like to set out a commercial block of Red Raspberries either for your local trade or for shipping to recommended city dealers. Recent Ontario-Quebec production figures, prices at 30-50c per quart and dealer reports would indicate short supplies everywhere.

To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a well known nursery is sending a special representative of many years' experience in commercial production to personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. This should result in higher unit yields, longer patch life, less labor and when translated into dollars, a high ratio of profit is assured.

Because of the present shortage of good planting material, bookings can only be made for Fall planting 1953 limited to one acre.

If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming, write Box 400, Campbellford, Ontario, on or before August 26th, giving location of your farm. Our specialist will call later and completely analyze the business, soil requirements and preparation, up-to-date cultural practices, home markets and surplus shipping, cost of planting, estimated yields and profits per acre. Late replies cannot be answered.

Asking Questions Objectively Helps In Interviews-Kinsey

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey says winning people's confidence and asking questions in a calm, objective way are two keys to getting facts on human sex lives.

He's interviewed college presidents, housewives and business executives, and even cracked the underworld to win the confidence of shady men and women there.

In 15 years, he and three associates have interviewed some 16,000 men and women over the country. Of 8,000 women questioned, the case histories of 5,940 form much of the basis of his new book out today.

An interview lasts 1½ to three hours and covers 300 questions, or up to 500 for persons with wide experiences.

He says he can't pick human subjects in the same statistical way as do interviewers about politics or other subjects to get a representative cross-section of the U. S. public. For if you rapped on the door of homes chosen that way, many persons would refuse to answer his personal questions.

WINS CO-OPERATION

Dr. Kinsey's approach is first to win co-operation in different sections of communities, or through clubs or groups of all social levels, as well as through individuals. Often one person convinces another to co-operate. This happens in the underworld, and by such confidences Dr. Kinsey may actually know more about rackets and crime in some cities than many police officials.

Dr. Kinsey explains everything told to him will be kept strictly confidential, by secret codes.

He explains a main reason for starting the sex studies: how students at Indiana University asked him, a zoology professor, questions about sex to which he could not find factual answers anywhere, and how little was actually known, scientifically, about human sex behavior.

"We believe," he writes, "that an increased understanding of the biologic and psychologic and social factors which account for each type of sexual behavior may contribute to an ultimate adjustment between man's sexual nature and the needs of society." And he believes most people at times face problems "which some greater understanding of sex would help solve."

NO EYEBROW RAISING

Dr. Kinsey asks his questions one after the other, in objective, easy-going manner, with no eyebrow raising or other emotional reactions of surprise or disapproval.

The questions give cross-checks, to spot exaggerations or reticence. The speed of answers, tone of voice, eye movements are watched for signs of false answers. He says it's easier for persons to hide facts than to exaggerate them through the questioning method. Of several hundred persons re-interviewed months or years later, their answers the second time jibed closely with what they first said, he reports.

Some women after interviews said the calm questioning led them to report things they didn't intend to tell.

Of nearly 6,000 women represented in this book, 69 per cent lived in 10 states possessing about 47 per cent of the total U. S. population—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, California, New Jersey, Ohio, Florida, Massachusetts and Maryland.

DIFFERENCES IN PATTERNS

He says it appears, though isn't proven, that there are actually differences in sex patterns between similar communities in the United States. The nature of the community itself seems to be more significant than where it's located.

His sample, he says, is somewhat overloaded with better educated women—only 17 per cent had not gone beyond some high school education, 56 per cent had had some college education and 19 per cent some graduate work. But he says this may not be so important because generally he finds that educational level has less effect upon women's sex lives than men's.

Of women in this book, 58.2 per cent had never been married when interviewed, 41.8 per cent had been or were then married, and 13.2 per cent were widowed, separated or divorced. Sixty per cent were Protestant, 12 per cent Roman Catholic, and 28 per cent Jewish. He says more Catholic and devoutly Jewish women need to be represented.

Suez Built Across Desert With Help Of Macaroni

WASHINGTON—For the Suez Canal, fantastic "ditch in a desert," the world can thank a Frenchman's vision and his happy use of horsemanship, marksmanship, and macaroni.

The story as told by the National Geographic Society happened over a century ago.

DIET DODGER

While he was still a young consular officer in Egypt, Ferdinand de Lesseps had joined in a friendly conspiracy with Mohammed Said, heir of the Ottoman Viceroy. The somewhat fat Egyptian ruler-to-be was suffering under a regime of short rations and strenuous exercise imposed by his stern, sinewy father.

De Lesseps gained the friendship of young Mohammed by teaching him to ride like a Bedouin. More satisfying, perhaps, he also would serve the hungry youth secret meals of void-filling macaroni.

Years later, after he had succeeded his father as Khedive, Mohammed Said watched his old friend de Lesseps out-shoot his competitors in a target match. Then, with nostalgia and admiration, he listened attentively as the Frenchman outlined his ambitious dream of cutting a canal across the Isthmus of Suez, land bridge between Africa and Asia.

TEN YEARS OF DIGGING

With a concession signed by the Khedive, de Lesseps began raising money. He was neither financier nor engineer, but he planned, promoted, and finally built the Suez waterway despite ridicule and mistrust. The digging alone took a decade, from 1859 to 1869, while the American Civil War was waged.

It was only the dawn of the steamship age, and even de Lesseps underestimated the importance of what he had done. He thought his short cut to the Orient would serve at most a few hundred ships a year.

Now, in a typical year, more than 12,000 vessels transit Suez's sand-banked channel, 100 miles from end to end. In 1952 the canal carried 83 million tons of cargo. Suez handles over twice the traffic of the Panama Canal. It is surpassed only by tonnage through the Great Lakes' Soo Canal.

"... TO ALL PEOPLES"

An international company operates the canal as a public trust, as de Lesseps conceived it—"To open the earth to all peoples." By a written Convention, the canal is "always to be free and open, in time of war as in time of peace, to every vessel of commerce or of war, without distinction of flag."

Engineers of Napoleon's time had reported the Red Sea 30 feet higher than the Mediterranean. They were mistaken. Sea level is the same at both ends of de Lessep's cut, and it needs no locks.

As water came in, huge Lake Timsah formed in the heart of the Isthmus. The canal brought into being two great cities, Ismalia and Port Said, the latter named for de Lessep's friendly Khedive.

Millions of dollars a year are spent to maintain and improve the waterway, which so blends into the surrounding desert that ships sometimes appear to be plowing through the sands. Originally 72 feet wide, the great ditch has grown to a breadth of nearly 200 feet. It will take ships drawing up to 36 feet of water.

Focus of much recent controversy, Suez has yet to suffer any interruption in its traffic. De Lessep's dream will have been more than fulfilled when his original 99-year concession runs out in 1968, and control of the Suez Canal reverts to the Egyptian government.

PICHER, Okla. (AP) — Police Chief Gene Crockett, seeing a suspicious-looking car turn into an alley while he was watching for narcotics runners, jumped into another officer's car and gave chase Wednesday. Losing the quarry, he returned to find his own car stolen.

Resume Oil Exports

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Mexico resumed exportation of oil to the United States Wednesday. The Petroleo Mexicana (Premex) tanker Azteca left this port with a cargo of 4,117 tons of crude oil for the port of Brownsville, Tex. Premex, the government owned and operated oil industry, curtailed export of Mexican oil to the United States when prices in that country dropped.

Rally In Ninth Gives Lindsay Two-Game Lead

LINDSAY (ENS)—A three-run ninth inning brought the Lindsay Merchants from behind a 9-7 deficit Wednesday night and gave them a 10-9 win over the Whitby Merchants in the second game of the best-of-five Lakeshore intermediate A playoffs. Lindsay now has a stranglehold on the set leading 2-0. The third game is in Whitby Friday.

The singles, two infield outs and an error by third baseman Jack Bell gave Lindsay their winning margin in the last of the ninth.

Lindsay went ahead in the second inning with four runs after Whitby opened the scoring in the first with two. Merchants made it 7-2 in the fourth before Whitby tied it up. In the top of the ninth, Whitby scored two when the Merchants, apparently stretching the game to have it called for darkness, allowed the runs to score. Lowery loaded the bases on a hit and an error and a walk, then walked the next two runs in.

Joe Lowery went the distance, allowing 10 hits, striking one, walking seven and hitting one batter for the win. The visitors used Gavis, who allowed no hits but walked three, before leaving in the second. Billenduke, his successor, allowed five hits and three walks in two innings. Bidgood gave up five hits and two walks, striking out two, before retiring for Neal, the loser.

James Has Lead Of 180 Votes

John M. James was elected with a plurality of 180 votes in Durham according to the official count, the results of which were announced Wednesday. Mr. James, the Liberal candidate, polled 6,684 votes; C. E. Stephenson, Progressive Conservative 6,504, and M. R. Armstrong, CCF, 1,273. There were only three spoiled ballots.

The election was Mr. James' second contest with Mr. Stephenson. In 1949 he was elected with 431 votes over Mr. Stephenson. It was also a three-cornered contest. Mr. James polled 233 fewer votes than he did in 1949 and Mr. Stephenson 28 more votes. The CCF candidate polled 146 fewer votes.

Miners Trickle Back To Work At Mine

TIMMINS (CP)—The ranks of workers returning to the tunnels of the strike-bound Broulan Reef gold mines reached 60 today. They crossed picket lines without incident.

The back-to-work movement has been growing daily. Today's group was the biggest since 350 miners, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), walked out six weeks ago for higher wages.

Forty miners returned to work Wednesday.

Cars bearing workers have passed through the picket lines without incident each day this week.

Cancel 19 Trains

VIENNA (AP) — The Slovak Communist organ, Pravda, reported Wednesday that 19 daily passenger trains in Slovakia have been cancelled since Monday because of a coal shortage and increased freight traffic.

Urges Egyptians Plan For War

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's acting president, Vice-Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, opened the Moslem feast of Bairam today with a call for Egyptians to prepare for total war against "British occupation."

His warning to Britons to evacuate their military forces from the disputed Suez canal zone was cheered wildly by an estimated 100,000 Egyptians packing the big square outside the former royal palace. Nasser spoke in the absence of President Naguib, who is on a pilgrimage to Mecca.

Army commander Maj.-Gen. Abdel Hakim told the crowd the army had instructors and equipment to arm a great number of volunteers.

Informal Anglo-Egyptian talks to try settling the Suez dispute are still on officially although a scheduled meeting last Monday was cancelled by the Egyptians, and no new date set.

Peterborough's T-Men

Some time ago the police department of Peterborough organized what is called a T-man squad—twenty men who volunteer to report accurately on traffic violations they see as they go about town or in their spare time. The men are anonymous and not dressed in any kind of distinguishing uniform. They are unpaid. The first report on their operations has been given. They noted 128 infractions of traffic regulations and reported them to the police, who sent letters to the alleged offenders. Arrests are not made nor summonses issued on the basis of what the traffic reporters see and relate to the police.

* * *

The principle of the thing is bad. It smacks of police states and snooping, of secret agents of bureaucrats and dictators, of setting citizens to spy on each other, as in Russia and Hitler's Germany. Yet something can be said to condone the practice right here in Peterborough. First, the T-men are volunteering as good citizens, anxious to reduce traffic dangers. Their reports do not lead to penalties against those reported on, nor secret files. The offender is told, by the letter from the police, what his infraction was—it is a kind of warning which may be helpful. He knows what information the police have. Secondly, the way cars and trucks use our streets shows that too many drivers are incompetent, unskillful, careless or reckless. The uniformed police cannot be at every street corner. If the T-men's activities can help prevent accidents and reduce the risks on our streets, then perhaps the practice can be reluctantly approved. Yet, if the practice is based on a bad principle should it be condoned?

* * *

In theory any private citizen is a T-man. Any private citizen can report to the police on what he believes to have been an infringement of the law. In extremities, any private citizen may himself arrest another. The T-men are thus acting within the established sphere of any private person. The rub is that they are organized to do it (incidentally, getting some coaching in the matter), and that their reports are given more weight than those of ordinary private citizens.

* * *

Much depends on the use the police make or are allowed to make of the T-men's reports. So far there is no suggestion, in the employment of the T-men, that they are the secret Gestapo of the Peterborough police department. Before passing judgement on the matter we shall see what developments occur.

H-Bomb Bomb

Malenkov announced, almost in an aside during his major political speech, that Russia has an H-bomb. Today Pravda reported an experimental explosion "of great strength." Here in the West there has been a certain amount of incredulity; no reports of an H-bomb test explosion in Russia have been made by American scanners of the ether whose job it is to patrol the skies with instruments for evidence of nuclear energy releases. This does not mean that the Americans have not had such evidence. Anyway, Russian scientists are quite capable of devising an H-bomb. The U.S.S.R. has many skilled atomic physicists, thanks to raids she made on European scientists at the end of the war, and thanks also to the work of atomic spies like Bruno Pontecorvo and Klaus Fuchs, who gave them information. Further, Soviet science is in a high state of technical advance, and has been for a generation, in various branches. The Russians are not stupid.

The hydrogen bomb is the most dangerous weapon that man's ingenuity has ever been able to devise. Fortunately for the rich U.S.A. and ourselves it is extremely expensive to make. There is a long road between knowing how to make one and making it—a road along which the U.S.A. set its course immediately following the disclosures of the atomic spies. The U.S.A. reasoned that Russia would have an H-bomb eventually, and that it had better get busy on the process, too. The U.S.A. exploded a species of hydrogen bomb at Eniwetok on November 1st a year ago. There is no real evidence that the U.S.S.R. has got as far in its H-bomb production.

The reason that the process of manufacture is long and involved is that the H-bomb requires an A-bomb as ancillary to it. Here is one explanation: Ordinary hydrogen does not fuse readily. Deuterium (double-weight hydrogen) does somewhat better. A combination of deuterium and tritium (triple-weight hydrogen) is best of all. The reaction cannot be brought about without heat as intense as that within the sun. Hence, every H-bomb must include an A-bomb, which is the only apparatus that can generate heat measured in millions of degrees. But tritium does not occur in nature. The U.S. has been making it in driblets, slowly, expensively, almost painfully, and with its aid bringing about what are euphemistically called "thermonuclear reactions"—preliminary experiments that culminated on Nov. 1, 1952, in the most violent explosion ever set off by man, an explosion generally attributed to a primitive hydrogen bomb.

The New York Times assesses the situation thus:

No one knows how large the Russian stockpile of A-bombs may be. The strain on our industrial resources because of our A-bomb activity is noticeable, but that required to make both A-bombs and H-bombs, since both go together, is something with which even we must reckon. We are building at a cost of a billion and a half on the Savanah River, South Carolina, a plant which is to provide tritium needed for H-bombs. By December, 1951, the hydrogen bomb business was the third largest in the country, exceeded only by that of the United States Steel Corporation and General Motors. It is improbable that Soviet Russia is in any position to match this country in the production of tritium, or, for that matter, in the production of uranium 235 and plutonium. Though we are willing to believe that Malenkov is not indulging in vain boasting we find it hard to believe that Soviet Russia is as yet in any industrial position to make H-bombs.

We can only hope that political science, on an international level, will advance at the same time that work on the H-bomb progresses, so that by the time the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. are able to blow each other off the face of the globe (and a good many people in between), politics in the sphere of international relations will be able to convince them that the big blow would not really be worth while.

Shah, Mossadegh

The situation in Iran is grave, and not because Mossadegh fainted dead away. He may revive.

Two factions have developed strongly in that land of intrigue since Mossadegh seized the British oil wells and refineries. On the one side is wily old Mossadegh, busily at work undermining the British, the Shah and, in the process, the whole economy of the country. Naturally in this process the Communists have seen an advantage and have given Mossadegh and his hand-picked parliament their support. On the other side is the palace, from which the young Shah fled when the Mossadegh attack against it came out into the open.

The Shah has been popular with the people, but he is not the master of intrigue his father was. Reza Khan Pahlevi fought his way from sergeant to the Peacock Throne of the Shah of Shahs in 1925 and kept it until he became involved with Hitler and was forced to abdicate. He died in exile in South Africa in 1944. The young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has inherited a situation which he could not master—old Mossadegh has been too smart for him.

However, it remains to be seen whether the British are, in the end, smarter than Mossadegh. The British kept the old Shah on the throne, and got him off it. The young Shah has been supported by Britain and unless the hand of Dulles fumbles into the cauldron, the hand of Britain can put the Shah back in Tehran. Its unseen presence can be felt in the royalist revolution this week.

Million Dollars For Stratford

Quite apart from the artistic and theatrical success of the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, the city itself has benefited. Mr. H. A. Showalter of Stratford, president of the Festival Foundation, has reported on its final stages. "Stratford's name has become known with high favour over the entire continent and beyond. A round million dollars has been left here by customers and contributors." The money that has come into the city is not the most important consideration yet it shows that businessmen and town councils need not write off an artistic enterprise as financially foolish and its creators as crackpots.

Cricket Returns To The Hearth

As games go, cricket is old, at least as old in its antecedants as baseball, and wherever Englishmen have gone in the last century and a half, as soldiers, sailors, ambassadors, missionaries, traders, farmers, beach-combers and convicts, they have taken cricket with them. They took it to Australia, and Australia has kept its Ashes for nineteen years. So there was general rejoicing in England yesterday when England won the Test Match against Australia. It has been a long test.

800TH ANNIVERSARY

St. Bernard Turned His Back

By PIERRE d'HARCOURT

IT WAS NINE O'CLOCK on the morning of August 20, 1153, when Bernard, Abbot of Clairvaux, near Dijon, France, died; and during the last few months there have been numerous celebrations, not only in France but throughout the Roman Catholic world; to mark the eighth century of the man now known as St. Bernard who, by the power and originality of his genius as much as by his charity and holiness, dominated the European scene during the first half of the twelfth century. He was responsible for the rapid growth of the Cistercian order; he took part in all the religious and political controversies of his day; and he preached the cause of the Second Crusade (of Western Christendom against the Moslem conquerors of Palestine) in 1146.

✧ ✧

THE CELEBRATIONS reached their climax today at Vezelay (French village), where and international day of remembrance is being presided over by the Papal Nuncio (Pope's Ambassador), Mgr. Marella. Ceremonies are being performed simultaneously in Cistercian abbeys all over the world.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE EXISTENCE of this austere reformer is full of surprising paradox. He was born of a powerful Burgundian aristocratic family, with the prospect before him of an easy and brilliant life. But at the age of twenty he voluntarily abandoned all that a handsome young man of fortune could dream of, turned his back on the world, and took refuge in the silence of the cloister to devote himself to a life of contemplation. To the almost deserted Abbey of Clairvaux he brought some thirty young men from among his friends.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT MIGHT have seemed that thenceforward nothing more would be heard of Bernard. But in fact the silence of the cloister was not to be his, and during the first half of the twelfth century, no name was to be more widely known. At a time when the unity of the Church was in peril, and the threat of the Islam became every day more menacing, emperors, kings and princes of the Church turned to this humble monk to seek his aid and counsel.

For thirty years he travelled back and forth over the roads of France, Italy and Germany. His activity at every level was unceasing, his advice sought on all subjects. But never did he lose sight of the little band at Clairvaux—a band which, all the same, had enormously increased since he became abbot. Five years before his death, Clairvaux counted 700 monks, 100 of whom were novices.

✧ ✧ ✧

DURING the years of his journeyings Bernard found time to compose hundreds of sermons, of which more than three hundred have come down to us, and to dictate a tremendous number of letters. To his monks he wrote: "There is no equality in the damage we suffer; you are deprived only of me; but I am deprived of you all. You have only one reason to be sad; I have so many—the lack of each one of you." To the parents of a certain Geoffroy de Peronne who were in despair at the loss of their only son to Clairvaux he wrote: "Do not lament or weep. It is towards great joy, not mourning, that your Geoffrey runs. I shall be a father to him, and a mother; a brother and a sister. I shall arrange everything in such a way that his soul shall profit and his body shall not suffer."

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT THIS MAN, in whom the accent of tenderness and affection seems always present, could, when he judged it necessary, adopt another tone. It did not matter that he addressed himself to a king, or to the Pope himself; when Bernard spoke as a reformer of the Church he was incisive and caustic: "Having become bishops, they wish to be archbishops; attaining that, they dream of still greater honours, are ready to undertake laborious journeys in order to astonish with display the court of Rome and, incidently, to acquire costly friends." He condemned luxury and worldliness, and exercised his tongue not only against the clergy but against feudal society and the powerful men of the day.

Rome herself was not spared. Bernard writes: "All is given over to appearances; nothing, or next to nothing, to holiness."

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE in a few lines to give even a short account of the sum of Bernard's activities. In an age when schism was rife, he took on tremendous tasks. In the contest for the Papal succession between Anacletus II and Innocent II, Bernard successfully asserted the latter's claims: at the Council of Etampes, called towards the end of 1130 primarily to re-establish the unity of the Church, Bernard was able to swing the balance decisively in Innocent's favour.

Bernard also brought a note of moderation to the bloody fight against heresy. "Faith is the work of persuasion, and is not imposed by force," he said.

On March 1, 1146, the Pope, Eugenius II, after the siege and taking of Edessa by Zengi, the Attabeg of Mosul, called the Christian world to arms, and designated Bernard to preach the Second Crusade in the name of the Pope. In spite of already failing health, Bernard went at once to Vezelay, and from there set out across Europe. For two years he animated the gigantic enterprise. Everywhere volunteers sprang to his appeal—although the Second Crusade was fated to end in catastrophic failure.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CAMPAIGN had exhausted the strength of the Abbot of Clairvaux, and he passed the last year of his life in bed, ceaselessly dictating notes, letters and directives. When his life ended, he must have found great joy in the thought of dying in the peace and silence of Clairvaux.

Such was the astonishing career of the man who dominated the twelfth century with the stature of his genius. To the twentieth-century reader this formidable figure appears through his letters (of which an excellent English translation by Bruno Scott James was published a few months ago) as a sensitive and humane man, whose spontaneity and freshness are not the least endearing of his qualities.

Going Too Far

"It is hightime," said the reformer, "that we had a moral awakening. Let us rise in our might.

"Let us gird our loins. Let us bare our arms. Let us—"

"Hold on!" exclaimed a tall, thin woman near the platform. "If this is to be a moral awakening, don't you dare take off another thing!"

An American Opinion:
WHY NOT MAKE A STRONG, SOLID TABLE OUT OF THIS?

Letters To The Editor

QUEBEC ELECTION PRACTICES

Sir: In a recent editorial you mention the failure of Montreal police to bring to justice those responsible for the total destruction of the headquarters of a P.C. candidate on election night in St. Mary's riding, and ask your readers why?

Personally, sir, a lot of us have no respect for the type of electioneering pursued by all parties in Quebec. When it comes to intimidation threats, graft, corruption and impersonation, the rest of Canada is left standing still. Here in Ontario all candidates respect the Sabbath, but in Quebec the campaign like the Mardi Gras goes on, hence the extra day advantages gained. But if I follow up with some other reason my readers will brand me as just another bigoted Conservative attempting to foment racial and religious hatred.

Firstly, I presume the police were not too friendly with the cause of the candidate and to interfere upon his behalf would only invite a riot. And secondly, it would be worth a man's life to oppose the party machine if you cared to run the gauntlet of threats, intimidation, graft and corruption. That would account for other P.C. candidates suddenly withdrawing, allowing their opponents an acclamation. I do know that for obvious reasons the rest of Canada was kept ignorant of what method of campaigning was followed in Quebec.

Do the readers know that posters depicting Drew as "Free Mason Drew" were placarded along the highways and the caption in French:

"How Do You Vote"
Roman Catholic St. Laurent or Free Mason Drew?

Photographs were taken of these posters, so it is not just hearsay.

There lies the secret why the Conservative party fails miserably in Quebec. Like puppets on a string the habitant gets the orders from the High Command. And there is no alternative. What a racket would follow here in Ontario if retaliatory measures were followed?

Let me say that the battle of the Plains of Abraham (Wolfe vs. Montclam) has been handed down from generation to generation like a secret Indian herb recipe and the Conservative government enforcement of the conscription law during the First World War helped to fan the flames.

Just why would Quebec vote against Mr. St. Laurent anyway? Quite true, he is one of their own who has ascended to the top rung of the ladder. But didn't he promise a Canadian representative to the Vatican? (Read the editorial in the last issue of the United Church Observer). And mark my word, one will be appointed. And you Protestant Liberals and Free Masons can like it or lump it. And isn't Dominion Day to be discarded? And God Save the Queen replaced by some funeral dirge, and the Union Jack replaced by some crazy quilt-patch design. These obstacles have all got to be overcome before Drew with his pro-British attitude ever gains power. That chance would be gone for a while . . .

Gallant French-Canadian soldiers went through the Hell of Korea and two world wars side by side with English-speaking men. Both races are here to stay and there is no need of fanning any fires of hatred which is only what Communism desires — divided we fall.

B. HYLAND.

Omemee.

(Ed. Note: Reader Hyland may have missed a statement in the Montreal news account which was quoted in the editorial to which he refers: The mob "stormed the house of the defeated Conservative candidate . . . An eyewitness said some of the men were shouting:: 'We want our money'." If arrests had been made, against which candidate, Liberal or Conservative, might evidence of corrupt election practice have been forthcoming? What money, and for what service did the angry men ask?)

TWO DOLLARS A MONTH

Sir: Will you allow me space in your paper to say the people of the Council of the Township of Otonabee (Keene) are very bighearted. They give me two dollars every month to live on or else thrust me in an old folks' home and take me from my wife to do so. My wife has been paying taxes in Keene almost 11 years. I am 55 years of age.

Bible Message

(From The Authorized Version)

And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

He said unto him, What is written in the law, how readest thou?

And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.

And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbor?

And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise. (Luke 10: 25-37.)

Something To Change To

(Saskatoon Star-Phoenix)

If there is to be a change there must be something to change to; and the electorate was offered a very divided and motley alternative. If it was to throw out the Liberals it had to choose among a party of well-meaning but dangerously restricted views (the CCF), a party wherein principles and policy were alike veiled in mystery (Social Credit), and a p ty which appeared to regard the attainment of office as policy enough (the Tories). Indeed, we are inclined to regard the forsaking by the Progressive Conservative party (though not by many of its candidates) of its traditional beliefs, and their replacement by a plethora of promises within which no clear lines of policy were discernible, as one of the most disturbing features of the campaign which has just ended.

Council Passes Resolution On Neutrality

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City council Tuesday night passed a resolution declaring the city neutral in the current southwestern Ontario truck strike and council members attacked a Toronto newspaper editorial dealing with the attitude of civic officials towards the labor dispute.

Council s resolution expressed disapproval "of the use of violence and. . . any wanton disregard for the rights and safety of the general public. . . ."

During the session alderman John Wheelton showed mayor Arthur J. Reaume a copy of the Toronto Globe and Mail of Aug. 11 which carried the editorial.

NOT FIRST TIME

The editorial said that mayor Reaume had criticized his city's police force for granting protection to what the mayor called "scab drivers." The editorial added: "This is by no means the first time that civic officials at Windsor have closed their eyes to blatant defiance of the law made by Parliament; or actively sided with those defying it."

Alderman Wheelton told council that "this is not the first time this city has been subjected to grossly unfair attacks in certain Toronto papers. . ."

"The biggest issue in any strike is to see that no blood is shed," mayor Reaume commented. "I pay no attention to the Globe and Mail."

Say Two Points Balking Milk Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board report said Wednesday the Milk Drivers Union (AFL) has accepted the principle of five-day-a week milk delivery for Toronto in return for a wage increase but the union has balked on an agreement over two other points.

The board, with Eric Taylor as chairman, in its unanimous report said it found the dairy operators were unable to meet any higher wage bill under existing operations and it recommended a settlement based on cutting out Wednesday delivery.

The board also said the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association agreed, contingent on five-day milk delivery, to an increase of $5.50 a week for the 1,700 members of the union, comprising 600 plant employees and 1,100 driver-salesmen.

The union representatives before the board raised two other points. The first was a demand for a flat payment of $50 to each worker to make up for retroactive pay to the expiry of the old agreement last April 1. The second was a demand for an increase from one-quarter to one-half cent a point in the commission for wholesale milk deliveries. The dairies refused to meet these two demands.

Transports Take Opener Against Point Anne In Intermediate Series

TP Transports edged Point Anne 9-8 Wednesday night at the East City Bowl in the first of a best-of-three series for the right to advance further in the men's OASA intermediate "A" playdowns. A steady thrilling comeback by the George Bennett-Tom Casey Transporters, led by versatile all-round athletic star Junior West, whose terrific pinch-homer with two aboard in the sixth, tied the score; and lion-hearted Haddy Eakins, the Dormer Trophy winners, emerged victorious after a hectic fray.

Eakins yielded three runs on two hits in the first two innings; but thereafter twirled fast, and with deadly precision, to mow down 11 Cementers on strikes and passed but one against four in the first two. His fast ball dropped in there like lightning.

USES VETERAN

Pat Maracle, veteran curve ball star for Point Anne Cementers, (a small borough four miles outside Belleville that eliminated Quinteville) started for the visitors; and looked highly effective for five frames—aside from the second when Transports tallied three on Greenlaw's walk, Fryia's sacrifice, a walk to Mackness, Crowe's rap and Eakin's life, plus an error. But he lost his grip in the sixth to be replaced by speedy Bob Hunter. Meanwhile, the visitors, led by Pat Gilmour, who doubled to score Mulholland and Mallory in the first, added three more in the second to earn a 5-3 edge. Bill Strachan walked, as did Mulholland; Mallory singled to score Strachan; then scored as Gilmour's rap found slippery fingers. Eakins toiled on stolidly and hit paydirt in the sixth when the visitors, tightening and tense, began a series of lapses that cost the ball game, as TP's combined skill with opportunism to the finish.

Crowe was safe on a bobble to start; Eakins grounded out; Floyd was safe on a bobble. Then the home lads used strategy by calling clutch star Junior West to the batter's box and Junior promptly responded with a long drive close to the swimming pool to drive in all hands and tie the score. Greenlaw doubled, scored on Fryia's hit; the latter also as Mackness' drive found nervous, erring hands. Bob Hunter came in for Point Anne.

FOUGHT BACK

Cementers fought back for one in the sixth and another in the seventh led by Mulholland, John Green and Tom Buchanan to creep close. Next came the dramatic finale as Point Anne tied the score, then lost. Green doubled off the left-field fence and scored on Buchanan's single; but that was all.

Don Floyd proved the man of the hour in the ninth as he drove a Hunter fast ball to right just out of Jack Eliott's reach, and sped to third before the melon could be retrieved. Teeder Collins ten rolled to short, and in attempting to trap Don off third, Buchanan threw low; Floyd pranced home with the winner.

Point Anne commited 10 errors in all, many slight but costly on infield raps, five in the fatal sixth alone. Toody Greenlaw pulled off a remarkable running catch off Gilmour in the fourth; and Don Floyd's fielding in the mid-pasture featured. West, Greenlaw and Crowe each had two safeties, with Mulholland and Buchanan the same for the visitors. Next game is at Point Anne Saturday night.

Grid Schedule For Orfuns Starts Sept. 5

Peterborough Orfuns open their ORFU intermediate "A" schedule Saturday at Oshawa, and have Cobourg here Sept. 9 for the local opener. At first it was expected to start play the last weekend of this month, but the four clubs concerned felt they would not be ready till a week later. Orfuns' home games will be Wednesday night tilts under the Morrow Park arcs, except for one Saturday game Oct. 10.

The first two teams meet in playoffs, home and home, points counting if Orfuns or Toronto are in there. If it should be Cobourg and Oshawa, they would settle for a sudden-death game Oct. 24, as tney have no lights. A two-game playoff would be Oct. 21 and Oct. 24. The schedule as it affects Peterborough:

Sept. 5—Orfuns at Oshawa.
Sept. 9—Cobourg at Orfuns.
Sept. 11—Orfuns at Toronto.
Sept. 18—Orfuns at Toronto.
Sept. 23—Oshawa at Orfuns.
Sept. 26—Orfuns at Cobourg.
Sept. 30—Toronto at Orfuns.
Oct. 3—Orfuns at Oshawa.
Oct. 7—Cobourg at Orfuns.
Oct. 10—Toronto at Orfuns.
Oct. 12—Orfuns at Cobourg.
Oct. 14—Oshawa at Orfuns.

Smith Leading Lacrosse Scorer

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Doug Smith of St. Catharines racked up a total of 129 points in Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior League games this year to head the point-scoring list for 1953. He scored 48 goals and gave 81 assists in the 30-game schedule.

Second is forward Ken Croft of Orillia with 65 goals and 48 assists for 113 points and third another defenceman, Ross Powless of Peterborough, with 46 and 57 for 103.

Other scorers were:

Russ Slater, Peterborough forward, 66-31—97; Lea Teatero, Orillia, centre, 51-43—94; Ike Hildebrand, Peterborough, forward, 55-38—93; Bob Dobbie, Fergus, rover 70-20—90; Don Campbell, Fergus, forward, 56-33—89; Tony d'Amico, Orillia, forward, 49-38—87; Jack Mason, Peterborough, rover, 50-36—86.

Local OLA Juveniles Get Tilt From Orillia

In a juvenile lacrosse tussle here, Peterborough downed Orillia 11-8 with some keen action served up. These teams may be meeting later in OLA playoffs.

T. Hunt topped the local scorers with three goals, two each going to J. Drury, G. Blodgett and P. Wright, as R. Ward and A. Foote got one each. Drury added two assists, and Foote and Ward one apiece. Seager led the losers with four, singles going to Rosen, Lehay, Rodgers, and Scarlett. The latter, Uren and Kehoe had an assist apiece. The winners drew 11 of the 18 penalties as the boys roughed it at times. Teams:

Orillia — Dunford, Seager, Kehoe, Rickman, Curran, Rosen, Uren, Bulloch, Lehay, Rodgers, Hunter, Kranke, Scarlett.

Petes — Simmons, Blodgett, Qrde, Ward, Foote, Dundas, Wright, Strickland, Sutherland, Delahey, Drury, Gardner, Brooks, Hunt, Feltham.

Referees—R. Allan and R. Batley.

Boost Laurel Purse Up To $65,000

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Laurel race track today boosted the purse for its second Washington International Nov. 7 to $65,000 with the winner getting $50,000.

The first International last year was worth a gross $50,000 with the British winner, Robert Boucher's winner getting $50,000.

Boucher recently anounced that Wilwyn is through with racing and will stand at stud.

Entries for the 1½-mile international are by invitation and their owners pay no nominating, entry or starting fees. Laurel also pays the expenses to fly the horses, trainers, jockeys and grooms from overseas.

Coach Tony Kotowski expects to take a large squad of prospective Orfuns to Ottawa for the grid exhibition Saturday against Ottawa Seconds. He has some newcomers and is still checking players ere cutting the squad. Ottawa, QRFU runners-up last fall, have had some 40 players out at practices the past two weeks. Mike Ozarko is handling their line, while Ted MacLarty and Wally Masters have been looking after the backfield, brushing up on passing plays and trying out a few new ones from a split "T." Merv Bonney is out at present with a pulled knee tendon. Chuck Paul is another familiar face from these parts in the Capitol City crew.

Lakeshore ball playoffs are humming right along with all teams entered in intermediate "A" or "B" series. Our own Liflocs went into OBA junior "A" playdowns and are one game down now to the Belleville Regents. Next one is here Friday eve at six in Riverside. First fray of the best-of-five series was tossed out by the OBA as Regents used a 23-year-old pitcher, Johnny Mowatt. He played Class "C" pro ball last summer in the States and hurled in the senior COBL before that. We think the local club should press the OBA to award the protested tilt to Liflocs since use of an over-age player in junior ball ranks is a serious infraction of the constitution.

Two Joes Gain Berths

Joe Stewart and Joe Lowrey, local ex-seniors now with Lindsay, are on the Lakeshore League all-star ball team which meets the intercounty senior Merchants in a Kiwanis charity game in Oshawa on Saturday night. District scribes picked the al-stars. Lowrey was the closest of all to being an unanimous choice, and Joe Stewart rated high, even getting a vote as playing coach. Ted Stone and Don Crawford are the pitching choices with Gord Hanna catching. Infield of Bunny Maeson, Max Yourth, Frank Varga and John Jozkoski (with Stewart, of course) came up well in votes. Outfielders are Lowrey, Bill Cook and Clark Harnden. A lot of utility players, also. Coach is Ed Campbell of Cobourg.

If the Petes' Trailermen can hurdle St. Kitts in OLA and Eastern Canada, they'll fly west Sept. 12 for a chance at their third straight Mann Cup, something few senior lacrosse clubs have been able to grab. Petes won it out in B.C. in 1951 and downed Vancouver last autumn in Toronto. They hope to make it three in a row. Moon-Wootton, Curly Mason and Rusty Slater have been on three cup teams in successive season, helping Owen Sound take it in '50 ere coming here. St. Catharines Athletics open the best-of-seven eastern final here Friday night, return one being Monday in the Garden City. Rained-out jousts go the following night. Coach Bob Thorpe, his players and the local executive figure they can oust the A's, but won't say in how many games. It could go seven.

Good Record On Season

There are no injuries in the local lineup at present, and the experienced Petes can play a fast or rugged game as the situation demands. They have the better goalie as well as strong, speedy checkers and fine passing and shooting up front. Prexy Bob Peirson, Managers Bob Curtin and Mick Magee, along with the whole executive, as well as the gutted-stick performers, have worked hard in the quest for a third Mann Cup and Canadian senior "A" lacrosse crown. They won't bow to the Saints without a terrific fight. Petes dropped but five league games this campaign, finishing one Kitts. Rubbed out Orillia four straight in semi-finals as Athletics Kitts. Rubbed out Orilia four straight in semi-finals as Athletics did likewise to Fergus. Shapes up as a rousing eastern playoff final.

Don Floyd's triple and a miscue sent the winning run scampering over the plate in the last of the ninth inning at the Bowl last e'en to give Transports a 9-8 victory over Point Anne. 'Twas the first of their best-of-three OASA intermediate "A" playdown series, second one being on the diamond of the Belleville district winner Saturday. Junior West earlier had hit a pinch-homer which accounted for three local tallies. That tied the keen tilt at the time to put George Bennett's bunch back in the battle. Haddy Eakins hurled nifty ball to whiff 11 as Pat Maracle and Bob Hunter saw slab service for the visitors, who were loose afield to boot 10. Tonight, Transports and Seabrooke's resume their city finals.

Speaking Of The Pacers

Supremus, the Brighton pacer which took the free-for-all in the harness meet here last Saturday, had two firsts and a second in the 2.17 class the other day at Belleville. Stan Blewett's Miss Chipso from here had a first, second and third in the same race, while Graydon Sheldon's Gadabout was third twice and fourth. There were no Peterborough entries in the other event, the 2.28. Times in the 2.17 were real good, 2.16, 2.15 and 2.15, Miss Chipso taking the last dash. These horses and many more from various centres—including some newcomers here from Toronto, Belleville and Renfrew—are entered in the twilight harness meet at Morrow Park this Saturday, a 5.30 touch. Again, wagering at the track is permitted.

Crack Team To Compete At Camp Perry

MONTREAL (CP) — A crack Canadian team of small-bore marksmen will compete for the first time in a three-country match to be fired at the American national matches at Camp Perry, O., Aug. 26.

K. N. Morris, executive director of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, said today Canada has accepted an invitation from the National Rifle Association of America to enter the Pershing Trophy match, previously closed to all countries except the United States and Britain.

Competed for only three times, the trophy was won by Britain in 1931 and 1937 and by the U.S. in 1939. Rules of the match demand that countries entering the shoot must journey to the country which last won the trophy.

CANADIAN TEAM

The Canadian team, comprising 10 members and two alternates, is captained and coached by veteran Bisley shot James Boa of Toronto. Lt.-Col. Stephen Johns of Calgary, runner-up for the Queen's Prize this year at Bisley, is adjutant and shooting member.

Other members:

F. W. Cresswell, Orillia, Ont.; Gilmour S. Boa, Toronto; J. D. Boa, Toronto; J. D. Rae, Toronto; S. H. Thompson, Parkhill, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Miller, Sarnia, Ont.; R. V. Robinson, Washago, Ont., and J. H. Scott, Wyoming, Ont.

Canadians Fail To Score Place

VANDALIA, O. (CP)—The Canadian contingent competing at the 54th annual Grand American Trapshoot failed to place in the winners' ranks Wednesday.

Twelve Canadians, including the Olympic sharp-shooter, George Genereux of Saskatoon, were among 960 outstanding North American marksmen who stood at the firing line.

Best performance by a Canadian in Wednesday's championship events was the 195 of 200 targets turned in by W. C. Davis of Alberta. Canadians tied with 193 were W. C. Hoadley, Edmonton; Vera Holdsworth, Calgary; Charles J. Parkinson, London, Ont., and L. A. Hartman, Kitchener, Ont.

Three contestants tied with perfect 200s in the class AA competition and Marion Partlow, 37-year-old farmer from Casey, Ill., won in a shoot-off. The class A title went to Lyon Crawford, Harvey, Ill., after a shootoff to break a deadlock among three shooters, each with 199.

The class B title went to Joseph Parr of Cincinnati with 200.

Other Canadian scores included: J. H. Holdsworth, Calgary, 193; George Genereux 186; G. A. McAteen, St. Thomas, Ont., 185.

Bowling Tournament Held In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario lawn bowling championships are scheduled for Hamilton's Roselawn Club on Saturday.

The competition, for rinks, singles and doubles, will be between the zone champions. The winners will represent the province in the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association-sponsored Quebec-Ontario matches later this month or early in September.

Winners of the interprovincial matches to be played in Ontario will qualify for the Canadian championships scheduled for Winnipeg next spring. The Canadian titlists will represent the Dominion at the British Empire Games in Vancouver in 1954.

Blow To Heart Killed Marine Boxer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The death in the ring of U. S. Marine Sgt. Robert L. Lee, fighting professionally to earn a bit of extra money for his family, was caused by a blow to the heart, an autopsy showed Wednesday.

Dr. Ben Sheppard said the blow set off a chain of nervous reactions which caused a "cardiac arrest" or heart stoppage.

The 24-year-old marine collapsed and died Tuesday night shortly after receiving a body blow in the first round of a preliminary fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium. His opponent was Kenny Yates, 19.

Bethany Damsels Defeat Millbrook

BETHANY (ENS) — In the Rice Lake League softball schedule, the league-leading Bethany girls' team took the first of the final series best-of-five here on Tuesday night with a win of 18-15 over Millbrook, who held second place in the semi-finals. The visitors led off with three runs in the first, adding five in the third, one in the fourth, two in the fifth, and four in the seventh, with Todd hurling good ball all the way. Their heavy batters were Guthrie with a homer and McDowell with a triple.

There were errors aplenty on both sides, but the Bethany girls held their lead of six runs in the first, one each in the second and fourth, seven in the third, and three in the fifth. White started on the mound and was replaced by Bristow in the third, who hurled good ball for the remainder. Bigelow, White, Neals and Morrow, all with triples that counted with two and three on bases, added up the Bethany score. Teams:

Millbrook — Todd p, Hutchinson ss, Richards 2b, Guthrie 3b, Guthrie rf, McDowell c, Richards lf, Powell 1b, Lowery cf c.

Bethany — Morrow 2b, Carr c, Hudson 1b, Edwards ss, Neals 2b, Bigelow cf, Martichenko lf, Fallis rf, White and Bristow p.

Umpires—McPherson of Millbrook at plate, Woods of Bailieboro on bases.

White Sox Upset By Browns In 4-3 Decision

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If you've got a streak running it's best to stay away from the St. Louis Browns. Just ask Billy Pierce. The last-place Browns have given the little Chicago White Sox left-hander nothing but trouble this season. He has an excellent 16-8 record, but look what the lowly St. Louis outfit has done to him. In his first start, April 16, Pierce had a no-hitter going for six innings. Then Bobby Young doubled and spoiled it. Ten days later the Browns beat him 7-2 for his first loss in 10 starts.

On June 30 the White Sox threw Pierce at the Browns and lost 4-2.

BROWNS SNAP IT

Wednesday Pierce faced St. Louis with a string of 34 2-3 scoreless innings in his last four appearances. The Browns snapped it at 40 with a pair of unearned tallies and went on to score two earned runs in the 10th and win the game 4-3. The fast-balling southpaw had pitched 51 innings without giving up an earned run.

The loss to St. Louis cost the White Sox a full game in their more and more futile pursuit of New York Yankees. The Yanks edged Washington Senators 2-0 and now lead the league by 8½ games.

Boston Red Sox defeated Philadelphia Athletics 6-4 and Detroit Tigers whipped Cleveland Indians' Early Wynn for the first time in three seasons 4-2.

Brooklyn Dodgers continued their whirlwind drive toward the National League pennant with an uphill 7-5 triumph over New York Giants.

EDGE REDLEGS

Milwaukee Braves edged Cincinnati Redlegs 3-2 and stayed 8½ games back of the Dodgers. Pittsburgh Pirates beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-3. Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis Cardinals by the same score.

For 3 2-3 innings Washington continued its mastery over the Yankees. Then Yogi Berra hit a homer for the first New York hit. Al Sima gave up only three other hits and one more run, but his teammates couldn't do anything with Jim McDonald, who also rationed out four safeties.

Ted Williams hit his third home run since returning to action, providing the Red Sox with their margin of victory over Philadelphia.

Home runs by Bob Nieman and Steve Souchock helped Billy Hoeft break his four-game losing streak with a decision over Cleveland. The only Indian tallies were homers by Wally Westlake and Wynn.

RALLIES HELP

Three-run rallies in the third and eight innings enabled Brooklyn to overtake and whip the Giants who had built a 5-1 lead. Duke Snider's single with the bases loaded in the eighth produced the winning runs.

Andy Pafko ran his hitting streak to 17 games with a ninth-inning home run that gave the Braves their triumph over Cincinnati. Warren Spahn posted his 17th victory although Ted Kluszewski blasted his 37th home run with one on in the first inning.

Curt Simmons lost his 11th game when the Pirates got two runs in the eighth inning at Philadelphia, one on Fran Thomas' home run.

Four walks in the sixth inning by Joe Presko plus an error gave the Cubs the two runs they needed to beat St. Louis. Clyde McCullough drove in two other Chicago runs with a homer.

Soccer Season Opens, Some Shocks

LONDON (Reuters)—The English soccer season opened unobtrusively Wednesday as sports fans cheered England's cricket victory over Australia in the fifth Test match.

Despite cricket fever sweeping the country, 750,000 soccer enthusiasts turned out to see 66 of the 92 top league clubs in England and Wales start the 38-week season.

Games were brought forward from Saturday to keep May 1, 1954, free for the final of the Football Association Cup, top prize in English soccer.

There were the traditional first-game-of-the-season shocks.

London's Arsenal, English League champion last season, lost 2-0 to West Bromwich Albion in the first division. Preston North End, which finished second to Arsenal, lost 2-1 to Huddersfield, newly-promoted from the second division.

Reinforced Sunderland lost 5-3 to Charlton Athletic, a London team.

Direct Rhythm Yonkers Favorite

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Direct Rhythm, owned by the Louisville Metals man, W. G. Reynolds, will be the favorite to capture his second straight $25,000 Yonkers Derby tonight at Yonkers Raceway.

A field of 12 pacers—including one Canadian—was entered for the 1½-mile race. World record holder Chuck Volo, owned by S. A. Wathen and driven by his son, Wendell, is among those entered.

Chuck Volo set his world mark of 3:05 3-5 in the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway July 30, a race in which Direct Rhythm finished third.

The Canadian entry is Prince Adios owned by Grant Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont.

Direct Rhythm, the 2 to 1 early favorite, will be driven by Jimmy Jordan in place of Del Miller.

Red Wings Jolt Buffalo With 10-4 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A w... Rochester tonight and the International Baseball League has a new leader.

The Red Wings soared to within a half game of the first-place Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night on the strength of their seventh straight triumph—a 10-4 decision over the Herd.

The clubs meet again at Rochester tonight:

Other scheduled Wednesday night games went this way:

Montreal Royals, who lost a pair to Baltimore Tuesday, topped the Orioles 4-3.

Bobby Addis, Billy DeMars and Kal Segrist played heroes' roles when Toronto Maple Leafs played 10 innings of ball and won two games from Syracuse Chiefs by 6-5 and 3-2 scores.

17TH VICTORY

Bob Trice, ace Ottawa pitcher, registered his 17th victory as he tamed the tail-end Springfield Cubs 9-1.

An eight-run rally in the sixth gave Rochester their win. The Wings jolted Earl Harrist off the hill in this round, and continued against Milt Jordan in an eight-hit barrage that included two triples and three doubles. Reliefer Cot Deal snared his 12th victory.

Montreal's win at Baltimore advanced the club to within three games of the leaders, while the Orioles are six games back, in fourth place. Bob Ludwick and Ed Roebuck limited the Birds to five hits, which included Stan Jok's 17th homer, and another by Jack Lohrke.

COMPLETE GAME

At Toronto, before the regularly scheduled game, the clubs completed a suspended game of July 19. It was a seven-inning contest which Syracuse led 5-2 at the end of six when it was called.

Addis followed a couple of walks in the seventh with a homer to tie it 5-5. Demars singled in the winning counter, scoring Ed Stevens from second.

The Leafs made it four in a row over the Chiefs when Segrist led off the bottom of the ninth with a four-bagger to break a 2-2 deadlock.

The Athletics, at Springfield, rapped the game up early for Trice and halted the Cubs' winning streak at five, with four runs in both the first and second innings.

Championships To Be Played On Kanawaki Golf Course

MONTREAL (CP)—The Kanawaki Golf Club's course, where three Canadian amateur championships will be decided starting Saturday, is on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, 10 miles from downtown Montreal and a mile outside the Indian village of Caughnawaga.

The layout is 6,645 yards with a par of 70, a 35 for each nine. The terrain has a rolling contour and a wealth of woods. Stately elms dot the fairways here and there.

The fairways are known widely by golfers for the soft carpet-like turf. The greens have some slight undulation.

Kanawaki will get its big test—and so will the players—when the interprovincial team championship is decided Saturday. Four-man teams representing the various provinces will compete in 36-hole medal play.

On the same day provincial junior champions will decide the Canadian junior championship over the same distance, also at medal play.

BEGINS MONDAY

The Canadian amateur championship tournament starts Monday and runs all through next week, ending Saturday. Much lustre and top-notch competition is added to the tournament this year because of the presence of both the British and United States Walker Cup teams, which will compete later in the United States for the famous trophy.

Here is a hole-by-hole description of the Kanawaki course:

No. 1—430 yards, par four: Lateral ditch on right of fairway for 200 yards; short rough on left; green well trapped both sides.

No. 2—400 yards, par four: Tougher par four because of undulating terrain; downslope after 180 yards favors drive; elm tree at 300 yards on fairway left; green elevated 15 feet.

No. 3—120 yards, par three: If tee shot across gulley misses small green, recovery to par is difficult because of trouble on all sides.

No. 4—330 yards, par four: Fairly easy; ditch down right; steep bank and bushes on left; surface trap at 220 yards.

No. 5—465 yards, par four: Probably most difficult on course; two long shots needed to reach green; slight rise in fairway at 300 yards, with trap on right; ground then falls away; second shot is blind; green hard to hold.

No. 6—530 yards, par five: Boundary fence on right but really comes into play only for tee shot; fairway traps 225 and 250 yards.

NO. 7 HOLE

No. 7—380 yards, par four: Woods on left; elevated road on right with ditch at bottom of bank; green slightly elevated.

No. 8—437 yards, par four: Fairway depression on left at 200 yards leaves neck with about half the fairway width; boundary on right; if tee shot is into gulley, second shot is blind; if to the neck, for easier shot to green, there is chance of going out of bonnds.

No. 9—240 yards, par three: Punch-bowl-shaped green below fairway level; narrow appearance to hole; green slightly domed.

No. 10—450 yards, par four: Railroad boundary on right, gardens and bush on left with trap at 250 yards.

No. 11—190 yards, par three: Large green with plenty of depth; prevailing wind against player.

No. 12—345 yards, par four: Approach shot difficult to judge; thick brush and shallow traps on left at 180 yards; tree close to back of green.

No. 13—400 yards, par four: Drive must be to right because of danger of hitting transverse trap; trees on right; ditch crosses fairway at 280 yards.

No. 14—420 yards, par four: Modified dog's leg to right, corner guarded by bunker at 200 yards and group of trees.

No. 15—370 yards, par four: Ditch on right of fairway with boundary markers on far bank; large trees narrow fairway on left at 280 yards; deep ditch 25 yards in front of green.

No. 16—545 yards, par five: Not tough, but few players get home in two; dog's leg to right with gentle rise to green, which well-trapped.

No. 17—165 yards, par three: Played with following wind; ground on right of green falls away in steep bank; flat green on plateau at about eye-level.

No. 18—430 yards, par four: Large elm tree on edge of fairway at 230 yards; deep trap at 250; inclined green is up 12 feet; elm tree close to left side of green, nearly overhanging; difficult downhill chip if green is overshot.

Talk About Low Golf Scores Discarded

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—All the practice-round talk about low scores and high winds went into the discard today when the field of 130 got down to serious business in the $25,000 Open.

The end of the trail won't be reached until Sunday and the guessing about what score will take $5,000 first money ranged all the way from 268 to 275.

The pros themselves are not so sure about this Summerlea course, flat and inviting but still able to withstand persistent par-cracking over a long term of years.

There were prospects that the chilly wind of Wednesday would subside, but the temperature was not likely to go above 70. The field was scheduled to get away at 8:30 a.m. EDT.

Jules Huot, one of Canada's veteran pros whose home course is at nearby Laval, sized up the situation this way as the first round got under way:

"Unless we get some rough winds and if the weather stays dry, you will find this course getting shorter. I think a 268, which is 12 under par for the distance, can be shot and will win. . . .

"There are fellows like Cary Middlecoff, Julius Boros and Porky Oliver in this tournament who can shoot that 268. Boros is playing great golf now. He is playing a fine iron game."

Peter Thomson of Australia figured it differently. "Around 270 or 271 might be good enough to win," he said.

STRINGS ALONG

Henry Martell of Edmonton, who won the 1953 Canadian Professional Golfors Association championship up at Royal Quebec last month, was inclined to string along. This was just after Henry had shot a seven-over-par 77 himself in an exhibition foursome match with Babe Zaharias, Huot and Damien Gauthier of Montreal. The wind bothered Martell, and possibly with that in mind he plunged for a 274 as the winning total.

The real sizzler of Wednesday's final practice rounds was a six-under-par 64 fired by Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va. That set a course record for Summerlea in any kind of play. The previous best was a 65 by Syd Fry, Summeriea's assistant pro at the time, and shot in a friendly match. The competitive record is 66, by Gerry Proulx of Montreal. That mark has stood for 11 years.

In the exhibition match Babe Zaharias shot 73, against men's par 70. The former U.S. and British women's champion was paired with Martell and they finished all even with Huot and Gauthier.

Four Finals Coming Up In Canadian Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—Four finals were on the griddle today in the Canadian junior tennis championships, the first after six days of play.

They are juvenile girls' singles, juvenile boys' singles, juvenile boys' closed singles, one of the new classes introduced this year for Canadians only, and girls' doubles. Both juvenile open matches are between a Canadian and an American.

In the girls' division, 13-year-old Ann Barclay of Vancouver, holder of the British Columbia and Washington state under-18 girls' singles titles, meets Phyllis Saganski, 13, of Hamtramck, Mich., who won the event last year.

In the boys' match, Alvera Pena of Montreal takes on another Hamtramcker, Ray Senkowski, top-seeded foreign player in the event.

Pena is also in the running for the juvenile boys' closed singles championship. He meets Bob Armstrong, of Hamilton in the semi-final and the winner plays Keith Acheson of Toronto, whom Pena defeated 9-7, 6-2 in the semi-final of the juvenile open singles.

REACH FINALS

Canada's first-seeded couple in girls' doubles, Miss Barclay and Joan Barton of Toronto, have reached the final in that event. The two remaining semi-final teams are Joan O'Brien of Toronto and Pam Dewis of Halifax and first-seeded foreigners Miss Saganski and Donna Zozkey, also of Hamtramck.

Only one Canadian has reached the semi-finals in the junior men's singles. Guy Durocher, 15-year-old unseeded player from Sherbrooke, Que., will meet the favorite, 18-year-old Kalman Hettleman of Baltimore, in one semi-final bracket. The other semi-finalists are John McLean of Buffalo and Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N.Y.

Semi-finalists in the junior women's singles are Mariette Laframboise of Montreal, defending champion, Carolyn Flemming of Truro, N.S., Alexandra Hufty of Washington and first-seeded American Judith Howe of San Diego.

QUARTER-FINALS

In the quarter-finals of the boys' doubles, Dick Kalil of Cornwall and A. Freedhoff of Toronto defeated J. Bassett and P. Barnard of Toronto, 6-2, 11-9.

In the first round of the boys' closed singles, Dick Kalil defeated M. Roth of Toronto by default.

Erect Bronze Plaque To Baseball Great

NEW YORK — A bronze plaque in memory of Lou Gehrig, one of the all-time baseball greats who died on June 2, 1941, will be unveiled at the site of the former Yankee star's birthplace on Aug. 21 as part of the celebration of the city 300th anniversary, Lee Thompson Smith, president of the celebration committee, announced recently.

Mr. Smith said the unveiling will be attended by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri; Mr. Gehrig's mother, Mrs. Christine Gehrig, and several ballplayers who played with Mr. Gehrig.

Mr. Gehrig, who served as the Yankee captain and first baseman, was born on June 19, 1903. During his playing days, he set a Major league record by appearing in 2,130 consecutive games.

GAMES HEAD RESIGNS

MONTREAL (CP) — Lt.-Col. George C. Machum of Montreal has resigned from the presidency of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games Association of Canada, for business reasons, the association's executive committee announced Wednesday. Maj. John W. Davies of Montreal was elected to take his place.

BILLY PREFERS FOOTBALL—Six-year-old Billy Gunning, of Ottawa, told the great Joe Dimaggio, former star outfielder with the New York Yankees, that "I like football best," when they met at Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper, Alta. Dimaggio was visiting Jasper where a number of movie stars, including Marilyn Monroe, are making several feature-length films.

Virginia Fare Wins $5,000 Alberta Derby

EDMONTON (CP) — Virginia Fair, owned by Jim A. Charlesworth, Edmonton cattle man, Wednesday won the 23rd runing of the $5,000 added Alberta Derby, feature race of the fall track meet at Exhibition Park.

The three-year-old filly, ridden by jockey Don Richards, covered 1⅛ miles in 1:55 1-5, one second off the track record. She placed fifth in the Queen's Plate June 2 at Woodbine.

The favorite, Virginia Fair led throughout to pay $4.70, 3.20 and 2.40. Flak's First, owned by E. Johansen of Calgary, was second. Light Dust, owned by Meadowbrook Stables of Winnipeg, was third.

Ottawa Rough Riders Strongest Since War Should Give Good Account Of Themselves

OTTAWA (CP)—Says Jim McCaffrey, president and manager of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football Union:

"We have the strongest team since the end of the war."

That would make the Riders stronger than the 1951 team, which won the Grey Cup under freshman coach Clem Crowe.

"And McCaffrey slapped his "strongest since the war" tag on the Riders after Ottawa had absorbed two exhibition defeats in the West, from Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos. Those tilts, says McCaffrey, were no indication of his club's real strength—"the scoring could have gone either way."

A POOR THIRD

Ottawa finished a poor third in the Big Four last season. Crowe puts this down largely to overconfidence; after all, they were the defending Grey Cup champions.

McCaffrey says this year's team is considerably improved over last season's, with added Canadian strength both in the line and backfield.

The first-string quarterback has not been selected yet but Riders can pick from four: Tom O'Malley, signal-caller for the last two years; Dave Anderson, last year with Calgary Stampeders; George Gilmartin, with Pittsburgh Steelers last year; and Avatus Stone, who joined the team at Winnipeg from Syracuse. Acquisition of Stone, normally a defensive half, has increased optimism in the Ottawa camp.

The fans seem optimistic, too. Lansdowne Park can take 16,000 customers and most of the 13,000 reserved seats have been snapped up. Crowds averaged 15,000 last season. General admission is $1.40 and reserved seats from from $1.70 to $3.95. The Riders break roughly even on an annual budget of about $230,000.

OPEN AT HAMILTON

The Riders open their season at Hamilton Aug. 27. The first home game will be against Montreal Alouettes Sept. 5.

Main attraction for Ottawa in pre-season drills hasn't been a passer or runner but a lineman, 29-year-old, six-foot-three, 240-pound tackle John Kissell.

Kissell became the centre of a legal row between the Riders and Cleveland Browns, for whom Kissell played last year. The Browns claimed Kissell had signed to play with them before he put his name on an Ottawa contract. The upshot was that the Ontario Supreme Court refused the Browns' request for an injunction to prevent Kissell playing with the Riders.

McCaffrey says Kissell "looks good," but "we can't tell the story from one lineman. One combination will tell the tale."

Ottawa now is carrying 12 imports and must cut down to the permitted eight by Oct. 1, using only eight per game up to then. The imports include O'Malley, Anderson, Gilmartin, Stone, halfbacks Gene Roberts, starting his third year in Canadian football, Jack Barry of the University of Texas, linemen Kaye Vaughan of Tulsa University, John Bove, Kissell and Jack Gearding and ends Bernie Flowers of Purdue University and Paul Salata, last year with Calgary.

KEEP HOTSHOTS

The Riders haven't lost any hotshots from last year's team with the possible exceptions of Ted MacLarty, defensive half who has retired, and end Al Baldwin, who signed with Hamilton after Ottawa cut him loose.

Main acquisitions from other Canadian teams are centre Chuck Anderson and halfback Bob Cunningham, formerly with Montreal, and guard Jake Dunlap, over from Hamilton.

Hold-overs include, besides O'Malley, Roberts, Bova and Gearding, halfbacks Howie Turner, Pete Karpuk, Bruce Cummings, Alex Ponton, Don Hollingworth, Bob Garside and Bob Rumball; linemen John Wagoner, Bennie MacDonell, Walt Bashak and Jerry Lefebvre; ends Bruno Bitkowski, John Welton, Bob Simpson and Matt Anthony.

Canadian newcomers include half Ed Yablonski of Hamilton, last year with University of Detroit, centre Stu Kennedy of Queens, centre Ron Baker of Ottawa seconds, and half Hank Tomaski and tackles Joe Harris and Joe Upton, all of University of Toronto.

From all these, the riders can sign 36 and dress 26 for each game.

CONTRACT DISPUTE—Burly 250-pound John Kissell may not play this season with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four. He has been the centre of an international legal dispute over use of his talents. An application for an injunction was filed by Cleveland Browns of the United States Professional League against Kissell's playing with Ottawa. The latter club must file a counter-claim in 10 days, the Ontario Supreme Court has ruled. The Riders claim Kissell is signed with them.

Great Canadian Jockey Retiring Won More Than 1,000 Races

CALGARY (CP) — One of the greatest jockeys who ever rode on Western tracks, John (Scotty) Craigmyle is retiring as a jockey as the summer season ends.

Craigmyle began his saddle career before most jockeys now riding in the West were born. He is one of an illustrious line of great jockeys from the West, including Johnny Longden and the late Georgie Woolf.

The "Flying Scotsman" last year won his 1,000th race of a career that started in 1925 at Salt Lake City, Utah, although he was born in Calgary. He rode his first winner at Tia Juana in Mexico in 1926 and made his debut on the Prairies the same year.

Since then he has ridden on many major race tracks and his services are still in demand.

FORMER TRIUMPHS

Craigmyle was the leading jockey at Tia Juana in 1926, and his contract was sold to Willis Sharpe Kilmer for $15,000. He rode for that big stable for two years, and was aboard the famous Sun Beau in most of that colt's races.

He considers Reigh Count, sire of Count Fleet, the greatest horse he ever rode. Scotty says George Woolf was the greatest rider ever to come out of Canada, and he regards Laverne Fator as the greatest of all time.

Craigmyle's major riding feat has been winning the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg four times. He has twice won the $5,000 added Alberta Derby, one short of a record, and in 1951 won the $5,000 added Speed to Spare Handicap at Edmonton, Alberta's major open feature race. That time he was aboard Sir Leknark, owned by Les Lear, former coach of Calgary's football Stampeders.

After the fall meet in Winnipeg, Craigmyle plans to concentrate on a new job with Alberta Ranches Ltd., Calgary, where he'll work with Johnny Longden and the latter's son, Vance.

This summer he flew to California to ride Alberta Ranches' Indian Hemp in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

Scotty is married to a Vancouver girl, sister of a jockey, and they have two sons.

Ulrich-Nielsen Lose Match To Guernsey

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—The Danish and Mexican Davis Cup tandems, third and sixth foreign seedings, were brushed to the sidelines by young U.S. rivals Wednesday as the men's division of the U.S. doubles tennis tournament reached the quarter-finals round.

Bearded Torben Ulrich and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark lost their third-round match to Frank Guernsey of Garden City, N.Y., and the U. S. intercollegiate champion, Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 9-7, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

Straight Clark of Pasadena, Cal., and Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., vanquished Mexico's Francisco Contreras and Joaquin Reyes 8-6, 7-5, 6-4.

SEIXAS WIN

After subjecting his wrenched right knee to whirlpool bath treatment Wimbledon singles titlist Vic Seixas joined his U.S. Davis Cup teammate, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, for a 7-5, 6-4, 6-3 second-round victory over Pablo Eisenberg of Milburn, N.J., and Ed Dailey of Harrisburg, Pa.

Because they delayed their first-round engagement for 24 hours, Seixas and Trabert will not have a chance to catch up with the rest of the field until the staggered semi-finals round.

Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, the top-seeded Australians, managed to get through Luis Ayala of Chile and Bo Perry of Los Angeles 10-8, 6-3, 6-2.

APPEAL LIFE SUSPENSION

VANCOUVER (CP) — A jockey suspended for life following a ride Tuesday at Exhibition Park here learned Wednesday night that he has been granted an appeal hearing.

Presiding steward Earle Lewis said jockey Richard Rossall's appeal will be heard "sometime next week" and will be attended by Bert Thompson of Los Angeles, western representative of the National Jockey's Guild.

Thompson, reached by Rossall after the 17-year-old California jockey was suspended for an "unsatisfactory" race aboard Vally Band, telephoned Lewis and asked for the new hearing.

Vally Band finished second to Markendell in the featured seventh race.

The Pleasantville, Calif., rider denied hotly earlier that he had "pulled" Vally Bland and called the suspension, effective throughout North America, a "raw deal."

Browns Refuse Cash Settlement

OTTAWA (CP) — Cleveland Browns, launching the second round of a legal battle to regain tackle John Kissell from Ottawa Rough Riders, say they won't accept a cash settlement.

The United States National League football club filed a statement of claim outlining its position against the Canadian team in Ontario Supreme Court here Tuesday. Ottawa has 10 days in which to file a counter-claim.

The action followed an order from Chief Justice J. C. McRuer allowing the Browns to file pleadings before Sept. 1. Generally pleadings are not heard during the court's summer vacation.

The Browns attempted unsuccessfully last Wednesday to obtain a temporary injunction which would have restrained Kissell from playing with the Big Four club.

The Browns ask the court to rule that Kissell is under a valid and binding contract with Cleveland and to grant an injunction from playing with Ottawa.

Reds Will Step Up Exchange Of PoWs Soon

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Korean war prisoner exchange passed the halfway mark today and there was every indication the Reds will start sending home larger numbers of Americans daily.

They promised 150 Friday, and it appeared the stepped-up rate will continue indefinitely. Three hundred South Koreans also will be freed Friday.

Sixty Americans, 90 British and 300 Koreans were freed today in the 16th day of exchange at this tiny village.

No British were scheduled to return Friday, for the first time since the exchange began. The Kormunists have delivered 809 of the 922 British promised.

The Reds have turned over only 1,315 Americans, well under half of the 3,313 they listed.

Thursday's shipment brought the number of Allied troops freed to 6,533, just over half of the 12,763 the Reds promised.

SHIPPING DISRUPTED

No Communists were sent north Thursday and none are scheduled until Saturday. Typhoon conditions disrupted Allied shipping from the Koje Island prison camps off South Korea.

The stream of happy men Thursday told more of the grim stories of life in the Red stockades.

One prisoner told a story of a U. S. airman staked in the sun and left to die because he would not back up phony germ warfare charges by the Communists.

Shortly after the prisoners returned, the joint military armistice commission met at its Panmanjom headquarters on Red request.

The Reds gave no indication what they wanted to discuss.

Red China's Peiping radio charged that American authorities have obstructed Communist Red Cross teams visiting prison camps in South Korea to the point that the teams "have virtually suspended their operations."

CHARGE PERSECUTION

Peiping accused the Americans of "openly persecuting" the teams and restricting interviews with the PoWs.

However, Allied representatives accused the Communist workers of activities bordering on spying and told them to stop it. They told the Reds to limit their activities to authorized humanitarian missions.

A South Korean repatriated Thursday added to the stories of a Red PoW holdout. He said the North Korean Army has a brigade of at least 8,000 South Korean prisoners who wouldn't be repatriated.

He said thousands of other South Korean prisoners were working more than 20 hours a day in forced labor.

The UNC warned the Reds that they must return all prisoners after early repatriates said some were being held back and jailed on phony charges.

Meanwhile, more Americans freed in the early days of the exchange streamed toward home.

The hospital ship Haven, with 104 disabled U. S. repatriates aboard, sailed from Inchon in South Korea for Japan. There it will load more sick and injured and continue to the United States, where it is due about Sept. 14.

The transport Marine Adder will leave Inchon Saturday with 400 able-bodied U. S. repatriates. The non-stop trip to the U. S. will take about two weeks.

"FIREBEE" IS STARTING TO BUZZ—The "Firebee," America's newest pilotless jet, speeds from the end of a 60-foot launching rail with the aid of a rocket to boost its flying speed. Moments after the launching the rocket is jettisoned and the drone's jet engine takes over as the sole source of power. The plane is flown by remote control from a ground station.

Bring Scouts Out Of Cave

LICQ ATHERA France (Reuters)—French cave explorers who Tuesday narrowly averted disaster in setting a world record 2,394-foot descent in the Pierre Saint Marin caves Wednesday ended their triumphant expedition.

Last to reach the surface from the bowels of the Pyrenees were two Lyon Boys Scouts, Michael Letrone and Daniel Epelly, who had spent the night on ledges inside the 1,247-foot vertical shaft leading to the caves.

Their task was to guide the steel cable by which Norbert Casteret, expedition leader, and Robert Levi were hauled up Wednesday morning. Their companion, Dr. Robert Mairey, was hauled to safety late Tuesday night.

The trio were stranded at the bottom in the moisture-laden gloom Tuesday when the thin steel cable, representing life or death, jammed.

Surface workers got the cable working and the two scouts stayed below to guide the strand of wire past jutting rocks which might fray it.

Charge In Boy's Death

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Charles W. Cookman of Duluth, Minn., Wednesday was charged with dangerous driving in the death of Brian Lampier, 5, at Comber Tuesday. He was remanded on $1,000 bail to Sept. 10. Cookman put his car in a ditch in an effort to avoid hitting the child.

Army Papers Evidence In Seguin Case

ALEXANDRIA (CP)—Army papers bearing the name Joseph Henri Laurier Seguin were introduced Wednesday as evidence at the preliminary hearing of Henri Seguin, 28, charged with the murder of a Maxville, Ont., taxi operator, Leonard Z. Hurd.

Sergeant Fred Seaver of the Cornwall township police testified that the papers were among articles found in Hurd's taxi with the body. Hurd was shot Aug. 16, 1952, on a lonely road about a mile from his home.

Seguin was captured at Williams Lake, B.C., last December following an abortive attempt to rob a bank. He now is under a 20-year sentence for attempted bank robbery, robbery with violence and shooting at a police officer.

Seguin, formerly of Cornwall, sat throughout the hearing handcuffed to a provincial police constable.

The crown expects to call about 44 witnesses and the hearing will probably continue until Friday.

Sergeant Seaver identified photographs he made at the scene of the murder and an army pay book, and other documents found in a club bag in the back of the taxi. He said the discharge certificate was made out to "Pte. Joseph Henri Laurier Seguin of Montreal" and was found inside the army paybook.

Hamburg Clears 6,000 Acres Of Rubble; At Work Again

WASHINGTON — Germany's port city of Hamburg has come alive again after citizens cleared 6,000 acres of rubble and the wreckage of 3,000 vessels littering the harbor.

Net tonnage of ships arriving in the port nears the pre-war level of 20,000,000 tons annually. Virtually all docks, warehouses, bridges, cranes and derricks have been restored. Shipbuilders are again besieged with orders. Industrial production is 6 per cent above the 1936 mark.

MAJOR TARGET

One-sixth of Hamburg was levelled by bombers. Of 560,000 dwellings, 300,000 were destroyed. More than half have been restored and new homes rise at the rate of 25,000 a year.

Between 60,000 and 80,000 died in the raids. An estimated 200,000 of Hamburg's citizens were killed on active duty. By 1945, the city's population had slumped to 700,000, but today it approaches its pre-war peak of 1,630,000.

Hamburg's trade with East Germany, Poland, Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia has been cut off by the Iron Curtain, and the city is deprived of the central trading position it enjoyed in past centuries. Compensating for the lost commerce, Hamburg has expanded activity in its factories. The city is a centre for oil refining, as well as the tobacco industry. Other manufactures include chemicals, furniture, textiles and machinery.

INLAND PORT

At its peak of foreign trade, about 1930, Hamburg had 60,000 workers manning its 36 miles of crowded waterfront. It ranked with New York and London among the world's busiest ports.

Hamburg is situated on several delta channels of the Elbe River, at the head of its narrow, 75-mile-long estuary to the North Sea. The harbor is tidal, without locks, and is reached by a buoyed channel which has a depth of 29½ feet at average low water. There are 16 basins with about 20 miles of docks, 10 miles of mooring space, and 2½ million square feet of shed space.

Flowing through the heart of Hamburg, the Alster River splays into twin lakes in the midst of the hotel and business districts. Shops, restaurants and shaded promenades fringe the inner lake front. Behind them rise striking office buildings of modern design. Lake Alster's further reaches are ringed by the city's finest suburban homes.

The old section of Hamburg, almost destroyed by fire in 1842 and later rebuilt, is laced by narrow canals. Small "taxi" boats, piping toylike whistles, transport passengers. Barges carry goods direct to the back doors of shops and warehouses. The waterways become mudflats when the tide is out.

Leading attractions in Hamburg include St. Nicholas' Church, whose 482-foot tower is one of Europe's highest, and the famous Hagenbeck "cageless zoo." Ironically, the hamburger is not a specialty of restaurants in Hamburg. It was invented by South Germans waiting in the port for ships to America. Although the dish was named in honor of the city, it was not popularized until it emigrated to the United States.

WHERE SIX KILLED—Smashed almost to matchwood is this automobile in which six persons were killed on the highway near Lloydminster, Sask. Four members of one family and two children died when the car crashed into an oil truck. Dead are: Albert Henry Doolittle, Edgerton; Alta., his wife, Vera; seven-year-old son Garry; an infant grandson, Robert, six months; Verna Opperman, 13, and her sister, Lila, 11.

13th Polio Death

TORONTO (CP)—The death of a Toronto resident from polio was reported to the city department of health Wednesday, Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, medical officer of health, announced. He said 80 residents have been victims of the disease and five of them have died. Non-residents have numbered 159 with eight deaths.

Oil Industry Now Looking To Central Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP) — Development of markets for oil already discovered in Saskatchewan and more intensive exploration of the unknown central section of the province are major fields of activity for the oil industry in the coming months.

Oil finds made so far have been in the southeastern and west-central parts of the province. This leaves a wide blank area in the central sector and takes in a wide portion of the Williston Basin underground formation, considered one of the West's most promising.

Now, oil industry sources say more energy will be directed to exploring the middle regions, taking in Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and south to the border.

Most of Saskatchewan's significant oil discoveries have been of the medium and heavy gravity type. The problem now is to prove up the volume and the grade, and to find markets. Another problem is transporting this oil to refineries and market outlets.

HANDLE LIGHT OILS

Saskatchewan refineries at present are not designed for heavy and medium crude oils but rather for the light oils produced in Alberta's Redwater and Leduc fields. The light oils are more widely used for refining into gasoline and other products.

The most significant oil finds in Saskatchewan so far have been along the west border of the province, next to Alberta.

The Lloydminster heavy crude field had been found in the northwest years ago, but the Coleville and Brock finds southwest of Saskatoon were among the first in the new exploration. They were followed by Fosterton, Gull Lake, Amurex and Eastend to the south.

A find was made in southwestern Manitoba, just across Saskatchewan's eastern border. Then energies directed at the eastern side of the province resulted in discoveries at Wapella, Forget, Midale, Ratcliffe and St. Antoine.

Flower Arrangement Described To Club

NORWOOD (ENS)—Meetings of the Speedy Weeders were held at the homes of Dorothy and Leona MacMillan and Barbara and Doris Brown.

Their leader, Mrs. John Knox and guest speaker, Miss Jean Noble, home economist from Bowmanville, spoke on flower arrangements and their achievement day at Mrs. MacMillan's home.

Mrs. MacMillan served lunch.

The 4-H pledge and the Lord's Prayer opened the fifth meeting. Mrs. Knox spoke on the various events open to their club.

Flower arranging was practised and Mrs. Brown served lunch.

Better Than Bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday that families with a proper and decent standard of living constituted a better defence against communism than "any bomb of whatever kind."

Isle Of Man Government Dates Back 938

An island where cats are born with it tails and where the form of government has been changed but once since 938.

Such is the Isle of Man, according to T. R. Radcliffe, editor in chief of the Isle of Man Examiner and certainly one of the greatest boosters his native land coul have.

Mr. Radcliffe is currently on a bit of a busman's holiday which is taking him on a tour of inspection of Canadian and American newspapers after taking in ceremonies in connection with the convention of the North America Manx Association in Cleveland.

He was a representative of the World Manx Association and presented a flag from the world body to the biggest individual association, the N.A.M.A.

In a cursory description of the island, Mr. Radcliffe said that it has a population of about 55,000 persons. Its parliamentary form of government was instituted in 938 and remained unchanged through the years until 1866 when it became elective rather than appointive.

In the same year the self-governing island became the first government to give women voting rights and without having the same furore and the fight for that privilege created in England.

Britain has just one hold on legislation on the island. All bills must be signed by the queen before they become law. Apart from that, the House of Keys (commons) and the Legisaltive Council (Lords) decide the legislative fate of the country.

JOINT SESSION

Annually, the two houses hold joint session at Tynwald Court to ratify bills passed up to that time and handle money bills.

Interesting bits of folklore abound. One has it that people of Scotch descent were once allowed only 48 hours on the island under penalty of having their ears cut off.

At one time, a seduced woman was judge and jury as far as the male culprit was concerned. She decided his fate by choosing a sword, a rope or a ring. The sword cut his head off; the rope was used to hang him or the ring could be used to wed him.

The story goes that one woman chose the rope and then, when her lover was hanging, seized the sword and cut him down. However when she held out the ring in offer of marriage, the man said, "Nothing doing! I've paid one penalty."

Mr. Radcliffe plans a leisurely tour of newspaper plants while making his way back to New York and a September sailing date.

Vessel's Hulk Towed To Port

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—The fire-gutted hulk of the 260-foot Danish freighter Else Basse was towed into St. George's Harbor, Nfld., late Wednesday a few hours after a 22-man crew and a woman passenger arrived in this west coast Newfoundland port on the Canadian paper carrier Corner Brook.

The 1,419-ton vessel, bound from Denmark to the United States, was abandoned Tuesday night 15 miles off Cape Anguille, Nfld., after flames got beyond control.

Capt. P. Jackobsen said the fire started in the engine room.

Sunken Treasure Ship Interests Port Dover

PORT DOVER (CP)—The possibility of a sunken treasure ship near this Lake Erie community, 20 miles south of Brantford, is exciting residents.

Cecil Martin, a fisherman who spotted something on the bottom of the lake off Long Point with a depth recorder, said it may be a ship "but the chances are 99 to one it's nothing worthwhile." He used the recorder in 200 feet of water.

He and other fishermen plan to check the object. Some residents say it is a ship that went down in 1896 and others believe it is loaded with copper and other valuables.

$20,000 Fire Razes Roller Skating Rink

TORONTO (CP)—A $20,000 fire Wednesday destroyed an abandoned roller skating rink on Toronto Island, scorched a nearby dance pavilion and sent flaming debris a quarter of a mile to neighboring Mugg's Island, where small trees and underbrush caught fire near the Toronto Island Yacht Club.

For a time the Hanlan's Point amusement centre was threatened when sparks from the blazing roller rink started a series of small fires among amusement booths. Operators and firemen subdued these small outbreaks.

Man Shot, Wife Held

DETROIT (CP)—A Northville wife Wednesday calmly loaded a rifle in front of her husband while he sipped coffee and then shot him, police said. The husband died a short time later in hospital. Dead is Walter W. Flynn, Sr., 43. Held in connection with the shooting is hi swidow, Katherine, 49. They had been married for 23 years. Police said there had been a series of recent arguments between the two.

BUILDING TRADES SPEAKERS

A large number of construction workers went to the Orange Hall on Wednesday night to hear speakers urge them to form an active building trades council here. It would consist of carpenters, bricklayers, electricians, plumbers, painters, plasterers, concrete men and laborers. Speakers included Jack Kellythorne, Trade and Labor Congress representative; Mr. Woolseley, president of the Toronto Building Trades Council; and Wilfred Holt, business agent of the Central Ontario District Council of Carpenters and Joiners.

NEARING COMPLETION is the new Lily Lake school building (top photo). Built of brick and cement block at an estimated cost of $25,000, the building will replace the old school (bottom photo) which has been in use for some 85 years. Expected attendance this year is about 45, but the new school with its two rooms—the basement room is not expected to be utilized this year—is planned to accommodate future increase in registration.

Beggs To Check On Treatment Of Prisoners

The recent death by suicide of a man held overnight in the city jail has prompted Thomas Cupoli of Local 570 IUE (CIO-CCL) to query what conditions are at the jail.

As it was Mr. Cupoli who brought the subject up the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) have delegated him to see Alderman William Beggs about it. Alderman Beggs will be asked to check on the treatment of prisoners held overnight in the city jail.

"Don't misunderstand me, I'm not being critical of city police," said Mr. Cupoli, who was an aldermanic candidate at the last municipal election. "But according to press reports of the inquest Coroner Dr. Herbert Young suggested that blankets weren't needed in summer. As a doctor, he ought to know better than that.

CAN GET COOL

"It can get pretty cool on some of these nights," said Mr. Cupoli. "I'm interested since I know a young fellow who was in the cells last week and couldn't get a blanket. The police said they couldn't get one—they were out of them . . . I don't know if that was an excuse or not."

(Mr. Cupoli's query arose from an incident that occurred August 7. A 42-year-old man hanged himself with a rope made from torn-up blanket strips while in jail on a drunk charge. The shoe laces and belt of the accused man had been removed as a routine precaution but he used the blanket to form a crude hangman's rope.

(At the inquest into the suicide Dr. Young asked Identification Sgt. William Aggas if blankets were necessary in summer. Sgt. Aggas wouldn't commit himself.)

Deputy Chief John Naples said that there had been no change in police policy with regard to prisoners getting blankets as a result of the suicide.

"It's at the discretion of the officer," he said.

Lily Lake Residents Build New School To Open In Fall

The children of School Section No. 1, Smith township, will attend this year's classes in a new brick and cement block building nearing completion. The new school is situated near the hydro development at Lily Lake, next to the older building which it is replacing and will accommodate some 45 children of that section. It is composed of two classrooms, one of these a basement room which is not expected to be utilized this year.

Total cost is estimated at $25,000. The school will provide the standard curriculum for students from grades one to eight. Teacher will be William Anderson, who taught previously in the old school for three years.

Lily Lake school has been in operation for at least 85 years. Bert Tully recalls his mother retiring as teacher in 1870.

The new school had been a topic of discussion for many years to the people of that section and particularly the SS No. 1 school board. The old school was fast becoming too small to accommodate the increase of children, and it was considered too old for profitable renovation.

The matter of funds was taken up by the schools' trustees, William Steinkrauss, Everett Tully, Arthur Hancock and George Middleton, and a loan was acquired from the township authorities. Ross Greenly, a Peterborough contractor, began construction about the middle of June.

Planned to accommodate a future increase in the number of pupils, the school will provide all the convenienees of any modern school building.

Lipstick Note Leads Party To Lost Women

MARMORA (ENS). — A message scrawled in lipstick and fastened to the branch of a tree was the clue that early Wednesday morning led a search party to two missing Marmora women.

Mrs. George Empery and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill did not return home Tuesday night from blackberry picking in the Mud Lake area of northern Marmora township. Their families became anxious about their safety and Police Chief Gordon Caldwell organized a search party of people who knew the area.

NOTE ON BRANCH

The clue to their whereabouts was a note written in lipstick and fastened to the branch of a tree that had fallen across a pathway in the bush. The note said the two women were lost, needed help, and were sheltering in a cabin.

They were found at 2 a.m. in a deserted cabin, two miles away. They were tired from their day-long wandering in the bush, but were otherwise all right.

A hundred residents are estimated to have helped look for Mrs. Empery and Mrs. O'Neill. In the group that found the two women were George Empery, husband of one of the missing women, and Michael Shannon and Manley Lavender.

Zimmerman Leads $25,000 Open

MONTREAL (CP)—Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., set up the early lead today in the $25,000 Open with a four-under par 66, equalling the course record, to get the first round away to a sizzling start.

Zimmerman, 44-year-old pro, was one of the early finishers. With only a dozen players in, the next best score was 71.

A few minutes later Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., winner of last week's Fort Wayne (Ind.) Open, came in with a 66 to match Zimmerman. Wall had nines of 35-31. He was never over par and his deadly putting on the back nine gave him his three-under-par 31.

Zimmerman shot two under par on each nine with 34-32. His 66 tied the competitive record made 11 years ago by Gerry Proulx of Montreal.

Weather conditions were ideal when the field got away.

Chance Remark Brings Family To Live In City

On the casual remark from a friend who said Peterborough was a fine city, Ted Collins, of 757 Chesterfield Blvd., a native of Venezuela for the past 25 years, arrived here Friday to take up permanent residence with his wife and three daughters.

Mrs. Collins and the three girls, Janet, 18, Pat, 15, and Sally, 12, have been in Peterborough since September.

This is the second time that Mr. Collins has been to Canada and it is his first visit to Peterborough. At the outbreak of the Second World War, he tried to go to Britain to join the Royal Air Force, but was unable to obtain passage. Instead he came to Canada and enlisted in the RCAF in 1942 as a signals officer.

While he was in Canada during the war, Mrs. Collins and their three daughters lived at Ste. Agathe, Que. Janet and Pat stayed on when their parents went back to Venezuela and went to school at St. Helen's in Dunham, Que.

AT CITY SCHOOLS

At present, Pat and Janet are going to PCVS and Sally is in Grade 7 at Queen Alexandra Public School. All three girls are keenly interested in sports and Janet and Pat are already well known in the city for their swimming.

Mr. Collins at present is on leave from the Venezuela Shell Oil Company, where he has been employed for the past 25 years, as a communication engineer. He will be officially retired from the company at the end of the year and plans to start up some type of business in Peterborough.

Mr. Collins was born in Southsea, England, in 1901. He received his secondary schooling at the Portsmouth Technical School. In 1917 he enlisted in the British Merchant Marine and served as a radio operator for four years.

In 1921 he left the Merhant Marine and joined the Royal Corps of Signals and was sent to India and was stationed on the north-west frontier. His most striking recollection of the country was that there were no roads when he was there, and the only means of transportation was on foot or by camel.

He returned to England in 1928 and on his first day home saw an advertisement in one of the London papers by the Shell Oil Company. He answered it and was hired immediately.

The Shell Oil Company sent him to Venezuela in 1928, where he met and married Mrs. Collins, who was a nurse with the same company.

STATIONED IN MARACAIBO

During his stay in Venezuela, Mr. Collins was stationed in Maracaibo, one of the largest cities in Venezuela today, and Caracas, the capital. Following the war he went back with Shell and was sent to Ecuador for five years and returned to Venezuela in 1950, where he has been since.

In comparing Canada to Venezuela, Mr. Collins commented on the fact that the temperature never goes below 80 degrees at night and averages around 92 during the day, compared to the changeable weather of Canada. They have two rainy seasons in Venezuela, one in April and May and the other in October. Storms usually last for about two hours at a stretch and are very heavy.

Mr. Collins explained that since President Gomez's death in 1935, the country has progressed rapidly and has an abundance of oil and iron. It is considered to be the third largest oil producer in the world today.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Collins and their three daughters are quite happy at the prospect of settling in Peterborough and they received their Canadian citizenship in 1948.

Brush With Bruin

Fred Langton of 184 George St. is telling his friends of a brief tug-of-war game he had Tuesday night with a 150-pound bear cub. Fred, who is a pensioner from Canada Packers, was driving from his cottage on Paudash lake to his home in Peterborough. His wife and daughter, Gladys, were with him. Five miles north of Apsley he saw a black bear cub run across the highway and amble along beside a wire fence, apparently looking for an opening so he could get off into the bush. Fred stopped his car and shouted: "Hey! Wait a minute". The bear didn't respond to this unexpected greeting, so Fred went over to him. Frantically the bear lunged into the wire, trying to go through it; but he only succeeded in getting his head caught in one of the wire squares. The whole fence creaked and heaved as he tried to make yards; but he was held fast. Acting on impulse, Fred bent over and grabbed the bear by a rear leg. He pulled on it and the bear heaved right back, trying to free himself. They were getting nowhere when the bear let out a squeal of rage and frustration. Fred prudently decided to let go the hind leg and bruin lost no time in scrambling over the top of the fence and into the bush.

Toronto Youths Plead Guilty To $283 Theft

LINDSAY (ENS) — Three Toronto youths pleaded guilty in police court here to charges of breaking and entering Club Balsam at Rosedale on August 11 and stealing $283 in cash. They also pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a rented truck from a Toronto parking lot at the same time.

Magistrate Gee remanded them for a week in custody for sentence. Hugo Beall, owner of the club, told court that one of his employees had wakened him at his house, near the restaurant, early on the morning of August 12 and informed him that someone was in the building.

Beall said he entered the building after watching two figures go into the kitchen. When he snapped on the kitchen light, he said, two youths were crouched behind a table. One of them, whom he later recognized as Kenneth Walmsley, 19, of Toronto, bolted and was captured by two employees when he went out a window. The other, Gordon Smith, 16, stayed in the kitchen. Beall said Smith emptied his pockets of some $67 in rolled coins before police arrived. These had been taken from two drawers in the restaurant. The cash register, which had not been opened, was in the kitchen where the boys had carried it. Beall said that he was sure he had seen the Smith boy around the restaurant some days before the break-in.

Walmsley was brought into the building when Provincial Constable John Williams arrived. He surrendered a roll of American bills amounting to $216, which had also been taken from a drawer.

The two boys admitted the break-in and theft to Constable Williams when he arrived, he said. They also admitted having stolen a truck owned by Hertz Truck Leases, Toronto, when the Constable questioned them about it.

LOOKOUT CAUGHT

Third member of the trio, John Smith, 18, was caught later that morning by Constable Percy Mark of the town police. He had been acting as the lookout and fled when police arrived. He was picked up in Lindsay when he was found hitch-hiking on the main street. He admitted complicity in the break-in and theft of the truck and was taken to the county gaol.

Toronto police, contacted concerning the truck, confirmed it had been stolen from a hotel parking lot in the east end of the city. Magistrate E. A. Gee, at the request of Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan, QC, remanded the youths for a week for sentence. He then asked them if their parents would be present at that time, but was told by Walmsley that his definitely would not be. The Smith brothers stated they did not know whether their mother would come to the trial.

Helicopter Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas K. Taylor, vice-president of Transworld Airlines, forecast Wednesday that by 1965, helicopters in the U.S. capital alone will be carrying more than 1,500,000 passengers a year. "In terms of commercial use, rotorcraft is still in the stages of infancy," Taylor told a Washington board of trade luncheon.

1952 Municipal Statistics Portray City's Growth In Post-War Period

Increase in Peterborough's Assessment Seen Less Than Adequate To Keep Mill Rate Down, Retire Debts

By PHIL CALDER

Publication of the Department of Municipal Affairs' 19th annual report of municipal statistics for 1952 provides the people of Ontario with the opportunity to compare the cost and efficiency of local government in their own communities with others of comparable size. While the various municipalities are listed in groups according to size in the report, care in interpretation of the figures must be taken for a number of reasons which are not apparent on the surface.

Most important of these is undoubtedly the fact that, while the report provides the figures of the assessed populations of each municipality, these give no indication of the growth of many centres, particularly since the war.

Peterborough in particular has been affected by post-war expansion of industry and population and the cost of providing services to meet this growth has more than doubled the tax rate since 1945, when it was 32.5 mills. By 1952 it had risen to 64.75 mills.

The increase in the total assessment from $27,869,606 in 1945 to $39,889,938 in 1952 has been less than adequate to keep the mill rate down and the retirement of the debenture debt for the huge outlays needed to pay for construction of roads, sewers, schools and other services entailing large capital expenditures has been largely responsible for the increased burden on the individual taxpayer.

TWO QUESTIONS

There are two principal questions therefore to which the report may provide an answer: Has the cost of these inreased services in Peterborough been comparable with cities of approximately the same size? Have the services such as public welfare, institutional care and sanitation suffered at the expense of large capital expenditures in an attempt to keep the tax rate in cities of rapid growth as close as possible to the rate in cities with more stable populations?

For purposes of analysis, the report groups Peterborough with cities of Southern Ontario having an assessed population not greater than approximately 50,000 and not less than 25,000. These, with their assessed populations, are: Kitchener 50,363, Kingston 43,845, Oshawa 41,631, St. Catharines 38,619, Peterborough 38,392, Sarnia 37,840, Brantford 37,295, and Guelph 28,617.

With a total assessed population of 316,242, these eight cities in 1952 had a total assessment of $308,135,467, of which Peterborough shared $39,869,938, with exemptions of government, religious, educational and charitable properties totalling $6,430,390.

Of Peterborough's $39,889,938 total assessment, $34,453,083 was for public school purposes and $4,436,855 was for separate school purposes.

LEVY HIGH

While the cities in the group had a total tax lexy of $20,259,874, Peterborough's share of that was $2,695,148 or $70.20 per capital, compared with the following per capita levy: Kitchener, $71.27; Kingston, $53.32; Oshawa $53.97; St. Catharines, $79.58; Sarhia, $62.81; Brantford, $67.29; Guelph, $50.79, an average of $64.06 for the group.

The following mill rates were struck for public schools: Kitchener 68, Kingston 49.5, Oshawa 47.5, Peterborough 64.75, Sarnia 66.5, Brantford 63, Guelph 71, and for separate schools: Kitchener 68, Kingston 49.5, Oshawa 47.8, Peterborough 67.25, Sarnia 68.69, Brantford 66, and Guelph 71. St. Catharines' mill rates were not made available for publication.

Statistics for debentures were compiled for all the cities of the province rather than being broken down into groups according to population.

The total debenture debt for all Ontario cities last year was $270,384,277. For Peterborough it was $7,100,598 or $184.95 per capita. Some comparable figures for the per capital debenture debt were: Brantford—$59.76; Guelph—$89.94; Kingston — $125.18; Kitchener — $164.15; Oshawa—$120.69; St. Catharines—$78.02; Sarnia $93.35.

While it is apparent that Peterborough citizens shared a comparatively heavy tax burden last year, it can also be deduced that this was the result of an effort, on a large scale, to provide services considered essential to the growing city, including a new hospital, a new collegiate and new schools, a new city hall and a liberal program of paving as well as the provision of essential service such as sewers and utilities to annexed areas.

Did the other services suffer because of these capital expenditures?

If Kitchener and Guelph are excluded from the group, as too large in one case and too small in the other for a fair basis of comparison, a group of six cities, fairly similar in size, is obtained. Some of these have grown rapidly in recent years, while others have fairly stable populations.

LARGEST EXPENDITURES

Of these six, Peterborough made the largest expenditure last year, $3,229,578. Only St. Catharines was larger with $3,709,896. The others were: Kingston $3,096,889, Brantford $2,977,936, Sarnia $2,952,875 and Oshawa $2,813,880.

But Peterborough's surplus of $86,053 was the largest of the group. The others were: St. Catharines $68,504, Brantford $50,629, Kingston $7,876, Oshawa $5,431, Sarnia $2,479.

Yet the cost of general government in Peterborough was the lowest in the group at $173,177. Only Kingston's was lower at $159,084. St. Catharines' was highest at $209,387.

The cost of Peterborough's public works last year, $297,815, was nowhere near Sarnia's, at $353,787 or St. Catharines', $338,072. The lowest was Kingston's, $189,806. Thus, Peterborough, while it spent more than a city of stable population for public works, kept its costs below other cities which have grown rapidly. Moreover, Peterborough's provisions in the matter of public works have been extensive, compared to most other cities its size.

In the matter of welfare services, Peterborough was lowest in the group, spending $21,386 for child welfare, compared to the $49,136 spent by Sarnia, the highest. Peterborough spent $4,720 for institutional care, compared to the $26,878 spent by Brantford.

$54,984 FOR RELIEF

Peterborough spent $54,984 for relief assistance, second only to Sarnia, which spent $59,509. The cost of administering Peterborough's welfare services was $13,270, second highest in the group, but nowhere near Kingston's $53,123.

Life Lit Up

Slot Machine Age Has Arrived In City

The machine age—slot machine, that is—has come to Peterborough and it looks it's here to stay.

What with the original penny weighing machine, the new standard juke box, the more recent pinball machine and the new fangled, honest to goodness rocking horse, you can spend a good deal of time (and money) just putting your nickels and pennies in slots to see what will happen.

In a lunch counter, for instance, you can pick up your cigarettes, have a game of pinball and get four pieces of bubble gum for an outlay of 40 cents, just by putting the right coins in the right slots.

At a grocery store you can stick Junior on a horse, insert a coin, and shop in peace while he rides the range.

GURGLE AND HISS

In theatres one finds a most interesting device in the person of the soft drink vending machine. After inserting your dime, a cup slides down a little ramp to come to rest upright. Gurgling and hissing follows and a stream of pop fills your cup, then stops.

Pay telephones, which are just specialized slot machines, still require only a nickle to spur them into action, and weighing machines, which literally dot the streets are still the cheapest at a penny.

Juke boxes seem to grow bigger and better as time goes on though none yet provides three minutes of dead silence for your nickel. Costing up to $1,500 each, they range from the minute booth models to the elaborate chrome and glass monsters, lit up like the 24th of May.

Pinball machines, an extravagance only certain cities enjoy because of local bylaws, are popular items in Peterborough.

They even vie with juke boxes for making noise and are far more brilliantly lighted. For a nickel one may push and bang to his heart's content for three or four minutes, occasionally to be rewarded with a free game.

NO TILT

Cigarette machines have to be pushed and banged occasionally, too, before they release their 33 cent cargo. But at least they don't tilt.

Probably one of the most popular slot machines is the one found often in hotel beverage rooms. Put a nickel in the slot and two mint flavored, chlorophyll spiced pieces of chewing gum are delivered.

This gum is promised to take your breath away, whether tainted with onions or anything else and has probably saved more than one from a charge of impaired driving.

But by far the most common slot machine, seen on every downtown street and even in a lot, set aside as a sort of slot machine paradise, is the parking meter. It yields fantastic sums at a relatively low initial cost compared to a pinball machine or juke box.

It sells a most unique product: time! And if you don't feel like buying it you may eventually wind up doing it.

Huge Turnover Levy Shrinks

Secret Budget Squeezes Soviet People

By PAUL WOHL

(Written for The Christian Science Monitor)

Upon close examination, the budget report which Finance Minister Andrei Sverev recently presented to the Supreme Soviet under the guise of "business as usual" turns out to be a document full of dramatic implications and sheds much light on what has happened since Stalin's passing in March.

The report also shows the extent to which the Soviet people still are being squeezed, with a huge secret budget hidden behind the official one.

From a speech by A. R. Korniets, seconding the Finance Minister's report, it is evident that the budget commission of the two chambers of the Supreme Soviet met in February. Mr. Korniets is chairman of one of the chambers. Because of the subsequent changes in the government, the ordinary March session of the Supreme Soviet, at which the budget was to be passed, did not take place.

CHANGED RADICALLY

Presumably the original budget had Stalin's approval. However, it followed from Mr. Korniets's speech that between March and August 5 the document was radically changed by the new government.

The original budget, Mr. Korniets disclosed, did not make allowance for the massive price cut of April 1, which cost the government 43,000,000,000 rubles (nominally $10,750,000,000). The ensuing lower proceeds of the turnover tax which, according to the Finance Minister, is to bring this year 20,300,000,000 rubles less than in 1952, also were not anticipated.

The annual loan originally was to yield more than 30,000,000,000 rubles instead of the 15,000,000,000 ruble loan which actually was launched. Mr. Sverev estimated the loss in revenues from this source at 19,600,000,000 rubles.

No provisions were made last February for streamlining of the ministries which did away with a large number of government departments and agencies and, incidentally, is supposed to save some 6,500,000,000 rubles in the current year. Yet Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov solemnly declared at the March 15 session of the Supreme Soviet that the streamlining of the government had been decided upon under Stalin.

SWEEPING CONCESSIONS

In other words, the new government, in order to offset the threatening "panic and disarray" of which it had warned, started off by making sweeping financial concessions which may have increased the purchasing power of the population by as much as 60,000,000,000 rubles. It is unlikely that these concessions were granted for humanitarian reasons. Rather, the new rulers may have felt even less secure than they appeared to be. Otherwise there would have been no concessions of this magnitude.

The big question raised by these measures is from where the Kremlin gets the additional revenues. This question is not wholly new. Each year there has remained an unexplained gap between total revenues and listed resources. Last year, for instance, the origin of 19.1 per cent of the total revenues remained undisclosed—a gap of 97,200,000,000 rubles. This year, unexplained revenues account for 29.9 per cent of the total, or 160,000,000,000 rubles—close to one-third of the entire budget.

References in Mr. Malenkov's report to income "from sources other than the state budget" pointed to the secret existence of an undeclared budget out of which such holes in the ordinary budget are filled. How this secret budget is made up can be only guessed.

75 MILLION RUBLE GAP

The difference between the nominal price the state pays for goods delivered and the retail price recovered from the consumer may yield between 75,000,000,000 and 100,000,000,000 rubles a year. For grain alone the secret profit up to now has been reliably estimated at around 50,000,000,000 rubles.

Large revenues, according to some experts, are derived from the proceeds of forced labor, which accrue to a special fund at the Ministry of the Interior, which, in turn, must figure in the secret ledger.

Other undeclared sources of revenue were referred to in Mr. Malenkov's first major report to the 18th party conference of February, 1941. There, the present Prime Minister, speaking in the capacity of a management engineer, reviewed a number of known abuses and inefficiencies in industry and transportation which every year swallowed up billions of rubles. There are indications that in this respect substantial improvements have been made. They are believed to be only partly reflected in the heavily taxed rising profits of industrial enterprises.

SECRET PROJECTS

Next to nothing is known about the expenditure side of the secret budget. Much of it must go into the war reserve, atomic research, and other large-scale projects which are not made public.

This secret budget, which may amount to nearly one-half of the ordinary one, gives the Kremlin practically a free hand in military and technological developments, which in other countries have to be carefully accounted for.

To some extent this may be true of the ordinary budget, too, though it is officially maintained that approximately three-fourths of it is spent on private civilian consumption. Yet civilian consumption is not what Moscow claims to be. Only last year, Soviet financial expert D. A. Allakhverdyan disclosed in his book, "National Income of the U.S.S.R.", that almost the entire national expenditure for defense and security is paid out of the so-called consumption fund. The official defense budget covers only a small part of these expenditures, namely, the maintenance by the Defense Ministry of the very poorly paid armed forces and their supply at cost. The much more important expenditures for new equipment, arsenals, and so on, have to be covered from other sources.

Allotments for specific expenditures under such circumstances take on a dubious character, and the only solid fact is the enormous revenue which the Kremlin, year by year, squeezes out of the unhappy population.

STIFF TURNOVER TAX

The severity of the Soviet tax system is frequently illustrated by the incredibly high turnover tax, which accounts for 30 to 80 per cent of the retail price and is highest for indispensable mass-consumption items such as salt—70 to 80 per cent in 1950—and relatively low for products purchased by the upper class, such as automobiles (2 per cent) or radio receivers (25 per cent).

The present budget report throws light on another tax about which hitherto relatively little was known—the agricultural income tax, paid by the kolkhoze (collective farm) peasants for their private homesteads. This tax, which was expanded and "refined" during the past 15 years, has been "simplified" and "substantially" reduced. It still is one of the most cruel forms of taxation in the U.S.S.R.

Until now its rate has varied in accordance with the use the peasant made of his land. Now the tax system has been changed. The rate no longer varies with what the peasant grows or raises. Instead, a flat rate will be levied per .01 of a hectar (2½ acres) and back taxes are to be cancelled. This was hailed by Messrs. Zverev and Malenkov as a big alleviation.

While the peasants under the new law certainly will pay less than in the past, the tax still is incredibly high. In Russia proper, a peasant henceforth will have to pay an overage of rubles 88.5 per .01 of a hectar, or 350 ($87.50) rubles an acre, which in any other country would seem exorbitant. Only in this sense can it be said that this year's budget report stood for "business as usual."

ONE HUNDRED YARDS of cleared land and portable canvas hand pumps drawing water from a well combined with human effort to save this settler's home from the wild forest fires raging out of control in the Forestville area 400 miles east of Montreal. Top, the soot-blackened homesteader, Leo Sirois, sits exhausted on the steps of his frame dwelling, half-blinded by the choking smoke that filled the air as he fought a night-long battle to save his simple home.

Dr. Kinsey Reports On American Women

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The new Kinsey report released today finds American women stay young longer than men in sex activity.

The only basic sex difference between men and women is mental or psychological, the book says. Most women aren't aroused as often as men by sights, talk or anticipation of sex.

Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey authorized publication today of the scientific findings in his second book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

It is more than just statistics or candid confessions of what women do. By comparing men and women, it offers keys for happier marriages and sounder sex laws.

Ten per cent of American wives remain frigid, never experiencing a sexual climax. So do 28 per cent of older single women. Yet many such inexperienced women advise youths about sex, or help draft sex laws.

Most women reach a peak of sexual activities about age 27 or 28. Once they reach it—it can be earlier or later than that—they usually maintain a steady level of activity until their 50s or 60s, with little decline from aging.

But most men reach a peak of activity in their late 'teens, then steadily decline with age.

MEN GROW OLD

But the fact is most men are growing old in sexual capacity when their wives are becoming more interested. This difference often leads to marital problems. It's still a mystery why women don't show this aging effect.

Of 33 kinds of psychological arousals toward sex, only three stimulated higher percentages of women than men. These three were seeing romantic movies, reading romantic literature, and being bitten. Men are usually more aroused by nude pictures, thoughts of sex, or other reminders.

Trouble often comes when men expect women to react psychologically as men do. Men often fail to realize that women are more easily distracted from sex by noises or interruptions.

Women show greater extremes in sex than do men.

Females do not develop earlier sexually than males. It is a mystery why adolescent girls are slower than boys to develop in sexual responsiveness.

Fifteen years in preparation, the 842-page book will be published Sept. 14.

More readable than the male book published five years ago, the new report is by all 14 members of the staff of the Institute for Sex Research, Inc., at Indiana University. Main co-authors with Dr. Kinsey are Drs. Wardell B. Pomeroy, Clyde E. Martin and Paul H. Gebhard. All profits from the book go to the institute.

Other findings:

The degree of school education has less effect on sex behavior of women than men.

Fewer women than men are homosexuals. Better-educated women are more likely to be homosexual. Giving hormones to homosexuals does not make them less homosexual.

MOST ENJOY SEX

It is untrue and harmful to many women to say that most women do not enjoy sex.

The report draws on interviews with 5,940 females of various religions, education and occupations.

It also draws upon the institute's 16,000-volume sex library, upon studies by anthropologists, gynecologists, psychiatrists and other experts, upon analysis of sex laws, sex life in other countries, sex life of animals, and individuals' sex diaries and calendars.

Five special chapters tell the up-to-date story of the anatomy, physiology, psychology, nerve mechanisms and hormone influences in sex.

Despite its title, Dr. Kinsey says the book does not pretend to report sex behavior of all American women, much less women throughout the world.

It excludes Negro women because not enough had been interviewed. It has some limitations in geographical representation, but Dr. Kinsey says the findings are probably typical of many American females.

The purpose—as with other studies—is to learn scientific facts about a field of human activity long beclouded by ignorance, Dr. Kinsey explains. He holds that before sexual behavior can be understood, or any phases of it more intelligently controlled, it must first be learned what people actually do.

Marriage: "Men will never learn to get along better with women, or women with men, until each understands the other as they are, and not as they hope or imagine them to be."

About two-thirds of marriages at some time run into trouble over sex. Sex factors were among causes of 75 per cent of divorces in these case histories.

ALL ABOUT EVE—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, white-shirted and busy, looks up for a moment from desk work at the Institute for Sex Research at Indiana University in Bloomington. He is finishing up final phases of the manuscript for his new book: "Sexual Behaviour in the Human Female." Surrounding him are members of his staff.

Shrine Damaged

ANKARA (CP) — The Selimiye Mosque, one of the world's six greatest religious edifices, has been extensively damaged by recent earthquake tremors. It is estimated that it will take three years to repair cracks in the dome of the structure which was built in 1575.

Price Maintenance Benefits Consumer, Retailer Official Says

WINNIPEG (CP)—Maurice Mermey, director of the Bureau of Education on Fair Trade, an American trade organization, said today it is to the benefit of consumers and of small business for producers to have the right to name the price at which their products should be sold.

Addressing the annual convention of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, Mr. Mermey said he was not suggesting what Canadian laws should be, but was relating the experience of the United States. (Canadian legislation enacted last year forbids producers to name retail prices).

Referring to retailers who offer "loss-leaders," he said:

"The price-juggling merchant offers popular brands as bait bargains to make customers think everything he sells is a bargain. He traps customers into buying other items at hidden high prices which more than cover his losses on the bait bargains.

CAN'T HELP HIMSELF

"The small retailer can't help himself when the price-juggler puts the squeeze on him, but the big retailer can and does. He will match the bait juggler's prices and even drive them down further. The inevitable price war starts, and the small retailer is between the devil and the deep blue sea."

Mr. Mermey said United States court decisions to date have largely upheld "fair trade" practices and the American customer has consistently bought more and more "fair-traded" products. He said the consumer is the "real price boss."

"The manufacturer must make his price right, fair trade or no fair trade. If he guesses wrong, he loses his market.

"The facts of life in retailing are simply that every store has an over-all gross margin which it needs to cover operating costs and make a profit. This applies even to super markets.

"If they sell some products at prices below their over-all gross margin, they must sell other products at prices above their over-all margin. . . .

"The consumer provides the true, economic, free enterprise, over-the-counter test of the reasonableness of all prices, in terms of what she buys and what she refuses to buy."

Mr. Mermey said research has found that "customers paid less, over-all, under fair trade for leading national brands than consumers paid for the very same brands in areas without fair trade where the price-jugglers could change what they pleased. They did charge what they pleased. They charged more."

Romance Found In Names Of Streets And Places

A country so rich in the poetry of place names — from Heart's Delight to Happy Hollow, from Tatamagouche to Tangleflags — has become prosaic in the naming of new streets, relates the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Street names are not an unimportant aspect of community planning. They provide an historical record of the way in which communities have grown and they attach to themselves many memories and affections.

VARIED ORIGINS

Many Canadian cities have their streets by which to declare the loyalty of their founders; heroic episodes of more recent years are memorialized in many a Vimy avenue, a Churchill street and a Montgomery boulevard. Even some Canadian heroes such as engineers, surveyors and realtors have won a place in our catalogue of street names.

Those streets which are known only by a number (Fourth avenue, Tenth street) reflect the period of the girdiron city plan. Some cities have even toyed with the idea that a system of decimal numbers (or is it logarithums?) could be used to identify every street and house number in the region.

So for a time the machine age appeared to have submerged the art of toponymy. But now community planners are trying to release us from living in a totalitarian card-index system; a quiet side street, an unexpected cul-de-sac and a gentle curve in the street plan seem to offer more attractive settings for domestic architecture. So the quest for suitable street names is still with us.

SOME INSPIRATION

Perhaps some inspiration can be derived from the older provinces of Canada where our forefathers had a remarkable flair for fitting and colorful place names.

In Newfoundland, for instance, we find the following: Come by Chance, Coachman's Cove, Coomb's Cove, Deep Bight, Doating Cove, Heart's Content, Heart's Desire, Hooping Harbor, Horse Chops, Isle aux Morts, Joe Batts Arm, Lamaline, La Poile, Leading Tickles, Lushes Bight, Nippers Harbour, Old Port aux Choix, Pouch Cove, Presque, Rattling Brook, Petit Forte, St. Jones Within, St. Shotts, etc. Here are names that make pleasant sounds.

Old Quebec also abounds in names that have a "joie de vivre"; L'Abord a Plouffe(Plouff's Landing), St. Jean Port Joli(the lovely port), Les Eboulements (the tumble down), Barachois (do you hear the pebbles rolling in the combers?). La Malbaie (evil bay), Cloridorme, Point au Pere (father point), Trois Pistoles (three ducats, (La Descente des Femmes (the coming down of the women), L'Anse Pleureuse (weeping cove), Le Manche d'Epee (sword handle), Les Petites Bergeronnes (the little shepherdesses), etc.

ENGLISH MIXTURE

Then there are the names which incorporate the English title of the County; St. Elie de Caxton, Ste. Cecile de Masham and the fantastic Sacre Coeur de Jesus de Blossom Hill Mill!

A street name becomes important to those who gather around it associations of childhood and neighbors. Perhaps we are premature in attaching names to the streets of a new subdivision as some index number could be used until each street has gathered life and incident to itself. Then the people of the neighborhood could choose their own street names recalling the local history, personalities and events of their settlement, as their forefathers had done.

WORK MOVES ALONG — Monaghan Road, between Albert St. and Sherbrooke St., is gradually being prepared for its new facelifting job. For several weeks workmen have been ripping out the old road and preparing a new road bed. Workers today were building cement forms (above) for the curbs as the road awaits gravelling, grading, priming and paving which will be done soon. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Dr. F. Robertson Increases Edge In Official Count

COBOURG (Special)—Dr. Fred G. Robertson incressed his plurality by 15 votes over his nearest rival in the August 10 general election as a result of Wednesday's official count of ballots in Northumberland riding.

The official result, announced by District Returning Officer Gordon Rutherford, of Colborne, is as follows:

Armstrong (CCF)	442
Robertson (Lib.)	9,595
Taylor (PC)	7,623

These totals include the results of the Armed Forces vote as follows:

Armstrong	7
Robertson	73
Taylor	30

The official total votes for the riding, exclusive of the Armed Forces vote, was 17,550, which is 67 votes fewer than were reported election night. The official total, including the Armed Forces vote, is 17,660.

INCREASE VOTE

CCF candidate Frank Armstrong's vote was increased by six votes and Progressive Conservative candidate Olley Taylor's by 11 votes as a restult of the official count.

Dr. Armstrong's plurality of 1,972 was 1,120 greater than the majority he obtained in the 1949 general election when, running as a candidate for the first time, he defeated Major R. E. Drope, the Progressive Conservative candidate, by 9,374 to 8,522 in a straight two-way fight. Major Drope had held the seat for four years previously.

Ontario Reformatory Has Staff Turnover Of 107 Men

GUELPH (CP)—The Ontario reformatory here has had a staff turnover of 107 men during the last year, the legislature's select committee studying reform institutions learned Wednesday.

Paying a surprise visit to the prison, committee members were told that reasons for the large turnover are higher wages in private industry and a lack of housing in Guelph.

Superintendent Gerald Wright said there have been so many changes that most of the present staff have had less than six months experience and the average for the whole staff is 12 months.

In spite of salary increases granted after the riot in June, 1952, Mr. Wright said, salaries are still the major factor in staff turnover. Lack of housing had become an insurmountable obstacle "and there's little we can do about houses without interfering with private industry."

COMPARE FAVORABLY

Reforms Minister Foote said salaries compare favorably with those paid in federal institutions and guards also can get laundry and board and lodging for $34 a month. Those living out wishing to eat in can buy seven meals a week for $9 a month.

The committee stood in silence for two minutes to mark the 11th anniversary of the Dieppe action. Maj. Foote won the Victoria Cross at Dieppe when, as a padre with the Royal Regiment of Canada, he remained with his men and was taken prisoner by the Germans.

Injured Farmer Unnoticed Near Tractor

HAMILTON (CP) — Wilfred Worthington, 57-year-old Dundas farmer, lay fatally injured near his tractor Wednesday, unnoticed by another tractor operator nearby.

Another farmer discovered Worthington's plight after seeing the driverless tractor lodged against a fence.

Provincial police said they believe Worthington fell asleep at the controls of his tractor while disking a large field beside Highway 5 near Greensville. He toppled from the seat and was severely cut about the head, neck and body by the sharp disks. He died later in hospital.

Press Council Seen A Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Britain's newly-formed Press Council is a threat to freedom of the press, Beverley Baxter, Canadian - born British Journalist and member of the British Parliament, said in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Baxter said the council "was inspired by Herbert Morrison to scare the press," which had been severely critical of the Labor party of which Morrison was foreign secretary while Labor was in office.

The council was formed after Parliamentary approval and a royal commission into British journalism and is made up of representatives of all fields of newspaper work. They are to act as a self-critical body to improve journalistic standards.

Mr. Baxter said he would "rather have a bad press free, than a good press not free."

Lucky Clover

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twelve-year-old Larry Karp claims to be more than twice as lucky as people who find four-leaf clovers. He says that while playing in his back yard, he discovered one with nine leaves, "and all on one stem."

Kennedy Requests Recount Of Votes

EDMONTON (CP) — Orvis A. Kennedy, national organizer of the Social Credit party and unsuccessful party candidate in Edmonton-Strathcona in the Aug. 10 federal election, will ask for a recount, it was reported Wednesday. The application must be made within four days of the official count.

Final count announced Tuesday gave Ald. R. F. L. Hanna, Liberal candidate, a majority of 174 votes over Mr. Kennedy.

Break-in Artist Pleads Guilty

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A self-styled 27-year-old "break-in artist" pleaded guilty Wednesday to a series of house break-ins and thefts which occurred here in July, 1951.

Jack Rumble of Guelph and formerly of Windsor, returned to this city recently to attend the funeral of his mother. Following the burial Tuesday, Rumble was arrested.

He pleaded guilty to three house break-ins and thefts and a charge of uttering a forged document. He was remanded to Aug. 27 for sentence.

Bright Pupils Prove Problem

KINGSTON (CP)—An Ontario educationist said Wednesday the problem of training retarded children has been solved but a greater one remains in finding ways to educate especially bright youngsters.

Addressing 75 teachers and principals attending the first of a series of new summer courses in school administration, Col. S. A. Watson, assistant supervisor of elementary schools for Ontario, said:

"The greatest problems our schools face is to provide for the so-called best brains—the people who have the highest IQ's. It can't be done within the confines of our rigid graded system:"

About 1,500 new teachers may be needed in Ontario each year for an indefinite period, Col. Watson said. About 1,500 new classrooms were opened or built last year and teachers were needed for them.

ARCTIC STEAK

Meat of the minke whale is sold as "Arctic steak" for human consumption, and is also used for mink and fox food.

Korean War Fourth Bloodiest In History

WASHINGTON (AP)—A preliminary Korean war battle casualty total of 142,277 Americans was announced Wednesday, making it the fourth bloodiest conflict in U. S. history.

Only the First and Second World Wars and the Civil War produced a greater toll.

The defence department said the Korean war casualties included 22,731 killed in action, 105,961 wounded and 13,585 missing.

Controllers Have Pink Faces

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — If the faces of Windsor's controllers were a little pink today nobody could blame them.

About a month ago Harold C. Beckett, Windsor architect, was authorized by the board to prepare a plan for landscaping the Detroit river-front park site and parking area which is to be part of a new civic auditorium.

Mr. Beckett prepared elaborate plans for consideration at a special city council meeting next month.

The board of control received a letter Wednesday from Town Planning Consultants Limited saying that it had been granted a contract to do the same work last February.

The controllers, however, didn't appear to be greatly worried. They simply passed the buck to city council and referred the letter from the planning firm to the same council meeting at which Mr. Beckett is to present his plans.

Captain Pays Fine Of $200

SARNIA (CP)—The captain of the French freighter Marquette paid a $200 fine Wednesday for having contraband liquor aboard, RCMP said Wednesday. The vessel immediately left port.

The ship docked here Sunday. Seven RCMP officers went aboard the same day and seized the liquor which they said had not been declared when the vessel entered Canadian waters.

The Marquette, owned by the Fabre line and operated by the Hamburg-Chicago line in service between Great Lakes and Mediterranean ports, was held under seizure order until Tuesday when the fine was paid.

Armed Men Escort Irishmen To Jail

BISHOP'S STORTFORD, Eng. (Reuters)—Five armed Scotland Yard detectives Wednesday escorted three Irishmen 30 miles to a London jail to await trial for allegedly stealing $2,143 worth of arms for the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Prosecutor M. J. Jardine said at a preliminary hearing here that the men confessed to IRA membership and "capturing guns from the enemy" from an army cadet school near here. They were intended for underground IRA units in Ireland, he said.

The three men are Cathal Goulding, 31, a painter, Manus Canning, 27, also a painter, and Sean Stephenson, 25, a railroad worker.

Dead Man's Brother Located By Police

STRATFORD (CP)—Police said they have found Albert Fitzpatrick whose brother Joseph was killed Wednesday when their truck overturned on a sideroad near St. Marys.

Officers began to look for Albert because they said the two brothers usually worked together selling meat from the truck and believed Albert might have been in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

Police said the brothers separated Tuesday after delivering meat and Albert went to his parents' home, where he was found some time after the accident.

Housewives, Children Hold Up Rail Line

DETROIT (AP)—There will be no working on the railroad all the live-long day, at least for a while.

Irate housewives and their children rallied Tuesday to derail plans for a spur line from the Chesapeake and Ohio right-of-way. Residents of Memorial avenue objected that the spur would run across a 250-foot strip of their street which is zoned residential by the city.

The workmen were stopped when residents staged a sit-down strike on the property being cleared for the spur.

The railroad was ordered to cease work pending disposition of the case.

Reach Agreement In Dispute

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Agreement was reached Wednesday night in a dispute between the English Electric Company of Canada and union painters.

Earlier in the day the 500 plant employees, including some office workers and draftsmen, refused to cross picket lines set up by local 407 of the United Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers (AFL).

The dispute arose when the company engaged a contractor who employed non-union painters at rates the union said were lower than the union scale.

The union had picket lines at the plant Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday. It said the 30 non-union painters to whom it objected were brought in from Welland.

The painters withdrew their pickets, allowing the night shift to go to work Wednesday night.

Terms of the settlement were not announced.

Rattler Colony

GRASSY LAKE, Alta. (CP)—Four youths found a colony of rattlesnakes on a river bank near this southern Alberta town. In less than an hour they killed 17, several of which were four feet long.

PRAYING FOR RAIN—Msgr. Napoleon Labrie, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, leads Indian parishioners on the Bersimis reservation in prayers for rain to end the huge bush fire that has ravaged 165 square miles of timber north of the pulp and paper centre of Forestville on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, 200 miles east of Quebec City. Two villages, Ste. Therese du Colombier and Canton Latour, are directly in the path of the blaze burning since August 7.

Dartmouth Buds As Residential Beauty Spot

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Dartmouth, the town with a future, is fast becoming the "bedroom" of Halifax.

Town boosters say that this budding out as a residential beauty spot is partly because of lack of building lots in Halifax, built on a peninsula with no place to expand. And, of course, they claim that people just like to live in Dartmouth, across the harbor from Halifax.

Some say that with completion of the Halifax-Dartmouth harbor bridge the town should expand rapidly, possibly to city size within a decade or so.

RECORD CONSTRUCTION

Construction already is at an all-time high in the town, possibly twice that of an average year.

A multi-million dollar apartment development is under way and two others planned. Throughout the town scores of new private residences are going up.

Building experts note most of the dwellings are of the one-family type, and say the town is developing into one of the best-ordered residential areas in the province.

Building permits for 1951 totalled $949,000 and last year climbed to $1,153,000. So far this year the total is $2,000,000 and still climbing.

Dartmouth was first settled in 1751, ad the pioneers often suffered Indian raids. After its incorporation as a town in 1873, however, its growth was rapid and now it is a busy manufacturing centre.

Describes Experience In Caravan Mission

NORWOOD (ENS)—The address at Christ Church Sunday evening was delivered by the president of the Parish Guild, Mrs. H. Mainland, who recently returned from northern Saskatchewan, where she worked with the Anglican Sunday School Caravan Mission.

She told the congregation of the work done by the volunteer women who run the caravan during the summer months each year, visiting Anglican families who live outside parish boundaries. These women list children for Sunday School by post lessons, conduct vacation Bible schools, and take occasional church services.

Mrs. Mainland and her drivers, one an English girl and one from British Columbia, travelled about 1,250 miles, made some 250 visits and enrolled 54 new families in the largest Sunday School by post in the world, with over 6,000 pupils in Saskatchewan diocese.

Mrs. Mainland visited one of the churches where gifts from Christ Church, Norwood, have been sent. She expressed the hope that other women of the church would undertake this work, so that Belmont parish might staff one or two vans next year with teacher and driver.

Provide Grazing For 100,000 Cattle

REGINA (CP)—Community pastures of the Prairie farm rehabilitation administration in Saskatchewan and Manitoba handled 90,000 cattle belonging to 6,000 owners in 1952, and now are providing grazing for 100,000 cattle.

Raymond Youngman, PFRA program superintendent, says there are 61 community pastures—56 in Saskatchewan and five in Manitoba—with a total area of approximately 1,750,000 acres.

It was not unusual in the early days for several farmers to band together and "trail" their cattle to the pastures. Now most animals are moved by truck and "some patrons even think now that we should provide a pickup and delivery service," says Mr. Youngman.

Top Secret Report Given To Eisenhower On Red Bomb

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower was back at the Summer White House today with a top secret report on how the United States learned about Soviet Union tests indicating Russia may have the hydrogen bomb.

Eisenhower had no comment on the Moscow newspaper Pravda's statement in today's issue that Russia recently touched off a hydrogen bomb explosion.

And presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told newspapermen there would be no elaboration here on the atomic energy commission's follow-up announcement in Washington that the Soviet conducted tests Aug. 12—which, on the basis of the commission's information, involved "both fission and thermonuclear reactions."

Fission means atomic tests while thermonuclear is the technical term for hydrogen bomb activity.

RETURNS BY PLANE

Eisenhower returned to his vacation headquarters here by plane Wednesday night from New York.

When he arrived in New York Wednesday morning, the president had an unscheduled breakfast conference with Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the atomic energy commission, and C. D. Jackson, White House adviser on psychological warfare.

Those two officials apparently amplified information which almost certainly had been furnished to Eisenhower here Aug. 12, the day the Soviet tests took place.

The atomic energy commission statement by Strauss said this government obtained information about the tests the day they occurred.

Will Renovate Millbrook United Church

MILLBROOK (ENS) — The board of St. Andrew's United Church has decided to proceed with plans for renovating the church building at once.

The plan includes installation of a new oil heating system, decorating the church auditorium, rewiring the building, installation of a water system, laying a cement floor in the Sunday school hall, and re-arrangement of the hall with the platform at the north end instead of at the side as at present. It was felt this would accommodate a larger audience at concerts and entertainments, as well as for regular Sunday school sessions.

Redecoration of the auditorium and installation of oil heating system will begin at once.

The tender for decorating the auditorium was given to A. W. R. MacDougall, of Toronto, who has been doing churches in Peterborough. The tender for the heating system was given to a local firm, W. A. Reid, the work to be completed by October.

Contract specifications for rewiring had to be changed, but it is expected it will be let in a few days.

It was decided to accept the offer of the choir to provide a new beginners' room from proceeds of the operetta "The Belle of Barcelona."

DOROTHY DIX:

Wife With Dying Husband Succumbs To Loneliness

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 38 years old, quite attractive, have a 19-year-old son in college, and a wonderful husband. About two years ago my husband was taken ill with an incurable disease and was given not more than two or three years to live. About a year ago, while taking care of my husband's business, I met a man and, since I was so lonely for companionship, became attracted to him and we fell in love. Now I find I am to have his child, and he demands that either I tell my husband I want a divorce to marry him, or he will tell him himself. I'm afraid the shock will kill my husband.

ESTHER S.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHAMELESS GIGOLO

ANSWER: When I consider all the wives I know who have nursed sick husbands through long, back-breaking years of illness, mos of it much worse than has fallen to your lot, it is a bit sickening to realize how easily some women can forget the years of devotion from a good man. To them, marriage is fine as long as it consists of the "better" and "in health." Comes adversity, illness, and need for care, and the "worse" as well as the "sickness" part of the marriage vow fly out the window.

Duty is an irksome thing, it's true, but without it there would be no family life at all, no marriage, in fact, we wouldn't even have a country. It didn't take you very long to turn your back on an invalid husband to find a healthy sweetheart, whose chief concern seems to be feathering his own nest. You admit to buying him clothes and paying part of his apartment rent. You have a share in a good business to bring as a dowry, yet you ascribe his feeling toward you as true love! Aren't you naive? Your future with him will be anything but pleasant.

Your husband, apparently, (and fortunately, for him), isn't entirely dependent upon you for physical care, else you wouldn't have had the time for another man. Since there's no way he can be kept from knowing of your infidelity, I do hope you leave him in good hands. You certainly have failed miserably in meeting one crisis, perhaps you'll do better with the ones that await you in the future.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady for over two years with a man of 35, three years older than I. We are both single. A month ago, I had business out of town for a week and while I was away he took one of the girls in the office to a dance (not an important affair). I heard of it by accident and my pride has been so hurt I feel I should discontinue the friendship. My friend, when confronted with the evidence, said he did it on an impulse, didn't tell me because he knew I'd be upset, and has no desire to break off with me.

LILA A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend's explanation sounds logical enough and, if you have nothing further against him, I would advise against breaking up your friendship. His conduct emphasizes the need of two people to have perfect confidence in each other; he evidently was quite certain that you would be jealous, hence his immediate reaction to withhold an unpleasant truth from you. Were he equally sure of your trust, the incident might have passed off entirely. He doesn't sound like either a chronic philanderer or a confirmed liar.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is loneliness a sign of love? What I mean is, when my boy friend is gone a few days I cry all the time from loneliness.

SAD AND BLUE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Loneliness by itself is anything but a positive test of love. While it is natural to miss someone we love, the feeling can be met and handled in a much better manner than with tears. The sort of loneliness you feel may mean that you have not developed other friendships to a point where they can satisfactorily occupy your time. Neither have you developed your inner resources sufficiently. Both these processes are part of growing up, and should not be neglected.

Tomato-Cheese Macaroni Dish

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
½ cup milk
2 cups shredded sharp Canadian cheese
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
4 cups cooked macaroni (2 cups uncooked)
2 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs, if desired

Heat soup, milk and 1½ cups cheese over low heat; when cheese melts, add parsley. Blend with macaroni; pour into a buttered 2-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese and buttered bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 deg. F.). 6 servings.

Unusual Fabrics

PARIS — the rare redingotes which are suggested for autumn include some unusual fabrics, patterned with zebra stripes, tortoiseshell scales, and designs inspired by watermarking, usually in gray or white or black and white. There are many novely silks for winter, brocades and certain prints inspired by similar designs. These are marbled or mottled and an important group features effects of marquetry of inlaid woodwork, as well as wood graining.

PROTECT YOUR PEARLS

Jewelry requires special care, especially pearls, which can be damaged by perspiration, grease or heat. Therefore, pearls should be kept in a separate case and restrung every four months with knots between each pearl.

KEEPS PAINT OFF HANDS

When painting small items, such as flower pots, a tin can serves as a perfect holder, and you won't get any paint on your hands, either.

St. Andrew's WMS Meets

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church held a very happy and well-attended meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Hawley, Charlotte Street. Theme was "The Christian Home," and president Mrs. A. A. Munro read a meditation which said in part, "In the Christian home we are understood and we sense the bounty and care of God's love. Shabbiness or luxury have little to do with the real spirit of the place. The home is merely the setting for the life going on in it." Mrs. T. Tremain announced the title of the new study books, "Where'er the Sun" and "That the World May Know," both of which deal with a world view of missionary work. She was instructed to buy the study books and two supplementary reading books. Mr. Adam Hawley entertained the ladies with two solos, "Guard While I Sleep" and "My Task," and was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Cotton. Miss Margaret Ferguson read a letter from Mrs. A. Porteous and Miss Moir. Mrs. E. F. Reid's group was responsible for the worship service, program and the serving of refreshments. Miss E. Preston read the 91st Psalm. A description of the Rotary Crippled Children's Camp near London was given by Mrs. Munro who had visited there this summer. The vote of thanks to the hostess was voiced by Mrs. Tremain at the conclusion of the evening.

40 Girls Enter CGIT Camp

Forty girls between 12 and 15 years of age take over the Camp Kawartha on Clear Lake for ten days today. This is the annual CGIT camp, but it is also open to interested girls of this age group.

The camp is in charge of Miss Marion Brown of Peterborough and a staff of seven assistant directors, a cook, a nurse and a business manager and assistant. (See picture on this page.)

One of the assistant directors is Miss Rebecca Varkey from Travencore, South India, who is loaned to the camp by the Women's Missionary Society. She has been in Canada for a year, attending the United Church Training School in Toronto last winter, and this summer she has been at camps in British Columbia and Alberta.

Miss Varkey will be in charge of the world fellowship study and will have periods each day following the Bible study. Balance of the day will be divided between the water activities, including Red Cross Water Safety work for certificates, and interest groups on photography, camp craft, story-telling, music appreciation and land sports. Of course the girls will have camp fires and a variety of stunt nights in the evenings.

Object of the Canadian Girls in Training movement in all endeavors, and furthered by camping, is to promote fuller living in a four-fold Christian life.

Registrations and arrangements for the camp have been handled by Mrs. Cyril Crowe, camp chairman of the Peterborough Work Board which is headed by Mrs. A. E. DeNure. The campers were taken to their destination by a bus which left the YWCA at one o'clock today.

Peterborough girls attending are Linda Payne, Donna Leonard, Sandra Bickell, Vicki Willamette, Barbara Bonney, Velma Hendren, Gail Fell, Pat McNeely, Marjorie and Geraldine Vinette, Beverley Burns, Jean Hunter, Beverley Bacon, Diane Elliott, Ruth Peryer, Donna Blewett, Marjorie Lawrence, Gail Braithwaite, Josephine Bleakley, Carol Douglas, Edna Wall and Vivien Passmore.

The district girls are Iola Peters from Lakefield; Betty Eason and Marilyn Elmhirst from Keene; Della Boudreau and Carol Harden from Cobourg, Mary McCorvie, Donna Teel and Dorothy Dawson from Oakwood; Carol Calvert, Joan Davy, Barbara Hart, Marjorie Finlay, and Nancy Parker from Lindsay; Barbara and Lois Seward from Millbrook; Carley Brown from Norwood; Shirley Reynolds and Beverley Alphey from Apsley.

'Hatty Hat' Theme

NEW YORK—Mr. John P. John looks to Europe for inspiration and designates his fall 1953 collection "Romance in Venice." He plays lightly with a theme of "the hatty hat." In his collection is all the pageantry and luminous color of this shimmering, wonder city.

His "Venetian Travelers" are soft, packable travel hats in Italian velvet and Venetian Vicuna to match textured wool coats. He uses wool plaids and velours in classic Venetian silhouettes for his "Canaletto Casuals," features "Piazza Pillboxes" and Boldini Bonnets" in Florian felts, and cashmere shags in his "Strolling Suiters" category.

Veronese silks and velvets trimmed provocatively with gleaming jewels and ostrich, make up "Venetian Nights" for theatre and evening hats.

CHALK OUTLINE OF KNITTED WEAR

Cover the top of a discarded card table with plastic screening. Spread your knits on it before they're washed, and trace their outline with chalk. Then, when the rinsed sweater or other article is ready for drying, just lay it on the screen, smooth it out to fit the chalk-drawn outline, and leave it to dry.

Knit garments should be laid to dry. Having a table prepared for the job saves work and clutter; besides, the screen mesh allows both sides to dry at once.

NEED AN EXTRA ROOM?

Canadian Ballet In U.S. Debut

By MARGARET LLOYD

LEE, Mass. — Canadian ballet put one of its best toe shoes forward when the National Ballet Company of Canada made its bow to the U.S. at Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival this summer. The audiences that filled the famous Barn Theatre during the eight-performance engagement were highly appreciative of the tasteful presentations and the skilled and attractive young dancers.

The company, reduced in size for its first American visit, met the test of the classics in excerpts and condensations. But the programs were not without novelty. A Pas de Deux from the first act of "Giselle," which is seldom included in a full-length production, or performed out of context, was practically brand new.

It is a peasant duo (by a village youth and maiden, friends of Giselle), interpolated sometime in the long history of the centenarion ballet for reasons unknown through not unguessable. The music is not by Adolphe Adam, but by Burgmuller; and the choreography is credited to Perrot as well as to Coralli. As delightfully danced by Lois Smith and David Adams, it makes a refreshing interlude.

DELICACY AND CHARM

The company gives an endearing "Lilac Garden"—one of great delicacy and charm. The coiled tension, that we in the United States have come to expect, is missing. But the secret heartbreak behind the furtive gesture, the lifts that are like sudden, stifled outcries, the momentary meetings and partings covering emotion with manners—are all there.

The poised Miss Smith is a discreetly glowing Caroline, with Mr. Adams rather more pallid in restraint as the lover from whom she is to be separated. James Ronaldson, wearing an iron-gray mustache along with the stiff frock coat, looks distinguished as The Man She Must Marry—and that is about all he has to do. Celia Franca deftly handles the nuances of The Woman in His Past, while the Friends and Relations hide their curiosity in polite behavior and lyric grace.

Miss Franca, the artistic director of the company, was seen only in this role. Her choreography was sampled in her own adaptation of "The Afternoon of a Faun," with Grant Strate, a handsome mythical creature, and seven personable young women, the nymphs. The scarf has become a stole, large enough for them all to weave into the action. The ballet has become an innocent idyl, a pastel reverie. It is pleasing enough of pattern, but less than forceful of impact.

FLAMBOYANT STYLE

Force, dash and speed were exhibited in the showy "Don Quixote" Pas de Deux, danced by Irene Apine and Jury Gotshalks in their European style—which, streaking across the prevailing British calm, seems conspicuously flamboyant. It is also a little mechanical as to execution, a little set as to smile. In quieter vein the pair did the Grand Pas de Deux from "The Nutcracker"—an arrangement of the second act divertissement whose character dances were no more trying than usual.

Mr. Gotshalks is a good partner, strong in support, always giving precedence to the ballerina. But he needs to refine his technique (which is just now not too tidy) and tone down his style to tone in with the company.

Miss Apine is swift and volatile, a neat technician, a pert soubrette. She makes a captivating Swanilda in the re-arranged second act of "Coppelia," if one is in a mood to accept the coyness inherent in the role or stamped by usage upon it.

Here the pantomime, following English custom, stretches into lengths of recitative. Mr. Strate's Dr. Coppelius and Earl Kraul's Frantz are outline interpretations for future development. The automatons danced as well as they ever do.

The costumes for "Coppelia" and "Nutcracker," for "Lilac Garden" and "Afternoon of a Faun," designed by artist-author Kay Ambrose, are agreeable variants of the standard fashions for these works.

With decors built for traveling light, and music supplied by two pianists (for the Chausson "Poeme" of "Lilac Garden" a violin soloist was added), with the curtailed company and capsule classics, it was mainly miniature ballet (with an English accent) that represented Canada at Jacob's Pillow. And it was not very different from any small, well-trained American company, either.

The dancers of North America have the same interracial background, the same heritage of mixed traditions and influences, the same basic repertory to draw upon.

Ask Aid In Educating Girls In Undeveloped Areas

TORONTO (CP)—Teach a young farm woman to read and write and you've taken a long step toward improving her community in an underdeveloped part of the world.

That's the view taken by the triennial meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World which Wednesday adopted a resolution urging UNESCO to increase its help toward providing basic education for rural girls in such areas.

The resolution, introduced by representatives of the National Home Demonstration Council of the United States, said two-thirds of the people of the world are rural and half are illiterate.

"Illiteracy is a barrier to balancing food and people," it said. "And educating a woman tends to educate a family."

Mrs. Matilda Greiss of Cairo, Egypt, said that in the last 15 years there has been a movement toward increased education of farmers in her country. She said that in recent years UNESCO has helped with economic, civil, social, recreational and cultural programs.

The conference reaffirmed its support of the objectives of the United Nations and urged that the UN effort be increasingly used to provide technical assistance, particularly in dealing with underdeveloped countries.

Another resolution proposed that ACWW essay contests, until now confined to home conditions of members, be broadened under the general theme of what the organization is doing to contribute to contribute to world peace.

Prize winners in the essay competition on "The Rural Home," announced Wednesday night, were: Mrs. Laura Petinnen, Finland; Mrs. J. Macdonald, New South Wales; Mrs. Hans F. Hinrichsen, Clinton, Iowa; Catherine Hargreaves, 18, Lancashire, England; Mrs. Oledal, Sweden; Mrs. J. Jonkhans - Steerburger, Holland; and Mrs. Beekhoff van Selms, the only prize-winner present at the convention.

Delegates discussed women's place in politics and a delegate from India appealed to Egyp. to give its women the vote.

"Although 88 per cent of the women in India are illiterate, they have the vote and almost all of them exercise their franchise," said the delegate.

A Finnish delegate struck a dissenting note by saying:

"It is all very well to shout for more women in influential positions. But first you've got to educate the women of the world, particularly in underdeveloped areas. The ACWW should concentrate on helping women to understand their responsibilities before encouraging them to step up to the same political levels as men."

Lace Is Popular Fashion Material

LONDON (CP)—Lace is expected to be one of the leading fashion materials in the coming months, boosted by the Royal Family and others.

Queen Elizabeth led the way in the lace vogue since she was painted last year in a wonderful gown of Nottingham lace. Princess Alexandra, young daughter of the Duchess of Kent, wore an exquisite lace gown at the Coronation, the design being marguerites with the centres picked out in gold thread.

Heavier laces are being used for the severe but smartly-tailored suit usually with a taffeta base. Even the chantilly laces are being given a heavier pattern.

SAVES SURFACE

A rubber crutch tip over a regular claw hammer makes a handy tool for pounding tasks where a hard-headed hammer would mar the surfaces of fine work.

PREVENTS DROOPING

To prevent your sweater shoulders from drooping after laundering, sew strips of narrow ribbon or tape along the shoulder seams.

HANDY HANGER

A handy fold-up rack next to the ironing board makes it easy for you to hang up freshly pressed clothes.

Half Married Women Sleeping In Nude

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Half of American married women tell Dr. Kinsey they regularly sleep nude.

"There is every indication," he adds, "that the percentages are still increasing, much to the consternation of the manufacturers of night clothing."

EASY TO FIND

Brightly-painted gardent tools can be a boon to the absent-minded home gardener who always forgets where the tools were last placed. Such "branded" tools are not only easy to spot, they are also difficult to confuse with the neighbor's tools.

CHANGE OIL OFTEN

In dry, dusty weather the oil in your four-cycle lawn mower tends to break down. A change of oil ever four hours of operation on dusty days is a wise practice, and may prove to be a real money saver, too.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Pickle-Making Rewarding Give Fillip To A Meal

What a business it is being a housewife. First thing you have to be is good, then you have to be beautiful and good, then dutiful and beautiful and good . . . first thing you know you are trying to be beautiful while you are good and dutiful to a little bundle of joy. Then you find besides being all those virtuous things and cooking into the bargain somebody like me comes along and tells you it is a cinch to make pickles, so you try your hand at pickle-making.

It is a good thing that it is all some fun. Even pickle-making is rewarding. Pickles do add a fillip to a meal, and how comforting it is to your pocketbook to know yours are in the basement instead of on the grocers' shelves—for a fee!

Last year at this time we gave you lengthy instructions for long-process brining of pickles. If you want those instructions again write to me and I will send you a copy.

The little offerings I have for you today are individual recipes for beets, tiny onions and chunk pickles which you show a preference for. But let me know if there are others you want in this column, but remember to enclose a stamped envelope if you want return mail or a quick reply.

PICKLED BEETS

Select small beets of uniform size that are fresh. Cut off tops, allowing 1 inch of stems to remain. Wash well and cook in water to cover until just tender. Plunge into cold water and slip off skins. Pack in sterile jars. Make a vinegar syrup in proportions of 1 cup water to each 3 cups vinegar and 2 or 3 cups of sugar. The amount of sugar depends on your sweet tooth. Add to the vinegar syrup 1 teaspoon cloves and 2 4-inch sticks of cinnamon bark. Boil this syrup 5 minutes and pour over the beets in jars while it is boiling hot, filling to overflownig. Seal at once.

PICKLED WHITE ONIONS

One-half peck small silver-skin onions, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 stick cinnamon, 2 teaspoons chopped horseradish, 2 teaspoons whole cloves. Now patiently peel the pesky little onions, and place them in a cold brine allowing ¼ cup salt to each quart of water and let stand 24 hours. Drain and pack in sterile jars, placing a few of the whole spices between the layers of onions. Add the small hot red pepper like the commercial picklers do, to give your jars an interesting appearance. Fill the jars with boiling syrup made by cooking vinegar and brown sugar together until dissolved, using proportions of 1 gallon of vinegar to 4 cups brown sugar. Boil this 5 minutes. Fill jars to overflowing and seal.

EMEM'S CHUNK PICKLES

Seven pounds dill-size cucumbers are cut into 1½-inch chunks. Soak in brine strong enough to float an egg for 7 days. The proportions for the brine for you who do not like trying to float eggs is about 2 cups non-iodized salt to 1 gallon boiling water cooled before pouring over the chunks. At end of 7 days pour off brine, and cover cucumbers with cold water to freshen them, for 24 hours. Drain. Boil together 1 quart vinegar, 2 quarts water and piece of alum size of a walnut, add drained cucumbers and boil 7 minutes. Drain and discard this. Make a syrup by boiling together 1 quart vinegar, 3 lbs. white sugar, 1 oz. mixed celery seed, whole all-spice, cassia buds for 2 minutes. Pour this syrup over the drained pickles. Let stand 24 hours. Pour the syrup off and boil it again for 2 minutes, then pour it back over the pickles. Cover with cheesecloth and plate to be sure pickles are submerged and store in cool dark place. OR pour over pickles in sterile jars and seal.

6—In Memoriam

BOLTON—In loving memory of our brother Harold who died August 20, 1952.
Our thoughts of him are thoughts of Love
They will be to the longest day,
They won't wear out, won't be lost,
And won't be given away.
—Ever remembered by his brothers and sisters.

BOLTON—In loving memory of dear husband, Harold Bolton and dear father of Ann who passed away August 20, 1952.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us
Though you died one year ago.
—Always remembered by his wife and daughter Ann.

McILWAIN—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away August 20, 1931.
In our home is fondly remembered
Sweet memories cling to his name.
Those who loved him in life sincerely
Still love him in death the same.
—Sadly missed by daughter Clara, son-in-law Arthur and grandson.

Preparing To End Search For Plane

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) RCAF officials said today the search for a plane with two Detroit brothers aboard will probably end Friday if they are not found today.

The light plane in which Harry and Walter Butler of Detroit took off from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., eight days ago for a fishing trip at Wawa, 120 miles north, was believed forced down in wilderness country along the way.

Two RCAF planes continued the search today in an area from the Sault to about 60 miles north.

Charges Men Playing Soldiers

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Chairman of the London Labor Council, Harry Finch, blasted the Legio not Frontiersmen Wednesday night for "playing soldiers at the expense of the city."

At a regular labor council meeting he said the legion is one of the greatest detriments ever to hit London.

"What are we forming a civil defence body for?" he asked. "These frontiersmen are directing traffic, and preparing for a war. They know nothing about directing traffic—they get out there on the street and blow their fool heads off with a whistle."

He urged council to stand behind him in his stand to have the Frontiersmen removed from London.

Jailed Three Years For Breaking Out

HAMILTON (CP) — Thirty-year-old Charles McCumber was sentenced today to three years in Kingston Penitentiary on a charge of breaking out by night.

McCumber was convicted of breaking out of the home of Mrs. Jean Seigal, where he was found by a police officer in the act of making off with a purse.

Later McCumber had been involved in a fight with constable George Brewster, Jr., just prior to his appearance in court. The accused suffered severe injuries and Brewster was discharged from the force.

Believe Iran Will Veer From Russia

By STANLEY PRIDDLE

LONDON (Reuters) — Diplomatic quarters here said Wednesday night the downfall of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh is virtually certain to reverse Iran's recent swing towards Russia in favor of the West.

Iran's future relations with the West are unpredictable, but the new prime minister, Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, is not likely to rely on Russia for the urgent economic aid his country needs to avert bankruptcy.

As the dramatic events in Iran were taking place Wednesday, the shah said in Rome it was the Communists alone who opposed his rule.

The United States, which can best help relieve Iran's poverty, has pressed Mossadegh to make a fair settlement of his oil dispute with Britain, which has drained the Iranian treasury.

TURNED TOWARD RUSSIA

Edged on by the technically-outlawed Tudeh (Communist) party, Mossadegh turned towards Moscow, though he is probably as anti-Russian as he is anti-British.

Britain is believed anxious to resume normal relations with Iran, which would mean an exchange of ambassadors once again.

Britain once fought Mossadegh in the International Court to get back the Anglo-Iranian oil wells he nationalized in 1951. The court ruled itself incompetent to give a decision.

But now oil experts point out happier relations, bringing about a reflow of Iranian oil to the world markets, would cause new problems. From other sources, the big oil companies have already closed the gap caused by lack of Iranian oil, though they have not made good the loss of Abadan, the world's biggest oil refinery.

PARIS GENDARMES in the group at left leave a nationalized aircraft factory in the suburb of La Courneuve as their replacements, helmeted security guards, stand by to provide security for workers wishing to enter the plant over protests of striking workers. Production at this plant and others throughout the nation has slowed as defiant union leaders continue to ignore threats of tougher government action. Premier Joseph Laniel's economy measures affecting the income and retirement age of French civil workers touched off the nationwide walkouts.

Air Tank Blown Up Boy 13, Injured

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP) — Wayne Clark, 13, suffered severe injuries Wednesday when a compressed air tank blew up on a wrecking truck in his father's garage.

His condition in hospital at nearby St. Thomas today was critical.

The boy, son of Arthur Clark, was on the truck near the tank when it exploded. He suffered a broken jaw, fractured skull and severe hand injuries.

Convict 5 Communists As Enemies Of State

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A jury convicted five Communists today of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

The trial lasted more than five months. Those convicted were Irving Weissman, Steve Nelson, William Albertson, James Dolsen and Benjamin Careathers.

The convictions carry maximum prison terms of five years.

1952 Municipal

Peterborough's public school levy was $564,281, fifth highest in the group. St. Catharines' was highest at $724,278, while Oshawa's was lowest at $519,154.

St. Catharines' separate school levy was highest in the group at $95,650, while Peterborough's was third at $83,382. The lowest was Oshawa at $32,979

For secondary schools, Peterborough's levy was third highest in the group at $234,398. St. Catharines' was highest at $338,667 and Brantford's was lowest at $147,986.

In the provision of recreation and community services, St. Catharines spent the most in the group, $203,389. Peterborough's expenditure was third highest at $140,901. Sarnia's was lowest at $82,447.

Peterborough's payment of debt charges was $634,922, second to Kingston's $635,029. The others were: Sarnia $466,432, St. Catharines $369,719, Oshawa $364,096 Brantford $232,821.

Peterborough's total of discounts for taxes, $4,748, was higher only than Brantford's, which made none. St. Catharines' was highest at $15,647.

Unlike the other cities in the group, Peterborough paid for no capital expenditures out of revenue last year. Oshawa paid out $174,071 for tihs purpose, Brantford $168,058, Kingston $98,731, Sarnia $14,510, and St. Catharines $3,853.

St. Catharines' total expenditures were boosted $250,421 by an outlay for special purposes, far more than the others. Peterborough spent $46,352 in this category.

Oshawa's provision for reserves was highest in the group at $63,646, while Peterborough only set aside $4,000 for this purpose.

This is by no means a complete analysis of the comparative financial and administrative situations of cities comparable in size to Peterborough. Nor does it reveal the special problems faced by each city in the process of expansion during the post-war industrial boom. But it is hoped it will provide readers of The Examiner with an idea of how these cities have faced a situation which is roughly the same for all.

Elected President

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Alice M. Berry of Queensland, Australia, was elected president of the Associated Country Women of the World Wednesday night at the seventh triennial conference here. She succeeds Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Ackworth, Ia., head of the ACWW since 1947.

New Communist Court Bleeds Romania Like Monarchy

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP) — The lush extravagances of former king Carol of Romania have been replaced today by those of Communist king Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej.

Western diplomats here say the new Communist court has bled Romania as much as the old monarchy. The lot of the city dweller has been lowered and the peasant reduced to a state serfdom comparable with the slavery of the boyars.

But where the late king Carol fascinated his people with romantic perambulations and political conspiracies,.. handsome Gheorghiu-Dej lives in isolation and rules with an iron fist.

Dej's Communist courtiers live in the homes of the former aristocracy and keep themselves in splendor while Romania's long-suffering 16,000,000 people continue in hunger.

Their homes in Chaussee Kisselef and in Jianu Park are closely guarded by armed police. Expensive U.S., and Russian cars take their uniformed servants to and from private stores.

BAREST RATIONS

While millions of "common people" daily rise at 4 a.m. to queue up for the barest rations, crates of imported oranges and eggs are unloaded in the gardens of the new Communist rich.

Only Communist bigwigs or high foreign Communist guests use the ultra-modern Baneasa railway station, wit hits red carpets, which Carol built for the exclusive use of royalty.

The masses must wait if one of Romania's top Communist officials wants quick service in a department store or needs a rail ticket. We saw the people look at Communist bureaucrats receiving preferential treatment with the same hate they might have shown for royal agents.

The class distinctions of the new "classless society" are strict for Romania's 700,000 Communist party members.

At official receptions, Gheorghiu-Dej and his top guests are separated in private rooms and nobody may cross the line. They are served caviar and imported French brandy. The lower ranks get hors de'oeuvres and domestic tzuika.

Invited to Western receptions, the "new rich" of Romania leave their wives behind. It is said they do not know how to behave in society.

BIG ESCORT

As in the 18th century, when Turkish-appointed Greek governors of Romania were carried from their tables to their beds, so Gheorghiu-Dej has an escort of police thugs, who, by their number, almost lift him from place to place. All traffic stops as Dej speeds through town in a convoy of curtained black sedans.

Communist officials claim not to know the big house where Gheorghiu-Dej lives in Budapest. But the people do, and they stay away from its guards. His picture hangs at the gate to King Carol's sugar-loaf summer palace (now a museum and occasional meeting place of the Cominform) at Sinaia and nearby, Dej has a minor palace of his own.

When he visits the opera, even his subordinates must wait like royal retainers until he has left through a cordon of secret police.

With the growth of this new exclusive society, Western diplomats say Romania's workers in general have seen a drop in their living standards below what they were during Carol's regime. Only a few faithful Communist workers are said to have gained.

EVEN WORSE

For three years, the supply of food has declied steadily. It reached its peak shortage in May and June. Westerners say there were block-long lines of housewives seeking food from dawn until night.

Two hundred grams of meat a week and small quantities of sugar and sunflower oil for cooking were available. That was all. There was no butter and little bread and only the smallest quantities of vegetables.

Even for well-paid Communist workers new clothes cost a small fortune. An average unskilled worker makes 250 lei a month, (a lei is valued at about 12 to one U.S. dollar) an engineer 1,150. The average monthly wage is about 450.

Against this, a man's shoddy, ready-made suit costs 940 lei, shoes 209 lei, a bar of toilet soap 12 lei and a bedroom suite 15,600.

Workers' housing, Western diplomats say, has been negligible. And though the regime boasts it has built rest camps and made paid vacations available to millions, it is estimated the average worker can expect a rest camp stay once every seven years.

Growers To Receive $78 Ton For Grapes

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Ontario growers will receive $78 a ton for their grapes from the processors this year, it was announced today. Last year's price was $67.

The negotiating committees met here Wednesday. They included J. A. Biggar, Gordon Hunter and George Stewart, who represented the growers, and M. F. Jones, J. L. Kingsborough and A. D. Pellerin, who represented the processors.

RCAF Jet Crashes Into North Sea

CROMER, England (CP) — A RCAF Sabre jet fighter crashed in the North Sea today. The pilot was picked up by a tanker after parachuting to safety.

Flt. Lt. Leslie Benson, 25, of Victoria, used his ejector seat to escape when his jet got into trouble 15 miles out over the North Sea. He is believed uninjured.

George James Smith

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon for 85-year-old George James Smith, of Grand Road, Campbellford, who died in Kingston General Hospital on Monday night.

Mr. Smith was born in Seymour township at Bradley Bay. He was the son of William Smith and Mary Ann MacDonald. He lived in the district all his life. His health declined following a leg amputation three years ago.

Surviving beside his wife, the former Elizabeth Owens, are two daughters, Elsie and Alta, both of Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Walker and Miss Eva Smith, both of Campbellford.

During most of his lifetime, Mr. Smith farmed in Seymour township. He attended the Anglican church and took a keen interest in the work of the Orange Lodge. He was a Past Grand Master of the local lodge and an honorary life member of the Royal Black Preceptory of Eastern Ontario No. 381. He was also a member of the IOOF.

The Rev. John McKibbin of Christ Church conducted funeral services from Bennett's funeral home Thursday afternoon. Burial was in Christ Church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Harold Smith, Ted Owens, Murney McCann, Harold Copperthwaite, Douglas Nicholas and Earl Fox. The funeral service was under the auspices of the IOOF.

May Take Over Rink

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC wants to take over the big Strathcona roller skating rink and convert it to a television studio with space for an audience of 400 persons, board of control was told Wednesday. There is no provision for audiences at the CBC's present studios.

British Papers Hoping Oil Question Settled

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers today express the hope that the royalist coup in Iran will produce a government able to keep peace and willing to negotiate the Anglo-Iranian oil problem.

There is some editorial apprehension, however, that the triumph of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi's supporters—if consolidated — may bring increased Soviet pressure on Iran.

"Whatever government may eventually emerge," says Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, ". . . should be resolved to serve only the interests of the impoverished masses of the people of Persia (Iran). Such a government would realize that Persia's chief need was reopening of the Abadan refinery."

SPECULATES ON REACTION

The Conservative Daily Telegraph speculates on possible adverse reaction by the Russians to the coup. The Telegraph says:

"If Gen. Zahedi succeeds in consolidating his regime, the Communists will likely be a more dangerous threat to the government than any pro-Mossadegh resurgence."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian says the Tudeh party "could probably cause trouble but without Russian backing it would be unlikely to achieve anything; and there is no evidence at the moment that Russia wants to fish openly in troubled Persian waters."

"Unless there is some such intervention the shah seems likely to be restored, with General Zahedi in power as an individual, but legitimist, 'strong man.'"

Typhoon Strikes

MANILA (AP) — A 95-mile-an-hour Pacific typhoon hit the island cluster off the Philippines' north tip Thursday. The Manila weather bureau said the storm, moving at about 12 miles an hour, was expected to sweep through the island-studded strait between the Philippines and Formosa and enter the South China Sea tonight. Philippine Air Lines cancelled flights to northern Luzon.

On Welfare Mission

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet came back to Korea on a welfare mission today, six months after giving up command of the U.S. 8th army. Court Dismisses Careless Driving Charge

A charge of careless driving against Geoffrey Feeley, 37, of 1035 Western Ave., was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee today. The charge was laid June 12 following an accident on Highway 7, three miles east of Peterborough.

Carl Brinklow of Norwood, the other party involved in the crash, said he was driving from Norwood to Peterborough with his wife about 11 o'clock that night when the accident occurred. It was raining heavily at the time.

Feeley backed out of a laneway on the north side of the road suddenly, Brinklow said. An oncoming car prevented the westbound driver from swerving to avoid Feeley's vehicle until it was too late.

Brinklow's car smashed into the Peterborough man's taxi and knocked it back into the laneway. Brinklow's vehicle careened 105 feet from the point of impact to the opposite shoulder.

Mrs. Brinklow, also testifying against the accused, corroborated her husband's evidence but said the oncoming eastbound vehicle which prevented Brinklow's vehicle from swerving didn't pass until after the impact.

VIEW UNOBSTRUCTED

OPP Constable Frederick Lunn said that the view of the road was unobstructed from the laneway and anyone in the lane could see the lights of oncoming traffic.

Feeley said he had backed out of the drive after seing the road was clear. Then a car appeared around a far curve travelling "pretty fast." There was no eastbound traffic however to prevent the other driver from going around his car.

The two vehicles struck and over $900 damage resulted.

After evidence was presented, Magistrate Gee commented he thought both drivers relaxed their attention, and dismissed the charge.

The hazard rating was medium to high across the province.

A man in the boat, Chester Turley, cast a fishing line and hooked Robillard's clothing. The line broke and Robillard vanished.

Formally Charged With Two Murders

LONDON (Reuters) — Alfred Whiteway, 22, today was formally accused of brutally murdering two 'teen-age girls on a lonely "Lover's Lane" near London.

When the stocky laborer was taken from the court to return to jail, women in a crowd waiting outside shouted at him. He already has been charged with raping a 14-year-old girl and assaulting a middle-aged woman.

He has denied that he killed Barbara Songhurst, 16, and Christine Reid, 18, on a towpath along the Thames river on May 31. The girls had been bicycling along the path when a sex maniac accosted them, stabbed them to death with a double-edged knife and raped them.

Whiteway had nothing to say in court. When he came out of the building he ducked his face under a policeman's raincoat as photographers' flash bulbs popped.

His trial will begin Sept. 10.

Predicts Strike In Three Days

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — Pat Burke, local organizer for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said today that 1,600 miners at the big Noranda copper and gold mine here will probably strike "in the next three or four days" unless union contract demands are met.

"The only thing that will stop a strike would be a move by the company to meet union demands," he added.

A walkout would shut down one of Canada's major producers of gold and copper. The company has large Canadian holdings from coast to coast and processes ore for six mines in the Timmins area. These companies would be seriously affected by a strike at Noranda.

The miners were eligible under Quebec labor laws to strike any time after midnight Wednesday. They recently registered with the union for strike relief funds.

Mr. Burke said:

"We don't know when a strike will be called. It probably will come in three or four days if the company does not give the union a satisfactory offer."

The company, shut down by an 82-day walkout in 1946, said Wednesday it was ready to grant wage boosts but did not say if it would meet the 22-cent-an-hour increase the miners seek.

J. Y. Murdoch, company president, said Noranda would not agree to a union demand for the check-off.

He added:

"If the union chooses to call a strike, the responsibility of resulting unemployment hardship to families and loss of business to the community is clearly theirs."

Noranda treats custom concentrates from Normetal Mining Corporation, Waite Amulet Mines, East Sullivan Mines and Quemont Mining Corporation. It also handles some ore from Powell Rouyn and Elder Mines.

Three gold mines in the Timmins Porcupine area 100 miles to the west have been closed for nearly six weeks by labor disputes.

Battle For And Against Sponsored TV Continues

LONDON— J. Fred Muggs, the simian star of American television, is disproportionately famous in Britain to his U.S. Hooper rating — although British viewers have never seen on their screens the face that only a mother chimp could love.

This is not because British audiences dislike animals on their TV. On the contrary, one of the most popular television programs for many months has featured animals from the London Zoo. It is simply that Mr. Muggs had the bad taste to get himself involved in commercials during the U.S. showings of the Coronation of Elizabeth II. And Mr. Muggs immediately was crowned as the horrible example of commercialized television. He became the rallying point of all anti-commercial television factions, got himself indirectly mentioned in Hansard in the House of Commons and did the cause of commercial TV in this country inestimable harm at the critical time in its campaign.

Only Hamlet's famous lines could describe succinctly the present situation of commercial television here — nobody, least of all the government, will say at this time whether it will be or it won't be.

MOUNTING OPPOSITION

In the face of mounting opposition to sponsored video, the government has told the people to "wait and see"—that it will publish in the fall a white paper outlining its policy. In the meantime, the controversy over sponsorship is raging on all possible bases from moral to technical grounds.

Harry Crookshank, the Lord Privy Seal, recently recalled that in last year's white paper the government said it had "come to the conclusion that in the expanding field of television provision should be made to permit some element of competition." The Conservative benches applauded.

And when he added that "Anxieties have been expressed since that date about the implications of a new system of competition," Labor applauded.

This has been taken as an indication the government is wavering in its intention to introduce sponsored TV.

ONLY ONE CHANNEL

Meanwhile, the British viewer is getting only one channel of television — the BBC, without advertising — and only about four hours' screening a day; an hour of children's programs from 5 to 6 p.m., adult shows from 8 to 11. He also sees special events, such as the cricket test matches, football cup ties, and Wimbledon tennis.

The Canadian viewer, probably more acquainted with American TV than with the infant industry in his own country, generally expresses admiration for British TV. The technical details of reproduction appear to be ahead of the U.S., with the result that a clearer picture is produced. But then, Britain was an old hand at television long before the U.S. got started.

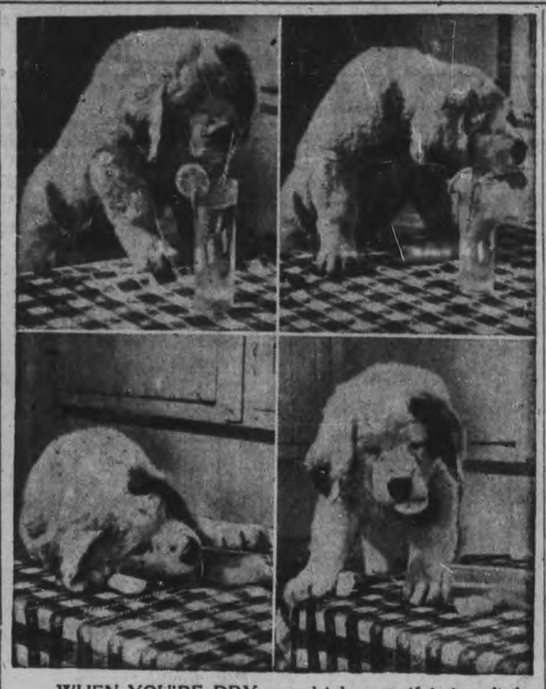
What really impresses overseas visitors, however, is the adult attitude adopted by the BBC. Its adult programs are for adults, and not geared to that 14-year-old mental age at which most U.S. programs seem to aim. It does not try to please everybody and offend no one. If a situation calls for a naughty word, the BBC does not substitute it with an inoffensive and completely inadequate "pshaw!"

It isn't afraid to produce Shakespeare — sometimes well, sometimes poorly — to talk frankly about sex or to discuss problems in terms which would not be understood by a 10-year-old but which can be appreciated by an adult of moderate intelligence.

In short, the BBC recognizes there are children and there are adults, and gears its productions to please both, but not at the same time. And if the odd Mrs. Grundy gets a little shocked in the process, nobody seems to worry too much.

SOME BAD PROGRAMS

Not all BBC programs are good —the corporation can produce some odoriferous ones, and be chastised by the critics for the eggs it lays. But what it does not do is maintain the dreary level of mediocrity that characterizes so much of the U.S. industry, which must sacrifice quality for quantity.



The British listen with interest and not a little envy to descriptions of the big-name, super productions of U.S. television. They realize that the cost of such productions can not be met by government-sponsored TV, that commercial sponsorship is needed to pay the high fees. Yet many are unconvinced that it is wise to sacrifice their freedom from commercials for what they consider to be nebulous advantages. And while they maintain that British taste would not permit the cultural atrocities committed on U.S. networks, their assertions are tempered with a degree of hope.

Meanwhile the tug-of-war goes on in Parliament between the supporters and the opponents of commercial television, and the people who have already sunk considerable capital into the campaign to introduce private enterprise into the industry are waiting anxiously for the autumn white paper's answer to: "TV or not TV?"

Fails To Uncover Rich Buried Treasure

PENKRIDGE, Eng. (Reuters)—Three hours of heavy pick and shovel work Tuesday night failed to uncover for amateur archaeologist H. R. Russell Kennedy a rich buried treasure which four of his assistants say they saw under a hypnotic spell.

"Naturally, we were disappointed not to have found the chest in our first dig," explained Kennedy. "But we feel sure we are very near it and we will continue digging for it until we do find it."

WHEN YOU'RE DRY you drink even if it is a little difficult at times, says Santo, a St. Bernard pup. But Santo is not one to rush headlong into things. In the upper left photo he sniffs and (upper right) has a chew of the straws when they fail to produce the liquid. A little nudge with a paw soon made the drink easier to get at, but most of it escaped into the cloth and Santo had to be content with a sour slice of lemon.

U.K. Papers Criticize U.S. Senator

LONDON—Two Britisht newspapers today criticize U.S. Republican Senate Leader William F. Knowland for opposing Communist China's admission to the United Nations.

And one of them, the popular mass-circulation Daily Mirror, also attacks Walter Robertson, President Eisenhower's special envoy to Korea, for saying the the United States should use the atom bomb if the Communists resume the Korean war.

"Mr. Robertson has said in a television program that the United States should use the atom bomb if the Communists resume fighting," the Mirror says editorially.

"Mr. Knowland has said that if ever Communist China is admitted to the United Nations, he will lead a fight to get America to quit the organization.

"These are wild and dangerous and unnecessary words from men of responsibility. They are all the more dreadful at a moment when the United Nations Assembly is trying to get a peace conference on Korea that will not be doomed in advance to break down.

"They show how grave an obstacle is the present emotional state of America to the efforts of the British Commonwealth to make reason prevail."

The pro-Labor Dairly Herald says that Knowland has "appointed himself dictator to the United Nations." It claims that the Senate leader is not content to argue his case for keeping China out of the UN—"he wants to stifle debate. He deliveres an ultimatum."

"He has just told a meeting at San Francisco that if other nations try to vote China in, he will move for immediate adoption of a resolution which in effect says that on the day Red China gets into the United Nations the United States of America gets out.

"Senator Knowland contends that there is no provision in the United Nations charter for admitting Communist China. But the charter certainly provides for democratic discussion among the nations on issues affecting the peace of the world.

"And the Republican leader grossly violates its spirit and purpose when he threatens in advance that he will try to wreck the United Nations if a majority of its members disagree with him."

Jewelry Store Robbed Again

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Burglars Wednesday broke into a jewelry store, the scene of a robbery last December in which the owner, Donald F. Hurd, 45, was killed.

Mrs. Doris G. Hurd, widow of the victim, told police a burglar threw a brick through a display window at the Main street store.

The amount of the loot was not immediately known.

Maurice (Digger) O'Dell, 27, and Walter F. Griffin, 26, of Hamilton, Ont., have been sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for killing Hurd in the first robbery.

A third man, Ralph J. Grubisich, 30, of Hamilton and Kitchener, was indicted but never apprehended.

Use Armed Patrols To Shoot Racoons

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Armed patrols have been set up here to shoot raccoons because the animals have become such a nuisance to farmers and gardeners.

Hugh Lyle reported destroying 15 raccoons eating his corn on the western outskirts of the city.

W. A. Allan, chairman of the St. Thomas public utilities commission, said he found corn in the co-operative gardens of the water department employees had been attacked.

Steel Company Starts New Coke Oven Battery

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Co. Wednesday put into operation a new coke oven battery, adding 1,300 tons daily to its output. But a company official said the real significance of the new battery is its relation to the overall expansion of the firm's steel-making facilities.

S. J. Cort, vice-president, said "we are going ahead with a program of enlargement, modernization and rebuilding of our Saucon division which will provide a 50 per cent increase in our structural mills here."

Tony Curtis Amazed At His Success

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His one-time pals in Brooklyn will be interested to learn that Bernie Schwartz is now pulling down 1,750 clams a week in the movie mills.

Bernie is better known as Tony Curtis to the film followers. And no one is more amazed at his ponderous pay-cheque than he.

"Yeah, they picked up my option," said Tony. "Isn't it fantastic? I wake up at night and pinch myself to see if I'm still dreaming. I never knew there was so much money.

"I feel so great about the whole thing that I want to express myself about it. I want to write a poem about it or put it to music. But I can't. Nobody can understand exactly how it feels except me."

Tony's enthusiasm is refreshing after the blase beauties and ho-hum Harrys who take their blessings with a yawn. He is one new star who counts his blessings, and with good reason. Son of a tailor, he received plenty of knocks from life. And his was no rapid ascent to fame.

"I started here six years ago at $75 a week," he said, referring to his studio, U-I. "My take-home pay was around $44. The reason was that I didn't have the dough to join the Screen Actors Guild. So the studio put up the initiation fee, then took it out of my cheque each week.

"After the first six months, they bumped me to $100. I still had hardly enough to live, on, after I sent some home to the folks.

Despite his plight, Tony never demanded a raise. "They'll pay you what you're worth. If you go out and make a picture that brings in two million dollars, they'll give you a salary accordingly."

Tony says he feels sorry for the young players of today who get signed by the movies for more money than he got.

"Kids nowadays start out at $250 a week," he observed. "If they have some kind of name through night clubs or the stage, they can get as much as $500 or $750. That ain't good.

"They get used to that kind of dough and they can't take it when the times get tough. Besides, the studio will drop them faster at that kind of money. They have to come through and prove themselves or they get the bounce but quick."

And with that, the boy named Schwartz went out to his new Cadillac, patted it gently, kissed the hood and drove off.

ITALY'S NEW CHIEF — Giuseppe Pella, Christian Democrat, agrees to try and form a new Italian government, ending a 46-day-old government crisis. Pella is a financial expert who directed Italy's finances through the turbulent postwar period and raised the lira out of the play-money class.

To Face Trial

HAMILTON (CP)—Two youths accused of throwing a rock said to have fatally injured Grace McPherson, 31, as she climbed a flight of steps leading up Hamilton mountain, Wednesday were committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter. They are Douglas Hamilton, 16, and Raymond Speziale, 17.

Ferry Service Opens In October

SARNIA (CP)—An early October opening of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway's new car ferry service between Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich., was forecast Wednesday by officials of the company.

Work on the Sarnia installations, which will cost $1,600,000 of the $2,100,000 project, are nearing completion.

Dredging of wharf installations on the Sarnia side is completed. The wharf to which the car ferry will tie up will arrive next week.

An eight-track yard, capable of accommodating 202 cars, is half completed.

Installations in Port Huron, including yard and customs office, remodelling of the interior of the present depot, improvements to the slip and track changes, will cost $500,000.

The Port Huron-Saginaw gateway will provide a Saginaw to St. Thomas, Ont., route, 27 miles shorter than that now in use.

Heart Disease Leads

The other leading causes of death during July were cancer, 712; vascular lesions affecting central nervous system, 582; and violent and accidental deaths, 401.

"After the wonderful results I got by taking Syntona I will gladly recommend this medicine to any person suffering as I did," said Miss Marjorie Root, 495 Victoria Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

Didn't Feel Well

"About 10 months ago my stomach began giving me trouble and I haven't felt well ever since. I would have awful gas, cramps, and heartburn after my meals. Sour acid risings came up in my throat and I would frequently get bad headaches, dizzy spells and sick bilious attacks. I had a nagging backache and my nerves were so on edge all the time I couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"A few weeks ago I read about Syntona helping other people suffering like this, so I got some and even during the first week I was taking it I felt better. As I continued the gas, sourness and heartburn cleared up. I don't get those sick headaches or dizzy feelings, and the pain has left my back. Also my nerves are calmed down, so I sleep better and have more energy through the day."

Many people have used Syntona time and again when they were not feeling well and say it is a medicine they can always rely on to help them. 13 CANADIAN POWS TO BE EXCHANGED

Commander Guilty On 3 Counts

Sentence RCN Officer To Receive "Severe Reprimand"

HALIFAX —(CP)— Cmdr. Richard Chenoweth of Montreal today was found guilty of three charges arising from the grounding of the Canadian destroyer Huron off Korea July 12 while under his command.

The court material sentenced him to receive a "severe reprimand."

The tall, handsome officer, who knew the verdict the second he entered the room, stood erect at attention and showed no emotion as the sentence was read aboard the cruiser Quebec.

TOKEN OF CONVICTION

By naval tradition, his sword was pointing toward him on the oak table as he entered—the token of conviction.

Cmdr. Chenoweth was found guilty of failing to insure that his watch-keeping officers, Lt.-Cmdr. T. J. C. Thomas, Dartmouth, N. S., and Lieut. G. H. Emerson, Bathurst, N. B., carried out their required duties. The courts martial of Thomas and Emerson began today.

That was the main charge. The others were that he failed to ensure that the ship's position was constantly fixed while under way in the vicinity of land, and that he failed to ensure that his navigational officer discharged his responsibilities as accurately as circumstances permitted.

NOT OPEN TO PRESS

The hearing was not open to the press.

The sentence was considered light. Chenoweth, if found exceedingly negligent, could have been dismissed from command of his ship. The Huron, which received extensive damage, is being repaired in Japan.

Thomas and Emerson were charged with stranding the ship.

Total Of 16 Listed For Freedom; More Brutalities

PANMUNJOM (CP)—The Communists announced today that 13 Canadians would be among those repatriated in Saturday's exchange of Korean war prisoners. The statement brings to 16 the number of Canadians the Communists have either released or promised to return. Three Canadians were released earlier. At the start of the exchange, the Reds said only 14 Canadians would be repatriated.

At Vancouver today, Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., third Canadian prisoner to be released, said 13 other Canadians were captured with him last Oct. 23, but that he had not seen any of them since shortly after the group was taken. Rothwell arrived in Canada today after a commercial airlines flight from Tokyo.

Rothwell's statement brought to 22 the total number of Canadians reported captured by returning prisoners of war.

NINE TAKEN PRISONER

The first Canadian to arrive home, Cpl. James Pelletier of Chatham, Ont., said in Vancouver last week that nine other Canadians were taken prisoner with him May 1, 1953. Pelletier said he saw none of these men again during his captivity.

In today's group of repatriates, 150 Americans, largest single group to be returned to freedom thus far, were a rollicking and happy group as they returned here.

Eager as youngsters, they shouted and danced as they were freed with 300 South Koreans.

The Americans were from Camp 1 at Chongsong on the Yalu river, the Red stockade for "incorrigibles" who actively resisted communism.

The repatriates said the first group of Americans from a fourth Red prison—Camp 9 Kanggye—arrived Thursday night at Kaesong, the Red clearing site just north of Panmunjom.

All other American PoWs sent back have been from Camps 1, 3 and 5, including some men transferred to these camps from other stockades.

RECENTLY CAPTURED

Saturday's shipment was expected to include some Camp 9 prisoners, a number of whom were reported only recently captured.

The Reds said Saturday's delivery would include 94 Americans—30 of them sick or wounded—the 13 Canadians, 300 South Koreans, 23 British, 3 Australians, 2 French, 1 Turk and 1 Colombian.

Bolt Equals New Record For Summerlea

MONTREAL (CP)—Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N.J., equalled the new course record for Summerlea, set only Thursday, with a six-under-par 64 in the second round of the $25,000 Open.

The record was set Thursday by Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif. Bolt now has a two-round total of 135.

Barber, playing in the same threesome, came through with a 68 today and still held the lead with 132.

Bolt, missing at least two birdie putts on the first nine, was out in 34, two under par, and came home in 30, four under.

Barber went to the eighth before he could get a birdie and made the turn in 35, coming back in 33, also one under par.

EARLY FINISHER

One of the early finishers was veteran Lou Cumming of Toronto with a par 70 and two-round score of 141.

SIZZLING 65

Jules Huot of Montreal Laval came through with a sizzling 65 today for a total of 134, two strokes away from Barber. Huot took a five on the last hole, a par four. He was out in 32 and back in 33.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., Canadian Open champion, shot even par 70 for 139 and Al Besselink of Grossinger, N. Y., had a 69 for 138.

Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., had 68 today for a 140 total and Walter McElroy posted 74 for his two-round score of 146.

Rothwell Says 13 Canadians Taken With Him

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pte. Thomas E. Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., one of two Canadian prisoners of war who landed here from Tokyo early today, said 13 other Canadians were captured with him Oct. 13.

With Pte. Rothwell, third Canadian PoW to be released by the Chinese Communists, was Gnr. Orval (Ken) Jenkins, 25, of Hamilton and Toronto, the second Canadian returned Both smiled happily as they clumped down the landing ramp after arriving here aboard a Canadian Pacific Air Lines transport.

Pte. Rothwell, 27, said he was captured with 13 other Canadians last October during a bitter battle by the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, in defence of Little Gibraltar hill.

Implying that security prevented him from saying more, he said: "I can't tell you what happened to them and I can't give their names."

HADN'T SEEN THEM

When asked if he knew whether the 13 were alive and well, he said he hadn't seen them since shortly after being captured. He continued:

"Let's say that I can't say on my own knowledge if they are still alive."

After checking through customs, the two soldiers answered a barrage of questions at a press conference.

Gnr. Jenkins, quiet-voiced and calm, answered most of the questioning Both said "we are not allowed to answer that" to several questions for "security reasons."

Gnr. Jenkins, who said he was nicknamed "Ken" by buddies in his prison camp, has undergone a board of inquiry investigation into circumstances of his capture and further interrogation in Japan.

He was released by the Reds after almost two years in North Korea.

Earlier, he said, "I definitely was captured under unusual circumstances and I think it reasonable for the army to want to verify particulars."

Shah Flying Back To Iran

ROME (AP)—Triumphantly smiling, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, Shah of Iran, flew homeward today for a royal welcome in the explosive country he fled five days ago. Awaiting him in his land of carpets, caviar and oil were a new premier loyal to the monarchy, jubilant crowds cheering their 33-year-old ruler and a pajama-clad prisoner under heavy guard —shaky old former premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Rome's Iranian colony and legation, which turned its back on the shah's arrival as a fugitive on Monday with 20-year-old Queen Soraya, came out in force to cheer his departure by plane early today.

The Iraqi crown prince, Abdulah Ilah, was on hand at the Baghdad airport to greet the smiling young shah.

Also on hand were the Iranian ambassador, Mudhaffer Aalam, and other embassy officials, but the young ruler did not receive them.

LUNCHES WITH KING

The shah planned to lunch early this afternoon with Iraq's King Faisal, then perhaps fly on to Tehran later today.

Queen Soraya, exhausted and upset by the week's excitement, remained in Rome to rest up.

Also left behind was the shah's strong-willed twin sister, Princess Ashraf. Mossadegh had exiled her because she fought his encroachments on the royal power. She hurried from the Riviera to her brother's side Thursday. She told reporters Thursday night she might drop in on Tehran later for a visit.

Baghdad had been the shah's first haven Sunday after Mossadegh's armed forces foiled the attempt of palace guards to enforce a royal decree naming Maj.-Gen. Fazollah Zahedi premier.

Fleeing to Iraq in his own plane, the shah and his wife went on to Rome Monday by British airliner. He dashed homeward almost as hurriedly after Iran's masses and its army rallied to Zahedi and their ruler's standard and drove Mossadegh from his heavily-forti-

9-Cent Increase Granted To Workers At Packers

A hundred and seventy Canada Packers production workers in Peterborough will receive wage increases, retroactive to August 1, averaging up to 9½ cents an hour for men and up to 7 cents for women. The increases come after negotiations between the country's three largest meat-packing firms and the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), bargaining agents for 15,000 Canadian production workers.

Negotiations dealt with wages only. The two-year master contract does not end until August 1, 1954.

Alfred Barber, president of Local 210, UPWA, estimates that the 150 men production workers at the Peterborough plant will receive increases averaging between 9 and 9½ cents an hour, and the 20 women workers will receive increases averaging between four and seven cents an hour.

The basic rate has been raised five cents an hour for men and four cents an hour for women. In addition the employees will receive a half-cent for each full 2½ cents that their present rate is above the old basic rate.

STARTING RATE

The starting rate for men is $1.28 an hour and, after a waiting interval scaled down from 13 weeks to seven weeks, they get the basic rate of $1.33. Within 13 weeks they get another four cents.

The starting rate for women is $1.09 and after a probationary period of six weeks this is increased to $1.14. Their new basic rate is $1.18 in 13 weeks.

"I think this is one of the best settlements we've had from Canada Packers," Mr. Barber said today. "The old settlement always included the cost-of-living—which has

Adjourn Talks Till Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)— Talks aimed at settling the southwestern Ontario truckers' strike have been adjourned until Tuesday amid reports the striking International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) put forward a settlement formula and rejected a company proposal for arbitration of issues in the wages strike which started July 20.

Avenues for settlement were explored by representatives of the union and of the 36 companies affected by the strike called by the union's Hamilton and Windsor locals. The talks started Wednesday and adjournment came at 10:30 p. m. EDT Thursday.

The adjournment was regarded as an indication the union settlement formula was not acceptable to the operators. A spokesman for the trucking firms said later the union turned down the proposal of arbitration, which would be binding on both sides.

A dispute between the non-striking Toronto local of the union and the Hamilton local took a new turn Thursday with Toronto charges of Communist infiltration into the strike scene in the Niagara peninsula.

William Mills, president of the Toronto local, sent a telegram to David Beck, president of the international union, asking for Beck's intervention and investigation into the reported presence of Communists at a meeting called by the Hamilton local at St. Catharines.

300 Prisoners On Spree Of Destruction

MONROE, Wash. (AP)—Three-hundred angry inmates of the Washington state reformatory Thursday night went on a destructive spree that ended hours later with one man dead, three injured and five of the institution's sprawling buildings destroyed by fire.

Half of the rioters were in a cell block, the others on the grounds in the centre of the buildings they had set torch to in a sudden outbreak of frenzied viciousness. Guards patrolled the walls keeping inmates on the grounds under surveillance all night.

The rioters struck without warning during the evening recreation period. One group took over one of the reformatory's two large cell blocks and the other ran through the grounds setting fire to the buildings surrounding the recreation area.

Three-hundred other prisoners took no part in the uprising.

FIREMEN HELP

Guards made no effort to stop the stone - throwing, bat-hurling, cursing, howling convicts. The Monroe volunteer fire department was called and was on the walls within minutes. But before they could start work they were driven back by stones and bats hurled by the men on the grounds.

Other fire equipment arrived but none ever got inside the walls again despite hundreds of police who came from all over western Washington, including Seattle, 20 miles to the southwest.

No attempt was made by any of the convicts to communicate with Warden P. J. Squier or other officials—except to hurl taunts, deprecations and debris through windows and at guards.

And no explanation for the outbreak could be had from Squier.

Romulo Drops Out Of Race

MANILA (AP) — Carlos P. Romulo pulled out of the Philippines presidential race today and threw his support to Ramon Magsaysay "to ensure democracy in the Philippines."

Romulo, former ambassador to Washington and one-time president of the UN general assembly, formed his own Democratic party and announced for the November presidential race after failing to win the nomination of the administration Liberal party.

The Liberals nominated President Elpidio Quirino, who is recuperating in the United States after two abdominal operations at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. He is expected to return here soon.

Magsaysay, former defence secretary in Quirino's cabinet, also bolted the Liberal party and was nominated for the presidency by the opposition Nacionalista party.

Princess Has Quiet Birthday

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters) Princess Margaret quietly celebrated her 23rd birthday today at Balmoral Castle, vacation home of the Royal family.

Fine weather probably meant a picnic lunch on the moors and in the evening it is the custom to mark the event with a giant bonfire in the castle grounds.

Scots take a special interest in this Royal birthday because Margaret was the first of the blood royal to be born in Scotland since Charles I in 1600.

When the day draws to a close and birthday greetings from all over the world have been read, the cake cut and presents opened, the Queen will propose a toast to her sister.

And later, the carpets will be rolled back for some Scottish reels—the Royal sisters are experts at the tricky steps.

Women Return To Village

FORESTVILLE, Que (CP)—The organized return of about 167 women and children from Ste. Anne de Portneuf to their homes at Ste. Therese du Colombier is scheduled to take place today amidst belief the destructive forest fire north of here is under control.

The women and children were evacuated Sunday as "a precautionary measure" when uncontrolled, wind-driven flames in this region about 200 miles east of Quebec City threatened their homes on the edge of the village.

To many of the women it will be a joyful reunion with their fire-fighting husbands who stayed behind ready to put up "a house-to-house fight" if the fire swept into the settlement.

In Forestville, Kelley Bouchard, 22, and Wellie Tremblay, 26, both of Ste. Therese, were sentenced Thursday to one month in jail for travelling in the forest while a ban was in effect.

Former Sultan Begins Exile In Corsica

AJACCIO, Corsica (Reuters) — The former sultan of Morocco, deposed by the French government Thursday, spent his first night of exile in the prefecture of the Corsican capital.

Sidi Mohammed Ben Yussef and his two sons, also banished from Morocco, arrived here aboard a French Air Force DC-3 which had flown them out of Rabat, Morocco.

The Corsicans ushered the robe-wearing ex-sultan and his sons into an official car. Followed by a motorcycle escort and police cars, they sped to the prefecture.

It was confirmed here that Sidi Mohammed would remain in exile in Corsica and there were reports he might be given a chateau.

Montgomery To Arrive At Montreal Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, deputy Allied commander in Europe, will arrive at Montreal Monday on his way to open the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

He will be accompanied by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of staff of the Canadian army.

Obliging Monster Makes Appearance For Audience

NEW HAMBURG (CP) — The Nith river's "monster" was sighted here today, but again the elusive fellow evaded his pursuers.

Chief Constable George Thomas, Tuffy Truesdale, the Sarnia alligatgor wrestler, four human assistants and four reptile decoys—used to guard the banks of the Nith river in hopes of catching "Nithy", the mystery monster which has been scaring folks around here off and on for years.

Chief Thomas caught a glimpse of Nithy today, just about the same time that Truesdale's "pets" began to get restless. Nithy showed only his glistening eyes, about 40 feet away from his would-be-captors. The men dashed along the river bank to get nearer to the pair of eyes, but Nithy headed for midstream and vanished.

Chief Thomas declared he got a glimpse of Nithy's body as he fled. It was about four feet long, the chief said.

Tracks were found along the bank today, which Truesdale declares are alligator prints. They are similar to the ones the chief has been finding for several weeks.

"I think we might have caught him, but one fellow got a bit excited and yelled," the chief said afterwards.

Helen Hayes Has Anniversary Party

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Actress Helen Hayes celebrated her 25th wedding anniversary at a summer home here but her husband couldn't make it in time.

Miss Hayes, holidaying at her brother-in-law's home 25 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, had 100 guests at the celebrations Monday.

Her husband, playwright Charles MacArthur, took ill in New York and reached here Thursday after resting for a few days.

There were no theatrical notables at the party but pipers and drummers of the 49th heavy anti-aircraft regiment from Sault Ste. Marie provided music.

Miss Hayes has been vacationing in the area all summer.

Curb In Powers Caused Riots

GUELPH (CP)—Curbing of the Guelph reformatory superintendent's power to have prisoners strapped was described Thursday as one of the basic causes of the riots which resulted in $85,000 damage at the reformatory July 5, 1952.

Several members of the staff said at a hearing before the legislature's select committee on reform institutions that, prior to the disturbances, an order from the department of reform institutions required the superintendent to write to department officials in Toronto for permission to strap a prisoner.

Since the riot, the superintendent has had power to order a strapping after the prisoner has been examined by a doctor.

Witnesses said that, when word of the restrictions placed on the superintendent reached the prisoners before the riot, their attitude became one of open defiance and insolence.

New Sultan Of Morocco Enthroned As Country Quiet

FEZ, Morocco (Reuters)—The new sultan of Morocco, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, 64, was enthroned at a solemn ceremony here today in succession to his cousin, deposed by French authorities Thursday.

The official proclamation of the new sultan took place in the grand throne room of the imperial palace at Rabat.

An assembly of 350 Moroccan leaders, including pasha (nobles), caids (tribal leaders) and religious dignitaries signed a document pledging their allegiance in the presence of the Maghezen, (supreme council).

But in Cairo, the 1,000-year-old Al Azhar, which claims to be Islam's most authoritative institution, called upon the Moslem world to "start a crusade against France."

The deposed sultan has been widely espoused by nationalists in the Arab world because he encouraged the Istaqlal (Independence) party in his own country.

Cairo dispatches said Egyptian president Gen. Mohamed Naguib, on a pilgrimage to Mecca, stood in front of the Kaaba, Islam's holiest shrine, and prayed that "Allah avenge the Moroccans." The Kaaba contains the stone on which the archangel Gabriel is supposed to have rested his head.

Meanwhile, strong police forces patrolled Casablanca as the French authorities waited to see the results of their banishment of Sultan Sidi Mohammed to Corsica.

Morocco seemed calm as Moslems began the religious festival of Said El Kebir, which marks Abraham's sacrifice.

The new sultan will lead prayers in the mosque at Marrakesh instead of receiving the traditional homage at the sultan's palace at Rabat.

Bus Drivers' Hearing Set For Sept. 4

CORNWALL (CP) — Preliminary hearing of manslaughter charges against two drivers involved in a bus-truck crash that took the lives of 20 persons near Morrisburg July 31 has been set tentatively for Sept. 4.

Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan said today this date depended on whether Toronto truck driver Max Roodman, 41, is well enough to appear. He is in Cornwall General Hospital recovering from shock, broken ribs and other injuries.

Lorne Cheesebrough, 28-year-old Colonial Coach Lines driver, of Kingston, is the other man facing a manslaughter charge.

$200,000,000 Increase In Value Of Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Imports rose by almost $200,000,000 in value during the first five months of this year under the impact of record imports in May, the bureau of statistics said today in a revision of previous estimates.

Imports totalled $1,810,300,000 in the five-month period compared with $1,626,100,000 during a similar period last year. May imports climbed to a record value of $420,600,000 compared with $386,000,000 a year ago.

French Gov't, Unions Reach Agreement

Many Workers Return To Jobs Today, Red Union Still Out

PARIS —(AP)— Non-Communist unions ordered thousands of workers back to their jobs today—the first break in the wave of strikes that has strangled France for 16 days.

But the back-to-work trek was slow. Unions were meeting all over France to discuss the terms of settlement.

The Socialist Workers' Force (FO) and the Christian Labor Federation (CFTC) reached agreement with Premier Joseph Laniel's government early today for postal, telegraph and telephone workers to end their strike. Other government workers were expected to join the back-to-work movement.

But attempts to put in telephone calls to other cities in France still were fruitless this afternoon. The communications services were not expected to be back to normal before Monday.

LITTLE CHANGE

On other strike fronts there was little perceptible change. Only a few railroad trains were running, though Socialists and Catholics ordered their rail men back to work.

The Paris subway and bus systems were still partially paralyzed.

Coal mines were still idle.

A 48-hour strike of metal workers called by non-Communist unions began today. Thousands of workers were reported idle at steel mills and other factories in the nation.

The management at the big Renault automobile plant in Paris said only 2,000 of its 16,000 workers failed to show up.

PROMISES MADE

The government was reported to have promised the postal, telephone and telegraph strikers:

1. To call into session before Sept. 30 a commission to consider a general upward revision of French wages.

2. To take no sanctions against strikers.

3. To consult the unions before putting into effect Laniel's proposed economy decrees upping retirement age limits and cutting other benefits.

The Catholic union, CFTC, today restated its demand that Parliament be called back next week to consider the labor situation. Informed sources said they believed the steering committee of the National Assembly would decide against such a call.

But observers warned that plenty of trouble may still lie ahead for Laniel.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT), left out of the negotiations, had not yet indicated any end to its walkout. The CGT controls the bulk of the railroad workers, and transportation officials said the lines could operate only on a reduced scale without its members.

NEGOTIATE TWO DAYS

The agreement between the government and the two non-Communist unions followed two days of negotiations prodded by a delegation from Laniel's own MRP (Popular Republican Movement) party. Despite its anguished pleas, the CGT was not taken into the negotiating circle.

Although only the postal, telegraph and telephone employees received immediate return-to-work orders, the pact also covered workers in the nationalized industries, the railroads, gas and electric service employees and miners.

In a communique early today, Laniel promised to consult interested unions before putting into effect decrees cutting public payrolls and increasing retirement age limits for government employees. He also agreed to have another look at the problems of the lowest-paid workers and get something in motion toward the idea of full employment.

The premier's communique appeared to make only slight concessions to the strikers. Observers said, however, there may have been other agreements that were not made public.

Held For Espionage

PARIS —(AP)— French police said today a woman secretary at the foreign office has been arrested and charged with selling secrets to Yugoslavia. They said the woman, identified only as Madamoiselle Bosse, dealt with a former first secretary at the Yugoslav embassy who is no longer in Paris.

Russia Gains In Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is following closely in the path of the United States, if not actually catching up, in the race for mastery of atomic weapons.

She may or may not some day overtake the U. S. in the number of stockpiled weapons, but the point is relatively unimportant, in the opinion of many experts.

For the time will come, these authorities believe, when the Soviet Union will have at its disposal enough bombs to pose an extremely dangerous threat to American security—regardless of how many bombs the United States may then possess.

Even now, said chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the atomic energy commission in a letter made public today, it is "a fallacy to assume that a stockpile of atomic weapons in our own hands is in itself any longer a complete deterrent to aggressive action."

Officials here said the measure of Soviet progress in the drive for greater military power is one of the more significant aspects of Moscow's announcement that a type of hydrogen bomb had been exploded. The announcement was followed by a statement from Strauss that an explosion involving "thermonuclear" or hydrogen fusion reaction occurred in the Soviet Aug. 12.

Seguin Keeps Hunger Strike

ALEXANDRIA, Ont. (CP) — Henri Seguin, 28, today began a two-month wait for his murder trial by continuing a hunger strike into the seventh day.

Seguin was committed for trial Thursday following conclusion of his preliminary hearing on a charge of killing Leonard Hurd Aug. 16, 1952, by firing five .22-calibre bullets into the Maxville taxi owner.

Seguin, already serving a 20-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary for attempted armed robbery of a bank at Williams Lake, B. C., in December, will be tried for murder at the fall assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court, scheduled to be held at Cornwall in mid-October.

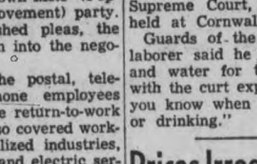
Guards of the former Cornwall laborer said he has refused food and water for the last six days with the curt explanation: "I'll let you know when I feel like eating or drinking."

Prices Irregular On Stock Market

TORONTO (CP)—Prices mixed irregularly in active early afternoon stock market trading today. Attention focussed mainly on low-priced mining issues.

New Larder U rose 20 cents to feature gaining uraniums and New Brunswick base metals. Companies with property in the Blind River, Ont., uranium area, such as Preston East Dome, Sudbury Contact, Headway and Calder Bousquet, moved briskly for a majority of gains. Rix, Anacon and Nesbitt Labine also firmed.

Loblaw A and B shares gained $2 and $3 respectively.



Union Gas, General Motors and Royal Bank were ahead fractionally but Weston Preferred slipped.

Teck Hughes, Kerr Addison and Wright-Hargreaves firmed in seniors while Madsen and East Malartic led juniors higher. Bailey Selburn, Royalite, Trans Empire and Gridoil extended recent losses while Central-Leduc, Calgary and Edmonton and Peruvian posted gains running to 25 cents.

Hudson Bay, East Sullivan, Mindamar and Silver Miller were lower. United Keno and Noranda improved.

Polio Epidemics Kill 79 Across Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Polio has killed 79 persons in Canada so far this year.

It has struck hardest at Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. A Canadian Press survey today showed that 60 persons have died in those provinces alone. The situation is so bad in Winnipeg that schools will be closed an extra two weeks this summer.

Health authorities throughout the country are warning parents to keep their children away from crowds and swimming pools. Sports events have been cancelled and some theatres have been closed to youngsters.

Saskatchewa has had 21 deaths, highest i the country. Ontario has had 20 deaths and Manitoba 19. Quebec, with its large population has had only one fatal case.

Health officials in Calgary say the disease has reached epidemic proportions there for the second straight year. There have been six deaths in 93 cases. Last year the area had 113 cases at this date. seven deaths in 248 cases so far, compared with 11 deaths in 105 cases to this date last year.

Voluntary Type Of Hospital Recommended For Lindsay

LINDSAY —(ENS)—The hospital expansion committee, a civic group selected to organize and direct the drive for the building of an extension to the Ross Memorial Hospital met Thursday night and accepted a report of an investigating committee which has visited several hospitals.

The report recommended that for Lindsay, a voluntary hospital should be established, incorporated as a non-profit institution with membership open to the public, with set fees for memberships. The board of governors of the hospital would number 15 instead of the six now administering the institution. These would be the warden of Victoria county, mayor of Lindsay, the chief of the medical staff, and the president of the ladies' auxiliary as ex officio directors-representatives appointed from Lindsay and Victoria, Haliburton and Ontario counties, one member representing the Ross trust, and six to be appointed or elected by the membership of the hospital association. Of the latter, two would change their seats every year, making three-year terms.

Membership fees would be $5 per year and $25 for life for individuals, and $25 per year and $500 for life for corporations.

The second stipulation the committee made was that a capable administrator would be necessary, as well as a good nursing superintendent and financial administrator.

Thirdly, a satisfactory arrangement between the hospital and the surrounding municipalities regarding indigent patients, providing for the payment by the municipalities of the per diem rate plus the cost of services for these patients.

The report of the committee was made by Dr. C. W. M. Service, the chairman. The committee visited hospitals at Oakville, Brantford, Kitchener, Stratford, Guelph and Peterborough Civic. Dr. Service in outlining the requests of the report, noted that one of the most pressing problems in each hospital they visited, was that of indigent patient care.

Those with satisfactory arrangements in this regard, he said, were operating at a much better financial basis than those without it, and in some cases the presence of this type of arrangement made the difference between a deficit and a profit in certain hospitals.

He explained that in the non-profit type of hospital, there would be no personal liability, such as there is in the present setup.

PREFERRED TO CIVIC HOSPITALS

Answering questions about their visits, Dr. Service said that it was not apparent that trust type hospitals received more in bequests than civic hospitals, but that voluntary hospitals were for the most part operating more satisfactorily, financially, than the civic types.

Dr. C. A. Galloway, Cannington, chairman of the Medical Association, said the solution of the indigent problem did not necessarily mean the end of financial troubles for the hospital. The bone of contention was the problem of the non-admission by municipalities of the indigence of some patients received at the hospital. Board secretary Frank Weldon, who is also clerk of the county, agreed. After the adoption of the report by the committee, considerable discussion took place as to the next move. It was finally decided to start the building committee on its work, while the board of governors of the present hospital would hold a special meeting to ratify the report.

The building committee will study the plans presented by Dr. H. Agnew, hospital consultant and in addition ask for a price quotation on a completely new hospital. The two extensions outlined by Dr. Agnew in his report would cost $800,000 and $1,250,000. A new hospital would probably cost some $500,000 more.

After deciding on the type needed, and its cost the building, committee will report back and the financial committee will begin work to set up the proportion to be solicited from the public. The support of the various municipalities in the form of debentures for the balance will next be sought, and the campaign started at the close of the meeting, the first donation to the hospital enlargement committee of $50 from the Lindsay Kinsmen Club for operating expenses was received and the committee's secretary, Ken Garbig challenged other service clubs and organizations in the county to match it. Two club officers did, before the meeting ended.

One guard said, however, that there had been trouble during the day. He would not explain further.

YOUNG OFFENDERS

Most of the inmates at the reformatory are young offenders. Older and more hardened criminals are kept in the Washington state penitentiary.

Meanwhile, inmates in the cell block were tearing up plumbing, breaking out windows and destroying furnishings. They, too, howled and cursed as they destroyed.

Then several hours after the first outbreak at 11 p.m. EDT, a group of the men on the grounds tried to break through the gate. Guards, almost shoulder to shoulder atop the 30 foot high walls and armed with riot and tommy-guns, opened fire.

Four men fell. One was mortally wounded. Another, struck by a ricocheting bullet which passed through his head right behind his eyes, lay on the ground screaming:

"Oh God. Knock me out! Knock me out!"

Doctors said later he would be forever blind.

The other two men were not wounded seriously.

MEANT BUSINESS

Then police started moving into the cell block and onto the grounds. A small heavily-armed force entered the cell block. They were greeted with a barrage of debris and curses but this subsided quickly when they saw the officers meant business.

The same scene occurred on the grounds. Officers moved in slowly but steadily, herding the sullen group before them until the rioters were congregated on the institution's baseball diamond.

Behind them glowed the embers of the brick plant's wooden building and the still red hot steel in the burned out concrete laundry, cannery, machine shop and carpenter and auto repair shop.

All were useless remains, with the total damage running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The inmates huddled in circles as midnight came, stark figures under the pitiless glare of the prison's bright floodlights. They started bonfires to ward off the night chill, using wood which littered the grounds from one end to another.

"We're in no hurry to get them into cells," the warden said. "we have plenty of time."

BECOME SEPARATED

A member of the 2nd field regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, he was with an observation patrol when he became separated from the main body while searching for water.

For six days, he said, he hid between the Chinese lines, attempting to elude capture, before he was spotted by a patrol and taken prisoner.

While a prisoner, he said he spent 45 days in solitary confinement in the attic of a Korean house in the prison camp.

Pte. Rothwell said he spent 92 days in solitary, sleeping with a "blanket and comforter" on the floor of an unfurnished hut.

"I can't say what the reason—what the offence was—why I was put in solitary," he said.

NOT GOOD PRISONER

"I am not supposed to say more. But I wasn't what you'd call a 'good prisoner'," he said with a smile.

Gnr. Jenkins said there were attempts at "indoctrination" by "compulsory lectures" in his camp at first, but that the attempts stopped last year.

He said he could not say whether he had seen any indication of "conversion to Communist ideas" among the prisoners because he was "not allowed to answer the question."

Other Canadians had been in his camp once, but he could not say where they went. There had been "approximately three."

Pte. Rothwell and Gnr. Jenkins entered military hospital here for medical check-ups and will continue east within a few days.

COMPARABLE FIGURES

Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the union, said the increases of five cents for men and four for women will bring wages in the Toronto area to $1.40 an hour. The new wage figure across the country will be comparable to that in Toronto, he said.

Affected are union employees in plants of the three companies, Canada Packers, Burns and Company, and the Swift Canadian Company Limited.

Mr. Dowling said in a statement that the union headquarters is recommending to all local unions that they accept the agreement.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Legion of Frontiersmen is a self-disciplined body trained as closely as possible to infantry battalion lines and doing work of great civic importance, C. Haddad, officer commanding the unit in London, said today.

Mr. Haddad was replying to remarks made by Harry Finch, chairman of the London Labor Council at the last meeting of the council.

"The legion was founded in London, England, in 1904 by Captain R. Pocock, a retired RCMP officer and is now a world-wide organization throughout the British Commonwealth," Mr. Haddad said.

"It is self-supporting with no charge or burden on any city or municipality. All services are given free with a patriotic gesture, to prepare themselves to help the people of their own particular municipality in the event of any large disaster.

"It is composed of men from all walks of life and all ages. All men who are recommended for membership are thoroughly investigated. No person receives a letter asking him to join because we are particular who we accept."

Three Canadians, 2 British, 1 Australian and the Turk were listed as sick or wounded.

In all, 6,983 Allied prisoners have been returned of the 12,763 listed by the Communists.

No Communist PoWs were sent north today for the second straight day, but more were scheduled to be handed over Saturday. Typhoon winds earlier in the week halted shipments from the Allied island prison camps off South Korea.

The Americans were in high spirits, but they also bore more reports of Red brutality and mistreatment, especially against Allied airmen.

"DEATH AGAINST AVIATORS"

The Reds were "death against American aviators" said Cpl. Phillip E. Rogers of Denver. He said one navy flier from the U. S. aircraft carrier Leyte was stripped to a light shirt and summer pants, and forced to remain outside in 25 below zero weather.

Another repatriate told of a mentally-ill American soldier tied to a tree outside the hospital at Camp 1 and left there until he died.

The group repatriated Thursday included the highest-ranking Allied officer yet turned over—South Korean Col. Lim Ik Soon, assistant division commander of the RoK capitol division. He was captured in mid-July when the Reds overran much of the division in their last big push before the truce was signed.

Meanwhile, the troop transport Marine Adder loaded American repatriates at Inchon. It was scheduled to leave Saturday morning for the two-week trip to San Francisco with 374 Americans aboard.

India, Pakistan Try Arrange Plebiscite

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Pakistan agreed today to make a new try at arranging a plebiscite in the disputed border state of Kashmir. Tentative plans call for the appointment of a neutral plebiscite administrator by next April 30.

The accord was announced in a joint communique released early today at the end of four-day talks between the prime ministers, Nehru of India and Mohammed Ali of Pakistan. The countries each occupy part of the divided state.

The Pakistan prime minister told reporters Thursday that a solution to the Kashmir dispute "may not be within easy reach, but it is in sight." He described the results of the talks as "fairly satisfactory."

Crooner Settles One Problem, Faces Another

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Legal troubles proceeded according to pattern for Dick Haymes today; The crooner settled one problem and acquired another.

Haymes signed a property settlement Thursday with his present wife, Nora Eddington. But a previous wife, actress Joanne Dru Ireland, had him cited to answer her charge that he is $2,438 behind in his payments for support of their three children, Richard, 10, Helen, 8, and Barbara, 4.

Haymes' property settlement with Miss Eddington, former wife of Errol Flynn, calls for a payment of $8,000 in cash and $100 a week for life, whether she remarries or not.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Miss Eddington will sue Haymes for divorce today, on incompatibility grounds, her lawyers said. Under California law, this would mean at least a year's delay before Haymes could marry actress Rita Hayworth, his most recent romantic interest.

Haymes also faces deportation proceedings arising out of his recent trip to Hawaii, where Miss Hayworth was visiting. Under the McCarran act, an alien is not permitted to re-enter the U. S. mainland, once leaving. Haymes is a citizen of Argentina.

Cars Rolls Over Driver Injured

HASTINGS (ENS)—Jack Brundritt, 31, of Hastings, suffered fractured ribs, broken collarbone and cuts and bruises Wednesday night when his car turned over into a ditch one mile southeast of here.

Brundritt was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough where he was released Thursday following treatment.

The man was driving toward the town about 8.30 when his vehicle failed to make a corner, careening across a road, striking a ditch, flipping and falling into the four-foot ditch. It was totally wrecked.

Taken to the home of Fred Barry, RR 2, Hastings, he was treated by Dr. W. M. Campbell and later sent to the Peterborough hospital.

OPP Constable Archie Eady investigated.

Seaforth Zwicker, his housekeeper, Bertha Rust, and her sister, Anna—all in their 70s—were beaten and choked by two men who took a box containing the $800.

The box, broken open, was found in the Mush-a-Mush river near their home in Blockhouse about 15 miles east of the south-shore fishing town of Lunenburg.

fied home Wednesday. Three hundred or more died in the fighting.

The weepy-eyed old premier, who drove Britain out of his country's vast oilfields and then tried so hard to clip his ruler's power, surrendered Thursday to Zahedi at his headquarters in the central Tehran Officers Club. Weak and limping, he still had on his habitual pink pajamas.

His future was uncertain. Zahedi, in a "give yourself up" broadcast 12 hours earlier, had said, "we will wait for the nation to say what should be done with him."

The former premier's political adviser, Ali Shayegan, and two former cabinet ministers, surrendered with him. There was no word of Mossadegh's chief henchman, fiery former foreign minister Hossein Fatemi. Earlier reports, never confirmed, said the mob tore him to pieces Wednesday.

Mossadegh and his three associates were held in rooms on the top floor of the Tehran officers club. Tanks and troops guarded the building.

New Jet Plane Paraded By RCAF In Big Review

NORTH BAY (CP)—For the first time in its young but stormy career, the speedy CF-100 jet aircraft was paraded in strength Thursday by the RCAF.

Conceived, designed and produced by Canadians, for the defence of Canada, the all-weather fighter was put through its paces at the RCAF's new $15,000,000 base here on the shores of Lake Nipissing. It was a successful, if noisy, demonstration.

The "Canuck," as the CF-100 is more informally known, has been the centre of several hot political and aeronautical arguments. Five of them have cracked up since the first prototype took to the air more than a year ago.

But the RCAF has unbounded confidence in its new jet-propelled two-seater. Two squadrons already have been formed, one here and one at St. Hubert, Que., and more are being formed.

To underline this confidence, for the benefit of a group of some 50 newspapermen, the RCAF Thursday called on five planes of 445 squadron for an aerial display with their ace aerobat, FO. Tony Gunter-Smith, to show what the plane could do.

Gunter-Smith, an Englishman who flew with the RAF during the Second World War, hardly waited to get airborne, doing a slow roll on take-off. Other experienced pilots said it was the first time they had seen this done.

The squadron is scheduled to move to the RCAF's Uplands base at Ottawa Sept. 1.

In a show lasting 15 minutes, the five jets screamed across the mile-square base at an altitude of 500 feet and at a speed of better than 600 miles an hour. The display was under command of Sqdn. Ldr. Tom Futer of New Westminster, B.C.

Among those taking part was FO. W. B. Begby of St. Catharines.

Brazil Demand For Electric Power Doubles

By FORBES RHUDE

TORONTO (CP)—Brazil is growing so fast that its need for electric power doubles about every seven years, Henry Borden, president of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd., said Thursday.

He told a press conference that if the company were to meet all demands for service in electricity, telephone and gas, it probably would need to spend the equivalent of $1,500,000,000 in the 10 years 1953-62 inclusive. This compares with its present capital investment in Brazil of about $700,000,000.

Mr. Borden has just returned from Brazil, where Brazilian Traction, a Canadian company, is the major public utility, supplying, through operating subsidiaries, 50 per cent of the hydro-electric capacity of all Brazil—mainly in the highly-developed areas of Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Santos.

MOSTLY FOR POWER

About 75 per cent of the needed expenditures would be for expansion of electric power. The greater part of the money could be in Brazilian currency, but about one-third would require foreign currency, such as dollars, sterling, or Swiss francs.

Such a program would envision expenditures equivalent to about $150,000,000 a year, including foreign currency equivalent to $50,000,000. By comparison, the company's capital expenditures in Brazil this year are equivalent to about $108,000,000.

Welsh Mayor Guest In U.S.

BANGOR, Pa. (AP)—"A Welshman's word is a Welshman's word, and we've come," said the mayor of Bangor, Wales, as he stepped into the home of the mayor of Bangor, Pa.

And thus began a month's long visit and vacation for mayor and Mrs. Hugh J. Jones of the Welsh town in the home of mayor and Mrs. Hayden B. Pritchard of this slate-quarrying community.

Mayor Jones' word—fulfilled by his visit—was given the Pritchards last year when they visited Wales.

During the month they are here mayor Jones and his wife will be guests at the annual Bangor Welsh Day celebrated Sept. 5-6. Although only 20 per cent of this community's population stems from Wales the festival, featuring Welsh singers and choruses, is considered here one of the important events of the year.

Defence Production Awards Contracts

OTTAWA.—A total of $4,232,862 in defence contracts were awarded during the last half of July by the Defence Production Department.

No contract for any Peterborough company was in the list, which did not include any contracts classified for security reasons.

Contracts valued at $100,000 or more included the following to Ontario firms:

Addison Industries Ltd., Toronto, electronic equipment, $102,600; W. L. Ballentine Co. Mormon Church Excommunicates 10 B.C. Members

EDMONTON (CP)—Ten members of a small Mormon Church colony at Lister, B.C., have been excommunicated for apostasy—abandonment of the Mormon faith.

The announcement was made here Thursday by R. Scott Zimmerman of Edmonton, president of the Western Canada mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, who made an on-the-spot investigation earlier this month of reports of polygamy among Mormons at Creston, B.C.

Polygamy has been outlawed by the church since 1890.

On Aug. 3, Mr. Zimmerman said a special RCMP detail investigating rumors of "polygamy and malpractices" had reported "nothing substantial" on which charges could be laid.

INVESTIGATE 14 MONTHS

The church leader revealed that he and other officials had been investigating for the last 14 months conditions at the small B.C. community, in the Creston district, near the Canadian-United States border.

But the excommunicated members weren't tried on charges of polygamy, he said. Polygamy was too difficult to prove and therefore did not enter into the trials. Rather, the church confined its investigations to charges of disbelief in Mormon doctrines.

Mr. Zimmerman said the Lister Mormons had followed the teachings of a previously excommunicated member, who was ousted from the church for belief in polygamy. Instead of paying to the church their tithes they turned them over to their unidentified leader.

Arrested Thursday night at the CPR freight sheds, the trio was remanded in custody.

Cavanaugh, additionally, pleaded guilty to two second offence intoxication charges. The charges, laid August 8 and August 19 are based on a first offence of May 23.

Sentence will be passed Wednesday, when the three men answer to the vagrancy charges.

50 U.S. PoWs Blown To Bits

FREEDOM VILLAGE, KOREA (AP)—Fifty American prisoners were "blown to bits" when U. S. warplanes bombed and rocketed an unmarked PoW collection station in North Korea, an Ohio corporal related today.

Cpl. Donald W. Manuel of Racine, liberated at Panmunjom, said the Reds herded prisoners into an unmarked row of houses even though they knew American planes attcked the area daily.

The prisoners were forced to stay in the houses at rifle point, Manuel said.

Manuel said American warplanes rocketed the unmarked Korean houses in the camp area and "wiped out a whole row of houses."

"Fifty men died," he said. "They were buried alive and torn to pieces."

Canadian Papers Divided On Kinsey Report

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian newspaper use of stories on the Kinsey report on sex habits of American women ranged from an extra edition with eight-column streamer headline to—not a word.

The extra was published by the Vancouver News-Herald, a morning newspaper which hit the street at 5 a.m. PDT, the time Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey set for newspaper release of summaries of his findings. Its story was more than two columns long.

Of 19 other Canadian papers whose use was checked, the only other front-page display for the Kinsey story was also in British Columbia, in the Victoria Times which ran less than a column. The Vancouver Sun ran nothing from the report itself; but had a short front-page story on the furore it caused in some circles.

ON INSIDE PAGES

Such papers as the Toronto Telegram, Toronto Globe and Mail, London Free Press, Hamilton Spectator, Montreal Herald, and Le Canada, Ottawa Journal, Winnipeg Free Press and Tribune and Vancouver Province ran the story on inside pages. The space devoted to it ranged from more than two columns to four or five column inches.

Papers which decided not to print the Kinsey story included the Toronto Star, with the largest daily circulation in Canada, Windsor Star, Ottawa Citizen and Le Droit and Montreal Star and Gazette and the Edmonton Journal.

A separate check of 11 Atlantic provinces papers showed that one, the New Glasgow News, used 100 words on the front page and said it would use a column or more on an inside page today. Ten others didn't use the story Thursday.

Lost—One Inch

35 New Polio Cases Reported In Manitoba

Dr. M. F. Elliott, deputy minister of health, said that a "definite trend" downward can be seen in the outbreak of new polio cases throughout the province.

Pensions For Parliamentarians

There has been some public interest in Peterborough about the qualifications for the pensions which members of the last House of Commons voted themselves. (The "Act to provide Retiring Allowances" was passed by the Commons on June 27th, last year.) The regulation is that a Member of Parliament becomes eligible for the pension if he has sat in more than two Parliaments. Thus both Mr. G. K. Fraser of Peterborough and Mr. G. S. White of Hastings-Frontenac became eligible for the allowance when the Act was passed, having sat in three Parliaments. However, the allowance is not payable unless Members contribute six per cent. of the sessional indemnities, or have done so for sessions through which they sat prior to the Act's being passed. Neither Mr. Fraser nor Mr. White draw the allowance, for it is not payable until a Member has retired from the House of Commons.

* * *

The allowance is payable after a member has been elected three times in all, consecutively or not, and its amount is determined by the number of sessions of Parliament he has sat through. A specific example is this, of a member who was first elected in 1940, was re-elected in 1945 and 1949 and qualified by his attendance for the full sessional indemnities each time. The nineteenth Parliament (elected 1940) had six sessions. The twentieth Parliament had five sessions. The twenty-first (last) Parliament had seven sessions: a total of eighteen sessions. For each, a member received a sessional indemnity of $4,000. If he chose to contribute to the Allowance Fund he will have paid into it six per cent. of his sessional indemnity, or $240 for each session, a total of $4,320. But the Act says that he will not pay into the fund any more than his sessional indemnity, all told—that is, $4,000. In return, a retiring MP draws, every year, 75 per cent. of his total contribution. Thus, a paid-up member from 1940 to 1953 will have contributed the maximum of $4,000 and get in return, each year until his death, 75 per cent. of that amount, $3,000.

* * *

The maximum pension is $3,000 a year for life, or three-quarters of the sessional indemnity. It is a comfortable size, but is only half as much as the official income of members of the other House. Senators receive an annual indemnity of $4,000 and an annual expense allowance of $2,000. Senators are not eligible for the parliamentary pension because they hold their seats for life, as long as they are able to appear in the Senate chamber. Senators, of course, do not contribute to their annual indemnities as Members of Parliament contribute to their retiring allowance.

* * *

The notion of a pension on account of public services voluntarily sought is displeasing to some people. The same persons might also feel that paying sitting Members of Parliament an annual stipend is wrong, too. However, the time has long past when Members of Parliament are recruited almost exclusively from classes of people who have sufficient outside incomes not to need recompense for their time in Parliament. Further, the sessions and work of the House have become heavier, allowing no member adequate time to pursue another full-time occupation. An active Member who has to rely almost exclusively on his sessional indemnities is in no position to build himself a competence for rainy days or his old age. A member who has served for a dozen years is often unable to resume the gainful occupation he surrendered to become a parliamentary representative. He has made Parliament a full-time job, and the other has disappeared. To cite one example: Mr. M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader. Mr. Coldwell has served in the House of Commons with conspicuous ability and notable industry for eighteen years. He is one of Canada's best parliamentarians, one of her most devoted public servants. Mr. Coldwell is not a man of independent means. It is right and proper that such a man have the security of a pension when his parliamentary service is ended.

Deputy-Treasurer Retires

The retirement of Dr. Chester Walters as Deputy Provincial Treasurer ends the longest term of any man in that office since Confederation. Dr. Walters served under six Provincial Premiers and three Provincial Treasurers. He was less well known to the general public than the ministers under whom he served, but persons familiar with the direction of Ontario's financial affairs knew very well that much of the credit for the Province's consistently successful financial management was due to Dr. Walters' outstanding ability and long experience.

Premier Leslie Frost has always been consistent in paying tribute to the work of Dr. Walters and the staff he built up during his long term in office. And Premier Frost, as Provincial Treasurer with a record of ten consecutive balanced budgets, is undoubtedly in a better position than any one to appraise the able contribution of his former deputy.

With his seventy-fifth birthday only a few days away, Dr. Walters has thoroughly earned relaxation from the cares of office. It is gratifying to learn that he will remain as finance comptroller, although relinquishing the executive duties of deputy minister. It is also gratifying to learn that his successor will be his former assistant, Hugh E. Brown, who was brought into the Treasury Department in 1935 by Dr. Walters himself.

Quick! Take A Look

Little red schoolhouses are disappearing. They are becoming big red schoolhouses, trim and square as modern factories, and brighter and lighter places in which rural pupils may learn their three R's. They have modern gadgets like electric lights, basements, furnaces, indoor toilets, lunch rooms, running water. See the new schools at Bridgenorth, at the Buckhorn-Lakefield turn, or the Lily Lake school. And while you are there, take a quick look at the old school beside it, before it goes into rubble.

There is no reason at all why country pupils should not be as well housed as urban children; hydro is available, wells can be dug and electric pumps installed, the same sort of modern designs used in city schools can be modified to suit a smaller unit, and our townships are as full of money as they are of people. However, it is not the decrepitude of the old red schoolhouse which generally occasions its replacement, but the increasing population in townships adjacent to cities. More pupils need more room than the old school has, and it is often cheaper to begin from the ground up than to try to tinker with a building eighty-five years old.

Canadian parents have always built generously for their children's education. The new rural schools are substantial, carefully designed and well-equipped. But the old little red schoolhouse was, in its earliest days, a model of decent provision, too. How many farmhouses in this district were made of brick, and well fitted with windows and porches, eighty years ago? Let us not disparage the fabric of the little red country schools—the school trustees and ratepayers of the school section often put up a better building for their children's education than they themselves could afford as their own homes.

While we are taking a first look at the new rural schools and a last look at the old, we may hope that the schooling in the new will be as good and as affectionately remembered as it was in the old.

Me Like Your Lovely London

Was it in 1790 or 1796 that white people paid a little good money to the Chippewa Indians for the land which is now the city of London? No matter, the treaty was made too long ago to quibble over six years. We thought about the matter in the first place because somebody in London might have sent a little more good money this week in the direction of some Indian, merely to justify the original payment for what London is. Perhaps we malign the place. Maybe somebody does not have to be paid to say London is lovely. Maybe the writer of the following letter to the London Free Press is not an Indian at all, but verily what his name and letter make him seem, a grateful and pleased New Canadian pretty fresh out of central Europe. Here is the letter:

Free Press,
London, Ont.
Dear people who print your paper.

Please make room in your paper to tell how much me like your lovely London. Seems to me every day a smile for everybody.

Oh so nice!

No fear—talk where you like—no secret police. Everybody smile, smile. Oh, like to live in lovely London. Tell everybody how nice. Back sore clapping so much—you do same. Oh so good to live in lovely London.

Go into store—buy what you want—lady smile, smile, smile.

Get on Waterloo bus. Little girl gets on. Make everybody feel oh so good with her smile. Rain come down oh so hard—Buss driver goes right up to hospital door to keep people from wetting. Oh so nice, so thoughtful for others. Knows secret, every day smile for everybody.

Oh so good to live in lovely London. Pray for our people in concentration camps in Europe and Russia don't know your every day a smile for everybody.

Charles Adokimos.

Afraid to give address but please put in your paper. Thank your paper now.

It is an unusual tribute to London and Londoners. Perhaps necessary for their self-esteem, living as close as they do to Stratford. That is why we had the unkind suspicion that the flattery was self-propagated, or the writer paid with a sack of flour and a nip of firewater.

BEST-KEPT SECRET

The War Of The Islands

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE WEST COAST of Korea is jagged, like a wall of broken glass. And along it there is a crumbling of islands, small, rocky, rising steep and sudden out of the Yellow Sea. In summer they are serene and beautiful; in winter they are shrouded in mists, and the more northern are locked in ice.

Ever since the war began in Korea, these islands have been the scene of a vicious campaign that was one of its best-kept secrets. All the larger islands as far north as the Yalu River itself were in United Nations hands. Now all of them north of the truce line—with the exception of four of them—have been left empty for the Communists to occupy. That was part of the truce agreement.

◇ ◇ ◇

THESE ISLANDS were never seriously attacked. They were the fruit of our absolute control of the sea. And the mixed naval task force and the garrisons of American marines which were directing dry land operations, of RoK (South Korean Army) marines and Korean partisans, were all under the command of a British rear-admiral. And hardly anyone knew anything about it.

◇ ◇ ◇

APART from the regular units, there was a large population scattered over the islands. These included the partisans, many of them deserters from the North Korean army; some of them merely bandits in the traditional style, a few men of principle. There were the dependants of these partisans, who were ocacsionally increased by raiding, and there were the simple refugees from the war.

A few days ago the evacuation of the islands was completed. The British Navy and the Americans' landing craft removed 600 U.S. marines, 1,500 RoK marines, 15,000 partisans, 11,000 of their dependants and 24,000 refugees.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE ISLANDS today are almost empty. There are three young men who took to the hills on Cho-Do thinking they would be forced to leave. The rest were too old to fear the Communists any more. One is an old lady of 87 who sleeps all day beside her coffin. The Navy has left a supply of rice and medicines for them.

It has not been an easy evacuation — the refugees left with everything they could carry, and the Koreans can carry more than any other nation in the world. They took their house timbers, their mats, their boxes of clothes and their food. Their cattle went south in junks and sampans. They crowded 400 strong on to landing craft. One party ate a whole year's ration of rice for a Korean crew in a single two-day trip. They left the ships in a most un-naval state.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE AMERICAN shore parties left nothing behind of any importance to the enemy. On Cho-Do, for example, which was the most useful of the islands, they left little more than the marine flag flying from a hilltop. Up to then they had maintained a radar station on the island which could plot the course of a Chinese plane as it crossed the Yalu and moved south.

◇ ◇ ◇

FROM OTHER islands the partisans operated. They were not very efficient nor very reliable as soldiers. They were given weapons, but no pay, only a pound and a half of rice a day. One party of them seemed to take this as a hint that they were to live off the mainland, and managed to collect four hundred head of cattle in a few months of cautious raiding. One British destroyer, moving in a thick night through dangerous, shallow waters, suddenly heard the sound of lowing cattle dead ahead. Fearful of running aground, engines were reversed; and the ship was passed by a sampan loaded to the limit with stolen cattle.

And all the time the British ships, with Canadian, New Zealand, Dutch and Australian vessels under command at various times, moved up and down the coast, watching for any attempt to raid the islands, "discouraging" the Chinese with occasional bombardment and assaulting the railways and military hideouts of the enemy with bombs from their carrier planes.

They did not themselves escape without loss.

◇ ◇ ◇

AT ALMOST any given time there were 3,000 naval personnel afloat off the west coast. Forty naval vessels were usually involved. Occasionally giants like the American Missouri or New Jersey would steam north and ponderously bombard the coast with shells from their 16-inch guns.

The result of all this was that at least 150,000 Chinese and North Koreans were kept as a garrison between the Han and Yalu rivers, continually expecting an assault like the one on Inchon which freeds the United Nations from the Pusan perimeter in September, 1951, and led to the recapture of Seoul.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN ADDITION, the Chinese built miles of fortifications and peppered them with gun emplacements. Many of these were half way up cliffs, approached by tunnels from the landward side and closed by steel doors when the gun was not firing.

The ships are still there today, patrolling our own waters and properly avoiding the enemy's. And doubtless, if the tragedy of this war should begin again they will again move in on the islands.

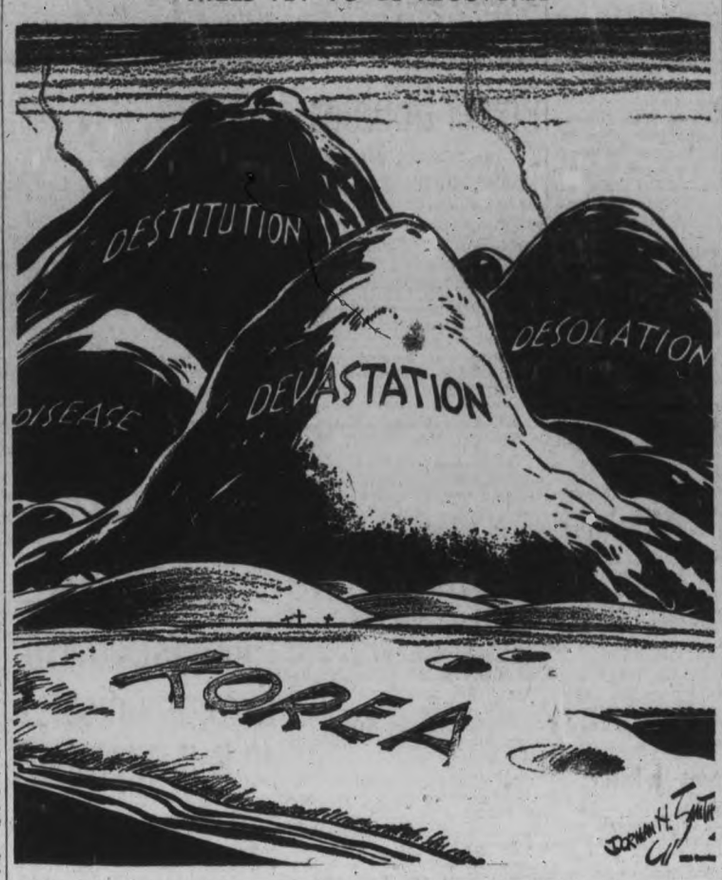
Man Bites Dog

(Ottawa Journal)

These must be the dog days of which one reads. We come upon a newspaper picture ("by wirephoto") of a boy and a pup. The youngster, a West Virginian of 14 months, bit his pet pup in the nose in what is called "an argument over a chicken leg," thereby creating the classical news situation, and held on so tightly his mother had to pry the boy's jaws apart to release the unhappy canine.

Sweden Burrows In



(New York Herald Tribune)

Sweden partially lifted the secrecy from its 10-year-old "Operation Granite", designed to shelter 800,000 persons from atomic bombs.

The biggest cavern has been blasted in a mountain in the heart of Stockholm, and has three stories underground for 20,000 persons. Most of the nation's jet fighters have bases carved out of granite. Part of the Swedish Navy can dock in secret harbors gouged from mountains along the Baltic coast.

Other buried installations include aircraft, tank and munition factories; hospitals, power plants, laboratories and fire stations.

HILLS YET TO BE RECOVERED

Letters To The Editor

CEMETERIES OVERCOMING THE EARTH

Sir: As an Englishman of note recently remarked—England is in the act of becoming a huge cemetery, a country with a huge population, and little place in which to bury them.

There is little fear of such a thing taking place in rural Ontario, for we have plenty of land to look after this matter, nevertheless, I contend that cemeteries once they get out of hand can become an expensive luxury. Cremation or chemical disposal of the dead is a far more practical answer and much cheaper too. Cemeteries have a way of self disposal and it is hard indeed to see stones standing much more than two hundred years old; which is quite an age.

Flood, earthquake and wars have a way of disposing of them. Many a battle has been fought in and over a graveyard with little of the surroundings left as it was.

Cemeteries are as a rule quiet reflective places in which to browse on a warm summer afternoon. Reading the headstones, reflecting on the lives, times and customs of these inhabitants of a dead city. Cemeteries are of historical value too. Names on the headstones usually tell from what part of the country the occupants of the tombs came. Many law cases have been climaxed by the visit to a cemetery. Yes and murder cases solved too.

It is a revolting and sickening thing to wander through a neglected and forgotten home of the dead. Toppled stones! Stones leaning at a drunken angle. An air of desolation and sadness, intensified by the lights and noises of the city in the distant valley. But they—the dead—are not aware of anything amiss. It is only we that have failed in a good many cases to accomplish what we set out to do—keep the memories of our pioneer ancestors green.

Cemeteries in the overcrowded cities are becoming a great problem. The natural destructiveness of children; the steady rise in the value of real estate and if the earth continues in its fecundity the next hundred years will see the general acceptance of cremation as an answer to the overcrowding of the earth as a burial ground.

POLICEMAN'S LOT

Sir: In regard to the letter a few nights ago from "An Irate Citizen," please allow me to voice my opinions.

"Irate Citizen" could not have too much civic pride to talk in the manner he did. What if our policemen do not dress with military care? They were not organized to be fashion-plates, but for the dirty job of fighting crime.

How would "Irate Citizen's" clothes look after a day of directing stupid drivers in traffic, pounding sidewalks and the other unpleasant duties of a policeman?

I, too, have seen policemen in the theatres. But if they were not there in case of an emergency you may be sure, people like "Irate Citizen" would be the first to complain.

What would happen if "Irate Citizen" pulled up to park and the meter was out of order? Yes, another letter to the editor.

Our policemen are constantly in the public eye. Sure they make mistakes, quite often embarrassing mistakes. What human being doesn't?

Peterborough has a minimum of crime, and of this we should all be proud. But do our policemen ever get the credit for this? No. When a culprit is apprehended it is classed by most people in this city as luck. It is the result of hard work by these men, not luck that keeps crime here to a minimum. We should look up to our police force, not run it down.

A final word to "Irate Citizen" is this: "Go soak your irritated head."

Thanking you very much for this space.

I remain, Yours sincerely,
A PROUD CITIZEN.

LOCK SIGNS

Sir: Putting a sign pointing east at the corner or corners of Hunter, Street and Rogers Street would be of great value to strangers. Just today a car with a "D" license stopped at the corner of Rogers and James Streets and the driver said "Where is the Lift Lock?" He was really three blocks from Hunter and Rogers, and had to cover those three blocks before getting to the right direction.

He was interested enough to go out of his way six blocks to see the lock, whereas a sign pointing up the Hunter Street hill would be as interesting to those wishing to see it.

The Art Of Being Grandfather

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

The Liberal victory is what was expected, and goes even further . . . The Liberals obtained less than half the votes registered, but the character of their victory is universal. It was foreseen except perhaps in Ontario where observers wondered, at least at the beginning of the campaign . . . The Conservatives displayed much energy in vain; nowhere did they arouse the population. Their themes had no kick. Their organization did not seem up to level and their party chest appeared to be scanty. They wound up on a ridiculous finale, and the blow given them must be added to others received since 1935. Pale copy of the party in power, they know how to stimulate nobody; they are people who eat leaders, —we mean that the best man does not succeed in ironing out their internal contradictions; they have a mixture of conservatism, meanness and irresponsibility that characterize decadence. They take little time to swallow their leaders: they rendered Manion and Bracken powerless and Drew inefficient. Mr. Drew's Quebec campaign lacked neither generosity nor ability. One felt that he could not make head. He started from too far away and hit too many obstacles . . . Mr. St. Laurent is a capital element in the Liberal victory. His campaign was typical. Mr. St. Laurent has the art of reassuring. In the course of the campaign Mr. Drew tried to set fires . . . but the ability of Mr. Drew to set fires did not equal the ability of Mr. St. Laurent to put them out.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.

And he said unto him, Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?

And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully: and he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?

And he said, This will I do: I will put down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou has provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on . . . For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things. But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you. Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. (Luke 12: 13-22, 30-32.)

The Conquest Of Nanga Parbat

(New York Times)

The crest of Nanga Parbat, the seventh highest mountain on earth, is just as high today as it was at the beginning of July. Likewise the loftier crest of Everest still looms. But now Nanga Parbat, like Everest, has felt the foot of man at its highest point and one may say what mountaineers have long known to be true; that there are only two heights for mountains—the height that has been climbed and the height that has not been climbed. So, in a sense, Nanga Parbat, like Everest, has lost its aloofness and its loneliness. This happened on July 4, at 10 in the morning, when, according to dispatches from New Delhi, Herman Buhl, a member of a German-Austrian mountaineering team, came to the spot above which there was no more mountain, no more Nanga Parbat.

How to measure the relative merits of the climb up Everest, the climb up Nanga Parbat or the French expedition's recent ascent of Annapurna is a problem no one really need attempt. In each case the qualities necessary were present. In each case the risk of death by various misadventures was great. Nanga Parbat has been called "the most murderous mountain in the Himalayas"—this because 29 lives have been lost in attempts to climb it. Sixteen persons belonging to a German expedition died in a single avalanche on the mountain in 1937. They had taken risks, probably greater risks than sane mountaineering warranted.

The Alps were largely conquered more than a century ago. Now we are witnessing one by one the conquest of the Himalayan giants. Today's climbers attempt feats from which those of a hundred years ago would have turned away. They have some advantages in equipment, in oxygen devices and in prepared foods that the other tribe of climbers never had. But these new advantages are not enough to account for the new achievements. What those achievements say is that, in spite of moder ninventions and modern luxuries, the courage and endurance of the race of man, at the highest points of achievement, have not diminished.

Not Worried About Crop

SASKATOON (CP)—J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, said Thursday farmers are not dismayed at the prospect of a second record crop coming on top of a large carry-over from last year.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Phelps said there is no need to panic. He criticized The Canadian Press for what he termed the "pessimistic outlook" of a story quoting grain shippers and steamship officials as saying lack of buying of Canadian grain by overseas countries has plugged most grain elevators from Fort William to the Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Phelps said he admits the wheat board faces a sales problem, the rail and shipping companies a transportation problem, the grain companies and farmers a storage problem. But he said the problems can be solved by co-operation and a commonsense attitude.

Was Governor of N.C.

QUEBEC (CP)—Cameron Morrison of Charlotte, N.C., Democratic governor of North Carolina from 1920 to 1924, died Thursday of a heart attack in his hotel room while on a holiday here.

RECORD PRODUCER—In a scenic setting of mountains surrounding Waterton Lakes National Park, near Lethbridge, Alta., is the Bruder No. 1 well in the Pincher Creek wet gas field. Completed to a depth of 12,415 feet, the well came in with a record flow of 168,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day. The bottom-hole pressure is 4,950 pounds a square inch and, as gas flowed from the well and the tremendous force released, the countryside trembled. This well now has been capped waiting provincial authorization for the export of gas.

Canadians In Korea To Do More Soldiering In Autumn

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—The armistice is going to mean more active soldiering than Canadians have had in Korea for almost two years.

The men for that time were confined to front-line bunkers, where they sat and took enemy shelling, from which they went out on raids and patrols, and from which they escaped once a week or 10 days for a shower and a movie in the rear echelons.

Now, says a brigade headquarters training instruction just issued, they're going to get mobile again.

The instruction provides in detail for basic training at the individual, platoon and company levels during September and October

BRIGADE EXERCISES

And beginning early November, it says, "the brigade will be prepared to do a series of battalion and brigade group exercises in the mobile operations of war." The exercises will begin just when the 3rd Patricias are due to be relieved by the 2nd Canadian Highland Battalion, and will continue throughout the winter.

Elementary and ceremonial drills, weapons training, fieldcraft, section tactics, physical conditioning and bayonet fencing will be stressed during the first two months.

Brig. Jean Allard, the brigade commander, during the Saturdays of September and October, will do full inspections of each of the major units in turn, beginning Sept. 5 with A squadron of Lord Strathcona's Horse.

The Canadian NCOs' school at Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul, is to be reorganized. Since formation of the 1st Commonwealth Division the school has trained all the division's NCOs.

CANADIAN TRAINING

Beginning Sept. 14 the school will be devoted to Canadian training only. Courses to qualify for corporal and sergeant, lasting six weeks, and two-week refresher courses for instructors will be taught.

Officers with an eye to promotion or staff college entrance will begin courses at brigade headquarters the following day.

By Nov. 1 it is planned to have every soldier in the brigade checked off as having reached the standard of training prescribed by Ottawa's standing requirements for the leading infantryman.

All the while battalions will be conducting their own exercises, emphasizing the withdrawal and attack phases of warfare.

Should hostilities be resumed it is anticipated that a withdrawal to regroup would be necessary under the force of the enemy's initial assault, after which the division would counter-attack. The training is intended to guarantee that the troops will be fully rehearsed in those roles.

HAVE DISCUSSIONS

During September, October and November, all captains and majors in the brigade will participate in syndicate discussions on problems that have confronted the brigade since its inception.

Not only will its method of original organization be gone over, but its recruitment, training, equipment and fighting problems will be discussed.

Significantly, the topic for Friday Sept. 4 is "the training and provision of reinforcements."

Donald Crisp Returns To Acting Roles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From mutoscope to cinemascope—that's the story of the 47-year movie career of Donald Crisp.

The distinguished character actor has ended a three-year absence from the screen because retirement "was driving me crazy." I found him complete with wig and beard in his role as Robert Wagner's father in "Prince Valiant." It is only fitting that the film is being made in the new process, cinemascope.

"That completes the cycle," he observed. "When I started in pictures in 1906, I started in the mutoscope. You know, that's the machine you look into and the pictures flip by, giving the illusion of movement."

For all his long career in films, Crisp seems barely in middle age. He told some fascinating tales of the early days in the movies. Such as buying the world rights to "Ramona" for $2,500, making the picture for $38,000 and grossing $3,000,000.

SPLIT WITH GRIFFITHS

It was Crisp who directed the famed battle scenes in "Birth of a Nation." He split with D. W. Griffiths when the latter refused to give him film credit.

Three years ago, acting salaries took a tumble, and Crisp decided to lay off films.

"I didn't need the money to live on," he remarked, "and there were a lot of other actors who could use the work. So I said I wouldn't take a cut. I've seen too many actors ruined by doing that.

Crisp had looked forward to his retirement. He travelled in Europe, Egypt and elsewhere and rented an island in British Columbia, where he spends 10 or 12 weeks during the salmon season. But time began to weigh heavily on his hands.

"I would wake up in the morning and wonder what I was going to do that day," he remarked. "I would sit around the house and nearly go screaming mad for lack of anything to do. I would have welcomed anything, even whitewashing the roof."

DIED OF BROKEN HEART

"Idleness can ruin men. I used to run into D. W. Griffith on Hollywood boulevard occasionally and he would begin crying, so eager was he to be given some kind of work in the industry he helped to found. When I delivered the eulogy at his funeral, I remarked that it was a great shame that this business couldn't have found something for him to do. He literally died of a broken heart."

Crisp finally gave up the rocking-chair life and made himself available for picture offers. Now he wants to do one film a year. Who knows—he might even pick up another bookend to go with the oscar he won as a supporting actor in "How Green Was My Valley" in 1941.

Plan Recount In York-Humber

TORONTO (CP)—A recount will be held Monday in suburban York Humber riding where the official tabulation of the Aug. 10 vote in the federal election showed Progressive Conservative Margaret Aitken leading Liberal candidate Ken Thompson by 78 votes.

Mr. Thompson was reported to have won the seat in the unofficial count election night. However, in an official tabulation Tuesday Miss Aitken, Toronto newspaper columnist, was given the seat.

Mr. Thompson said in a telephone interview from his Timagami summer home that the result "came as a complete surprise. . . and does not agree with the incomplete returns available at the time I left."

Orillia Newspaper To Become Daily

TORONTO (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Gemmell said Thursday Ontario will earn more than $100,000 in revenue this year by charging a nominal fee for young trees for reforestation.

Demand has again exceeded supply although the number of trees available has been increased, he said. More than 21,000,000 young trees were made available for reforestation this year and about 10,000,000 of them were planted by the department.

Board Approves Minimum Prices

TORONTO (CP) — The farm products marketing board of the Ontario department of agriculture announced Thursday its approval of negotiating committee recommendations establishing minimum prices and terms of contract for pears and grapes and arbitration board recommendations establishing minimum prices and terms of contract for peaches and plums purchased for processing in Ontario this year.

Minimum prices set for 1953, with 1952 prices in brackets, are: Prune plums $60 ($60); damson plums $60 ($60); jam type plums $48 ($50); jubilee and elberta peaches $90 ($97.50); "V" and all other peach varieties $80 ($82.50); bartlett pears 2 inches and up $107.50 ($110); bartlett pears 1¾ to 2 inches $57.50 ($60). Will Unveil N.S. Memorial

OTTAWA (CP)—A famous old news-transmitting service will be commemorated by a memorial to be unveiled Aug. 26 at Victoria Beach, N.S., near Digby, the resources department announced Thursday.

The memorial, constructed on recommendation of the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, will recall the Pony Express, operated by an association of United States newspapers, the forerunner of the present Associated Press, to transmit the first news from Europe in 1849.

The news was brought by the Cunard steamers reaching Halifax fortnightly on their way to Boston. The express, using horses from Halifax to Digby Gut—now Victoria Beach—and steamboats from there carried the news to Saint John, N.B., where it was sent to United States points by telegraph.

The pony express operated from February to November, 1849, and was discontinued when telegraph lines were extended to Halifax.

Oil Pipeline Moves East

BRANTFORD (CP)—A big pipeline, to tunnel oil from Sarnia to Toronto, is creeping across Western Ontario at the rate of two miles a day. It will reach Toronto in about 40 days. The eight-inch line, owned by the Sun Oil Company, has reached South Dumfries township north of here and already has travelled 116 miles.

Gets Prison Term

STRATFORD (CP)—Pte. Warner Hunt, 18, of St. Marys and Kingston, was sentenced Thursday to nine months definite and six months indefinite in Ontario Reformatory on a charge of breaking and entering. Hunt, who is AWOL from the Canadian Army, pleaded guilty. The accused was charged with breaking and entering a billiard hall in St. Marys.

Will Earn $100,000 On Reforestation Trees

ORILLIA (CP)—The Packet and Times, one of Orillia's two weekly newspapers announced Thursday it will become a daily in the fall.

It said the date of the change will depend on completion of additions to the building and on installation of a 16-page press and other equipment.

The paper was bought nearly three years ago by the Thomson Newspapers.

The Packet was founded in 1867 and amalgamated with the Times more than 30 years ago.

Transports Jump Ahead In City League Series With Win Over Seabrookes

TP Transports were strictly on the beam Thursday night at the East City Bowl, to go one up in their best-of-seven men's senior city league softball championship series with Seabrooke Motors, by virtue of a 7-4 victory before one of the largest play-off crowd of all time at the Ashburnham pit. The series stands 2-1 for TPTs at the moment.

Hundreds of fans crowded every corner of the field to witness a stirring struggle between evenly matched foes, and remained spellbound to the finish.

EAKINS AGAIN

Haddy Eakins, fireball king of local softball, toed the rubber for Transports after having hurled 24 hours earlier against Port Anne in intermediate "A" OASA playoffs, a sparkling 9-8 victory, and again proved his mettle by leading his mates to victory. Eakins proved somewhat wilder than usual as he bore down hard throughout against his dangerous rivals, walking 11 men. However, he gave up but three bingles, fanned 11 and proved particularly effective with ducks on the pond.

Lefty Jack Doris, his opopnent, twirled fairly steady ball until the sixth when hits by Castle, Crowe and Eakins netted two runs to total five for the Bennett men; and coach Scriver, with manager Bill Sullivan, motioned diminutive Jim Driscoll and his fire wagon. Driscoll toiled hard in relief but was unable to stem the winning Transport tide. Doris gave up 10 hits, fanned one and yielded no walks, to emerge the loser; Driscoll allowed four hits, struck out one and passed a single hitter.

Gus Leonard singled in the first to start, scored on Greenlaw's smashing left-field triple and himself tallied on Junior West's rousing double. No further scoring by either team came till the fifth, when each tallied once.

SCORE ON WALKS

Seabrooke's scored when Eakins hit his first and worst wild spell to push Jaquith, Currie, Sullivan and Donghue around on balls and Jaquith scored. Jack Mackness hit a long one over the right centre field fence to regain that one in the home half.

Wyatt walked in the sixth and later scored when Neil Thompson doubled. Transports then tallied two in their half with Eakins aiding his own cause as mentioned. Transports were not to be subdued—entirely, that is—and came on for one run in each of the seventh and eighth frames on hits by Greenlaw, West and Castle first; then Leonard's walk with Mackness' triple in the eigth as the big boy smote that melon as of old. The crowd gave the veteran all-round star a mighty hand.

RALLY IN NINTH

Seabrooke's put up a desperate rally in the ninth when Eakins passed Thompson and Jaquith; then Currie singled to score Thompson and Sullivan, and Donghue walked also, to bring in Jaquith. But hope died in Ashburnham when Scriver flew to short and Wyatt skied to Greenlaw, to end the hectic frame.

Several neat fielding plays studded the sparkling struggle with Skeeter O'Heron, Neil Thompson, Junior West, Toody Greenlaw, Bob Wyatt, Gus Leonard and Red Sullivan leading the parade in deftness afield. The series continues Tuesday night at 8 p.m.

Seabrooke Motors—Thompson, ss; Jaquith, rf; Currie, 2b; Sullivan, 1b; Donoghue, cf; Scriver, c; Wyatt, 3b; O'Heron, cf; Doris, p; Spencer (batted for Doris in the ninth).

28 Bowlers Meet For Championship

HAMILTON (CP)—Twenty-eight bowlers meet here Saturday in the Ontario lawn bowling championships and the right to advance into the Eastern Canada finals.

They will decide the singles, doubles and rinks champions before the events wind up. The winners will clash with Quebec's representatives for the Eastern Canada crown.

When a team from the East is decided, it will play the West in Winnipeg. The winner of that set will take part in British Empire Games competition in Vancouver next year.

The championships will also decide a winner of the Ontario juniors doubles. However, this group will not go to the B.E. games.

Winning players in 16 sections in the province played off in four divisions to earn the trip to Hamilton. The four divisions all have players in the four competitions.

THOSE PLAYING

Windsor Jackson Park, skipped by C. Molyneaux; Ottawa Central, with M. A. Atkinson, a previous provincial champion, at the helm; Grimsby with G. Warner in command, and North Toronto, led by J. Morland, comprise the rinks section.

W. D. Duncan and R. W. Edney of Kingston, C. J. Hill and R. Trumper of London Elm Wood, L. Moser and J. Dorsch of Waterloo and W. N. Black and N. Robinson of West Toronto, will fight for the doubles title. Edney last week skipped a Kingston rink to the Simpson Trophy at the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association 19th annual tournament at Toronto.

Provincial singles finalists are E. O. Strander of Tillsonburg, L. Smith of Dundas, G. Hillson of Agincourt and J. Beacom of Toronto Kew Beach, a member of the winning doubles team at Ottawa in 1950.

JUNIOR FIGHT

The junior doubles fight will be waged by London Elm Wood's D. Robinson and D. Smith, Hanover's L. Ellis and G. Ruhl, D. Duncan and W. J. Duncan from Kingston and J. Marshall and T. Marshall of Toronto Rusholme.

Play in all competitions will be round-robin. Every entry will play three games—one with each other entry in the group. The provincial rinks, doubles, singles and junior doubles champions will be declared by a point system allowing two for a win and one for a tie.

If two competitors are tied under this system, the one totalling the highest scores of the three games will win. Rinks and both doubles competition matches will consist of 21 ends. The singles games will be played to 21 points.

The finals in bantam (best-of-five) go Aug. 31 with Dodgers vs. Leafs or East City at Riverside, second game Sept. 3 at Brinton and third Sept. 5 at Riverside, all at six p.m. Other games if needed will be listed later.

The peewee series, best-of-three, start Aug. 22, Athletics vs. Leafs at 10 a.m. in the Bowl, second game Aug. 25 at six p.m. in Brinton, and third, if necessary (toss for home team) Aug. 27 at six p.m. at King Edward.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

In view of Liflocs' junior OBA playdown game with Belleville here at six tonight in Riverside, a ball story as told by Al Austin of Guelph may be appropriate. Seems the devil was always challenging St. Peter to a ball game, but St. Peter always declined. Finally, the Dodgers and Yanks all went to heaven, so St. Peter reconsidered the devil's offer and called him up. "Now I'll play you that baseball game," he said. "You'll lose," said the devil. St. Peter replied: "I'm not worried. I've got the greatest collection of ball talent ever assembled right now." But the devil insisted St. Peter would lose, and the latter asked why he was so sure. "Because," laughed the devil, "we've got all the umpires"

Betting was brisk at the harness race meet here last Saturday and government-controlled wagering will continue in Morrow Park this Saturday. But it's a twilight meet on the morrow, starting at 5.30. Five races are listed in 10 heats for good purses, and a raft of top Ontario pacers will go to the post. The modern starting gate has eliminated false starts which makes for more continuous race action. Horses coming here from Toronto, Renfrew, Belleville, Midland, Oshawa, Port Hope, Trenton, Cannington, Brighton and so forth, as well as Peterborough and district. Meet is put on by the local Turf Club, proceeds being used for repairs to buildings at the track.

Readying Up The Alibis

St. Catharines' scribe says: "Petes aren't a super-team and still can't compare to the 1938-41 Athletics. However, they are well balanced, have a capable goalie in Wootton, and are unquestionably the roughest, toughest group of lacrosse players to cross the Ontario boxla horizon in a good many years. To defeat the Trailermen, A's will have to use their legs and tremendous natural ability in every way. Athletics must keep that centre opened up and display the type of passing and teamwork they showed against Fergus. That recently concluded series shows that the Saints can take punishment and give it out. That's what they'll have to do against Peterborough." Tch, tch.

* * * * * *

The Thorpe team readily recalls the roughing handed out by the St. Kitt's crew at home in semi-final playoffs last year as A's tried to cripple 'em up and nearly did so for the series with Yorks. This OLA and Eastern Canada final best-of-seven set isn't likely to be any garden party. It opens here tonight, weather permitting, with the return at St. Catharines on Monday. Back here next Wednesday and away the following Saturday. It might well go the limit, but we feel confident that Petes will be taking off from Malton airport for B.C. on Sept. 12. Though there isn't much doubt that this series will be a keen one, nothing like the one-sided semi-finals when Petes ousted Orillia Yorks in four straight.

Listing Those Orfuns

Thirty or more Orfuns' grid prospects travel by car tomorrow to Ottawa to play the Riders' second team an exhibition match under the lights. This is the list Tony Kotowski expects to field: Blair Thomson, Spin Hope, Bus Jensen, Ron Hodson, Gord Beatty, Bill Huntley, Army Armstrong, John Berry, Don Bark, George Charlevois, Clive Naismith, Hank Russelle, Rhy Holman, Archie Rentau, Alex Archibald, Bill Kirkwood, Al Beavis, Floyd Ouelette, Mel Inch, Don Curtis, Jack McIntyre, Bob Howe, Ken Newark, Jim Milligan, Johnny Giardino, Bill Trimm, Neil Oliver, Fred Bartley, Reg Fowler, John Conlin and Bev Groves. New uniforms will be ready for the game, and the club has group insurance on the players.

* * * * * *

Now, the above list isn't necessarily the 1953 Orfuns' team which opens its schedule Sept. 5. However, most of the above are pretty sure starters in ORFU play again. The coach still hopes to get Jack Matthews, Lou Nickle, Joe Berthelot and the McGillis brothers. Frank Fitzgerald (a grand lineman) can't make it because of his job. Jack Sisson and one or two more are still possibilities. Glad to see hard-plunging Blair Thomson out with the team, and Gord Beatty back on the line after threatening to retire. Orfuns should have a dandy backfield, but could stand a few more ace linemen. At that, we think they'll be stronger than last fall when they reached the Canadian intermediate "A" finals.

CanadiansNearly Cause Upset

BROOKLINE, Mass, (CP)—For a while Thursday the two lone Canadians in the U.S. doubles tennis tournament threatened to pull off the biggest upset of the competition.

Lorne Main of Vancouver and Paul Willey of Montreal, entering the third round, ran right into the U.S. Davis Cup hopes, Wimbledon singles titlist Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and promptly dispatched the vaunted Americans 8-6 in the first set.

But Seixas, still suffering from a wrenched right knee, and Trabert settled down to eliminate the Canadians, winning three straight sets 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

The dreams Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup aces, had of becoming the first to win all five of the world's major doubles tennis titles were rudely shattered by Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., and Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va.

Already winners of the Australia, British, French and Italian doubles this year, Hoad and Rosewall, both 18, lost 5-7, 14-12, 18-16, 9-7.

Aussies Pleased England Won

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australian newspapers taking a longer look at England's fifth test cricket triumph, today seemed happy that the "Ashes" had been regained by England.

The Sydney Morning Herald said editorially: "Australia has lost the Ashes (symbol of world cricket supremacy) and the odd thing is that most Australians are genuinely pleased about it. Nineteen years ago is too long for any country to dominate a game."

Sydney Smith, president of the New South Wales Cricket Association, said "England's Ashes victory is the greatest tonic the Australian cricket could have had."

The Sydney Sun said: "England's victory will be hailed with pleasure by the majority of Australians who still believe the game is the important thing."

Wilmington's Star Derby Winner

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Wilmington's Star zipped into the lead near the head of the stretch and scored a length victory Thursday night in the $25,000 Yonkers Pacing Derby, clipping two full seconds from the Yonkers Raceway track record for 1½ miles.

The winner, a 5-year-old black, son of Wilmington-Miss McStone, was clocked in 3:06 flat as he was driven under the wire by Billy Haughton. The time was only two-fifths of a second off the world mark set July 30 by Chuck Volo in winning the $50,000 Nassau Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Red Sails, a 25 to 1 shot owned by H. T. King of Lynn, Ind., and driven by Robert Walker, finished second. The 8 to 5 favorite, W. G. Reynolds' Direct Rhythm of Louisville, Ky., was third.

Chuck Volo, second choice at 3 to 1, was unable to challenge the leaders, and finished sixth. Thomas B. Scott finished fourth.

Prince Adios, owned by Grant Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., was seventh.

Dodgers Polish Off New York Giants In 10-0 Lashing

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The race for final positions in the major league standings appears to be all over in both circuits except to find out who's going to finish third. Although there are still five weeks to play it's mostly just a question of waiting for the World Series—for Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees—and for next year. The third place races, however, are close in both leagues. Cleveland Indians hold third in the American League by only half a game over Boston Red Sox. St. Louis Cardinals have a game edge on Philadelphia Phillies in the National.

Except for the third-place battles, at least six games separate the clubs in their present positions in the National League. Only seven games divide the last place St. Louis Browns from the sixth-place Philadelphia Athletics in the American League, with Detroit Tigers sandwiched in between.

NINE-GAME EDGE

The league-leading Dodgers and Yankees each have a nine-game edge. Brooklyn has 36 games to play, New York 35.

In Thursday's curtailed activity the Dodgers thumped New York Giants 10-0; St. Louis defeated Chicago Cubs 5-3 and Pittsburgh Pirates beat Philadelphia 5-2 in the National League. The Yankees whipped Washington 7-0 and Cleveland bounced Detroit 13-7 in the American.

Carl Erskine, Brooklyn's biggest winner, posted his 15th victory of the season and his second straight four-hit shutout over the stumbling Giants. Erskine didn't walk a man and struck out six. Junior Gilliam, Jackie Robinson and Bobby Morgan hit home runs.

Robin Roberts fell victim to Philadelphia's sieve-like defence. The Phillies committed four errors and four of the Pirates' five runs were unearned. Granny Hamner, who was charged with two of the misplays, and Earl Torgeson homered for the Phils. Bill Waugh won his third game against three losses for Pittsburgh.

DOUBLES HOME RUNS

Wilmer Mizell doubled home the winning runs in a sixth-inning rally as he hung up his 11th victory for St. Louis. He gave up seven Chicago hits but needed help from Gerry Staley to get the last out in the ninth. Red Schoendienst hit a home run with one on.

The Yankees bombarded Bob Porterfield, the league's shutout leader, for seven runs in the fourth inning and broke his five-game winning streak. Eddie Lopat, who causes the Senators to play dead at the mere sound of his name, won his 11th straight against Washington.

Cleveland broke its four-game losing streak with an 18-hit attack at Detroit including home runs by Harry Simpson and Jim Hegan. Bob Lemon needed help in the seventh but lasted long enough to win his 17th game. Hegan's homer and his two singles drove in four runs.

Wings Leading League After 4-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings soared to the top of the International League ladder Thursday night with Wally Moon's homer.

The rookie outfielder's big clout in the last of the ninth inning gave his club a 4-3 victory over Buffalo Bisons and lifted it into first place over the Herd by a half game. The triumph was Rochester's eighth in a row.

While the Wings were disposing of Buffalo, Montreal Royals edged Baltimore Orioles 4-3. The Royals now are 2½ games behind the leaders, in third position, and Baltimore is fourth, 6½ games back.

Toronto fans saw their Maple Leafs defeat Syracuse Chiefs 12-9 for a clean sweep of a five-game series—putting them hot on the trail for a playoff berth. The Leafs are fifth, only a half game behind Baltimore.

SUPERB RELIEF

Don Johnson pitched superb relief ball in the 27-hit slugfest, holding the Chiefs to four safeties in the last seven innings for his 13th victory in 22 starts. Lew Morton slammed his 15th homer—bases empty—for the winners.

At Springfield, John Mackinson scattered seven hits in pitching Ottawa Athletics to a 4-1 victory over Springfield Cubs. Mackinson who posted his seventh win, had a shutout going into the ninth. The triumph gave the A's a 12-10 edge for the season series with the Cubs.

At Rochester, Vern Benson's solo homer in the sixth, before Moon's big blow, tied the score 3-3 for the Wings. Jack Faszholz, who matched Paul Foytack's five-hit effort, was the winning pitcher. Jack Wallaesa smacked a homer with one aboard for the Herd.

SENSATIONAL CATCH

A sensational fence-crashing catch by Frank Marchio at Baltimore saved a tie and maybe the game for Montreal.

This is what happened:

In the ninth, with one away, Marty Tabacheck drew a walk and Jack Lohrke hit for Heintzelman. Lohrke drove the ball to the fence in left centre. Marchio crashed head-on into the wire barrier as the ball hit his glove. He bounced back and fell to the ground, but held the ball. Tabacheck was so astonished he stood still at second, and Sandy Amoros, taking the ball from the fallen Marchio, threw to Roy Hartsfield who relayed it to Rocky Nelson in time to get Tabacheck for a double play.

Moffat Heads Hockey Club

GALT (CP)—J. A. (Jack) Moffat was elected president of the Galt Junior A hockey club for the 1953-54 season at the club's annual meeting Thursday. J. H. Ennett, retiring president, was named a vice-president.

Harold Gaskin is the new treasurer and Arthur Parsons becomes secretary.

At the request of the OHA, the meeting declared the franchise the property of the Galt Junior A hockey club under the names of the current slate of officers.

The league request stemmed from confusion encountered by the OHA in determining ownership of the Windsor Spitfire franchise, transferred to Hamilton in the name of Lloyd Pollock. All junior A clubs have been asked to name franchise ownership.

Kitchener ORFU Called Dutchmen

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener's new senior entry in the [illegible] Rugby Football Union will themselves Dutchmen.

Coach Gerry Tuttle said Thursday night that the name had been decided upon recently. Tuttle is whipping 50 candidates into shape for the league opener.

He already has signed four United States imports. The latest is backfielder Paul Amodio of Kent, O., who played for Kent State College and with the United States Navy team for five years.

Reds Staged 'Olympics' For Allied PoWs

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

TOKYO (AP)—The Communists staged two "PoW Olympics" for Allied prisoners in North Korean stockades, but members of "minority groups" always won and athletic competition took a back seat to prcpaganda.

This was the story told today by Cpl. Delmar Miller, 23, of San Diego, Calif., a former high school athlete freed by the Reds at Panmunjom.

American prisoners who took part in the PoW Olympics—about 200—"didn't care who won anyway," Miller said with a grin. The games were a welcome break from the deadly monotony of prison camp life.

Miller, who competed in both PoW Olympics said "the Chinese always had a special feeling for everybody but Americans." And in both games, he said, the Reds broke out their biggest propaganda banners and favored Negro soldiers and athletes from other countries.

DIFFERENT STORY

The Chinese also boasted "Russia won the last Olympics," and captives learned that the United States actually won only after their release at Panmunjom.

Miller said the "progressives"—captives who leaned to the Communists—didn't participate in the Olympics.

He said every event in the Olympics was judged by an English speaking Chinese and an American officer. The Chinese had the "last word."

He said in one 100-yard dash, the Chinese insisted that it be run again to make sure Negro soldiers won.

Abe Yanofsky Wins Chess Championship

HASTINGS, England (Reuters)—Abe Yanofsky of Winnipeg Thursday won the British chess championship, the first Canadian ever to hold the title.

Yanofsky, 28, nailed down the title at the end of the 10th round of the British chess congress here. The final round is to be played today, but win or lose no other contestant can match the Canadian's score.

Yanofsky, who held the lead from the sixth round, has 8½ points from eight wins and one draw. He lost only one game.

GET THE POINT?—Leo Durocher and Tom Gorman shake fingers warningly and have a few million well-chosen words to say to each other at Ebbets Field. Rhubarb broke out when Umpire Gorman reprimanded Al Worthington for throwing too close to Dodger Roy Campanella's head, the Giants' manager coming out to defend his pitcher.

Nine Finals Carded In Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—Nine finals are carded today for the Canadian junior tennis championships here.

In the junior women's singles, Mariette Laframboise, 17-year-old Montrealer who has won the title two years running, is matched against first foreign seeding Alexandra Hufty of Washington. In Thursday's semi-finals, Miss Laframboise defeated Judith Howe of San Diego, 8-6, 6-4, while Miss Hufty disposed of Carolyn Flemming of Truro, N. S., 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

The same two oppose each other in the junior women's doubles final. Miss Hufty is partnered by Miss Howe and Miss Laframboise by Eleanor Dodge of Montreal.

Finals of the boys' singles and doubles do not include a Canadian. Allan Silverman of Brooklyn, seeded first, meets sixth-seeded Tony Lieberman of Philadelphia in the singles and in the doubles joins with Lloyd Moglen of Mount Vernon, N. Y., in a first-seeded team to play second seedings Raul Karman of Havana and Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck, Mich.

Karman and Dubie got there with a 6-2, 6-2 win over Harry Freedhoff of Toronto and Dick Kalil of Cornwall, Ont., first Canadian seedings. Karman and Dubie also advanced to the junior men's doubles final by defeating Pat Northey and Richard Butrick of Montreal 3-6, 6-3, 15-13. Karman played a total of 95 games Thursday.

MEET AGAIN

Ann Barclay of Vancouver and Phyllis Saganski of Hamtramck meet again, this time in the girls' singles final. Thursday Miss Barclay took Miss Saganski's juvenile girls' title from her, 6-0, 6-2.

Both are also through to the girls' doubles final. Miss Barclay is paired with Carol Barton of Toronto, Miss Saganski with Donna Zoskey, also of Hamtramck.

In the junior mixed doubles final, Miss Hufty and Kalman Hettleman of Baltimore will play the winners of the semi-final match between Miss Dodge and Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., and Miss Saganski and Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N. Y.

Tournament officials intend to finish today the divisions open to Canadians only.

There were two other tournament winners Thursday, besides Miss Barclay. Ray Senkowski of Hamtramck won the juvenile boys' singles and Alvera Pena of Montreal the juvenile boys' closed singles.

Loss Of Backfielders Blow To Ti-Cats

By TOMMY MOORE

HAMILTON (CP)—When a football coach loses all but one of his defensive backfielders, it's time to start worrying, even if the season hasn't started.

Ant that's exactly what Carl Voyles, Hamilton Tiger-Cat mentor, is doing.

Last season when the Tiger-Cats ran and passed through the regular schedule to finish on top of the league before losing a three-game playoff to Toronto Argonauts, Voyles had such stalwarts as Hal Waggoner, Bobby McDonald, Doug Gray and Dick Brown. They were good enough to help make the club about the hottest in the four-team loop.

Only Brown is with the Tiger-Cats today. McDonald, stricken with polio, may never set foot on a gridiron again. Waggoner is in Texas with the United States Air Force. Gray, slowly recovering from the 'flu, expects to join the club again but won't be ready for at least three weeks.

SEEKING SOLUTION

However, Voyles is working on a possible solution to his backfield woes. He is trying to convert Ray Truant and Bobby Dawson, both without any senior experience, into defensive backs. Truant is from the University of Western Ontario and Dawson hails from Windsor, Ont.

Voyles hopes to whip them into shape by the time the Bengals make their 1953 debut at home with the Ottawa Roughriders Aug. 29.

Voyles' other Calgary talent includes George McPhail, with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers last year, Billy Graham, a 17-year-old from St. Andrew's College in Toronto, Merle Hapes, now a Canadian after spending five years here, Bill Berezowski, with the Tiger-Cats last year, Cam Fraser, a kicking and running back, Eddie Bevan and Tip Logan, one of the best Canadian ends in the business.

Looking at his set-up from an American angle, Voyles is supplied with some good imports. Tackles Ralph Sazio and Vince Mazza, Quincey Armstrong at snap and Bernie Custis, a strong-running backfielder, are all holdovers.

Voyles has imported Lou Kusserow, a quarterback from Davidson College, N.C., and Columbia University trying for berth, and backfielder Chuck Niven and Auburn Lambeth, just released by the U.S. army after two years' service in Korea.

MAY KEEP 2 ENDS

Alton Baldwin, a standout with Ottawa the last two years, and Vito Ragazzo from William and Mary University, Williamsburg, Va., are two ends Voyles may decide to keep.

The other Canadian players include: Ralph Toohy, hard-hitting outside, Alex Muzyka, a backfielder trying for a spot after being dropped midway through the 1952 campaign, Dunc Ellis from Kingston's Queen's University, Vince Scott, one of the best guards in Canada, Al Murphy, a high school sensation two years ago, Pete Woolley, a guard, Hank Simola, a junior last year, Ken MacTaggart, promising end from McMaster University in Hamilton, Jack Parsisson, just up from junior ranks, Louie DeFrancesco, Buster Brown, Don Beatty, with Calgary last year, Pete Neumann, Frankie Dilks, Dick Brown, Chet Miskza and Art Darch.

Big Bob Cross, up from Chicago Bears of the National Football League, is trying to beat Sazio and Mazza for a tackle position. Bill Gregus, who started with Hamilton in 1950, is gunning for a backfield spot.

FIGHTING FOR BERTH

Two speedy backs are fighting for Waggoner's vacated berth. They are Royal Bailey, from Tulane University, and Tommy Koller, a product of William and Mary University.

The big gun thus far has been Bob Celeri, the fellow who beat George Ratterman out of the regular quarterback berth with New York Yankees of the NFL last season. Celeri appears to have an edge over Lambeth for the signal-calling spot.

Voyles can keep 11 imports on the 36-man team he is allowed to sign. He hasn't given an inkling on his selections.

TI-CATS BRAIN TRUST—Coach Carl Voyles (left) and his assistant, Stud Johnson, are master-minding the gridiron activities this season of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, in the Big Four Football Union. They are shown smiling following a successful play by the Ti-Cats in a pre-season exhibition game. Usually football coaches are professional gloomsters, moaning how badly their squads will get beaten.

Lancashire Takes Big Lead Over Glamorgan

LONDON (Reuters)—Lancashire took a big first-innings lead over Glamorgan in county cricket Thursday, scoring 256 runs and then dismissing the Welsh side for 88, with the result that they have to follow on today.

Somerset was defeated for the ninth time this summer when they lost to Derbyshire. Reg Carter, Derby's 19-year-old left-arm bowler got seven Somerset men out for 46 runs.

County cricket final scores:

Gloucestershire 344 for nine declared, Middlesex 143 and 34 for one.

Derbyshire 326 for seven declared, Somerset 96 and 148. Derbyshire won by an innings and 82 runs.

Lancashire 256, Glamorgan 88.

Kent 336 for nine declared and 47 for seven, Yorkshire 205 for nine declared.

Essex 227 and 136, Leicestershire 121 and 103 for two.

Surrey 275 for seven declared and 30 for one, Northamptonshire 217.

Nottinghamshire 252 and 90 for seven, Sussex 254 for seven declared.

Warwickshire 181 and 312 for nine declared, Worcestershire 148 and five for no wicket.

FARMERS—ATTENTION

WANTED: A number of progressive farmers in Western districts who would like to set out a commercial block of Red Raspberries either for your local trade or for shipping to recommended city dealers. Recent Ontario-Quebec production figures, prices at 30-50c per quart and dealer reports would indicate short supplies everywhere.

To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a well known nursery is sending a special representative of many years' experience in commercial production to personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. This should result in higher unit yields, longer patch life, less labor and when translated into dollars, a high ratio of profit is assured.

Because of the present shortage of good planting material, bookings can only be made for Fall planting 1953 limited to one acre.

If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming, write Box 400, Campbellford, Ontario, on or before August 26th, giving location of your farm. Our specialist will call later and completely analyze the business, soil requirements and preparation, up-to-date cultural practices, home markets and surplus shipping, cost of planting, estimated yields and profits per acre. Late replies cannot be answered.

15-Year-Old Plays On Willingdon Team

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Something unprecedented becomes part of Canada's golfing annals Saturday at the Kanawaki Golf Club when a 15-year-old youngster makes his appearance with a Willingdon Cup team.

He is Wilf Homeniuk of Yorkton, Sask., and he will compete with Saskatchewan's representatives in the annual interprovincial team competition that precedes the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Making the situation even more intriguing is that Wilf walloped his 17-year-old brother Ted 4 and 2 in the Saskatchewan provincial final, but Ted also earned himself a trip to Montreal as his province's junior champion.

Two amateur championships will be decided at Kanawaki Saturday—the four-man provincial title, won last year by British Columbia, and the Canadian junior championship, competed for by the junior provincial champions. It was won last year by Lea Windsor of Halifax.

Both the team and junior competitions are match play over 36 holes.

MANY NEWCOMERS

There is a generous injection of newcomers into many of the teams this year. There was something of a flap over the make-up of the British Columbia representation before Walter McElroy, 1951 Canadian amateur champion, was named to a berth.

The British Columbia defenders will be hard pressed by the Ontario team which, on form and experience, should pack a terrific wallop. Surprises also may lurk in the other provinces.

In addition to McElroy, who definitely became a team member only Thursday, the BC contingent is: Dick Moore, Bob Morrison and Bob Fleming. Moore played on his province's team first back in 1934 and was again a member in 1935 and 1950. Morrison, another veteran, is 46 years old and on the team for the seventh time. Fleming, 1953 BC champion, is on his second cup team.

Ontario's team is headed by the redoubtable Gerry Kesselring. With him are three veterans, Phil Farley, Nick Weslock and Jack Nash, all with long experience in provincial and Canadian competition.

QUEBEC TEAM

The Quebec team has young Johnny Turner, provincial champion this year, and the veteran Tommy Riddell back again. Don Doe returns after a year's absence and is joined by newcomer Brian McGuigan.

Manitoba is sending three first-year team players, although one is 37-year-old Jack Gardner. The others are Don Gardner, 22, no relation, and Bill Budd, 33. Roy Kepron, 34, is the only former team member.

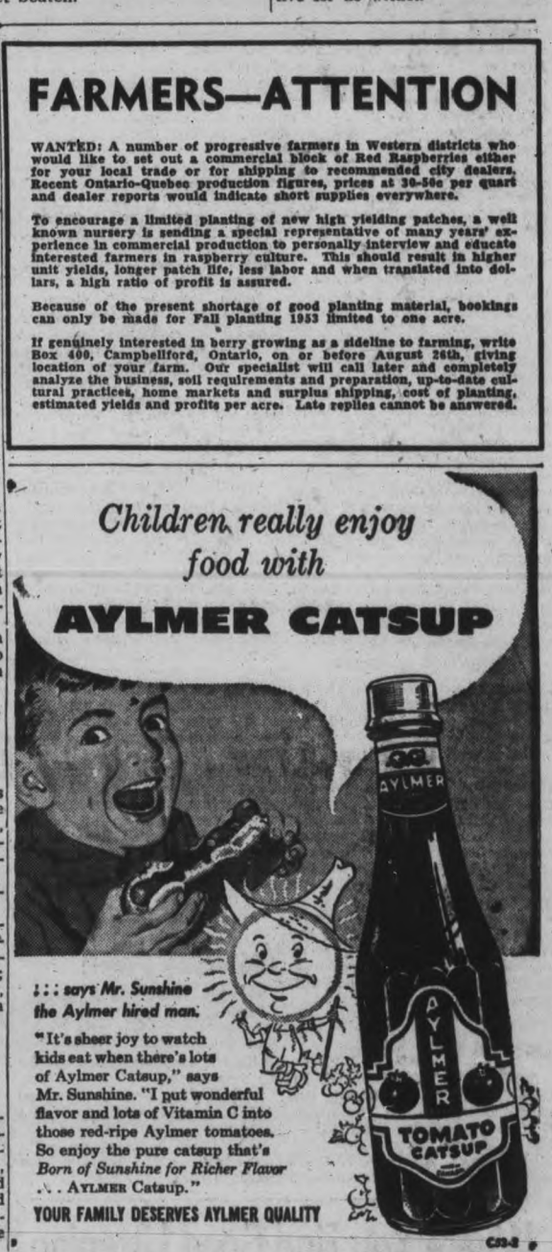
Glenn Gray is the only holdover on the Alberta team, but has had cup play experience. So has Vern Mohs. Doug Silverberg, former Canadian junior champion, and Keitch Alexander round out the team.

Wilf Homeniuk's teammates are Gordon Beattie, with previous Willingdon experience, and newcomers Del Wilson and Ian Ross.

Nova Scotia is sending Eddie Crowell, his fifth team appearance; Pete Doig, for the second time; Rex Joudrey, cigar-smoking veteran of five teams, and Harold Morash.

The combined NB-PEI team has the veteran Pete Kelly for the eighth time; Tommy Stewart, member last year; Bob Gray, formerly of Winnipeg, and Art McKenzie, newcomer.

The junior title-seekers, in addition to Ted Homeniuk, are:



British Columbia, Gordon MacKenzie, 17; Alberta, Jackie McMahan, 17; Manitoba, Allan Patterson, 18; Ontario, Bill Bell, 16; Quebec, Dave Pemberton-Smith, 18; NB-PEI Doug Lewis, 17; Nova Scotia, Paul Tregunno, 17.

Barber Fires 64 In Golf Open

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Jerry Barber, a skinny little fellow who looks as if a healthy golf swing would blow him off the tee, today was the biggest shot around the Summerlea Golf Club course.

The five-foot-five 140-pounder, usually just another name in the winter and summer circuit, charged down the wide-open fairways of the par-70 layout Thursday in the opening round of the $25,000 Open, leaving a trail of seven birdies for a record-busting 64. Only one hole—the tough par-four 17th—forced him to go over regulation figures.

Jerry shaved two strokes off the competitive record for the 6,515-yard course and made the Sneads, Middlecoffs, Burkemos and Turnesas look second-rate.

The 36-year-old native of La Canada, Calif., went into today's second round one stroke up on Max Evans of Detroit, who carded a 65.

EACH POST 66

Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., and Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., each posted 66, two strokes off the pace and another threesome kicked around par figures to tie at 67. They were Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., and Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

All told, 18 shotsmiths of the 125 field for the $5,000 first prize, gave par figures a beating. Weather conditions were ideal—a brilliant sun and little wind—and if these continue throughout the four-day 72-hole tournament it wouldn't surprise anyone if many more breezed around in the 60s.

The tournament, fourth richest in the world, got under way early and the crowd, estimated at about 1,000, passed up Jerry to follow the big names—Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., artist who has picked up $20,000 in prize money in 15 years; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., dentist-golfer; Jim Turnesa, one of the celebrated golfing family from Briarcliff, N.Y., who has won $20,000 in the last two years, and Walt Burkemo, dark-horse winner of the 1953 U.S. Professional Golfers' Association championship from Franklin, Mich.

HIT PAR FIGURES

Two of them managed to hit par figures on the button—Burkemo and Turnesa — but Middlecoff posted a one-over 71 and Snead, making his first appearance in Canada in three years, was well off the pace with a 35-38—73.

And Jerry, revelling in the comparative obscurity until about the 14th tee when word spread that he was on the rampage, played practically every shot like an old master. He gave an indication of things to come on the 530-yard par five hole when his second shot, dead on the mark, hit the pin and bounced about 10 feet off. He was down in two putts for a birdie.

Experts around the clubhouse, who figured a 72-hole score of from 268 to 275 would win the tournament, revised their figures downward after Barber led the par-smashers home. They climbed out on a limb for 267 with one reservation—if ideal weather conditions hold up until Sunday.

Barber was non-committal. He simply plays "every round as it comes along."

British Press Scorns Report On Sex

LONDON (CP)—Dr. Alfred Kinsey's latest work on sex has brought scepticism, scorn and some verbal sneers from the British press.

Reviews and commentaries on "Sexual Behaviour in the Human Female" pushed Britain's triumph in the test cricket matches with Australia off the front pages of many British newspapers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, however, was having none of it. The Express dismissed the report with a curt editorial ending:

"The Daily Express does not intend to publish a word of the stuff."

DOUBT ACCURACY

The report, it said, is "a preposterous document" and decided the American women interviewed were either "exhibitionists. . . boasting. . . or pulling the doctor's leg."

The mass circulation Daily Mirror devoted two columns to the report and said it "blows the gaff on all about Eve—at least, all about the American Eve."

The Daily Mail's considered opinion, voiced in a headline:

"Sex is here to stay."

220 Polio Cases, 7 Deaths Toll In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's 1953 polio toll has climbed to an official 220 cases and seven deaths, it was reported Thursday. However unofficial reports set the death toll at nine.

Latest victim was a 16-year-old boy in the Calgary district.

This year's outbreak still is running behind the record 247 cases and 33 deaths reported at Aug. 31, 1952, but may overtake these figures in the 11 days remaining in this month.

Meanwhile, Dr. N. Baster, director of communicable diseases, said Alberta is carrying out an "adequate program" regarding gamma globulin injections. All persons in immediate contact with a polio case were receiving injections and supplies were adequate for this program.

No decisions have yet been reached regarding keeping schools closed. They are due to open Sept. 1.

Captain Has First Hearing On Army Deal

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP) — Capt. Charles Harris appeared in magistrate's court here Thursday for preliminary hearing on charges under section 158 of the Criminal Code, of "accepting commissions and demanding compensation" on trucking business in connection with operation of the army camp at Hagersville. He was committed to stand trial in Ontario Supreme Court.

The officer has not been under arrest, in connection with the charges, and was allowed to go on his own recognizance to appear for trial later.

K. Bain Munro of Cayuga, was the special Crown prosecutor and defendant was represented by J. J. Robinette, QC, Toronto.

TO STAND TRIAL

WO. Edward Barton of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, charged with having accepted the sum of $300 from Hugh McLennan of the London Forwarders for assistance in obtaining government hauling jobs, was also committed to stand trial in a higher court. He also was released on his own recognizance.

Both of the accused are still on duty at the Hagersville camp.

U.S. Papers Give Kinsey Report Prominence

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's findings on women's sex lives Thursday received the biggest new prominence ever to greet a new book in the United States.

Many newspapers headlined the story in front-page streamers. A flock of national magazines hit the newsstands with Kinsey reviews. Radio and television networks took note of the event, using news announcements of the report but skipping detailed findings.

But there were critical reactions, too. Many newspapers spurned it entirely, on grounds the findings weren't fit to print or that it constituted advertising. Others tucked the story inside.

STIR COMMENT

The findings stirred a barrage of editorial comment, some complimentary, others strongly critical. Most voiced reservations about Kinsey's conclusions.

The Cleveland News, displaying the report at the top of page one, said in its editorial:

"We're inclined to believe that Kinsey gets his answers from braggarts, exhibitionists or those who are more or less abnormal. This could indicate Kinsey's hot-selling tomes are scarcely accurate pictures of American sex behavior."

A spot cross-country check showed that, of the first 77 U.S. newspapers reporting, 80 per cent used the story. Thirty-six displayed the report on front pages, 26 of them on inside pages. Fifteen papers omitted the story, but some of these carried editorials explaining why.

FORD V8

What is it that makes the beautiful Ford Sunliner Canada's best-selling convertible? Is it its smoother V-8 power? (Could be—because nothing less than the best in performance, and truly up-to-date design, can satisfy modern-minded buyers!) Is it the stylish beauty, the solid craftsmanship? ORIGINALS of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club were a group called the Silver Finettes, coached by Mrs. Pansy Forbes. They practised regularly in 1944 at the YWCA pool and brought considerable recognition to the city with their benefit shows in Ottawa, Toronto and Kingston. Prior to a visit to Ottawa for a request performance at an armed services show, the Finettes posed for this photo. They were: (front row) Connie McKelvey, Ethel Hopkins, June Killingbeck, Mabel Barnes, Isabel Crary, Grace Hawkes, Dorothy Wilson and Iris Forbes; (back row) Lillian Wood, Margaret Buck, Millicent Landsell, Helen Riel and Mrs. Forbes.

Chance At 1956 Olympics May Be In Offing For Girls' Swimming Club

Peterborough's Ornamental Swimming Club may have earned a ticket to the 1956 Olympic Games. That's when synchronized swimming may be introduced to the games.

When they won the United States' Amateur Athletic Union's team championship in women's synchronized swimming this week at Ormond Beach, Florida, they only emphasized a point that American and Canadian authorities brought up a year ago, that Peterborough has, if not the best, one of the best, swimming teams in North America.

For several years the club has been recognized in Canada as one of the leading synchronized swimming clubs. They have placed among the top in national meets and in addition have helped to promote the sport by being host to several international clinics.

It's Florida victory on Sunday placed the club at the top of the American clubs in team competition, indicating they're emphasizing larger group representation rather than duets and solos which American clubs work hardest on.

But they didn't need the Florida victory to impress American officials. They have always considered the Peterborough girls as contenders to their national crown. This was based on the club's team showings at Chicago, Cleveland, Des Moines, South Bend and Detroit over the past several years.

In previous United States championship meets the Peterborough teams have placed second, third, fourth and fifth. This regularity for standing well up in annual competitions prompted the American directors to invite the club last year to send a team to the Olympics.

Their appearance, along with those of other top North American solos and duets, was to introduce the sport to the Olympics for possible admittance to the 1956 games. Unfortunately expenses prevented the Peterborough girls from attending.

If the club keeps up its record at the United States nationals, they quite probably will be asked to represent Canada since no other Canadian club is strong enough to oppose them.

With its long-range program for introducing young girls to the sport, it appears that the Ornamental Club will remain the strongest, not only in Canada, but possibly in the United States for another few years.

Coach Pansy Forbes has been far-sighted enough, realizing that the Olympic opportunity isn't that far, to organize junior and intermediate sections to the senior club.

Two years ago she organized a junior club which took in girls from three years up. Last year she added the intermediate section for girls 10 to 14 years. This means that she trains the girls in synchronized swimming shortly after they take their first strokes.

That early start is now recognized in any sport as a "must" for national champions.

Therefore since only a few clubs in North America have this large program, it betters the Peterborough Club's chances of remaining the best and therefore the logical Olympic representative.

EASY DOES IT, MOM, says little Janice Crary to her mother, Isabel Crary, as she lowered into the YWCA pool. Both are members of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club. In fact the mother helped with the United States AAU team championship in women's synchronized swimming this week in Florida. Little Janice, a swimmer since she was three years old, is a member of the junior section.

Girls' Swim Club Gives City Free Publicity

Peterborough has received thousands of dollars worth of free advertising through the achievements of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming club. The girls, and the girls only, should be thanked.

Even back to the days of the beginning of the present club in 1944, the girls have been building their reputation through shows and competitions. With each they brought the city invaluable publicity.

Throughout Ontario the club has appeared at numerous cities such as Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston, Oshawa and Windsor. In the war years they performed before armed service audiences and at other benefits.

But apart from these the girls have brought Peterborough most of its free publicity through competitions.

Since there are few clubs in Canada of the calibre of Peterborough's, the Ornamental swimmers look to the United States for their competition. Canadian competition is mainly solos and duets and the Peterborough Club emphasizes team work even though they do enter solo and duet competitions.

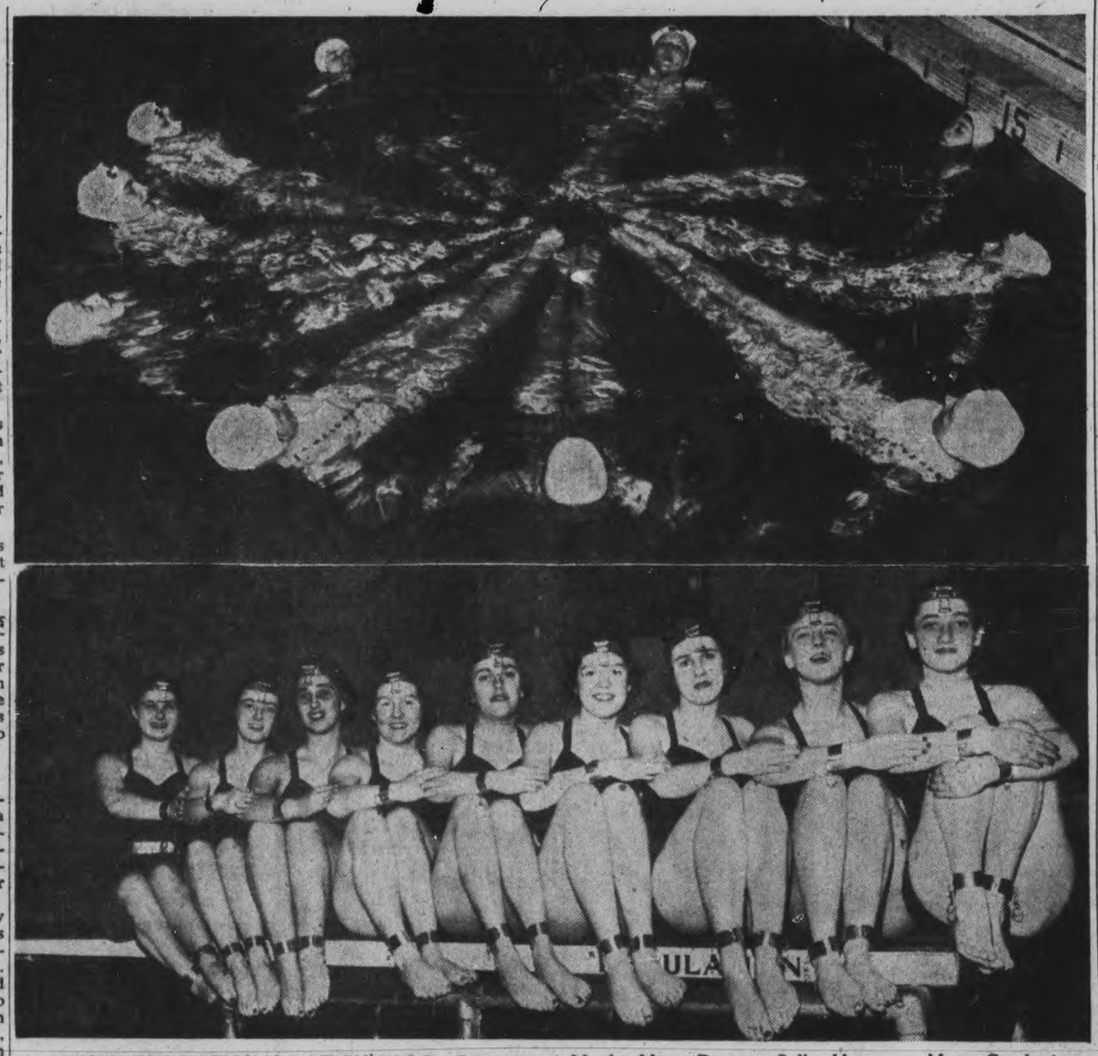
TOP-RANKED CLUB

Considered a top-ranking synchronized swim club in North America by United States swimming officials, the club never fails to receive more than its share of publicity in American meets. Their publicity is also Peterborough's.

Imagine the publicity that they earned in trips to Chicago, Des Moines, Detroit, South Bend, Cleveland and Ormond Beach, Florida. Those trips were just the United States nationals. They have also attended dozens of other meets such as the Niagara Falls, New York, international meet which they won a month ago.

Beside attracting newspaper reporters and photographers the Ornamental swimmers have also brought the city additional publicity through movies.

Take for instance after their performance in Chicago in 1950. Max Kruger, Hollywood movie producer, asked permission to film the club's acts. This resulted in the National Film Board putting the club on film. It was distributed throughout Canada and the United States.



FIRST ON TV

They were the first Peterborough sports club to appear over a television network. A film showing them in action was shown to TV viewers in New York state. A few in Ontario saw them there.

Then this week after winning the national championship in Florida they worked under the movie lights and cameras once more. They were filmed by RKO at Crystal Beach, the movie probably appearing in newsreels, shorts and over TV.

The important factor in this publicity is the fact that not only did the girls earn it but they paid for it. For on most of their trips through the years the girls have paid their own way, either out of pocket or raising funds through special showings.

On several occasions the club has received help for transportation from service clubs such as the Lions' Club, but the majority of the expense has been paid by the competitors.

Ornamental Swimming Type Ballet Performed In Water

Just what is ornamental or synchronized swimming? That's what a number of Peterborough people have asked this week as the Ornamental Swimming club returns with the United States' team championship.

Actually it's a type of ballet, but instead of on a large stage, it is performed by swimmers in a large pool.

In fact to produce an ornamental act or show is much the same as planning a ballet performance. There's just as much planning, choreography, lighting, attention to costume and musical arrangements in ornamental swimming as there is in any dance routine.

As in ballet, all the girls' movements in the water are aesthetic interpretations of the story against a suitable musical background. Figures are combined to constitute a routine which represents a certain phase of a story.

COSTUMES DESIGNED

Costumes, generally made by the girls', mothers or other club helpers, are especially designed for these programs and are usually quick-change slip-ons, sometimes of colored plastic material worn over the bathing suits. In recent years the trend has been to cut down on all unnecessary bits of costume, letting the bathing suit, neck, head and legs dress carry the parts.

It was the Peterborough club which first experimented with a special hairdress, designed to be worn instead of a bathing cap.

Some scenery is used by the clubs for their productions but it is usually kept quite simple and made to convey an idea rather than fill in the details.

Colored lights from a small battery increase the effectiveness of the scene, helping to aid the imagination.

FOLLOWS COMMENTATOR

The layman can usually follow a ballet because he is used to the ideas expressed through the arabesques and pivots which have been developed through the centuries. But he is yet unaccustomed to the mvoements such as the spiral conveying the same meaning in water. Therefore a commentator usually explains the story as it goes along.

Figure swimming was called generally ornamental up to 1947 but then Mrs. Lillian E. McKellar, coach at the University of Western Ontario, introduced synchronized swimming to Peterborough.

Ornamental is a smooth, graceful, slow performance of school figures done to perfection. Much time is taken and is more of an individual accomplishment. It requires an infinite amount of patience and physical endurance and represents a great deal of work in overcoming the technical difficulties involved.

Synchronized swimming is group work, in duet, trio or in large groups. Every motion is done to music and everybody must move at the same time in perfect precision. It usually consists of a routine of figures, one blending into the next, and appeals more to the interpretative talents of the performers.

Swimmers' Win In Florida Recalls '48 Victory

When Pansy Forbes' Little Jumping Jacks swept the United States Amateur Athletic Union team championship in synchronized swimming this week, it brought back old memories for two Peterborough women.

They were thinking of a day away back in April, 1948, when Iris Forbes-Reilly and Jean Millard swam to the United States AAU junior women's indoor synchronized swimming championship for duets. They stole the show from 42 other duets, all the top from the United States.

They didn't realize it that day but the girls did find out hours later that they were the first to take the AAU synchronized swimming championship out of the United States. They made history.

The only Canadians in the meet the girls had left Peterborough on a Friday night quietly but determined to do their best. The girls were hoping for a top place but didn't anticipate the championship.

They left no doubt in the minds of the judges and the spectators as they chalked up 97 points out of a possible 100. The only ones stunned by their victory were the girls themselves.

When they phoned Ornamental Swimming Club officials in Peterborough, the girls sounded overcome by their good fortune and were hardly able to speak, they were so excited.

They were received royally when they returned with their trophies and medals.

Ornamental Swimmers Formed First Club In '26, Won Championship 27 Years Later

Ornamental or synchronized swimming may be new to most of Peterborough's citizens. In fact, some may have heard of it for the first time this week when the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming club girls won the United States team championship.

But this type of swimming, which is a mixture of ballet, swimming and figure skating, actually dates back to 1918. Then the sport or art found its first roots in the stunts of the Royal Life Saving Society which came to Canada.

This figure swimming was quickly taken up as a new activity and experimented with by Frances Gale of Montreal. In 1926 she put up the now famous Gale trophy for competition in synchronized swimming.

Toronto girls were next in line to take up this new pastime. The famous Dolphinettes, under the training of Alex Duff, became nationally known for their water performances.

It was also in 1926 that the movement came to Peterborough. Miss Caroline Littlefield, swimming instructor for the YWCA, taught the stunts advocated by the Royal Life Saving Society, but in the following years these stunts were perfected into ornamental swimming.

Enthusiasm had so increased for this new water sport by 1935 that the six YWCA girls formed a club with the purpose of advancing the sport in the city under the coaching of Ross Thompson. These girls became known as the Signets, a progenitor of the Ornamental Swimming Club.

This club lasted only two years and dealt only in school figures. But it did last long enough to create the interest which resulted in the formation in 1937 of the well-known Silver Finettes, under Miss Littlefield.

The school stunts or figures were perfected and co-ordinated into patterns and displays. Every spring and fall exhibitions were held to begin and end the YWCA swimming season.

These shows became increasingly popular and gradually the public began to stand up and take notice of this new sport.

But like most other sports such as baseball, hockey and lacrosse, ornamental swimming suffered when the Second World War broke out in 1939. Increased physical activities for Miss Littlefield forced her to give up the swimming to deal with gym demands. So for several years figure swimming faded into the background, but only temporarily forgotten.

At the YWCA camp on Clear lake in 1944 several girls along with the present coach, Mrs. Pansy Forbes, then camp swimming instructor, again aroused interest in this ballet-like swimming.

Encouraged by Miss Littlefield, Mrs. Forbes reorganized the club and staged a comeback in the fall with a show at the Lions Club pool in the Otonabee river. This exhibition was followed by others throughout the district, then to the larger centres such as Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto, after armed services performances.

Under Mrs. Forbes the new organization was ready by 1945 to send representatives to qualify for the coveted Gale trophy. This competition is open to all Canadians and is for individual, now called solo, rather than duet or team work.

It was in that same year that costumes, rather than bathing suits, were used in exhibitions.

That year saw the Ornamental club win the national award for the swimming club making the most progress. They still lead the field in Canada and with the United States championship now won they're also making progress compared with American clubs.

By 1946 the advancement of ornamental swimming in Peterborough was quite apparent with the club roster increasing and shows becoming more popular..

The club continued to make progress with each show. The school figures in ballet and figure skating, a basis for the sport, the figures of the Royal Life Saving Society, plus other new routines by club coaches, were blended together into possibilities for water ballet and stories. Peterborough girls were among the first to experiment with this work.

Aladdin and His Lamp was one of the first such performances attempted by the girls. It was so successful that they were asked to perform it in Toronto, Ottawa and Trenton.

Later in the fall of 1946 the club followed up that start with a second, Snow White, and then Peter Pan in the next spring.

Since then the club, mostly composed of high school, business and young married women, has been busy arranging at least two or three shows a year, and sometimes as many as six.

Besides introducing ornamental swimming to the people of Peterborough, the shows are a form of raising funds with which the girls are able to attend national and international meets.

These exhibitions and competitions are not the only activities of the club. The girls, many of them holders of high Royal Life Saving awards, give their services to city and district in teaching swimming, diving, and life-saving to youngsters.

BIG MUSKIES STILL CAUGHT

Two Americans at Buckhorn Lake recorded good muskie catches Wednesday and Thursday. Gerald Hoffman of Harmarville, Pa., caught a 13-pound, 37-incher, August 19, while William Black of Newark, Ohio, hooked a 14-pounder the next day.

AWARDED CONSOLATION PRIZE

Jimmy Haher, nine, of 161 Rutgers St., Rochester, was awarded a consolation prize today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for catching a 21-inch six-pound large mouth bass. Jimmy caught the fish Thursday off the dock of the Viamede Hotel, Stony Lake.

CUT IN FALL

Three stitches were required to close a cut over the eye of Arthur McFadden, four, of 92 Sophia St., following an accident Thursday night at Riverside Park. The lad was running over the park's baseball diamond bleachers when he slipped and fell, striking his head against a rock. PC J. Armstrong took him for medical attention by Dr. Bob Young.

CHEMONG SAILING REGATTA

Twenty-five sailing craft — canoes, dinghies and open classes are expected to participate in the annual Chemong Lake Sailing Regatta on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. A tow of 16 boats will leave Stony Lake for Chemong early Saturday morning and leave for their home ports again by Sunday noon.

CYCLIST SLIGHTLY INJURED

James Cameron, 35, of 494 McKellar St., was slightly injured Thursday night when his bicycle was sandwiched by two cars on Albert St., shortly after five o'clock. He sustained a cut on his right leg and scratches on his right wrist. Cameron was riding between parked cars and a line of traffic when the accident occurred.

VISITOR TO CITY

A visitor to Peterborough Wednesday was Col. John Roscoe Holt, whose cousin, Algie Holt, is town clerk of Peterborough, New Hampshire. A retired United States Army officer, Col. Holt, who makes his headquarters in Maryland, is a world traveller and is at present touring Canada. He stated he was very impressed with the Canadian Peterborough, particularly its playgrounds and parks.

READY TO POUR CONCRETE

Wooden forms for the first floor of the new Woolworth building at George and Charlotte Sts., are nearly completed and construction men will start to pour the concrete Tuesday. The floor of the basement won't be poured until the building is completed due to an involved process of waterproofing. Superintendent of the job expects the building will be completed some time in February of 1954.

25-LB. MUSKIE

Fishing on Lovesick Lake, Gordon Hann, Chesterland, O., snagged a 25-pound muskie this week and landed it after a stiff battle. Staying at Forest Hill lodge, Mr. Hann received an order of the Kawartha Muskie from the Chamber of Commerce for his 46-inch beauty.

HFC THEFT STILL UNSOLVED

No new developments on the $2,038 robbery from Household Finance Corporation over the weekend have been reported by police or company officials. Police say, however, that they're still working on it. Sgt. of Detectives John Stevenson and Detective Douglas Farthing are heading investigations.

TV PREVIEW

A reader phoned in about 1:30 p.m. today to report that he had seen a newsreel featuring the Ornamental Swimming club in action. "They looked wonderful," he said. Another newsreel, or perhaps the same one, is scheduled to be shown on television networks at 10 o'clock tonight.

Family Must Be Evicted From Building Before Peterorough Exhibition Can Open

The Peterborough Exhibition is scheduled to open September 15. But before exhibitors can start bringing in their displays a family is going to have to be evicted.

Steps have already been taken to remove the present occupants of one of the buildings at Exhibition Park but the board of directors are afraid that if they press the matter too firmly the whole family will raise a stink about it.

The family, a father and mother skunk and an undetermined number of little ones, set up housekeeping some time ago under one of the barns in the park.

They have been seen basking in the moonlight by several drivers going through the park at night. Of late, a lot of drivers proceeding to the south end of the city have demonstrated a preference for a longer route around the park than the one via George St.

Efforts to get the striped inhabitants out of their present location have so far been anything but successful. Lots of people have been willing to tackle the job—by way of suggestions. But when it comes to the business of actually giving the skunks the old heave-ho, no one has been willing to get right down to it.

Any volunteers?

Postal Officials Refuse Confirm Suspension Story

Ottawa officials of the Postmaster General's Department refuse to confirm rumors that their investigators have suspended for brief periods some of the staff at the Peterborough post office. The rumors, which have been flying for weeks, are still just that. The inspector of post offices said, in effect, that it was not in the public interest to reveal the nature of any investigations.

NOT INTERESTED

"The people are not interested in it," he said.

Asked if they would not be interested since their taxes and purchases of stamps, etc., paid for the department, he replied that they would hear talk of an investigation and "they will be satisfied" that their interests are being looked after.

A well-informed source in the city close to the government said that the investigation had been going on for at least a year.

He added that he understood a small number had been permanently released from the staff and that the complete staff had been given suspensions without pay for "several days."

The government official spoken to by telephone today tacitly admitted there was an investigation, but said his department would not confirm any rumors that might be current in Peterborough.

Paul Martin Speaks To Bancroft Students

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP)—A group of 30 students from the Bancroft, Ont., high school were addressed briefly today by Health Minister Martin, Canada's chief UN delegate, during a visit to UN headquarters.

Martin told them what the UN stood for and something of Canada's role in it.

Later the students, led by their principal, Gordon Wragg, attended a meeting of UN's political committee.

Junior Farmers Place Second In Square Dance

Peterborough Junior Farmers' square-dance team took second place and $50 in final competition at the Belleville Exhibition Thursday evening.

Only four points separated the Peterborough entry and a group from Thurlow who copped the $100 first prize.

The Peterborough entry eliminated another Thurlow group in Monday night's preliminaries before entering the final round Thursday night.

The number chosen by the Peterborough dancers was "My Pretty Girl," one they picked up at the Royal Winter Fair last winter. They didn't bring home a prize from that contest, which included entries from all over the province. But they're going down to Toronto again this year with hopes of a better showing.

FORT HOPE NEXT

Right now, however, they're planning to enter another competition at Port Hope on September 5.

Members of the Peterborough county team are Burrett Mann, Bridgenorth; Vera Quinn, Peterborough; Doris Jopling, RR 3, Lakefield; Jack Matchett, RR 11, Peterborough; Orland Brown, RR2, Norwood; Eleanor Northey, RR 3, Lakefield; Mary Matchett, RR 11, Peterborough, and Neil Cameron, RR 3, Indian River.

Blanche Quinn of Peterborough called off for the group.

Complain Children With Sores Use Pools

Dr. J. P. Wells, MOH, announced today that there have been a number of complaints made to the Department of Health from parents complaining that children with visible sore on their bodies have been using the city swimming pools.

Poison ivy, as well as impetigo, are the two conditions most often mentioned, said Dr. Wells.

"In view of the fact that children suffering from contagious skin diseases can very readily spread their diseases to others by contact, parents are requested to keep such children away from public swimming and wading pools, and to ensure that they receive proper medical attention."

Dr. Wells also stated that those in charge of operating the pools are being requested to exclude children who appear to be suffering from any skin conditions.

A TWO-WEEK FURLOUGH ENDED suddenly for two Camp Petawawa Craftsmen, Herbert Seguin (left) and Carl Brown, both of the RCEME, when their car was hit in the rear and went up in flames early today, five miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7. They pulled up behind a stopped car and a third car, following, crashed into them. The two soldiers barely escaped being burned but lost all their possessions. They were on their wdy to Toronto and Nova Scotia when the accident occurred. Two occupants of the car that hit them were hospitalized; one of them has been released. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Ornamental Swimmers Arrive In City To Appear At Lacrosse Bowl

Fresh from their victory in the United States' synchronized swimming team championships, Mrs. Pansy Forbes' Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club's 12-girl team slipped into Peterborough on Thursday night practically unnoticed. Conflicting arrival times kept the reception crowd down to 300 relatives and friends who mobbed the girls as they stepped off the 9:30 p.m. Toronto bus at the Colonial Bus depot.

At press time Thursday the arrival of the championship team was set at 12:20 a.m. today, but later in the day word came through that the team would arrive on the 9:30 p.m. bus.

About 9 p.m. relatives, friends and club members who didn't make the trip began to gather about the depot. Gradually about 300 people had arrived by 9:30 and when the bus appeared around King St., everyone called "Here it comes."

The girls were hugged, kissed and congratulated on their victory as they stepped off the bus and then they went through a round of camera flashes for newspapers and friends.

LAKEFIELD WELCOME

Lakefield came prepared to welcome Nancy Doubt, the only Lakefield swimmer on the team. They had large white banners with "Well Done, Nancy" printed on them, flowers for the swimmer and a convertible to take her home in.

Their reception was simple and brief, but a very happy one.

Tonight the championship team will be paraded before the crowd at Miller Bowl when the Trailermen and St. Catharines Ahletics meet in the first game of the Eastern Canada finals. An expected 4,000 people will see the girls presented with initialled travelling cosmetic kits from the president of Chamber of Commerce, and Don Lewis from the Chamber of Commerce retail section.

Ald. S. J. Black, chairman of the city council's reception committee, said today that the committee will meet today to decide what the council will do about receiving the team. He said there'll possibly be a dinner next week and perhaps a parade.

Mrs. Forbes said today that their win in Ormond Beach, Florida, was "a very popular win with the people there." She added that the crowd of at least 3,000 "went for it in a big way" and that "everything the Peterborough team did went over in a big way."

COMPLAINED

Oakland, California, whose team, Trojan Warriors, placed second, took the Peterborough win badly, said Mrs. Forbes. They complained after the meet about one of the Peterborough club's stunts in "Little Jumping Jacks."

The judges were unanimous in their decision and pointed out to the Oakland girls that Peterborough should have had a much higher mark for that particular part.

Mrs. Forbes praised the Oakland entry for their difficult act, and said they performed "very well."

"It was very, very close," explained Mrs. Forbes. "They were a hard team to beat."

An anti-climax to their championship win was a two-day appearance before the movie cameras of 20th Century-Fox and RKO. This work was done Monday and Tuesday at Silver Springs Florida.

Jack Painter, cameraman for 20th Century-Fox, made a 10-minute movie short of the Peterborough team, Beulah Gundling, solo champion from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Lynn Parson and Mrs. Joan Bean, duet champions from Oakland, California. Besides their Little Jumping Jacks act, Painter took movies of other Peterborough numbers because "the girls did so well."

Featuring both on top of the water and under water shots, the short will probably be released with the company's best movie of the year, The Robe, sometime this fall.

APPEAR ON TV

At the same time Al Waldron of RKO studios took similar movies for TV (expected to appear over TV networks at 10 p.m. tonight) and for newsreels.

At the same time several of the Peterborough girls may see pictures in Life Magazine. Photographers for Life took about 1,800 photographs, but only nine will be used. Peterborough girls appeared in several of their feature photographs.

The Peterborough team was well received in Detroit, Chattanooga, and Jacksonville where they performed exhibitions on their way south. They were banqueted in Chattanooga after presenting their Coronation number and were taken on a tour throughout the district.

AT NAVY BASE

In Jacksonville where they first performed at the Air Naval Training Command post, they were escorted to the base, given room in the barracks, and then performed in the evening. A feature of their visit there was a tour through one of the large gunboats in the "mothball" fleet.

They performed their Coronation number again in an exhibition at the Springfield pool in Jacksonville before an estimated 8,000 people. The American audience honored the Canadian girls' appearance by raising the Union Jack and singing O Canada.

Garbage Clutters Laneways In Business Area

Laneways in the city's business section, cluttered with garbage, have drawn some mild criticism from sanitation superintendent John E. Pierce.

Mr. Pierce, whose staff collects the garbage, attributes the litter partly to the widespread installation of parking meters. Businessmen have been using the laneways to park in, thus making it difficult for garbagemen to collect the garbage.

Another reason, says Mr. Pierce, is that some business men are throwing their garbage, unwrapped, into the alleys. Some have bailing machines, which securely tie the garbage in bundles and make it easier to handle.

To clear up the situation, Mr. Pierce recommended that all garbage in the business section be wrapped in bundles of about 15 pounds weight. This, he says, would make collection cheaper and faster.

There are three collections weekly in the downtown area.

PLAYGROUND DAYS ENDING

Three tournaments, open to children from all city playgrounds, will take place next week. These will mark the end of supervised playground activity for this year. On Tuesday a baseball tournament will be held at Riverside Park A field day on Wednesday and a basketball tournament on Thursday, both at King Edward Park. Official closing will be Friday.

2 Soldiers Escape As Fire Starts In Car After Crash

Two Petawawa soldiers narrowly escaped being trapped in their burning car at 1 a.m. today when it burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a second car on Highway 7, five miles east of Peterborough. Seconds later their gasoline tank exploded, shattering the rear end of the vehicle and gutting the inside. A Peterborough couple, occupants of the second car, were injured and taken to hospital as a result of the collision.

Thomas Earl Borland, 49, of 365 Leslie St., received chest injuries and bruises; and his 51-year-old wife, Edith, who was thrown forward against the windshield, is in Civic Hospital with head laceration and bruises. Her condition today is satisfactory.

The two soldiers, both RCEME craftsmen, stationed at Petawawa, were on the first day of a two-week leave. They had intended driving through to Toronto, turning in their 1941-model car for a newer model, and then motoring out to Nova Scotia.

"We can forget about that now," said 27-year-old Carl Brown, who had planned on taking his buddy along to his home in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. He now has no car, no kit—not even a full uniform. His possessions were destroyed when his car went up in flames.

In much the same fix is his fellow RCEME mechanic, 31-year-old Herbert Seguin, whose home town is Orillia.

BETTER TELL WIFE

"Guess you'd better phone your wife that the trip is off," Seguin remarked today as the two soldiers discussed their immediate plans.

All they have is the clothes they were wearing at the time of the accident. They didn't have time to salvage anything from the car.

"We were lucky to get out at all," said Brown, whose main gripe was that he had left a $10 bill in his tunic pocket.

Between them Brown and Seguin can almost muster a complete uniform. Brown has the pants and Seguin happened to be chilly at the time and was wearing his tunic over his grey flannel pants when the accident occurred.

The two RCEME soldiers were driving west along the highway at 1 a.m. when they noticed a car with Manitoba licence plates parked in the middle of the highway. They slowed down their car and then noticed another westbound car approaching from the rear.

"I guess he didn't see us in time," said Brown, the driver. "We could see his headlights and then he must have swerved to miss us. Our car was struck behind and we were driven forward about 40 feet.

FLAMES EVERYWHERE

"All of a sudden fire started coming from everywhere—from the engine, the rear and through the floorboards. We had to get through the flames to get out of it. And we just got across the road when the gas tank blew up."

The two men helped Mrs. Borland out of the front passenger's seat where she was sitting semi-stunned after her head was thrown against the front windshield, cracking the glass and bending the glass outward.

Mr. and Mrs. Borland were taken by ambulance to Civic Hospital. Mr. Borland was released overnight after a preliminary examination on the understanding he would return today for an X-ray examination on his chest. Mrs. Borland was treated for shock and head cuts.

Ask Conciliation For Office Employees At GE

A conciliation board is being set up by the Ontario Labor Relations Board to settle the contract difference between the Canadian General Electric Co. and two locals of office and salaried workers — one in Peterborough and the other in Toronto.

The 500 office and salaried workers in Peterborough, members of Local 599, IUE (CIO-CCL), want a $5-a-week general wage increase and a reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 37½ hours with no loss of take-home pay. They are in joint negotiations with another 200 workers, members of Local 567, IUE (CIO-CCL), at the Davenport Works.

Most of the Toronto workers are already on a 37½-hour week.

OFFER PROPOSALS

Some of the other union proposals are three weeks' vacation after 10 years, an "equity fund" that would help to even up the salaries of lower paid workers, and a general tightening of the contract.

The unions want the contract, when the terms are finally agreed on, to date back to April 2.

Pat Tirrell, of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is the union nominee on the three-man conciliation board. The company nominee has not yet been identified; neither has the chairman.

ACWW Won't Back Equal Pay For Women

TORONTO (CP)—The triennial convention of the Associated Country Women of the World Thursday rejected a motion that it back the principle of equal pay for men and women.

The motion, put forward by a United Kingdom delegation, said the ACWW should work for "economic equality for women to complete their citizensip."

It was defeated on the grounds that the ACWW is not prepared to explore the infinite implications of the suggestion at present.

Mrs. Cornelia Wood of Stony Plain, Alta., Social Credit member for Stony Plain in the Alberta legislature, said women would lose status and privileges in her province if men and women were given equal pay for comparable work.

Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, Ont., was elected a vice-president of the organization.

Paris Coats Warm But New Hats Are Tiny Wisps

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP) — The latest winter coat styles here and in Paris ensure warmth on the coldest days, but the opposite is true of the hats designed to go with them

Heavy fur-lined coats with cavalier collars stretching from ear tips to shoulder call for tiny hats perched on the hairline with Edwardian piquancy.

The hat may be of fur to match a fur tippet covering the shoulders of a warm fall suit—but it just isn't smart if it's big enough to be called a head covering.

Wisps of felt, fur, satin, velvet and feathers are called tricornes, turbans, cloches, pillboxes and bonnets, but any resemblance to the styles as we know them is coincidental. For the smart and sophisticated, this year's winter hat is a half-hat or a quarter-hat.

Styles are not tremendously new or different. Any hat in your wardrobe would, no doubt, be a smash hit—if compressed to just half its present size.

In Paris, for instance, the plain French beret is still a favorite, but half the size of the last two seasons. This number tilts down one cheek with an elusive, gamin chic only French women seem to achieve.

A smart hat, suited to many and likely to sell at low cost, is the shallow Edwardian pillbox tipped over the forehead from an upswept chignon of hair. Designers like France's Pierre Balmain use it to balance a high stand collar, crowning it with a huge question mark in osprey feathers.

Last season's "widow's peak" is still with us. Small hats, coming to a point on the forehead, sometimes curl down the cheek like a man's side whiskers. Other tiny shapes, seemingly held on by suction, sport a forehead ornament dangling almost to the nose.

One of the heaviest hats in the London shows was designed for Michael, formerly of Lachasse, whose first collection in his own premises was designed on the influence of a Chinese T'ang dynasty lady. It's a high, brimless helmet shape with a tall, pushed-in jam-jar crown that gives a somewhat battered look.

While winter clothes are dark, with a predominance of black, hats are jewel-bright. There are acid pinks, burnt caramel, bronze-green, jewel blue and Chinese yellow.

TO DECORATE POTS

Dress up flowerpots by covering them with the same aluminum foil you use in the kitchen to wrap food.

CHECK THE SEALING

Check your refrigerator door to see if it is tightly sealed by means of rubber gaskets to keep cold air in and warm air out.

Mrs. M. A. Babcock, of 515 Maitland Ave., is a patient in the Civic Hospital for a few days.

"WHERE SHALL WE GO TODAY" enquires Margaret Purdon, 490 Gordon Ave., of her French Canadian guest Renee Fleury. The girls are taking frequent bicycle trips around Peterborough as Renee endeavors to enlarge and improve her English vocabulary. A month ago she was entertaining Margaret similarly at her home in Chicoutimi, Que. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

French-English Students Enjoying Exchange Visits

Margaret Purdon is the only Peterborough High School girl who has enjoyed exchange visits with a French-Canadian girl this holiday season.

Miss Purdon returned two weeks ago from Chicoutimi, Que., where she had been guest of the Fleury family for a month and was accompanied by 16-year-old Renee Fleury who is now learning the enjoyable way of life in an Ontario city home, as guest of De Laval manager Andrew Purdon and Mrs. Purdon, 490 Gordon Ave.

Main object of the girls is to improve their French and English speech, respectively, but they find a great deal of pleasure along with doing it this way. Margaret, who is 15 and going into grade 12 this fall, has studied French for three school terms, but she found her vocabulary being enlarged, especially with household words, from the first day of her visit with Renee.

PCVS teacher Miss Margaret White provided the application forms which Margaret sent to Visites Interprovinciale where the exchange was arranged.

Renee attends a private school in nearby Arvida, Que., and is going into grade 11 this fall. Her curriculum allows one hour per day of English study and thereby it seems to Margaret she has an advantage in this language business. However, both girls have difficulty at times, because "People speak too fast.

While Margaret was at Chicoutimi she was taken to see the Shipshaw hydro development, the most interesting scenic places along the Saguenay and on a shopping and sight-seeing trip to Quebec City. Renee's father is in the insurance business and she expects to work for him when she finishes school. It is because of his preference that she has never cut her hair and wears it in long thick braids.

The girls have taken bicycle tours all around Peterborough and Renee is impressed by the beautiful flowers and trees and the number and size of the industries. And though she lives by the Saguenay river, widely famed for its beauty, she has been fascinated by the beauty of the Kawartha Lakes and has loved the outdoor life they provide. Tides and strong currents prevent much swimming or boating on the river so it was not until spending a week at Paudash Lake with the Purdons that she learned to swim as much as 20 strokes at a time.

Margaret's plans to entertain her guest include a visit to her grandmother's at Brantford and a trip to Niagara Falls and possibly across the border. Then the girls will spend a day or so at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto for Renee has never been to a large "exposition."

Her parents intend to come to Peterborough for Renee early in September and will be accompanied by some of their family. They have four other daughters and one son.

The Purdon's younger daughter Robie is an interested participant in the language as far as her one-year French will allow, and she contemplates a similar visit when it is sufficiently advanced.

Canadians Concerned More With Fabrics Than Fashion

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian women aren't too much concerned about the "ups and downs" of fashion this fall. A Canadian Press survey of the fall shows indicates they are preoccupied with fabrics.

"Three-dimensional" type fabrics are popular for coats. Combinations of jersey with other materials and tweeds are much in evidence for laytime wear. Heavy autumn cottons are making a hit in a number of western cities.

As for color, black will be the top choice in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Montreal and Edmonton. The rest of the west, and Toronto, incline towards an ever-increasing range of browns—changing from the deep brown and bronze shades to the cinnamons and champagnes.

STOLES ARE POPULAR

Interest in the stole seems country-wide, and the suit with a stole will appear in a number of large centres.

Fur stoles tend to the triangular, putting them closer to the cape classification — a lot easier to handle.

The blonde fur coat retains its popularity and the short-haired pelts, such as beaver and sheared raccoon, will be much in evidence. The nylon "furs" are being eyed, too.

Incidentally some fashion authorities report Paris frequently looking fondly over her shoulder to the days of the fox furs. Some Parisinns never relinquished them.

The modified pyramid fabric coat held sway last year, and this year it's modified even more. One color, in a graduation of shades, will be popular in the fabric coat.

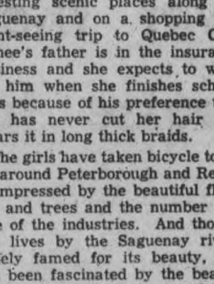
Suits are marked "tweed" in the east, but in the west reports indicate worsted has the advantage. In Edmonton novelty worsted flannel suits with splash shades are in the lead. Vancouver is betting on worsted flannel suits too, with Oxford grey making a good showing.

Quebec is the only city to list tweed cloaks in the fall showings.

CURRENT STYLES

Waltz-length evening dresses will be worn this autumn, according to many department stores. Quebec City however apparently prefers the floor-length.

Quebec also reports a cocktail dress of taffeta with low neck and back, and full skirt, whereas Toronto notes a trend away from taffeta to less crisp fabrics such as tie silks.



College toggery will likely feature many of the leather and suede jackets; vests and trims. The heavy-knit bulky sweater may be making a comeback in Toronto but this may not be too evident this fall.

Snug little hats are pretty well the national choice for fall. The urban influence with a deft touch of drapery evidently holds wide appeal for the women of Winnipeg.

A wide choice is presented in shoes. A mere network of straps for evening wear, and Louis heels, are still evident. Suedes hold their popularity, and Montrealers are tripping around in a lot of patent leather while turning a favorable eye on a new beige satin shoe.

Buried in all the advices from across Canada is a faint whisper of skirts being just a little shorter.

DOROTHY DIX:

Free-Spending Husband No Money For Ailing Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been married for four years, and have two lovely children. I love my husband, but he doesn't seem to be able to cope with responsibilities. Recently, I spent seven weeks in a hospital. He assured me that everything had been taken care of while I was away, bills paid, etc. When I came home I found he had lied. Nothing had been done, he had no money, and the bills had piled up. The next day he expected me to get up and get breakfast. Then he departed on a two-day bicycle trip. This is just a sample of the casual way in which he treats his obligations. This is the third time this year I've been in the hospital, and each time I come home to the same mess. My husband is 21. He says he loves me, but does nothing to show it. MRS. A. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

YOUNG HUSBAND NEEDS COUNSELLING

ANSWER: When you married a boy of 17, did you expect him to handle his responsibilities like a man? He simply wasn't ready for marriage and utterly incapable, mentally or emotionally, of standing up to its responsibilities.

This lack has further been complicated by your own serious illness, which kicked from under him the prop that held your marriage together—you, his moral support, and resulted in his completely aimless actions while you were gone. Your problem certainly isn't a hopeless one, but its solution will take patience and understanding. Personal counseling will be the best step for you to take now, and I urge you to make an appointment with a family counselor in your city.

✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am [illegible] with a very fine boy for over a year, and my parents' only objection to him is the fact that his mother speaks no English. They like everything about the boy, who was born in this country, but hold that one grudge against him. Due to pressure from my family, I broke off with him, without giving a reason.

MARIAN S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No matter how embarrassing it is to give a reason for breaking a friendship, it's a lot better than summarily tossing a boy aside without an explantion. The narrow-mindedness of your parents is a bit difficult to understand. Living in a democracy as they do, they should realize that our way of life entails some obligations—as well as entitling us to many priceless privileges. It is incumbent on us as citizens of a free country, as well as followers of God, to be kind to the stranger within our gates. Your parents, in their snobbery, are failing in their patriotic, religious, and family duties. Someone should awaken them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 14 and writing to a boy in the Air Force. My mother says I'm wrong to begin a letter with "dearest" or "darling." Is she right?

PATSY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Most emphatically, yes. The value of writing to boys in service, both from your angle and theirs, is to keep your letters friendly, relatively impersonal, and completely unromantic. These boys want cheering up, not a sentimental involvement. Your salutation should be plain, "Dear Don," "Hi, there," or something else equally noncommital.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past two years my mother has had complete responsibility, physical and financial, of her aged parents, though she has five brothers and sisters, all able to help. Now, Mom must go to the hospital for an operation. I know when she gets out, she'll be right back in the same routine. I can't do a great deal for her since she lives on the East Coast, and we're on the West Coast. ANN T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If it can possibly be arranged, could you have your mother come to you for a while, letting the others in the family know that they must take on the responsibility of their parents for a time? Unless you do step in and do something to help your mother, there's no question but what the burden will continue entirely with her, whether she's sick or well.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: As I am a diabetic and have to have special foods and read your column every night especially the diabetic list on how to do up canned fruit will you please send me your receipts. Mrs. L. R.

ANSWER I have mailed to you all of the receipts for sugarless raspberry jam, which is too late for you to make this year. Watch this column for sugarless peach and sugarless plum jam when they are in season, a little later.

EMEM'S SUGARLESS RASPBERRY JAM

One quart perfectly ripe best quality raspberries, 2 tablespoons each pectin crystals and glycerin, 16 sucaryl tablets. Gently wash the berries under cold water tap and drain them in sieve for at least half hour to drain off all excess water. Add the glycerin and pectin crystals and stir over low heat until liquid forms then boil gently for 10 minutes. Add the sucaryl tablets and stir until they are dissolved. Boil gently for 5 minutes. Have ready small jam jars which have been stirilized in boiling water for 20 minutes. Pour the jam into these drained glasses and seal at once with very hot new paraffin, adding a second coat when cold. My advice is to keep your sugarless jams refrigerated. If you cannot do this seal your sugarless jams in sealers, just as you would canned fruit. This makes jars that are too large for most diabetic patients but it is the foolproof method.

QUESTION: For years I have been overweight and though I've tried again and again to reduce or to eat as far as possible foods that were least fattening I fail to lose much weight. Even when I lay for 9 weeks in hospital...and gave strict orders to my friends not to bring me any treats I didn't lose weight. I do not have the appearance of being as "fat" as many women who weigh less but I work hard and am solid...generally weigh 194 lbs. but the scales showed a gain of 2 lbs. in spite of the fact that I have been eating mostly fresh vegetables... I take no cream in anything I eat and meat and gravy only about once a week... a neighbor is taking biscuits that are supposed to satisfy appetite without increasing weight . . . they look like graham wafers but cost $1.50 per package of 27 biscuits. Could you give me a recipe for making something similar... please tell me the name of the store where I could get black or navy hat dye Sadie L. V.

ANSWER: There is one encouraging angle for folk of your type that are overweight: your health and metabolism are so good your body utilizes all of the nourishment you give it efficiently. But you must eat at least 4 oz. of lean meat and 1 egg per day. The biscuits you prefer to aren't the answer to your problem. Food is the only thing that puts on or maintains weight and if you are in earnest you will have to cut down to 800 or 1000 calories per day. I am mailing you my calorie chart and a copy of a release giving you examples of meals you can have and still lose weight.

QUESTION: I wonder could you send me the way of doing strawberries that they stay whole and rich in color? I recall they stand one night and were heated in the syrup in the morning and kept under the syrup with a wooden spoon. I do raspberries a very simple way: Wash the berries, gently pack in freshly sterilized sealers. Pour on thin syrup (1 sugar to 2½ water) and seal tightly. Put in canner of boiling hot water, cover and let stand until cold. Usually overnight. The berries stay whole and are a lovely color. Store where the light won't bother them . . . a neighbour gave me this recipe for

Take from fire and add 3 cups rolled oats, 1 cup coarse cocoanut and mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on waxed paper immediately and let set. Makes 30 or 40 cookies . . . Mrs. Charles W.

ANSWER: Thank you for these quick cookies. I a sure there will be readers who will be glad to have it. Thank you for the quick method for raspberries too. I have mailed you the strawberry recipe you asked for.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Charred Food Real Problem On Outdoor Fire

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Picnics will be popular for many weeks yet, and probably the first picnic article which doesn't mention ants and spiders comes from the consumer section of the federal agriculture department.

It starts off with the problem of charred food from the outdoor fire. Aluminum foil can practically eliminate this trouble. Baked potatoes or corn wrapped in the foil bake evenly instead of turning to charcoal.

Cooking weiners on a stick is fun but usually somebody drops a weiner into the fire, or burns his fingers and roasts his face by having too short a stick. The solution is a popcorn popper, with a long handle. Put the weiners in and shake occasionally and there won't be any trouble, except perhaps an argument from the children as to who is going to hold the popper.

FAVORITE FOODS

For those who have a home freezer, sandwiches can be made up ahead of time. There are a few sandwich fillings which do not freeze too well, such as egg, tomato, cucumber and lettuce, but meat, cheese or fish fillings are all excellent.

It is wise to go carefully with the mayonnaise because it may make the sandwiches soggy.

Hamburgers or weiners may be cooked and put into buns and then wrapped and frozen. If the buns, complete with cooked hamburgers or weiners, are wrapped in aluminum foil they can be reheated right in the bonfire or in a barbecue fireplace.

Those who suspect aluminum foil will burst into flames may put their fears at rest—it doesn't.

If the picnic day is rather cool, hot foods don't present any problem.

Considerable family argument with all the various types of thermos jugs and plastic containers to carry stews or chili con carne, and indecision might be avoided by selecting the picnic spot in advance of the trip. If all are agreed, you avoid the usual assurances from the back seat that there are better spots ahead, or else that you've already passed them.

And be sure to take along matches, and a first aid kit.

Two Soldiers

OPP Constable Bruce Tilson investigated the accident.

The right front of the Borland car which struck the left rear end of Brown's car was caved in and damage is tentatively estimated at $800. Apart from the two front tires, Brown's car is a wreck. It was gutted by the fire.

Heat was so intense that the glass from the windshield and windows melted inward in a liquid mass. Kit bags, clothing, upholstery—even the two rear tires—were destroyed.

Instead of the leisurely trip to the East Coast, the two RCEME craftsmen will now have to settle for a couple of days at Seguin's home in Orillia. Then back to Petawawa.

Calves totalled 2,034 head. Prices were firm at $21-23 for good to choice vealers; common to medium $10-20; plain grassers $10-14; good stock calves $17-20.

Hogs were a light run of 2,486 head. Prices were established late Tuesday with the bulk of the run at $36.50 with some sales up to $37 for grade A. Sows advanced $1 to $23 dressed.

Sheep and lambs totalled 1,355 head. Prices were steady at $26 off car; $25 off truck for good ewes and wethers. Off truck lambs firmed to $26 at the close; bucks were discounted $1; cull lambs $15-18, good sheep $8-10; common downward to $4.

Charge River Being Polluted

TORONTO (CP)—A complaint by Michigan state that five Canadian oil companies are polluting the St. Clair river and affecting Detroit's source of drinking water was heard Thursday by the advisory boards of the international joint commission.

No details of the discussions were available. The sessions were held in camera and the boards' recommendations will be made only to the commission.

The complaint came through Loring F. Oeming, chief engineer of the Michigan water resources commission, earlier this month. He charged that the five oil firms were pumping foul-tasting phenol wastes into the river and endangering water supplies of Detroit and Windsor.

Port Huron residents have complained of acrid gas fumes believed to have come from industrial plants on the Canadian side of the river. Investigators said the fumes might have originated from wastes discharged in the boundary waters.

Lang Couple Feted On Leaving Village

Mr. Humphries, who is retiring, has been a life-long resident of the farm, and Mrs. Humphries went there as a bride. Entertainment took the form of a euchre and crokinole party.

During the evening an address was read by Mrs. Stewart Davidson and presentation of a coffee table made by Mr. Arthur Renwick and Mr. Stewart Davidson. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Arthur Renwick, Mrs. Stewart Davidson and Mrs. Harry Reid. Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will take up temporary residence with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elmhirst, Rice Lake, in the near future.

Marchioness Begins Action For Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—The Marchioness of Milford-Haven initiated a state Supreme Court action Thursday for "separation or divorce" from the Marquis of Milford-Haven.

The Marquis was best man at the wedding of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh and formerly was an escort of Princess Margaret.

The clerk of the court was directed to place her suit on the calendar for a September trial.

The marchioness, the former Mrs. Romanine Simpson, an American, and the Marquis were married Feb. 4, 1950, in Washington.
